Therefore, on 28 July in a far eastern Soviet city, Comrade Gorbachev noted accurately that the Asia-Pacific region is one of the centers of tension and sharp struggle in the world, that militarization and the growth of the military threat in this part of the world is beginning to gather dangerous speed, that the Pacific Ocean is turning into an arena of military and political confrontation, and that this is what is worrying the peoples who live here more and more.

Obviously, the struggle between the two forces -- imperialism led by the U.S. imperialists and socialism with the Soviet Union serving as the pillar -- is taking place in an intense and fierce manner. Naturally, the great influence and position of the Soviet Union and socialism in this region have filled enemies of all types with resentment and anger; and everyone knows who is right and who is wrong, and who has good will and who has not. We would like to quote the view of Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong in answer to a recent interview by a TASS correspondent in Hanoi. He said: Over the past 40 years, Asia and the Pacific has been a burning region.

The successive and great victories of Asian nations in the struggle for national independence and social progress and the rapid growth of the peace-loving and revolutionary forces with the Soviet Union and other socialist countries as the mainstay have changed the situation in Asia and the Pacific, accelerating the trend toward peaceful coexistence and regional cooperation.

Dear comrades and friends, the Soviet state and, afterward, the Mongolian Government, the Republic of India, and the three Indochinese countries have, acting in coordination with a number of other countries, put forward many important initiatives aimed at resolving the problem of peace and stability in the entire region. However, the U.S. imperialists and other reactionary and warlike forces have either rejected or ignored these good-willed peace proposals. The most recent proof of this is that in his important speech on 23 July 1986 in Vladivostok, Comrade Gorbachev declared: We -- namely the Soviet Union and, we can say, the whole socialist community -- advocate jointly establishing new, equitable relations in Asia and the Pacific. We advocate bringing Asia and the Pacific into a common process aimed at establishing an all-inclusive international security system.

In the same speech, Comrade Gorbachev also pointed out a series of issues that need to be solved realistically with a view to bringing peace, stability, and security to the entire region. To clearly prove its good will by action the Soviet state declared that implementing its agreement with the DRA, by the end of 1986, the Soviet Union will withdraw six regiments of Soviet troops from Afghanistan, that it will consider the partial withdrawal of Soviet forces from the MPR, and so forth.

The good-willed stand fully imbued with a lofty sense of responsibility displayed by the Soviet state toward peace and stability in Asia and the Pacific is winning sympathy and support from progressive world public opinion. Our Armed Forces and people warmly welcome and totally support the Soviet Union's new initiative; and pledge to contribute toward building equitable relations and an atmosphere of peace and stability among countries in Asia and the Pacific. Specifically, we will strive to make Asia and the Pacific a region of lasting peace and free of nuclear weapons and confrontation, and with equal regional cooperation. This also meets the aspirations and interests of Vietnam itself.

AUSTRALIA

HAYDEN SHARPLY CRITICIZES U.S. WHEAT SUBSIDIES

BK120653 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] The foreign minister, Mr. Hayden, has used the opening of formal talks with the United States on a bilateral defense pact to sharply criticize American wheat subsidies to the Soviet Union. Jim Middleton reports from San Francisco.

[Begin recording] [Middleton] Mr. Hayden declared that the American cheap wheat program was doing great damage not only to Australia but potentially to the stability of the Asian-Pacific region as well. He said that during today's talks he will be asking his opposite number, the American secretary of state, Mr. Shultz, to pass on to Washington Australia's concern.

[Hayden] I would be asking you to convey this (?outrage) to your colleagues in the administration and to those members of the Congress who support even greater and more extensive subsidization for U.S. wheat exports.

[Middleton] Mr. Shultz expressed sympathy for Australia's plight and called for action to remove policies of subsidy and protection from agriculture. [end recording]

AUSTRALIA, U.S. TO DEVELOP SHIP DEFENSE SYSTEM

BK110908 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Australia and the United States are to work together to develop a new ship defense system for the navies of both countries. In a statement released in Canberra by the Office of the Minister of Defense, Mr. Beazley, who is currently in the United States, the minister said the two countries would share the work and cost of the project worth more than $130 million. [currency not specified] Mr. Beazley said a memorandum of arrangement had been signed for the development of this new defensive system which will be known as "Project (Nalta)" -- an aboriginal word meaning be quick. The minister said the project was the first time Australia and the United States had undertaken joint development of a task of such magnitude involving all stages of the design and development process.

Although for security reasons he would not release any details of the system, Mr. Beazley said it would offer substantial promise of negating the destructive potential of weapons that might be used against ships of either navy. The development work will take place in Australia and America over 5 years.

"Project (Nalta)" involves concept and technology developed in the laboratories of the Defense Science and Technology Organization and the factories of the Office of Defense Production in Australia and in research and development establishments in the United States.

REACTIONS TO NEW ZEALAND'S WITHDRAWAL FROM ANZUS

BK120728 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0500 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] The United States has formally ended its defense ties with New Zealand. The secretary of state, Mr. Shultz, told a news conference in San Francisco that New Zealand had in effect withdrawn from the ANZUS security relationship linking Australia, New Zealand, and the United States. He was speaking after talks involving the Australian foreign affairs minister, Mr. Hayden, the defense minister, Mr. Beazley, and the American defense secretary, Mr. Weinberger.

A joint statement said both governments regretted New Zealand's port and air access policies which effectively barred the use of New Zealand ports by American Navy ships. The joint statement said the American side has said it could not be expected under these circumstances to carry out its obligations to New Zealand under the ANZUS Treaty.

However, Mr Weinberger told the news conference that New Zealand would be welcomed back into the alliance if they changed these policies.

Mr Beazley said Australia would take over a greater share of South Pacific surveillance and defense duties.

The New Zealand prime minister, Mr Lange, said in Wellington today that his government regretted that the United States had felt a need to announce the suspension of its security obligations to New Zealand under ANZUS. However, he said nothing had in effect changed. The announcement had nothing unexpected and had formalized the situation that had existed for the past 2 years.

NEW ZEALAND

MCLAY DECIDES NOT TO RUN FOR REELECTION

HK111118 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 5 Aug 86 p 1

[By Mike Munro]

[Text] The recently deposed leader of the National Party, Mr Jim McLay, dropped a political bombshell last night by announcing that he would quit Parliament.

Mr McLay -- who took over the leadership in November 1984, but was replaced 16 months later by Mr Jim Bolger -- said he would not stand as a certificate at the next general election.

His decision, which sent shockwaves through party ranks, was relayed to his Birkenhead electorate executive.

Speaking at Auckland Airport last night before catching a plane back to Wellington, Mr McLay denied that the leadership coup had influenced his decision.

"It was a hard decision but it was not that (the leadership) that dictated or led to it.

"I weighted it up very carefully and decided that I had achieved more in 12 years than most people could reasonably expect from politics.

"I am very statisfied with the things I can look back on.

"I have done 12 years in Parliament and I spent half that time as a cabinet minister, some of it as Deputy Prime Minister and Acting Prime Minister.

"Those are all things a lot of people would not normally achieve in a whole lifetime."

Mr McLay said he had not yet told his successor as Leader of the Opposition, Mr Bolger, of the decision.

"But I have conveyed my decision to a number of my colleagues and several of them tried actively to dissuade me.

"I am 41 and I have now decided the time has come to make a change. There are other things in life -- the old saying, 'been there, done that.'"

Asked if he was bitter about the way some of his caucus colleagues had treated him, Mr McLay said politics was the last thing he should be in if he was bitter.

"I have got some views but I would not call it bitterness."

Mr McLay said that although he had not decided what he was going to do once out of Parliament he had what could be described as offers.

"I am not prepared to indicate in any way what sort of approaches I have had but I have had them on a very informal nature.

"I am not committed, they are not committed and all that this announcement gives me the opportunity to do is to talk to one or two people.

"But I will not be making a decision for some considerable time."

He said it would be fair to say that he had had an approach while on a recent overseas trip to Taiwan.

Mr McLay, who told his electorate chairman, Carole Wilson, of his decision last night before flying to Wellington, said it had been a fairly emotional thing for the electorate people.

"A lot of them have been with me right from the time I was first elected as an MP.

"Some of them actually worked to get me selected as the candidate (for Birkenhead) in 1974.

"It is only in the past few weeks that I have given serious thought to the question... I tend to make decisions firmly and quickly."

McLay said he would remain a member of the National Party.

"I have given the whole of my adult life to it. I did that because I believed in the party and any suggestion that I would leave it I would resent very strongly."

The National Party leader, Mr Bolger, was told of Mr McLay's announcement by a journalist in Wellington last night.

Asked whether he would have expected to have been informed by Mr McLay personally, Mr Bolger said that was entirely up to the MP concerned.

"But I guess I can say most do (advise the leader first)," he said.

Mr Bolger said that although he was unaware of Mr McLay's intentions, they were not entirely surprising.

"He had reached the top of the party at a young age and that was now behind him and he had to decide whether to carry on or to branch out and start a career elsewhere," he said.

"To that extent I was not altogether surprised to hear he had decided to make a career outside politics."

Mr Bolger said he had hoped Mr McLay would have stayed on.

"There was definitely a role for him as a senior member of the team but I also knew he would be weighing up his options.

"It is a decision Jim has obviously reached after assessing where he wants to develop his career interests."

Mr Bolger said he had not yet thought of a reshuffle of spokesmanship responsibilities in National's parliamentary team.

"That is not a major problem and obviously not one of any pressing urgency," he said.

The man Mr McLay succeeded as National Party leader, Sir Robert Muldoon, had little comment to make last night on Mr McLay's decision, which he had been unaware of until then.

"There is nothing that I can say except to repeat what I have said before: that he was an outstanding Minister of Justice and Attorney General and I think that when he leaves Parliament he will be remembered for that," said Sir Robert.

The Auckland divisional chairman of the National Party, Dr Ross Armstrong, said Mr McLay's decision to retire would be a very considerable loss to the party in Auckland.

YOUNG CHOSEN NEW NATIONAL PARTY PRESIDENT

HK111122 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 5 Aug 86 p 5

[Text] In making Neville Young its president the National Party opted yesterday for a likeable, prosperous businessmen not without his rough edges.

His elevation to the top administrative post is the product of 11 years of service to the party machine.

Mr Young, from Christchurch, has 20 years' experience as a barrister and solicitor. In recent years he and two associates have developed two multi-million dollar private hospitals in Auckland and Christchurch.

So few in the party doubled his business acumen and organisational skills.

He has been chairman of National's Canterbury-Westland division and a party vice-president for two years. At dominion level he has served on all standing committees, the only person to do so.

Mr Young is not one of the party's earnest ideologues -- and he concedes that he is no great shakes as a public speaker.

But he mixes easily, is approachable and has a commendable track record in bringing together winning teams.

In 1975 he was campaign manager in Lyttleton when Miss Colleen Dewe overcame a 3600-vote majority to defeat the then Minister of Health, the Hon Tom McGuigan.

Also, he played an integral part in Mr Maurice McTigue winning the Timaru byelection last year for National.

When the contest to find a successor to Mrs Sue Wood began, Mr Young was rated the outsider. But as he toured around the country in recent weeks delegates clearly warmed to the 45-year-old businessman.

He said yesterday, in the wake of his victory, that he was an old campaigner and he had aimed at peaking on ballot day. They were tactics which fell neatly into place.

Mr Young explained that it may well have been the party's desire to seek a town and country balance that clinched the presidency for him.

He said that National was a town and country party and he wanted it to be seen that way. He would be chanelling his energies into the organisation.

"I am not particularly policy-driven," he said. He would exhibit his skills by "putting together the winning teams nationally and locally."

Educated at Christ's college and Canterbury University, Mr Young has had a hand in family business interests from service stations to quarrying.

He worked in the international and legal divisioins of International Harvester Chicago USA, travelling widely on that company's business.

He also has a keen interest in breeding and racing horses and is a steward of the Christchurch Hunt Club.

GOVERNMENT-CPP CEASE-FIRE TALKS SUFFER SETBACK

HK120139 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] The government-communist cease-fire talks suffered a setback yesterday. The rebel umbrella organization, the National Democratic Front, rejected the guidelines imposed by AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] Chief of Staff General Fidel Ramos for the issuance of safe conduct passes for the communist negotiators. The communist stand was declared by NDF chairman and chief rebel negotiator Satur Ocampo. Ocamp said the guidelines were much different from what were agreed upon in previous talks with government chief negotiator, Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra. Opposed by the communists were particularly the ban of carrying of firearms by bodyguards of the communist negotiators and the 30 day limit on the effectivity of the safe conduct passes.

Safe Conduct Guidelines

HK111414 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 11 Aug 86 pp 1, 5

[By Jose de Vera]

[Text] Gen Fidel V. Ramos, Armed Forces chief of staff, issued Saturday guidelines on the issuance of safe conduct passes to dissident leaders who are involved in the ceasefire negotiations with the government.

The passes will ensure and guarantee the safety of the negotiating members of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP), New People's Army (NPA), and National Democratic Front (NDF), as well as civilian mediators, defense and military authorities said. The salient points in the guidelines are:

1. Only the NAFP [New Armed Forces of the Philippines] chief of staff and commanders of Regional Unified Commands [RUC] are authorized to issue safe conduct passes in order to avoid confusion among AFP operating units.

2. The pass should clearly indicate the name of the grantee and his personal data or circumstances, purpose, place of origin and destination so as to limit the movement of the grantee from his place to the venue of the talks. It will be good for only 30 days from date of issuance and should be addressed to all AFP and Integrated National Police (INP) units.

3. The pass shall not mean an authority to carry firearms.

4. No pass will be issued for supplies.

5. Passes issued by agencies other than the Office of the President and the Ministry of National Defense are not binding on the AFP.

Ramos said he had already issued passes to former newsmen Saturnino Ocampo, Antonio Zumel, and Carolina Malay Ocampo, and their security escorts.

Ramos ordered the immediate dissemination of the guidelines to all major service commands, including the RUCs and the PC [Philippine Constabulary]-INP regional commands.

BALWEG, AQUINO 'UNLIKELY' TO MEET IN BAGUIO, MANILA

HK111429 Manila THE NEWS HERALD in English 9 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Nars Padilla]

[Text] Baguio City -- It is unlikely that renegade priest Conrado Balweg will meet with President Aquino here or in Manila as he considers these places not within the operational base of his Cordillera People's Liberation Army (CPLA).

Balweg, who is demanding demilitarization of the Cordilleras before talks can begin, met with Agapito "Butz" Aquino, brother-in-law and personal emmisary of the President a few days ago, for the third time thus far this year.

The two talked in Bugnay, a scenic Igorot village between the borders of Kalinga-Apayao and the Mountain Province.

Balweg, who bolted the NPA ranks last April to organize the CPLA said, "Having the dialog in the city of Baguio appears like doing so in Manila because the venue is not within the area of coverage of the Cordillera People's Liberation Army."

The 42-year-old chief of the CPLA considers the Cordilleras as the more appropriate site for the meeting should it push through.

This observation is also shared by tribal leaders who cite security reasons.

Balweg, who had a P200,000 reward for his capture which has been lifted by President Aquino, blamed the military for starting the trouble in the region.

"The demilitarization of the Cordillera is also one way by which the new dispensation can show it is different from the previous government," he said.

Balweg added that "The CPLA does not want the AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] or the NPA to stay here because we do not want antogonistic class struggle."

ENRILE WANTS MILITARY ROLE SPECIFIED DURING TALKS

HK111136 Quezon City NEW DAY in English 11 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] With the peace talks set to start between the government and the communist rebels, the military is finding it necessary to have its role specified, preferably in writing.

"This way," said Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, "we can all avoid accusations about one side or another deliberately doing something to sabotage this peace effort."

"I have asked President Aquino to lay down specific orders -- preferably written -- on how we in the military should behave or conduct ourselves during the dialogue," he said.

Enrile's concern over guidelines stems from the rebels' demand that government troops deployed in the rural areas be pulled back and abusive militia units, like some Civilian Home Defense Forces (CHDF's) units, abolished.

The other expected demands of the guerrillas are the implementation of genuine land reform and the removal of US military bases from the Philippines.

A military spokesman, however, has ruled out any pullback of troops from dissident-infested areas. Brig. Gen. Luis San Andres told NEW DAY, "The active defense strategy of the Armed Forces as enunciated by Gen. Fidel Ramos stays inasmuch as in many areas in the countryside, it is the Armed Forces upon whom the citizens depend for protections against depredations not only by the insurgents but also of various criminal elements."

As to future operations against the rebels while peace negotiations are in progress, San Andres commented, "We haven't launched any offensive operations in a long, long while." San Andres explained that if the AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] were to decide to launch offensive operations, "that would mean tracking the rebels down right to their lairs."

"Literally, that means finding the enemy, fixing the enemy (or cornering him) and fighting the enemy," San Andres said. "We haven't done that yet."

Meanwhile, some Armed Forces officials have adopted a somewhat "wary" stance on the reported start of the peace talks. In an interview, Maj. Gen. Eduardo Ermita raised doubts on whether both NDF [National Democratic Front] emissaries -- Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel -- can truly represent the entire rebel movement in the peace talks.

Ermita said Zumel and Ocampo are members of the National Democratic Front (NDF), which is (merely) the political arm of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP).

"The communist hierarchy can easily disown the two emissaries in the course of the talks or after if they (the communists) do not find the agreements arrived at to their liking," Ermita said.

COLUMNIST ON LAUREL STATEMENT ON MINISTERS

HK111541 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 11 Aug 86 p 5

["Bottom Line" column by Gaby Manalac: "Pretty Smooth"]

[Text] Vice-President Salvador Laurel has made some off-beat political statements in the past, notably a comment earlier this year at the height of the anti-Marcos sentiment that Ferdinand would be allowed to return in about two months. Laurel expectedly tried to clarify that statement, but his explanations only made his position weirder.

However, his all-time worst would seen to be his statement in Cebu last Friday that when he takes over as acting president upon departure of the President for the U.S. he would "right the unrightable wrongs" in the Aquino government. To begin with, his choice of words was poor. How can one right what is unrightable?

But the essence of Laurel's statement is that President Aquino is incapable of revamping her badly disorganized and disunited government and that she needs a hatchet man to do the job while she escapes from the local scene on a visit to the U.S.

While I may agree with Laurel that the Aquino government needs an overhaul and a facelift quite urgently, I cannot imagine how a vice-president who is concurrently foreign affairs minister can make his president look so bad.

Nor can I accept that Laurel really believes he can do what he claimed given the chance at the acting presidency. He has to be smarter than that.

It would look to me therefore, that Laurel's statement is some kind of a message to Mrs Aquino and the beginning of a disengagement from the Aquino camp preparatory to elections if the new constitution is ever ratified.

Evidently, Laurel must realize that even if he is appointed acting president, the Cabinet will never allow him to introduce any major change while Mrs Aquino is away. Moreover, Mrs Aquino would also never authorize him to do so. Her advisers would see to that.

For all practical purposes, therefore, even if Laurel becomes the acting president, the man with the big stick will still be the executive secretary, particularly since it is Joker Arroyo who enjoys the full confidence of Mrs Aquino. And the entire Cabinet knows that.

If then, Laurel really wanted to get good political milage out of his possible stint as acting president, he would have kept his hand close to his breast. His first chore would have been to make sure that he would actually be appointed acting president in Mrs Aquino's absence. Once installed, only then could he take chances and hope to score some political points, at the expense of course of Mrs Aquino.

But to publicly announce what he planned to do even before taking over in a temporary capacity is like asking to be shot down. So why did Laurel make such an announcment at all?

The only plausible reasons I can come up with are Laurel does not expect to be appointed acting president at all, and that he will make an issue of his avowed plans to "right the unrightable wrongs" as the reason Mrs Aquino and her confidants continue to keep him in cold storage.

Or, Mrs Aquino may really be considering appointing Laurel as acting President, but that Laurel himself sees no mileage out of this temporary exposure to Malacanang since Arroyo will mind the store anyway. Thus, he may really be forcing Mrs Aquino to bypass him so that he can then get better projection by proclaiming to one and all that he wanted to help save the country from political devastation but was never given the chance by the President and her men.

This way, he detaches himself from complicity in any possible failure of the Aquino government, while still keeping one foot in just in case it succeeds.

Pretty smooth.

ENRILE SPEAKS ON ACCUSATIONS, CEASE-FIRE, BASES

HK111511 Manila THE MANILA EVENING POST in English 9 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[By Ed Malay and Rene Caparas]

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said last night that although he has made a public disclosure of communist infiltration in the government, the military establishment "will just let things go" because President Aquino has obviously taken a policy in the handling of the insurgency problem that is opposed to his own.

"Until President Aquino has drawn up a clear policy on dealing with the communists, we will just let things go," Enrile said, in answer to a question after delivering a speech before the members of the South Metro Manila Chamber of Commerce and Industry at the Westin Philippine Plaza Hotel.

Enrile said he did not intend to investigate the infiltrators and much less punish them because Mrs. Aquino had already allowed them to be out in the open.

With respect to some Communist Leaders, Enrile said they had already been "punished" by being released from detention.

In his speech, Enrile also said the defense ministry and the armed forces would soon meet with Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez to discuss ways and means of resolving various labor problems "in the interest of industrial peace."

Enrile stressed that it is an accepted norm in democratic countries such as the Philippines that the equilibrium attained in the free market of goods and services inevitably leads to social and political stability.

In advocating an adherence to the free enterprise system, Enrile said economic recovery could not be attained through the efforts of labor alone. "It should be a collective effort of both labor and capital," he said.

Enrile said the defense ministry has indentified those whom he branded communists who have infiltrated the government echelons.

He said these infiltrators are not only leftist sympathizers but also card-bearing members of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP).

Enrile said some of them identified themselves as card-bearing members of the CPP during the negotiations for a ceaser-fire before the Feb. 7 snap presidential elections.

He said those whom he accused of being communist infiltrators were the same ones who negotiated with the defense ministry during the cease-fire talks.

Enrile also said the U.S. military bases are crucial to the security of the country and if moves to get them out succeed, it would "create a vacuum in the power balance between the U.S. and the Soviet Union."

Enrile added: "It is best at this time to maintain the U.S. military facilities because they provide a security umbrella to external threat against us."

He said the Soviet Union's policy of territorial expansion is too dangerous for small nations like the Philippines, and "the communists are just lying in wait for another victim."

"We are too weak to resist the Soviets. If the U.S. bases are no longer around, our security is in danger. We can't tell the Russians, 'No, don't come to our nation.' This is a realistic view, and this is the real situation," Enrile said.

He said the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) will have to "not double but also treble its national budget to meet the present level of U.S. security provided by the military bases."

"We cannot, at this time of crisis, afford to have only any increase in the appropriations for the military. Where are we going to get all the money to maintain our security?" he asked.

Enrile said the military is prepared for any confrontation with the local insurgents and dissidents. He said AFP is ready for any external or internal threats, "no matter how remote the possibiliies are."

"You do not prepare for war when war is already in front of you. It's during peace that you prepare for a possible war. I am not saying this to warn you that there will be war. But you cannot eliminate its possibility," Enrile said.

On the cease-fire talks with the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and its military arm, the New People's Army (NPA), Enrile said: "I hope peace will be attained. And we are dealing with this with caution."

"The strategy of these people is to make one step backward and two steps forward. We must use caution on their little advances," he said.

Meanwhile, Enrile said the proposal to return police control and the PC [Philippine Constabulary] to local executives "still needs further study."

"It is common today to see a town mayor surrounded by too many bodyguards. I don't know why. How much more if we return the police control to them?" he said.

Asked if he is running for president in the coming elections, Enrile said: "I cannot run for a position that is not vacant. President Aquino's term is due to expire in 1992 yet."

Enrile said the list of people preparing to go with Aquino to the U.S. in September does not include him.

"I have not been asked to join President Aquino yet. The President's entourage, the people who are going with her, is her own preference. It is for her to choose the people going with her," Enrile said.

Names 'Infiltrated' Institutions

HK120145 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile identified three communist-infiltrated government institutions. These included the Philippine Coconut Authority, the Center for Special Studies and the Presidential Task Force on Cooperatives under the Human Settlements Ministry. Minister Enrile said some of the officials of these other groups are members of the dissident Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP]. The defense chief made the revelations after Local Governments Minister Aquilino Pimentel challenged Enrile to name names or identify government officials who he said are card-carrying members of the CPP group.

[Begin Enrile recording] If you want to find out the truth of what I said, you go to the Philippine Coconut Authority. There was a group that was assigned there and the head of the group was formerly the chairman of the Southern Luzon commission of the Communist Party of the Philippines. The Presidential Task Force on cooperatives of the Ministry of Human Settlements is being handled by a very well known personality [word indistinct]. Some of these people are executive assistants to certain ministries, assistants to certain ministers and I think that rather than name them, we do not name them. We just tell you their positions. [end recording]

In the same interview, Minister Enrile branded as pure speculation the report that ousted President Marcos is arriving this coming August 16. He also said a statement of Marcos concerning the form of the Aquino government next year should be given little value.

[Begin Enrile recording] Coming from him, I would give little value about that statement. You know you cannot expect former President Marcos to say nice things about the present regime given the fact that it was this government that disgraced and forced him to go into exile. [end recording]

Editorial on Enrile's Comments

HK111530 Manila THE NEWS HERALD in English 11 Aug 86 p 4

[Editorial: "Is Enrile Rocking the Boat?"]

[Text] The defense minister tells us that card-carrying communists are holding sensitive positions in government.

They bared their true color to him even before the elections, the defense head said in an open forum following his speech before Manila businessmen.

In the same breath he said there was no plan to arrest the government Reds which, if decided on, would have to be done through the courts because there is no executive order by which the arrest could be carried out.

So, while he may be seeing Red, the defense boss is not about to be rash. When "we feel the situation is getting critical, we shall prepare a paper and submit it to the President and tell her of the situation. And she will make the decision," he said.

We wonder what prompted the defense minister to make the revelation about the Aquino government having been infiltrated by communists at a time when he cannot do anything about it but wait and see.

His statement infers that he has not reported the security matter to the President -- does he not think that the earlier Mrs Aquino is informed the better for her and all concerned?

Headlined by the newspapers the defense minister's sketchy report delivers the impact of an expose, and coming as it does from a high official of the government might be seen by some as a confirmation of the "loyalist" charge that the Cabinet of Mrs Aquino is tainted with ideological crimson.

No doubt the top defense official's revelation is well-intentioned, but it cannot help create ripples disturbing at the least for the administration which is on a maiden voyage that certainly is no luxury cruise.

DISMISSED SUBIC BASE WORKERS END HUNGER STRIKE

HK111536 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 11 Aug 86 p 3

[By Sandra De Jesus]

[Text] The hunger-striking 42 civilian employees earlier dismissed by the Subic Naval Base Management allegedly for being "security risks" have reportedly called off their protest and opted to accept management offer for separation benefits.

Reports reaching the labor ministry said yesterday that the workers, except Manny Torres, their leader, have accepted their severance pay, back wages, unused vacation and sick leaves amounting to at least P50,000 each from Subic officials.

The workers have staged a hunger strike outside the gates of Subic Base in Olongapo City after they were barred from entering the U.S. facility. The workers claimed they were branded as "security risks" for having advocated the dismantling of the U.S. bases.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Navy said yesterday that Subic officials have agreed to separate 42 employees for "other than disciplinary reasons."

As a result of the Philippine-U.S. Joint Labor Committee (JLC) meeting last July 8, management and union representatives reviewed this issue. No agreed position resulted. However, Subic officials announced a change of separation status for four workers originally dismissed "for cause." The U.S. also agreed there would be no derogatory information related to the 42 dismissals placed in personnel files.

The group will receive more than P2,400,000 including severance pay, pro-rated year-end bonus, pay for unused annual and sick leave, midyear bonus, and a quarterly rice allowance. The overall average amounts to P57,143, with six individuals collecting over P100,000, and one nearly P224,000.

The JLC again discussed the dismissal cases July 25 but the meeting ended in a deadlock.

The hunger strike was called after recent negotiations between a joint special committee composed of Subic authorities and labor officials had bogged down over American refusal to reinstate the workers or substantiate evidence to justify cause for their dismissal. The Philippine panel subsequently branded as "arbitrary and unfair" the American move.

During the negotiations, the workers demanded that they be reinstated and charges levelled against them be dropped.

Torres had threatened the dismissal would trigger crippling strikes in all U.S. facilities in the country. Sources said, however, that Torres' group has failed to get the support of the labor union in the bases and of the Filipino community outside Subic.

U.S. MISSIONARIES URGE END TO U.S. 'INTERVENTION'

HK111449 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 9 Aug 86 p 5

[By Philippine News and Features]

[Text] Fifty U.S. Catholic and Protestant Missioners in the Philippines have written to U.S. Christian Church leaders urging them to help "prevent further U.S. military aid and intervention" in the Philippines.

In a "Letter of Concern" endorsed by Cardinal Ricardo J. Vidal and 68 other Philippine Church leaders, the U.S. missioners said U.S. policies "aimed at protecting U.S. military bases and economic interests in the Philippines have drawn our country (the United States) into increasing intervention in its affairs."

The letter, endorsed also by 44 missioners in the Philippines from other countries, was sent July 31 to some 1,000 U.S. Catholic and Protestant church leaders, including bishops, pastors, priests' and sisters' associations, social justice directors and overseas ministry personnel.

"The historic opportunity to build a truly free and democratic society" presented by the overthrow of the Marcos regime last February the letter said, "could be frustrated by interventionist policies" of the U.S. Government.

"The pattern of poverty and inequality continued and worsened during the U.S. colonial period... The U.S. colonizers tolerated social inequality and repression... (and) relied on the Filipino ruling class to minimize domestic opposition of U.S. rule."

The "cumulative result of the centuries of colonialism and economic dependency," the letter continues, is the destraction of the economy, "and escalating militarization under Marcos, resulting in systematic repression of all sectors, including the church."

CON-COM DIVIDED INTO 4 GROUPS ON BASES ISSUE

HK111457 Manila THE NEWS HERALD in English 9 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Teddy Owen]

[Text] The Constitutional Commission [Con-Com] faces a long and bitter debate on the American military bases issue during its plenary session about the middle of this month.

The 49-member Con-Com is divided into four groups on the issue: those who want the bases banned; those who favor renegotiation of the RP [Republic of the Philippines]-U.S. military bases agreement after its expiration in 1991; those supporting negotiations in 1991 and those who feel that the article on military bases in the declaration of principles should not be included in the constitution.

A survey conducted by cause-oriented groups showed that members Adolfo Azcuna, Felicitas Aquino, Ponciano Benagen, Lino Brocka, Edmundo Garcia, Jose Luis Gascon, Minda Luz Quesada, Rene Sarmiento, Jose L. Suarez, Jaime Tadeo, Sister Christine Tan, Wilfrido Villacorta, Vicente B. Foz, Jose N. Nolledo, Hilario G. Davide and Florangel Rosario Braid are in favor of banning U.S. bases in the Philippines.

Those favoring negotiation of the bases agreement are members Blas F. Ople, Rustico de los Reyes, Regalado Maambong, Serafin Guingona, Francisco Rodrigo, Efrain Trenas, Lugum Uka, Napoleon G. Rama, Gregorio Tingzon, Bernardo Villegas, Crispino de Castro, Jose B. Laurel Jr., Florenz Regalado, Decoroso Rosales, Christian Monsod, Ambrosio Padilla and Cecilia Munoz Palma.

Members Jose Bengzon Jr., Jose D. Calderon, Alberto Jamir Eulogio Lerum, Teodulo Natividad, Cirilo Rigos and Ricardo Romulo Jr. are in favor of negotiations in 1991.

Those who feel that the provisions of the article on the declaration of principles should not be included at all in the charter are members Yusuf Abubakar, Ahmad Alonto, Teodoro Bacani, Jaoquino Bernas, Jose Colayco, Roberto Concepcion, Lorenzo Sumulong and Maria Teresa Nieva.

Meanwhile, a Con-Com sub-committee has approved the inclusion of a section in the new charter which would ban foreign military bases, troops or facilities in any part of the Philippines.

Section 3 of the article on the declaration of principles was approved 6-2 by the sub-committee on the declaration of principles headed by Braid.

This section, which would prohibit U.S. military installations on Filipino soil reads: "The State has the inherent right to self-determination, national independence and sovereignty. Subject to existing treaties, international or executive agreements, foreign military bases, troops or facilities shall be forbidden in any part of Philippine territory."

The article also states unequivocally that the Philippines is a nuclear-free country, and that no portion of its territory shall be used to store or stockpile nuclear weapons, devices or parts of such weapons.

Another section of the article provides for the right of the people to stage a revolt to change a despotic government.

Section 26 states: "When a long chain of government abuses and usurpation, pursuing invariably the same object contrary to the expressed will of the people, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is the right of the people, it is their duty, to change such government and provide new safeguards for their future security."

Earlier yesterday, the Con-Com approved an urban land reform and housing program in the article on social justice, the first part authored by member Vicente B. Foz and the second part, an amendment by Florenz Regalado.

The first part reads: "The State shall by law and for the common good undertake a continuing program of urban land reform and housing in cooperation with the private sector, that will make decent housing and basic services available at affordable cost to deserving low-income citizens in urban centers and resettlement areas."

The Second part: "Urban and rural poor dwellers shall not be evicted nor their dwellings demolished except in accordance with law and in just and humane manner. No resettlement of urban or rural dwellers shall take place without consultation with them and with the community where they are to be relocated."

A motion to exclude squatters within the framework of urban and rural poor dwellers by member Crispino de Castro was rejected by a vote of 30-1. De Castro warned that the approved section would appear to be constitutionalizing squatting in the country.

U.S. 'BLACKLISTING' OF AIRPORT QUESTIONED

HK111210 Quezon City NEW DAY in English 11 Aug 86 p 7

[By Abrino Aydinan]

[Text] The United States move to "blacklist" the Manila International Airport (MIA) as unsafe for American travellers is seen by local analysts as a "crude" political pressure on the Aquino government as the Constitutional Commission debates the status of the military bases.

Spokesman Allan Croghan of the U.S. Embassy, however, says the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration's assessment that the MIA does not meet international security standards is "not related to any political development here."

U.S. Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Handford Dole announced last Tuesday the negative judgment on the Manila Airport, the first to be made under an international Security and Development Corporation Act passed by the U.S. Congress in 1985 as a measure for curbing attacks by revolutionary guerillas against U.S. nationals.

Dole said in a published statement that the FAA found the security measures in the local airport still falling short of the standards set by the International Civil Aviation Organization even after improvements had been introduced by the Philippine government. The U.S. official first called the attention of the government to the "deficiencies" in the security measures at the MIA last July after an FAA team visited the airport. While remedial actions were apparently taken by the airport administration to improve the situation, another visit by a FAA team last July determined this to be inadequate, Dole said.

Dole has ordered the notice of MIA's inadequate security measures to be "displayed prominently" in all main U.S. airports and for the news media to be also notified. She has also ordered all U.S. and foreign airlines flying to and from Manila to "provide written notice of Dole's determination to passengers purchasing U.S. - Manila tickets."

"If deficiences (in the concerned foreign airport's security measures) are not remedied within 90 days, the Department of Transportation is required by law to publish the name of the airport and to inform the public of the determination," the U.S. department said in a press statement.

The U.S. transportation department said the action on MIA "represents the first time (the department) has made a finding involving a foreign airport under the 1985 statute." When reports of the negative U.S. assessment of the Philippine airport first came out here last May, the U.S. transportation department said in a statement released by the embassy, FAA security specialists were also conducting security assessments of some 100 other foreign airports which had direct air service with the U.S.

Asked yesterday whether any other foreign airport has been found deficent in security arrangements, Croghan said he "cannot comment."

Croghan took issue with the word "blacklisting" which analysts used to describe the U.S. action on the MIA. He explained that the U.S. is ready to assist in improving the security situation at the MIA and that "FAA will conduct an assessment whenever there is reason to believe that the security has been made effective."

Local analysts look at some reason "why the (US President Ronald) Reagan administration made its first application of an American law at the expense of the Philippines at this time." They find it intriguing that the FAA fault with the MIA security "not during the time of (ousted former president) Marcos" but during the current administration "which is trying hard to upgrade public service." The analysts also pointed out that the American government would be hard put to make a diplomatic slap on Mrs. Aquino when she is preparing for her visit to the U.S. next month.

"The logic of the U.S. move is to exert pressure on a government that it thinks needs American economic assistance like a person needs air to survive," one analyst said. The MIA's "blacklisting" by the American government is like telling the tourists to keep off the Philippines. This threatens a substantial source of income for a nation whose government is precisely looking up to the U.S. for aid, he said. While the U.S. government finds the "control of access to secure areas" in the MIA deficient, an Asian diplomat also interviewed by NEW DAY about the FAA assessment said American diplomats given "deferential treatment" by airport security officials and can go to normally off-limit areas. These are things that other diplomats, especially from the third world, can not do. "We are treated like dirt (by Filipino airport security officials)," he told NEW DAY.

NPA KILLS 2 CONSTABULARY AGENTS IN BULACAN

HK110743 Quezon City Radyo Ng Bayan in Tagalog 0700 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Two civilian agents of the constabulary were ambushed by NPA liquidation squad in Barangay Santo Rosario, Malolos, yesterday afternoon. PC [Philippine Constabulary] provincial commander Lieutenant Colonel Leandro Mendoza identified the victims as Jesus (Naptoro) Jr, and (Juan) Caparas. Reports said the attackers were armed with armalite rifles, AK-47 submachine-guns and .38 caliber pistols, as shown by bullets found at the scene of the ambush. An 8-year-old girl, Rosalind (Liano), who was selling cigarets was hit by a stray bullet during the attack.

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

VOL IV No 156

13 August 1986

JAPAN

Grave Visits on Soviet-Held Islands To Resume C 1
Fuwa, Gorbachev Agree To Strengthen Cooperation C 1
USSR To Pay Nippon Steel Cash for Pipes C 1
Plans for Kuranari-Reagan Meeting Fall Through C 2
Kurihari Meets Lyons, Responds to Requests C 2
Nakasone Welcomes Proposal on NLC Rejoining LDP C 3
Japan Launches Rocket With Two Satellites C 4

SOUTH KOREA

'Official' Text of Chon's 11 Aug Press Conference [THE KOREA TIMES 12 Aug] E 1
Reaction to Chon Press Conference Reported E 12
  2 Kims Want Meeting [THE KOREA TIMES 13 Aug] E 12
  KOREA HERALD Editorial [12 Aug] E 12
N.-S. Parliamentary Talks Delegate on Talks E 13
Reportage on Possible Cabinet Reshuffle E 14
  DJP Chairman Comments E 14
  KOREA HERALD Comments [13 Aug] E 15
Opposition's 2 Kims Comment on Domestic Issues [KYONGHYANG SINMUN 9 Aug] E 16
DJP Requests NKDP Lawmaker Be Disciplined [THE KOREA TIMES 10 Aug] E 16
Indictments Against NKDP Lawmakers Dropped E 17
DJP Finalizes Constitution Amendment Draft E 18

CAMBODIA

VOK Reports Sihanouk Visit to CGDK Zone H 1
  VONADK Reports on Visit H 1
No DK Troop Reduction Until SRV Withdraws [VOK] H 2
VOK Reports Sihanouk's Bangkok News Conference H 2
VODK Comments on Kapitsa Remarks in Moscow H 4
VODK Scores Gorbachev Statement on Vietnam Issue H 5

THAILAND

Foreign Minister Outlines Future Policy J 1
Democrat Party Leader Phichai Leaves Hospital [BANGKOK WORLD 11 Aug] J 1
Sihanouk Receives Warm Welcome at Border Camp [THE NATION 12 Aug] J 1

VIETNAM

Truong Chinh Exchanges Views With Gorbachev K 1
 NHAN DAN Hails Meeting [13 Aug] K 2
Pham Van Dong Interviewed on Gorbachev Speech K 4
Indochina Foreign Ministers To Meet 'Soon' K 5
Hanoi Notes Prem Appointed Thai Prime Minister K 5
Cobra Gold-86 'Aimed at Threatening' Indochina K 5
Release of Thai Fishermen To Mark Ties Anniversary K 6
VCTU Reviews Work, Studies Draft Report K 6
Nguyen Van Linh Addresses VCTU Cadre Conference K 7
Northern Provinces Review Socioeconomic Tasks K 8

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Hayden, Hawke React to U.S. Subsidized Trade M 1
 Considering Sugar Sale Response M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Lange Claims ANZUS Treaty Still Exists
 [AFP] M 2
Crooks Appointed New Defense Chief Until 30 Nov.
 [THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD 5 Aug] M 2

PHILIPPINES

Aquino To Remain In Control While Out of Country P 1
 Laurel Suggests NSC as Caretaker P 1
Arroyo Rules Out Laurel as Aquino Stand-in
 [THE NEWS HERALD 10 Aug] P 1
 Unido Chief on Arroyo's Remarks
 [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 11 Aug] P 3
Pimentel Brushes Aside Laurel Threat on Replacement
 [BUSINESS DAY 11 Aug] P 4
 Espina Calls for Pimentel Ouster
 [THE NEWS HERALD 10 Aug] P 5
Aquino's Pre-U.S. ASEAN Visit Explained
 [BUSINESS DAY 11 Aug] P 5
Enrile on Positions of Communists in Bureaucracy
 [BUSINESS DAY 12 Aug] P 6
 Loyalist Leader Names Communists P 7
 Agencies Say Communists Fired [AFP] P 8
 U.S. Pushing for Ministers Removal
 [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 12 Aug] P 8
Ramos Lifts Restrictions on CPP Negotiators [AFP] P 9
 Clarification on Passes P 10
 Bodyguards 'Will Not Be Molested' [AFP] P 10
Former Communist Head Forms New Party
 [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 5 Aug] P 11
 Editorial on New Party
 [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 12 Aug] P 11

GRAVE VISITS ON SOVIET-HELD ISLANDS TO RESUME

OW121237 Tokyo KYODO in English 1213 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 12 KYODO -- Japanese with ancestral graves in the Soviet-held northern islands will resume grave visits this month for the first time in 11 years, the Foreign Ministry said Tuesday.

The Hokusei Maru, an 892-ton chartered ship will leave Nemuro port in eastern Hokkaido on August 21 with 52 passengers on board for a four-day visit. The passengers include 46 people who will pay homage at four grave sites on Shikotan Island and Suisho Islet in the Habomai group. This will be the first visit by Japanese without visas to ancestral graves in the northern islands since 1976.

Former islanders from Japan visited three of the four islands -- Habomai, Shikotan and Kunashiri -- and several other areas in the Soviet Union between 1964 and 1975, bearing only identity cards specially issued by the Japanese Government. But as East-West tensions grew and the Soviet stance against Japan hardened, Japanese Foreign Ministry officials said, the Soviets told Japan in 1976 that Japanese wanting to visit the disputed islands would need visas, leading to the suspension of such visits.

soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, in a meeting with then Japanese Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe earlier this year, proposed reciprocal visits by Japanese and Soviets to their respective ancestral graves without applying for visas. The two countries announced an agreement on July 1 on such visits.

FUWA, GORBACHEV AGREE TO STRENGTHEN COOPERATION

OW130115 Tokyo KYODO in English 0050 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 13 KYODO -- Japan Communist Party chairman Tetsuzo Fuwa returned Wednesday from a trip to Moscow that included a two-and-a-half hour meeting with soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Fuwa said the meeting was useful as it reaffirmed a joint statement issued by the Communist Parties of the two nations in December 1984 in which they said the prevention of nuclear war and the abolition of nuclear weapons were tow central and urgent issues in world politics. Fuwa and Gorbachev agreed to strengthen cooperative relations between the Japanese and Soviet Communist Parties.

The Gorbachev-Fuwa meeting was originally scheduled for last week but was delayed until Monday because the Soviet leader was suffering from a cold he caught during his recent trip to Vladivostok.

USSR TO PAY NIPPON STEEL CASH FOR PIPES

OW130337 Tokyo KYODO in English 0257 GMT 13 Aug

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 13 KYODO -- The Soviet Union will make a cash payment for 200,000 tons of large-diameter pipes from Japan to be used chiefly for the giant Siberian natural gas project, Nippon Steel Corp. said Wednesday. Nippon Steel, the world's largest steel maker, declined to name the price for selling the pipes to Promsyrioimport, the state-run Soviet steel trade organization. Nippon Steel, one of four Japanese steel firms involved in the transaction, said Promsyrioimport will buy half of the 400,000 tons of large-diameter pipes it has contracted to import from Japan for October-December shipments in Japanese yen.

The Soviets will hold talks in the future with Nippon Steel, Nippon Kokan, Sumitomo Metal Industries and Kawasaki Steel on a dollar-denominated payment for the remaining 200,000 tons, according to industry sources. The Soviet Union has decided to pay for the Japanese steel pipes in cash in light of the yen's rapid appreciation against the U.S. dollars, the sources said.

PLANS FOR KURANARI-REAGAN MEETING FALL THROUGH

OW131201 Tokyo KYODO in English 1152 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 13 KYODO -- Japanese Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari, expected to visit New York in late September, will not travel to Washington to meet President Ronald Reagan, a high ranking Foreign Ministry official said here Wednesday. Kuranari, appointed foreign minister in mid-July, had hoped to meet Reagan in Washington before or after his address to the United Nations general meeting in New York September 23. According to the ministry official, Kuranari is now expected to return to Japan to attend an extraordinary session of the Diet scheduled to start in late September.

The foreign minister will travel to Punta Del Este, Uruguay, to attend a ministerial meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) beginning September 15, before continuing on to New York, according to the official. An official of the Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Ministry told reporters that Japan has decided to study the U.S. request to raise the fishery issue at GATT.

Agriculture Minister Mutsuki Kato later told reporters he was disappointed with the U.S. action, saying that problems concerning Japan-U.S. fishery trade have been solved "smoothly" through bilateral working-level negotiations. He suggested that the issue continue to be discussed at working-level consultations without resorting to GATT.

Japan currently imposes quotas on imports of herring and products made of Alaska pollack, mainly from the U.S. Japan imported about 34,000 tons or about 15.7 billion yen worth of herring from the U.S. and 500,000 tons or 22.6 billion yen worth of Alaska pollack products in fiscal 1985, which ended March 31.

On Japan's import restrictions imposed on 12 agricultural products, the U.S. demanded that Japan agree to set up a panel involving third countries under GATT to solve the trade issue, the official said. Japan was quoted as reiterating that the matter should be resolved in bilateral talks.

KURIHARA MEETS LYONS, RESPONDS TO REQUESTS

OW081315 Tokyo NHK Television Network in Japanese 0300 GMT 4 Aug 86

[Text] Admiral Lyons, visiting commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, paid a courtesy call on Defense Agency Director General Kurihara today and again asked the Japanese Government for increased efforts to secure a night landing practice airfield for carrier-borne aircraft and build family housing for U.S. forces in Ikego, Zushi City, at the earliest possible date.

Kurihara said in his response that he is fully aware of the importance of these projects, and that, availing himself of the opportunity given him by his second stint as defense chief, he will do his best to resolve the issues.

Lyons referred to a visit he made to the Philippines before coming to Japan, saying that the Philippines is increasing its military importance as the Soviet Union continues its buildup at Cam Ranh Bay in Vietnam. Allies should cooperate with the Philippines; they should spare no effort in that area, he said.

In response Kurihara said that while economic assistance to the Philippines should be increased to a maximum, he believes that Japan's obligation is to contribute to the peace and security of the Far East by further strengthening the Japan-U.S. security arrangements.

NAKASONE WELCOMES PROPOSAL ON NLC REJOINING LDP

OW121301 Tokyo KYODO in English 1243 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Toyko Aug. 12 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone Tuesday welcomed a proposal by the new Liberal Club (NLC), a minor conservative party, to rejoin the Liberal-Democratic Party. Nakasone expressed his acceptance at his official residence in a meeting with Yohei Kono, NLC leader, saying that the LDP will accept all Diet members as well as party personnel of the NLC.

The LDP splinter group is expected to be formally reinstated in the ruling party by the LDP's decision-making body, the Executive Council soon.

Kono made the proposal following meetings of top NLC party members earlier in the day in which they decided to dissolve the 10-year-old party and rejoin the LDP. The party will be officially disbanded at an ad hoc party convention on Friday.

Six Diet members, including five in the lower house and one in the upper house, together with about 120 regional assemblymen are expected to join the LDP, NLC sources said. Political analysts say that the NLC's decision was a result of the LDP landslide victory of 304 seats in the 512-member influential lower house in the July 6 general election which was held simultaneously with the upper house election. The NLC lost two of its pre-election seats in the lower house and maintained its pre-election strength of two seats in the upper house.

In a meeting with Kono, Nakasone was quoted as saying that the LDP would increase its party strength in a wider political front by reuniting with the NLC. "The important thing to the LDP is that it must have much support from left-wing diet members (in the LDP)," Naksone was quoted as telling Kono. Kono hinted to Nakasone that the former NLC leader Seiichi Tagawa will not rejoin the LDP.

In June 1976, six then LDP Diet members split from the ruling party and formed the NLC, accusing the LDP of improper handling of the Lockheed payoff scandal and intra-party struggle against then Prime Minister Takeo Miki.

The NLC formed a coalition with the LDP after the LDP suffered a big setback in the 1983 general election. Since then, three NLC Diet members -- Tagawa, party general secratary Toshio Yamaguchi and Kono -- were named cabinet ministers under the Nakasone administration.

Insiders expect that two upper house diet members -- Akira Amari and Juro Morita -- will join the Nakasone faction, Yamaguchi will join Takeshita's group and Kono may be tapped by the Komoto faction.

JAPAN LAUNCHES ROCKET WITH TWO SATELLITES

OW130121 Tokyo KYODO in English 0023 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Tanegashima, Kagoshima Pref., Aug. 13 KYODO -- A rocket featuring a domestically developed engine similar to the one used for U.S. space shuttles blasted off successfully Wednesday morning from the space center on this southern island, the National Space Development Agency said. The H-1 rocket carried two satellits, one for use by amateur enthusiasts radio and the other for geodetic survey experiments, which were placed into orbit about an hour after the launching, an agency spokesman said.

The agency named the first satellite "fuji (wisteria)" and the second "Ajisai (hydrangea)." It was the first Japanese launching of two satellites at the same time.

The agency spent 162 billion yen to develop the two-stage rocket with an engine using liquefied oxygen and hydrogen. The Le-5 engine, domestically developed and placed in the second stage, requires high technology to control, particularly at the time of ignition and reignition, according to agency officials. U.S. space shuttles use similar engines using liquefied fuel.

The first stage of the rocket carried a Delta engine produced by the United States. Japanese engineers also developed the inertia-guided system used to control the flight of the rocket.

'OFFICIAL' TEXT OF CHON'S 11 AUG PRESS CONFERENCE

SK120105 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 12 Aug 86 p 6

["Official Translation" of the questions and answers at ROK President Chon Tu-hwan's press conference at Chongwadae on 11 August 1986]

[Text] QUESTION 1: It's been five and a half years since the birth of the Fifth Republic. Could you review what your administration has done up until now and discuss the directions it will take in the future?

ANSWER: I am glad to see that you, the representatives of the media, are in good health in spite of the hot weather. I wish to take this opportunity to say hello to all citizens who are working faithfully at their jobs despite the sweltering heat.

I have only about a year and a half remaining in my term of office. When I look back on my last five and a half years in office, I can only say I am struck by a stream of emotion-laden recollections. For the entire Korean people, these past years have been full of trials and tribulations and at the same time marked by many glories and rewards.

As you can well remember, the Oct. 26, 1979 incident (the assassination of President Pak Chong-hui) was a tremendous shock to the country. It caused political and social chaos which threatened national security.

Thanks to the concerted efforts of all citizens, our wounds were quickly healed and national security and stability reinforced. Furthermore, we have achieved sustained growth and progress, thereby laying a solid groundwork for advancement into the forefront of development and also for national reunification.

I believe that one of our most noteworthy recent accomplishments is the complete suppression of the chronic inflation that plagued the nation persistently for 40 years following liberation. During the five years since 1981, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of only 3.1 percent, with the consumer price index increasing only 5.2 percent annually. Few had expected that we would be able to achieve such firm price stability. In fact, many economists greeted me with skepticism and I understand, some even secretly sneered at me when, in 1982, I proposed that inflation be slowed to a single-digit level. But my proposal has since been translated into reality.

That is not all. Since prices were stabilized, we have achieved an average annual economic growth of 7.5 percent. Only when prices are stable is it possible to achieve genuine economic growth that benefits all citizens. Inflation makes the rich richer and the poor poorer. The ending of inflation has thus contributed significantly toward reducing income disparities.

On the strength of the recent economic improvements, we have paved more roads in the past five years than were paved in the whole decade of the '70s.

The growth and development noted above are reflected in the fact that our gross national product is expected to reach US $92 billion, probably the 20th largest in the world. Last year, Korea's GNP rose to US $83.1 billion, the 22nd largest in the world, whereas in 1980, our GNP, at US $60.3 billion, ranked 31st.

In the spring of last year, I became the first Korean head of state to make an extended tour of Europe. During my official visits to four Western European countries, I clearly found that the international community was regarding Korea's stature more highly than we ourselves, not only because Seoul is going to host the 1988 Olympics but also because it has grown so much in overall national capabilities.

While in office, I have been visited in Seoul by as many as 60 presidents and prime ministers from 51 countries. On the other hand, I have made official visits to 15 countries, including the United States, Japan, the members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and most recently, four members of the European Community. These figures are yet another indication of our national growth and development.

Of course, we have had our share of failures and setbacks. Our citizens have also had to suffer various pains and inconveniences. However, even without international acclaim, no one can dare ignore or underrate the fact that over the past five and a half years Korea has built up its national power and enhanced its national prestige as well as completed a strong springboard from which to leap into the ranks of the developed nations.

As an old proverb says, "Dedication can move heaven." Because all of us have worked determinedly and meticulously, we have been blessed with five consecutive bumper harvests and excellent international economic opportunities characterized by the "three lows." (Editor's note: "Three lows" refer to low energy costs, low international interest rates, and a low value of the U.S. dollar against the Japanese yen and other major world currencies.) Thus, the increases in our national fortunes are being accelerated.

As I have repeatedly emphasized in the past, we now stand at a crossroads of national history leading either to further progress or to a retrogression. The transition of a country from a semideveloped one to a developed one tends to be characterized by soaring expectations on the part of its people.

A journey along the path of transition is thus bound to be as bumpy and noisy as a ride along a gravel road. And yet, we are faced with a series of major national tasks that must be accomplished in the coming two to three years. Our success or failure in these tasks will definitively determine whether or not we will be able to sail into the developed world or not. They include the 1986 Asian Games, which is only about 40 days away, the Seoul Olympic Games in 1988, and the nation's first-ever peaceful transition of power scheduled also for 1988.

I can tell you, with a sense of pride, that I have dedicated my all, body and soul, to the cause of the Republic and, with integrity and earnestness, have been doing my very best to run the government. I will continue to exert all my energies to properly discharge my duties during the rest of my term of office. I will never seek popularity in conducting state affairs simply because my term is nearing its end. In fact, I will preside even more stringently over the national administration.

To be more specific, I am determined to do everything in my power to root democracy in Korean soil, to successfully carry out the major national tasks at hand, and to ensure national security and survival. In that way, I hope to bring my tenure to a worthy conclusion. My ardent wish is to make sufficient contributions toward developing the Republic into an economically advanced democracy to merit appreciation by my posterity.

My conviction is that the wheels of history always turn forward and can never be reversed.

Having been given the perfect opportunity to race forward that we have before us today, we must never skid backwards into the kind of bad habits, confusion and strife that marked our past.

As I have repeatedly emphasized, the track for advancement is labeled stability. We cannot tolerate any breach of law, order and stability that will dash the aspirations of the people and obstruct the attainment of national goals. Accordingly, my administration will strictly maintain law and order and strive harder to promote social discipline. I want to make it clear that the seeds of leftist violence will be resolutely eradicated and that stern action will be taken against public officials who indulge in do-nothingism or who commit improprieties.

I am closely examining mounting demands for various changes and reforms as our society continues to develop and grow more and more complex. In light of such a state of affairs, I want to cope with rising expectations and friction by implementing progressive social welfare policies, while at the same time pursuing sustained growth. In addition, I intend to continue to promote private initiative and openness in all areas of national life. In the field of politics, the government will do everything it can to maintain and foster an atmosphere conducive to dialogue and compromise.

Key to the success of such endeavors is cooperation by those in leading social positions with the government policy of promoting frugality, diligence and a spirit of civic service, thereby creating a climate conducive to trust and harmony.

Constitutional Revision

QUESTION 2: With the general public intensely watching, the majority and minority parties are about to enter into earnest negotiations to work out a bill amending the Constitution. Would Your Excellency please disclose your ideas as to the preferred timing and characteristics of the proposed constitutional revision?

ANSWER: Before discussing constitutional issues, I'd like first to explain my thinking as to the cultivation of democracy in this land.

For the 40 years since liberation, everybody has paid lip service to democracy. And yet, not a single peaceful transfer of power has been accomplished. The abuse of power to perpetuate one-man rule provoked severe reactions. The consequent extreme confrontation led to social chaos, which in turn caused economic stagnation and widespread unemployment, and eventually a national crisis. Thereupon, the goverment resorted to force to restore stability, but only at the cost of disruptions in constitutional government. Our constitutional history has been marked by this kind of vicious circle. Such a phenomenon, common to politically underdeveloped countries, must be fully dispelled if democracy is to prevail.

The Constitution of the Fifth Republic bans the reelection of a president beyond a single seven-year term with the aim of preventing the vicious circle I have just noted. Moreover, the present Constitution provides for additional safeguards against prolonged one-man rule by stipulating that any amendment to the clause governing the presidential tenure shall not apply to the president in office at the time of the amendment.

My unswerving determination is to abide by the provision for a single seven-year term and thus achieve a peaceful change of government so that genuine democracy can take hold in this land. Above all, a tradition must be established whereby the government leader stricly honors the prescribed term of office and transfers the reins of power peacefully to his elected successor if democracy is to be properly planted and fostered in this land.

Throughout history, whether in the East or in the West, it seems that it has not been as easy and simple as is generally thought for the leader of a country to voluntarily part with power and transfer it to another peacefully. Just as a devoutly religious person may be tempted by Satan at times, I too, can be similarly tempted at times. However, I always bear in mind that unless I completely rid myself of personal ambitions, it will not be possible to end for good the vicious cycle of confrontation and confusion revolving around prolonged one-man rule.

When I narrowly escaped death in the terrorist bombing in Rangoon in October 1983, I deeply thought about what heaven meant when it spared my life. While hurriedly flying back home, I was gripped by boiling anger and fathomless sorrow as I thought about the many things involved or related to the terrible incident. And yet, I clearly sensed that heaven gave me a mission to prevent war in our land, to reduce the people's suffering and to root genuine democracy into Korean soil, and that it also gave me a chance to carry out the mission.

I am grateful for having been given that chance. I can say that with a determination akin to religious conviction, I have been doing all I can to make good use of the chance I have been given.

NA Negotiations

QUESTION 3: It is felt that the outcome of the ruling party-opposition talks on amending the Constitution is hard to predict. How do you think the issue should be resolved in case an accord is not reached during the current National Assembly negotiations?

ANSWER: I think it is not proper to refer to a possible deadlock at a time when in the National Assembly the majority and minority parties have just entered into full-dress discussions on how to amend the Constitution. Of course, political views of the government party and the opposition cannot always be in accord and their interests at times conflict with each other's.

I believe, however, that if only both political camps would abandon the pursuit of self-interest and look far ahead to the future of the nation in dealing with the issue of how to revise the Constitution, they will not fail to work out an agreed amendment proposal that will live up to public expectations. Aren't dialogue and compromise basic to democracy?

Should any side turn its back on the principle of compromise and accommodation and insist on ramming through an amendment proposal based on its unilateral partisan strategy, it would not be able to avoid public questioning and rebuke, as well as taking responsibility before history. Today, I want to emphasize to you esteemed journalists that the news media should also lead public opinion in a fair fashion and help the government party and the opposition reach sound agreements. Let's all watch the negotiations to revise the Constitution with high expectations.

Successor Issue

QUESTION 4: Nowadays, the general public is showing an increasing interest in who will be nominated as successor to the president. What kind of person does Your Excellency, in the capacity of president of the Democratic Justice Party (DJP), think will be the best candidate for the presidency? Also, please let us know when the DJK will choose its presidential candidate.

ANSWER: I am not sure "successor" is the right term.

At any rate, he ought to be an outstanding person qualified to be the national leader. Any member of the DJP who is legally qualified can run for party candidate. It is essential, however, that the candidate be a person trusted by the general public and respected by his party colleagues. Through my experience of nearly six years in office, I have come to believe that good health is also a very important factor. In view of the peculiar situation enveloping the Republic, a presidential candidate should be a person capable of astutely and resolutely dealing with the difficult and grave matters that constantly confront the nation, shouldn't he?

When a bill amending the Constitution is prepared by the National Assembly, the nation's political timetable will take a more concrete form. Clearer answers can then be provided to all current questions, I think.

QUESTION 5: Much talk is going around in the political community these days as to a possible reshuffling of the Cabinet and the DJP leadership. Do you intend to effect such a reorganization shortly?

ANSWER: In truth, I do not believe in changing personnel frequently. If workers are changed, the office atmosphere may be temporarily improved. On the other hand, the consistency of work is undermined and the efficiency of administration of government tends to go down. Such problems cannot be ignored.

It is of course appropriate to reorganize the government and the government party, if and when a new situation demands new people. This kind of reorganization is an indispensable ingredient of statecraft for coping with changing circumstances.

Several points must be taken into consideration in planning a reshuffle of the Cabinet and the government party. First, it is necessary to examine the contemplated reorganization to determine if it would be conducive to responsible government and responsible politics. It is my conviction that worthy politicians and public officials are those who know how to take responsibility. Next, it should be determined whether or not a reshuffle is needed to enhance administrative efficiency and cooperation between the government and the government party. Last, it is also necessary to assess whether or not a planned reshuffle will renovate the administration and engender a new social atmosphere.

The reshuffling of the Cabinet and the DJP leadership in the past has been effected with those principles in mind. Future reshuffles will be carried out in a similar fashion on the right occasions.

Local Autonomy

QUESTION 6: It is understood that the government plans to begin implementing next year a system of local autonomy on a phased basis. What does your Excellency think regarding the plans for local autonomy?

ANSWER: Local autonomy is often called the training ground for democracy or the root of democracy. It is only common sense that local autonomy must be put into practice if democracy is to thrive.

That is why the Constitution of the Fifth Republic expressly provides for local autonomy. To translate that provision into action, a government commission was set up to study how to best formulate and implement a system of local autonomy. The commission has since substantially researched and studied the matter.

With the intent of dutifully honoring the local autonomy clause of the Constitution, I instructed the Cabinet and the majority party to work harder to expedite the introduction of local autonomy.

Since its birth, the Fifth Republic has steadily promoted private initiative, deregulation and openness. The general assessment is that local residents have now developed a considerably strong spirit of self-government with which to solve the problems of their communities on their own.

Since substantial groundwork has thus been laid for local autonomy, the government is going to present its final legislative proposal soon after taking the results of a series of public hearings into account.

The question of local autonomy, however, is closely interrelated with the final form the proposed new constitution will take. Accordingly, we should perfect local autonomy plans in a positive way, while keeping a close eye on the direction the National Assembly is taking in dealing with the constitutional issues.

Radical Inclinations

QUESTION 7: The public has recently been shocked by violent manifestations of radical inclinations on the part of some extreme leftist students and hardline dissident groups. Mr. President, what do you think about such phenomena occurring in some segments of society?

ANSWER: It is true that as Korean society is being permeated with an atmosphere conducive to private initiative, self-government and openness, social discipline is growing somewhat lax. Particularly worrisome is the fact that radical, violence-oriented leftist groups have surfaced. Parroting North Korean communist slogans designed to slander and subvert the Republic of Korea, these radicals assert that our social system must be fundamentally reshaped.

They profess to seek reform through "struggles for democratization." "Democratization" in their own vocabulary means in essence nothing other than a revolution to overthrow our liberal democratic system. This is certainly a serious problem. They believe that violence and other subversive activities are justifiable means to achieve their leftist goals.

As you know well, the radicals resort to such extremes as seizing and vandalizing schools and public buildings, turning opposition rallies into violent demonstrations, and declaring certain areas "liberated districts." Moreover, they mobilize all available means to mount sophisticated disinformation campaigns to alienate the government from the general public. Although their numbers are small, we cannot take them lightly because of their extreme claims and actions.

Some seem to show an understanding of the issue by saying that only now we, too, are experiencing what developed countries have already gone through or that this is a transitory problem that inevitably crops up in the course of national development.

In many aspects, our own situation is vastly different from that of the developed countries. First, we are faced with tenacious campaigns of agitation and sabotage by the North Korean communist regime which is constantly looking for an opportunity to communize the south.

In light of our bitter experiences in the past, it can only be concluded that we cannot resolve the problem of the current bouts of radicalism simply by taking measures to eliminate flaws in our present social and economic systems. To us, pro-communist radicalism is not an abstract theory or a temporary ailment of society; it is a challenge to our national security and survival.

That is why we cannot cope with this problem through a vague kind of paternalism which maintains that we must tolerate criticism and resistance if we are to practice democracy. Even if those affected by leftist ideologies may be young people still in their formative age or men of learning, we cannot tolerate their rejection and repudiation of the liberal democratic system.

Of course we must recognize the fact that young people, including college students, are generally more idealistic and critical than the older generation of citizens. It may also be natural that young people, who are very sensitive because of their age, are at times easily swept into action to resist the status quo out of a pure sense of justice.

That is why the government intends to make even greater efforts to properly guide and reorient those students who have only temporarily turned sympathetic to radical leftist ideology or the theory of violent revolution. In so doing, the government will put itself in the position of their parents and siblings. At the same time, it is necessary to listen to and accommodate young people's sound criticisms and constructive suggestions for national development, if they have any.

However, the extremely indoctrinated hardcore radicals, habitual masterminds of violent demonstrations, and others who are beyond guidance will have to be removed from the campuses and society in accordance with the law. The government will take thorough action to prevent radical actions by those who are intent on undermining the foundations of the Republic by polluting the campuses and destabilizing society.

If we are to defend national integrity and the liberal democratic system, I believe that all citizens should cooperate with the government in countering anti-state, pro-Communist ideologies espoused by the radicals. In particular, I want to take this occasion to ask school administrators, professors, students and parents to act more positively to banish extreme leftist ideologies favoring violence from our campuses.

It is especially important for professors and students who are the masters of the campuses to endeavor harder to prevent a handful of students from further damaging the hallowed institutions of learning by their radical claims and actions. It is my conviction that if only the professors and students would muster sufficient courage to actively advise, remonstrate, rebuke and persuade misguided leftist students, our campuses will be able to fulfill their intrinsic educational and research functions.

Nowadays, the nations of the world are waging fierce competition to boost their living standards and welfare. In this state of affairs, how are the students of other countries conducting themselves? Needless to say, they are single-mindedly devoting themselves to studying and preparing for their future careers.

Regarding the problems of leftist radicalism in our country, I want to stress yet another important point: We can never tolerate violence and other unlawful acts that will destabilize the nation and society, no matter in what name, ism or cause they are committed -- whether in quest of constitutional change or "democratization." To safeguard national survival and security, I renew my pledge to sternly and resolutely deal with such acts by invoking all the powers vested in the office of the president under the Constitution.

QUESTION 8: As the Korean economy continues to grow under conditions of stability, demands for greater social welfare and a more equitable distribution of income are mounting. Concern about the low-income citizens, including low-paid workers, is also increasing. What policies are being readied to come to grips with such problems?

ANSWER: The ultimate reason why we all work so hard at our jobs is, I think, that we want to enhance the welfare of all citizens. When we speak of welfare, some may impatiently expect to have the Western European level of welfare. However, with our economic capabilities limited by a per capital GNP of only US$2,000, it is impossible to attain the level of welfare obtained by the most economically advanced nations in a short time.

As I told you earlier, around the time of the advent of the Fifth Republic, the Korean economy was experiencing truly severe difficulties. Many were unemployed. Many sick people could not afford medical treatment. Furthermore, we were faced with numerous urgent tasks that had to be carried out if the basic needs of the population were to be satisfied. Such tasks included the improvement and expansion of housing, waterworks, sewerage and education facilities.

Even those who were fortunate enough to have jobs saw their hard-earned wages continuously diminishing in real value because of rampant inflation. On the other hand, property owners, especially those engaging in real estate speculation, were able to greatly boost their incomes. Thus, the rich grew richer, while the poor grew poorer. In particular, rising real estate prices due to speculative activities made it increasingly more difficult to realize the dreams of lower-income people to own their own homes.

Under such circumstances, our top-priority task was to arrest inflation and to revive and promote our economic viability and vitality. What else could be more urgent for those who must find jobs to earn a living? Accordingly, to enhance public welfare, it was imperative to boost employment. At the same time, I adopted a vigorous policy of price stabilization with the goal of eliminating the greatest factor in the economic gap between the rich and the poor.

I have always been chagrined by the fact that, owing to the government's limited financial resources, it has not been possible to implement sufficient welfare programs for our citizens. I am well aware that a considerable number of my fellow citizens who are not yet eligible for national medical insurance have to suffer great hardships when they become ill. This is why the medical insurance system has been expanded to increase the number of people covered to 22.8 million, more than double the figure obtained five years ago. However, it is still difficult to extend medical insurance to all citizens because our economic resources, medical facilities, and medical personnel are still limited.

Because all citizens have endured hardships and have worked hard in unison, we are now able to steadily maintain price stability and robust economic growth. I believe, therefore, that conditions are ripening for a more vigorous public welfare policy.

In the future, even greater efforts will be made to help farmers, fishermen and low income urban inhabitants improve their economic lot. The goal is to make rural areas better places to live, while enabling those of low income to join the middle class.

At the same time, even greater attention will be paid to the need to enable all citizens to benefit from modern medicine regardless of their income levels. I have already instructed the government, party, and the administration to work out plans to attain that goal by 1989 at the latest. Details of the plans will be announced shortly.

Plans are also being made to have a law enacted so that a minimum wage system can go into effect by 1988 at the latest. At the same time, a comprehensive package of policies is being developed with the aim of improving the economic status of the urban poor more rapidly. Since the elderly population is now increasing rapidly, it has become urgent to introduce a national pension system to help provide for senior citizens.

Actually, a law was enacted in 1974 to set up a national pension system but its implementation was frustrated by wild inflation. That was because the real value of money that would be placed in the pension fund would have been halved in only three to four years since inflation was running at an annual rate of 20 percent. Accordingly, it made little sense to save money for use 20 to 30 years later. But now that prices are stable and the economy is strong, it should be possible to put a national pension fund into operation by 1988 at the latest.

As the economy is expected to grow steadily with little inflation in the future, the implementation of these welfare and economic assistance programs for lower-income citizens and retired workers would result in a substantial improvement in income distribution in four to five years.

Inter-Korean Dialogue

QUESTION 9: Please explain the prospects for inter-Korean dialogue. Do you think there is a possibility that a meeting between the top leaders of the South and the North may take place within this year?

ANSWER: During last year, economic talks and Red Cross meetings were held between the South and the North, leading to active dialogue. Moreover, home visiting groups were exchanged for the first time since the country was divided. A group from the South visited Pyongyang, and a group from the North traveled to Seoul for reunions with relatives from whom they had long been separated by the territorial partitioning.

And yet, in January this year, North Korea unilaterally canceled all agreed meetings, using the annual Team Spirit military exercise as a pretext. Despite our repeated calls for a prompt resumption of inter-Korean meetings, dialogue has remained suspended for half a year and any affirmative response from Pyongyang is yet to come.

The current tension and mistrust characterizing inter-Korean relations stem from North Korea's continuing pursuit of a strategy for unification through communization of the South by military force. If North Korea is genuinely interested in easing tension and establishing peace, it should not turn its back on dialogue, it should, instead, quickly come forward to the conference table to initiate and expand all possible forms of exchanges and cooperation through constructive dialogue and thus build mutual trust. This is the only right course of action. Especially in the economic field, there is great room for mutually beneficial changes and cooperation.

Since 1981, I have repeatedly proposed a meeting between the top leaders of the South and the North. On the last Samil Independence Day (March 1), I proposed that such a meeting be held within this year. The reason why I am calling for a South-North summit conference is because this can be the surest and quickest way to achieve a breakthrough toward improved inter-Korean relations leading to unification. Once again, I urge the North to discard its past negative attitude and to expeditiously agree to hold a summit meeting at an early date, while speedily reopening the existing channels of dialogue.

I want to take this occasion to discuss our national security situation. As you know well, we have made major efforts to promote self-reliant national defense, for which our citizens have endured a heavy burden. Our own ability to deter war has thus been greatly improved.

North Korea, has, howver, been bent on arms buildup for nearly 40 years now, at the sacrifice of the living standard and welfare of its people. Accordingly, it is very difficult and time-consuming to reverse its military superiority over the South.

The coming two to three years is a crucial period during which the 1988 Seoul Olympics will be held and a peaceful change of government will take place. Furthermore, it is a period during which the Republic will reach a point where its own military strength alone will be nearly sufficient to deter North Korea's provocations.

I think anyone can see that this period is of great significance to our national security. And North Korea cannot fail to see that. Accordingly, it will be more keen than ever on mobilizing all available means to scheme against us. I am watching, with particular concern, the current moves of North Korea to rapidly expand its military links with the Soviet Union. Recently, a high Soviet military officer declared that the Soviet Pacific Navy is ready to wage joint operations with North Korea. According to expert analyses, this indicates a possibility of Soviet ground forces intervening on behalf of North Korea.

Such being the situation, we must be more alert and vigilant during the coming two to three years than we have ever been. If we pass through this period without war, North Korea will have to modify its stance in light of an enormous gap that will have developed by then between us and them in terms of overall national capabilities. If North Korea is to maintain its current socio-political system even then, it would be compelled to take considerable interest in earnest dialogue with us. This is my assessment and outlook for South-North relations.

Once more, I strongly advise North Korea to correctly grasp such broad trends and to abandon its absurd ambition to communize the South. Once again, I urge North Korea to participate in the Asian Games this year and the Seoul Olympics in 1988 and to take the path to common prosperity and the reconciliation of the entire Korean people. In addition to North Korean athletic teams' presence at the games, I also deeply desire that our compatriots in the North will join us in watching the two major international sports festivals -- one for all Asian countries and the other for the entire family of nations -- and thus share with us the honor and glory of hosting them.

Outlook for Economy

QUESTION 10: The Korean economy has been gaining new vitality since the beginning of this year, thanks largely to the phenomena of the "three lows" (low energy costs, low international interest rates and the low value of the U.S. dollar against the Japanese yen and other major world currencies). How do you assess the outlook for the Korean economy?

ANSWER: Last year, our exports were sluggish as the economic growth in the developed countries slowed and protectionist barriers rose. Furthermore, our investment activities declined. Consequently, our economic growth also slowed and unemployment increased. Thus everyone experienced hard times.

Fortunately, however, both exports and investments have been rising rapidly since the turn of this year, as we all know well. Thus, the overall domestic economy has taken an unmistakable turn for the better. It is predicted that this upswing will continue for a considerable length of time.

Exports so far this year were up more than 20 percent over the corresponding period of 1985, while the growth rate of capital investments was nearly triple that of last year. The pace of economic growth has thus been quickened and it is predicted that our gross national product will grow at least 9 percent this year, while price stability will continue. The Korean economy is thus deemed to be entering a relatively long period of steady expansion with little inflation.

In addition, a substantial surplus has been registered in the balance of payments for the firt time in our history. Korea is considered to have entered an era of continuing surpluses in its internatinal accounts this year. The general prediction is that owing to the "three lows, "the world economy will continue to grow steadily for a considerable period. Accordingly, I am confident that so long as we properly harness our economic capabilities, there won't be any major cause for worry about growth and the balance of payments in the foreseeable future.

I must point out, however, that our economy still retains many structural weaknesses. In parrticular, we must step up efforts to develop domestic substitutes for machinery and plant equipment, and their parts, components and materials for which we have been heavily dependent on imports until now. In that way, we must eliminate a major vulnerability of our industrial structure. Also we must boost the export of such products to drastically improve our pattern of foreign trade.

The sharp rise in the value of the Japanese yen affords us a perfect opportunity to foster our capital goods industry, which produces the types of products I just mentioned. Due to the appreciation of the yen, the import prices of Japanese machinery and components have abruptly jumped. Accordingly, domestic and foreign demand for such products made in Korea are expected to rise.

Fortunately, my analysis shows that we have already achieved considerable capabilities to meet that challenge. If we actively take advantage of this opportunity to nurture our capital goods industry, we will soon achieve all the necessary basic qualifications to attain an advanced economic structure. In addition, the consequent reductions in deficits in trade with Japan should help ease trade frictions with other countries.

True, many of our small and medium businesses and even some relatively large ones are still weak. Moreover, some industries are still deficit-ridden. But we have already begun to act to solve such problems and I am confident that these currently weak sectors will cease to be a major burden on our economy in the not so very distant future.

On this basis of a long-range view, I am convinced that few other countries show brighter economic prospects than Korea. In fact, these days, not only developing countries but also the world's most developed countries are competing with one another to get ahead in developing ties of economic cooperation with us. Some may think I am overly optimistic and doubt the validity of what I am saying but this is quite an objective assessment.

Question 11: Do you have anything else to say to the people?

Answer: I have told you earlier, I have reaffirmed through firsthand experiences how great and wise the Korean people are. I always taken great pride in the outstanding qualities of the Korea people. When, in 1980, the nation was hovering on the edge of collapse, my fellow citizens rose in unity to overcome the crisis; even though they were suffering from hard times caused by a combination of anixety, fear and an economic slump.

Let us all vow to unite in the great Korean spirit and to do our very best to build an advanced and unified glorious nation that the coming gererations can be proud of.

In concluding, I want to express my sincere hope that my fellow citizens will take care to stay in good health in spite of this muggy weather and will be successful in their worthy undertakings.

REACTION TO CHON PRESS CONFERENCE REPORTED

2 Kims Want Meeting

SK130052 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 13 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Opposition leaders Kim Tae-chung and Kim Yong-sam yesterday called for a meeting with President Chon Tu-hwan to discuss the current situation which they claim is in a state of crisis.

After their meeting at Kim Yong-sam's house, Kim Tae-chung told the press, "President Chon should have a dialogue with responsible (opposition) persons to remedy the situation."

They said that the presidential news conference Monday was unsatisfactory in that the Chief Executive did not present ways of tiding over the crisis.

Kim Yong-sam noted, "It is an act which makes a mockery of the general pubic that President Chon did not offer an apology for the fire of the Independence Hall whose construction was full of flaws."

As for the constitutional revision, the opposition leaders asserted that it should be based on national consensus, not only on agreements between rival parties.

"To achieve national consensus, above all, freedom of the press must be ensured and, first and foremost, political prisoners be set free," Kim Tae-chung said.

He went on that President Chon should decide on the direction of the constitutional amendment in terms of the power structure to be adopted.

"It is not a matter on which the members of the special parliamentary committee on the constitutional amendment can decide," he maintained.

Alleging that "acts of violence" by prison guards on inmates are committed frequently in jails across the nation, the two Kims vowed that they will set out a formidable struggle against such practices.

KOREA HERALD Editorial

SK120140 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 12 Aug 86 p 4

[Editorial: "President Chon Charts Orderly Democratic Course"]

[Text] The news conference of President Chon Tu-hwan yesterday afforded a timely occasion for clarifying his personal political philosophy and the aims of the Fifth Republic administration when the nation is about to enter a crucial phase of change and development.

Lucid recapitulation of the guidelines he has been pursuing reaffirmed a strong commitment to the politics of dialogue and consensus and to orderly political development through peaceful transfer of power according to due process of law.

The position taken by President Chon was so explicit and straightforward that it left no room for doubt even for those few die-hard skeptics and critics.

The chief executive left all options open with regard to the proposed revision of the Constitution and the selection of his successor up to the free choice of the people and the Democratic Justice Party colleagues.

The fifth nationally televised interview with media representatives since his inauguration reviewed the five and a half years of his government and set forth the ideas and plans with which he will steer the country for the remainder of his term of office against the heavy odds.

We fully agree to the fair assessment of remarkable improvement of the social and economic conditions at home since the critical days in late 1979 and early 1980 when the turmoil and confusion were at their worst. Runaway inflation has since been arrested; production and trade perked up to put the ailing national economy on a viable foundation.

By far the greater accomplishment of President Chon and the brighter prospect it presents for the future of Korean democracy are the tradition he seeks to establish of regular and pacific change of government true to the wishes of the electorate and accommodation between contending political forces for the general good. President Chon already set a precedent of holding frequent personal talks with opposition party leaders in an effort to create a political milieu favorable for effective communication and rational bargaining, apart from short-range partisan gains. This importance of dialogue and compromise was reiterated yesterday in a call for a consensus version of the constitutional amendment now being worked out.

As a democratic leader it is natural for him to let the ruling party assume the initiative in grooming and choosing its next leader, instead of insinuating his personal favorite. It was made evident that President Chon looks forward to the spontaneous emergence of the future presidential candidate from among men of high calibre in the majority party.

The nation was told the pending introduction of local self-government would be effected in the immediate future with reference to the change in the basic law as the two are closely related. The president expressed his desire to see both the constitutional revision and local autonomy out with no further delay once the preparations are made.

We were reassured by his promise to insure a stable social environment in which every citizen can attend to his or her own daily pursuits without a hitch. President Chon expressed his confidence in the strength of the government to safeguard domestic tranquility and peace.

As the president pointed out, the nation cannot afford to condone the rampancy of some misguided leftist radicals, mostly student activists, to disturb social order and undermine the free institutions of this republic under various disguise and pretext.

The package of welfare programs he presented, including the extension of medical insurance, old-age pension and minimum wage system before the end of the 80s is ambitious enough. If financially feasible, their implementation will add decisively to the policy of reducing income disparity and helping the populace make a secure living.

N.-S. PARLIAMENTARY TALKS DELEGATE

SK130335 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 0200 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Kwon Chong-tal, senior delegate of our side to the North-South parliamentary talks today commented on the talks.

He stressed that if the North Korean side truly wants to alleviate the tension prevailing between the North and South, and if it truly wants national reconciliation and peaceful reunification of the country, it should renounce its unwarranted attitude of unilaterally abrogating agreements and avoiding dialogue by coming up with preconditions for dialogue and it should respond to our proposal for the resumption of dialogue.

Saying this in a statement issued this morning on the North Korean side's failure to respond to our side's 11 July proposal to hold the third preliminary contact for North-South parliamentary talks at Panmunjom at 1000 today, senior delegate Kwon Chong-tal again urged the North Korean side to come to the third preliminary contact for North-South parliamentary talks at the earliest possible date.

Saying that it is very regretful that the North Korean side, which has unilaterally postponed the preliminary contacts indefinitely, has failed to respond to our side's 11 July proposal for more that 1 month, while showing insincere and inconsistent attitudes resulting in failure to resume contact, senior delegate Kwon Chong-tal stressed that it is a self-contradiction for the North Korean side, which proposed the preliminary contacts for North-South parliamentary talks first, to block the road toward North-South parliamentary talks with unwarranted preconditions.

Indicating that the North Korean side has unilaterally suspended the third preliminary contact for North-South parliamentary talks, which was agreed upon at Panmunjon on 18 February, and other talks such as Red Cross talks and economic talks under the pretext of the "Team Spirit" exercise, and that since then, the North Korean side has continuously turned down our side's repeated proposals for resuming dialogue, senior delegate Kwon said that the North Korean side has refused to hold dialogue by coming up with new preconditions -- such as military talks, after the "Team Spirit" exercise, and recently abolition of the ROK's anticommunist policy and suspension of repression against the struggle for democracy in South Korea.

Indicating that such assertions by the North Korean side are far-fetched ones which cannot convince anyone and that they are designed to destroy North-South dialogue, senior delegate Kwon said: We cannot but express deep concern over the fact that while talking about national reconciliation and the alleviation of tension, the North Korean side is in fact trying to further create distrust and aggravate tension between the North and South by obstructing the resumption of dialogue and its progress.

He said: We are looking forward to peace on the Korean peninsula and national reconciliation and hope that peaceful reunification of the country can be achieved at the earliest possible date. Therefore, the North Korean side should renounce its unwarranted attitude of slandering the internal affairs of its partner in dialogue and should respond to our demand for the resumption of dialogue.

REPORTAGE ON POSSIBLE CABINET RESHUFFLE

DJP Chairman Comments

SK120745 Seoul YONHAP in English 0723 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 12 (YONHAP) -- No Tae-u, chairman of the ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP), said Tuesday that it is up to the president to decide when to reshuffle the cabinet and DJP leadership. He told reporters that President Chon Tu-hwan made it clear that a personnel change in the cabinet and the ruling party's hierarchy will take place when it is considered necessary.

Asked about his meeting Monday with Chon after the president's annual press conference, No said that "an appropriate decision concerning the reshuffle will be made by the president, who has a thorough grasp of such principles as responsible politics and responsible government." He was referring to the responsibility for current issues, including the recent Independence Hall fire, which dampened the social and political atmosphere in Korea.

No also said that Chon will not ignore the problems facing all citizens, indicating that a major shakeup related to current situation will take place some time in the future.

THE KOREA HERALD COMMENTS

SK130039 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 13 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] A reshuffle is not likely in the cabinet or the ruling Democratic Justice Party leadership at least for the time being. Political sources said yesterday moves are under way to postpone the envisaged shakeup possibly until after the Asia Games that will be held in Seoul Sept. 20-Oct. 5. Previous news reports speculated a reshuffle will soon be effected to resolve the aftermath of the Independence Hall fire Aug. 4 and other major incidents.

The sources said the postponement of a shakeup might have been discussed during Monday's exclusive meeting between President Chon Tu-hwan and DJP chairman No Tae-u.

They said the government and the ruling party obviously have concluded political stability is more important than anything else in leading national politics. The ruling camp believes any hasty reorganization in the cabinet and the DJP will not be conducive to promoting political stability, the sources said.

Referring to his meeting with Chon Monday, No told reporters it would be impolite to ask the President to reorganize the government and the government party at a specific time. "It is completely up to the President to determine the timing for a personnel change," he said. Political sources interpreted No's remark as meaning a shakeup will not be effected soon.

The sources said they have got an impression that some changes are coming to the current political modus operandi in which the ruling DJP is playing a pivotal role in leading national politics. They said the DJP's role is expected to be modified so as to preclude a possible erosion of President Chon's leadership in the second half of his single seven-year term.

Meanwhile, political observers did not rule out the possibility that a shakeup will be made in the cabinet and the ruling DJP hierarchy in the near future. The observers based their prediction on the fact that President Chon stressed the need for responsible politics and responsible administration. They pointed to a recent series of incidents including the Independence Hall fire, which calls for certain government officials to assume responsibility.

They said it will be determined by the end of this week whether President Chon will reshuffle the cabinet and the DJP leadership soon. If a shakeup is not made in a week or so, it is most likely to be put off until after the Asian Games, they said.

OPPOSITION'S 2 KIMS COMMENT ON DOMESTIC ISSUES

SK120734 Seoul KYONGHYANG SINMUN in Korean 9 Aug 86 p 3

[From the Column "Reporter's Bench"]

[Text] On 9 August, referring to the tear gas incident involving the Home Affairs Committee of the National Assembly, NKDP adviser Kim Yong-sam said: I was the first and only lawmaker suggested for disciplinary dismissal from the National Assembly in the past. It does not matter even if lawmker Kim Tong-chu is submitted for disciplinary punishment at the Assembly for the tear gas incident. I am not interested in such a small incident, wich took place accidently. The [ruling party] should follow the main righteous road politically when we are making efforts for constitutional revision.

Thus, he hinted that he did not want to discuss the incident further with his party.

Kim Yong-sam said: The fire incident at Indpendence Hall was so serious that the present cabinet should tender en masse their resignations, assuming responsibility for the incident. To call for the cabinet resignation, an extraordinary National Asembly should be convened. We will strongly call for convening an extraordinary National Assembly session regardless of the possible opposition of the DJP to this call.

Referring to operation of the Special National Assembly Committee for Constitutional Revision, which now faces a difficult situation, Kim Yong-sam said: We will strongly push for the release of detainees and reinstatement of those concerned before the issue of constitutional revision. Finally, Kim Yong-sam said: We will patiently do our best at the Special Committee for Constitutional Revision until the end of September. I believe that matters will be easily resolved once we are firmly determined to resolve them.

DJP REQUESTS NKDP LAWMAKER BE DISCIPLINED

SK100019 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 10 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The ruling Democratic Justice Party formally requested the National Assembly yesterday to take disciplinary action against an opposition lawmaker, who hurled a tear gas-covered jacket at the chairman of the Home Affairs Committee while it was in session Thursday.

A written request for the reprimand of Rep. Kim Tong-chu of the New Korea Democratic Party was submitted to Speaker Yi Chae-hyong in the name of 24 DJP lawmakers. In a written request, the DJP claimed that Kim should be punished because he defamed the dignity of the Assembly, disturbed the operation of the panel session in violation of the Assembly Law provisions.

The Assembly Law provides that such a written request shall be reported to the plenary session by the speaker, and the plenary session shall determine whether to refer it to the Legislation-Judiciary Committee. If the plenary session decides to turn it over to the committee, the committee will deliberate on it and will choose what disciplinary measures should be taken. Then, the decision of the panel will be turned back to the plenary session, which will act on it without debate.

Disciplinary measures, according to the law, include expulsion and warnings, open apology and suspension or attendance in the House sessions for a maximum of 30 days.

The DJP's hawkish action against Kim's violent act immediately followed the NKDP's refusal to accept the DJP demand that Kim make an open apology and the NKDP work out plans to prevent the recurrence of a similar incident. The DJP made the demand in the floor leaders' meeting held twice after the incident took place to discuss how to cope with it.

But, NKDP's floor leader Kim Tong-yong flatly rejected the DJP's request, recalling that he already expressed "deep regrets" over the incident, which broke out "by chance."

The DJP decided to file the written request in a meeting of its floor strategy committee, composed of the floor leader, deputy floor leaders, and chairman of 13 standing committees, held yesterday morning. Floor leader Yi Se-ki said, "We made such a decision, taking a serious view of a fact that a lawmaker indicted for his violent acts on the floor committed another act of violence at a House session."

Kim was prosecuted on suspicion of having committed violent acts at the Assembly last year along with six other NKDP lawmakers in the course of protesting the DJP's unilateral passage of this year's budget bill.

Yi said: "We are also considering excluding Kim from the list of NKDP lawmakers whose indictment is expected to be dropped in the near future."

NKDP whip Kim alleged that the DJP's demand for an "open pledge" to prevent the recurrence of such "floor violence" is meant to fetter the floor activities by the NKDP lawmakers. Meeting reporters at the NKDP headquarters, Kim said: "I think it sufficient for me, as floor leader, to express regret over it. The DJP should have a flexible attitude in regard to the issue."

Rep. Kim Tong-chu said clearly that he has no intention to apologize for what he did and that he does not care about whatever disciplinary action is taken against him.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST NKDP LAWMAKERS DROPPED

SK130536 Seoul YONHAP in English 0520 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 13 (YONHAP) -- The Seoul district prosecutors office Wednesday dismissed indictments against six opposition lawmakers, charged with violence in the National Assembly last December. The six lawmakers -- all from the opposition New Korea Democratic Party (NKDP) -- are Sin Sun-pom, Chang Ki-uk, Yi Chol, Kim Chung-kil, Kim Yong-pae and Kim Tae-yong. They were indicted without physical detention late last year for their alleged violence in the National Assembly while protesting the unilateral passage of the 1986 budget bill by the ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP).

The prosecution, however, did not withdraw the indictment for another NKDP lawmaker, Kim Tong-chu, who recently raised a political issue by throwing a tear gas-coated jacket to a house panel chairman during the Home Affairs Committee meeting.

Chong Ku-yong, chief of the Seoul district prosecutor's office, said the prosecution dropped indictments against the six lawmakers in support of an atmosphere for grand reconciliation between rival political parties. Chong said that the leaders of the ruling and opposition parties had agreed to settle the case and that the house speaker appealed to the administration to deal with it in "a satisfactory manner." He said that the charge against Rep. Kim Tong-chu was not dropped because he created a problem by committing violence in the Home Affairs Committee.

After the DJP passed the budget bill in the absence of NKDP lawmakers, the opposition party reacted with acts of physical violence. Seven lawmakers and four aides were indicted and No and nine others were booked on charges of violence. The NKDP had refused to participate in the passage of the budget bill, demanding that it be preceded by the formation of a special committee on the constitutional revision.

DJP FINALIZES CONSTITUTION AMENDMENT DRAFT

SK130222 Seoul YONHAP in English 0209 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 13 (YONHAP) -- South Korea's ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP) has finalized its draft amendment to the Constitution, calling for a strong premiership empowered to control the Armed Forces and to proclaim martial law. Under the draft, the prime minister would be elected by the National Assembly without prior nomination by the president. The president would be elected by the parliament and would serve as a symbolic head of state with ceremonial powers, according to the DJP draft, which was worked out by a six-member task force entrusted to formulate the government party's version of the draft constitution.

In addition to his power as chief executive, the draft continued, the prime minister would be able to appoint cabinet members and government officials and to submit bills to the National Assembly. The DJP's draft, based on a parliamentary cabinet system would also enable the prime minister to disband the unicameral National Assembly. On the other hand, the draft would allow votes of nonconfidence by the parliament against the cabinet. To help prevent political instability, the proposed revision would require both the prime minister and the National Assembly to refrain from exercising that power for the first two years after their formation. If the parliament passes a vote of nonconfidence against the cabinet, a new prime minister woud have to be elected before disbandment of the incumbent cabinet, according to the DJP draft. Although the draft did not recognize the four-year-term parliament's right to "inspect" the administration, it paved the way for the implementation of its authority to "investigate" the national administration in order to strengthen the parliament's check against the administration.

Under the draft, the chief justice and the Supreme Court justices would be apointed upon recommendation by the prime minister and with the consent of the National Assembly. The president would formally appoint them, however.

The draft would set the presidential term at five years and would allow the president to serve two consecutive terms. It did not mention the matter of a president's partisan affiliation, but specified that if a lawmaker is elected to the presidency, he would have to resign immediately from the National Assembly.

The DJP plans to submit the version to the National Assembly's special constitutional revision committee late this month or early next month.

VOK REPORTS SIHANOUK VISIT TO CGDK ZONE

BK110824 (Clandestine) Voice of the Khmer in Cambodian 0500 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Samdech Norodom Sihanouk president of the CGDK and chairman of the National United Front for an Indpedent, Neutral, Peaceful, and Cooperative Cambodia [FUNCINPEC], arrived for a visit in the zone controlled by the CGDK yesterday to receive credentials from the new Malaysian ambassador to the CGDK. The credential presentation ceremony was held in front of many foreign correspondents at the General Staff headquarters of the Sihanoukist National Army [ANS]. Representatives of the three CGDK factions were also present. Attending this ceremony from the three factions were, on the Democratic Kampuchean side, Khieu Samphan, Son Sen, and Pich Bunret; on the KPNLF side were General Sak Sutsakhan, Im Chhudet, Bun Say, Son Soubert, and Peang-Meth Gaffar; on the FUNCINPEC side were Prince Norodom Rannairt and a number of other personalities. At the ceremony, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk said:

This is the first great success, seeing the three factions of the CGDK together at this credential presentation ceremony. This clearly shows the closer unity of the three CGDK factions. The prince added that the Cambodian problem has been caused by the aggressor Vietnamese communists who want to colonize Cambodia: We will not allow Vietnam to fulfill its aggressive design against Cambodia. We pledge to unite closely and fight against the Vietnamese as a single body waging the struggle without discriminating against any faction, as members of the same family, as fellow Cambodians, and as common fighters against Vietnamese enemy aggressors, forcing them to agree to negotiate for the peaceful settlement of the Cambodian problem.

Samdech went on to say that during the last dry season, the Vietnamese forces attacked the bases of the CGDK forces along the Cambodian-Thai border. However, this year they could not attack our CGDK forces which have their bases along the border and several smaller bases deep inside Cambodia and they have closely coordinated actions among themselves in attacks against various Vietnamese bases. The Voice of the Khmer correspondent also reported that Bakri Aiyub Ghazali, Malaysian ambassador to Cambodia, said that the Malaysian Government continues to give full support to the CGDK in the search for a settlement of the Cambodian problem to restore full sovereignty to the Cambodian people. He went on to say that Malaysia would closely cooperate with the other ASEAN countries in efforts to end the Cambodian problem.

The correspondent also reported that Samdech Norodom Sihanouk warmly thanked the ambassador as well as the Government of Malaysia for supporting the just cause of the CGDK in attacking the Vietnamese aggressor troops. He stressed that in his name as the president of the CGDK, he would continue the struggle until Cambodia is won back from the Vietnamese. The reporter noted that after the credentials presenting ceremony, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk visited Heng Samrin soldiers who had just defected to the side of the ANS.

VONADK Reports on Visit

BK120303 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] On 10 August, Samdech Sihanouk received credentials from His Excellency Bakri Aiyub Ghazali, ambassador of Malaysia.

The ceremony was solemnly held at a base of the ANS inside Cambodia with the participation of various representatives from the three parties of the CGDK and went on in an atmosphere of unity and grandeur before many reporters representing various foreign papers and television networks.

At the occasion, the Malaysian ambassador affirmed once again the unchanging support and assistance of the Malaysian Government for the Cambodian people's struggle under the CGDK leadership. The samdech president of Democratic Kampuchea once again expressed gratitude to Malaysia and all the ASEAN countries for providing support and assistance for the Cambodian people's struggle under the CGDK leadership and for their successive efforts for a political solution to the Cambodian issue.

Following the presentation ceremony, the samdech outlined the progress of the CGDK's unity. Furthermore, the samdech said that no Cambodian nationalist is willing to be a Vietnamese servant. As long as the Vietnamese continue to occupy Cambodia, the duty of Cambodian nationalists is to struggle, for generations if necessary.

Afterward, the samdech was happy to chat with all representatives from the CGDK's three parties. The credentials presentation ceremony was over at 1130 [0430 GMT]. His Excellency Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs; His Excellency Son Sen, commander-in-chief of the DK National Army; and ministers of the coordinating committee for national defense of the CGDK also took part in the ceremony and received warm greetings from cadres and combatants of the ANS present.

NO DK TROOP REDUCTION UNTIL SRV WITHDRAWS

BK110936 (Clandestine) Voice of the Khmer in Cambodian 0500 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Khieu Samphan, vice president of the CGDK and head of the DK faction, stated that the DK side would not reduce its fighting forces and would consider such reduction only after Vietnam withdraws its troops from Cambodia. He said that national security and defense are the most important questions that the CGDK must face. Recently, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk quoted Hu Yaobang, general secretary of the CPC, as saying that China would suggest that the DK side reduce the size of its forces to the level of the other sides of the CGDK after Vietnamese troops leave Cambodia. Khieu Samphan also affirmed that the forces of the three factions of the coalition are conducting coordinated military operations on the battlefield and can even launch attacks as deep inside the country as around Phnom Penh. He stated that more Heng Samrin soldiers have defected to the side of the CGDK.

VOK REPORTS SIHANOUK'S BANGKOK NEWS CONFERENCE

BK121245 (Clandestine) Voice of the Khmer in Cambodian 0500 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Report on CGDK President Samdech Norodom Sihanouk's 6 August press conference in Bangkok -- with portions recorded]

[Text] CGDK President Norodom Sihanouk has said that, when he met with Singapore Foreign Minister Suppiah Dhanabalan during his visit to Singapore, he and Mr Dhanabalan discussed some points relating to the settlement of the Cambodian problem. The prince said:

[Begin Sihanouk recording in English fading into Cambodian translation] We shared the same view -- Mr Dhanabalan and myself -- about the usefulness of disarming, eventually, all Cambodian factions once Vietnam agrees to withdraw all its troops from Cambodia. But it seems that Vietnam will not easily agree to withdraw its troops from my country. During our meeting in Singapore, Mr Dhanabalan and I expressed the opinion that guarantees would be given not only to Vietnam but also to the Cambodian people to ensure their full freedom to select their own political and economic system. To ensure the freedom of the Cambodian people, we should prevent the Khmer Rouge or other Cambodian factions from using their weapons to apply pressure on them. Therefore, we should support the disarming of all Cambodian factions, and we should ask the United Nations to send an international peace-keeping force to Cambodia to protect the freedom and liberty of the Cambodian people, ensure peace and stability, and enable them to rebuild their country by themselves. [end recording]

During the press conference, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk also spoke about his letter to all ASEAN foreign ministers concerning his meeting with Hu Yaobang, CPC general secretary. During the meeting, China showed greater flexibility in helping find a solution to the Cambodian problem, stated its position that the Heng Samrin regime should be allowed to join in the 4-party Cambodian coalition government and accepted that the four factions should be equal in military strength to ensure each other's security. The prince said:

[Begin Sihanouk recording in English fading into Cambodian translation] During my meeting with His Excellency Hu Yaobang, CPC general secretary, in Beijing on 3 July, we discussed the most important political issue, the future of Cambodia. In this regard, China's stand has become increasingly flexible. China now accepts the formation of a 4-party government in Cambodia. This shows that China is no longer opposed to the participation of the Heng Samrin group in a government of national reconciliation. Fruthermore, China has suggested to Democratic Kampuchea -- that is the Khmer Rouge, and the latter has certainly accepted -- that in the event of a Vietnamese withdrawal from Cambodia and a settlement of the conflict based on the United Nations resolution and 8-point proposal of the CGDK for the settlement of the Cambodian problem, the Democratic Kampuchean side must reduce the number of its forces on the battlefield so as not to threaten the other partners of the 4-party government. The Chinese authorities have also suggested that the Democratic Kampuchean strength be reduced to a par with the Sihanoukist National Army, the KPNLF, and the Heng Samrin army and that the four armies be merged into a national army of Cambodia. In my opinion, this is a new flexibility on the part of the Chinese leaders which might bear fruit one day. For now, this problem still cannot be resolved. [end recording]

The prince added that Chinese leader, Deng Xiaoping, told him that China will continue to apply military pressure on Vietnam as long as the latter maintains its troops in Cambodia. The prince added that China will be willing to give huge amounts of aid to Vietnam to rebuild its economy if the Cambodian problem is resolved and if relations between Beijing and Hanoi are normalized. The prince also said that he would not change the 8-point peace proposal on Cambodia -- the plan that the CGDK proposed at the beginning of this year. He said that any change that is useful to this proposal might be possible but he does not see any point that can be changed until Vietnam shows its flexibility and good will toward negotiation. Concerning the military situation inside Cambodia, the prince said that the Vietnamese troops are in a very difficult situation in Cambodia. He stressed that more Heng Samrin soldiers have fled to join the CGDK.

VODK COMMENTS ON KAPITSA REMARKS IN MOSCOW

BK110914 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2330 GMT 10 Aug 86

[Station correspondent: "All countries in the Asia-Pacific region continue to regard the Soviet Union as the most dangerous threat not to be overlooked"]

[Text] In a press conference held in Moscow on 6 August, after echoing Gorbachev's recent statement at Vladivostok, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Kapitsa said that whatever happened in Cambodia would not be reversed. He also voiced support for Vietnam's stand regarding the settlement of the Cambodian problem -- namely the stand of crushing the DK resistance forces so that Vietnam can swallow Cambodia up. Kapitsa's remarks clearly show that:

1. The Soviet Union rejects the CGDK's 8-point proposal for a political settlement of the Cambodian problem to restore peace in Cambodia and Southeast Asia:
2. The Soviet Union continues to help and encourage Vietnam to invade and occupy Cambodia and to implement its strategy of expansion and aggression in Southeast Asia.

Therefore, although recently Soviet leader Gorbachev used honeyed words so that public opinion believes that the Soviet Union really loves peace and wants to have good relationships with countries in Asia and the Pacific, the above-mentioned remarks by Kapitsa have clearly demonstrated to all that the Soviet Union has not given up its expansionist ambition in Asia.

The Cambodian and Afghan problems are the hottest problems in Asia and the world causing great concern to all countries in the region and to the whole international community. These two acute problems were created by the Soviet Union. In Cambodia, more than 200,000 Vietnamese troops with all-round Soviet suuport are conducting a war of aggression against Cambodia, massacring the Cambodian people in the most brutal and fascistic manner, and committing one violation after another against Thai territory, thus causing the situation in all of Southeast Asia to be permanently explosive. In Afghanistan, more than 100,000 Soviet troops are indiscriminately slaughtering the Afghan people most savagely, brutaly, and fiercely and launching air and artillery strikes against Pakistani territory adding tension to the situation in South Asi.

If the Soviet Union refuses to settle the above two problems, how can peace, security, and stability in Asia and the Pacific be restored? How can people believe that the Soviet Union, the innocent-looking state, really wants to have a good relationship with countries in Asia and the Pacific? Obviously, should these two problems remain unsolved, peace and stability cannot come to Asia and the Pacific and all countries in the region cannot regard the Soviet Union as a champion of peace sincerely wanting to have fair relations with them. They will continue to regard the Soviet Union as the most dangerous threat never to be overlooked. They will continue to support and assist the struggle of the Cambodian and Afghan peoples against the Vietnamese and Soviet aggressors and to bring pressure to bear on an denounce them until they can no longer endure it and are forced to withdraw all their aggressive forces the two countries, allowing the Cambodian and Afghan peoples to determine their own destiny without any interference from abroad in accordance with the UN resolutions.

Only by ending the war of aggression waged by Vietnam and the Soviet Union in Cambodia and Afghanistan can Asia and the Pacific enjoy peace and stability again.

VODK SCORES GORBACHEV STATEMENT ON VIETNAM ISSUE

BK120741 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2330 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Station commentary: "No Matter How Hard the Soviet Union Tries, It Cannot Cover Up Vietnam's Aggression in Cambodia"]

[Text] In a recent statement in Vladivostok, Gorbachev attempted to cover up and justify Vietnam's act of aggression in Cambodia by saying that the Cambodian issue is an internal one and should be resolved by the Cambodian people themselves. This is really ridiculous.

At present, who does not know that the Cambodian problem arises from the Hanoi Vietnamese, backed by the Soviet Union, sending troops to occupy Cambodia in an insolent and brutal manner? The fact that there are more than 200,000 aggressor troops, more than 50,000 administrative personnel, and more than 700,000 Vietnamese civilians -- more than 1 million in all -- in Cambodia is the truth the world is aware of and witnessing. Therefore, no matter how hard the Soviet Union tries to falsify or cover it up, it cannot be done. In a situation in which Vietnamese soldiers, agents, and nationals are massacring the Cambodian people, plundering and destroying cambodian people's property, maltreating Cambodian people, expelling them from their land and homes and replacing them with Vietnamese nationals, who can say that the Cambodian issue is an internal problem? How can the Cambodian people resolve the problem under the bayonets of more than 200,000 Vietnamese aggressors?

That is why during the past almost 8 years, at every international forum and at every session of the UN General Assembly, the international community has increased its voice in condemning the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors for violating the UN Charter and international law, thus creating the Cambodian issue and causing Southeast Asia and the Asia-Pacific region to lose security and stability. People have also demanded that the Soviet Union stop providing military assistance to Hanoi so that Vietnam cannot continue its aggression and occupation in Cambodia. The fact that increasing numbers of UN member countries have been voting to adopt the UN resolution calling for the withdrawal of Vietnamese aggressor forces from Cambodia shows that the international community refuses to consider the Cambodian issue an internal problem. As pointed out on 8 August by Sawanit Kongsiri, head of the Press Department of the Thai Foreign Ministry, Thailand and almost 120 members of the United Nations do not accept the Cambodian issue as an internal problem as long as Vietnamese troops are stationed in that country.

The international community clearly realizes that the Cambodian issue is one of aggression by Vietnam. No matter how hard Gorbachev tries to cover up or justify the Vietnamese act of aggression in Cambodia, he cannot do so. It is like trying to cover a dead elephant with a winnowing basket. Vietnam's aggression and occupation of Cambodia and the massacre of Cambodian people for the past almost 8 years have claimed millions of Cambodian lives; many tens of thousands more have fled abroad. These events have alarmed and moved the world. How can the Soviet Union cover them up?

To resolve the issue of Vietnam's occupation in Cambodia, the international community has firmly demanded that Vietnam unconditionally withdraw its aggressor forces from Cambodia in accordance with UN resolutions and the CGDK's 8-point peace proposal. After the withdrawal of all the more than 200,000 Vietnamese troops from Cambodia, the Cambodian people will have the right to determine their destiny through free elections in Cambodia under UN supervision.

The Cambodian people would have peace; the Cambodian issue would be automatically resolved; and Southeast Asia would also recover its security and stability. However, if Vietnamese troops are not withdrawn from Cambodia, then nothing can be resolved.

Therefore, there is no need for Gorbachev to try to cover up or justify the Hanoi Vietnamese criminal act. If the Soviet Union wants to save Vietnam or help resolve the Cambodian issue and restore peace, security, and stability to Southeast Asia, as it has claimed in its propaganda, it should pressure the Hanoi Vietnamese to accept the CGDK's 8-point proposal by unconditionally withdrawing all Vietnamese aggressor troops from Cambodia. Only this way can Vietnam and the Soviet Union avoid being exposed and condemned by the world and thus have good relations with countries in the region.

FOREIGN MINISTER OUTLINES FUTURE POLICY

BK120854 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0000 GMT 12 Aug 86

[11 August Statement by Thai Foregin Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila to newsman in Bangkok after his reappointment as foreign minister -- recorded]

[Text] It is a great honor to be reappointed foreign minister by his majesty the king. I will have Praphat Limpraphan as deputy foreign minister. My policy is to continue what was started but has not yet been completed; it is unlikely that there will be many changes. It will basically deal with the country's economic problems, particularly at a time when the world economic situation is the way it is now. The Foreign Ministry will coordinate with other ministries on this. We will not let the fact that other parties are charged with other ministries obstruct efforts to explore new markets, protect existing markets, seek new investments, increase exports, expand tourism, as well as to counter trade protectionism by whatever means suitable, and to continue to wage a struggle over sibsidies for the agricultural sector and commodities. This is the burden which Thailand and ASEAN countries are facing. We will continue to work for increased cooperation among ASEAN countries, for the ASEAN summit next year, and to establish an ASEAN market for the purpose of bargaining with our major trading partners.

As far as the political field is concerned, we will preserve friendship with our old as well as new friends, but we will be more independent in order to protect the interests of the country and the people. The biggest issue is: Where do our interests lie? And we will try to strengthen the images of the country. We will also let our friends understand that the change of government does not change our foreign policy -- there are going to be only slight changes for the better. We will try to keep the confidence our friends have in our country and to have them respect the prestige of our country more.

DEMOCRAT PARTY LEADER PHICHAI LEAVES HOSPITAL

BK111050 Bangkok BANGKOK WORLD in English 11 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Democrat Party leader Phichai Rattakun was discharged from Barungrat Hospital this morning and is resting at his Pattanakarn Road residence.

He did not attend a party meeting this morning.

Phichai was admitted to the hospital last night for bronchitis treatment.

SIHANOUK RECEIVES WARM WELCOME AT BORDER CAMP

BK120502 Bangkok THE NATION in English 12 Aug 86 p 6

[Text] After eight years of Vietnamese occupation, Kamuchea still faces a critical shortage in food, a former Heng Samrin soldier at the Site B Khmer refugee camp near the Thai-Kampuchean border yesterday.

He said a 100-kg bag of milled rice cost 2,000 baht in Kampuchea, about four times more than it costs in Thailand. "There is a bad food shortage and medical supplies are desperately needed," he said.

If true, his assessment confirms consistent reports that the Vietnamese occupation has made conditons worse in Kampuchea, not better as repeatedly claimed by the official Khmer news agency, SPK.

The soldier was one of 23 defectors from the Heng Samrin army officially welcomed to the Site B camp, also known as Greenhill, by the leader of the Khmer resistance forces, Prince Norodom Sihanouk amid scenes of patriotic fervour and colourful, carnival-like gaiety.

Thousands of the camp's estimated population of 40,000 many of them smartly-dressed children carrying placards bearing Sihanouk's picture and waving the resistance coalition flag, greeted their flamboyant leader when he arrived at the camp under heavy military security. A resistance offical said more than 4,000 troops of the Sihanouk Army (ANS) had been mobilized to ensure the exiled leader would be safe during his three-hour visit.

Sihanouk made a lap of honour of the camp in a four-wheel drive vehicle before moving on to the main compound where he walked among his people who cheered and chanted patriotic slogans. Sihanouk was visibly moved and many Khmers wept openly.

Sihanouk was blessed by senior Buddhist monks before taking his seat on the official, platform to watch a three-hour display of traditional Khmer singing and dancing and an exercise and martial arts display by Khmer youths. The display was designed to show the large contingent of Thai and foreign media representatives that the Khmer culture was alive and well and that Khmer men were fit and ready to fight against the Vietnamese.

Sihanouk made a lengthy and passionate address to the refugees, many of whom are the families of ANS guerrillas fighting against the Vietnamese inside Kampuchea. He later told reporters he had been "very touched by the affectionate welcome."

TRUONG CHINH EXCHANGES VIEWS WITH GORBACHEV

BK130355 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] On 12 August, Comrade Truong Chinh, general secretary of the CPV Central Committee and chairman of the SRV Council of State, met Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee. Comrade Gorbachev warmly congratulated Comrade Truong Ching on his election as general secretary of the CPV Central Committee and wished him many great successes in this high position. The comrade leaders of the two parties exchanged views on various aspects of the present international situation, and on the situation and prospects for the development of Vietnamese-Soviet relations.

Comrade Gorbachev spoke of the resolution of the 27th CPSU Congress which marked a completely new stage in the development of the Soviet Union. He stressed that at present the communists and all the people of the Soviet Union are doing their utmost to carry out the tasks laid down by the congress; develop their dynamism, creativity, and their persistent and firm determination; and focus their efforts on overcoming difficulties and shortcomings. The CPSU considers this a factor guaranteeing success for the on-going renovation of the country's all-round activities.

Comrade Gorbachev said what he saw in his visits to various localities, including the visit to the Soviet Far East, showed that the program of quickly accelerating the socioeconomic development put forward by the 27th Congress is a realistic one. The Soviet people understand that by their enthusiastic work, they are contributing to the consolidation of the economic and political strength of the Soviet Union and the entire socialist community.

Comrade Truong Chinh spoke of the situation in Vietnam and the preparations for the Sixth CPV Congress. The Vietnamese people, under the leadership of the CPV, have recorded notable achievements in building the material-technical bases of socialism, in developing the socialist culture, and in firmly defending their fatherland. At the same time, they are meeting a number of difficulties. Comrade Troung Chinh stressed that the Vietnamese people are resolved to surmount these difficulties and that the CPV, trying to unite closely around its Central Committee, is mobilizing the force and strengthen of the entire people, to lead the Vietnamese people firmly on the path toward socialism.

Comrade Gorbachev once again affirmed that the Soviet Union will continue to support and give every necessary assistance to the Vietnamese people in carrying out the tasks already set forth. Comrade Truong Chinh and Gorbachev noted with joy that the friendship and cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union, based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism, have increasingly consolidated and developed. The two comrades discussed new measures aimed at improving the efficiency of bilateral cooperation in the economy, trade, science, and technology. Comrades Truong Chinh and Gorbachev affirmed that Vietnam and the Soviet Union will actively take part in developing economic integration among the socialist countries and promoting scientific and technological advances.

The two general secretaries affirmed the identify of views between Vietnam and the Soviet Union in assessing the international situation, especially the basic question of war and peace, and pointed out the need to continue mobilizing all forces of peace and progress to vigorously struggle and prevent a nuclear war.

The two leaders expressed their concern over the dangerous development of the situation in the Asia-Pacific region. The two sides noted that the process of militarization and the danger of war in this region is developing dangerously. The Soviet Union and Vietnam oppose this trend in the development of the situation. The two sides reaffirmed that the interests of Vietnam and the Soviet Union will contribute to uniting the efforts of all nations in promoting cooperation, respecting the rights of nations to choose their own lifestyle and solve their own problems in a peaceful framework.

Comrade Truong Chinh fully supports the new initiatives of the Soviet Union put forth by Comrade Gorbachev in his important speech in Vladivostok aimed at normalizing the situation in the Asia-Pacific region and streering it along the common trend of advancing toward the establisnment of a world security system. The convening of an Asia-Pacific conference with the participation of all countries in the region will be an active contribution to the said trend.

Vietnam and the Soviet Union together with the fraternal Laos and Cambodia will positively struggle to turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, good neighborliness, and cooperation. Vietnam and the Soviet Union affirmed their readiness to normalize their relations with China. This is a move of important significance in making the situation in the Asia-Pacific region healthy and in consolidating world peace. Comrade Truong Chinh and Gorbachev affirmed the determination of the CPV and the CPSU to continue coordinating their activities in the international arena for the interests of peace and socialism.

Comrade Truong Chinh invited Comrade Gorbachev to pay an official visit to Vietnam. Comrade Gorbachev expressed his thanks and accepted the invitation. The date of the visit will be agreed upon through diplomatic channels.

The meeting took place in an atmosphere of complete mutual understanding and fraternal friendship.

NHAN DAN Hails Meeting

BK130622 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 12 Aug 86

[NHAN DAN 13 August editorial: "New Brilliant Manifestation of the SRV-USSR Militant Solidarity and Comprehensive Cooperation"]

[Text] A new significant event has just been marked in the political life of the fraternal peoples of Vietnam and the Soviet Union. It is the meeting between CPV General Secretary Truong Chinh and CPSU General Secretary Gorbachev. The meeting took place in an atmosphere of complete mutual understanding and fraternal friendship. The two general secretaries exchanged views on various aspects of the current international situation and on the situation and prospects for the development of Vietnamese-Soviet relations. The Vietnamese people are very happy to note the splendid success of this great, significant meeting. This is a new brilliant manifestation of the SRV-USSR tradition of militant solidarity and a new step for developing the friendship and comprehensive cooperation between the two countries.

Comrade Gorbachev informed Comrade Truong Chinh of the implementation of the resolutions of the 27th CPSU Congress, a historic conference of international significance. The Vietnamese people admire and highly value the revolutionary heroism and great achievements of the Soviet people, who through their enthusiastic labor, are contributing to consolidating the economic and political position of the Soviet Union -- bastion of peace and revolution -- while strengthening the might of the whole socialist community.

Comrade Truong Chinh informed Comrade Gorbachev of the situation in Vietnam and the present preparations for the Sixth CPV Congress. Comrade Gorbachev once agan affirmed that the Soviet Union will continue to support and provide every necessary assistance to the Vietnamese people in carrying out the tasks already set forth.

The two general secretaries noted with joy that the friendship and cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union, based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism, have increasingly been consolidated and developed. The two comrades discussed new measures aimed at promoting the efficiency of bilateral economic, trade, and scientific and technological cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union. The two comrades stressed that Vietnam and the Soviet Union will positively take part in developing economic integration among socialist countries and promoting scientific and technological advances.

The fact that Comrade Gorbachev has accepted the invitation extended by Comrade Truong Chinh for an official visit to Vietnam is great, happy news for the Vietnamese people. This event manifests the increasingly developing SRV-USSR solidarity and friendship.

The Vietnamese people express profound gratitude to the Soviet party, government, and people for their great support and valuable assistance given to the Vietnamese people's revolutionary cause. The Vietnamese people view this is as a guarantee for the success of their cause of building and defending their beloved socialist fatherland.

The exchange of views between the two comrade general secretaries once again affirmed the identity of views between the Soviet Union and Vietnam in evaluating the international situation. The two sides stressed the need to continue to motivate all the peace and progressive forces to struggle more strongly to prevent a nuclear war.

The two leaders expressed their deep and legitimate concern about the dangerous development of the situation in the Asia-Pacific region. The Soviet Union and Vietnam affirmed their determination to oppose such unfavorable development of the situation and to make their joint contributions to unifying the efforts of various countries to promote cooperation on the basis of respect for the right of nations to live in peace in accordance with their choice and to resolve by themselves their own problems.

In this regard, Comrade Truong Chinh expressed the stand of our party, government, and people to totally support the latest initiatives put forward in the very important statement of Comrade Gorbachev in Vladivostok to normalize the situation in the Asia-Pacific region, lead this region's development along the general direction toward establishing a global security system, and favor the convening of an Asia-Pacific conference with the participation of all countries in the region to achieve the above goal.

As for the Southeast Asia situation, the two leaders pointed out: Vietnam and the Soviet Union are determined to join with their faternal countries of Laos and Cambodia in struggling positively to turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, friendly neighborliness, and cooperation.

At the meeting, the two comrade general secretaries affirmed that Vietnam and the Soviet Union are ready to normalize their relations with China, regarding this as an important factor to improve the situation in the Asia-Pacific region and consolidate world peace. The two sides reaffirmed the determination of the CPSU and the CPV to continue their close cooperation in the world arena for the benefit of peace and socialism.

The fine success of the meeting between Comrade General Secretaries Truong Chinh and Gorbachev marked a new step of development with new qualities of the militant solidarity and all-round cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union for the benefit of the two peoples and the socialist community and for the sake of peace, national independence, democracy, and social progress in the world.

Constantly and thoroughly aware that maintaining the alliance with the Soviet Union is the cornerstone of the foreign policy of our party and state, our people highly value the results of the meeting between Comrade General Secretaries Truong Chinh and Gorbachev, regarding this a great source of encouragement that helps generate more strength for us to develop those achievements already gained, overcome existing difficulties, and score more new achievements in order to welcome to Sixth CPV Congress.

PHAM VAN DONG INTERVIEWED ON GORBACHEV SPEECH

OW121253 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Report on 11 August televised interview with SRV Council of Ministers Chairman Pham Van Dong By Central Television Station reporter on Gorbachev's 28 July Vladivostok speech -- place not given]

[Text] Dear friends: In one of its programs yesterday, the Central Television Station aired a televised interview with Comrade Pham Van Dong, member of the Political Bureau and chairman of the Council of Ministers, by a Central Television Station reporter, on the new Soviet peace initiatives put forward in the 28 July Vladivostok speech by Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee.

To begin with, the chairman of the Council of Ministers pointed out: The very important speech recently made in Vladivostok by Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, was directed toward the countries in the Asia-Pacific region. What should be said was already tackled in my interview with TASS. Here, I would only like to stress a number of essential points. First of all, it must be said that the new Soviet initiatives have a realistic significance for the countries in the Asia-Pacific region, large as well as small. They meet the legitimate aspirations of the countries in the region: peace, security, cooperation, and development. Therefore, so far, all people in the region and in many other countries in the world have appropriately assessed the great level of importance of these initiatives. We hope that the nations in the Asia-Pacific region will draw positive conclusions relating to their own interests and the common interests of the other nations in the region.

What should be stressed here, I think, is that we must link the recent initiatives of Comrade General Secretary Gorbachev with the other Soviet initiatives repeatedly put forward in the past, relating to peace and security all over the world. This is a system of measures and policies aimed at ensuring peace for everyone and security for all peoples on our planet.

On the Soviet Union's role in the struggle for peace, Council of Ministers Chairman Pham Van Dong stressed: We are very glad that history has entrusted the Soviet Union with a great mission of struggling for noble ideals -- as I said earlier in this interview -- and that the undertaking is of a profound revolutionary nature, because its objective is linked to mankind's most legitimate aspirations in today's nuclear era. This is also a revolutionary struggle, which mobilizes millions of people to stand up in the struggle against imperialism, militarism, and other reactionary forces, in order to thwart war for the sake of the peaceful life of each an every person in his or her own beloved country.

Glory to the great CPSU.

Glory to th glorious soviet people, who are building their country into a fortress for peace, a firm prop for the world revolution.

Dealing with the SRV people and government in the struggle to defend peace in the region and the rest of the world, Council of Ministers Chairman Pham Van Dong affirmed: For its part, the SRV will do all it can so that, in cooperation with the Soviet Union, it will strive to implement, step by step, the great initiatives put forth in Vladivostok by General Secretary Gorbachev.

INDOCHINA FOREIGN MINISTERS TO MEET 'SOON'

BK131024 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] The 13th regular meeting of the foreign ministers of the PRK, the LPDR, and SRV will be held soon in Hanoi. This was announced by the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry.

HANOI NOTES PREM APPOINTED THAI PRIME MINISTER

BK080750 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 6 Aug 86

[Text] According to foreign sources, on 5 August Thai King Phumiphon Adunyadet appointed General Prem Tinsulanon as prime minister of the new government. This is Thailand's 17th [as heard] prime minister since the constitutional monarchy was established in this country in 1932. Earlier, at the first session of the newly elected parliament, there were differences on Gen Prem's appointment as prime minister for another term. An opposition party leader walked out of the chamber to protest the decision.

Meanwhile, hundreds of people, mostly students, demonstrated in front of Parliament to protest the reappointment of Gen Prem, a nonelected person, as prime minister of the new government.

COBRA GOLD-86'AIMED AT THREATENING' INDOCHINA

BK090853 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 7 Aug 86

[Text] Foreign sources say U.S. and Thai troops on Monday started their week-long landing exercise on the Thai southeastern coast near the Kampuchean border. This is part of the joint U.S.-Thai military exercise code-named "Cobra Gold-86" being conducted in Thailand. This is the first joint U.S.-Thai war game since 1982 and the ever largest-scale one. [as heard] it is reported that this war game is aimed at threatening the PRK and the three Indochinese countries.

RELEASE OF THAI FISHERMEN TO MARK TIES ANNIVERSARY

OW121554 Hanoi VNA in English 1536 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 12 -- The Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam has decided to release a number of the Thai fishermen seized while illegally fishing in Vietnamese waters. The decision is occasioned by the 10th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between Vietnam and Thailand (August 6).

VCTU REVIEWS WORK STUDIES DRAFT REPORT

BK111554 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] According a Voice of Vietnam radio correspondent, from 5 to 8 August, the Executive Committee of the Vietnamese Confederation of Trade Unions [VCTU] held a conference to review work during the 1st 6 months of 1986 and to study and discuss the party Central Committee's draft political report to be presented at the forthcoming Sixth Party Congress. Attending the conference were the heads of various key organs and branches of the VCTU.

With a sense of scrupulousness, the conferees studied and heatedly discussed various draft documents of the party Central Committee to be presented at the party congress, and the speech of comrade Truong Chinh and the concluding speech of Comrade Nguyen Van Linh at the conference of high-level cadres to study the draft political report held early in July. They also contributed many views to the draft political report and the draft amendment to the party statutes frankly and honestly.

Comrade Le Quang Dao, secretary of the party Central Committee, attended and addressed the conference.

Concluding the conference, the Executive Committee of the VCTU unanimously adopted a program of action in honor of the Sixth Party Congress with the following main points.

1. Satisfactorily organize various political indoctrination drives and carry out propaganda work deeply and broadly among workers and civil servants on the Sixth Party Congress.

2. Coordinate closely with the administration and mass organizations -- youth union and women's union -- in launching an emulation movement late this year to score achievements in honor of the party congress.

3. Join efforts with the party and state in seeking every available measure to minimize difficulties in the livelihood of workers and civil servants.

4. Launch a mass movement to oppose all negative phenomena, protect socialist property, struggle against all tricks of the enemy's war of sabotage, and ensure policital security and social order and safety.

5. Under the leadership of various party committee echelons, trade unions must encourage workers and civil servants to participate in building the party.

NGUYEN VAN LINH ADDRESSES VCTU CADRE CONFERENCE

OW130339 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] A report by a Voice of Vietnam reporter says that the Vietnam Confederation of Trade Unions [VCTU] Executive Committee has just held a national trade union cadre conference to discuss the improvement of the trade union organizational system, implementation of the eighth resolution of the party Central Committee and other Political Bureau resolutions, and the stepping up of the labor emulation movement among workers and civil servants nationwide, in order to score achievements in honor of the Sixth CPV Congress.

This morning, 11 August, Comrade Nguyen Van Linh, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the party Central Committee, attended and addressed the conference. He pointed out: In the past 10 years or more, under the conditions in which our country has been completely liberated and people nationwide have been advancing to socialism, the Vietnamese working class in both parts of the country has made tremendous contributions to socialist construction and the defense of our socialist fatherland.

In the past few years, in particular, under the conditions in which our country has faced many difficulties, the laboring people, especially the working class of Vietnam, have brought into full play the Vietnamese working class's right to mastery, have displayed a high sense of class awareness, have remained united, and have done their utmost to turn out large quantities of products in the service of socialist construction and the defense of the fatherland. On behalf of the CPV Central Committee and Political Bureau, Comrade Nguyen Van Linh warmly commended and welcomed those great efforts.

Dealing with the current situation, Comrade Nguyen Van Linh pointed out: Under the leadership of party organizations and trade union organizations at all levels, the Vietnamese working class and laboring people should eagerly participate in discussions and contribute ideas for improving the draft political report of the party Central Committee, to be presented at the coming party congress. Meanwhile, in the spirit of thoroughly grasping the resolutions of the party Central Committee and Political Bureau, notably Resolution No. 8 of the party Central Committee, the people should emulate one another in production, yielding high output and high-quality goods; endeavor to economize on energy and raw and finished materials; apply scientific and technological advances in production; avoid waste of materials and losses of raw and finished materials; lower production costs; and contribute to accomplishing the 1986 state plan successfully.

He pointed out: Under the party's leadership, trade unions at all levels should organize, motivate, and educate workers and civil servants; organize intensive and extensive emulation movements from bottom to top; intensively struggle against negativism in production and the people's lives; accelerate the implementation of resolution No. 182-CP of the Council of Ministers; build a new mechanism of production and management; contribute to successfully implementing Resolution No. 8 of the party Central Committee on abolishing the bureaucratic, subsidy-based system of management; and implement the basic units' right to [autonomy in] production and business transactions.

On behalf of the VCTU Executive Committee, Comrade Pham The Duyet, acting VCTU president, said: The VCTU will organize communist indoctrination for workers and civil servants well, strive to do better in the new situation, contribute to fulfilling the 1986 state plan, score achievements in honor of the national party congress and successfully implement all resolutions of the party Central Committee.

NORTHERN PROVINCES REVIEW SOCIOECONOMIC TASKS

BK300920 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 27 Jul 86

[Text] Provincial People's Committees in Hai Hung, Nghia Binh, and Vinh Phu recently held conferences to review the implementation of their socioeconomic plan during ther first 6 months of this year and to discuss measures to carry out tasks during the last 6 months.

In Hai Hung Province, agricultural production work, faced adverse conditions -- shortages of electricity and materials while harmful insects ravaged many areas. To overcome shortcomings in socioeconomic management, the provicial people's committee designed concrete measures to supply a sufficient level of goods to cadres, workers, and the armed forces; accelerate the production of grain and food, and increase the volume of consumer goods and export goods. The province is launching an emulation drive to increase production output and to practice thrift. It is integrating manpower to plant 120,000 hectares of 10th-month rice according to set pattern and schedule, 40 percent of which will be early 10th-month rice, while preparing manpower, materials, and equipment to cope with possible floods, typhoons, and harmful insects to ensure a rice yield of 31.5 quintals per hectare or an increase of 6 quintals compared with the last crop.

The Nghia Binh Provincial People's Committee stressed that its main duty for the last 6 months is to plant a successful summer-fall crop -- the main crop with a total output equivalent to that of the winter-spring crop. The province is mobilizing manpower to fight drought and harmful insects, prepare sufficient short-term seed for early planting, and strive to plant 60,000 hectares of rice. The people's committee also discussed measures to help various administrative echelons to implement basic economic units autonomy in production and business. To accelerate the production of consumer goods and goods for export, the province is striving to improve socialist trade, distribution, and circulation while stabilizing the market system.

The Vinh Phu Provincial People's Committee strictly conducted self-criticism on shortcomings of the province and di ussed measures to positively overcome difficulties in production and the people's dai life. The committee decided that, during the last 6 months of this year, the provinc ust mobilize manpower and facilities to serve the 10th-month and winter crop plans h are aimed at producing 190,000-200,000 metric tons of grain converted to padd uivalent. The province urged cooperatives to satisfactorily prepare sufficie seed and maintain cultivation schedules. Cooperatives must immediately ensure e implementation of plans for plowing, producing rice seedlings, and harvesting the 10th-month rice at the most appropriate time. Along with producing grain, cooperatives must pay attention to planting long and short-term industrial crops and trees for firewood. They must also formulate plans to cope with floods and typhoons and improve the agricultural management system.

AUSTRALIA

HAYDEN, HAWKE REACT TO U.S. SUBSIDIZED TRADE

BK130904 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Australia has warned the United States that the alliance between the two countries could stand or fall on the issue of subsidized trade. In a speech in California, the foreign minister, Mr Hayden, said American trade subsidies put the welfare of all Australians at stake. He said Australian farmers were efficient producers seeing their livelihood threatened by American subsidies. It was no surprise then, he said, that Australian farmers were questioning the effectiveness of the Australian-American alliance.

[Begin Hayden recording] Our ability to sell our agricultural products has produced our ability to buy your aircraft with which we carry out our security commitments. Now our ability to buy your aircraft has been undermined by the unashamed protectionism of the Farm Bill. A few weeks ago, Secretary of State George Shultz told Prime Minister Lange that New Zealand would remain a friend but not an ally. Now the Congress is telling Australia that it is an ally, but not a friend. [end recording]

In Adelaide, the prime minister, Mr Hawke, pledged government's support for Australian farmers in the face of subsidies.

[Begin Hawke recording] We are constantly alert to try to protect the interests of our primary producers in whatever field it is. We have some degree of success in a difficult situation in the United States. We will be unremitting in our efforts to try and ensure in this regard that as far as it is within our power the interests of Australian sugar producers and exporters are protected. [end recording]

Considering Sugar Sale Response

BK130709 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] The Australian Government is considering a response to the United States decision to sell subsidized sugar to China -- a major Australian sugar market. The American sales to China come almost immediately after strong criticism from Australia on the U.S. decision to sell subsidized wheat to the Soviet Union, another traditional Australian market.

On the wheat sale, Australian foreign minister Mr Bill Hayden warned that America's trade policies were causing Australians to question the alliance between the two countries. After the sugar sales were announced, Mr Hayden said he telephoned the American secretary of state, Mr George Shultz, to express his concern.

From Canberra, our national affairs reporter, Tony Hill: [Begin Hill recording] Australian officials in Washington have reportedly said the sale would further strain relations with the United States. The United States says the sale should not displace normal Australian sugar sale to China, however, a spokesman for the trade minister, Mr Dawkins, in Canberra says it is certain to have an effect on prices. The United States is selling the sugar for 4.5 cents per pound while the current world spot price is 6.5 cents, and the price on the future market for March next year has put (?it at) 7.5. China is one of Australia's major sugar markets taking up to 300,000 tons of Australian sugar a year. [end recording]

The president of the Queensland Canegrowers Council, Mr (Fred Hobar), says Australian sugar producers should not be too concerned about the immediate effect of the sale. There was no cause for panic, he said, but he warned that the sale could have serious long-term implications for Australia.

NEW ZEALAND

LANGE CLAIMS ANZUS TREATY STILL EXISTS

HK121128 Hong Kong AFP in English 1113 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Wellington, Aug 12 (AFP) -- The Australian, New Zealand and U.S. (ANZUS) Treaty still exists, although Wellington's defence relationship with Washington has changed, New Zealand Prime Minister David Lange said here on Tuesday. Mr Lange was commenting on the announcement in San Francisco by U.S. and Australian officials of the suspension of New Zealand from the South Pacific alliance for its anti-nuclear policy, which bars access to New Zealand ports for U.S. warships. Two years ago Mr Lange said New Zealand would have to change its defence relationship with the United States as a consequence of its anti-nuclear policy, and predicted no role for New Zealand in ANZUS.

"Both the United States and Australia affirm that the treaty is extant," Mr Lange told a press conference on Tuesday. "As I predicted, the ANZUS Treaty is in place. There will be a bilateral understanding between the United States and Australia as there has been for years, and there will be an ANZAC understanding as there has been for years."

The Australian and New Zealand Army Corps (ANZAC) was a World War I formation, which symbolises the traditional Australian military alliance.

Mr Lange said the only difference now was that the "United States says it is not prepared to carry out its security guarantee to New Zealand." But he argued that the ANZUS alliance had never entailed an automatic military guarantee to New Zealand and that the "obligation for New Zealand is to prepare itself in conjunction with its ally Australia to defend its interests in the region." He added that New Zealand would fulfill this obligation.

Mr Lange also rejected assertions by U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz that New Zealand's anti-nuclear policies had also cut access to New Zealand for U.S. aircraft. "Let it be stated firmly and unequivocally there has never been a problem of air access by the United States to New Zealand," Mr Lange said.

The prime minister said there was "no stand-off with the United States Government because of the ANZUS suspension." He added: "We actually get on quite well with the United States Government."

CROOKS APPOINTED NEW DEFENSE CHIEF UNTIL 30 NOV

HK111112 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 5 Aug 86 p 10

[Text] Wellington (NEW ZEALAND PRESS ASSOCIATION) -- The Government has appointed two chiefs of defence consecutively from the same service with the promotion of Air Vice-Marshal David Crooks.

However, his appointment will be shorter than usual.

The move was taken because the comprehensive defence review would need special regard to experience, the Minister of Defence, Mr O'Flynn, said yesterday.

Air Vice-Marshal Crooks, who assumes the job on October 15, will have had more than twice as much experience as a chief of staff and member of the Defence Council as his Army and Navy counterparts.

He will replace Air Marshal Sir Ewan Jamieson, who is retiring.

Mr O'Flynn said it was not usual for officers of the same Service to follow in succession. It had happened only once before, with two Army officers in a row.

"I believe he is the best qualified at this time to act as principal military adviser to the Government during a particularly demanding period," Mr O'Flynn said.

But because two of the last three chiefs had been airmen, he would not defer an appointment from another Service too long.

"For that reason, Air Vice-Marshal Crooks will be appointed until November 30, 1987. At that time both the other present chiefs of staff will still be available for consideration to undertake a normal three-year term."

AQUINO TO REMAIN IN CONTROL WHILE OUT OF COUNTRY

HK130153 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] President Aquino says she will continue to exercise all the functions of her office as enjoined by the constitution and the laws while she is on state visits or on an official mission abroad in the same manner as when she is in the country. She issued Administrative Order No. 4 providing instructions to be followed in the conduct of public affairs while she is out of the Philippines. The order rules out the need for Aquino to appoint an acting president during her absence from the country. In her order the president directed that while she is outside the country, Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo would sign all papers under the authority of the president and would decide on routine matters. She said the vice president would preside over cabinet meetings which shall continue to meet at such other times as many be necessary.

Laurel Suggests NSC as Caretaker

HK131147 Quezon City Radyo Ng Bayan in Tagalog 1000 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Vice President Salvador Laurel suggested that the National Security Council [NSC] be made the government caretaker while President Aquino visits the United States next month. At present, Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo has been entrusted with sole responsibility as government caretaker when the president is out of the country. Here is Vice President Laurel's declaration on the issue.

[Begin Laurel recording in English] It is a better idea and more consistent to the liability of the nation during the president's absence. The members of the National Security Council should be involved in the caretakership of the nation during the president's absence. Why? Because everybody is responsible, all the members will feel responsible for the Philippines. Right now, it is only Mr. Joker Arroyo. It is only Mr. Joker Arroyo who is directly responsible and if anything will happen during the caretakership, [words indistinct]. [Passage indistinct] then everybody will be involved and feel responsible. [end recording]

ARROYO RULES OUT LAUREL AS AQUINO STAND-IN

HK120653 Manila THE NEWS HERALD in English 10 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Catalino F. Makabenta]

[Excerpts] Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, one of three Cabinet members whom Vice President Salvador H. Laurel had reportedly vowed to fire if he becomes acting President during President Aquino's working visit to the United States in mid-September, virtually ruled out yesterday the possibility of Laurel's taking over the Presidency while Mrs. Aquino is away.

Asked by Malacanang reporters whether Mrs. Aquino would be able to manage the affairs of state 10,000 miles away from home through modern communication facilities, Arroyo quickly answered: "No problem."

If Mrs. Aquino decides to run the government by remote control, it is very likely that she will name Arroyo as government caretaker.

Designating the executive secretary, also known as the "Little President," to act as government caretaker whenever the President goes abroad has been a traditional practice since 1946 during the time of President Roxas, according to Palace sources.

However, sources at the vice president's office said these precedents do not apply in the case of Mrs. Aquino's coming trip to the U.S. because it is going to be a working and not a state visit. Previous trips of Philippine Presidents to the U.S., they pointed out, were all leisurely state visits which made it possible for them to govern by remote control.

According to the sources at the vice president's office, Mr. Aquino's full and very busy schedule in Washington, Boston, New York and San Francisco during her eight-day U.S. visit precludes her from attending to problems at home. Moreover, they added, it would be impossible for Mr. Aquino to make decisions on domestic matters while she is abroad because she is going to leave her advisers behind, except the financial experts in her Cabinet.

They contended that the better alternative is for Mrs. Aquino to designate Laurel as acting President during her U.S. trip.

Mrs. Aquino's scheduled talks with President Reagan and American legislative leaders are expected to focus on the country's economic problems, particularly the problem of lightening the burden of repaying its $26.3 billion foreign debt. Mrs Aquino herself has said that the country's economic recovery hinges on her coming U.S. visit.

Laurel had made his threat to fire Arroyo, Local Governments Minister Aquilino Pimentel Jr. and Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez - all of whom he described as "controversial" - in a speech at Cebu City country club during a conference of the United Nationalist Democratic Organization (Unido), the political party he heads.

Laurel told his partymates that when Mrs. Aquino leaves for the U.S., he will stay behind as government caretaker and, if given the authority by the President, he would "right the unrightable wrongs" in the Aquino administration.

This would include, he said, undoing such "mistakes" as appointing the "controversial" men to the Aquino Cabinet and designating "undesirable" officers-in-charge in local government units.

Arroyo and Presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag doubted that Laurel had made those statements as reported in the various newspapers.

"It is unthinkable that he said those things," Arroyo said.

"I'm skeptical that he said it. If we look into the record, Laurel's past statements were marked by prudence and grace," Saguisag said. [passage omitted]

Vice President Salvador H. Laurel yesterday said he will fire misfits in the Cabinet if authorized by President Aquino.

He made the clarification upon arrival in Iloilo City to address the Iloilo Bar Associtation (IBA) and the Citizens Legal Aid Society of the Philippines (CLASP).

The vice president was reported [to have said] Friday he will fire misfits in the Cabinet when he takes over the presidency in an acting capacity during President Aquino's official visits abroad this month.

Laurel said it would be useless for him to fire anyone in the absence of the President, considering that she is going to reverse that move anyway, the moment she comes back.

In an interview with Iloilo newsmen at city hall, Laurel made it clear he will not make major decisions or fire anyone in the government without the authority of President Aquino.

UNIDO CHIEF ON ARROYO'S REMARKS

HK121152 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 11 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[By Melchor Parale]

[Text] A ranking leader of the United Nationalist Democratic Organization (Unido) said yesterday Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo is "imagining things" in thinking that Vice President Laurel will overhaul the Cabinet in the event he is named government caretaker during President Aquino's trips abroad.

"How could the vice president do that when the job of the caretaker is limited to the routine while major policy decisions like Cabinet revamp cannot be made without presidential sanction," former Sen. Rene Espina, Unido secretary general, said.

Espina said the Unido council of leaders is against placing the government in the hands of persons without the people's mandate while the President is away.

The Unido leaders were reacting to reports that the government affairs, during Mrs. Aquino's absence, will be handled by Arroyo. "Mr. Arroyo definitely does not have popular mandate to qualify," Espina said.

"We are not insisting that the vice president should be the government caretaker because the idea came from President Aquino herself." Espina said.

Espina said the propriety of tapping Laurel for the caretaker's post is only incidental "because he only happened to be Mrs. Aquino's running mate in the presidential polls and his experience, apart from the mandate he got, in handling government affairs is beyond doubt."

Arroyo had stated Mrs. Aquino need not name Laurel as acting president during her visits this month to Singapore, Indonesia and the United States.

Along with presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag, Arroyo had said Mr. Aquino can continue running the government while she is away through modern communications technology.

Espina said the Aquino government has lots of things to gain if the vice president is designated caretaker.

"It will not only be a demonstration of mature leadership but will also dent world impressions that the government is not stable," Espina said.

Espina, who just arrived from visits of Unido chapters in Iloilo and Cebu, revealed plans of the Trade Union Congress of the Philippines [TUCP] to stage its own nationwide work stoppage if the clamor for the replacement of Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez is not heeded.

"I got the information in private confidence that TUCP chapters throughout the country with combined membership of one million are awaiting the signal for the work stoppage," Espina said.

Espina quoted TUCP leaders as saying that "Minister Sanchez is not pro-labor but pro-KMU." [Kilusang Mayo Uno --1 May Movement]

Espina expressed concern over the industrial unrest plaguing Cebu and nearby areas, where manufacturing firms were forced to stop operation when workers staged strikes without notice.

He said the disrupted industrial operation has rendered 20,000 workers jobless.

Espina, himself a former labor secretary, conveyed the sentiment of Cebu business leaders that "the problem is not the naming of a deputy labor minister as suggested in Malacanang but the appointment of a new labor minister."

He belied reports that he is interested in getting the post.

"Even if offered, I will not accept it because I'm not an aspirant," Espina said.

PIMENTEL BRUSHES ASIDE LAUREL THREAT ON REPLACEMENT

HK120701 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 11 Aug 86 p 18

[Text] Cebu City -- Local Governments Minister Aquilino Pimentel Jr. brushed aside the threats made by Vice-President Salvador Laurel of replacing "if authorized" some "undesirable" members of the Cabinet when President Corazon C. Aquino leaves for the United States next month.

Pimentel doubted if Laurel, who heads the United Nationalist Democratic Organization (Unido) can make any major decision during the President's absence.

Pimentel said history indicated of no instance "when the Vice-President became acting President when the President left the country."

Pimentel flew to Cebu City a day after Laurel's visit to dialog with Central Visayas local government officials.

In the same press conference at the Casino Espanol here, Pimentel who is founder of the Pilipino Democratic Party (PDP) now in coalition with the Lakas ng Bayan (Laban) ruled out yesterday the possibility of the PDP-LABAN coalition merging with the Unido.

PDP-LABAN has always considered Unido an ally, Pimentel said. It can coalesce with Unido, but there can "never be a merger between the two."

The PDP-LABAN has been expanding and has thrown its doors open to former members of the Kilusang Bagong Lipunan who are "not notoriously identified with the KBL."

Espina Calls for Pimentel Ouster

HK120655 Manila THE NEWS HERALD in English 10 Aug 86 pp 1, 5

[By Jun Basadre]

[Text] Cebu City -- Former Sen. Rene Espina, secretary general of the United Nationalist Democratic Organization [Unido], has initiated a move for the ouster of Local Government Minister Aquilino Pimentel Jr.

The move is snow-balling, Espina said, even as he accused Pimentel of "mass slaughter" of local government officials."

At the same time, he disclosed complaints of some Lanao del Norte residents who had reported that money, "to the tune of P1.4 million had been given to some MLG [Ministry of Local Government] officials to ensure appointment or retention of local officials."

"This is a serious charge," Espina continued, "But I don't know why the MLG is silent on this matter."

Espina has initiated here a move for the ouster of Pimentel and two other Cabinet members in the Aquino government.

The ouster move includes Executive Secretary Joker P. Arroyo and Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez.

Espina said the Arroyo and Sanchez had been charged by the Unido rank and file as the source of "Intrigue between Malacanang and the military."

Thr former senator also said that labor strikes in the country "have become bloodier and more violent because of Sanchez's nonimplementation of labor laws."

Sanchez, he said, "should be replaced if we want investors and industrial peace."

Espina said Arroyo has "created intrigues between the Palace and the military by creating a position of deputy executive secretary of defense in his office which is virtually trying to create a separate ministry of defense under him," Espina said.

AQUINO'S PRE-U.S. ASEAN VISIT EXPLAINED

HK121140 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 11 Aug 86 p 18

[Text] President Corazon C. Aquino's decision to visit Indonesia and Singapore first, -- instead of the United States and Japan, comes at a time when concerted efforts are being undertaken to give a big push to the government's national economic recovery program, and the strengthening of trade relations with the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Her trip to Jakarta and Singapore, scheduled for Aug 24-25 and Aug 25-27, respectively, is not just a commitment to fulfill, that is to return the courtesy visits of President Suharto and Prime Ministert Lee Kuan Yew in Manila.

Her four-day sojourn to ASEAN capitals would not just be to reaffirm the Philippine's commitment to closer ASEAN economic cooperation, but to discuss with them a wide range of topics, like communism or the insurgency movement, development programs of each country and the possible agenda in next year's ASEAN summit in Manila.

How the two strongmen -- Suharto and Lee Kuan Yew -- crushed the communist movement and banished communist leaders in their respective countries has made political history.

Effective implementation of Indonesia's "Pancasila" which formed the basis of the Indonesian state, establishing just and civilized unity for the country, social justice for all, and belief in one supreme God had worked agains the communists.

Singapore's "open" trade and port policy coupled with fast industrialization pace has resulted in the 5,000 Singaporean dollars per capita income for her people.

The 30 ASEAN Journalists who just completed a month-long goodwill tour of ASEAN countries learned, for instance, that communism does not thrive in countries where the poeple could easily satisfy their basic needs and are given the chance to prosper.

One area of concern which President Aquino may discuss with the two ASEAN leaders is trade, particularly on the preferential trading arrangements.

Under this program, the number of trade items may be further expanded to 20,000 and with lesser or free tariff duties to enhance the flow of regional trade in the region.

There is also the ASEAN summit in Manila to consider.

The agenda for the meeting has yet to be threshed out and whatever progress the 19th ASEAN ministerial meeting attained would be followed up in the forthcoming conference.

President Aquino has been invited by the U.S. Congress to visit the U.S. between September and October this year.

This is probably why the President has decided to visit the U.S. later after visiting at least two ASEAN countries.

ENRILE ON POSITIONS OF COMMUNISTS IN BUREAUCRACY

HK121427 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 12 Aug 86 p 18

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said yesterday that he did not say there are card-carrying communist government ministers. But "one does not have to look far to pinpoint communists within the government bureaucracy," Enrile added.

Though he refused to name names, Enrile quoted declassified intelligence reports and said in the Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA) for example, "there is a group assigned there whose head is said to be the chairman of the Southern Luzon commission of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP)."

Enrile added that another agency, the Philippine Center of Special Studies, a Malacanang-based think tank, also had two personalities affilated with the CPP Central Committee.

"I believe, however, that these two are already separated from that particular agency," he said.

The defense minister also branded the head of the newly created Presidential Task Force on Cooperatives of the Ministry of Human Settlements (MHS) as being "a well-known personality of the CPP-NPA hierarchy."

"In addition to these people, we also have intelligence reports that some of these people (communists) are holding positions as executives to various ministries as well as assistants to certain Cabinet ministers," Enrile said.

Enrile, however, denied that he has alluded to certain government ministers as being communists.

"I'm a bit surprised by the reaction of one of my colleagues in the Cabinet to this statement," he said.

"I think you better see the transcript of the statement I made. At no time did I say anything else than bureaucracy when I mentioned communist infiltration in the government," he said.

In a related development, Enrile admited for the first time to newsmen that he had knowledge of intelligence reports that former AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] chief of staff, Gen Fabian Ver, had visited Brueni some time in June this year.

"We heard that he visited a friend there, who, I really do not know," he said.

"I think he must be in the United States by now so there is no cause for worry. Anyway, his visit there was in no way a threat to the national security of our country," he added.

Loyalist Leader Names Communists

HK130155 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] A Marcos loyalist leader in Manila has identified six of the alleged communists in the Philippine Government. Loyalist leader (Lota) named the alleged communist government officials as Victor Gerardo Bulatao, who is executive assistant at the Agrarian Reform Ministry; Alexander Birondo, the assistant to the labor minister; Horacio Morales of the Presidential Task Force on Cooperatives at the Human Settlements Ministry; Abelardo Hurtado of the Philippine Ports Authority; Vicente Ladlad of the Philippine Coconut Authority; and Nemesio Prudente, the president of the state-owned Polytechnic University of the Philippines.

Meanwhile Philippine Coconut Authority [PCA] Chairman Oscar Santos said his office has already terminated the services of leftist elements from the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP]. The contracts for the services of the so-called leftists in the PCA expired last month. Santos said this in reaction to a revelation by Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile that leftist elements have been assigned jobs in the PCA. Enrile further stated that a group in the PCA was headed by the chairman of the CPP Southern Luzon Commission.

Agencies Say Communists Fired

HK121338 Hong Kong AFP in English 1326 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 12 (AFP) -- Heads of government agencies accused by Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile of harboring communists said Tuesday that they had already fired the suspected individuals.

The officials were replying to accusations by Mr Enrile Monday that certain government ministries were infiltrated by communist insurgents.

Oscar Santos, chairman of the Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA) and Teodoro Locsion, information minister and head of the Presidential Center for Special Studies (PCSS), said that they had already terminated the services of the alleged communists.

Mr Santos told the official PHILIPPINE NEWS AGENCY (PNA) that he had hired an alleged ranking officer of the communist New People's Army (NPA) right after a largely-peaceful revolt in February swept President Corazon Aquino into power.

He said he did this in the spirit of reconciliation and as an attempt to bring these insurgents into mainstream of society. "If their services are needed here, then what is wrong with their helping us?" he added.

Mr Locsin said in a written statement that he had retired two alleged communists in the PCSS, a government think tank, but did not identify them.

Local television stations, quoting unnamed military sources, Tuesday named four other alleged communists in the government.

All were political detainees during the deposed regime of Ferdinand Marcos.

Presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag told reporters Tuesday that he had nothing against hiring communists as long as they had renounced the use of violence.

U.S. Pushing for Ministers Removal

HK121523 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 12 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[By Bayani S. Cruz]

[Text] A former government official revealed yesterday that the United States Government has joined the snowballing agitation for the removal of three members of the Aquino cabinet with alleged communist leanings.

The source, who requested anonymity, said President Aquino may succumb to the American pressure and authorize their removal during her absence while on an official visit to the U.S.

He said Mrs Aquino may do this by designating Vice President Laurel as government caretaker in her absence. Laurel could then do the job of removing the "undesirable" cabinet men, said to include Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez and Local Government Minister Aquilino Pimentel.

The official said the American attitude demand [as published] for the ouster of the three cabinet members was conveyed by U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz during his recent visits in Manila. He said the demand had even been made a prerequisite to the grant of American aid.

"This pressure has not stopped. Why do you think that in spite of all the pledges of American aid and support not a single centavo has been received by the Aquino government?" the official asked.

Meanwhile, Laurel said he has reason to believe that he will be named caretaker in the absence of President Aquino. He told newsmen the President talked to him personally and asked to forego his scheduled trip to the United Nations so he could be the "taongbahay" during her absence.

Reminded of reports that Arroyo would be designated as caretaker, Laurel said, "If that is what the President wants, she can do that. But I don't think the President will deny that she asked me to stay."

RAMOS LIFTS RESTRICTIONS ON CPP NEGOTIATORS

HK121409 Hong Kong AFP in English 1331 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 12 (AFP) -- Armed Forces chief General Fidel Ramos Tuesday lifted restrictions on the movement of rebel cease-fire negotiators and reiterated the military's total support for President Corazon Aquino's peace efforts. In a statement issued a day after the rebels denounced the restrictions, he indicated that the three communist negotiators and their bodyguards may be allowed to carry firearms without fear of military arrest or attack.

"The new Armed Forces of the Philippines stands ready as always to abide by any decision or instructions by higher authorities in the spirit of its sincere desire to support the peace initiatives of the president," he said. The statement was issued to "clarify reports" based on an Armed Forces statement Sunday that he barred the rebels from carrying firearms to and from the talks, and that their "safe conduct" passes were good for only 30 days.

The communist-led National Democratic Front (NDF) Monday accused Gen. Ramos and Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, who is openly cynical of the chances of successful talks, of trying to sabotage the cease-fire negotiations. Mrs. Aquino is seeking a political solution to the 17-year-old insurgency. The NDF, which represents the Communist Party and its 16,000-strong New People's Army (NPA) in the talks, said the Ramos guidelines clashed with commitments made by government negotiators Jose Diokno and Ramon Mitra.

"The safe conduct previously issued" for rebel "emissaries and their personal security escorts have no time limit and are effective countrywide," Gen. Ramos said. The Armed Forces statement Sunday said the safe conduct would expire in 30 days, and covered only travels to and from the still undecided site of talks.

Mr. Ramos's statement appeared to be a reaction to the NDF's claim that Mr Diokno, currently undergoing medical treatment in California, assured that they may carry firearms to and from the venue of the talks. A supposed copy of his written assurance released by the NDF could not be independently verified.

The NDF said the firearms ban "leaves the field wide open for the mischief on the part of parties who are out to sabotage the peace talks," naming the military and defense ministry U.S. agents, and "pro-Marcos fanatics." The United States has two key military bases in the Philippines.

Clarification On Passes

HK130207 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Armed forces Chief of Staff General Fidel Ramos yesterday [12 August] clarified reports that the guidelines issued for the safe conduct passes for rebel negotiators are only preliminary and recommendatory in nature and are subject to modification. Ramos (discounted) a statement by Satur Ocampo that the guidelines were different from what was orally agreed upon between the government panel and the NDF [National Democratic Front] representative. According to Ramos, the safe conduct passes issued to Antonio Zumel, Mrs Carolina Malay Ocampo and Mr Ocampo as the rebel emissaries and their security escorts have no time limit and are applicable nationwide.

Bodyguards 'Will Not be Molerted'

HK130919 Hong Kong AFP in English 0835 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 13 (AFP) -- The communist panel in planned ceasefire talks with the Philippine Government may carry firearms and will be safe from military arrest or attack, a government negotiator said here Wednesday. Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra also told reporters after a cabinet meeting that he will meet with the rebels "any day now." They last met August 5 to prepare for the first negotiations aimed at ending the 17-year-old insurgency. He said bodyguards of the rebel panel "will not be bothered. they will not be searched, they will not be asked questions, they will not be followed." "There is no way of finding out whether they are armed or not," he said.

Pressed to say categorically whether they will be allowed to carry firearms, he said "I'd rather not define that", but repeated that "they will not be searched, they will not be bothered, they will not be molested at all." Mr Mitra said the military's "safe conduct" pass for the three rebel negotiators and their bodyguards "is good for as long as we are talking." Armed Forces chief General Fidel Ramos Tuesday lifted restrictions he imposed on the communist panel after the rebels said that chief government negotiator Jose Diokno -- currently undergoing medical treatment in the United States -- had promised them they could carry firearms for self-defense.

Mr Mitra also supported Gen. Ramos's pledge that the Armed Forces will back any commitment made by the government panel, saying "I never doubted that the Armed Forces will respect the commitment of the government panel. Otherwise I will not be negotiating for the government." Asked about the agenda, he said it was still to be discussed but added: "I have only one agenda. It is the ceasefire ... we'd like the killing to stop."

FORMER COMMUNIST HEAD FORMS NEW PARTY

HK051551 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 5 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] Tagbilaran City -- A new political party was formed here Sunday headed by former Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP] chairman Jose M. Sison.

The new party, "Partido ng Bayan" [National Party] was organized to support and encourage people with the patriotic and democratic advocacies of the Aquino government.

During its pre-organizational meeting at the Cliff-top Hotel Sunday, Kid Canedo, charter member of the party, said many of those who attended the meeting have shown desire to join the group.

He said former PDP-LABAN [Pilipino Democratic Party-Lakes ng Bayan] Bohol provincal coordinator Tim Cabatos was among those who attended the meeting.

The group leader denied allegations that it is a political arm of the CPP.

Editorial on New Party

HK130041 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 12 Aug 86 p 4

[Editorial: "Sison's Partido ng Bayan"]

[Text] The formation of a new political party called Partido ng Bayan [People's Party] by Jose Ma. Sison, former chairman of the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP], is significant in the light of recent government efforts to seek a peaceful solution to the growing problem of insurgency -- a problem acknowledged by no less than those in the highest echelons of the military as having its roots in the discontent spawned by deteriorating economy.

That an avowed revolutionary would choose a legal avenue to ventilate his ideals ought to speak well of the present order. Whether the new party is a political arm of the CPP or not is beside the point. What is important is that the party's platform can now be subjected to public scrutiny and that its members will not have to resort to underground means to be heard. What is important is that there are those identified with the left who still believe in peaceful methods of effecting meaningful changes in our society as opposed to those who advocate armed struggle.

The Partido ng Bayan should be watched closely by the people on whether it provides the answers for the kind of change which the majority wants, and whether its members will champion the cause which the majority believes in.

If we are to go by what a famous philosopher and leader once said, then "let a hundred flowers blossom and a hundred thoughts contend."

And if we are to live by the highest tenets of democracy, all political parties, regardless of ideology should be allowed to exist without fear of censure, harassment or witch hunts. The fate of political parties is best left in the open arena of politics. In the final analysis, it is only the people who can choose which one is worthy of support.

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 157

14 August 1986

JAPAN

U.S. Informed Kansai Airport Bidding Set for Sep C 1
ISAS Says U.S. To Participate in Space Project C 1
Japan Financially Aids Laotian Power Industry C 2
Bank Governor Denies Further Discount Rate Cut C 2
USDP Leader To Attend UN Committee Meeting C 3

NORTH KOREA

Kim Yun-hyok Appointed First Vice Premier D 1
Kang Song-san Speaks at Cuban Envoy's Reception D 1
New Japanese Government's 'Militarism' Denounced [NODONG SINMUN 12 Aug] D 2
Acceleration of Construction Projects Urged [NODONG SINMUN 11 Aug] D 4
Basic Principles for Building Working-Class Party [NODONG SINMUN 9 Aug] D 7
Chuche Idea Basis of Party Building, Activity [NODONG SINMUN 10 Aug] D 8
KPA Soldiers' Construction Work Praised D 11

BURMA

Foreign Minister Leaves for SFRY, Romania 7 Aug G 1
Karen Leader Disavows Pact With Communists [AFP] G 1
KMT, BCP, WNA Join in Battle To Control Drug Trade [Bangkok THE NATION 11 Aug] G 2

CAMBODIA

Hun Sen Condoles SRV's Pham Van Dong on Flooding H 1
PRK's Chea Sim To Visit USSR, Poland, GDR H 1
Chea Sim Attends Trade Union Meeting Closing H 1
Bou Thang Attends Udong Dry-Season Meeting H 2
Bou Thang Addresses Cadre Training Course H 2
Khieu Samphan Congratulates Thailand's Sitti [VONADK] H 2

LAOS

Kaysone Phomvihan Congratulates Thai Premier I 1
Thailand Uses 'Tricks' To Handle Foreign Debt I 1
Thai Foreign Minister's Record, Policy Criticized I 2
Radio Discusses U.S. Role in Thailand I 3
PASASON on Peace, Stability in Southeast Asia [11 Aug] I 4
PASASON on Success of 4-5 Aug Cabinet Meeting I 4
Ministers Issue Decree on Socialist Enterprises I 6
Leaders Attend Funeral of Khamsouk Sai-gnaseng I 7

Mass Media Committee Prepares for Party Congress I 8
Political Campaigns Continue in Vientiane I 8
    Luang Prabang, Champassak Study Report I 9
    Campaign Ends in Viangsai District I 9
    Army Units Study Report I 9
    'Division E' Preparing for Congress I 10

THAILAND

Senate Rejects Request To Free Unionist-Senators [BANGKOK WORLD 13 Aug] J 1
Central Bank Moves To Resolve Export Problems [THE NATION 12 Aug] J 2
Slow Progress Noted in Joint Investment With PRC [ZHONG HUA RIBAO 8 Aug] J 3
New Youth League Believed Linked to Communists [THE NATION 12 Aug] J 3
Numbers on Thai-Cambodian Border Cited J 4

VIETNAM

Truong Chinh Returns From 'Vacation' in USSR K 1
Source Says Nguyen Can To Meet U.S. MIA Team [AFP] K 1
Official Tells PRC of Plan To Return 'Intruders' K 1
Two Sentenced in Hanoi for Spying for PRC [AFP] K 1
Truong Chinh Greets Singapore President K 2
Leaders Congratulate Thai Counterparts K 2
Leaders Congratulate Malaysian Counterparts K 3
LATE REPORT: Officials Repatriate U.S. Citizen K 3

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Says New Cabinet To Revitalize Economy O 1
Islamic Party's Spirit Not Dampened by Defeat [NEW STRAITS TIMES 7 Aug] O 1

SINGAPORE

Lee Kuan Yew Delivers National Day Speech [THE STRAITS TIMES 9 Aug] O 2
Mokhtar, Dhanabalan To Discuss Cambodian Issue O 6

PHILIPPINES

Misuari Return Set for Late August [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 13 Aug] P 1
    Con-Com Approves Autonomy P 2
Sultans Want Tripoli Agreement Repudiated [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 11 Aug] P 2
MANILA BULLETIN on Cordillera Autonomy [12 Aug] P 3

Aquino Promotes 19 Military Leaders [MANILA BULLETIN 5 Aug] P 4

Marcos Interviewed on Insurgency, Economy [THE MANILA TIMES 9 Aug] P 5

    16 Aug Return 'Mere Speculation' P 6

LATE REPORT: Soviet Official on U.S. Bases [AFP] P 7

LATE REPORT: Demonstrators Protest at U.S. Embassy [AFP] P 7

U.S. INFORMED KANSAI AIRPORT BIDDING SET FOR SEP

OW080739 Tokyo KYODO in English 0703 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 8 KYODO -- Japan told the United States Friday it will hold a seminar in Osaka next month on bidding procedures for American firms interested in participating in the construction of Kansai International Airport in Western Japan. The Transport Ministry conveyed the seminar plan to the U.S. embassy here after Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto told Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone that the seminar, as requested by Washington, will be held in Osaka in mid or late September.

The briefing, sponsored by the Kansai International Airport Co., will cover the outlines of the proposed airport and bidding procedures for U.S. companies, Hashimoto said. The Transport Minister noted, however, that the seminar will be limited to bidding procedures for later stages of construction work and equipment and material procurement. The seminar, Hashimoto explained to Nakasone, will exclude bidding procedures for construction of an artificial island, shore protection works and a connecting bridge to the airport.

The prime minister, officials said, asked Hashimoto how his ministry plans to deal with South Korea and the 12-nation European Community, which have expressed interest in obtaining contracts for parts of the airport project. The airport issue was a key subject for discussion between Hashimoto and visiting U.S. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige July 28. "We will study if there are such requests (for seminars) from South Korea and the EC," an official quoted Hashimoto as telling Nakasone. Yoshio Takeuchi, president of the airport company, has said foreign countries will be barred from bidding on initial work for the 1 trillion yen airport, which will be Japan's first 24-hour airfield.

ISAS SAYS U.S. TO PARTICIPATE IN SPACE PROJECT

OW110925 Tokyo KYODO in English 0637 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Toyko, Aug. 11 KYODO -- The United States has decided to join Japan's space project for observing solar activity, the project organizer, Institute of Space and Astronautical Science (ISAS) announced Monday. This will be the first time the U.S. will substantially participate in the Japanese satellite project with its advanced telescopes for observing explosions on the surface of the sun, ISAS said.

ISAS, an Education Ministry organization, said the U.S. has decided to join the Japanese satellite project following the January 28 space shuttle disaster which set back the U.S. space exploration. ISAS said the project, aimed at collecting data on solar activity, will help solve mysteries of space such as black holes, and will add new knowledge to scientific endeavors like nuclear fusion and contribute ideas for the U.S. strategic defense initiative (SDI) project.

ISAS, with the help of U.S. scientists, will carry out the project using its self-developing satellite called "Solar A," on which Japan and the United States will mount their respective advanced x-ray telescopes for precise solar observation, ISAS said. Solar A will be launched in the summer of 1991, when solar activity will be at a peak, that occurs only every 11 years, ISAS said.

The final selection of U.S. participants is now being made by the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). The first Japan-U.S. project meeting is scheduled for October.

"The U.S. has for a long time wanted to mount one of its telescopes on our satellite, and NASA is welcoming the joint project as a new type of international cooperation," said Minoru Oda, director of ISAS. He said this indicates that Japan's space research projects are highly regarded internationally.

ISAS successfully carried out a solar observation satellite project in 1981, and it conducted an international cooperative observation project on halley's comet this year.

JAPAN FINANCIALLY AIDS LAOTIAN POWER INDUSTRY

OW120439 Tokyo KYODO in English 0417 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 12 KYODO -- The Japanese Government is to provide a grant of up to 513 million yen to Laos to repair substations in the Nam Gum hydroelectric power station in the north of the country, government officials said Tuesday. The two countries exchanged diplomatic notes on the aid in Vientiane the same day, the officials said.

The hydroelectric power station, mainly financed by Japan under the direction of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP), has a generating capacity of 150,000 kilowatts and supplies electricity both to Laos and the northeast Thailand. But six substations in the power station are already 10 years old and need repair work, the officials said. Japan provided similar aid in the last fiscal year, they said.

BANK GOVERNOR DENIES FURTHER DISCOUNT RATE CUT

OW130831 Tokyo KYODO in English 0725 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 13 KYODO -- Satoshi Sumita, governor of the Bank of Japan, Wednesday said he does not think the West German Central Bank, Bundesbank, has changed its monetary policy, implying that West Germany is not likely to carry out a coordinated cut in key interest rates with the United States.

His remarks came against reports from New York Tuesday that U.S. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker and Bundesbank President Karl Otto Poehl agreed last weekend to consider concerted reductions in the official discount rate by major industrial nations.

Sumita told a press conference that he has not been informed of the content of the talks between the two central bank chiefs. "I don't think that the talks contained anything that needs to be reported to the Bank of Japan," Sumita said. Sumita reiterated that the Bank of Japan has no intention of further reducing the official discount rate at the moment, the base rate, which the central bank charges on loans to commercial banks, now stands at a postwar record low of 3.5 percent per annum in Japan. Credit conditions in Japan have been sufficiently eased and thus no additional monetary measures are needed to stimulate the economy, Sumita said.

The U.S. has been calling for interest rate cutbacks in West German and Japan to spur their economies and for concerted action in doing so as it fears that unilateral reduction by the U.S. could lead to a free fall in the dollar.

Sumita repeated that each central bank should independently decide a change in monetary policy. But he did not flatly deny the possibility of coordinated rate reductions as he said the Bank of Japan will remain flexible in determining its monetary policy including a cut in the discount rate.

With regard to progress being made between the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and Mexico which has an external debt of about 100 billion dollars, Sumita said the Bank of Japan is prepared to extend necessary "bridging loans" to Mexico, while declining to give the amount of such loans. The IMF and central banks involved are now finalizing talks on the loans which will be supplied to Mexico until additional loans by the IMF, the World Bank and commerical banks to Mexico are extended.

UDSP LEADER TO ATTEND UN COMMITTEE MEETING

OW141005 Tokyo KYODO in English 0852 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 14 KYODO -- Satsuki Eda, leader of the opposition United Democratic Socialist Party, left for New York Thursday to attend a special United Nations committee meeting on East Timor. Eda is expected to deliver a speech calling for respect of East Timor's right of self-determination and inclusion of representatives of East Timor in negotiations between Portugal and Indonesia.

KIM YUN-HYOK APPOINTED FIRST VICE PREMIER

SK122204 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2100 GMT 12 Aug 86

["Decree" of the DPRK Central People's Committee]

[Text] The DPRK Central People's Committee appoints Comrade Kim Yun-hyok as first vice premier of the DPRK State Administration Council.

[Signed] DPRK President Kim Il-song,

12 August 1986, Pyongyang

KANG SONG-SAN SPEAKS AT CUBAN ENVOY'S RECEPTION

SK140752 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Ricardo Danza Sigas, ambassador of the Republic of Cuba to our country, held a reception at his embassy on the evening of 13 August to mark the 60th birthday of Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist Party [CPC], president of the Council of State, and president of the Council of Ministers.

Invited to the reception were Comrade Kang Song-san, member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and premier of the Administration Council; Comrade Yi Chong-ok, member of the PoliticaL Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and vice president; Comrade Kin Yong-nam, member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee, vice premier of the Administration Council, and foreign minister; Comrade Kim Pok-sin, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and vice premier of the Administration Council; Yang Hyong-sop, chairman of the Standing Committee; and Hyon Chun-kuk, Yi Song-pok, Choe Chong-kun, Kim Pong-cho, Chang Chol, Yi Chong-yul, Chong Ki-chol, Pak Chung-kuk, Kil Chae-kyong, Choe Yong-hae, and other functionaries from sectors concerned.

Ambassador Ricardo Danza Sigas spoke at the banquet. He referred to achievements attained by Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz in the struggle to achieve victory in the Cuban people's revolution and to build a new society. He said Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz organized the forces of uprising, won victory in the Cuban revolution, and later strengthened and developed armed revolutionary forces and the communist party. He then said that by applying Marxism-Leninism to the peculiar conditions in Cuba, Comrade Fidel has guaranteed victory in the Cuban revolution.

He said that by bringing about a basic change in its history, the Republic of Cuba has become a free and independent country that builds perfect socialism and has greatly encouraged fraternal countries in Latin America and the Third World. He continued: Because of this, the Cuban people follow, revere, and admire Comrade Fidel as the supreme leader.

Noting the cultivation of relations of intimacy between the state leaders of the two countries in the joint struggle against the imperialists, he said emphatically that the historic meeting between Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz and Comrade President Kim Il-song has served as an important opportunity to expand and develop relations of friendship and cooperation between the people of the two countries to a higher stage. He referred to Fidel Castro Ruz's assertion at the mass meeting in Pyongyang that Cuba firmly claims that only a single Korea exists and resolutely supports the policy set forth by President Kim Il-song and by the WPK to peacefully reunify the fatherland.

He then said that Comrade Fidel consistently supports the Korean people's cause for the fatherland's reunification and praises the Korean people's heroic struggle.

He said Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz fully supports the proposal for cohosting the Olympics and that he has vowed to propagandize the talent and personality of President Kim Il-song, the great and wise leader.

Premier Kang Song-san spoke next. He said that on behalf of the WPK Central Committee, the DPRK Government, and all the Korean people, he heartily celebrates the 60th birthday of Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz, first secretary of the CPC Central Committee, president of the Council of State, and president of the Council of Ministers. He went on to say that victory in the Cuban revolution and all successes and changes in Cuba cannot be imagined without the energetic leadership of the respected Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz. He said that the 60 years of the respected Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz's life are characterized by devoted service to the anti-imperialist cause of independence, by an unyielding struggle for socialism, by energetic leadership, and by the cause of the country's national liberation and the true happiness of the Cuban people.

He said that upholding the decision of the third plenary meeting of the party under the leadership of the CPC led by Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz, the Cuban people have attained new, innovative success in the struggle to build socialism under slogans calling for production and national defense and to strengthen the country's defense capability. He then said that our people rejoice over this success and wish the Cuban people greater success in their worthwhile future struggle.

He said that our people extend positive support for the militant solidarity with the just struggle of the Cuban party, government, and people to end the occupation of Guantanamo by U.S. forces, to achieve stability with regard to the national territory, and to protect peace and security in the Caribbean Sea and Central America.

Referring to relations of friendship and cooperation between Korea and Cuba, he said that the historic meeting in Pyongyang last spring betwen Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of the people, and Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz, the supreme leader of the Cuban people, was a great event that brightened a most brilliant chapter in the development of relations of friendship and cooperation between the two countries. He then said that just as they did in the past, our people, hand-in-hand with the fraternal Cuban people, will jointly struggle with them to check and thwart the imperialists' maneuvers for aggression and war and tò achieve durable peace in the world.

Those attending the reception toasted the militant friendship and unity between the Korean and Cuban people; the long life of Comrade Fidel Castro Ruz, the supreme leader of the Cuban revolution; the long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song; and the long life of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il.

NEW JAPANESE GOVERNMENT'S 'MILITARISM' DENOUNCED

SK121152 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2155 GMT 11 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 12 August commentary: "Along the Track of War"]

[Text] The Japanese authorities reek of militarism when they talk these days. Let us take, for example, Fujio Masayuki, the education minister of the newly formed Japanese Government.

A short time ago, as was reported, the Japanese authorities distorted the Japanese militarists' past aggressive crimes by altering facts in the so-called work of revising high school history textbooks. This invited natural criticism and protests from the Asian people.

However, Fujio, the new education minister of Japan, challenged those who criticized, asking if in their history they had not committed acts similar to those of the Japanese imperialists. Fujio also expressed doubt about the legitimacy of the Far Eastern international military tribunal on major Japanese war criminals held after World War II, objecting to it and asking who gave the right to hold such a tribunal. He haughtily raved that it is time everything was retried.

A few days ago, many lawmakers from the Japanese Liberal Democratic Party [LDP] asked clamorously "What is wrong with the Japanese prime minister and other members of the Cabinet paying homage to the Yasukuni Shrine? It is natural that they should visit the shrine." This is an absurd outburst designed to disregard and justify the vicious aggressive crimes the Japanese imperialists committed against the people of other countries in the past.

It should be noted that such moves are more conspicuous since the advent of the new government headed by Nakasone as prime minister following the elections in Japan last July. This means that the new Nakasone regime is an extreme reactionary regime attempting to thoroughly implement militarism and a militarist expansionist policy, and that the Japanese reactionaries are again attempting to realize the previously failed dream of the Greater East Asian Coprosperity Sphere.

Nakasone himself stated some time ago that he intends to continue the work he began 3 and 1/2 years ago. The work Nakasone began 3 and 1/2 years ago is to accelerate the arms buildup and war preparations designed to carry out the military role given Japan by the United States, such as making the Japanese islands an unsinkable aircraft carrier, defending the 1,000 mile sea traffic route, and blockading the waters, while deeply involving Japan in the U.S. Asian strategy and engaging in the plot to form a triangular military alliance between the United States, Japan, and South Korea.

The remarks by the new education minister and the LDP lawmakers are based on Nakasone's militarist aggressive plan, and the remarks represent their haughty attitude that since the LDP holds a stable majority in the parliament, they have nothing to worry about in accelerating this war line.

The Japanese authorities rave about peace, but in fact, they are pursuing war. They are drastically increasing military spending each year and are bent on building up armaments. Not satisfied with conventional weapons, they are taking great interest in arming themselves with nuclear weapons, and frequently conduct joint military exercises with the United States and the South Korean puppets in such exercises as "Team Spirit" and "Rimpac," in addition to the military exercises of the three services of the Self-Defense Agency. They are also desperately seeking to dispatch their troops overseas, hastening preparations for a military reinvasion of the Korean peninsula.

The facts clearly show the status of the Japanese Government of Nakasone, dashing along the road of war. This is suggested by the fact that a security council, a reorganized body of the former national defense council, has been established in the Japanese cabinet and held its first meeting a few days ago.

We see the Nakasone Government as a very unusual one that has shown itself to be extremely reactionary from the very beginning.

ACCELERATION OF CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS URGED

SK121105 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2135 GMT 10 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 11 August editorial: "Great Plan, Great Work"]

[Text] Today, all of the country's party members, working people, and KPA soldiers are vigorously accelerating production and construction by upholding the far-reaching economic construction plan of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and by being full of new hope and confidence. Great nature-remaking work to build magnificent monumental structures that will last through all eternity and huge construction projects are actively being carried out everywhere in the country on an unprecedented scale.

Today, our people are working in an important period to reach even higher peaks and create even greater miracles and innovations based on successes won in socialist construction. We have built the Nampo lockgate -- considered only an ideal until some years ago -- in a short time and in a miraculous way. Thus, we have opened a bright vista to solve the problem of water for newly reclaimed tideland.

Following construction of the Nampo lockgate, we face the heavy tasks of finishing in a short time tideland reclamation, construction of the Sunchon Vinalon Complex, construction of the Kumgangsan power stations, construction of the salt field, construction of the Seriwon calium fertilizer plant, and other major construction projects strategically important in economic construction. When all these tasks are accomplished, the economic might of the country will be drastically strengthened, the appearance of the country will be altered, and a new change will occur in our people's material and cultural lives. These will be miraculous events never before seen during the thousands of years of our country's history.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: With boundless loyalty to the party and revolution, all party members and working people should perform shining labor feats by turning out as one in the honorable and rewarding battle to build great monumental structures that will last through all eternity.

The tideland reclamation, construction of the Sunchon Vinalon Complex, and other major construction projects are great tasks carried out according to the far-reaching plan of the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song. These construction projects are the rewarding tasks of creating treasures for the development of the country and the happiness of the coming generations. When these honorable and rewarding tasks have been accomplished, problems of food, clothing, and shelter will be completely solved in our country.

Our people consider it their lifetime dream to eat rice and meat soup, to wear silk, and to live in tile-roofed houses. Today, as these dreams come true we are carrying out the extensive tideland reclamation project, construction of the 100,000-ton capacity Sunchon Vinalon Complex, construction of the largest hydraulic power plant, the construction of the Sariwon calium fertilizer plant, and construction of the salt field. This will advance our people's food, clothing, and shelter needs a step further and make them live even more independent and creative lives. This is indeed great work, which will accelerate the complete victory of socialism, and a great task never before seen in history.

When the far-reaching economic construction plan unfolded by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song is successfully fulfilled, our country will become even richer and stronger and we will proudly pass the prosperous fatherland on to coming generations.

This is indeed work, which will shine through all eternity as the history of our fatherland, and sacred work which will glorify the era of the Workers Party.

Upholding and fulfilling the far-reaching, nature-remaking plan, the likes of which has never before been seen or imagined by anyone, are the source of an honor and pride that can be shared only by the heroic people under the leadership of the great party and leader.

In those early days when he set out on the road of revolution, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song created the immortal chuche idea and, based on this, illuminated the path and destination for our people in the revolutionary struggle, always setting forth high goals and opening bright vistas. Today, with the firm economic foundation of the country established, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, with outstanding wisdom and extraordinarily untiring strength, wisely lead our people along the single road of continued innovation and advance.

Thanks to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, our people were able to complete the democratic revolution to effect social and economic changes in a breath and actively accelerate socialist construction by finishing the socialist reworking in a short time. At the same time, after entering the eighties following the seventies, they have highly displayed miracles and feats that have amazed the people of the world. The world-famous No. 3 Komdok ore dressing plant was built in just one year by our own effort and technology. Meanwhile, the Nampo lockgate was built in just five years, thus creating a heroic epic of the eighties. All of these were the result of the wise organizational work and leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and our party.

The great plan and bold operation which the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song has unfolded again this time are opening even brighter vistas for our revolution and giving great confidence and courage to our people.

To brilliantly implement the great plan and great work unfolded by the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song, our party is carrying out bold operations and wisely leading our people with shining wisdom and revolutionary courage.

The great plan and great work unfolded by the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song will be brilliantly fulfilled and accomplished, because of our party's lofty intent to remake nature and society and improve the people's standard of living according to the demand of the chuche idea and because of our party's wise leadership, which advances our revolution and construction to continued innovation and upsurges.

Victory is certain. With confidence in victory, we should vigorously advance with the speed of Chollima waging the speed battle according to the magnificent blueprint of the economic construction unfolded by the party and the leader. By so doing, we should open a new history of great upsurges in the socialist construction of our country.

The great plan unfolded by the respected and beloved leader will become a shining reality because of the party's wise leadership, the endless might of our people and the people's army that have firmly united around the party, and the firm foundation of the self-reliant economy.

The experience gained in building the Nampo lockgate over a short period of time is a precious asset to accelerate this great work victoriously.

With ardent loyalty to the party and the leader, all construction workers should possess new confidence and fully display mass heroism at all construction sites.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has given to the soldiers of the People's Army huge construction projects for the happiness of our people and the coming generations. Participating in major construction projects carried out according to the far-reaching plan of the party and the leader and devoting oneself to completing those projects are the most honorable and rewarding tasks of the youths of our era.

Loyalty to the party and leader is manifest when one carries out the orders and directives given by the party and leader in a timely and responsible manner. The exploits registered by the builders of the Nampo lockgate shine so brilliantly because they made the orders and directives given by the party and the leader their absolute objective of struggle and unconditionally carried them out, overcoming all difficulties and demonstrating mass courage.

The KPA soldiers who have participated in major construction projects should accelerate construction, highly demonstrating willingness to devote and sacrifice themselves and mass courage befitting the ranks of loyalty that have inherited the revolutionary spirit of Mt Paektu, demonstrating once again the might of the party's army, the heroic KPA.

Carrying out all work boldly is our party's consistent principle of developing work. In every project goals should be set high to make the work highly rewarding and to bring about innovation. Guiding functionaries and builders who have participated in construction should set lofty targets, undertake work on a large scale, and effect continuous innovation and leap forward with stubborn struggle at all battle sites.

Success in major construction projects is made greater when it is supported by science and technology. All functionaries and technicians should be deeply aware of the major emphasis placed by our party on the development of science and technology, and should create new miracles and exploits at all construction sites by vigorously waging a mass movement for technological innovation, controlling all processes of construction scientifically and technologically and inventing and introducing new engineering methods.

The entire party membership, the entire country, and all people should work hard to vigorously support major construction projects. The purpose of building major facilities is to make the country rich, strong, and prosperous and to make our people happy; this is work for the people themselves. Therefore, everyone has the obligation to support this construction wholeheartedly. All functionaries and workers should vigorously support major construction projects with material and labor, and relevant sectors should wage a vigorous battle to produce and supply facilities and materials necessary for construction in a timely manner. Party organizations at all levels should make party members and workers thoroughly aware of the significance and importance of major construction projects, especially that this is important work which realizes the great plan of the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song, so that they work hard with high loyalty.

Party organizations in provincial areas where major construction projects are being undertaken especially should plan, supervise, and press ahead with this construction as their first task so all provinces can be brisk in supporting the work.

Intensifying support work for construction undertaken by KPA builders is especially important.

Even under circumstances in which the enemy's new war provocation maneuvers are being accelerated, the KPA plays an important role in socialist construction. Party organizations at all levels and their functionaries should pay deep attention to providing the necessary living conditions and working conditions for KPA soldiers so their struggle zeal can be increased even more.

An important key to victory in realizing the grand plan of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, who has initiated the large-scale construction operation, is political and ideological might. Our people's political and ideological might is manifest when they consider realizing the plan of the great party and the leader their greatest honor and devote themselves to its implementation. Major construction projects should lay down all their wisdom and energy with a sense of honor and pride that they are undertaking great work for the country and nation, upholding the grand plan of the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song.

The construction projects and construction tasks to be carried out by the builders are very responsible work to defend and protect the dignity of our party and the leader, who have never failed to do what they have committed themselves to do. The KPA soldiers and builders who have participated in the major construction projects, such as the tideland reclamation sites, salt ponds, power plants, the Sunchon Vinalon Complex, and the Sariwon calium fertilizer plant should show in practice, with high success in construction, how the revolutionary fighters should defend and protect the party and leader.

All the soldiers and builders should learn from and thoroughly implement the struggle spirit of the Nampo lockgate builders. The struggle spirit demonstrated in building the Nampo lockgate is the spirit of Korea and the brave spirit of our people, who carry out the speed battle with the chollima spirit. If we work with the spirit and method of struggle of the Nampo lockgate builders, we will overcome any difficulties connected with tideland reclamation and any vast and difficult construction. Our functionaries and builders should apply the faith and courage we had in building the Nampo lockgate to major construction projects.

The determining factor in being victorious in today's great work is to uphold the party's leadership with loyalty. The dear Comrade Kim Chong-il leads the entire party membership, all the people, and all the KPA soldiers along the single road of victory for the victory of the grand construction work initiated by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. All soldier builders and workers should uphold the party's leadership and think and act according to the party's ideology and will, and should devote themselves to the struggle, sacrificing everything on the road led by the glorious party center. All victory can be realized by the unity and cohesion of the people firmly united around our party.

By creating a new miracle, continuously effecting innovation at all battle sites of major construction projects, we should demonstrate once again the indestructible might of the people and the army, firmly rallying around the party and the leader as we did in building the Nampo lockgate.

BASIC PRINCIPLES FOR BUILDING WORKING-CLASS PARTY

SK091048 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1035 GMT 9 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 9 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN today carries a signed article titled "Basic Principles of Building Revolutionary Party", which says in part:

The idea and theory on the revolutionary principles of building a working class party propounded by the respected leader President Kim Il-song are consummated in an all-around way in his classic work "Historical Experience of Building the Workers' Party of Korea". In his work President Kim Il-song expounded that the basic principles maintained by our party in the party building are, firstly, to establish a monolithic ideological system within the party, secondly, to make the party be a harmonious whole with the masses and, thirdly, to ensure inheritance in the party building.

The principles of building a chuche-oriented party propounded by President Kim Il-song are the most scientific ones that fully accord with the nature and historical mission of the working class party. In its nature, the working class party is a party which is organized and led on the basis of the revolutionary idea of the leader, different from other political parties, and a party which struggles to carry to completion the revolutionary cause started by the leader.

In its socio-class foundation, too, this party, unlike other political parties, consists of advanced elements selected from among broad working masses led by the working class and sets it as its essential demand to struggle for the realization of the chajusong of the popular masses. The mission of the working class party is to build a communist society and completely realize the chajusong of the popular masses. Such historical mission cannot be discharged in a day or two but can be carried out generation after generation.

This eloquently shows that the working class party must establish a monolithic ideological system within itself, increase its militant capacity in every way by closely uniting the popular masses, and firmly guarantee the inheritance in the party building.

Our party has held fast to the principles of building the chuche-oriented party and applied them in an overall way and thereby brilliantly solved difficult problems arising in the party building, such as imbuing the whole party with one ideology, closely uniting broad masses around the party and inheriting the monolithic nature of idea and leadership and built a party of a new type, an invincible party of chuche.

The basic principles of building a chuche-oriented party have today become a solid foundation of the dignity of our party and its might. In the course of applying these principles, our party has strengthened and developed to be a solid, mighty and indestructible party organizationally and ideologically and a promising party with an endlessly bright future.

CHUCHE IDEA BASIS OF PARTY BUILDING, ACTIVITY

SK120822 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2135 GMT 9 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 10 August special article: "The Chuche Idea Is the Starting Point of Party Building and Activity"]

[Text] The WPK is a new type of revolutionary party, a chuche party, built and activated with the great chuche idea as its guiding ideology.

In his classic work, "The Historical Experience in Building the WPK," the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song analyzed the character of our party as the revolutionary party of chuche and extensively elucidated the position and role of the guiding ideology in party building and activities.

The party's guiding ideology is the fundamental problem in the building and activities of the party of the working class, because the character and mission of the party are emphatically defined by its guiding ideology. Only when the party of the working class conducts party building and activities with a correct guiding ideology can it firmly safeguard its character and smoothly carry out its duty and mission as a political organization struggling to achieve the interests of the masses of working people, including the working class.

The party's guiding ideology is the guiding principle governing party building and activities. Our party, the party of chuche, has made it a firm principle to conduct party building and activities with the chuche idea as its guiding principle and based on the chuche idea. Herein lies the position and role of the chuche idea in the building and activities of our party.

In his classic work, the respected and beloved leader clearly elucidated that the position and role of the chuche idea as the guiding ideology of our party lies precisely in the fact that this idea is the starting point for the building and activities of our party. This is a new elucidation of the significance and role of the guiding ideology in implementing the cause of building the party.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: The chuche idea is the starting point in the building and activities of our party. The chuche idea, being the starting point in the building and activities of our party, means that our party builds its ranks and carries out its revolutionary activities proceeding from the chuche idea.

For our party -- in the whole course of building, strengthening, and developing the party and its activities and in the present and future stages of party building and activities -- the work of building the party and its activities thoroughly proceeds from the chuche idea and is unswerving in the chuche idea. Proceeding from the chuche idea, our party attaches importance to man in party building and activities and does everything to enhance the position and role of the masses of people.

The chuche idea is a man-oriented revolutionary outlook on the world based on the philosophic principle that man is the master of and decides everything. Proceeding from this, our party -- which has taken the chuche idea as its guiding principle -- has always placed importance on man and has worked in every way to enhance his position and role.

Valuing man and doing everything to enhance the position and role of the masses is an essential requirement in building the revolutionary party and its activities.

A party is a political organization where men are rallied. The party of the working class is the vanguard unit organized with advanced elements of the masses of people, including the working class. Its mission is to completely achieve independence for the masses of working people. Therefore, revolutionary party building and activities should be thoroughly conducted with the emphasis on man and should be directed toward enhancing the position and role of the masses of people, the masters of history and those in charge of the revolution. This has become a more urgent problem in our times today in which the broad segments of working masses have appeared in the arena of history and are pioneering their destinies independently and creatively.

Viewing man as the basis in party building and activities makes it possible to not only view all problems arising in advancing the cause of building the party and accelerating the revolution and construction under the leadership of the party with man placed at the center, but also to resolve these problems through work with the masses.

Based on these viewpoints and principles, our party has constantly strengthened ranks organizationally and ideologically and has organized and developed all work to successfully lead the revolution and construction. Thus, our party has vigorously pushed ahead with the revolutionary struggle and construction by indoctrinating and rallying party members and working people in a revolutionary manner and by inciting their revolutionary zeal and creative positiveness.

Our party, which has defined the chuche idea as the starting point of party building and activity, has concentrated preferential efforts on fostering the masses into independent and creative masses, while prescribing the work with men as the basis of party work. As elucidated in the classic work of the great leader, the work with men is the work to lead men to voluntarily participate in the revolutionary struggle and construction by indoctrinating and rallying them organizationally and in a revolutionary manner.

For the party as the political indoctrinator and organizer of the masses to indoctrinate and rally men in conformity with the independent rights and interests of the masses and then lead them to participate in the revolutionary struggle with lofty zeal, it should firmly grasp the work with men as the basis of its activities.

The entire course traversed by our party has been embroidered with the history of such party building and activity. All policies and struggles to consolidate the party ranks organizationally and ideologically -- including the work to establish the unitary ideological system within the party; to firmly strengthen cadre ranks; and to make the party ranks elite are clear proof that our party has done everything to enhance the position and role of the masses, while treating men as the basis for party building. Such efforts by our party have also found expression in leading the revolution and construction toward a constant upsurge by enhancing the position and role of the masses of working people and by mobilizing them.

Our party has carried out many stages of social revolution, and thus has brilliantly achieved the historic cause of socialist industrialization. All of these successes registered in our country in socialist construction clearly prove that our party is waging its party building and activity with the chuche idea as its guiding ideology.

Our party has done everything to enhance the position and role of the masses, while treating men as the basis. Using this principle, our party has carried out party building and activity. As a result, our party has changed its appearance as the revolutionary party of chuche.

Proceeding from the chuche idea, our party has also firmly adhered to the independent and creative stand. Adhering to the independent and creative stand constitutes the demand of the chuche idea. Therefore, it has become an immutable rule for our party, which has taken the chuche idea as its guiding ideology, to adhere to the independent and creative stand in party building and activity.

Only when the party firmly adheres to the independent and creative stand can it not only smoothly perform its mission and duty as the political leadership organ struggling against all manner of domination and subjugation and realize the independence of the masses, but also be strengthened and developed into an invincible revolutionary party.

Our party has taken the chuche idea as its firm guiding principle and has firmly adhered to the independent and creative stand in all fields of party building and activity. Our party has pioneered its independent road in building the revolutionary party by proceeding from the chuche idea and by adhering to the independent and creative stand.

Based on his deep analysis of the inherent demands of the communist movement and the serious weak point found during the early period of the communist movement in our country, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song presented a revolutionary party building policy to establish the organizational and ideological foundation to found the party by fostering the communists of new generations in such a way as to build the party independently, building party foundation organizations first, and then expanding and strengthening them. He then brilliantly carried out the revolutionary party building policy during the period of the anti-Japanese armed struggle. Proceeding from the situation created in our country immediately following national liberation in 1945 and the aspirations of the masses at that time, the great leader declared the founding of our party in a timely manner and then strengthened and developed the party into the party of the masses.

All lines and policies embodied since the historic roots of the party were provided under the banner of the Down-With-Imperialism Union to the present -- as the cause of imbuing society with the chuche idea has been realized -- have been based on the independent and creative stand.

In its party building, our party has not only firmly adhered to the independent and creative stand, but has also thoroughly conducted its activity independently and creatively. Our party has set all lines and policies based on its own faith and judgment and in conformity with the specific situation of our country and has carried out these lines and policies with our people's own strength and efforts. This has become the firm principle of our party.

Acting under the influence of others or resorting to others is counter to the activities of our party. Thus, our party has thoroughly emphasized the principle of the chuche idea and has adhered to the independent and creative stand in its activities. This is why our revolution and construction have been able to vigorously take a long drive and take advantage of victory along a straight road without the slightest degree of inclination or difficulty.

By firmly adhering to the independent and creative stand in its activities, our party is today enjoying the high dignity and honor of a great party with strong independence and creativity. By continuously taking the chuche idea as its guiding principle in the future as well, and by conducting its activities under the principle of the chuche idea, our party will glorify its honor as the revolutionary party of chuche eternally.

KPA SOLDIERS' CONSTRUCTION WORK PRAISED

SK111001 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] This report is from major construction sites where the drum of revolution is resounding.

Our soldier builders who have turned out at the great enormous construction sites to uphold the magnificent economic construction plans of the great leader and the party are creating new miracles and exploits each day in building everlasting monuments by demonstrating the spirit of making 1-a-match-for-100 and by demonstrating wisdom in socialist economic construction.

Our soldier builders, overflowing with vigor and spirit to again display the might of chuche Korea, are vigorously accelerating the construction of plants and facilities in all areas including the site of land reclamation on the west coast where creations and innovations are being effected, the Sunchon Vinalon Complex construction site, the site of the Kumgangsan Power Plant where the largest-scale hydraulic power plant is being built, and construction sites of the calium fertilizer plant and the salt ponds.

The soldier builders of Comrade Kim Mun-son's unit, who rose in the land reclamation work on the west coast, completed in a short time construction of a road approximately 1,400 meters long, an aggregate sorting facility, and a stone quarry which can produce approximately 12,000 cubic-meters of stones and rocks daily by loudly beating the drum of revolution. Thus, they made a breakthrough, expediting overall construction by successfully carrying out the first blasting work.

The soldier builders in these areas working with the spirit of absoluteness and unconditionality for the order and directives of the party are building an embankment several-score kilometers long across the rough sea.

Comrade Hwang Chol-yong of this unit said: [begin Hwang recording] We are faced with the grave and glorious task of accelerating construction of the (?bank). We will vigorously accelerate reclamation work with the spirit of making what is not available and [word indistinct] by highly demonstrating the revolutionary spirit. [end recording]

The soldier builders engaged in land reclamation work in Onchon, Kwangyangjin, and (Nomjolap) have been in high spirits from the beginning of the reclamation work, fighting against the rough waves of the sea with the spirit to unconditionally fulfill what is wanted by the party.

The labor exploits of soldier builders who are glorifying the 1980's with a sense of devotion to the fatherland and to the people are also displayed at the construction site of the Sunchon Vinalon Complex -- a great vinalon construction site.

Comrade Yi Yun-pong, reporter of the South Pyongan Provincial Broadcasting Committee, sent the following report from the spot: [begin recording] This is the construction site of the Sunchon Vinalon Complex. The KPA soldier builders who in building the Sunchon Vinalon Complex rose to realize the great leader's magnificent plan are implementing the assigned construction projects without fail with the tenacious spirit of making 1-a-match-for-100.

The soldier builders of the KPA unit to which Comrade Kim Chang-hwan belongs who are engaged in sewer construction along the processing line of (?chemical inspection) and methanol and gasoline are advancing the excavating work as planned by overcoming all difficulties with the indomitable courage and will fostered by the party and by effecting upsurges in the speed battle. In particular, Comrades Kim Chong-chol, Hong Chang-ui, and Kim Song-hak have overfulfilled daily excavation work by 150 to 160 percent by setting lofty targets and energetically accelerating the work.

The soldier builders of the KPA unit to which Comrade Yu Pyong-chon belongs, who rose in the basic construction work of a thread spinning workshop, are effecting continuous innovations while fully displaying the Paektu revolutionary spirit and the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and arduous struggle.

In particular, the fighters, including [word indistinct], are overfulfilling the daily basic excavation work and concrete work by more than 1.9 times while overcoming all difficulties by their own strength and launching a fierce offensive battle. [end recording]

The soldier builders of the unit to which Comrade Yi Tae-yun belongs and of the unit to which Comrade Kim Yong-sam belongs are daily creating new standards and new records in building the No. 1 drain at the No. 2 fuel processing base and in building roads and drains in the carbide area, following the indomitable spirit of struggle of Comrade O Chung-uk, an anti-Japanese revolutionary fighter, with resolute loyalty to implement the orders and directives of the party and the leader without wasting even a minute or second.

The soldier builders in the unit of Comrade Kim Paek-kil, who rushed to the construction site of the calium fertilizer plant, undertook preparatory construction as soon as they arrived on the spot cherishing a loftier resolution to display the spirit of making 1-a-match-for-100 in the rewarding struggle to implement the magnificent economic construction plans of the great leader and our party.

The North Hwanghae Broadcasting Committee sent a report about their struggle as follows: [begin recording] This is the North Hwanghae Broadcasting Committee. The soldier builders and functionaries in the facility engineering sector who rushed to build the calium fertilizer plant with the passion of loyalty to implement the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song's magnificent plan and the party's idea have risen in a struggle to successfully and quickly complete construction of the permanent plant.

Functionaries of designing and engineering sectors are vigorously waging a struggle to give priority to designing and engineering the large-scale calium fertilizer plant. The soldier builders began the construction of buildings, including their quarters, overflowing with confidence to excellently complete construction of the calium fertilizer plant in the shortest possible time. They are vigorously accelerating their work, being wet with the perspiration of loyalty. [end recording]

Meanwhile, the builders of the North Hwanghae Province, warmly greeting with fraternity the soldier builders who rushed to the construction site, are helping them with all sincerity. The fine traditional custom of unity between the army and the people has been displayed for more than a month since they arrived in North Hwanghae Province. They transported various equipment and instruments required for the construction work and other support materials, including daily necessities, to the construction spot, thus raising the morale of the builders.

The soldier builders who arrived at the construction site of the Kumgangsan Power Plant amid great expectations and interest from the people throughout the country are speedily advancing preparatory construction. Setting the combat target to build the largest power plant in our own way with wisdom and courage fostered by the party, the soldier builders have fully displayed the might of making 1-a-match-for-100 from the first day of prepartory construction. Thus, living facilities have been excellently built and the construction of temporary objects, including roads and warehouses of materials, are being vigorously pushed ahead.

The revolutionary spirit of the speed battle is being highly displayed at the salt ponds construction site.

The soldier builders here are vigorously pushing ahead with preparatory work to accelerate full-scale construction, fully realizing the significance and importance of building salt ponds that will actively contribute to further strengthening the nation's economic might and promoting the people's living standards. Thus, they completed construction of an approximately 10-kilometer road and temporary buildings in a short time. Each day they register new innovations in the struggle to build salt ponds, cherishing the lofty pride and sense of responsibility for dedicating their youth to the sacred struggle to defend the fatherland and increase the nation's wealth.

Meanwhile, the workers in Ongjin County are making and supplying the daily necessities and equipment and instruments to the soldier builders who rose in the construction of salt ponds so they would not have any inconvenience in their lives.

FOREIGN MINISTER LEAVES FOR SFRY, ROMANIA 7 AUG

BK070902 Rangoon Domestic Service in Burmese 0630 GMT 7 Aug 86

[Text] Foreign Minister U Ye Gaung and members of his delegation left by air at 0745 this morning to join Prime Minister U Maung Maung Kha who is to pay official visits to the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia at the invitation of Mr Branko Mikulic, president of the Federal Executive Council of the SFRY, and to the Socialist Republic of Romania at the invitation of Mr Constantin Dascalescu, prime minister of Romania.

Foreign Minister U Ye Guang and his delegation were seen off at Rangoon airport by Thura U Tun Tin, acting prime minister and deputy prime minister; Thura U Kyaw Htin, deputy prime minister; U Sein Tun, minister of energy; Thura U Saw Pru, minister of transport; U Tint Swe, minister of industry-I; U Min Gaung, minister of home and religious affairs; U Maung Cho, minister of Industry-II; U Saw Hlaing, deputy foreign minister; responsible officials; Mr Afzal Mahmud, Pakistani ambassador to Burma and dean of the diplomatic corps in Burma; Mr Thongchan Chotikasathian, Thai Ambassador to Burma; Mr Nicholas M. Fenn, British ambassador to Burma; Mr Yves Rodrigues, French Ambassador to Burma; Mr Walther Von Marschall, FRG ambassador to Burma; Mr (Mijodrad Nikolin), Yugoslav embassy charge d'affaires ad intermin; Mr (Marios Fedin), charge d'affaires ad interim of the Romanian Embassy; and Mr (Lin Chan Yeow), Charge d'affaires ad interim of the Singapore Embassy.

Foreign Minister U Ye Gaung is accompanied by U Khin Maung Maung, deputy minister of industry-I; Quartermaster General Brigadier General Phone Myint from the Defense Ministry; U Soe Thwin, director general of the Foreign Economic Relations Department; U Thaung, director general of the Department of Geological Survey and Mineral Exploration; U Yu Sein, managing director of the Mining Corporation-I; U Ko, deputy director general of the minister's office; and respnsible officials from the Foreign Ministry.

Prime Minister U Maung Maung Kha, accompanied by Foreign Minister U Ye Gaung and members of his delegation, will soon proceed from London to pay official visits to the SFRY and Romania.

KAREN LEADER DISAVOWS PACT WITH COMMUNISTS

BK071054 Hong Kong AFP in English 1031 GMT 7 Aug 86

[By Francis Deron]

[Text] Manerplaw, Burma, Aug 7 (AFP) -- Bo Mya, the leader of Burma's ethnic insurgents, has denied the existence of an alliance between his group and the rebel Burma Communist Party (BCP) against General Ne Win's government in Rangoon, saying such a pact was "unacceptable" to the country's minorities.

The leader of the Karen community and of the rebel National Democratic Front (NDF) was interviewed at his headquarters in this jungle encampment near the Thai border, where the NDF leadership is holding an "emergency meeting" since Monday to repudiate the alliance the BCP claims has already been made.

The non-Burmese minorities in this country together account for 60 percent of the popular of 37 million, and the NDF, besides the Christian-led, staunchly anti-communist Karens, includes eight other groups seeking self-determination for the minorities.

The outlawed BCP had said last April that a joint declaration was signed with the NDF for military cooperation against government forces. But in rejecting the agreement, Mr Bo Mya said: "The Burma Communist Party is upholding the same policy of Burmese chauvinism as the government" in Rangoon. "Today there is no fighting between us," he said of the communists. "But one day, we will have to fight them."

With an estimated 12,000 fighters, the BCP is numerically the largest of the rebel groups fighting the government, and an alliance between it and NDF forces could put Rangoon in a delicate military position.

A statment by the BCP's clandestine radio said the communists and the NDF had agreed to act jointly to overthrow the one-party regime set up by Gen Ne Win after a 1962 coup, and to replace it with a multi-party system. But, Mr Bo Mya said, such an alliance was "not legal" because the NDF delegation that signed the pact on March 24 at the BCP headquarters in Panghsang, near the Chinese border, did not have a mandate to hold talks. The negotiations had taken place at initiative of the BCP. Khaing Myo Min, a leader of an insurgent group in western Arakan state who signed the March entente for the NDF, refused to comment before the end of the emergency meeting here, expected to last several weeks.

Mr Bo Mya acknowledged, however, that the communist initiative had created an "important political problem" for the united ethnic rebels. "Some of them, very few, will support the statement, but as a matter of fact we have the opinion that all the members here don't understand clearly the fundamental principles of the NDF," he said. "According to our experience, the Karen revolution and the BCP have always been against each other ideologically," the rebel leader added.

Ba Thin, prime minister of the self-proclaimed Karen government, recalled that a united front of two rebel groups in 1956-57 fell apart after armed clashes between the two groups, adding: "We do not wish to repeat the same mistake."

Mr Bo Mya said he would not oppose an "understanding to face the common enemy" between NDF forces operating in zones neighboring BCP-held areas, on condition that such agreements be "without any political committment." The Kachin ethnic group, which also belongs to the NDF, already has such an arrangement with the BCP, and Mr Bo Mya said similar pacts could be dictated by geographical necessity.

The BCP has recognized the ethnic rebels as "revolutionary and just," a sign generally seen as suggesting a marked shift for the BCP, whose leadership remains strongly Maoist. China recently ended the military and moral backing it provided to the BCP.

The Karens, who have a regular army of about 4,000 men, have been under intense pressure for three years from government forces which have pursued them to the Thai frontier.

KMT, BCP, WNA JOIN IN BATTLE TO CONTROL DRUG TRADE

BK110155 Bangkok THE NATION in English 11 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Guerrilla fighters of three outlawed Burmese groups have combined with the militia of the former Chinese Kuomintang (KMT) to battle the forces of notorious narcotics warlord, Khun Sa, for control of an opium-producing area along the Burmese frontier with northern Thailand.

Informed sources said elements of the Burma Communist Party (BCP), the Wa National Army (WNA) and the armed Muser hill tribe group of A-bi had agreed to join the ex-KMT to fight Khun Sa's Shan United Army (SUA) along the Burmese side of the mountainous border in the area stretching from opposite the Fang District of Chiang Mai to the provincial boundary with Chiang Rai.

They said the SUA, the strongest among the warring forces, are fighting with the four groups over the huge opium plantations and heroin refineries in the area. The four anti-Khun Sa groups, said the sources, are currently attempting to expand their influence into opium plantations in the SUA-controlled area. They have met stiff resistance from Khun Sa's fighters.

According to the sources, guerrillas opposed to Khun Sa recently advanced from their border strongholds opposite Fang to a mountain range opposite Mae Ai District further north. They said the SUA guerrillas lost about 10 of their forward outposts, following a series of attacks aimed at penetrating Khun Sa's stronghold of Doi Lang on the mountainous terrain opposite Mae Ai. The fighting has been raging sporadically in the area. But details of casualties are not known.

According to the sources, the KMT fighters are former members of the Kuomintang Third Army while the Wa guerrillas belong to a pro-KMT faction in the WNA.

The participation of the BCP insurgents stemmed from their desire to share some benefits gained from narcotics trade in the area. Since China has cut down her arms and moral support to the BCP, the Burmese Communist insurgents have been seeking other sources of income, including drug trafficking, to finance their movement, said the sources.

The source said the armed-Muser hill tribesmen enaged in the campaign are remnants of the A-bi group which was earlier dissolved by an SUA offensive.

HUN SEN CONDOLES SRV'S PHAM VAN DONG ON FLOODING

BK120647 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1300 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Recently, Comrade Hun Sen, chairman of the PRK Council of Ministers, sent a condolence message to Comrade Pham Van Dong, president of the SRV Council of Ministers. The message says in substance:

I am very distressed to have received the sad news that on 22 July storms and rains over Haiphong and Lang Son have caused serious damage to people's property, dry season rice, salt marshes, thousands of meters of dikes, and particularly the loss of many lives.

On behalf of the people and the PRK Council of Ministers and in my own name, I would like to express condolences to the fraternal Vietnamese people and the SRV Government, and through you to the families of victims. We are firmly convinced that under the astute leadership of the SRV Government, the fraternal Vietnamese people will overcome this savage destruction and difficulty to quickly normalize the people's life.

PRK'S CHEA SIM TO VISIT USSR, POLAND, GDR

BK140504 Phonom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] At the invitation of the USSR Supreme Soviet, the National Assembly of Poland, and the People's Chamber of the GDR, a delegation of the PRK National Assembly led by Comrade Chea Sim, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, chairman of the National Assembly, and chairman of the KUFNCD National Council, will pay official friendship visits to the above three friendly countries in the near future.

CHEA SIM ATTENDS TRADE UNION MEETING CLOSING

BK090406 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1300 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] The Kampuchean Federation of Trade Unions' first committee successfully ended its fifth session after working for 3 days at its office.

During the 3-day session, all participants enthusiastically discussed the strengths and weakenesses of work during the 1st half of 1986 and unanimously agreed on all the targets proposed by the committee for more effective future implementation. The participants also paid attention to the work to stimulate workers and personnel to build the family-run economy, which is significant economic grouping for improved livelihood.

Speaking on that occasion, Comrade Chea Sim, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the National Assembly and KUFNCD National Council, hailed workers and personnel throughout the country for their achievements, industriousness, and sense of thrift and creative ingenuity in implementing their tasks satisfactorily. Comrade Chea Sim also exhorted all participants to disseminate all the good experiences from all the targets set by the committee among their local colleagues to advance toward greater feats in carrying out the national defense and construction tasks.

BOU THANG ATTENDS UDONG DRY-SEASON MEETING

BK030356 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1300 GMT 2 Aug 86

[Text] A meeting was held recently at the People's Revolutionary Committee office of Udong District, Kompong Speu Province, to sum up results of the 1985-86 dry-season campaign. For 2 days, members of the meeting attentively heard reports presented by various communes that wholehartedly and actively took part in accelerating the revolutionary movement and were successful in ensuring security, safety, and social order. The reports also stressed the high sense of sacrifice displayed by the authorities and population in cooperatin with the Armed Forces in flushing out, destroying, and arresting bandits and enemy informants; in ensuring defense for the villages, communes, and district; and in persuading many misled persons to return to the fold.

On this occasion, Comrade Bou Thang, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and minister of national defense highly appreciated the achievements and results of Udong District in national defense and reconstruction, particularly in attacking the enemy, by maintaining mastery both in smashing enemy forces and preventing bandits from conducting sabotage activities in the localities. He also urged the attendeese to heighten their revolutionary vigilence, accelerate efforts to build genuine revolutionary forces, and learn to enhance their political grasp and implement with high efficiency the task of restoring and developing the national economy.

BOU THANG ADDRESSES CADRE TRAINING COURSE

BK121730 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] A training course for cadres from regional armed forces was opened on the morning of 11 August at the higher cadres school under the chairmanship of Comrade Bou Thang, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and minister of national defense. Speaking on that occasion, Comrade Bou Thang hailed the great feats and victories won by our KPRAF throughout the country in their fight against the enemies. The comrade added that through their struggle against the enemies our Armed Forces have developed continuously in terms ofd quantity, quality, and combat capabilities, thus contributing to the firm defense and construction of our fatherland. He also exhorted all cadres and combatants to study hard, exchange good experiences abide by the school's discipline and regulations, and unite closely. He also wished them success in the training course.

KHIEU SAMPHAN CONGRATULATES THAILAND'S SITHI

BK140453 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 13 Aug 86

[12 August message from DK Vice President Kheu Samphan to Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi on Appointment as Foreign Minister]

[Text] To His Excellency Sitthi Sawetsila, foreign minister of the Kingdom of Thailand, Bangkok:

Your Excellency, I have received with great happiness the news that you have been reappointed to the high post of foreign minister of the royal Thai Government under the great leadership of His Excellency General Prem Tinsulanon, prime minister.

On this auspicious occasion, on behalf of the Cambodian People, the CGDK, and in my own name, I have the honor of expressing to you warmest congratulations and best wishes for your good health, happiness, and success in your lofty mission. Your reappointment is a brilliant proof of your goodness as an outstanding leader who has made precious contributions to major achievements and successes of the royal Thai Government and the Thai people in every field, particularly in national defense and in foreign affairs.

On this fine occasion, I would also like to recall a Cambodian proverb which says that a friend in need is a friend indeed. This is a deep and profound sentiment that the Cambodian people will always nurture with regard to the royal Thai Government and the Thai people, who have supported and assisted the Cambodian people in times of need by resolutely and unswervingly standing right from the beginning on the side of the just case of national liberation and survival of the Cambodian race, of the Cambodian people, and the CGDK against the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors. More recently, the Kingdom of Thailand, in cooperation with other ASEAN members, was among the first friendly countries to proclaim its support for the CGDK's 8-point proposal to resolve the Cambodian issue politically. We will always remember these noble and precious deeds of the royal Thai Government and the fraternal Thai people.

On behalf of the Cambodian people, the CGDK, and in my own name, I would like to express, once again, with moving sentiments most profound gratitude to you, and through you, to the royal Thai Government and the Thai people. On the same occasion, I would also like to reaffirm to your excellency that the Cambodian people and the CGDK will continue to do their utmost to nurture and strengthen the relations of friendship and fine cooperation which bind our two countries and people.

It is with this firm conviction that I would like to ask you to accept my highest consideration.

[Dated] Democratic Kampuchea, 12 August 1986

[Signed] Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs.

KAYSONE PHOMVIHAN CONGRATULATES THAI PREMIER

BK120602 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 12 Aug 86

["Text" of "recent" congratulatory message from Kaysone Phomvihan, chairman of the LPDR Council of Ministers, to General Prem Tinsulanon, prime minister of the Kingdom of Thailand]

[Text] I have the honor to express sincere congratulations to Your Excellency on your reappointment as prime minister of Thailand. I hold that it is now appropriate for the governments of our two countries to try to improve the neighboring and fraternal relations in all respects in order to meet the legitimate aspirations of the Lao and Thai peoples and for peace and stability in this region and the world. I wish your excellency good health and happiness.

THAILAND USES 'TRICKS' TO HANDLE FOREIGN DEBT

BK111342 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0530 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Talk: "Thailand's New Method of Handling Foreign Debts"]

[Text] Radio Australia reported on the morning of 2 August that the World Bank demanded that Thailand pursue a policy of restricting foreign debts because Thailand's foreign debts have reached some $16 billion dollars so far -- an increase of $2 billion compared to the previous year.

Immediately after receiving such bad news, the Thai leading circles declared a new policy saying that the Thai ruling circles have adopted a policy to try to reduce the ratio of foreign debts to an estimated 9 percent of the total value of goods and services exported by the year 1989. At present, the ratio of foreign debts is 10.5 percent of the total value of export goods and services. This statement may more or less create hope for the Thai people, for at present they are not only living a poverty-stricken life, but also shouldering foreign debts for the government at the rate of at least 15,000 baht per person.

Nevertheless, the hope entertained by the Thai people may become a pipe dream as it has in the past because the current Thai ruling circles have rarely kept their word. They always say one thing while doing another. For example, the Thai side has repeatedly said that it wants to develop good relations with Laos. But in reality, it has done the contrary. The cause of the current stalemate in the Thai-Lao relations is the result of the dirty hands of the ultrarightist reactionaries in the Thai ruling circles. Therefore, the statement of the Thai authorities on the efforts to reduce the ratio of foreign debts is nothing but a beautiful empty promise. The reality will not be the same as the promise.

It is only natural that intelligent Thai people realize what is reality. They can tell whether Thailand's foreign debt will increase or decrease. At present, Thailand's foreight debt amounts to more than $16 billion. In the meantime, the Thai ruling circles continue to purchase more modern weappons and war materiels from foreign countries, especially from the United States, including F-16 fighter-bombers, combat helicopters, and several other types of war materiels. They have also approved the setting up of a U.S. war reserve stockpile in Thailand with financial contributions from the Thai side. All these projects require a large sum of foreign currencies. As a result, the foreign debt of $16 billion will not be maintained, let alone reduced.

Nevertheless, one cannot be sure what will happen. This is because the ultrarightist reactionaries in the Thai ruling circles frequently spring surprises. For example, they used modern techniques to draw a new map to be used as a pretext to aggress against, nibble at, and occupy the three Lao villages in Paklai District, Sayaboury Province, in mid-1984. If they want to reduce the foreign debt figures, they can do this through numerous tricks. For example, they can change the debt figures through devaluation without concern for approval from the debtors. The second thing they could do is to step up their services to foreign countries by aggressing against their neighbors in return for financial gains in dollars to pay their debts.

THAI FOREIGN MINISTER'S RECORD, POLICY CRITICIZED

BK140607 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0530 GMT 13 Aug 86

["Talk": "The Monopolist of Thailand's Reactionary Foreign Policy"]

[Text] Respected listeners, the ultrarightist reactionaries in the Thai ruling circles have caused many difficulties and troubles for the Thai people. As a result, the innocent Thai people of all strata have suffered disasters. In the history of Thailand, he Thai people have never realized such an all-round crisis as they are today. The root cause of the difficult situation facing the Thai people at present is the reactionary domestic policy pursued by the Thai ruling circles, a policy which runs counter to the just interests of the Thai people. A second cause is the hostile foreign policy implemented by Thailand toward neighboring countries, Laos and Cambodia, in particular.

Current Lao-Thai relations result from the foreign policy pursued by previous Thai Governments which completely served the dark schemes of the U.S. imperialists in collusion with the Beijing big-nation expansionists and hegemonists, who hoped to create a tense situation in Southeast Asia in order to maintain their own interests. The one who has monopolized the implementation of the reactionary foreign policy of the thai ruling circles in previous governments is Sitthi Sawetsila, deputy prime minister and minister of foreign affairs of the Kingdom of Thailand. Despite the fact that during the elections and the preparation for the formation of the new government Sitthi Sawetsila kept quiet and did not show up to raise any hue and cry, he is still well remembered by the Thai people because the Thai mass media has regularly carried news on his activities. Through a little more profound thought, however, one can see how Sitthi Sawetsila has served the people and how enormous the crimes are that he has committed against the Thai people through his past acts.

One of the culprits who has prolonged the settlement of the problem of normalization and improvement of Thai-Lao relations is Sitthi Sawetsila himself. He is also the principal one fostering and protecting bandits before sending them to carry out activities to sabotage tranquility and create disturbances among the Lao and Thai peoples along the border areas of the two countries. He is also providing sanctuaries for and fostering the shattered forcees of the genocidal Pol Pot clique, then organizing them to sabotage and obstruct the building of a new life for the Cambodian people.

In addition, it is Sitthi Sawetsila who has caused the deterioration of the Thai role and status in the international arena and has caused Thailand to lose the prestige and trust of friendly countries to the extent that Thailand's relations with various countries in the world, in particular in trading and barter, have been aggravated. As a result, Thailand has lost the confidence of the international community, including those countries which were once considered true friends of Thailand.

Through his acts, Sawetsila has badly damaged the reputation of the Thai nation and people. Worse still is the fact that he has pursued a foreign policy which has competely served the U.S. imperialists' arms race policy and the deployment of armed forces, in collusion with the Beijing reactionaries, to create a tense situation, sabotaging security and threatening peace in this region.

Following the implementation of the said policy, Thailand has become a U.S. war reserve stockpile. The setting up of the war reserve stockpile has created a very favorable condition for the U.S. imperialists to successfully fulfill the plot to return to the Southeast Asian battlefields as well as the plot to reactivate U.S. military bases in Thai territory. Nobody can understand how, despite his aforementioned crimes, he further deceived the Thai people during the election campaigns into reelecting him as a member of parliament. Moreover, it is obvious that he will be included in the new Thai Government again. A news report said that he will even be appointed as deputy prime minister in the new Thai government. Other news sources reported that he might not accept the post of deputy prime minister so that he can ask for the post of foreign minister again. Nobody can verify the veracity of this news. The fact is, though, that most Thai people are already fed up with Sitthi Sawetsila and that they are afraid he will regain his old post again. They fear that he will continue to pursue monopolistically the same reactionary foreign policy, which will result in no way out for the Thai people and nation, which are now in the sea of all-round crisis and that he will further worsen the tense situation in relations with neighboring countries.

RADIO DISCUSSES U.S. ROLE IN THAILAND

BK110500 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0530 GMT 9 Aug 86

["Talk": "Cunning U.S. Tricks Against Thailand"]

[Text] In the latter part of the 1970's, particularly during the first few years after their bitter defeat in the war of aggression against the three Indochinese countries, the U.S. imperialists' interest in Thailand apparently diminished in the economic, political, and military spheres. For example, U.S. military assistance, including loans and gratuitous assistance, totaled $36 million in 1978 and was reduced to only $32 million in 1979. However, these figures do not correspond with Washington's true nature and militarist and bellicose intentions. Despite their ignominious defeats and great losses sustained during the war of aggression against Indochina, the U.S. imperialists' dream to dominate Southeast Asia remains unchanged. The problem is, however, to regain the influence they lost in 1975, the United States has found it necessary to strengthen its military forces in this region. This means that the U.S. bases that existed in Thailand during the Indochina war must be restored and improved to coordinate with the 7th Fleet and U.S. bases in the Philippines in order to protect the so-called vital interests of the Washington administration in the region.

For this reason, Washington's strategic plan to return to Southeast Asia has been gradually implemented. The United States has pressured various ASEAN countries in the economic sphere through its trade protectionist policy. For example, it enacted the Farm Act and the Jenkins Bill, increasing import taxes on agricultural goods and restricting quotas on ASEAN countries' textile goods exported to the United States. Thailand is one of the countries which has been directly affected by the economic measures. As a result, Thailand's economy, which is already facing a crisis, has been beset with more difficulties and complexities. Taking advantage of these economic difficulties, the United States has put pressure on Thailand to enter its orbit of the arms race and to follow its instructions.

U.S. military assistance for Thailand, including loans and gratuitous aid, increased 1 and 1/2-fold between 1980 and 1985. The assistance totaled only $54.6 million in 1981 while it amounted to more than $100 million in 1985, according to Thailand's MATICHON paper of 3 August 1986. The provision of military assistance to Thailand and the pressure put on it to purchase expensive U.S. weapons and to accept a U.S. war reserve stockpile on Thailand clearly show the cunning nature of U.S. imperialists' tricks and their success in using the Thai ultrarightist reactionaires to carry out the U.S. strategic plan of returning to Southeast Asia.

Taking into consideration the "Cobra Gold" exercise which is proceeding openly and brazenly, even though there are still some minor problems concerning the building of the U.S. war reserve stockpile in Thailand, it can be concluded that the stockpile and the restoration of U.S. bases in Thailand are the primary objectives the United States must achieve. However, these things are not desired by the Thai people and other nations in the region since they will pose a great obstacle to the effort to turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability, and cooperation as desired by the nations in this region.

PASASON ON PEACE, STABILITY IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

BK111028 Vientiane KPL in English 0904 GMT 11 Aug 86

["Peace and Stability in Southeast Asia Should be Preserved" -- KPL headline]

[Text] Vientiane, August 11 (OANA-KPL) -- "The recent violations by Thai forces of Kampuchean sovereignty and territorial integrity have been well planned and aimed at threatening the PRK and rescuing Khmer reactionaries from their setbacks," writes PASASON, the leading newspaper of Laos today. The paper says: "these violations have been carried out under the (?U.S. imperialists') instruction and in collaboration destroying peace and blocking the efforts of other countries in the region towards converting Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability and cooperation." [sentence as received] "These acts run counter to the trend of peace in the region and of negotiations between Indochina and ASEAN for solving regional problems by peaceful means," the paper stresses.

Touching on the joint U.S.-Thai "Cobra Gold" military exercises, the preparation for the building of war reserve stockpiles in Thailand as well as the violations by Thai forces of Kampuchean sovereignty, the commentary says that Thailand is going deeper and deeper in opposing the revolution of the Indochinese countries in general, and the revival of the Kampuchean people in particular. "The only way of preserving peace and stability in Southeast Asia is to put an immediate end to the arms race policy being carried out by the U.S. imperialists in collaboration with international reactionaries in the region," concludes the paper.

PASASON ON SUCCESS OF 4-5 AUG CABINET MEETING

BK101336 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 8 Aug 86

[PASASON undated editorial: "Success of a Meeting Which Marks a New Milestone for the Advancement of the Country"]

[Text] On 4 and 5 August, the Council of Ministers convened an ordinary session under the chairmanship of Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan, chairman of the Council of Ministers.

The most significant action taken at the session was unanimous approval of a council of ministers resolution on the transformation of economic units into business enterprises. The session expressed unanimous determination to create a genuine turning point for transforming [economic units] into business enterprises between now and the end of this year so as to score achievements to welcome the Fourth Party Congress.

At the meeting, the comrade chairman of the Council of Ministers emphasized certain prominent international and regional developments in recent months, expressing complete support for the peace initiatives of the Soviet Union, and exceptionally valuing the proposal on the security and peace in Asia and the Pacific as put forward by Comrade General Secretary Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev in Vladivostok on 28 July.

Touching on Lao-Thai relations, the comrade chairman of the Council of Ministers pointed out that the overall tendency in Southeast Asia and in the other regions of the world is to resolve any conflicts through negotiation for peaceful coexistence. This is a favorable time for the LPDR and the Kingdom of Thailand to resume negotiations aimed at normalizing the improvement of relations between the two countries in all respects.

With regard to the issue of effecting a new transformation of management to immediately transform the various existing economic units into business enterprises, the comrade chairman of the Council of Ministers explicitly stated the reasons for the transformation of the management apparatuses by switching from the administrative state financing system of management to the socialist business system and by building new management apparatuses. The comrade explained in depth the following three basic issues on the transformation of the economic units into business enterprises:

1. Establish the rights to self-mastery [autonomy] in running businesses and consolidating and perfecting the economic units.

2. Consolidate and perfect economic management and administrative apparatuses.

3. Make arrangement for implementation.

With regard to these issues, the comrade chairman of the Council of Ministers paid special attention to discussing the definition of the rights of self-mastery in running businesses and consolidating and perfecting the economic units. As in several other fraternal socialist countries, the situation in our country clearly indicates that if we fail to change over to the new economic management apparatuses, we will not be able to resolve our new economic tasks. Therefore, to triumphantly effect the orientation of economic and social development during the first stage of the current period, especially the second 5-year State Plan, we must modify economic management. This does not mean only to modify certain aspects but to carry out a fundamental reform along a drastic direction to do away with the centralized administrative state financing system and to turn to socialist business accountancy apparatuses so as to make the overall management system effective and practical, thus enabling us to better exploit the potentials of our country and to more fully utilize the potentials of the socialist system.

To correctly appreciate the economic management apparatuses, first of all, one must understand that the old apparatuses are of state financing nature while the new ones are of business nature. Then, we can proceed to pave the way for the new apparatuses by doing away with the state financing apparatuses and turning to the socialist business system.

Generally speaking, running a business is an art of regaining capital by doing whatever to gain income to cover all expenses and to generate profits so as to further expand the size of business dealings. In other words, it is a calculated way of making an efficient livelihood by using income to cover expenses and still make profits. The change over into business enterprises must be carried out in a rigorous, abrupt, and total manner. It must not be done in an indecisive and intermittent manner. The economic units must be self-sufficient and be able to make contributions to the state. They must not rely on state financing. As for the rights to mastery [autonomy] in running businesses by the economic units, they are, in fact, only the rights to mastership [autonomy] in carrying out trade transactions. Thus, it is necessary to permit independence and to ensure the rights to mastership for the economic units in running businesses. First, the right to self-mastership in planning must be ensured. Then, the right to self-mastership in managing finance must be guaranteed. This is because without money and without the right to own money, the economic units will never be able to run businesses.

As for other aspects of this issue, we must clearly point out the distinction and correct relationship between the two roles of the economic units in state management and business management. The socialist business enterprises are linked with plans. The plans are used to guide the businesses and the businesses are used to implement the plans. Thus, to make a successful change over to the socialist business enterprise, it is important that we must be able to outline plans. With regard to this, the outlining of long-term and medium-term economic development plans is very crucial, especially those plans on investing to build a foundation and on developing economic relations with foreign countries. In the meantime, an economic policy is also vital. If the policy is correct, all potentials will be discovered and exploited. If it is wrong, it will destroy all supportive resources. In addition, the relationship between the center and localities must be rectified by rigorously delegating more responsibilities and giving more rights to the localities in carrying out economic and social management. Only by turning to running businesses will we be able to effectively and economically utilize capital. It is only natural that the transformation of management in order to transform the administrative state financing management system into the business management system is complicated and difficult. It must be carried out in a consistent and persistent manner and it is time-consuming. But it is certain that we will be able to fulfill this goal.

MINISTERS ISSUE DECREE ON SOCIALIST ENTERPRISES

BK120630 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] On 8 August, the LPDR Council of Ministers issued a decree on turning economic sectors into financially viable socialist enterprises.

Article 1 of the decree points out: From now until the end of this year it is necessary to turn all economic sectors into financially viable enterprises. This will be carried out in two phases. In the first phase from August to September, each ministry, province, and the capital of Vientiane shall select a few key economic sectors for turning them into financially viable enterprises so that lessons can be learned by them. In the second phase from October to December 1986, the remaining economic sectors shall be turned into such enterprises.

To fulfill the above objective, the decree provides the following recommendation: Various ministries, provinces, and Vientiane municipality should organize training courses on the plan of shifting toward financially viable enterprises.

This is to be done by selecting three or four managing cadres, finance and accounting cadres, and persons in charge of a trade union to attend training and by selecting departmental chiefs and deputy chiefs, cadres in charge of the mass organizations attached to the various ministries, directors and deputy directors of various economic branches, persons in charge of various mass organizations in the provinces and Vientiane municipality, and some cadres attached to the planning and financial services at the ministerial, central, provincial, and municipal levels to attend training courses. These persons shall contribute to guiding the immediate planning work. Following the conclusion of the training courses, the various ministries, provinces, an Vientiane municipality shall dispatch cadres to assist enterprises in publicizing the policy and plan on turning economic sectors into financially viable enterprises.

In addition, the decree of the Council of Ministers provides details on the task of shifting toward financially viable enterprises. For example, it is necessary to review all the plans for 1986 regarding production potentials, the accumulation of products, commitments to the national budget, the expected production output over the next 5 years, and the 1987 plan. It is also necessary to review and evaluate fixed property and revolving funds; foumulate plans on the use of material, machinery, and labor; formulate the price list for processed products and other main products; calculate the profits of an enterprise; review and evaluate personnel assignments; improve various work units; formulate the salary and wage system based on the quantity of products turned out by a worker or contractor; and modify and improve the management mechanism of an enterprise.

The decree also advises the ministries, provinces, and Vientiane municipality to exchange views with enterprises and sign memoranda on turning economic sectors into financially viable enterprises; organize and mobilize the masses to accept the right of mastery of an enterprise; and launch emulation campaigns to implement the new mechanism and step up the production of an enterprise in order to score achievements to welcome the coming Fourth Party Congress.

LEADERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF KHAMSOUK SAI-GNASENG

BK080244 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] The funeral of Comrade Khamsouk Sai-gnaseng, member of the LPRP Central Committee, minister and chairman of the Lao-Soviet Friendship Association, was held at the That Louang Pagoda Ground in Vientiane capital yesterday afternoon in a sorrowful atmosphere. Attending the funeral ceremony were Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan, general secretary of the LPRP Central Committee and chairman of the Council of Ministers, and various comrade members of the party Central Committee and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers -- Nouhak Phoumsavan, Phoumi Vongvichit, Khamtai Siphandon, and Phoun Sipaseut -- along with comrade members of the party Central Committee, members of the SPC Standing Committee, ministers or deputy ministers, and a large number of high-ranking cadres in the center and in Vientiane capital.

In the mournful atmosphere, Comrade Sali Vongkhamsao, secretary of the party Central Committee, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, chairman of the State Planning Committee, and chairman of the committee for the funeral of Comrade Khamsouk Sai-gnaseng,read a eulogy mourning his death by giving a brief biography of the departed Comrade from the day he joined the revolution in 1949 until his passing away on 29 July 1986. Throughout his life of revolutionary activities, Comrade Khamsouk Sai-gnaseng always maintained a spirit of revolutionary struggle and was always absolutely loyal to the party. He devoted all his energy and abilities to contributing positively to the party's leadership. He served as a model in strengthening the unity among various tribes as well as international solidarity.

The passing away of Comrade Khamsouk Sai-gnaseng has caused great sorrow and grief to our Lao revolutionaries and people. His passing away is considered a loss of a senior revolutionary fighter in the ranks of our party and revolution.

On this mournful occasion Comrade Sali Vongkhamsao, on behalf of the party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers, called on the cadres, party members, combatants, state employees, and people of various tribes to strengthen unique solidarity and turn the sorrow into strength to carry out revolutionary activities to fulfill the tasks of defending the country and building socialism. Before the cremation, Comrade Sali Vongkhamsao invited the various comrade party and state leaders as well as representatives of various organizations to bow to express mournings to the remains of Comrade Khamsouk Sai-gnaseng.

MASS MEDIA COMMITTEE PREPARES FOR PARTY CONGRESS

BK100836 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 10 Aug 86

[Text] On the morning of 9 August 1986, the State Committee for News Agency, Newspapers, Radio, and Television held a consultative meeting in Vientiane to discuss coordination of activities in carrying out propaganda work in preparation for the Fourth LPRP Congress. The meeting was chaired by Son Khamvanvongsa, acting chairman of the committee, and attended by deputy ministers, vice chairmen of the state committee, vice chairman of the administrative committee of Vientiane municipality, and vice chairmen of central mass organizations along with officials working in the propaganda service from various sectors.

In the meeting, the participants profoundly discussed details on the coordination of the propaganda activities in preparing to carry out propaganda in service of the Fourth LPRP Congress, in particular propaganda on the implementation of the line and policies of the party, plans of the state, and achievements of each branch in the centers as well as throughout the country. They also discussed the use of mass media apparatuses to profoundly carry out the propaganda work in service of the political work of the party and of each branch in the immediate and distant future to effectively guarantee major issues in a timely manner.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS CONTINUE IN VIENTIANE

BK071420 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 7 Aug 86

[Text] Vientiane Province has completed political life campaigns for cadres and state employees at the provincial level. These important political campaigns are being organized for the people at the canton and village levels to enable everyone to contribute views to the draft political report of the LPRP Central Committee, which will be submitted to the coming Fourth Party Congress.

Thanks to these political campaigns cadres, state employees, and people of various ethnic minority groups understand the all-sided and great victories and achievements recorded by the entire party, army, and people in the past 10 years and are aware of some weaknesses, remaining problems, and lessons gained in the past practical deeds -- lessons that serve as a basis for carrying out work in the immediate future. Following their study the participants profoundly understood and unanimously approved the draft political report. They also attentively contributed their views toward perfecting the draft report. They are now determined to heighten their capability, creativeness, and attitude and their vigilance in order to contribute to the revolutionary task of defending and building the socialist fatherland.

Luang Prabang, Champassak Study Report

BK080419 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] Various services in Luang Prabang and Champassak Provinces are now stepping up organizing political life campaigns to study and sincerely contribute views to the draft political report of the party Central Committee to be submitted to the upcoming Fourth Party Congress. In each campaign, cadres and state employees of each locality have come to understand great victories and achievements in many fields scored by our entire party and people over the past 10 years. They have also seen weak points, remaining problems, and lessons to be used as the basis for the implementation of tasks in each field in the next stage. Following the studies, all cadres and state employees are determined to enhance their abilities, initiatives, and attitude and heighten vigilanace to contribute to successfully carrying out the movements to defend and build our socialist country.

Campaign Ends in Viangsai District

BK110248 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Political life camapigns were held early in July for cadres and workers in Viangsai District, Houa Phan Province, to study the draft political report which will be submitted by the LPRP Central Committee to the coming Fourth Party Congress. These political campaigns ended with fine success in the latter part of the same month. Another report says that the Luang Prabang provincial military command concluded a similar political campaign in early August. Through the campaigns the participants have understood the achievements recorded by the entire party, army, and people over the past 10 years as well as the clearsighted and talented leadership of the party. At the same time, the participants unanimously approved their immediate action plans and the party's strategic line of the defense and construction of socialism.

Army Units Study Report

BK101446 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 9 Aug 86

[Text] From early July to date, various army units, combat units, divisions, provincial military commands, independent units, and people's public security forces have organized sessions to study and to contribute views to the draft political report of the party central committee, which will be submitted to the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress with a sense of enthusiasm and responsibility. For example, the primary combined military training school, Division A, the Vientiane Provincial Military Command, the General Public Security Department, the Interior Ministry's Forces Training Department, Division E, the Houa Phan Provincial Military Command, Air Defense Battalion C attached to the Xieng Khouang Provincial Military Command, units under the Air Force Command, Air Defense Regiment A, Army brick factory No. 5, and several other army units recently studied and contributed views to the said political report with brilliant successes.

During the sessions to study and contribute views to this political report, cadres and combatants in each unit profoundly studied the contents of the report and were able to see the achievements and victories scored by our people in the past 10 years under the talented and brilliant leadership of our party. They also found out certain shortcomings encountered by themselves and their units in the past. They were determined to find the best solution to resolve those problems. They also studied several other issues in the draft political report.

They closely evaluated and contributed views to the draft report and expressed their solidarity with the party by pledging to fulfill their duties in the units. At present, this political life campaign is being relentlessly conducted throughout our Army.

'Division E' Preparing For Congress

BK071030 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 5 Aug 86

[Feature: "Division E prior to Party Congress"]

[Text] The working atmosphere in Division E is currently more enthusiastic and exciting than ever before. This is in response to the party Central Committee's urgent requirement to score all-round achievements to greet the forthcoming Fourth LPRP Congress. This enthusiastic atmosphere stimulates the hearts of the officers and men in the division since the congress will be a beacon for them in advancing from one victory to another. Various committees, cadres, and commanders of offices, organizations, units, schools, hospitals, factories, production units, and the various units currently carrying out the task of combat readiness and of defending the country are looking forward to the Fourth Party Congress with new hope and firm confidence. The work they are doing and the great achievements they have recorded are a result of their emulation campaigns greeting the Fourth Party Congress.

At the recent divisional conference for officers and men to review achievements in the 1st half of 1986 and to study the 10th resolution of the third party Central Committee session, the division issued an instruction to all officers and men under its commend to launch emulation campaigns to formally welcome the fourth party congress. Since then the atmosphere in the division has become especially enthusiastic. It is apparent that various offices and units under the division are carrying out their work more enthusiastically and actively. The work pattern and style of work of cadres and specialized organizations have been further improved, thus ensuring smoothness in their work. Dance units, sports units, soccer teams, and film projection units have tirelessly trained and entertained various units, thus creating an enthusiastic and joyous atmosphere in the units.

Meanwhile, various units, schools, and hospitals, such as the sawmill, dried food factory No. 4, the animal husbandry settlement, the basic army officers training school, the intermediate-level medical school, the army cultural school, hospital 106, and other construction projects under the division's supervision, have raised their production quantity and quality in teaching students and treating patients. Some units are working day and night with a high sense of responsibility. Those comrades attached to various depots have paid greater attention to maintaining and examining equipment and material.

The various units and independent companies carrying out the task of combat readiness to defend the country, including those defending the command office of the division, rear line barracks, and the frontier in the front line are determined to do their patrol duty more strictly and to resolutely defend the country and its territorial integrity as well as the people's tranquility and happiness. At the same time, they have attended tactical and technical courses to ensure the task of fighting well. They have also attentively improved the army's regulations, engaged in cultivation and animal husbandry to achieve self-sufficiency and self-reliance in all respects, and improved their own living conditions. The wave of emulation campaigns in the division is continuing with the firm hope of scoring great achievements to honorably welcome the Fourth Party Congress.

SENATE REJECTS REQUEST TO FREE UNIONIST-SENATORS

BK130754 Bangkok BANGKOK WORLD in English 13 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Excerpt] The senate, by a vote of 139 to 21, this morning rejected a request for the temporary release of two unionist-senators detained in connection with the September 9 coup last year.

One senator pointed out that Amat Khamthetthong and Sawat Lukdot -- facing sedition charges along with 38 others -- might attempt to escape if the request were granted.

The Upper House, chaired by Parliament President Ukrit Mongkhonnawin, made its decision on the two suspects in the first sitting since Parliament was reopened last week.

In putting forward the request, Amat cited Article 113 of the Constitution which states that the Senate is entitled to vote for the release from custody of its members during a parliamentary session.

Senator Sanon Saisawang opposed the release on grounds that the September 9 coup was unlike the April 1 coup.

"The April 1 coup did not cause any damage to the country's property but the September 9 coup caused considerable damage in terms of loss of lives and property and the Senate cannot act as guarantor for the release of these two men," he said.

"If they are released, what can Parliament do to prevent their possible escape?" he added.

Instead, he suggested that the two follow normal legal procedures and request bail in court as other coup suspects -- for instance Senator Gen Soem na Nakhon -- had done.

Both Amat and Sawat on many occasions earlier had been refused bail --due to police objections -- although five top brass suspects, including Gen Soem, have been granted the provision.

Sanon's statement was backed up and supported by many other senators, namely Amon Raksasat and Chawalit Rungsaeng.

However, Senator Adm Chinda Chaiudom called for a soft approach towards coup suspects since harsh punishment would not guarantee that there would be no more coup attempts.

Parliament Speaker Ukrit called for a vote on the issue after a few more people voiced their opinions.

Earlier, Senator Chawalit Runsaeng told newsmen that there would be a free vote on the matter in the absence of a senate coordination committee which was dissolved along with the last Parliament on May 1.

Amat over the weekend voiced hope that other senators implicated in the same case would help push in favour of his request.

Other senators facing coup charges but released on bail include Gen Soem, Air Chief Marshal Krasae Inthararat and ACM Arun Phromthep.

Gen Yot Thephatsasin and Roi Et MP Gen Kriangsak Chamanan are two other top brass officers also granted bail last February. [passage omitted]

CENTRAL BANK MOVES TO RESOLVE EXPORT PROBLEMS

BK120500 Bangkok THE NATION in English 12 Aug p 17

[Text] The Bank of Thailand has agreed to provide more assistance to exporters in stock financing and reduce the penalty rate on delayed repayment of promissory notes.

The central bank sent a circular to all commerical banks yesterday. The new facility will increase financing by 500 million baht through promissory notes by exporters.

Spokeswoman Mrs Praphaphim Sakuntaphai said that the level of stock financing will increase by 10 per cent from 50 to 60 per cent of goods stock based on commercial bank's valuation.

A 10 per cent increase -- from 60 to 70 per cent -- has been provided for financing stocks of rice, jute and tapioca products which face problems in exports. The new facility will remain in force until the end of December this year for the three products, after which the level of financing will be equivalent to other commodities, she said.

The penalty rate will be cut to only eight per cent of the value of promissory notes, representing a cut of three per cent to be in line with the existing interest rates in the market. When combined with the interest rate on stock financing at seven per cent, the total is 15 per cent, is the current market rate, she said.

The company has penalized exporters who were found to have misused the export financing facility. At present, the outstanding is 900 million baht, comprising 364 million baht from last year and 125 million baht in the first half of this year.

The central bank, said Mrs Praphaphim, has also extended the period for penalty payment. There will be no penalty pre-payment penalty but penalty will be imposed when exporters fail to fulfill their shipment when the facility expires.

In another category, exporters will be given two months exemption from more months to be penalized when they have enough reason for the delay. By this, exporters must present the bill of lading and invoices to the central bank. If the 60-day period expires the central bank will impose penalty.

Mrs Praphaphim said the change will lead to an additional 500 million baht in stock financing. Last year, the facility used by exporters amounted to 7,565 million baht. In the first half of this year, it amounted to 4,800 million baht out of the total of 37,000 million baht marked for the facility.

Those eligible for the financing are exporters who have working capital of five million baht, international trading firms with privileges from the Board of Investment (BoI)) and exporters of industrial goods manufactured by Boi-promoted firms and exporters who use the service of Thai flag carriers and those who export rice, jute, and tapioca products, said the spokesman.

SLOW PROGRESS NOTED IN JOINT INVESTMENT WITH PRC

BK110956 Bangkik ZHONG HUA RIBAO in Chinese 8 Aug 86 p 9

[Text] Joint investment between China and Thailand has made slow progress because China has maintained a closed-door policy too long and lacks economic, and scientific and technological knowledge; while Thai businessmen who go to invest in China are afraid of China's changeable policies. However, cooperation between the two countries still has a future.

A report on the Sino-Thai economic and trade situation by the Board of Trade of Thailand says that China lacks understanding of the investment situation in Thailand and accuracy in selecting investments and business partners. At the same time, China also lacks administrative knowledge. Its administrators have worked at state enterprises, and are used to working under the direction of the country's economic policies. They are unaccustomed to cooperating with foreign countries. The main reasons are that they lack economic, technical, administrative, legal, and financial knowledge.

Many problems occured because they lack experience in foreign investment, and do not make an advanced analysis of each investment project.

As for Thailand's investments in China, Thai investors are afraid of China's changeable policies. Nor do they understand economic conditions in China, nor know what business to invest in. However, the prospect for joint investment between the two countries is still bright because both countries are concerned with the benefit of foreign investment, and both governments have always given vigorous support to foreign investment.

Bilateral trade between the two countries has increased fourfold during the past 10 years from a volume of 2,728 million baht recorded in 1976 to 13,442.41 million baht in 1985. Thailand had a trade deficit for most years. It enjoyed a trade surplus only in 1977, 1982, and 1985.

NEW YOUTH LEAGUE BELIEVED LINKED TO COMMUNISTS

BK120501 Bangkok THE NATION in English 12 Aug 86 p 2

[Text] A newly-established illegal organization, which is believed to have some linkage with the Communist Party of Thailand (CPT), recently expanded its networks from the South to the northeastern region, an informed military source said.

He said the movement, known as "The Democratic Youth League of Thailand," started to expand its underground networks from the South to some provinces in the northeastern region about two months ago.

According to the source, the organization was established about three months ago in the southern region.

The source said the movement, which follows the communist ideology, is trying to set up political bases in southern and northeastern towns.

He said members of the organization, mostly comprising students from universities and colleges, have some contact with businessmen in some southern and northeastern townships.

The source said the organization about two months ago held a meeting, presided by Comrade Suriyan leading member of the movement, in the northeastern province of Udon Thani to map out a plan for its political struggle.

However, the meeting did not reach any conclusive decision because the attending members broke into two factions, said the source. He said one group proposed that the movement launch an aggressive political campaign while another faction prefers the struggle to be carried out peacefully.

The military officer said that though there is still no concrete evidence, the underground organization is believed by the military to have some linkage with the pro-China CPT, which currently has about 100 armed insurgents hiding in the northeastern region.

The military source also reported that about 1,000 armed insurgents of the pro-Soviet faction of the Thai communist movement are currently based in Laos.

However, he said that so far there is no significant movement of the pro-Vietnam and Soviet insurgents in the Northeast.

NUMBERS ON THAI-CAMBODIAN BORDER CITED

BK120826 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in Thai 1030 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] According to a recent report from the Supreme Command Information Office, the number of Cambodian refugees and illegal immigrants at the Khao I-Dang temporary center for illegal Cambodian immigrants is 25,658 and the number of Cambodians who fled fighting in their country to areas along the Thai-Cambodian border is 259,676. These Cambodians are staying along the borders of Sisaket, Surin, Prachin Buri, Chanthaburi, and Trat provinces.

TRUONG CHINH RETURNS FROM 'VACATION' IN USSR

OW131604 Hanoi VNA in English 1542 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 13 -- Truong Chinh, general secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and president of the State Council, returned here today after a vacation in the Soviet Union at the invitation of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

SOURCE SAYS NGUYEN CAN TO MEET U.S. MIA TEAM

BK131214 Hong Kong AFP in English 1206 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi, Aug 13 (AFP) -- A team of U.S. experts arrived here Wednesday for talks with Vietnamese officials about U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action (MIA) in the Vietnam war, an authoritive Vietnamese source said. The U.S. experts, led by the head of the U.S. Forces' Joint Casualty Resolution Centre in Hawaii, Colonel Joe Harvey, is to have a working session Thursday with a team from the Vietnamese bureau dealing with U.S. MIA's, led by Nguyen Can, the source said.

It is not known what will be discussed, but observers here believe further joint searches of crash-sites of downed U.S. warplanes could be on the agenda. Observers say the Vietnamese side might reply to a U.S. letter delivered at a meeting here last month of U.S. and Vietnamese officials, which formally accords U.S. support to Vietnam's unilateral plan to settle the MIA question.

The U.S. team is due to leave here on Friday.

OFFICIAL TELLS PRC OF PLAN TO RETURN 'INTRUDERS'

BK131506 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] On 13 August, Comrade Hoang Nhu Ly, deputy director of our Foreign Ministry's China Department, met with Chen Tsenglin, counselor of the Chinese Embassy in Hanoi, to inform him that, on the occasion of national days of Vietnam and China this year, proceeding from its respect for the friendship between the two peoples and its humanitarian policy, the Vietnamese Government has decided to return soon to the Chinese Government 27 Chinese who illegally intruded into Vietnamese territory and were captured by the Vietnamese side so that they may be reunited with their families.

TWO SENTENCED IN HANOI FOR SPYING FOR PRC

BK131414 Hong Kong AFP in English 1401 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Excerpt] Hanoi, Aug 13 (AFP) -- Two young Vietnamese have been sentenced to up to eight years in prison for spying for China, the HANOI MOI newspaper reported Wednesday. Nhuyen Van Boi, 26, and Nguyen Van Ba, were sentenced to 12 months and eight years respectively by the people's court in Hanoi, the newspaper said.

It said Boi, a Hanoi native, entered China in April 1984 where he was wooed by the Chinese secret service with "money, goods and girls" to conduct espionage in Vietnam, it said. After a training period in China, Boi was sent to Vietnam to "collect intelligence and train Vietnamese to flee into China," it said.

During his first mission he was able to bring his friend Ba back across the border with him, it said. But on a second mission, accompanied by Ba and carrying Chinese tracts, Boi surrendered to Vietnamese authorities after members of the public threatened to denounce him, the newspaper said.

Boi got a 12-month sentence because he had turned himself in, HANOI MOI said, while Ba got a stiffer eight-year term for having "refused to present himself" to the authorities.

Spying can carry the death sentence in Vietnam. [passage omitted]

TRUONG CHINH GREETS SINGAPORE PRESIDENT

OW090803 Hanoi VNA in English 0718 GMT 9 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 9 -- President of the State Council Truong Chinh yesterday cabled his greetings to President Wee Kim Wee on the 21st National Day of the Republic of Singapore (August 9).

LEADERS CONGRATULATE THAI COUNTERPARTS

OW131727 Hanoi VNA in English 1548 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 13 -- Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong has sent warm congratulations to Prem Tinsulanon on his re-appointment as prime minister of the Kingdom of Thailand.

The message said: "It is of significance that Your Exellency's appointment to this high post was made at a time when we had marked the 10th anniversary of our countries' diplomatic relations, thereby ushering in a new period in their friendship and cooperation. The abnormality in the two countries' relations at present is only temporary and is not in conformity with the interests of the two peoples as well as with the common trend in the region and in the world.

"I believe that with the new government headed by your Excellency and with the goodwill of the two sides, we will establish a mutual trust and understanding aimed at developing the friendship and good neighborliness for the benefit of the two peoples, and for peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

"I avail myself of this opportunity to reaffirm the Socialist Republic of Vietnam's consistent policy of respecting the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Thailand, and its readiness to develop its friendship and cooperation with Thailand and other countries on the basis of the principle of peaceful co-existence".

Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach has also sent his congratulations to Sitthi Sawetsila on his re-appointment as foreign minister of Thailand.

LEADERS CONGRATULATE MALAYSIAN COUNTERPARTS

OW131728 Hanoi VNA in English 1546 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 13 -- Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong today extended warm congratulations to Mahathir Mohamed on his re-election as prime minister of Malaysia.

The congratulatory message says: "May the Malaysian people, under Your Excellency's leadership record new achievements in building a happy and prosperous Malaysia.

"I hope that the ties of friendship and cooperation between Vietnam and Malaysia will be further consolidated and developed in the interests of the two peoples, and for peace, friendship and cooperation in Southeast Asia".

Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach has also congratulated Rais Yatim on his appointment as Malaysian foreign minister.

LATE REPORT: OFFICIALS REPATRIATE U.S. CITIZEN

BK141028 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] The local authorities in the southern province of Nghia Binh has repatriated an American citizen who had illegally entered Vietnamese waters. The man, (Robert Wilfred Sharp III), a native of Georgia and a resident of Atlanta, was arrested while committing acts against the sovereignty and security of Vietnam on 23 April 1985.

The American confessed to his violations of the criminal code of the SRV and committed not to repeat his acts against Vietnam. He also asked the Vietnamese Government for mercy. (Robert Wilfred Sharp III) was duly fined and before his repatriation on Wednesday [13 August] expressed gratitude to the humanitarian and lenient policy of the Vietnamese Government and people.

MALAYSIA

MAHATHIR SAYS NEW CABINET TO REVITALIZE EOCONOMY

BK111419 Kuala Lumpur Domestic Service in English 1130 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed says the new cabinet's top priority will be to revitalize the national economy. He said the two main areas identified were unemployment and investments. He said commodity prices are beyond the government's control and expect them to remain at low levels so long as there are quarters manipulating prices in the international market. As it is, the government has to look to other areas to strengthen the national economy. He said this to newsmen after announcing his cabinet lineup. Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir said in the government's effort to reduce expenditure it will privatize several of its agencies including the telecoms department.

Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir also said the government will not make any major changes in the existing polices. The present policies will be continued as they are accepted by the people and that was the reason the people had given the Barisan Nasional a fresh mandate to rule. The cabinet lineup announced by Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir has been described as one designed to reflect the government's aim to continue its sound political, economic, and social policies.

A cross-section of Malaysians interviewed including those in trade unions, teachers unions, political parties, the business sector, and consumers movements said they were pleased to see many old faces retained in the government. Those from the financial and business sectors said they were happy to note that there was continuity in the Finance and Trade and Industry Ministries as this will ensure continuity in the country's economic policies. They also said that the quick announcement of the cabinet lineup after the general election is good because it will stop all forms of speculation.

ISLAMIC PARTY'S SPIRIT NOT DAMPENED BY DEFEAT

BK080845 Kuala Lumpur NEW STRAITS TIMES English 7 Aug 86 p 5

[By Farush Khan]

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, Wed -- PAS' [Pan Malaysian Islamic Party] crushing defeat in he general election has not dampened its spirit to struggle for an Islamic state, party president Haji Yusof Rawa said today.

"We lost the battle, but not the war," he told the press at the PAS headquarters here.

The result of the election, he said, showed the party still had the support of many people in the country.

PAS will maintain all its policies and objectives because it believes they are in line with the teachings of Islam.

"Our spirit is not dampened by the defeat because the ultimate objective of our struggle is not to win the election, but to struggle for the cause of Islam."

Haji Yusof said PAS's cooperation with non-Muslims through the Chinese Consultative Committee (CCC) would be intensified and the understanding it had with other opposition parties through the electoral pact would be maintained.

"We will still hold on firmly to the joint declaration (with SDP Socialist Democratic Party], Nasma [Nationalist Party of Malaysia], PSRM [People's Socialist Party of Malaysia] and the Workers' Party, though some of the parties might have breached the conditions."

He admitted that the pact signed on July 14 had partly contributed to the party's defeat, saying there was not enough time to strengthen the alliance and explain it to voters.

However, PAS will conduct a post-mortem to find out the cause of its failure on the polls.

All PAS divisions have been directed to submit their reports on the cause of the defeat in their constituencies before the party's general assembly, expected to be held in Rusila, Terengganu, at the end of next month.

The general assembly was originally scheduled from Aug 1 to 3, but it was postponed following the dissolution of Parliament on July 19.

Haji Yusof said the role of the CCC and the objective of the electoral pact would be explained in detail in his policy speech during the general assembly.

SINGAPORE

LEE KUAN YEW DELIVERS NATIONAL DAY SPEECH

BK100805 Singapore THE STRAITS TIMES in English 9 Aug 86 p 18

["Full Text" of Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew's 1986 National Day Speech]

[Text] The GDP in the first six months of 1986 was 1.3 percent less than for the same period last year.

The Economic Committee Report released in February 1986 is a landmark for the younger generation.

A committee of a younger minister, officials, trade unionists, executives, professionals, and businessmen analysed our problems with brutal frankness and made many recommendations for lowering business costs and for new directions in our economy, with the private sector leading the way.

The Government accepted the recommendations. But we did not agree to reduce personal and company taxes in full.

They will be reviewed in a few years and further reduced if it is necessary to take account of tax changes in the countries of our investors, like America and Japan, and in the countries of our competitors, like Hong Kong, Taiwan and Korea.

We have made an appreciable cut of 12 percent in the wage cost of employers, through a 15 percentage-points cut in the employers' CPF [Central Provident Fund] contribution.

More important, we decided to have wages restrained for two years to keep labour costs from rising and worsening our competitive position against Hong Kong, Taiwan and Korea.

Even after these two years, whether we regain a competitive wage position depends on how we shall have increased our productivity as compared to how our competitors have increased theirs, and also how they have increased their wages.

In the first quarter 1986 our economy declined by 3.4 percent compared to the first quarter 1985.

The second quarter increased by 0.8 percent.

It is too early to cheer, but the signs show a turning for the better.

It this trend continues, we may end up with a zero or even a small positive growth instead of minus 1.5 percent as earlier forecast.

One indication of the depth of the recession is in two sets of figures: Our external trade for the first half 1986 went down in dollar terms by 10 percent, whilst the volume of cargo handled went up by 9 percent, that is, 9 percent more cargo but worth 10 percent less.

If all cargoes were commodities, the fall in value would be nearer 30 percent.

Many things can happen to reverse the small progress we have made. The world economy is beset with problems.

If we are lucky, we may get a weak recovery by the end of this year or the middle of next.

That will not mean that all is well, or that we can go back to old times and high wage increases.

First, we have to make up for two years of negative or poor growth in 1985 and 1986.

Second, we shall have to keep wage increases in line with increases in productivity.

The policies to get us out of recession and back into growth have been settled by my younger colleagues.

I have expressed my views, at times, strongly. But I considered the general thrust of their policies sound, and I did not alter them.

Particular responsibility rests on Goh Chok Tong as First Deputy Prime Minister, and Ong Teng Cheong as secretary-general of the NTUC [National Trade Union Congress], who both backed the measures proposed by Lee Hsien Loung as Acting Minister for Trade and Industry.

Dr Tony Tan was Minister for Trade and Industry before February 1986 when the economic committee deliberated on these problems.

His support for their recommendations was decisive. We decided to reduce fees and taxes significantly. This was possible because we have always been frugal. We have not run budget defictits, nor do we have foreign debt.

But the decision on wage restraint is not easy to implement. It requires the cooperation of the workers and the unions, for two years.

So far, so good. Workers and unions have exercised restraint, because it is obvious to all that the economy is doing poorly.

The real test will come next year. If, as I hope, we register some positive growth in the first half of 1987, there is the danger that some workers and union leaders may want to jump the gun.

That will be a mistake. It will damage the most valuable asset that our younger leaders and our younger workers are together creating and accumulating in partnership: That report, that cooperation, that working in tandem which make plans come true and generate investor confidence.

Investors know Singapore is in the midst of transition -- a transition to a second generation leadership, and, at the same time, a transition into a more mature economy.

The second generation leaders are proving that they can measure up, that they can make tough decisions, and that they can get the people to back their policies. However, after recovery, growth will not resume the 8-10 percent we have got used to for 20 years. It will be more like 3-5 percent.

Because of low birth rates, fewer workers are coming into the workforce.

And because we are now a middle developed economy, we no longer have so much easy gains to make, as we did when large numbers of our unemployed rapidly became workers in new industries, making for big increases in our GDP.

We must recognise and accept these realities. To hope for a return to high growth is to be unrealistic and to be disillusioned.

However, if we work in tandem, if Government, unions, and management are at one, not at odds with each other, we shall still make considerable growth in real terms.

For the 3-5 percent is now based on a higher per capita GNP base of $14,300 compared to $5,900 in 1975, that is, two-and-a-half times higher.

The key to new growth is to get investors to venture their capital in Singapore.

New investments will bring us new enterprises. Many of these will turn out to be sunrise industries.

We must also encourage the investors already here to invest more, to upgrade their equipment and to expand into new growth areas.

It was the continual and continuing flow of new investments that kept our economy humming for over 20 years, despite two world recessions in 1974 and 1980 caused by sudden and sharp increases in oil prices.

Singapore is what she is today because my generation, both workers and leaders, together faced our problems squarely and dealt firmly with them. We roughed it out together.

The younger generation in their turn can prove that setbacks do not knock them off balance. Indeed hardship can bring more out of them.

Confronting a challenge together can make for that team spirit between leaders and people, that camaraderie, that willingness to share and to bear burdens for the good of all.

Investor reaction is promising. Investment commitments for the first six months are about $600 million, comparable to the same period last year.

But overall for the year, we expect investment commitments to total $1.4 billion, up from $1.1 billion in 1985.

The long-term trends are favourable: low oil prices, low interest rates, and low U.S. dollar.

If there are no international upsets like a Third World debt default, the forecasts are that industrial countries will have more growth, 3.5 percent for 1987 as against 3 percent for 1986.

Our exports will get a boost provided we are competitive against Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Korea.

We have to be trim, nimble, and productive. Only then shall we attract our share of new investments, especially for Japan, where many industries are no longer viable because of the stronger yen.

The drop in the value of the U.S. dollar (and with it the Singapore dollar) since last September against the yen, 40 percent, and against the German mark, 30 percent, means that we can sell more to Japan and to Europe.

This can be seen in tourist arrivals, Europeans up 10 percent, Japanese up 2.5 percent, Americans down 0.5 percent, worldwide up 2.8 percent.

I believe we have gone through the trough of this recession.

We have had no collapse of any bank or finance company. Our finanical institutions and our finances are sound.

Only some stockbroking companies have gone under because of high-risk forward contracts.

And that happened not because of over-regulation, but because of poor self-regulation.

The next generation of leaders and workers have moved into key position.

They have to prove themselves equal to the job, now grown more complex and more demanding.

We shall know in another 18 months how effective they are. The early signs are good. There are signs that investment commitments may increase.

If workers observe wage restraint and increase productivity, we shall make up for the extra high increases we had given ourselves in 1983 and 1984 and become competitive against Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Korea. Then we shall be back to healthy growth.

MOKHTAR, DHANABALAN TO DISCUSS CAMBODIAN ISSUE

BK131146 Singapore Domestic Service in English 1100 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] The Indonesian foreign minister, Dr Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, is in Singapore to hold talks with the minister for foreign affairs, Mr Dhanabalan. Speaking on his arrival at Changi Airport, Dr Mokhtar said in particular he would discuss the Cambodian question because of the Cambodian leader Prince Sihanouk's recent visit to Singapore and his coming trip to Jakarta.

He said ASEAN foreign ministers should now continue consultations. This is because of the coming UN General Assembly sessions, the Vietnamese party congress at the end of the year and Dr Mokhtar's planned visit to Hanoi after the congress.

Commenting on reports that China would not insist on a dominant position for the Khmer Rouge faction in the Cambodian coalition government if Vietnam withdraws from Cambodia, Dr Mokhtar said that pointed to a great deal of flexibility on China's part. It also showed that there is greater willingness to include the Vietnamese-back Heng Samrin regime in the 4-way coalition. Dr Mokhtar said he wanted to explore these points further in his talks with Mr Dhanabalan.

MISUARI RETURN SET FOR LATE AUGUST

HK140043 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 13 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Rey Arquiza and Marlen Ronquillo]

[Text] Chairman Nur Misuari of the Moro National Liberation Front will come to Manila late this month to hold peace talks with government representatives on the protracted Mindanao problem, according to Deputy Foreign Affairs Minister Mamintal Tamano.

The Constitutional Commission [Con-Com] meanwhile, aborted the possibility of a change of heart by the MNLF official when the members reached a consensus favoring autonomy to the Cordilleras and Muslim Mindanao.

The body, however, agreed to limit the autonomy provisions to the two regions.

Misuari's warning that the scheduled peace talks may still be aborted should the Con-Com reject the autonomy grant to the two regions was relayed yesterday to the members by Abul Khayir, secretary general of the Muslim Federal Party.

Alonto [not further identified], who arrived Sunday from a round of talks with Misuari and other MNLF leaders in the Middle East, conveyed to the Con-Com the latter's fears of the outbreak of renewed fighting in Mindanao if the result of the deliberations were adverse.

Tamano said Libyan Ambassador Salem Addebb [name spelling as published] had relayed a message to President Aquino from Libya's Muammar al-Qadhdhafi on Misuari's impending arrival. Al-Qadhdhafi had persuaded Misuari to cooperate with the new government, Tamano added.

The MFA [Ministry of Foreign Affairs] official said that al-Qadhdhafi urged early implementation of the Tripoli Agreement.

Meanwhile, he also reported that the government is listing all claimants and heirs to Sabah for the early settlement of the ticklish issue with Malaysia.

"Nur Misuari believes that there will bew no basis for holding the peace talks if the Con-Com votes down a provision for a meaningful and substantive autonomy for a Muslim Mindanao and the Cordilleras, Alonto told INQUIRER.

Alonto said his July 29 talk with Misuari focused on the draft provision endorsed by the Con-Com Local Government Committee for the creation of the autonomous regions for the Cordilleras and Muslim Mindanao.

Misuari, according to Alonto, feels that the Con-Com should not tie the hands of the Aquino government on the autonomy issue.

Misuari was "not too rigid" about his conditions for the peace talks. A mere decision from the Con-Com to lay its hands off the autonomy is acceptable to Misuari, Alonto said.

Misuari also expressed full support to the demands of the Cordillera people for a meaningful autonomy, he added.

Alonto said that Misuari does not discount the outbreak of hostilities in Southern Philippines should the Con-Com fail to pass the autonomy provisions and abort the peace talks scheduled in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia in September.

"Nur Misuari is not a man who makes threats. He left his statement at that." Alonto was a former MNLF Commander and political opposition [as published] of the Marcos regime.

"Autonomy and war" was the warning raised by two Con-Com members in their sponsorship speech of the committee level provision the other day.

Con-Com member Blas F. Ople and Ponciano Benagen called Con-Com's attention to existing conditions in Southern Philippines and the Cordilleras.

Benagen said the people in Muslim Mindanao and the Cordilleras are capable of waging a full blown war against the present government.

Ople said MNLF troops are holding their fire because of the coming peace talk in Jeddah and the scheduled meeting of the Organization of Islamic Conference (OIC).

Con-Com Approves Autonomy

HK140157 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] At the Constitutional Commission, the creation of autonomous regions in the Cordilleras and Muslim Mindanao was unanimously approved yesterday [13 Aug]. The provision for the creation of the two autonomous regions was embodied in section one of the revised article on local government prepared by the local government committee, headed by Commissioner Jose Nolledo. Expected to be included in the Muslim Mindanao autonomous region are the provinces of Lanao del Sur, Lanao del Norte, Maguindanao, Sultan Kudarat, Basilan, Sulu and Tawitawi. In the Cordillera region, expected to be included are Kalinga-Apayao, Abra, Baguio City, Mountain Province and Benguet.

SULTANS WANT TRIPOLI AGREEMENT REPUDIATED

HK131000 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 11 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Ed C. Perpenao]

[Text] Fifteen sultanates in Northern Mindanao want the Aquino government to repudiate the Tripoli Agreement which called for political autonomy in Regions 9 and 12 and the establishment of an independent Muslim army there.

Abdulah Ali Pacasum, sultan of Balo-i, said the leaders of these sultanates are now discussing an alternative to the agreement to end all hostilities in Mindanao.

The agreement, forged in 1976 between the Marcos regime and the Islamic Conference in Tripoli, Libya, is being reviewed by both the Aquino government and the Moro National Liberation Front in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia.

Through the negotiating table, the government seeks to end the MNLF-led Muslim insurgency in the South.

Pacasum said traditional Muslim leaders, including the imams, are against political autonomy or secession as originally demanded by MNLF rebels.

He added that the Tripoli Agreement "does not reflect the popular will" of the Muslim community.

"Only radical Muslims want the secession of Mindanao from the republic," Pacasum said. "And secession is not the solution to the Muslim problem."

Asked what alternative the leaders of the sultanates would submit to the government, the sultan merely said they will "help the Aquino government find a peace formula."

He added that his sultanate is spearheading a plenary meeting of the leaders of 14 other major sultanates in other regions.

The sultanate of Balo-i is one of four major principalities in Mindanao and Sulu called Pat-a-Pangampong which holds together all Maranao communities in the Lanao region.

MANILA BULLETIN ON CORDILLERA AUTONOMY

HK130015 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 12 Aug 86 p 4

[Editorial: "Demand for Autonomy"]

[Text] As late as the 1960's, we had not heard the Muslim demand for autonomy that is being aired for several years now. There might have been the silent desire to secede on the part of a few, considering the continual clashes between the government and some leaders and the cultural differences. But that was all.

It was only fairly recently that we started reading about the alleged demand by some leaders of the Cordillera provinces for autonomy. The demand came as a bit of a shock for many of us here.

The demand for autonomy in the far south and in the mountainous north is not surprising. It was motivated by long-standing neglect. For many years the government failed to provide the services needed by the rural folk and, interestingly, the representatives of those people in the legislature did not exert any truly significant effort to make the national government give more attention to their constituents.

In the south, economic deprivation was one of the reasons for the MNLF rising of the 1970's. That means to say, if the youths had jobs they would not have been easily swayed to take up arms against the government, for the MNLF soldiers were being paid as they fought the government.

In the Cordilleras, the people were not only neglected; they were also abused by government soldiers. That is why the people welcomed then candidate Corazon Aquino as a liberator when she visited some parts of the region.

If autonomy means granting more appropriations for the neglected regions and looking after the welfare of the people, by all means they should be given what they are asking for.

AQUINO PROMOTES 19 MILITARY LEADERS

HK060301 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 5 Aug 86 pp 1, 10

[By Ding Marcelo]

[Text] President Aquino has promoted 16 colonels to brigadier general and three Navy captains to commodore. All reportedly were military officials whose advancement had been "frozen" by former Armed Forces chief of staff Gen. Fabian Ver.

The appointees took their oaths before the President yesterday in simple rites at Malacanang attended by Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippine] chief of staff Gen. Fidel Ramos, and other Cabinet officials, along with the wives, children, and close relatives of the new generals.

Promoted to brigadier general were Col. Perfecto Arribas, Army; Federico P. Pasion Jr., Air Force; Luis G. San Andres, Constabulary; Franklin V. Samonte, Army; Capt. Reogclio Dayan, Navy; Antonio R. Samonte, Army; Capt. Carlito Y. Cunanan, Navy; Jesus C. de la Cruz, Constabulary; Dalmacio Pizana Jr., Army; Capt. Vicente R. Bueanaventura, Navy.

Colonels Domingo T. Rio, PC [Philippines Constabulary; Dalmacio Pizana Jr., Army; Capt. Vicente R. Bueanaventurea,

Colonels Domingo T. Rio, PC [Philippines Constabulary] Ernesto A. Hermosa, PC; Orlando Q. Antonio, PC; Bayani N. Fabic, PC; Napoleon M. Angeles, Air Force; Maximino M. Bejar Jr., PROF [Expansion unknown], and Rodolfo G. Biazon, PC.

All the promotions were approved without exception from a list submitted by a committee headed by Gen. Ramos and endorsed through Minister Enrile.

It took President Aquino two months to review the names of the appointees, all of whom had served with distinction in the military but whose promotions reportedly were never favorably acted upon because of General Ver.

"These are the prejudiced group in the AFP," said Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo who was among Cabinet ministers present during the oath-taking.

The generals, resplendent in white uniforms, took their oaths simultaneously.

Later, each general, along with his family, had a photo taken with the President.

The most senior among the new appointees is General Arribas who belonged to Class 1957 of the Philippine Military Academy [PMA].

The youngest in seniority is General Biazon, concurrently the superintendent of the PMA who belonged to PMA class 1960.

MARCOS INTERVIEWED ON INSURGENCY, ECONOMY

HK111441 Manila THE MANILA TIMES in English 9 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

["Excerpts" from interview with Former President Marcos by the MANILA TIMES reporter Joel Gaborni in an overseas call to Hawaii on 8 August]

[Text] TIMES: What can you say about the country's insurgency problem?

Marcos: If the Americans will not intervene -- and if I will not volunteer to mobilize my own armed group to fight the rebels -- I can foresee the country will fall into the hands of the communists as early as January 1987. I received intelligence reports that the whole Metro Manila area is threatened by the NPAs. All surrounding provinces from Cagayan to Bicol are now controlled by the rebels. Even certain depressed areas within the metropolis are now seething with NPA activities. The number of rebels has also increased. During my term there were only about 11,000 communists rebels. Now even the U.S. Government admits the number has swollen to 22,000. My report said 15,000 of them are massed around Metro Manila. Joma (alleged Communist Party chief Jose Maria Sison) has predicted Cory's government will fall within three years.

TIMES: Is it true you are planning to return to the Philippines?

Marcos: I am willing to come back -- even not as President anymore if only to help save the country from falling into the communist hands. But the Americans who seem to dictate to Mrs. Aquino, will not allow that to happen. But I am not going to contest the presidency.

TIMES: On the recent promotions of 19 generals many said you neglected during your term, what can you say about them?

Marcos: I congratulate them. I hope they (the generals and all the soldiers) are being paid enough to motivate them to serve Mrs. Aquino.

TIMES: Are you willing to talk to Mrs Aquino during her trip to the U.S.?

Marcos: What for? Anyway, she will not listen to my advice. Mrs. Aquino's enmity towards me is that strong.

TIMES: What do you think will happen to the ongoing ceasefire talks between the government and the communists?

Marcos: Nothing will come out of them. Since the time of President Sergio Osmena government and rebel talks had been conducted, but they all failed.

TIMES: Is it true you just suffered a severe health setback?

Marcos: What health setback are they talking about? I have just finished jogging and doing push-ups.

TIMES: When do you think will the country's economy recover?

Marcos: I suspect the government is in a conspiracy to cover the real situation of the economy. I believe the (International Monetary Fund and the World Bank), sooner or later, will reject the country's economic recovery program because they suspect the government is not meeting certain conditions like the actual money supply, inflation rate, exchange rate, balance of payment budget and trade deficit. Mrs. Aquino should also explain how her government treasury, the P60 million to help the starving farmers in Negros and the P250 million to help them shift to other crops (other than sugar).

TIMES: What can you say about the plan to reopen the Aquino-Galman murder case and the inclusion of Mrs. Marcos as defendant?

Marcos: The present administration does not recognize the Bill of Rights. I believe the reopening of the case will subject the orginal respondents to double jeopardy which is prohibited by all previous Philippine constitutions. Mrs Marcos...? Can you imagine that? I am convinced they (Mrs Aquino and company) will go to the extent of fabricating evidence to get even with me.

16 Aug Return 'Mere Speculation'

HK121501 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 12 Aug 86 pp 1, 10

[Text] Deposed President Marcos was reported yesterday to be arriving in the country on Saturday, Aug 16, from Hawaii, but Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile was quick to dismiss it as "mere speculation."

A report of Marcos' possible return was contained in a circular issued by Brig Gen Ramon E. Montano, chief of the Capital Region Command (Cap-Com), alerting its members on the former president's possible arrival.

Expressing surprise over the report, Enrile told newsmen that he thought "it is a very tall story."

"How can that be?" he said. "it is mere speculation, I guess."

He added that such a development would "embarrass the United States because they accepted him there and for him to be coming back... he has no passport."

Asked to comment on a statement by Marcos that the Aquino government will fall by next year, Enrile replied: "Well, coming from him, I would give it little value."

"You cannot expect Marcos to say nice things about this present regime, given the fact that it is this present regime that forced him into exile," he said.

Asked about reports on the movements of Gen Fabian C. Ver, Enrile said that Gen Fidel V. Ramos, chief of staff of the new Armed Forces, had reported that Ver was in Brunei in June.

Ver reportedly visited somebody in Brunei but he has now returned to the United States, Enrile said.

Asked about the identity of the person Ver visited, Enrile said that he is from Northern Luzon but refused to name him.

LATE REPORT: SOVIET OFFICIAL ON U.S. BASES

HK141319 Hong Kong AFP in English 1314 GMT 14 Aug 86

]Text] Manila, Aug 14 (AFP) -- The Philippines could be attacked by the Soviet Union in a nuclear war with the United States because of the presence of U.S. military bases in the country, a Soviet official said here Thursday. "I can never be sure that the Soviet Union will not attack the Philippines" if Washington started a nuclear war, as the country hosts key U.S. military bases, visiting member of the Soviet Presidium [as received] Alexsey Drugov told reporters.

The warning was the bluntest ever made by Moscow to Manila and came a month before President Corazon Aquino's planned trip to the United States.

The Soviet Union will never start a nuclear war, but the siting of two U.S. military installations in the Philippines -- Subic Bay Naval Base and Clark Air Base — exposes the country to Soviet retaliatory attack, he said. While the United States neither confirms nor denies the existence of nuclear weapons in these facilities, the policy is such that "you can never know what is going on in the bases in your territory," he added.

Philippine Foreign Minister Salvador Laurel admitted at a press conference here in June that Washington had never told Manila whether nuclear warheads were stored at the bases. Mrs. Aquino has pledged to respect the bases treaty, which expires in 1991, and to keep her options open after that.

Mr. Drugov also echoed the message delivered by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Vladivostok July 28 that a withdrawal of U.S. military personnel from the Philippines would not go unanswered by Moscow. The Soviet Union is prepared to discuss and accept certain conditions so that Washington would not feel its security threatened in the region if it decided to abandon the bases, he added.

LATE REPORT: DEMONSTRATORS PROTEST AT U.S. EMBASSY

HK141253 Hong Kong AFP in English 1242 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 15 [date as received] (AFP) -- Police arrested a demonstrator in front of the U.S. Embassy here Thursday after student protestors defiled the embassy seal with pig's blood, eyewitnesses said. The incident came a week after U.S. Ambassador Stephen Bosworth complained to Manila Mayor Gemiliano Lopez that protests were allowed within a 500-meter (yard) [as received] radius of the embassy in violation of an agreement covering foreign missions.

The estimated 100 demonstrators from a leftist student group assembled at the gates of the embassy, chanted anti-American slogans, set fire to a U.S. flag they had brought with them and scrubbed the U.S. seal with a rag dipped in pig's blood, eyewitnesses said. A handful of policemen replying to an embassy call arrived after 10 minutes, prompting the demonstrators to flee down sidestreets chanting "down with imperialism, down with capitalism." One woman was caught by the police. She denied being part of the group, but policemen found banners in her possession and took her into custody. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the mission did not plan to press any charges or file a complaint over the incident.

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 158

15 August 1986

JAPAN

ROK Ambassador Terms Relations 'Awkward or Jerky' C 1
Nakasone Completes, Passes Medical Examination C 2
Nakasone Cancels Visit to Yasukuni Shrine C 2
    Cabinet Ministers Visit Shrine C 3
LDP Approves Readmission of Former NLC Members C 3

NORTH KOREA

Kim Il-song Liberation Message to Gorbachev D 1
Joint Statement Renews Call for Military Talks D 2
TU Chief Meets With USSR AUCCTU's Shalayev D 3
    [cross-reference]

SOUTH KOREA

Chon Speech on Reunification, Dialogue With North E 1
Comparison on Chon 11 Aug Press Conference E 1
Seoul Dailies React to Chon Press Conference E 7
Foreign Minister on N.-S. Talks, Olympics, Trade E 10
    [THE KOREA HERALD 15 Aug]
Police Prevent Attendance at Opposition Rally E 16
    500 at Indoor Rally [AFP] E 16
    DJP Denounces Rally E 16
Kim on Democratization; Violence in Seoul [AFP] E 17
    Students Attack Police Car E 18
        [THE KOREA HERALD 15 Aug]
Seoul Colleges Close Campuses To Bar Rallies E 18
    [THE KOREA HERALD 14 Aug]

MONGOLIA

MONTSAME Comments on Gorbachev-Batmonh Meeting F 1
    UNEN Editorial Cited F 1

CAMBODIA

CGDK Cabinet Issues Communique on Activities H 1
    [Bangkok THE NATION 14 Aug]
Senior KPNLF Official on Use of U.S. Aid H 1
    [Bangkok THE NATION 13 Aug]
VOK Report on Sihanouk Visit to Refugee Camp H 2
VONADK Reports Attack On Battambang Town Garrison H 3

LAOS

LPRP Issues Instruction on Political Report I 1
Security Measures for Party Congress Discussed I 2

THAILAND

Prasong, Michai Appointed to Prem's Office J 1
Democrat MP's 'Dissatisfied' With Cabinet Setup J 1
    [THE NATION 14 Aug]
    Dailies on Cabinet Changes J 2
Parties Want Prem To Ease Tight Fiscal Policy J 3
    [THE NATION 13 Aug]
        Suthi on Fiscal Measures J 4
            [BANGKOK POST 14 Aug]
Parliament Agrees on Schedule of Sessions J 6
Sitthi on SRV Ties, Cambodia, Trade Relations J 6
    [BANGKOK POST 14 Aug]

VIETNAM

U.S. Citizen Arrested in April 1985 Expelled K 1
Symposium Supports Gorbachev Remarks on Peace K 1
Truong Chinh Message of Thanks To Lao Leaders K 1
Scientific Cooperation Protocol Signed With Laos K 2
Pham Van Dong Meets UNIDO Director General K 2
    UNIDO Delegation Departs K 2
Van Tien Dung Visits Cam Ranh Naval Units K 3
Hoang Tung Receives Lao Trade Union Delegation K 4
NHAN DAN on Grassroots-Level Party Congress K 4
Fuel Shortage Affects Electrical Supply in North K 6

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Hawke Rejects Call To Charge U.S. Rent M 1
Papua New Guinea Asked To Accept Cut in Aid M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Defense Minister Defends Antinuclear Policy M 1
    [THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD 8 Aug]
National Party Government Would Accept U.S. Ships M 3
    [AFP]

PHILIPPINES

Separate Loyalist, NPA Terrorist Plots Alleged P 1
    Police on 'Maximum Alert' [AFP] P 1
Aquino Statement on Upcoming ASEAN Trip P 2
    [MANILA BULLETIN 14 Aug]
Columnist Criticizes U.S. Trip Planning P 4
    [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 13 Aug]

Rebels May 'Occupy Certain Government Positions' [MANILLA BULLETIN 13 Aug] P 6
No Communists in Cabinet P 7
U.S. Denies Pressure for Ouster of Officials [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 13 Aug] P 7
Bases Workers Criticize Government Inaction [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 12 Aug] P 8
Columnist on Consequences of U.S. Withdrawal [MANILA BULLETIN 13 Aug] P 9
New Policy on Soviet Commercial Ships Sought [BUSINESS DAY 13 Aug] P 10
Iranian Embassy Denies Asylum to Marcos Supporter [AFP] P 12

ROK AMBASSADOR SAYS RELATIONS 'AWKWARD OR JERKY'

OW141133 Tokyo KYODO in English 0927 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 14 KYODO -- The recent dispute over a Japanese history textbook is one example of the "awkward or jerky" atmosphere which continues to characterize relations between Japan and his country, South Korean Ambassador to Japan Yi Kyu-ho said here Thursday. Speaking on overall bilateral relations on the eve of South Korea's Liberation Day, to mark independence from Japanese colonial rule, Yi took a positive stance in an interview with KYODO news service. "Although there have been a large number of difficult problems during the normalization process over the past 20 years, the atmosphere (between Japan and South Korea) on the outside has never been better," he commented. To prevent the development of future diplomatic problems over the interpretation of history, Yi called for the establishment of a Joint Research Center on History Education to promote mutual understanding and exchange between textbook authors of South Korea and Japan.

When the Japanese Government in June approved publication of a "conservative" senior high school history textbook prepared by a revivalist group called the National Council for Defense of Japan, China and South Korea complained that Japan was attempting to gloss over its military expolits on the Asian continent in the prewar and World War II period.

When Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone became the first postwar government head to visit the Yasukuni shrine, where Japan's war dead including World War II war criminals are enshrined, in his official capacity on August 15, 1985, South Korea and other Asian nations strongly condemned the act. Yi, however, refused to comment on South Korea's position concerning reports that a large number of cabinet ministers will pay their respects at the shrine Friday, 41st anniversary of the end of the Pacific War. Regarding a possible visit to Seoul by Japan's Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko this fall, Yi said, "there will be some kind of official announcements by both countries in the near future." Although protest against such a visit has been growing in South Korea, Yi said, "I would like to see it materialize for the sake of improving mutual understanding and friendship between Japan and South Korea," adding, "a visit by the crown prince and princess would be a definite plus."

In South Korea and other Asian nations, there has been growing concern that conservatism is spreading in Japan, along with the idea that Japan should establish itself as a major power. Yi discounted such rumblings as alarmist, explaining, "history cannot be repeated."

On the issue of fingerprinting foreign residents in Japan, currently under study for possible reform by the justice ministry, Yi said that it was an internal problem of he Japanese government, He did however, call for special consideration in the case of Korean residents brought to Japan before and during the war and their offspring.

The diplomat also came out in solid support for the Nakasone government and the landslide victory of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP) at the polls July 6. "I have confidence in the Nakasone administration and I believe that relations between our two countries will be further developed from here on," he said, adding that he did not think that the balance of power between the ruling and opposition parties has been destroyed as a result of the overwhelming LDP victory.

The 60-year-old South Korean envoy, who holds a doctorate in philosophy from West Germany's Tubingen University, served as education minister in the 1980-83 period. Commenting on his post as ambassador to Japan, which he took up September 1985, Yi said he is pleased with the timing. The present period in Japan-South Korea ties, he says, will symbolize major improvements in cultural and communications exchange.

NAKASONE COMPLETES, PASSES MEDICAL EXAMINATION

OW150229 Tokyo KYODO in English 0157 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 15 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone left the hospital Friday after an extensive two-day medical checkup. The prime minister said, "no problem -- the same as last year," in reply to reporters' questions on the results of the checkup. Nakasone's wife Ysutako, who underwent a similar checkup at the same time, also left the hospital Friday.

NAKASONE CANCELS VISIT TO YASUKUNI SHRINE

OW141227 Tokyo KYODO in English 1214 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 14 KYODO -- The government said Thursday on the eve of the 41st anniversary of the end of World War II that Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone will not visit Tokyo's Tasukuni shrine Friday. His official visit to the shrine, dedicated to Japan's war dead, last year, the first by a postwar Japanese prime minister, angered the Chinese and people in other Asian countries because class-A war criminals, including wartime Prime Minister Gen. Hideki Tojo, are also enshrined there.

In a statement, Chief Cabinet Secretary Masaharu Gotoda said the government has to pay "due consideration" to how the people of Japan's neighboring countries look at the prime minister's Yasukuni visit. But he added the government will not deny or rule out the possibility of an official visit to the Shinto shrine by a prime minister in the future. Former Prime Minister Takeo Miki in 1975 set a precedent of annual visits to the shrine August 15. But he and his succesors until Nakasone made the visits in their private capacity. The late Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, a Christian, skipped a Yasukuni visit in 1979 for the only nonobservance of the annual visit.

Some religious groups said the prime minister's Yasukuni visit violates the constitution which stipulates separation of politics and religion. Nakasone earlier suggested he will not go to the shrine this year for diplomatic considerations. But 16 of his 20 cabinet members say they plan to visit the shrine Friday. Two of them -- Health and Welfare Minister Juro Saito and International Trade and Industry Minister Hajime Tamura -- say they will go there in their official capacity. Gotoda, Deputy Premier Shin Kanemaru, Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari and Kazuo Tamaki, chief of the Management, and Coordination Agency, say they will not go to the shrine Friday. In the statement, Gotoda said he hopes that cabinet members will make their own decisions after "fully considering" the government position.

About 2.5 million Japanese war dead are enshrined at Yasukuni shrine, which was closely linked to the imperial household agency before the war.

Cabinet Ministers Visit Shrine

OW150339 Tokyo KYODO in English 0301 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 15 KYODO -- Seven cabinet ministers visited Yasukuni shrine Friday, the 41st anniversary of Japan's defeat in World War II, but Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone stayed away out of respect for the feelings of neighboring countries. Another nine of the 20 cabinet ministers are expected to visit the shrine during the day. Home Affairs Minister Nobuyuki Hanashi was the first of the seven members of Nakasone's cabinet to visit Yasukuni Friday morning to pay respects to the souls of the war dead. "I have been to Yasukuni every year, and although I am home affairs minister, I came here (Friday) as a private citizen," Hanashi said.

Nakasone, who provoked controversy in Asian countries last year for visiting the shrine in his official capacity, stayed home. Neighboring countries, particularly China and South Korea, criticized Nakasone and members of his cabinet for making official visits to the shrine last year. Souls of Japanese war dead, including wartime Prime Minister Hideki Tojo and other class A war criminals, are enshrined at Yasukuni.

Many Japanese people also are against visits to the shrine by cabinet ministers, saying that the postwar constitution bans state support for any particular religion. Nakasone told reporters that the government is studying "various" measures to resolve the question of class war criminals being enshrined at Yasukini.

Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari said he did not go to the shrine Friday morning out of consideration for Japan's diplomatic relations with other countries. Education Minister Masayuki Fujio arrived at the shrine around 8:10 a.m., shortly after Hanashi. Asked by reporters whether he came in his official or private capacity, Fujio bluntly replied, "You shouldn't ask such a silly question." Fujio was followed later by Tamisuke Watanuki, director general of the National Land Agency, and Hajime Tamura, Minister of International Trade and Industry. Tamura said he came in his official capacity as Miti Minister. Yuko Kurihara, director general of the defense agency, also attended but refused to say whether his visit was official or private.

LDP APPROVES READMISSION OF FORMER NLC MEMBERS

OW150431 Tokyo Kyodo in English 0336 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 15 KYODO -- The ruling Liberal-Democratic Party approved Friday the readmission to the party of six Diet members of the breakway New Liberal Club (NLC). The decision was reached at a meeting of LDP party executives, including Secretary General Noboru Takeshita. The NLC was formed 10 years ago by Yohei Kono and other conservatives who quit the LDP during the lockheed payoff scandal, which resulted in the arrest of former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka for allegedly receiving a bribe of 500 million yen from the American aircraft maker. Kono and other members of the House of Representatives, together with one member of the House of Councillors, recently decided to disband the NLC and return to the ruling party. But one NLC lower house member, Seiichi Tagawa, refused to rejoined the LDP.

KIM IL-SONG LIBERATION MESSAGE TO GORBACHEV

SK150201 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1200 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the WPK Central Committee and DPRK president, sent a message of congratulations to the Soviet party and state leaders on the 41st anniversary of the fatherland liberation. The message of congratulations is as follows.

Moscow, Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee; Comrade Andrey Andreyevich Gromyko, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR:

On the 41st anniversary of the liberation of our fatherland, I, on behalf of the WPK Central Committee, the DPRK Government, the Korean people, and on my own behalf, extend warm, fraternal greetings to you, and through you to the CPSU Central Committee, the Soviet Government, and the Soviet people.

The August 15 liberation our people won by defeating Japanese imperialism jointly with the Soviet Army was a signal event that opened a new epoch of a fundamental turn in the history of our fatherland and set a new milestone in the development of Korean-Soviet friendship.

After the liberation, our people, under the leadership of our party, repulsed the armed invasion of the imperialists and have achieved splendid successes in the socialist revolution and construction, overcoming manifold difficulties, and have turned our country, once backward, into a socialist independent state, developing and prospering.

Today our people are resolutely struggling for the complete victory of socialism in the northern half of Korea and for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country, and are firmly defending the eastern post of socialism.

As clearly demonstrated again during the celebrations of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance some time ago, the relations of fraternal friendship and cooperation between the peoples of our two countries have been constantly developed and consolidated in the common struggle against imperialism and for the victory of the cause of socialism and communism.

The Soviet people have actively supported and encouraged our people in the struggle to defend the freedom and independence of the fatherland and build a new society. And now they are continuing to support and help us in the struggle for socialist construction and the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland.

Our people warmly support the Soviet people's struggle to accomplish the cause of Lenin and the peace initiatives of the Soviet party and government against war and for the preservation of peace and security in Europe, Asia, and other parts of the world.

We are convinced that the relations of traditional friendship and cooperation between our two parties, two countries and two peoples that have been established on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism and gone through all the tests of history will grow in scope and develop to a new, higher stage day-by-day as relations of true class alliance between revolutionary comrades-in-arms.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I sincerely wish you and the Soviet people greater success in the struggle to implement the strategic line for the promotion of socio-economic development of the country laid down at the 27th congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and for defending world peace.

[Signed] Kim Il-song, general secretary of the WPK Central Committee and DPRK president, [dated] 14 August 1986, Pyongyang

JOINT STATEMENT RENEWS CALL FOR MILITARY TALKS

SK150854 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0831 GMT 15 Aug 86

["Joint Statement of 22 Political Parties and Social Organizations" -- KCNA headline]

[Text] Pyongyang August 15 [KCNA] -- 22 political parties and social organizations including the Workers' Party of Korea and the Korean Social Democrat Party and the Central Committee of the Democratic Front for the Reunification of the Fatherland made public a joint statement Thursday on the lapse of 41 years since the Korean people were liberated from the yoke of the colonial rule of Japanese imperialism.

It says the colonial fascist rule by the U.S. imperialists is not only the root cause of all the misfortunes and sufferings imposed upon the South Korean people but also a main obstacle to the Korean reunification.

Pointing out that the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique are further increasing armament and continuing to stage military exercises in South Korea under the pretext of "threat of southward invasion", stubbornly opposing the DPRK's just reunification proposals and peace initiatives, it says:

No matter what may happen in South Korea, we will never invade the south or force the social system of the North on South Korea. We have already advanced a reasonable reunification proposal to realize a confederation on the basis of national unity, leaving the two systems in the North and South as they are.

Considering that this proposal still remains a most correct way for the solution of the question of our country's reunification, we once again hold that the proposal must be realized at an early date. The reunification of the country should be achieved on the three principles of national reunification -- independence, peaceful reunification, and great national unity -- already agreed to by the North and the South and recognized by the whole world.

There is no reason or pretext for the United States to keep its troops in south Korea till today more than 40 years after the country's liberation and 30-odd years after the signing of the armistice agreement. The United States must no longer pursue the colonial policy in South Korea but withdraw its troops and military equipment including nuclear weapons from South Korea at an early date in conformity with the trend of the times that all nations and states aspire after chajusong and independence.

The South Korean rulers must discard their anti-national stand to prolong the division of the country indefinitely, depending on outside forces and put an end to the anti-democratic fascist rule of violence provoking us and suppressing the South Korean people and students.

Peace in the country and its peaceful reunification must be achieved through dialogue and negotiation. As tripartite talks have not yet been realized and North-South parliamentary talks not opened and the Military Armistice Commission cannot properly perform its function, our proposal to hold talks between the military authorities is a most reasonable and realistic way to prevent war, relax the tension and create favorable circumstances for dialogue.

The United States and the South Korean authorities must unconditionally agree with our proposal for talks between the military authorities to settle the pressing question of detente, seeking no selfish purpose.

All Koreans who are concerned about the destiny of the country and the nation must firmly unite irrespective of the idea, ideology, party affiliations and groupings, whether they may be in the North, the South, or abroad, and do all they can to realize the proposal for talks between the military authorities at the earliest possible date.

If a war is to be prevented and a durable peace guaranteed for good in Korea, the Korean peninsula must be turned into a nuclear-free, peace zone as was clarified in the recent statement of the government of the DPRK.

Korea must be a Korea of Koreans free from foreign forces and a peaceful country free from war and nuclear weapons.

We express the belief that the progressive political parties, organizations and people of all countries of the world who desire peace in Korea and her peaceful reunification will continue to voice firm solidarity with the Korean people's just cause of preventing war on the Korean peninsula and achieving peace in the country and its peaceful reunification.

TU CHIEF MEETS WITH USSR AUCCTU'S SHALAYEV

For reportage on the meeting between AUCCTU Chairman S.A. Shalayev and Kim Pong-chu, chairman of the General Federation of Trade Unions of Korea Central Committee, who is visiting Moscow, see the Northeast Asia section of the 12 August Soviet Union DAILY REPORT.

CHON SPEECH ON REUNIFICATION, DIALOGUE WITH NORTH

SK150239 Seoul YONHAP in English 0228 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 15 (YONHAP) -- South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan urged North Korea to agree to reopen all existing channels of dialogue, which it has unilaterally shut off. "What is urgently needed at this time is an affirmative and sincere response from the North to our initiatives," Chon said. He made the remarks in a speech commemorating Korea's 41st Liberation Day, which falls on Friday. Korea was liberated from the 36-year Japanese colonial rule on Aug. 15, 1945.

In the speech, read by Prime Minister No Sin-yong, Chon pointed out that the most fundamental task of the Korean people now is national unification. He said he deplores the fact that "an idolized individual with absolute power (North Korean chieftain Kim Il-song), heading a bizarre hereditary dynasty, still reigns over 20 million compatriots in the North, demanding inordinate sacrifices and abject submission."

He further said: "We have arrived at a point where we can visualize more clearly than ever before our attaining the true restoration of our sovereignty and genuine liberation, which are possible only with national unification." In pursuing unfication, we must not fail to adhere to the principle that it must be accomplished "by the Korean people for the Korean people." As he repeatedly emphasized, the coming two or three years will be a crucial time period for determining Korea's destiny.

South Korea has now achieved the capability to host the 1988 Olympics, and the Korean people can take pride in the fact that they are not only the prime movers of progress toward national prosperity but also leading contributors to world peace and human advancement, he said.

Then recalling the 36 years of colonial subjugation, Chon said: "We can hardly control our anger at the barbaric policies and acts of aggression carried out by the Japanese imperialists. This is because this foreign oppression not only brought indescribable pain and humiliation to the Korean people but also constituted the root cause of our eventual national division." "We have learned, however, a precious lesson through these painful experiences, including lost independence. The lesson is that a people cannot maintain national sovereignty intact unless they have the strength to defend themselves and the ability to actively adapt themselves to the changing international currents," he continued.

"The world is acclaiming the capabilities of the Korean people all the more because Korea has emerged in a short time as a model of development for all third-world countries, despite the fact that it went through a devastating war not long ago and is still burdened by military confrontation with its divided half," he said. "It is my expectation that when the goal of an advanced Korea is in sight, the prospects for unification will also become clearer," he concluded.

COMPARISON ON CHON 11 AUG PRESS CONFERENCE

Seoul Domestic Service in Korean at 0300 GMT on 11 August carries a 77-minute recording of the apparent text of ROK President Chon Tu-hwan's 11 August press conference. The Seoul radio version has been compared with the 12 August KOREA TIMES version of Chon's press conference published in the 13 August Asia & Pacific DAILY REPORT and found to contain the following differences.

Page E-1, paragraph one, line one, radio version reads...[Reporter] I am Kwon Ki-chin, of SEOUL SINMUN. We appreciate your taking time for us, even though you must be busy taking care of the state administration. It's been five... (supplying additional passage.)

Page E-1, paragraph four, last line, the radio version reads...threatened national security.

At that time, all of our people were, in fact, seized by terror and uneasiness over the possibility of a southward invasion from the North. Also, the economic situation at that time was in a crisis on the brink of bankruptcy.

Upon being sworn in as the 11th president in September 1980, I acquainted myself with state administration as a whole. I frankly confess that I was at a loss. In that year, prices soared 43 percent and even the rate of increase in fixed investment recorded a minus 10.6 percent. As a result, economic growth declined back to 5.1 percent and the balance of international payments incurred $5.3 billion in red ink. It can be said that the country was on the verge of bankruptcy. Worse still, the cold weather that year ruined the crops and we urgently needed to resolve the food problem that would have forced the people to suffer the next spring.

Also, in 1979 the second oil crisis caused the price of crude oil and interest rates to rise in the international markets. We underwent such difficulties as having to negotiate many loans from foreign countries to pay the additional expenses. To help you in this regard, let me cite an example. During the 6 years from that time until last year, we had to shoulder about $20.5 billion in additional expenses to pay the higher price for crude oil and another (?11.6) billion to pay increased amounts of interest. In fact, the country ran into especially serious economic difficulties in 1980 and 1981. During my visit to Southeast Asia in the summer of 1981, I heard the state leaders of the countries in that region describe how they viewed the situation facing our country at that time. They unanimously said to me they feared the Republic of Korea might collapse. The things that occurred in our country that year must have seemed to them very serious.

In September 1983, we were angered and aggrieved by the shooting down of a KAL plane that sacrificed many of our beloved parents, brothers, husbands, wives, and children. North Korea's barbarous terrorist attempt on my life about a month later in Rangoon, Burma took the lives of a number of valuable and talented people who had been making contributions to national development, and that incident posed grave national difficulties and challenges.

Undaunted, however, our people have wonderfully overcome such difficulties and challenges by uniting together. When they are faced with difficulties and crises, our people not only have always overcome them in formidable unity, but have also turned such difficulties into fortunate opportunities and used them as stepping stones for continued advancement. During the past 5 and 1/2 years I have served as president, I have come to realize that our people are a great people who can do such things. Thanks to the...(supplying additional passage.)

Page E-1, paragraph eight, last line, the radio version reads...of the '70s.

As a result of expansive construction of pipelines for water supplies and sewage systems, the water problem can be said to have been solved. In terms of telephones, compared to the 2.4 million telephone lines that had been installed since the era of Emperor Kojong up until 1980, we have installed an astounding number of 4.7 million lines over the past 5 years.

These facts demonstrate the extent to which society's indirect investment has been expanded in the past 5 years. At the same time, the number of people benefitting from medical care has increased to more than 22 million as of July this year compared to 11 million in 1989. When such facts are taken into consideration, on the whole the people's living standards have been improved drastically, though not everyone finds the situation satisfactory. What is more, our country has always been in the red in terms of international payments. However, this year we are expected to be in the black by an estimated $1 billion to $1.5 billion. This is indeed astonishing and we must congratulate ourselves.

The growth and development...(supplying additional passage.)

Page E-2, paragraph two, line two, the radio version reads...from 51 countries. On the other hand, I have made official visits to 17 countries, including the United States, Japan, the ASEAN countries, some African countries, and most recently, Europe. On the other...(changing number, adding reference to Africa.)

Page E-2, paragraph six, line six, the radio reads...also for 1988. If we continue to grow by successfully accomplishing these momentous national tasks under conditions of stability through the 1990's as we are now doing, I am confident that we will, without fail, reach the front ranks of the advanced countries. We can also free ourselves from the fear of war and, going one step further, achieve national unification.

What we all must keep in mind at this juncture is that such historical tasks demand more sweat, more patience,and more firm harmony from us. I wholeheartedly expect that all the people in the country will accelerate their march, with pride and firm conviction in the accomplishments we have achieved with our own sweat. I can tell...(supplying additional passage.)

Page E-3, paragraph four, last line, the radio version reads...trust and harmony. Once again, availing myself of this, I express my deep gratitude to the people who have made labourious efforts to consolidate stability and continue national development, while rescuing the country -- which teetered on the brink of disaster due to the uneasiness, terror, and confusion following the 26 October incident -- from a crisis and while overcoming the mounting ordeals and challenges with great latent strength. I also hope that the wisdom and resources of the people will serve as a greater strength in the future in running the government.

[Reporter] I am Yi Song-chun, of HANCUK ILBO. Attention is focused on the discussion of constitutional revision. Would you please tell us what ideas you have about the timing for revising the Constitution and about the direction the discussion will follow -- the object of paramount concern in political circles? Also, both the ruling and opposition parties claim democratization as their cause in seeking constitutional revision. Mr President, what does your excellency think is the most desirable thing for the acclimatization of democracy in our country.

[Chon] Before discussing constitutional...(supplying additional material, deleting subhead, rewording.)

Page E-4, paragraph three, last line the radio version reads...have been given. Let me make it clear that I wil be the first president to step down precisely at the end of the prescribed term of office. My hope is that the day when I honorably leave Chongwadae of my own accord will long be remembered as the day a new era of genuine democracy was opened in the history of Korea.

And this precedent that I am going to set must evolve into a firm and lasting tradition; it must not turn out to be an isolated event.

For such an aspiration of mine to come to fruition, it goes without saying that all politicians -- regardless of whether they are in the ruling party or opposition parties -- and the general public must participate and cooperate in the task. Accordingly, I hope and am confident, together with my fellow countrymen, that the process of my retirement upon completion of my term will be carried out in a festive mood with congratulations and gratitude nationwide.

It is my fundamental belief that laws and systems should not be changed frequently. It is more important to properly administer existing laws, rather than change them in quest of short-term expediency, if their inherent purposes are to be effectively fulfilled. Moreover, if a political force or those in power revise the Constitution to advance their self-interest, the basic law would have to be amended again every time the reins of power change hands. Such a vicious circle would have no end.

I know that more than a few people doubted that I really meant it when I first emphasized the single-term presidency. In fact, rumors were rife that I may attempt to become reelected by changing the indirect presidential election system prescribed by the current Constitution into a direct vote system and that plans are being made secretly for the constitution to do away with the single 7-year presidential term provision. Later, as confidence in my determination to step down upon completion of my prescribed term grew firmer and far more widespread, demands surfaced for constitutional revision to change the methods of electing the president. Controversy swirling around the constitutional revision came in the shape of creating social unrest and confusion.

I had been thinking that the old practice of resorting to emergency measures of one kind or another to suppress opposition and challenges must never be repeated and that the method of ruling as such should be brought to an end. I was greatly concerned that if society became further confused due to confrontation over the issue of constituional revision, and if force had to be employed to end the confusion, this would inevitably make it difficult to ensure the smooth maintenance and development of constitutional government. I could not help but worry that should the situation become uncontrollable, opportunities to translate into action my determination to step down at the end of my current presidential term and to effect a peaceful transition of power might be lost and that, accordingly, another serious crisis of democracy in our country might ensue.

Therefore, I arrived at the conclusion that the issues concerning constitutional revision ought to be resolved by political resources, rather than by physical force, if my historic mission was to be accomplished. As I made clear to the leaders of the rival parties on 30 April, my unchanging personal conviction is that the best way to let democracy grow in this land is to effect a peaceful transition of power in accordance with what the current constitution prescribes. However, out of an ardent desire to avoid extreme confrontation and clashes so a peaceful transition of power can be realized, I have said that I would not oppose amending the Constitution even during my tenure, if the rival parties reach an agreement on the issue in the National Assembly.

Now that the rival parties are engaged in discussing constitutional revision, all of us should encourage and cooperate with them so an accord can be reached smoothly. Democracy means representative government. It should thus be considered that an agreement reached between the ruling and opposition parties at the National Assembly is a national consensus.

However, it must be kept in mind that only when the ruling and opposition parties democratically reach agreements through lawful procedures and methods will it be possible to consider them truly representative of the people. If I am to express my hope for constitutional revision, the current attempts to revise the Constitution should fully reflect national consensus on the subject so there will be no further controversy over the system, exhausting national energy. In that way, we should work out an excellent constitution that can continue until unification. A new constitution should be truly faithful to such great goals as genuine democracy, national development, and public welfare. In order to prevent such goals from becoming empty words, the Constitution should be so written as to reflect our historical traditions and cultural backgrounds, as well as our national security and social realities.

Above all, the issue of revising the Constitution should be solved in a way that the ruling and opposition parties discard their private goals and partisan interests and strategies through genuine dialogue and negotiations. Only when one discards personal greed, can one see things clearly and only then will it be possible to come up with a constitution that will truly be in the interests of the people. In light of this, it must be clearly realized that if genuine democracy is to be fostered, how to forestall prolonged one-man rule and prevent the arbitrary exercise and abuse of power is a much more important issue than how to choose the president. As for the timing of a constitutional revision, I think, as I have already made clear, that since the National Assembly has already decided to prepare an amendment bill, there is no need to slow down and so the sooner the matter is concluded, the better it will be. I believe, however, that the ruling and opposition parties should not waste time on futile debate motivated by partisan interests and strategies, while hastily and carelessly disposing of truly important issues.

[Choe Kyu-chol] I am Choe Kyu-chol, of TONG-A ILBO. Public opinion is widespread that the constitutional revision based on agreement between the rival parties should come to fruition without fail. Nevertheless, it seems that there are great differences in the stands taken by the rival parties in approaching the discussion of constitutional revision. So, if the current situation continues, the prospect for negotiations for constitutional revision is in fact very unpredictable. How do you view the negotiations for the constitutional revision? Also, how do you think the issue should be resolved if an accord is not reached between the rival parties?

[Chon] I think it...(supplying additional material, deleting subhead, rephrasing question.)

Page E-4, paragraph eight, last line radio version reads...with high expectations.

[Ko Hung-kil] I am Ko Hung-kil, of CHUNGANG ILBO. From the day you took the oath of office as president, your excellency has consistently emphasized peaceful governmental change. In this connection, it seems that people at home and abroad are greatly interested in who will be chosen to succeed you. What kind of person does your excellency, also the president of the DJP, think will be the best candidate for the presidency? Also, please let us know when the DJP will choose its presidential candidate and in what manner?

[Chon] I am not...(deleting subhead, rephrasing question.]

Page E-5, paragraph two, last line, radio version reads... Questions, I think. [Song To-kyun] I am Song To-Kyun, of the MBC. Much talk is... supplying identification of reporter.]

Page E-11, paragraph six, last line, the radio reads... an objective assessment. In the course of contacts with leaders of various European countries during my visit to Europe, I could clearly see this. Also, the fact that the number of foreign businessmen and politicians visiting our country has drastically increased demonstrates this. Unless such a favorable economic situation is undermined by our own domestic elements, I am confident that our country will be able to progress quickly to become an advance country.

[O Chol-ho] I am O Chol-ho, of YONHAP NEWS AGENCY. In the name of the reporters present here, I thank you, your excellency Mr President, for giving us detailed explanations for a long time. We know you are busy as your schedule must be tight. If you have anything to add to what you have just said or anything else to say to the people, please tell us.

[Chon] As I have told... supplying additional material, fuller version of question.

Page E-5, paragraph seven, last line, the radio version reads... the right occasions.

[Ha Won] I am Ha Won, reporter of CHOSON ILBO. In accordance with a plan to put local autonomy into practice from next year, the government has recently completed public hearings in various parts of the country. Accordingly, people are showing increasing interest in to what extent local autonomy will be put into practice. Some are also raising their voices to say that local autonomy might have to be delayed, depending on the outcome of the constitutional revision negotiations. Mr President, what plans do you have in this regard?

[Chon] Local autonomy is... (deleting subhead, providing fuller version of question.)

Page E-6, paragraph four, last line, radio version reads... the constitutional issues.

[Pak Chang-sok] I am Pak Chang-sok, of THE KOREA TIMES. Most students are earnestly engaged in academic pursuits. However, some of them, those who are radically influenced by leftist ideology, have shown a somewhat radicalized inclination of late. The majority of the people who want stability have been shocked by this and are concerned about it. Such radical inclinations can also be observed in the attitude of some hard-line, off-stage politicians. How does Mr President view such a phenomenon occurring in some segments of our society?

[Chon] It is true... (deleting subhead, providing fuller version of question.)

Page E-7, penultimate paragraph, lines six and seven, the radio reads... under the Constitution.

[Yi Yong-il] I am Yi Yong-il, reporter of KBS. In the course of growth and stability, demands for welfare and distribution have risen in recent years. Also, concerns about the low-income brackets, including the workers earning low wages, are growing. Could you please tell us what measures you have in mind to absorb and solve such problems?

[Chon] The ultimate reason... (providing fuller version of question.)

Page E-9, paragraph two, last line, the radio version reads... to five years.

[Kim Yong-hon] I am Kim Yong-hon, of the KYONGHYANG SINMUN. Please explain the... (deleting subhead, providing identification of reporter.)

Page E-9, last paragraph, last line, the radio reads... the South. As long as North Korea's military superiority is sustained, the danger of another war on the Korean peninsula will be hard to remove. The coming two... (supplying additional sentence.)

Page E-10, paragraph four, last line, the radio version reads... hosting them.

[Kim Hak-kyong] I am Kim Hak-Kyong, of THE KOREA HERALD. The Korean economy... (deleting subhead, supplying identification of reporter.)

Page E-11, antepenultimate graph, lines five and six, radio version reads... an economic slump.

In about 40 days, we will be hosting the Asian Games in Seoul; an unprecedentedly great national event, the hosting of the Seoul Olympics, will soon take place; and a historic turning point, the first peaceful change of government, will also come soon. These three events will be the first of their kind in the history of our country. Their successful accomplishment will give our country and people an ideal opportunity to achieve dramatic progress.

Opportunity does not present itself frequently. It is a truly great people who do not miss an opportunity to come along and who make good use of it to achieve rapid success. As a great people, we Koreans have come to a point where we should put our greatness to work once again. In the past, we used to deprecate ourselves, calling ourselves old coin or something else. However, our strength now does not allow us to indulge in such self-depreciation. Over the fact that we have achieved price stability and a high degree of economic growth despite the difficult conditions we have to endure at home and abroad, specialists all over the world praise us, saying that such a thing could have been done only by our people. We should not turn a deaf ear to such remarks because they are coming from foreigners. We should have firmer confidence in ourselves and continue to advance.

Although my term of office will come to an end in about 1 and 1/2 years, in order to accelerate our national advancement I will not tolerate any situation that could cause my fellow countrymen to become anxious and worried. I reiterate that I will employ all the powers vested in the office of the president under the Constitution to meticulously carry out my duties. Come what may, I will do everything in my power to maintain and enhance a social atmosphere conducive to productive work. My administration is unwaveringly determined to protect and promote the well-being of all people. The government is strong and powerful enough to back up this pledge.

I request that my fellow countrymen have unflagging faith in the office of the president and the administration and that they go about their daily business without anxiety. I understand that some are trying to spread malicious and groundless rumors to alienate the government from the people. Instead of allowing yourselves to be allured by such things, I want you to even more enthusiastically participate and cooperate in attaining our national goals.

In fact, our people have lived through a difficult period during which we had to defend national sovereignty, ensure our rights to exist, prevent war, and rid ourselves of poverty. However, we are no longer a weak people who are roaming around behind the history of the world. We are a strong people. We have now reached a point where we can take-off toward the ranks of advanced countries and emerge as the center of the world -- an opportunity that we cannot afford to waste, nor should we.

As a people sailing in the same boat -- that is, a people with the same destiny -- our 40 million fellow countrymen should row their oars to arrive at their destination, while mutually understanding and helping.

Let us all... (supplying additional passage.)

SEOUL DAILIES REACT TO CHON PRESS CONFERENCE

SK132305 [Editorial Report] On 12 August all six Seoul vernacular newspapers published editorials on the 11 August summer press conference held by ROK President Chon Tu-hwan.

In its editorial, the independent CHOSON ILBO begins with a quotation from Chon's remarks that "the situation in which opposition and challenges have been countered by emergency means, and similar ruling methods, should be reformed." The daily then states: "All hardliners should closely examine and follow President Chon's basic stand -- the stand that he assumed in dealing with the proposal for revising the Constitution." Noting Chon's expression of a desire to resolve matters concerning constitutional revision not through physical power but through political power, the paper attributes the accidental fire at the independence monument to "a lack of politics due to strife and discord among various circles and groups."

Noting Chon's suggestion for reorganizing the party and government at the proper time, the paper says that now is the most opportune time. "The people ardently desire to see one thing that has been rare in the past 20 years. They want to see that ministerial posts or high-ranking party posts immediately vacated when something undesirable occurs."

In its editorial, SEOUL SINMUN, a pro-government organ, stresses the importance of the 2 years until 1988. In noting the "remarkable progress" since President Chon took office in March 1981, it says: "Noteworthy in the achievements attained by President Chon is that while quickly overcoming the political chaos following the 25 October incident, he set forth a blueprint for political development. This was expressed by a firm will to peacefully transfer power." Calling for creation of conditions for a peaceful transfer of power, the daily says: "The way to realize the president's will for a single presidential term is to achieve constitutional revision through reaching an agreement, which is what the people are hoping for. What is most important is achieving this end is to continuously achieve political and social stability."

Again calling for stern punishment of antisocial acts that aim at "gradually weakening the ruling powers," opportunistic practices that undermine social discipline, and left-leaning violence, the daily says: "Needless to say, political development is important to us. However, what should precede it is an attitude and effort for developing the system of social stability to meet our situation by equally distributing the benefit of the growth attained thus far."

In its editorial the independent HANGUK ILBO welcomes President Chon's support for constitutional revision through reaching an agreement and his confirmation of a desire to peacefully transfer power. Noting the president's expression of feelings of optimism concerning negotiations for constitutional revision by calling for quickly revising the Constitution, his will "not to tolerate illegal and violent acts disturbing society," his reference to the question of a successor and to the time for reorganization of the cabinet and the party, his expression of a belief that "there will be no difficulty in redistributing income," and his allusion to North-South negotiations, the daily said: "In a word, the press conference conducted by the president that day -- at which he recalled his term of office over 5 and 1/2 years and in which he delineated the direction of national administration for the remainder of his term of office -- was reconfirmation of his confidence in national security and in the stability of the people's daily lives."

In its editorial, the independent TONG-A ILBO begins by saying: "What has been brought into bold relief is the fact that of President Chon Tu-hwan's 7-year term of office, 5 years have already passed, leaving only 1 and 1/2 years." The paper then states that the remaining period is not enough to "revise the Constitution through reaching an agreement" and to "smoothly follow a political schedule in accordance with this cause."

Quoting the president's statement that "questions concerning constitutional revision should be resolved not by physical power but by political power," the editorial says: "The sooner the better as far as constitutional revision is concerned," and "an answer concerning a DJP successor will be given after a plan for constitutional revision is formulated in the National Assembly."

Urging that attention be given to Chon's desire to "accept the youths' wholesome spirit of criticism and the country," and to resolutely counter "radical left-leaning ideologies and the principle of violence," the editorial refers to the president's call for North Korea's participation in the Olympics. It expresses regret over his lack of references to the independence monument fire, to the sexual torture incident at the Puchon police station, to trade friction between South Korea and the United States, and to the timing of reorganization of the party and government in connection with these affairs. TONG-A ILBO concludes: "The people are interested in successful conclusion of the remaining period of President Chon's term, as well as in setting the direction for this period."

In its editorial, the independent CHUNGANG ILBO, noting the significance of the press conference when 1 and 1/2 years remain in the presidential term, says: "It is doubtless that President Chon Tu-hwan will become the first president to retire from office after concluding a single term in accordance with the Constitution."

Dwelling on Chon's call to achieve national consensus to prevent the exhaustion of national strength and prevent one-man, long-term office and acts destroying laws, order, and stability, it notes Chon's decision to determine a successor following the adoption of a plan for constitutional revision in the National Assembly.

"If a successor emerges quickly, the ruling structure will be weakened by a lack of consistency. If the work of marking 'a centrepetal point' becomes belated, the work of making preparations for the transfer of power will likely become entangled."

Noting the people's ardent desire to reform national administration, the paper says: "We believe that now is the time to reform the national administration." It continues: "The recent incidents -- including the fire at the independence monument, the incident at the Puchon Police Station, and the question of trade between South Korea and the United States -- have left a scar on the minds of the people. Someone should take responsibility for these incidents. However, no minister has voluntarily resigned."

Urging the DJP to act according to its vow to respond to the trend of the times for democracy, the editorial says: "Through the press conference, we are once again brought to the realization that President Chon's role in constitutional revision is very important. The more important this role becomes, the more ardently we want to see the president retire after smoothly completing the political schedule of his term of office -- such as constitutional revision through agreement and a general election conducted in accordance with this process -- and thereby receive the applause of the people."

The pro-government newspaper KYONGHYANG SINMUN in its editorial notes the significance of the press conference at "a very important political moment on the country." Noting the importance of the work of developing democracy by revising the Constitution through reaching an agreement and by adopting a local autonomy system, the paper praises the president's will to retire in "a festive atmosphere." Lauding the president's achievements in stabilizing the price of goods and running state affairs based on the "great principle of national harmony and democracy," the daily says: "The will to develop the tradition of a peaceful transfer of power is firm."

Again noting President Chon's call to achieve stability, the daily says: "More than the true development of democracy, stability complies with the people's desire. Without stability, constitutional revision will be difficult." Also noting the president's will to resolutely deal with left-leaning violence, the paper says: "Radical ideologies that tolerate communists are the most dangerous factors challenging us in the dangerous situation in which the North and South confront each other."

FOREIGN MINISTER ON N.-S. TALKS, OLYMPICS, TRADE

SK150130 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 15 Aug 86 Supplement p 2

[Interview by THE KOREA HERALD with ROK Foreign Minister Yi Won-kyong -- date and place not given]

[Text] Question: President Chon Tu-hwan's European tour in April has helped create a favorable atmosphere for the nation to deepen its substantial tie with EC countries. Will you elaborate on follow-up measures being taken to make the most out of the outcome of the presidential trip?

Answer: The President's visit to the four European countries has created a strong momentum for closer cooperation with them in many fields. Since the trip, the government has been making efforts to keep this momentum alive and give more substance to our century-old ties of traditional friendship.

A wide range of follow-up measures are being taken with particular emphasis on the promotion of trade, economic, scientific and technical cooperation with the European countries. A number of high level meetings and exchange of various economic and technical missions with Europe are already on agenda for the second half of this year.

These contacts will focus primarily on finding concrete ways for liberalization of trade, cooperation in small and medium industries, joint ventures for marketing in third countries, technology transfer, and scientific research cooperation on high technology.

Our efforts to intensify economic partnership with Europe are also aimed at diversification of our overseas markets and suppliers.

Increase of exports to EC countries in the first half of this year, which surpassed 50 percent over the same period of last year, is an encouraging sign in this regard. At the same time, Korea is expected to buy more from Europe this year than ever before.

In the political field, closer consultation and cooperation is under way with the European countries with a view to strengthening peace and security on the Korean peninsula, especially in the way of creating a favorable international atmosphere for joint entry of South and North Korea into the United Nations and cross-recognition of two Koreas by major powers. We will continue to pursue our common aspirations for peace and prosperity in a close partnership with the European countries.

Q: The last Olympic Games were crippled by ideological disputes and boycott by some countries. What do you think of prospects for the Seoul Olympics in 1988?

A: Needless to say, the 1988 Seoul Olympics should not repeat the precedents of Moscow and Los Angeles. I believe it is an important duty for Korea and the entire international community to hold the Seoul Olympics successfully in the pure Olympic spirit which should set aside the differences in ideology or political system in order to make the event a festival of peace for the whole mankind.

We are making our utmost efforts to ensure the success of the Seoul Olympics. The door is wide open to all the member countries of the IOC. We have pledged to guarantee the security of participants from every country.

Despite all our efforts to make the event a great success, North Korea has advanced the preposterous idea of cohosting the Seoul Olympics. The so-called cohosting idea is not only contrary to the Olympic Charter and the decision made by the IOC plenary session at Baden Baden in 1981, but also unprecedented in Olympic history.

Nevertheless, we, in close cooperation with the IOC, have offered them two main games and one preliminary in order to endure their participation in the Games. We have already discussed the subject three times at meetings in Lausanne under the auspices of the IOC, where we showed our maximum flexilibity, and accepted the IOC's compromise proposal on June 30, 1986.

North Korea's position on the IOC's proposal is not yet clear but we all expect good results from the meeting, so that North Korea will participate in the Seoul Olympics as a member of the Olympic family, respecting the Olympic Charter and the Baden Baden decision in 1981.

We are optimistic about the participation of the East European countries in the Games.

Many socialist countries have attended the international sports competitions held in Korea on a large scale during the last few years. And the Seoul ANOC meeting of last April was attended by 152 countries out of 161 ANOC member nations including the Soviet Union, the People's Republic of China and most of the East European countries with whom we have no diplomatic relations.

With this success in the ANOC meeting, we became convinced that differences in ideology and political system will not stand in the way of successful holding of the Seoul Olympics. We hope the Seoul Olympics will be a most successful peace festival with universal participation.

Q: Since it unilaterally broke off the inter-Korean talks last January, Pyongyang has persistently rejected Seoul's call for a resumption of the talks. What is your view on prospects for the inter-Korean dialoque?

A: We believe that the Korean question should be resolved peacefully through direct talks between the South and North. With this firm belief, we have exerted every effort to hold constructive dialogue with North Korea.

But the North, as you have indicated, unilaterally cancelled all the scheduled talks in protest against our "Team Spirit 86" exercise and rejected our repeated call for a resumption of dialogue.

"Team Spirit" exercise has been conducted annually since 1976 to ensure preparedness for the defensive purposes of the Republic of Korea Armed Forces. The defensive military drills can take place in any country for national security. To associate our defensive military exercise with the inter-Korean dialogue is nothing but an excuse for North Korea's unwillingness to talk with the South.

Recently the North proposed a three way military talks in total disregard of the existing four channels of dialogue.

It is evident that the North Korean proposal aims at shifting the criticism on its unilateral suspension of South-North dialogue. If North Korea really wishes to reduce tensions in the Korean peninsula, it should immediately resume the existing South-North dialogue and respond positively to our proposal for a meeting of the highest authorities between South and North Korea. It should be noted that President Chon already expressed his willingness to discuss all questions, including military matters, in the summit meeting.

The history of South-North dialogues reminds us that North Koreans are engaging in the talks merely to cover up its military strategy and its hidden design on the South.

But we will not cease to pursue a dialogue in good faith even if the true motive behind North Korea's participation in dialogue is far from any desire for easing tension and lasting peace on the Korean peninsula.

Q: North Korea has been insisting that the 1988 Olympics be co-hosted by South and North Korea. This is expected to launch a war of propaganda in international fora, including the upcoming Third World Non-Aligned Summit Conference in Zimbabwe. How do you intend to respond?

A: Since Seoul was chosen in 1981 as the host city of the 1988 Olympics, North Korea first mounted a campaign against holding the Olympics in Seoul. They argued that holding the Olympic Games either in Seoul or Pyongyang would perpetuate the division of the Korean peninsula.

As it became clear that their arguments would not be heeded and that the Seoul Olympics would be successful, North Korea then advanced the ludicrous demand that the '88 Olympic Games should be co-hosted by Seoul and Pyongyang.

This year, North Korea has stepped up efforts to gain support for its proposal from some of the non-aligned countries, and the forthcoming summit meeting in Zimbabwe has been a particular focus.

In this connection, it should be noted that a great number of non-aligned countries made it clear that North Korea's demand is, from the beginning, unreasonable and unacceptable, because the '88 Olympics was awarded to Seoul by the decision made by the IOC plenary session in 1981 in accordance with the Olympic Charter.

Despite North Korea's obstructionist attitude and posturing, we have responded to North Korea's demand with sincerity and patience and have encouraged North Korea to participate in the Games. We strongly hope that the Seoul Olympics will be a sports festival blessed with universal participation.

Q: North Korea has recently been intensifying its ties with the Soviet Union in military and political fields. What is your assessment of the development, especially with regard to the balance of power on the Korean peninsula and the Northeast Asian region as a whole?

A: During the recent years, North Korea and the Soviet Union have been significantly strengthening their bilateral relations in various fields. Since Kim Il-song's visit to the Soviet Union in May 1984, there have been frequent exchanges of high-level visits which have brought about an expansion of the scope of political, military and economic cooperations.

In the military field, the Soviets have supplied North Korea with sophisticated military weapons including MIG 23's, while North Korea, in return, has permitted Soviet warplanes to have overflight rights across the North Korean territory and the Soviet warships to have access to the North Korean ports. Closer military cooperation has also been demonstrated by the increased military exchanges such as the recent Soviet high calibre naval and Air Force delegations' commemorative visits to North Korea on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Soviet-North Korea mutual assistance treaty.

Such trend of intensified ties between North Korea and the Soviet Union, particularly in the military field, poses serious security problems for the South. Since it considerably enhances North Korean military capabilities, the military and strategic balance on the Korean peninsula could be further tipped in North Korea's favor, thus rendering the security situation in Northeast Asia unstable and precarious.

Given North Korea's intransigent attitude against the direct negotiation between the South and the North and their aggressive policy, we have grave concern that the recent Soviet military assistance to North Korea could make security environment in the region more precarious and encourage North Korean adventurism.

In this regard, we wish to urge the Soviets to exercise restraint in their military cooperation with North Korea and to play a constructive role in reducing tension and consolidating peace on the peninsula by encouraging the North to be responsive to our call for the inter-Korean dialogue.

Q: Seoul has long requested admission to the United Nations, either by itself or jointly with Pyongyang. However, North Korea and its major allies have expressed opposition to this proposal. Do you see any change in international opinion with regard to the issue?

A: It is well known that the Republic of Korea has been seeking full and active membership in the United Nations in the belief that this would help promote international peace and cooperation by performing a constructive role in the United Nations. At the same time, we continue to urge North Korea to seek membership in the United Nations as well.

We are confident that the admission of both Koreas to the United Nations, as an interim measure pending reunification, would increase the opportunities for dialogue and cooperation, and enhance the prospects of peace and eventual reunification of the Korean peninsula.

It is unreasonable that the Republic of Korea should continue to be excluded from full membership in the United Nations, counter to the principle of universality enshrined in the U.N. Charter. Korea maintains diplomatic relations with 125 states, and its population of over 40 million places it among the top 20 percent of the world's nations.

The international community, excluding North Korea and its allies, shares with us the view that North Korea's argument that admission of both Koreas to the United Nations would only perpetuate the division of the Korean peninsula has no validity.

Last year, on the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the United Nations, it was urged that the idea of universality be more fully realized by admitting a small number of countries which had remained outside the world body. We hope the support for universality would lead to the Republic of Korea's entry into the United Nations in the future.

To this end, the Korean government will continue its efforts to rally support for the cause among the members of the world community.

Q: What's the position of the government concerning the proposed new round of multilateral trade negotiations? Are you for or against industrial countries' call for free trade in service sectors?

A: Rising protectionism has been restraining growth in world trade and severely threatening the multilateral trade system based on the GATT. The GATT system, as it now stands, cannot adequately deal with the multitude of problems besetting world trade today; indeed, the very viability of the system itself is increasingly brought into question. Should these trends grow unabated, the consequences may go beyond the economic sphere to jeopardize the political and social stability of many nations. There is an urgent need for action to arrest this downward spiral.

Korea supports an early launching of the new round in the belief that it will help resolve many of the current problems of the world trading system. To this end, the new round should aim:

-- To reverse protectionist trends in world trade and promote trade liberalization;

-- To strengthen and restore confidence in the multilateral free trading system;

-- To establish, under the auspices of the GATT, a broader framework of rules and disciplines dealing with the new and emerging issues in world trade.

As for the new issues, such as services, since trade in these areas is expected to expand rapidly in the future, it would be desirable to establish a framework for trade in these sectors. However, given the complexity and newness of the issues involved, caution will need to be exercised and extensive consultations are required on the modalities for negotiations.

Q: What is the rationale of the government for the decisive conclusion of the negotiations on the 301 cases, especially facing strong domestic oppositions?

A: In conducting negotiations with the United States Government with respect to the two 301 cases on the Korean insurance market as well as the protection of intellectual property rights, the Korean government had the following three basic guidelines in mind.

First, we have to be prepared to accept the obligations and responsibilities commensurate to our status in the world as the 12th largest trading nation. It is noted that the protection of intellectual property rights at the international level will be conducive to enhancing our international competitiveness.

Second, considering the high degree of external dependence of the Korean economy, we have no other option but to adhere to the free trade principles. In order to uphold this principle effectively, we have to pursue our market-opening policies with consistency, taking our domestic circumstances fully into consideration.

Third, in view of the importance of the U.S. market for Korea's export, and of the growing trend toward protectionism in the United States as our trade surplus vis-a-vis the U.S. increases, the maintenance of smooth trade relations with the United States is essential to the continuing economic growth in Korea.

POLICE PREVENT ATTENDANCE AT OPPOSITION RALLY

500 at Indoor Rally

HK140352 Hong Kong AFP in English 0350 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 14 (AFP) -- Police Thursday cordoned off the major opposition party's headquarters here to prevent people from attending a rally there, witnesses said. About 1,500 riot police, some in plainclothes and others in riot gear, were mobilized to stop students and other presumed dissidents from approaching the headquarters in a busy commercial block in central Seoul, police said. The opposition New Korea Democratic Party (NKDP) was holding the rally to denounce alleged torture of dissidents and the alleged framing of political detainees as leftists by state investigators.

The authorities said in a statement that they had decided to prevent the rally as it was feared that it would disturb public order and social stability by propagating false rumors about alleged sexual harassment of a woman dissident by a police interrogator and other alleged torture cases. They said that although the rally ran counter to laws governing assemblies and demonstrations, they had decided to allow the NKDP to hold the rally indoors, considering that it was being hosted by a political party. They accused the NKDP of having tried to turn this indoor rally into an outdoor event by mobilizing more than 10,000 people. The headquarters can only hold 500 people, the government pointed out.

The NKDP issued a statement denouncing the police action, saying that the rally should have been protected by the authorities as it was a lawful one held indoors and hosted by a political party. The NKDP had pledged to host such a protest gathering after police broke up a similar rally, firing tear gas shells at about 3,000 people gathering for the protest in a Roman Catholic cathedral in downtown Seoul last month.

DJP Denounces Rally

SK141250 Seoul YONHAP in English 1221 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 14 (YONHAP) -- South Korea's ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP) Thursday denounced that the major opposition New Korea Democratic Party (NKDP) tried to create social disorder and political unrest by stirring the public opinion in an unlawful rally. The opposition party Thursday afternoon hosted a rally "to expose so-called torture and the fabrication of communists" at the party's headquarters with 500 people from the party, the Council for the Promotion of Democracy, and other dissident groups attending.

In a statement, DJP vice spokesman Kim Chung-kyun said: "The NKDP, which invited radical leftists to its headquarters and aligned itself with the cause of the leftists, cannot avoid the denouncement by the people and history." Kim said, "Our party hopes that NKDP proclaims before the people its resolution of not committing such an error and putting an end to its habitual fighting outside the National Assembly."

In the rally, the NKDP President Yi Min-u said, "The democratic constitutional revision and the national reconciliation in a real meaning will not be accomplished without firm guarantee of human rights."

KIM ON DEMOCRATIZATION; VIOLENCE IN SEOUL

HK141222 Hong Kong AFP in English 1142 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 14 (AFP) -- A planned mass rally at the headquarters of South Korea's leading opposition party fizzled out Thursday as 1,500 riot-ready police cordoned off the building, witnesses said. The New Korean Democratic Party (NDKP) planned to gather 10,000 party-members and students outside its headquarters, but only 500 were able to get through the police ring, the witnesses said. They gathered there for three hours, denouncing the government for alleged torture of political prisoners and for trying to brand opposition politicians and dissidents as pro-communist. The police rounded up about 40 people for trying to break through the cordon, witnesses said.

Elsewhere in Seoul, about 1,000 student from 13 universities clashed with police as they demonstrated against the upcoming Asian Games in Seoul and U.S. pressure to open South Korean markets to U.S. companies. The students burned effigies representing "U.S. imperialism" and imported U.S. cigarettes, and hurled Molotov cocktails and stones at the police, who responded with tear gas during the three-hour melee at Hanyang University.

At the NKDP headquarters, party chairman Yi Min-u said the present "dictatorial regime' was blatantly trampling basic human rights" by torturing political prisoners and trying to frame some dissidents as pro-communist leftists. Another opposition leader, Kim Yong-sam, denounced government "immorality" in the alleged sexual torture of a female dissident during police interrogation. Although government prosecutors denied the torture chrages, a police officer was dismissed after an opposition and dissident outcry.

On Thursday, the NKDP protestors demanded that Prime Minister No Sin-yong, Home Minister Chong Sok-mo and the police chief be punished for "covering up" torture cases. They also charged that dissident univeristy students were being forced into the Army following their release from prison, and they demanded to know more about the recent mysterious death of a student and a worker.

In another development, prominent opposition leader Kim Tae-chung told foreign reporters at his home that he was fairly optimistic about the restoration of democracy in South Korea next year. South Koreans are making strong demands for democracy, and the United States will eventually lend its support as well, he said.

Mr. Kim expressed doubts that a newly-formed parliamentary bipartisan committee could reach an agreement on constitutional changes, and said he believed President Chon Tu-hwan alone held the key to settling the issue. For that reason, Mr. Kim said, he and fellow opposition leader Kim Yong-sam are asking Mr. Chon for a meeting to discuss democratization. The two Kims are behind-the-scenes leaders of the NKDP, which is largely made up of their political followers.

Mr. Kim Tae-chung also charged that Mr. Chon was trying to cling to power by creating a Mexican-style one-party dictatorship, although the president may step down in February 1988 at the end of his term. Mr. Kim Tae-chung said his party would insist on a constitutional amendment to enable South Korea's president to be chosen by direct election. He said he would also firmly oppose the cabinet-responsibility system proposed by Mr. Chon's ruling party, which calls for a figurehead president and a powerful prime minister to be chosen by parliament.

Mr. Kim Tae-chung said anti-U.S. sentiment was high in South Korea because of Washington's support for the Chon government, but he expressed his belief that the United States would eventually support a genuine democracy. The 61-year-old opposition politician has made no secret of his intention to seek the presidency. He was narrowly defeated by the late president Pak Chong-hui in a 1971 presidential race. He was also sentenced to death for sedition under the present government. Mr. Kim said the opposition had a strong chance of winning parliamentary elections because of a lack of local autonomy.

Students Attack Police Car

SK150036 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 15 Aug 86 p 8

[Text] About one hundred of opposition New Korea Democratic Party members and youths attacked a police sedan carrying two student demonstrators in front of the party headquarters, witnesses said yesterday.

They pulled one of the two students before the car sped away. Witnesses said policemen aboard the sedan were beaten and the car was damaged. The incident occurred shortly after the NKDP rally ended at 4:10 p.m.

SEOUL COLLEGES CLOSE CAMPUSES TO BAR RALLIES

SK140042 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 14 Aug 86 p 8

[Text] Three major universities in Seoul have closed or will close their campuses to prevent radical students from holding anti-government events on the occasion of the anniversary of the National Liberation Day tomorrow. Seoul National University will close its campus tomorrow when students plan to hold "a national democratic liberation festival," school officials said yesterday. However, they said, all professors and administration officials will come to school to prepare for possible violent acts by student activists.

Riot policemen were assigned to Yonsei University yesterday to obstruct students from entering the school. Police took the action at the request of school authorities to prevent students from holding various events under pretext of celebrating Liberation Day, a police spokesman said. Korea University students have been restricted from entering the school since Tuesday when student summer camp was to open under the sponsorship of students council.

MONTSAME COMMENTS ON GORBACHEV-BATMONH MEETING

OW150735 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1414 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 13 Aug (MONTSAME) -- A MONTSAME commentator reports: The Mongolian public, with great joy and support, greeted the news of the meeting in Moscow between Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, and Jambyn Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee and chairman of the MPR People's Great Hural Presidium, which was held in a cordial and friendly atmosphere and confirmed the total unity of views of the two fraternal parties and countries on all issues discussed. It assesses the meeting as an important political event, which has a great historical significance in the cause of enriching the genuinely Leninist and unbreakable friendship between the Soviet and the Mongolian peoples, strengthening and deepening fraternal ties between the CPSU and MPRP, and broadening and developing the close cooperation between the USSR and the MPR.

The successes of the Mongolian and the Soviet peoples in the implementation of the decisions of the 27th CPSU Congress and the 19th MPRP Congress, the spirit of creativity, [words indistinct] initiative, and Bolshevik truth in the cause of socialist and communist construction in our two countries were noted at the meeting.

The high assessment of the present state of broad and diversified Soviet-Mongolian cooperation made by the party leaders of the two fraternal countries and their understanding of the prospects for its development in accordance with the requirements of the long-term program of developing economic and scientific and technical cooperation between the USSR and the MPR for the period up to the year 2000, attached particular significance to the meeting.

The friendly meeting between Comrades M. Gorbachev and J. Batmonh also merits a high assessment by the Mongolian public and the peaceloving public of our world, owing to the fact that topical international issues were discussed. At (? a time) when the tension of the international situation has risen through the fault of the militant U.S. circles, the party leaders of our countries came out for further consolidation of the unity and cohesion of the socialist countries and for their further active cooperation in developing and implementing a coordinated foreign policy course aimed at removing the threat of nuclear war and strengthening and (? defending peace).

There is no doubt that the meeting will give a powerful impetus to the solution of topical problems of Asia and the Pacific. Conviction about the necessity for establishing relations of peace, cooperation, and good-neighborliness in this broad and densely populated part of the globe (?was expressed), along with a high assessment of the (?new) Soviet initiatives [words indistinct] nonuse of force in relations between the states of the region, and the known peaceful initiatives of other Asian socialist countries.

UNEN Editorial Cited

OW150749 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1355 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 14 Aug (MONTSAME) -- An UNEN editorial devoted to the results of the meeting between J. Batmonh and M. Gorbachev emphasizes its important signficance in further developing and broadening fraternal friendship and cooperation of the two countries and peoples, and in deepening relations between the MPR and the USSR based on Leninist principles.

The relations of our countries, based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, serve as a vivid example of international relations of a new kind, the article notes.

The leaders of the two countries highly assessed the creative work of the communists and peoples of Mongolia and the Soviet Union in implementing the decisions of the MPRP and the CPSU Congresses and fundamentally assessed remaining unresolved issues and urgent problems.

The meeting affirmed with new force the unity of the positions of the MPR and the USSR on the issues of ensuring international security. The issues of ensuring reliable security and peace for the peoples of Asia and the Pacific, which were raised at the meeting, are inseparable from the issue of peace and security for all mankind. The repeated and known initiatives of our countries directed towards these goals can play an important part in this cause, the UNEN editorial says.

CGDK CABINET ISSUES COMMUNIQUE ON ACTIVITIES

BK140210 Bangkok THE NATION in English 14 Aug 86 p 5

[Text] The un-recognized Khmer coalition partners say their guerrilla fighters are operating permanently in and around seven major Kampuchean cities, including the capital Phnom Penh.

A communique issued by the Council of Ministers of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK) after its second meeting this year, said the resistance forces were launching attacks against the Vietnamese troops deeper inside Kampuchea around the capital city, Tonle Sap Lake, Battambang, Muang, Pursat, Kompong Thom, Siem Reap and Kompong Speu.

It said increased cooperation among the three resistance groups had convinced local people, including Heng Samrin soldiers and members of communal administration committees, to provide more assistance to the guerrillas.

The CGDK also reaffirmed that the eight-point peace plan would remain the major diplomatic weapon used to persuade Vietnam to accept negotiations with the resistance forces for settlement of the Kampuchean problem.

"The eight-point peace proposal has become our national charter for the present and for the future after the Vietnamese withdrawal from Kampuchea," the communique said.

The peace plan released in March after the Council of Ministers meeting in Beijing contains provisions to include the Heng Samrin faction in the process of national reconciliation and the formation of the national government.

SENIOR KPNLF OFFICIAL ON USE OF U.S. AID

BK130138 Bangkok THE NATION in English 13 Aug 86 p 5

[Excerpts] The non-communist Kampuchean resistance forces have submitted a programme of future actions and lists of necessities to the Thai Government, which is administering U.S. $3.35 million provided by the U.S. Government this year to assist in the struggle against Vietnam's occupation of Kampuchea.

A senior official of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF) told THE NATION that both KPNLF and the National Sihanoukist Army have jointly worked out a series of future programmes, with immediate and long-term objectives, which are designed to strengthen the fighting capabilities of the non-communist groups.

Washington recently released the U.S. $3.35 million to Thailand, which is responsible for administering the aid. The U.S. said that the money is for a non-lethal nature.

The resistance forces official said the Thai Government is now studying the Khmer's proposal. "The decision will be made very soon. We are in hurry now that the rainy season is drawing to a close," the official said. [passage omitted]

The Khmer resistance official said the aid money will be used for medical supplies, food, communications equipment and military training for new fighters.

VOK REPORT ON SIHANOUK VISIT TO REFUGEE CAMP

BK140811 (Clandestine) Voice of the Khmer in Cambodian 0500 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Report on CGDK President Norodom Sihanouk's visit to Site B refugee camp in Thailand along the Thai-Cambodian border -- with portions recorded]

[Text] On 11 August, Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of the CGDK and chairman of the Funcinpec, and his wife visited the Site B Cambodian refugee camp where more than 30,000 Cambodians loyal to the Samdech fled last year from Ta Tum Camp due to the Vietnamese attack. The Samdech and his wife arrived at Site B Camp at 0900 on the morning of 11 August where they were warmly welcomed by Prince Norodom Rannarit and officials of all levels, foreign guests and journalists, and a large number of Cambodians in the camp. The Samdech and his wife joyfully chatted with the people. He then walked to the platform of honor, paid respects to the monks, who in turn blessed the Samdech and his wife, and then attended the flag ceremony. A woman representing the people of Site B Camp then made a speech telling him how much the people in Site B miss the Samdech and noting the developments in the camp. The Samdech then replied:

[Begin Sihanouk recording] I bow my head to pay highest respects to all the venerable monks. My love and respects to all the grandfathers, grandmothers, uncles, aunts, brothers, sisters, and all the sons and daughters. My respects to all the foreign friends and particularly the representatives of the international humanitarian organizations present here.

First of all, I would like to express deepest thanks for the grand and warm reception that all of you -- venerable monks, grandfathers, grandmothers, aunts, uncles, brothers, sisters, and beloved sons and daughters -- have organized for me. I have the great honor and great opportunity to be able to come to this place which is the symbol of the heroic patriotic struggle of all our Cambodian people. I am very impressed and satisfied with this heroism. [Words indistinct] the symbol of the valiant and dauntless struggle for national defense waged by all of you -- venerable monks, grandfathers, grandmothers, uncles, aunts, brothers, sisters, and sons and daughters -- living at this Site B Camp. Despite all difficulties and obstacles, all of you have struggled valiantly and patiently. [passage indistinct]. We have fought for a long time, for many years now. [Words indistinct] for our nation as fighters and as the loyal sons and daughters of our nation and Samdech Euv [Norodom Sihanouk]. At the beginning we had to live a difficult life in the jungle, but still we struggled for survival. [passage indistinct]. Later on, we organized a large camp called [name indistinct]. But when the Vietnamese aggressors realized that we could manage to live a better life, they then launched a large-scale attack against us. [passage indistinct]. Therefore, we have to establish a new camp called Ta Tuj. Ta Tum is a symbol of our nationalist army's heroism, the symbol of our people's valiant struggle, the people who are sons and daughters of Samdech Euv. [passage indistinct] Thus, we have come to take refuge under the [words indistinct]. The Kingdom of Thailand has thus allowed us to organize this place as a new camp called Site B Camp. At present, Site B has become a town with enough materials to improve the livelihood of our people. Tens of thousands of the Samdech Euv's sons and daughters today look healthy and seem to have a better life. You are properly dressed as good citizens of our Cambodia. This is thanks to the valiant and dauntless struggle of all of you under the leadership of Prince Rannarit as well as all other sons and daughters in charge of all aspects, such as the educational sector. Earlier, we had only small schools and only primary schools. At present we have even secondary schools which are progressing with each passing day. Moreover, just now children of the Sihanoukist personnel performed our traditional dances.

This shows that despite all difficulties and in whatever difficult circumstances, we Cambodians still try to perserve our fine traditions, culture, and civilization. They will always keep all our national civilization and traditions intact and even try to make them prosper forever. [applause] [end Sihanouk recording]

The Samdech then called on all Cambodian people, both inside and outside the country, to unite in order to fight and drive all Vietnamese aggressors out of our Cambodian territory as soon as possible. It is to be noted that during his visit to Site B Camp, Norodom Sihanouk also met and chatted with 22 Heng Samrin soldiers and a doctor who fled the Vietnamese zone to join the Sihanoukist National Army.

VONADK REPORTS ATTACK ON BATTAMBANG TOWN GARRISON

BK150246 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 14 Aug 86

[From the "Report From Various Battlefields" feature]

[Excerpt] On 11 August our National Army launched a three-pronged commando attack against the Vietnamese enemy's divisional command and municipal police office in Battambang Town from the north and the east. The first prong hit the 7704th Division's command and the municipal police office at the foot of the new stone bridge in Battambang Town. The second hit the Vietnamese enemy's depot of war materiel newly shipped in from Phnom Penh and the garment's depot. The third attacked the Norea township and the Norea commune office. After 30 minutes of fighting, we completely controlled all these spearheads, killing 8, including a Vietnamese police officer and a commander of the 7704th Division; wounding 10 others; destroying 5 AK's, 6 B-40's, 3 RPD's, 2 pistols, a depot of newly arrived war materiel.

Three hours later, Vietnamese troops at O Ta Van position and at the Bek Chan airfield of Battambang Town sallied out in an attempt to come to the rescue, but were intercepted and beaten back. We killed 9 Vietnamese soldiers, including 2 battalion commanders, wounded 7 others, and destroyed 15 assorted weapons and some war materiel. In sum, we killed 17, including a 7704th Division commander, a provincial police officer, and 2 battalion commanders, and wounded 19 others. [passage omitted]

LPRP ISSUES INSTRUCTION ON POLITICAL REPORT

BK131702 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] The party Central Committee Secretariat recently issued an additional instruction on organizing the study, appreciation of and contributions to the draft political report of the party Central Committee, which will be presented to the Fourth Party Congress. In this additional instruction, the party Central Committee Secretariat made the evaluation that political life campaigns to study, appreciate, and contribute views to the draft political report of the party Central Committee have been carried out in various localities by various services in a timely, profound, extensive, and enthusiastic manner. Even though these political life campaigns may be carried out in different forms in each locality, generally speaking they have fully encompassed the contents, objectives, and expectations outlined by the 11 June instruction of the party Central Committee, thereby allowing cadres, mass members, and people of all tribes to understand, appreciate, and clearly see the great achievements and victories scored by our people; to understand clearly the weak points and remaining overall problems in the past 10 years; and, at the same time, to understand clearly and objectively the social and economic reality in our country. They have also extensively and profoundly criticized the deviation of attitude and several mistakes that have been made. As a result, they have appreciated the orientation, duty, and objectives of the economic strategy in each period outlined in the draft political report.

A new positive phenomenon is that cadres, party members, masses, and people of all strata have contributed their views to the draft political report with a sense of responsiblity and sincerity.

The additional instruction of the party Central Committee Secretariat also noted that in these political life campaigns, certain significant problems still need more attention. Certain localities and services have organized the political life campaigns in a superficial manner that does not conform to the spirit of the instruction of the party Central Committee Secretariat. A number of responsible persons in some localities and services have failed to supervise the campaigns personally at the grass-roots level when study and discussion sessions are held at each level and in each sphere of work. Several localities and services have failed to reexamine and remodify their own second 5-year plans for the 1986-1990 period to align genuinely with the spirit of the draft political report of the party Central Committee. They have failed to guide the grass-roots production bases, agricultural cooperatives, and people in each village and mass organizations to discuss the actual implementation of the plan and to persist in realizing the objectives to build the plans from the foundations and districts upward. After completing each stage of the political life campaign, they have failed to consult one another and to launch a simultaneous emulation campaign.

To ensure the fulfillment of and to make these important political life campaigns rich with profound contents, the instruction of the party Central Committee Secretariat also provided additional guidance on certain issues. This is to encourage all provinces, municipalities, ministries, state committees, party committees, and organizations at all levels, both at the center and localities that have already organized the study of and contributed views to the draft political report but have failed to reexamine and criticize themselves and one another to do so. If a locality is currently studying the draft political report, it is instructed to criticize itself and others immediately so as to effect a new change and to develop unity and enthusiasm.

The party Central Committee Secretariat also instructed the secretaries of the provincial party committees, heads of the ministries, the state committees, the party committees and organizations at the center, and the leading committees in their respective levels to guide thoroughly and profoundly the grass-roots level, including all grass-roots organizations and people, in organizing the study of, appreciating, and contributing views to the draft political report; in carrying out inspection and self-criticism; and in discussing the second 5-year state plan and discussing the actual implementation plan at the grass-roots and districts levels. They must collect data and views contributed to the draft political report, consolidate their own 5-year plans, and report the success of the political life campaigns to the center by 15 August 1986.

In carrying out the political life campaigns at the grass-roots, two [figure as heard] things must be ensured; the fulfillment of political objectives and expectations, the period of time, and the fulfillment of the two tasks at the localities and foundations by effectively promoting production at the grass-roots sectors, for example, and especially by aiming at the period when the people are concentrating on carrying out the main-season rice growing. The socialist emulation campaigns must be promoted and encouraged in each sphere of work, especially in the current main-season rice production, the national defense and public security work, and the preparation for the new school year so that they will become genuinely consistent, effective, profound, enthusiastic movements to score achievements to welcome the forthcoming fourth party congress and to avoid any superficial action lacking new changes.

SECURITY MEASURES FOR PARTY CONGRESS DISCUSSED

BK141155 Vientiane KPL in English 0903 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Vientiane August 14 (OANA-KPL) -- The party committee of Vientiane capital sponsored here yesterday a conference to discuss security measures in preparation for the coming 4th Congress of the Lao People's Revolutionary Party CC. The conference chaired by Sisavat Keobounphah, secretary of the Vientiane party committee, was attended by over 100 cadres from various public institutions. The participants listened to a report on the achievements of defence work in the recent past and adopted a new action plan in preparation for the 4th Party Congress.

PRASONG, MICHAI APPOINTED TO PREM'S OFFICE

BK141506 Bangkok Television Service in Thai 1300 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] A report from the Government House today says that Prime Minister General Prem Tinsulanon has signed an order appointing the secretary general to the prime minister and government spokesman, which will be submitted to the cabinet for acknowledgement tomorrow. The order appoints Squadron Leader Prasong Sunsiri, National Security Council secretary general, to be secretary general to the prime minister suceeding Lieutenant General Chantharakhup Sirisut; and appoints Michai Wirawaithaya, former deputy industry minister to be spokesman of the prime minister's office replacing Dr Trairong Sunwannakhiri who is now a member of the House of Representatives.

DEMOCRAT MP'S 'DISSATISFIED' WITH CABINET SETUP

BK140212 Bangkok THE NATION in English 14 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] Democrat Party leader Phichai Rattakun yesterday faced tough questioning from his party members over the composition of the new Cabinet during a lengthy meeting marked by heated arguments, the party's spokeswoman said.

Spokeswoman Suphattra Matsadit told reporters that the questions posed included why Pattani MP and Muslim leader Den Tomina was left out of the Cabinet and whether the other four members of the working group headed by Phichai had been consulted over the appointments of the Democrats to the Cabinet.

"The atmosphere was tense but it cooled off after the party leader clarified the steps involved," the spokeswoman said.

A senior Democrat member told THE NATION that Den's omission from the Cabinet has dealt a severe blow to the Democrat Party because Muslim communities formed a significant base of support for the party.

The Democrat member said that the Muslim supporters of the party were told that Den would be appointed to the Cabinet.

Den kept silent throughout the session which lasted about two hours and a half and was chaired by deputy party leader and Chiang Mai MP Kraison Tantiphong.

Another unsuccessful Cabinet nominee, Chaloemphan Siwikon, a deputy Democrat leader and Bangkok MP, denied during the meeting that he had told the Press he was disappointed. He stressed loyalty to the party.

But Sakon Nakhon MP Anong Tongsiri appeared disappointed that she was not made a Cabinet member. She was quoted as saying her husband had been elected MP twice while she herself was a three-time MP but was never given a portfolio.

Anong told the meeting she would leave politics as soon as the present term of the House expires.

Phichai explained to the meeting that he submitted the list of 25 Democrat nominees to Premier Prem Tinsulanon who he said sent for him several times to inquire about the background of some of them. Prem, however, made the choice himself, he said.

Phichai also made known his frustration over the negotiations leading to the formation of the new Cabinet. He said he was frustrated by the other two coalition partners, Chat Thai and Social Action parties, which insisted that Prem must be made the premier.

The Democrat leader said Den lost the Cabinet post to Deputy Agriculture Minister Suthep Thuaksuban, a Surat Thani MP, probably because the premier is more familar with the southern MP, who served as former PM's Office Minister Banyat Banthatthan's secretary in the previous Prem Government.

There was speculation that Banyat may have played a role in the appointment, according to disgruntled Democrats who noted that both Banyat and Suthep were elected in the same province.

Deputy Interior Minister Wire Musikaphong was also disappointed with the appointment, according to the source who said that Veera wanted to take over as agriculture minister or at least Public Health which went to Tak MP Thoetphong Chaiyanan.

"Wira feels that he should have been promoted as a minister because he has been deputy minister for many terms. Furthermore, Thoetphong had been appointed deputy minister only once before this appointment," one Democrat said.

Chaloemphan, meanwhile felt that Gen Prem should provide him with an explanation why he was dropped from the list of nominees, the source said.

During the meeting, a group of Muslim leaders led by Manit Witthayanon called on the Democrat leaders to express congratulations on the appointment of 16 Democrats to the new Cabinet but they inquired why Den was denied a post.

Manit was quoted as saying that he would not mind if the Democrats could not provide an explanation because some day, he would finally learn of it one way or another.

Phichai told Muslim leaders that he was frustrated from the very beginning that the coalition would comprise four parties and one group.

He said that he wished to see a government comprising the majority party, instead of many parties.

Democrat sources also said that many were dissatisfied that only 16, and not 17 Democrats were appointed Cabinet members.

Dailies on Cabinet Changes

BK141210 [Editorial report] Three Thai-language Bangkok dailies: SIAM RAT, THAI RAT, and NAEO NA, on 12 and 14 August carry editorials welcoming the new cabinet appointed by Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon.

SIAM RAT's 700-word page 8 editorial on 12 August entitled: "The Duties of the New Cabinet", says that the 44-man cabinet lineup announced on 11 August "does not create any confidence or give assurance to the public that it will be able to solve the existing problems of the country and the people." This is because most of the new cabinet members are former ministers in the previous Prem government which has run the country for over 6 years now. The newcomers, meanwhile, have no record of big achievements to impress the people.

The cabinet list reflects a compromise of various interest groups. "Most of the ministers are financial sponsors of their respective political parties. It is likely that such a compromise could create a problem one day in the future," the paper says. It however expresses the hope that those ministers with clean records, especially the prime minister himself, will serve as an obstacle to block politicians who are businessmen from taking advantage of their high positions to benefit their personal or party interests. It hopes that the policy of the new government will also help create the sense of common responsibility for all cabinet members in order to solve national problems.

THAI RAT's 700-word page 3 editorial on 14 August entitled: "The Task of the New Government", also notes that the coalition government of four elected political parties and a nonelected grouping is based on the spirit of compromise. What is more important than the allocation of ministerial positions based on party quotas is the laying down of national policy which governs the line of administration. This cannot be based on compromise among parties or groupings, but must be based on the principle of work coordination among parties to best benefit the country and the people.

The new government is being challenged by numerous problems, including economic and social problems. "The people put their hope in the new government to solve those problems urgently, efficiently, and wisely. It is hoped that the new government leader, although he is not an elected prime minister, will run the government with courage and speed, and not in the style of bureaucracy characterized by slowness and fear of making mistakes," THAI RAT says.

NAEO NA's 700-word page 4 editorial on 14 August entitled: "Where Is Stability" says that, although opposition in the parliament is not a threat to the government, the problem of its stability lies in internal bickering within the coalition parties, namely the Democrat, Chat Thai, and Social Action Parties, over the allocation of cabinet portfolios. Moreover, the government is confronted by a huge economic problem. The public is watching whether this government will be better than the previous government in tackling the economic woes for the people.

"We express support and encouragement for the new government so that it will be able to run the country to the best of its capability. We hope that it will dedicate itself to the fullest in order to solve the long-standing problems, and prove to the public that an insult, that those newly appointed cabinet ministers who are major financial backers to their respective parties in the recent election would only try to redeem what they have invested, is not true," the paper concludes.

PARTIES WANT PREM TO EASE TIGHT FISCAL POLICY

BK130145 Bangkok THE NATION in English 13 Aug 86, pp 1, 2

[Excerpt] The three major partners in the new coalition want Premier Prem Tinsulanon to ease the tight fiscal policy adopted during the last government and call for increased government spending and investments.

The Democrat Party, the largest coalition party, has proposed the formation of a national farm council to direct the production and marketing of agricultural crops. It also wants the government to promote investments in labour-intensive projects as a means to solve problems of unemployment.

A source in the party said the government needs to increase its investment budget by at least 2,000 million baht to stimulate the economy while at the same time promote foreign investments.

Deputy Finance Minister Dr Suphachai Phanitchaphak is believed to be behind the economic platform of the Democrat Party which also advocates the utilization of unorganized money market to benefit the economy.

The austerity policy adopted by former finance minister Sommai Huntrakun during the last government was blamed for the economic downturn.

Premier Prem Tinsulanon last week submitted the draft of his policy to all the four parties in the coalition for consideration and amendments. The policy will be announced to the House soon.

The Social Action Party (SAP) will push the government to increase its spending by another 10,000 million baht either in the form of development or investment projects to stimulate the sluggish economy.

The party is also in favour of borrowing of loans both from foreign and domestic sources for such projects provided that they offer easy repayment terms and low interest rates.

The party wants the government to encourage investments here, especially from Japan and Europe. It also advocates diplomatic measures to fight trade protectionism in developed countries.

The SAP pursues a policy of lower taxes to stimulate the economy, especially personal income tax, export tax and business tax.

Sources in the party said it wants the government to incorporate the "tambon fund" in its development policy.

The Chat Thai Party, meanwhile, wants the government to implement long-term plans to upgrade prices of agricultural produce through integrated farm system. It also wants the government to reduce domestic oil prices. [passage omitted]

Suthi on Fiscal Measures

BK140314 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 14 Aug 86 p 13

[Text] New Finance Minister Suthi Singsane yesterday said he considers the country's financial stability the most important issue although economic growth must go along at a reasonable rate.

Dr Suthi said he will use financial measures that will be conducive to more investment by the private sector and to create more jobs, such as the one concerning the business tax.

"The country's economy has been through a long slump. Although the situation is improving, the need remains to maintain the financial stability as the country's budget deficit and debt situation are still heavy," he said.

He emphasized that whatever will be done, financial stability must be kept in mind at all times because of the chronic budget deficit problem and the tax collection short-fall.

"When the Government's income is limited, its spending must be carefully watched," he said. "But the situation is not hopeless as the surrounding factors have so far been favourable, such as the lower bank interest rates, the low inflation rate, the three oil price cuts in only one year and the adjustments in corporate and export tax structures."

"When we look at the commodity situation and the death of the Jenkins Bill, we will realise that all is not bad," he added.

Economic growth is necessary, but it must be in relation to the employment situation, he said, stressing that most importantly, the growth must be gradual.

"On the part of the Finance Ministry, it must carefully watch the spending of governmental organisations and state enterprises to suit the economic growth rate while, at the same time, improving its tax collections," he said.

Dr Suthi again stressed that economic growth must be carefully monitored to avoid losing financial stability. He explained that financial stability can be gleaned from two key indicators, one of which is the debt situation.

He admitted that Thailand's debt situation, both internal and external, is heavy and that if the country is too indebted, it could become critical as all the country's resources would have to go to repay debts.

But he pointed out that debts are necessary, otherwise the situation in the future could be very bad. "The main problem is that the people who borrow and those who have to pay back are not from the same generation. This is because of the political situation, the worldwide factors and the long repayment periods."

He suggested that "in the case that we cannot immediately stop borrowing, some disciplines must be applied by the Finance Ministry in the form of putting up a borrowing ceiling at not more than 10 percent of the national budget or setting a repayment limit to not more than 9 percent of export earnings.

"In financial theories, such disciplines are necessary, but in reality, they are very difficult to apply," he admitted.

Another key indicator of financial stability is the budget deficit, he said. "While spending has been growing at a high rate every year, the country's economic growth has been only around 5 percent per annum. But being a developing country, our spending has to be somewhat high.

"It is not possible that we will not invest in anything, so whatever we do will have to be extremely selective."

Dr Suthi revealed that as for the revitalisation of the economy, "if we look at the Gross National Product (GNP), we will see that the state is responsible for only 17 percent while the private sector is responsible for 83 percent.

"So the private sector has a great role in stimulating the economy, but the Finance Ministry has to play a part in creating a good climate in which the private sector can invest," he said

Regarding the Bank of Thailand, Dr Suthi said he would like to see the central bank become more independent and do its job in accordance with its assigned duties. "I will also promote a closer relation between the central bank and the ministry," he added.

PARLIAMENT AGREES ON SCHEDULE OF SESSIONS

BK141527 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0530 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] The House of Representatives held the second meeting of the 1986 session at the Parliament building today. After the meeting heard, the royal commands appointing the house speaker and deputy house speakers, the prime minister, and the cabinet, it went on to consider issues concerning the holding of parliamentary sessions. The meeting agreed that Parliament should hold two ordinary sessions annually -- the first beginning on 1 April and the second on 1 September -- and that only one session should be held in 1986. The house will meet once a week every Thursday at 0900.

SITTHI ON SRV TIES, CAMBODIA, TRADE RELATIONS

BK140122 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 14 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[By The Chongkhadikit]

[Excerpts] Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila declared yesterday that Thailand wants to be friends with Vietnam and that the big powers should be able to work out solutions to such problems as the Vietnamese occupation of Kampuchea.

He told the BANGKOK POST in an exclusive interview that Thailand and its ASEAN allies will let the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK) take its own initiatives on discussions with the Vietnamese government or with the Heng Samrin regime.

He believes that with the changing attitudes of the big powers there will be a more reasonable Vietnamese leadership which has been indicated in a Hanoi statement on the 10th anniversary of Thai-Vietnamese exchange of diplomatic relations.

Thailand and ASEAN are still firm on the United Nations resolution regarding withdrawal of Vietnamese forces from Kampuchea, Air Chief Marshal Sitthi stressed.

"Vietnam wants to be friends with us and has assured us that it will not violate our territory. After having undergone 40 years of war, it appears eager to talk since it cannot get Kampuchea by conquest and since the Soviet Union wants to promote good relations with China as shown by its withdrawal of troops from Mongolia on December 8."

This shift in Hanoi has apparently taken place after the death of diehard Le Duan.

"We are not an enemy of Vietnam. We want to find a solution which will not affect our security and which will help us resolve our refugee problems.

"We would like to talk with Vietnam but we are still firm in our policy about Vietnam withdrawing its forces from Kampuchea. We in ASEAN will have nothing to do with the CGDK in the way of active partnership.

"We will leave the matter up to the big powers. Preparations are being made for the summit conference between U.S. President Reagan and USSR President [title as published] Gorbachev. The Khmers should be able to work out their destiny in two years."

On the 10th anniversary of Thai-Vietnam relations, the Foreign Ministry of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam "takes this opportunity to reaffirm the consistent policy of the SRV respecting the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Thailand and also other countries, and its readiness to build and develop friendship, cooperation and goodneighbourliness with Thailand and all other countries.

"The Foreign Ministry believes that with goodwill from both sides we are fully able to solve all outstanding questions between our two countries in the interests of the people and of peace, friendship and cooperation in Southeast Aisa."

Thailand's foreign policy will be independent to maintain national sovereignty, security and prestige. The Foreign Ministry will improve relations with all neighbouring countries and maintain relationships with other countries on the basis of equality and maintenance of peace.

Thailand will not allow its territory to be used to destabilise or undermine the governments of neighbouring countries and hopes its neighbours will have the same policy. Emphasis will be placed on the maintenance of peace and stability in the region and on strengthening economic and political cooperation with ASEAN partners.

Relations with the big powers will be further improved based on respect for the priciples of the United Nations Charter. Expanded relations with the Third World are also planned.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs will improve its relations with the other ministries, and conduct public relations domestically and abroad to improve Thailand's image and prestige.

ACM Sitthi intends to keep the Thai people informed of foreign affairs so that they can understand and provide support.

The Foreign Ministry will expand commerce and use diplomacy to improve the national economy by attracting investment, technological knowhow and tourism. [passage omitted]

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs will work closely with the Ministry of Commerce, a SAP [Social Action Party] - headed ministry to obtain data on world market trends and needs so that farmers can be informed to produce what is demanded and, therefore, can be sold. This is becoming increasingly necessary with protectionism.

The promotion of agro-industries is to be encouraged so that Thailand's own raw materials, so that the exports can earn more income, and so that there will be greater employment.

The government should give incentives for foreign investment in a silo system to store commodities for sale at the best marketing periods. It should be exploring the futures markets.

The Japanese should be approached to transfer technology which will help Thailand improve its products and economy. They should be encouraged to set up export-oriented industries in export-processing zones.

The Foreign Ministry will strive for greater cooperation with fellow-ASEAN countries in matters of complementary trading and preferential tariff rates. There will not only be ASEAN joint industrial projects but also coordination in the marketing of products and in bargaining with developed countries over commerce.

U.S. CITIZEN ARRESTED IN APRIL 1985 EXPELLED

OW141534 Hanoi VNA in English 1517 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 14 -- The people's committee of Nghia Binh Province, central Vietnam, on August 13 decided to expel Robert Wilfred Schwab III, a U.S. citizen born in Georgia and residing in Atlanta who was captured on April 23, 1985 in Vietnamese territorial waters while taking acts against the sovereignty and security of Vietnam. He was also fined duly in accordance with Vietnamese law. Schwab admitted having engaged in illegal acts in contravention of the penal code of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam. He pledged not to repeat his anti-Vietnam acitivities and asked the government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam for clemency. Before leaving, he expressed his gratitude toward the Vietnamese Government and people for the humanitarian and lenient treatment accorded him.

SYMPOSIUM SUPPORTS GORBACHEV REMARKS ON PEACE

OW141721 Hanoi VNA in English 1535 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 14 -- A symposium on peace and security in Asia and the Pacific took place here today in support of the new peace initiatives put forth by CPSU General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev. The symposium, jointly sponsored by the Vietnam Fatherland Front Central Committee, the Vietnam Committee for Solidarity and Friendship With Other Peoples, the Hanoi Peace Committee and the Hanoi chapter of the Vietnam-U.S.S.R. Friendship Association, was attended, among others, by Xuan Oanh, general secretary of the Vietnam Peace Committee, and Truong Tung, deputy chairman of the Hanoi People's Committee. The participants warmly welcomed the Soviet leader's peace initiatives and expressed their determination to do their best to contribute to the cause of peace, security, and equitable cooperation in the region.

TRUONG CHINH MESSAGE OF THANKS TO LAO LEADERS

BK080349 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 8 Aug 86

["Text" of "recent" message of thanks from Truong Chinh, general secretary of CPV Central Committee and chairman of SRV Council of State, to Kaysone Phomvihan, general secretary of LPRP Central Committee and chairman of Council of Ministers, and Souphanouvong, LPDR president and chairman of SPC and of Lao Front for National Construction]

[Text] On behalf of the CPV Central Committee, the Council of State, the National Assembly, the Council of Ministers, and the Vietnam Fatherland Front, I would like to extend sincere thanks to the LPRP Central Committee, the Council of Ministers, the SPC, the Lao Front for National Construction, and all fraternal Lao people for organizing significant and wholehearted activities on the passing away of our Comrade General Secretary Le Duan. Those activities served as profound manifestions of the unshakable militant solidarity and special relations between our two parties and peoples.

Complying with the will of beloved and respected President Ho Chi Minh and loyal to Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism, the CPV and the Vietnamese people pledge to continue to enhance and consolidate the strength of the Vietnam-Laos and the Vietnam-Laos-Cambodia militant alliance and solidarity and wholeheartedly fulfill the international obligations toward the fraternal Lao party and people.

I wish the Lao people, under the leadership of the LPRP with Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan as head, new and ever greater achievements in the cause of defending and building the country.

Our communist greetings to you comrades.

SCIENTIFIC COOPERATION PROTOCOL SIGNED WITH LAOS

OW121630 Hanoi VNA in English 1541 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 12 -- A protocol on scientific and technical cooperation between Laos and Vietnam in the years 1986 and 1987 has been signed here at the end of a visit by a Lao scientific and technical delegation. The delegation is led by Minister Suni Nanthavong, chairman of the State Committee for Science and Technology. While here, the Lao guests were cordially received by Pham Van Dong, political bureau member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and chairman of the Council of Ministers.

PHAM VAN DONG MEETS UNIDO DIRECTOR GENERAL

OW130749 Hanoi VNA in English 0719 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 13 -- Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong received at the presidential palace here yesterday Domingo I. Siazon, director general of the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), and his colleagues, on a visit to Vietnam. With Chairman Pham Van Dong at the reception was assistant Foreign Minister Vo Van Sung. Anders Roejkjaer, coordinator of the United Nations in Vietnam and permanent representative of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), was also present.

Speaking to the guests, Chairman Pham Van Dong sincerely thanked and highly appreciated the UNIDO in general, and the director general in particular, for their assistance coopoeration in Vietnam's industrial development. The Vietnamese people, the chairman stressed, will do all they can to better use the UNIDO's assistance. He expressed the wish for constant development of the effective cooperation between the UNIDO and Vietnam.

Director General Siazon expressed his satisfaction at the result of the visit which had enabled him to see with his own eyes the the Vietnamese people's industrious labour to rapidly heal the wounds of war. He expressed the conviction that the Vietnamese people, with their glorious tradition and great energy, will surmount the present difficulties and take Vietnam firmly on the path of industrialization. The UNIDO director general sincerely thanked Chairman Pham Van Dong for his hospitality and affirmed that in his capacity as director general, he will do his best to continue helping and cooperating with Vietnam within the framework of UNIDO.

UNIDO Delegation Departs

OW131725 Hanoi VNA in English 1554 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 13 -- D.I. Siazon, director general of the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), and his colleagues, left here today concluding a week long visit to Vietnam as guest of foreign minister Nguyen Co Thach.

While in Vietnam D.I. Siazon and his party paid last respects to President Ho Chi Minh at his home and cffice.

Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong warmly received Director General Siazon. He was also received by and had discussion with Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach on the cooperation between Vietnam and UNIDO

Earlier, D.I. Siazon had working sessions with the Foreign Ministry, the State Planning Commission, the state Commission for Science and Technology, the Commission for Foreign Economic Relations under the Council of Ministers. Together with a representative of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in Hanoi, he signed documents for two new projects with the Ministry of Power and the Ministry of Engineering and Metals. Director General D.I. Siazon visited several economic establishments of Vietnam and some projects sponsored by UNIDO in Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City.

VAN TIEN DUNG VISITS CAM RANH NAVAL UNITS

BK140712 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0500 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Senior General Van Tien dung, member of the CPV Central Committee Political Bureau, secretary of the CPV Central Committee's Military Commission, and minister of national defense, recently made a working tour of naval units on the Cam Ranh peninsula. The comrade met leading cadres of the party, administration, and military command of Phu Khanh Province as well as the representatives of schools and units stationed in Phu Khanh. The senior general visited the [Cam Ranh] military port and heard reports on the situation of various units, especially on the results of the enthusiastic emulation movement in training, unit-building, combat readiness, and economic construction to score achievements to greet the Sixth CPV Congress.

Addressing cadres and combatants of the Cam Ranh military port and representatives of Units and schools, the senior general commended them for their determination to overcome difficulties and hardships, their close unity wity the people and the armed forces of Phu Khanh Province, their efforts to develop the results of self-criticism and criticism activities, their active contributions to building and defending the local territorial waters and the Truong Sa [Spratly] Archipelao, the exploration and exploitation of oil and natural gas, and to the safeguarding of Cam Ranh, one of the country's strategic positions.

Dealing with the situation and tasks of the armed forces, especially the specific tasks of those units stationed on the Cam Ranh peninsula and the Truong Sa Archipelago, the comrade emphasized: The struggle between the revolutionary and counterrevolutionary forces in the world continues to develop in various fields in a very fierce and complex manner. Faced with such a situation, the national defense tasks and the international obligations of our entire army and people are still very heavy. Here in this strategically important position, you, comrades, should not have any illusions or loose vigilance. Instead, you should be profoundly and fully aware of the situation if you are to implement satisfactorily all your assigned missions.

HOANG TUNG RECEIVES LAO TRADE UNION DELEGATION

BK120644 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 7 Aug 86

[Text] A delegation of the Lao Trade Union Federation [LTUF] Central Committee led by Comrade Thitsoi Sombatdouang, alternate member of the LPRP Central Committee and chairman of the LTUF Central Committee, recently paid a friendship visit to Vietnam at the invitation of the Vietnam Confederation of Trade Unions [VCTU].

During their stay, the guests paid homage to President Ho Chi Minh at his mausoleum and visited his residence and office. They were received by and had cordial talks with Comrade Hoang Tung, secretary of the CPV Central Committee. Comrade Pham The Duyet, alternate member of the party Central Committee and acting VCTU president, also received the delegation.

The LTUF delegation held working sessions with some members of the Secretariat and various specialized committees of the VCTU to exchange experience on organizational, emulation, social insurance, and general work, and in supervising the implementation of VCTU resolutions on various sectors' and trades' activities. The delegation also toured a number of production establishments and public welfare and cultural projects in Hanoi capital, Quang Ninh Province, Ho Chi Minh City, and the Vung Tau-Con Dao Special Zone. Wherever they went, the Lao guests were warmly received by local Vietnamese trade union and production establishment leaders who infromed them of the production work and trade union activities of the workers and civil servants in the localities concerned.

NHAN DAN ON GRASSROOTS-LEVEL PARTY CONGRESSES

BK111416 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 10 Aug 86

[11 August NHAN DAN editorial: "Party Organization Congresses at the Grass-roots Level"]

[Text] In preparation for the Sixth National CPV Congress, this month grassroots-level party organizations will begin holding their congresses. These are very important political events. Grassroots-level party organization congresses will take place at a time when the grassroots-level organizations concerned have scored achievements in various respects. These organizations, however, continue to have numerous shortcomings ans weaknesses as well as many difficulties, especially in those localities repeatedly hit by natural calamities. Faced with such a situation, a grassroots-level party organization congress must meet the following requirements:

First, we must correctly evaluate the situation of the party organization with a high sense of self-criticism and criticism, practically contribute our opinion to various draft documents of the national CPV congress, and satisfactorily prepare the resolution of the party organization congress complete with concrete objectives and positive and appropriate measures.

Second, we must elect a party organization executive committee capable of providing effective leadership to new, heavy tasks, especially those on socioeconomy, brought forth by the party organization congress. This executive committee will designate a delegate -- who must be competent, qualified, and ideologically steadfast, typical of the spirit of the party organization -- to attend the party congress at the higher echelon.

Third, we must strengthen the unity and singlemindedness of the party organization and develop its tradition and fighting strength. We must try to promote a mass revolutionary movement to emulate in engaging in productive labor, practicing thrift, renovating management mechanism, and consolidating national defense and security with a determination to score outstanding achievements to welcome the Sixth National CPV Congress.

Bringing the fighting strength of the grassroot-level party organization and its dynamism, creativity, and steadfastness up to its standard and its level of importance always constitutes the most important duty of the entire party.

Grassroots-level party organization congresses must, based on various draft documents of the sixth national CPV congress, conduct criticism and self-criticism and must review the achievements and experience gained by their respective party organizations in implementing the two strategic tasks -- building and defending the socialist fatherland -- while deciding on the objectives and orientation for the period ahead. These objectives and orientation will continue to be perfected following the National CPV Congress.

This time such a grassroots-level party organization congress must manage to elect an executive committee that truly possesses good ethical qualities with good working attitude and leadership skills capable of fulfilling all the tasks brought forth by the grassroots-level party organization congress. This executive committee must uphold the sense of succession and continuity in cultivating its party committee echelon with a determination not to maintain those comrades who, in the previous term of office, failed to develop their leadership effectiveness, and those comrades whose ethical qualities are poor. Such liabilities include a decline in the will to fight, lack of a sense of responsibility, unlawfully nibbling at public lands, exploiting other people, taking bribes, misappropriating marketable goods and money, coercing the masses, seeking personal privileges, and adopting a paternalistic and arbitrary attitude.

A number of grassroots-level party organizations have experimented with conducting their party congresses. Experience obtained from this shows that party committees at higher echelons must pay great attention to guiding, supervising, and helping their subordinate party organizations, especially those party organizations whose performances are poor, in the fields of evaluating the situation, determining the orientation and tasks, and appointing backbone personnel to key positions.

It is necessary to train a contingent of lecturers capable of helping party members so that the infrastructure thoroughly understands the fundamental points of various draft documents of the national CPV congress as well as of higher-echelon party congresses.

While conducting grassroots-level party organization congresses, we must pay constant attention to our daily routine -- namely carrying out urgent tasks regarding the need to restore and develop production, intensify market management, stabilize the people's lives, and consolidate national defense and security against the enemy's multifaceted war of sabotage.

Grassroots-level party organization congresses must be conducted in such a way as to avoid showiness, formality, and waste, to produce realistic, high-quality results, to generate enthusiasm, and to enhance the masses' confidence. All these will contribute greatly to the success of the Sixth National CPV Congress.

FUEL SHORTAGE AFFECTS ELECTRICAL SUPPLY IN NORTH

BK050938 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 31 Jul 86

[Text] Due to the shortage of fuel, the electrical power generating system of northern Vietnam can now produce a total output of only 270 megawatts, of which 210 megawatts are for supplying to various production sectors and the people. The director of the electrical power Corporation No. 1 Ministry of Power, and the head of the irrigation management department, Ministry of Water Conservancy, have agreed to reserve electric power for agriculture, especially for the three heavily flood-stricken provinces of Ha Bac, Hai Hung, and Ha Nam Ninh. They decided to supply these provinces with 43 megawatts or almost 900,000 kw-hour per day. At peak hours, the electrical sector concentrates on supplying most of its electric power to anti-flood areas such as the Song Cau and Phan Coc dikes, the Day Dam, and other electrical loading stations in key areas such as the Da River hydroelectric power construction site, the Pha Lai thermopower construction site, the Thai Nguyen cast iron and steel complex, the Lam Thao super-phosphate plant, and various cement factories. Electrical supply to other less important sectors has been cut down to save power for agricultural activities. Vinh Phu, Ha Son Binh, Thai Binh, Nghe Tinh, and Thanh Hoa provinces have been consistently supplied with sufficient electrical power to enable them to coordinate with other sectors in maintaining agricultural and industrial production.

With the current shortage of fuel, an insufficient supply of electrical power will persist for sometime. However, improper use of electricity is still prevalent. Many families wastefully used electricity without asking for permission, thus saving no electrical power. Localities and sectors must correctly observe regulations on using electricity and positively take appropriate measures to save electrical power.

AUSTRALIA

HAWKE REJECTS CALL TO CHARGE U.S. RENT

BK150622 Hong Kong AFP in English 0611 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Canberra, Aug 15 (AFP) -- Prime Minister Bob Hawke said Friday his government would not introduce import quotas to rescue Australia from its deteriorating trade position. Mr Hawke said in a television interview that Australia would not improve its negotiating position if it started doing things it was asking other countries not to do. The prime minister was responding to a call from members of his Labor Party for new import barriers in next Tuesday's federal budget to stem Australia's worsening trade deficit. Last month, Australia recorded its second worst trading figures ever with a deficit of 1.56 billion dollars (about 935 million U.S.).

Mr Hawke said the best way to curb imports and help the economy was for consumers to buy Australian goods. He also rejected a call from some Labor members for the government to charge the United States rent for joint defence facilities in Australia. Mr Hawke said the government would not use the joint defence facilities as a bargaining chip in trade negotiations, despite concern at the U.S. cutting into Australia's principal wheat markets by subsidising grain sales to China and the Soviet Union. "We are not going to try and negotiate away Australia's security," he said.

PAPUA NEW GUINEA ASKED TO ACCEPT CUT IN AID

BK131049 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] The Federal Government is asking Papua New Guinea to accept a $10 million cut in foreign aid this financial year. Radio Australia's correspondent in Port Moresby, (Peter Cotton), says the request is carried in a letter from the prime minister, Mr Hawke, to his Papua New Guinea counterpart, Mr Wingti.

Australia's acting minister for foreign affairs, Senator Evans, is in Papua New Guinea explaining the cut. he has been explaining the economic situation in Australia and the consequent need to trim foreign aid. Our correspondent says he understands that the Papua New Guinea Government accepts the need for cuts but has asked for an assurance that there will be no further reduction in the remaining 4 years of the current aid agreement. Earlier this year, the two countries signed an agreement under which Australia pledged to give around $1,500 million in aid to Papua New Guinea over the next 5 years, and last year Australia gave aid totaling $310 million.

NEW ZEALAND

DEFENSE MINISTER DEFENDS ANTINUCLEAR POLICIES

HK141131 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 8 Aug 86 p 5

[By Wellington staff]

[Text] The Minister of Defence, Mr O'Flynn, yesterday called a former Chief of Air Staff "Joe McCarthy resurrected" over an attack he made on the peace movement.

Mr O'Flynn accused Air Vice-Marshal Ian Morrison of making remarks that did little towards new Zealand's efforts for peace and regional stability.

In a speech two weeks ago, Air Vice-Marshal Morrison said peace campaigners were communist in spirit and were "playing into the hands of the enemy."

And he dismissed the Government's anti-nuclear stance as self-indulgent, dishonourable and shameful.

Speaking in Parliament yesterday during the budget debate, Mr. O'Flynn likened Air Vice-Marshal Morrison to the American Senator known for his anti-communist crusade.

"He is Joe McCarthy resurrected, "Mr O'Flynn said.

"He has abandoned one of the very liberties we are trying to preserve -- the right to express freely, sincerely held opinion."

New Zealand was making continuing efforts towards peace and regional security, more so than any other country in the Pacific, and such remarks showed there was "not much help being given to us by some of our own people."

Mr O'Flynn told the House the Government anti-nuclear policies were not a breach of the letter of spirit of the ANZUS treaty.

When the treaty was signed there was no suggeston that the non-nuclear partners would have to harbour nuclear-armed ships, but the United States was now requiring New Zealand to do that.

The treaty was a legal document and it could not be interpreted by just one party.

Mr. O'Flynn said he agreed the working of the treaty was vague and might have to be interpreted with some flexibility, but the words "cannot accommodate the fundamental change which the introducton of nuclear arms has brought about."

New Zealand's view of ANZUS had always been that it was a conventional treaty, but the United States has made a demand outside the treaty and had threatened to suspend its own obligations under it.

"I expect that some time this month they will say, somehow or other, that they think we are in breach of the treaty.

"The truth is, although it is not a point that we want to enlarge upon, that it is their conduct which amounts to a breach of the treaty."

The opposition spokesman on defence, Mr Doug Kidd (Marlborough), said New Zealand was now without valuable intelligence and access to advanced training and modern weapons technology because of the "reckless arrogant actions" of the government.

After two years in office, the government was saying it would begin writing a defence policy.

He criticised tha delay and said that judging by the time needed to compile such reviews, to was unlikely to be ready until the eve of the next election.

The government has set up a defense review committee, headed by a former Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Mr Frank Corner, to "do a political job."

But the Prime Minister, Mr Lange, had indicated that he was unhappy with the committee's findings as it seemed the committee did not deliver the contrived mandate, the government hoped for, Mr Kidd said.

To the credit of the Corner Committee it has addressed the real issues. For two years the Government had been mouthing fantasies and was totally divorced from the real world

NATIONAL PARTY GOVERNMENT WOULD ACCEPT U.S. SHIPS

HK141030 Hong Kong AFP in English 1016 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Wellington, Aug 14 (AFP) -- New Zealand's opposition National Party would begin talks about rejoining the Australian, New Zealand and U.S. (ANZUS) alliance within days of winning the next election, opposition leader Jim Bolger said Thursday. Mr Bolger said in a radio interview he would open discussions "for re-admitting U.S. ships (to New Zealand ports) shortly after becoming prime minister" if elected at the next election. "I would expect the talks to be lengthy," he added.

New Zealand was suspended from ANZUS on Tuesday because the Labour government of Prime Minister David Lange denies U.S. warships port access if they are nuclear-armed. The United States' policy is to neither confirm nor deny (NCND) whether its ships are nuclear-armed.

Mr Bolger said a government under his leadership would accept U.S. warship port calls, and would not ask whether the vessels carried nuclear arms. "It is possible we might have a nuclear ship in harbour," he said. "Membership of the alliance requires we accept vessels on the NCND basis. We know the United States has nuclear arms capacity and that is totally consistent with NCND," he said, adding that most New Zealanders understood these membership requirements.

The National Party, which lost power in the 1984 general election, is now only one point behind the Labour Party in opinion polls. It is the only main political party in New Zealand to support visits by nuclear-armed warships.

SEPARATE LOYALIST, NPA TERRORIST PLOTS ALLEGED

HK150151 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile yesterday [14 Aug] revealed a Marcos loyalist plot to launch terrorist attacks and kidnap top government officials. At the same time Marcos loyalist sources said NPA urban guerrillas are poised to unleash simultaneous raids in Metro Manila. Both plots were reported aimed at toppling the Aquino government. Both were however still unconfirmed. Minister Enrile bared the alleged loyalist plot in addressing the Inner Wheel Club of Manila. He said the target of the planned loyalist assaults are government installations and offices. The loyalists are reportedly planning to kidnap President Aquino, cabinet members and top military officials.

[Begin Enrile recording] The time-frame envisioned in this plot, or so-called plot, is before or after the president's visit to the United States of America in September. The exact date of the operation is not specified although it is supposed to be an early morning blitz here everybody is still sleeping, or a (?rightwing) assault against various identified personalities -- some 44 of them [words indistinct] in one phase, the last phase of this document. [Word indistinct] strategic location for areas that must be taken by the group, and they have mentioned fourteen places -- Malacanang, Camp Aguinaldo, Camp Crame, Bonifacio, Nichols, Basa Air Base, Fernando Air Base, Tanay, Camp Olivas, Camp Aquino, Channels 2, 4, 7, 9. 13, (?Beutel), Bureau of Posts and others. [end recording]

Meanwhile the reportedly impending NPA attack in Metro Manila was disclosed by Marcos loyalist forces. They said some 1,000 heavily armed urban guerrillas are poised to strike simultaneously in the capital region. The attacks are expected before the August 21 anniversary of the assassination of former Senator Benigno Aquino. The same sources said the objective of the attacks is to topple the Aquino government. The Communist Party of the Philippines has reportedly advanced its timetable to wrest power in the country because of the impending military crackdown on the underground movement. The same sources said they have reliable information that urban NPA guerrillas have spread out in the national capital region, waiting for the signal to launch attacks. The bases of their operations were reported to be Tondo, Taguig, Pateros, Dasmarinas and Sapang Palay.

Police on 'Maximum Alert'

HK150935 Hong Kong AFP in English 0912 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 15 (AFP) -- Manila police have been put on maximum alert after Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile's disclosure of an alleged plot by Marcos-loyalists to kidnap President Corazon Aquino, officials said Friday. Manila police chief Brigadier General Alfredo Lim said that police had been on "red alert" since Mr Enrile's plot claim in a speech here Thursday. Brig Gen Lim's name appeared on an alleged kidnap list printed in a local paper Friday. Military spokesmen could not immediately confirm if their forces were included in the alert. The presidential security troops' second-in-command Lieutenant Colonel Jesus Regala only told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE: "We are taking steps to cope with that report."

Despite the security alert and press reports about the alleged plot there was no sign of tension or trouble in Manila. Presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag Thursday said Mrs Aquino was not bothered by the report, first disclosed at a cabinet meeting Wednesday.

But Brig Gen Lim was protected by heavily armed aides as he lunched at a Manila restaurant Friday. His name was high on a list -- published in the EVENING POST Friday -- of 44 key civilian and military officials allegedly targetted for kidnapping by supporters of deposed President Ferdinand Marcos. The newspaper's list, which included two communist rebel leaders holding preliminary cease-fire talks with government negotiators, could not be immediately verified.

Mr Enrile also alleged Thursday that Marcos-loyalists planned to attack the presidential palace and 14 military and communications facilities, possibly during Mrs Aquino's visit to Indonesia and Singapore next week or her U.S. visit in September. But he added that the plot, betrayed by a seized letter, could just be a "money-making venture" by people seeking donations from pro-Marcos businessmen.

Mr Marcos, speaking through a spokesman from his exile home in Hawaii, denied Mr Enrile's charge Friday. "I cannot believe that the loyalists would plan such a fantastic plot. I'm sure that we will be able to exert everything so that if such a plot as alleged exists, it should not be undertaken," he said.

AQUINO STATEMENT ON UPCOMING ASEAN TRIP

HK141413 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 14 Aug 86 pp 1, 14

[Text] President Aquino last night assured the nation that her foreign trip will not in any way peril the country's new-found democracy, saying that it will be difficult for anyone to seize the government by a trick because the people themselves will not allow it.

Mrs Aquino said she had been warned that her coming visits to Indonesia and Sinapore would be taken advantage of by people determined to bring back a discredited regime.

"It simply will not work" she said. "In this country, the sovereignty of the people is not just an abstraction, it is a living reality and a jealous possession of a race that fought and achieved its freedom with distinction unequalled in the world."

Speaking on her biweekly television program last night, Mrs. Aquino said her visit to the two ASEAN countries beginning Aug. 24 is aimed at projecting the stability of this nation and to emphasize the country's solidarity with its neighbors.

Her statement follows:

My visit to Indonesia and Singapore underscores the importance the new government attaches to Philippine relations with our ASEAN neighbors. These relations, which partake almost of the nature of kinship, is one of the chief tenets of Philippine foreign policy, given the lead role our country played in the creation of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. As the new leader, therefore, of an ASEAN member nation, my ASEAN visit is directed towards the achievement of the following objectives:

1. To appraise our ASEAN neighbors of current social, economic and political developments in our country, thereby impressing upon them the stability of this nation. This is important for them for the stability of our country is the cornerstone of ASEAN security and peace. The configuration of the national security policies of the ASEAN states is determined to a large extent by developments in this country.

2. To project with renewed emphasis the solidarity of the Philippines with ASEAN in its efforts to achieve the goals of regional cooperation for peace and progress.

3. To establish a personal rapport with my ASEAN counterparts. The value of personal diplomacy has been demonstrated time and again, and now here more so than among the ASEAN cultures where personal relations play a preeminent role.

4. To show our preference in tackling first issues relating to ASEAN before attending to the issues arising from our relations with the world at large. I said in my speech before the ASEAN Ministerial Summit held here recently that it is my way to proceed first with the problems nearest to home, and then to those that touch the interests of the region, and only after that to attend to problems in the larger context of the world at large.

5. My first stop is Indonesia because I should like to underscore the special relations that the Philippines and Indonesia have always had. Our relations with Indonesia have always been the best imaginable. Indonesian-Philippine relations have a long and unbroken history of harmony and mutual supportiveness, particularly in matters of the highest national interest to both countries.

6. I am visiting Singapore to reciprocate the visit of Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew. He was the first ASEAN leader to visit the Philippines. You will reçall that Singapore also refused asylum to my predecessor in office. Singapore stands today as a model of development, despite the size of its territory and its lack of natural resources. We have much to learn from her. My visit to Singapore last year impressed upon me what Asians can accomplish given credible leadership and an inspired and dedicated work force.

And finally, the 1987 ASEAN summit meeting will be held in Manila. This trip should help prepare the ground for it.

Some well-meaning people have advised me not to travel at this time. To wait until we have solved all our problems here. It is precisely to find solutions to these problems that I am making the foreign visits that have been scheduled this year.

What really troubles those who advise against my trips is the danger they see to our new democracy. My absence, they believe, will put all that we have achieved in deadly peril. This is not true. Our long experience of oppression, and even more important, the remarkable record of Philippine liberation, make it extremely difficult for anyone to seize the government of our people by a trick. It simply will not work.

In this country, the sovereignty of the people is not just an abstraction, it is a living reality and a jealous possession of a race that fought and achieved its freedom with a distinction unequalled anywhere in the world. I am confident of your continuing ability to protect our new freedoms as well as you achieved them. I don't think it is my part to reassure you. It is for you, my people, to reassure yourselves that our democracy is safe in your hands.

COLUMNIST CRITICIZES U.S. TRIP PLANNING

HK140637 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 13 Aug 86 pp 4, 5

["Straight from the Shoulder" column by Luis D. Beltran: "Perilous Planning of Cory's Visit to U.S."]

[Text] If some things are not changed, President Aquino's official visit to the United States may become one of the major public relations disasters of this administration.

For starters, the people organizing the official visit have never participated in organizing one before. The members of the committee headed by Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo include Presidential Spokesman Rene Saguisag, Information Minister Teddy Boy Locsin, DBP [Development Bank of the Philippines] chairman Jesus Estanislao, Palace appointments secretary Ching Escaler, Finance Minister Jaime Ongpin, CB [Central Bank] Monetary Board member Cesar Buenaventura and DBP board member Tomas Apacible.

Among the members of the preparation committee for this official visit to America are people who have always had a reputation for being anti-American. This is like putting the Arabs in charge of a state visit to Israel.

The advance party, which will soon leave for the United States, includes Rene Saguisag and Ching Escaler. Saguisag is supposed to take charge of the media preparations because this visit will be largely a media event which Americans have already described as "being somewhere between the World Series and the Pope's visit" -- for that is how popular President Aquino is in the United States.

Saguisag, however, may not be the right person for handling media preparations. If you recall, he was the man who told a foreign correspondent in Malacanang that the newsman was "stupid" and advised him to "go back where you came from" -- after the newsman complained about poor media facilities in Malacanang. If Saguisag hues true to form in the U.S., he will be more famous than President Aquino before the visit is over.

An idea of how disorganized the whole preparation is may be gleaned from the fact that Philippine Ambassador to the U.S. Emmanuel Pelaez had to come home to Manila, before his participation became official. It seems Pelaez was being shut out by the Palace boys, who kept giving him contradictory instructions and data about the President's schedule in the U.S. and her other activities. Pelaez finally got fed up, came home, and reported directly to the President. He has since been put in charge of the secretariat for the visit, which means it may get organized from the U.S. side.

One thing the President must decide between now and her visits to Indonesia, Singapore and the United States is what she wants to say. For her U.S. visit, six drafts of six speeches which she will deliver have been finished and are now in the hands of Locsin. Some people who have read the drafts say that most of the speeches are filled with textbook economic terms, which make her sound like a junior economics professor. To be fair, Locsin didn't write them, other Palace "financial" advisers did.

The President must realize that the American public -- like other publics all over the world -- expect a leader whose major quality is her simplicity and honesty, who is beloved of her people because she had the courage and the fortitude to lead them from darkness into light.

They are not expecting a Wharton graduate or a minor flunkey from the World Bank, nor the leader of a trade and economic mission. Certainly, they are not expecting a spokesman for the finance ministry, the trade ministry, the Central Bank or even a chamber of commerce.

They want to hear the President speak to them, as they heard her on U.S. TV and radio during the election campaign, a simple housewife, whose Filipino qualities of bravery, of steadfast determination, of moral and spiritual integrity overthrew a dictatorship.

The last thing they want to hear is a packaged, homogenized, sanitized and sterilized caricature of a President put together by little men seeking to project their own personalities and ideas on the screen of her public image.

In other words, they want Cory, not her advisers' version of what she should be.

Even the President's schedule in New York already reflects the idea of some of her advisers that she should be treated like a traveling salesperson, peddling investment opportunities and barking financial come-ons. This is not what Presidents should do -- unless they have already reached the depths of penury that Marcos reached. It is the finance ministers, the CB governors, the financial and fiscal advisers who should be sitting down at dinners with businessmen and answering questions from businessmen and financiers. After all, they were the ones who made the rules and regulations and must implement them.

President Aquino should be above the commerce of man because she is a symbol, not a salesman.

A tribute to the vicious in-fighting in the Palace and an indication of how jealously some Palace officials view "their" turf is the exclusion of some officials from the preparations.

For example, Agrarian Reform Minister Heherson Alvarez is not included in the preparations, nor, till yesterday, was he included among the members of the party which will go to the U.S. Neither were Natural Resources Minister Ernesto Maceda, nor PCGG [Presidential Commission on Good Government] chairman Jovito Salonga have been included in the preparatory committee [sentence as published]. Not even that $90,000 a year U.S. lawyer Raul Daza is in on the planning. And yet, these people are the ones who are well-known in the U.S., particularly in the U.S. Congress where the President will deliver a speech before a joint session. She will also meet congressional leaders during a luncheon and at a private meeting afterwards -- but she will not be accompanied by the men whom the congressional leaders know and have dealt with as leaders of the then Opposition.

And all because of the jealousy of Palace officials over their perceived territory.

One major problem which the President must resolve is the matter of the person to be appointed consul-general in San Francisco. If she makes a mistake in her decision, she could be met by pickets on the first stop she makes in her U.S. visit.

It seems that a career man, Ambassador Virgilio Nangas, has been appointed to the position and is now in San Francisco with his family -- all at the expense of the Philippine Government. However, the appointment of Nanagas has not been signed by the President, because Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo has recommended his 82-year-old former law partner, Juan Quijano, who has been a resident of San Francisco for fifteen years. Quijano was the lawyer of the Yuyitung brothers whom Marcos forcibly deported to Taipei and Quijano himself was forced to flee the country to escape Marcos wrath. However, Quijano's appointment is being opposed by the whole Filipino community in San Francisco -- and they have already picketed the consulate over the issue. Unfortunately, the decision cannot be evaded, because the President must have a permanent consul-general in that city before she lands there. The fact that it is a problem is a testimonial to the clout of Joker Arroyo at the Palace.

REBELS MAY 'OCCUPY CERTAIN GOVERNMENT POSITIONS'

HK131521 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 13 Aug 86 pp 1, 9

[Text] Presidential Spokesman Rene Saguisag said yesterday the government is standing pat on its decision not to appoint communists in the Cabinet but said the policy of national reconciliation may enable former rebels to occupy certain government positions.

"This possibly cannot be avoided," Saguisag told Malacanang reporters yesterday who asked him if it was true that some communists or former communists may actually be working in the government.

"We ask rebels to come down from the hills and to join the mainstream of society, but if we do this and do not offer anything to them in return, then they may become disillusioned," he said.

"You just don't tell them to give up without giving them something," he added.

Saguisag said, however that any move to bring in communists in the government will have to be decided by the Cabinet "because it's a difficult policy question."

He said the government of President Aquino is open to everyone, "to all Filipinos. It's a government for all the people."

"Even if you are a communist," he said, "the system will be open for you as long as you work within the system."

Saguisag said that he has experienced many times being labeled as a communist.

"Even in the past government, many people worked hard to remove such labels, for instance, former labor secretary Blas Ople and former presidential spokesman Adrian Cristobal," Saguisag said.

He also said that even the past government invited former communists or rebels to work for them like Luis Taruc and Nilo Tayag.

No Communists in Cabinet

HK140129 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Following a cabinet meeting, President Aquino reiterated that she has no intention of appointing a communist to her government. In an interview with newsmen, the president said that she has said from the beginning that she was not appointing any communists to her cabinet. Agrarian Reform Minister Heherson Alvarez said that, based on the discussion during the meeting, he felt an attitude of tolerance and acommodation towards the alleged communists [as heard]. He said he has a so-called communist in his ministry, Victor Bulatao, who now works as his executive assistant. Local Government Minister Aquilino Pimentel Jr, said that as long as these alleged communists have renounced violence, he sees nothing wrong in accomodating them.

U.S. DENIES PRESSURE FOR OUSTER OF OFFICIALS

HK131538 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 13 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[By B. Cruz and I. Mateo]

[Text] Reports that the United States Government was exerting pressure on the Aquino government for the ouster of three Cabinet members with alleged communist leanings drew varied reactions from quarters on both sides of the ideological spectrum.

The United States Embassy in Manila, through press officer Allan Croghan described the report as "not factual and absolutely without foundation."

He said it was not true that the U.S. State Department was pressuring President Aquino to remove Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez, and Local Government Minister Aquilino Pimentel Jr. as a pre-requisite to the release of American aid.

Arroyo, one of those mentioned in the report, dismissed it as "not worthy of comment." He also said the reported appointment of communists in low-level positions in government did not pass through him.

Anyway, Arroyo said, "a communist will never say he is a communist," indicating difficulty in screening government appointments.

Former Communist Party of the Philippines chairman Jose Ma. Sison on the other hand charged that the U.S. Government was pressuring the Aquino administration to remove "nationalists and liberal democrats" from the Cabinet.

Addressing a symposium at the UP [University of the Philippines], Sisson said the U.S. Government was exerting pressure through the two-pronged coup d'etat threat and financial squeeze.

He said the US also wants President Aquino to make an early commitment on the extension of the stay of US bases in the country and for her administration to comply with the dictates of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

The US is using three factions in exerting pro-US and reactionary pressures on President Aquino, Sison said. He named the three factions as the Marcos, Enrile, and Laurel camps, adding that each of the factions has its own group in the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP).

The Marcos faction, Sison said, is the most dangerous threat to the Aquino government because of its huge financial, military, and political backing.

He said the Enrile faction, which is dominant in the AFP, is strengthening its position by taking advantage of the continuing conflict between the Aquino and Marcos camps.

BASE WORKERS CRITICIZE GOVERNMENT INACTION

HK131522 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 12 Aug 86 p 11

[By Glenda M. Gloria]

[Text] The Philippine Government yesterday was charged for not taking concrete actions to defend and assert Philippine sovereignty by Filipino base workers at Subic, Olongapo City, who were terminated July 2 and barred from reinstatement by the U.S. Government.

"The labor ministry had dubbed unfair Subic's decision to officially terminate the 42 workers, but no concrete steps to fight such injustice has been made so far," a spokesman of the terminated workers said.

The dismissed employees have been alternately staging a hunger strike since Aug 3 to press for more aggressive government action on their plight.

The dismissal was discussed last month by the Joint Labor Committee composed of representatives from the Philippine Government and the US.

The US panel charged that the 42 base workers worked "against the interest of the US bases management," charging that their primary goal was the "dismantling of American bases here."

The Philippine negotiators, led by Deputy Labor Minister Carmelo Noriel, asked for concrete evidence on the charges, but the US Government refused to give.

This caused the labor ministry to brand such decisions as "bare, empty and totally unacceptable to the Philippine Government." The US panel held on to its position.

The talks reached a deadlock and the 42 employees are still unemployed.

The Base labor Agreement of 1968, under which the Joint Labor Committee was created, does not provide for a resolution to break a deadlock between RP and US negotiators on labor disputes, the spokesman said.

"They are throwing the book back to us, one of the dismissed employees said in a statement.

"We are helpless to provide them (labor ministry) the leverage they need in asserting their position. Our fellow workers, no matter how sympathetic, can not openly support us for fear of similar dismissal," he added.

Manuel Torres, first administrative vice president of the Federation of Filipino Civilian Employes Association, has been the mainstay in the hunger strike. He has lost 20 pounds since Aug 3.

Torres refused to divulge when he will end his hunger strike, but said "until the Philippine Government shall have acted favorably on our side."

The dismissed employees are demanding for due process from the US Government.

"If their charges are true and they have evidences to substantiate they can rightly try us according to the law," the workers' spokesman said.

The workers contend they were dismissed "without cause."

Most of them had worked at the base from three to 30 years. All of them claimed to have been recipients of the highest awards given by the base management to outstanding employees.

The Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) last April carried a provision that employees should not be dismissed from work without due process.

COLUMNIST ON CONSEQUENCES OF U.S. WITHDRAWAL

HK131523 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 13 Aug 86 pp 6, 10

[From the Jesus Bigornia column: "Implications of U.S. Bases' Pullout From RP"]

[Text] Their populist president seen as having fallen under the spell of "left-winging" advisers, pragmatic Filipinos are scared half out of their wits by the prospect of an American withdrawal from the Philippines. Such as assertion may sound like an overstatement. But a spate of rumblings on Capitol Hill urging a pullout of American military stakes from an unappreciative Philippines to some Pacific island group are enough warnings of a possible disaster to sentient Filipinos.

Indeed, a lot of people on both sides of the Pacific Rim — flag-waving radicals demanding Philippine independence from blood-sucking Uncle Sam and isolationist Americans griping over expenditure for the defense of far-flung outposts -- are in favor of a U.S. pullout, if the Philippines can take care of its own defense, an unlikely ability at this time. Defending the territorial integrity and political sovereignty of this country against an already visible expansionist Soviet Union is beyond the realm of possibility. Not even the application of the totality of the gross national product to defense purposes would stave off a determined invasion.

For the Philippines, the figures begin to hurt when it would have to find replacements for the 13th U.S. Air Force now based at Clark Air Base and the U.S. Seventh Fleet operating out of the Naval Facility in Subic, Zambales. Both are critical in preserving the umbilical cord through which oil from the Middle East must flow to fuel Asia's industries. Since signing a treaty of friendship with Vietnam in 1978, the Soviet Union has built up its naval might to parity with the U.S. in this part of the world. The two American military bases here are a constant foil to Soviet adverturism even as they serve as a shield behind which Southeast Asian countries may concentrate their resources to economic development so crucial to growth and stability.

It would not make sense to suggest that the Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand and Brunei to expand their respective navies to cope with the presence of two Soviet aircraft carriers, 85 major surface warships, 134 attack submarines, including 31 nuclear missile-carrying craft and over 350 smaller surface vessels operating out of Cam Ranh Bay in Vietnam, a mere hour's flight to Manila. Where would the Philippines and its Southeast Asian allies find the money to buy and maintain close to 2,000 fighters, interceptors, bombers the Soviet Union maintains in nearby Vietnam, the ultra-nationalists of this country should be asked.

One of the earliest lessons a student learns in a political science class is the principle: Power abhors a vacuum. Once such vacuum would be created by American departure from Clark and Subic, who can now assure Filipinos that the Soviets will not move into Clark and Subic. Russian occupation of American-built facilities at Cam Ranh Bay should make even the most rabid nationalists pause and ponder. No Philippine administration, present or future, can stave off possible initiatives to extend Soviet influence in the Philippines.

It is diffioult to imagine that a Filipino, regardless of his political orientation, cannot realize that a country as underdeveloped as the Philippines must align itself with one or the other superpower to survive. Neutrality is a will-of-the-wisp, an ideal beyond attainment in this period of history. Filipinos must make a choice -- and sooner than most expect -- to either take sides with the United States or swing over to that of the Soviet Union. For most of Filipinos the choice is obvious.

NEW POLICY ON SOVIET COMMERCIAL SHIPS SOUGHT

HK131541 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 13 Aug 86 p 22

[Text] The Aquino government, through the Ministry of National Defense [MND] and Ministry of Foreign Affairs [MFA], has been asked to define a consistent policy in the treatment of Soviet commercial ships entering the country's territorial waters.

Cargo vessels from socialist and communist countries are treated differently from ships of democratic countres by immigration officials. This "distinction" in the flag of the ships directly affects the country's policy of neutrality.

Soviet commercial ships are allowed to lift Philippine cargos inbound and outbound, deriving revenues in the process.

These commercial ships, however, cannot be drydocked and repaired in all shipyards in the country.

One shipyard prohibited from drydocking and repairing Soviet ships is the Philippine Shipyard and Engineering Corp. [Philseco], a joint venture between the Philippine government and Kawasaki Heavy Industries in Japan.

Philseco reportedly has the facilities and technology suited for Soviet commercial ships. And since Philseco is not allowed to repair such vessels, the country misses the $25-million Soviet ship repair market to nearby Asian countries, particularly Singapore.

Why Soviet ships cannot be accommodated in the Philseco yard in Subic Bay is not entirely the fault of the two ministries.

But MND and MFA are being asked to "indirectly assist" in removing an obstacle to allow Philseco enter the Soviet ship repair market.

Philseco's problem is two-fold, but the MND has the "easy key" to both problems.

The first problem refers to a condition in the 5th loan package of the Overseas Economic Cooperation Fund [OECF] signed in 1977. Part of the OECF loan was used to finance the construction of the P1.5-billion shipyard.

Under the loan agreement, "the Philippine side could not use the project (shipyard) for any military purposes." Since it is the general impression that Soviet commercial ships might have devices to detect and "spy" on countries they visit, Soviet commercial vessels are suspect of being military ships.

That provision could be easily corrected by a revision of the 5th OECF loan package. This process, however, may take quite a long time, would require the entire Japanese legislative body and perhaps the entire Japanese government to make such a revision.

Nevertheless, even if that condition could be revised by Japanese government, there is no guarantee that the Soviet commercial ships could be allowed to drydock at the Philseco yard.

Philseco yard is near the U.S. naval base, the Soviet commercial ships which are suspect of being military vessels can pose security [risks] to the U.S. base.

As regards this problem, Philseco asked the MND to define a consistent policy on Soviet commercial ships.

Philseco suggests that the MND define "any military purpose" to refer to vessels which directly pertain or are concerned with war. Vessels carrying armaments for combat will also be covered for "any military purpose."

Philseco wants that those facilities which are clearly not designed for use in combat be excluded from "any military purpose."

Unarmed ships such as hospital ships, cargo vessels, tankers, and the like regardless of flag or nationality will not be prohibited from undergoing repairs or drydocking in any Philippine shipyard.

Philseco has asked the MND to resolve this issue as early as May this year but so far the MND has been silent on the request.

Shipping observers claimed that the MND seemed silent because of U.S. Government pressure on the Aquino government not to allow Soviet vessels be repaired near the Subic naval base facilities.

They, however, maintained that whether the Soviet commercial vessels are "spy" ships or not and whether they pose security risk to American interest or not should be the concern of the U.S. and not of the Philippine government.

As long as vessels are internationally classified as commercial cargo ships, they should be allowed to drydock at any of the country's shipyards, they added.

Soviet commercial ships make an average of 170 ship calls a year in the country. At an average of three calls per ship, Philseco could be operating on a higher capacity.

Philseco at the moment uses only 40 percent of its capacity and can hardly make operating profit. Its original net worth was P350 million but because of its losses, its net worth is now down to P115 million.

IRANIAN EMBASSY DENIES ASYLUM TO MARCOS SUPPORTER

HK131322 Hong Kong AFP in English 1305 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 13 (AFP) -- The Iranian Embassy here denied asylum Wednesday to a supporter of deposed President Ferdinand Marcos who is being sought by police in connection with a murder case. Benjamin Nuega, a radio commentator, sought political asylum at the Iranian mission Wednesday, but was not granted an audience by embassy officials, Charge D'Affaires Mahmud Bayat said.

"It is very clear that we cannot interfere in internal affairs of the Philippines because we are here to promote good relations between the Philippines and the Islamic Republic," Mr. Bayat told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE. Mr. Nuega has been charged with illegal assembly and murder by inducement for allegedly inciting Marcos supporters who beat to death a supporter of President Corazon Aquino at Rizal Park here last month. Five suspects have been arrested by police in connection with the case, and an unserved arrest warrant has been against Mr. Nuega. Mr. Bayat said he did not know why Mr. Nuega chose the Iranian Embassy. Mr. Nuega and his lawyer could not be immediately reached for comment.

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS
Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 159 18 August 1986

JAPAN

- Japan-U.S.-USSR Air Safety 'Hotline' Opened C 1
- Japan Reaffirms Non-Nuclear Policies to U.S. C 1
- Sasebo Mayor Accepts 'New Jersey' Port Call C 1
- USSR's Marchuk Invited to Japan, Talks To Resume C 2
- Sakurauchi To Meet Gromyko on Gorbachev Visit C 3
- Kuranari Reports Royal Visit to ROK Postponed C 3
  - Nakasone Explains Postponement C 3
- Australia's Dawkins Decries Japan Protectionism C 4
- KYODO Carries Highlights of Economic White Paper C 5

NORTH KOREA

- Reportage on 41st Liberation Anniversary D 1
  - Pyongyang Rally D 1
  - Joint Statement Issued D 2
  - Wreaths Laid for USSR Soldiers D 5
- Chon's Comments at 11 Aug Press Conference Scored [NODONG SINMUN 13 Aug] D 6
- NODONG SINMUN on Chon's 15 August 'Address' [17 Aug] D 7
  - Charges of DPRK Terrorism 'Conspiratorial Farce' [NODONG SINMUN 16 Aug] D 8
- Kim Il-song 16, 17 Aug Activities Reported D 9
  - Receives Former ROK Official D 9
  - Receives New Iranian Envoy D 10
- CPC 'Holiday Group' Arrives for Visit 15 Aug D 10

SOUTH KOREA

- YONHAP: GSP Negotiations With U.S. Unsuccessful E 1
- Foreign Capital Infusions Through Banks Embargoed E 1
- USSR, Japan, U.S. Competition in NE Asia Viewed [CHOSON ILBO 16 Aug] E 2
- DJP Politician Says Cabinet Reshuffle 'Necessary' [THE KOREA TIMES 17 Aug] E 3
- New Opposition Party Formed by 12 MP's 16 Aug [AFP] E 4
- Reportage on Draft DJP Constitutional Amendment E 4
  - Prime Minister's Powers [THE KOREA TIMES 14 Aug] E 4
  - President's Powers Modified [THE KOREA TIMES 16 Aug] E 5
- Kim Tae-chung on DJP, Religious Faith [THE KOREA TIMES 14 Aug] E 6

CAMBODIA

Hun Sen Leaves for Hanoi Foreign Ministers Meeting H 1
Bou Thang Addresses Tonle Sap Fishing Groups H 1
Meeting Held on Convening KPRYU Congress H 1
Khieu Samphan Congratulates Thailand's Sitthi [VODK] H 2

THAILAND

Prem Presides Over First Meeting of New Cabinet [THE NATION 16 Aug] J 1
BANGKOK POST Views New Role for Prasong [15 Aug] J 2
Talks With U.S. Over Stockpile Hit 'Snag' [BANGKOK POST 16 Aug] J 4
    Athit Explains Snag [BANGKOK POST 17 Aug] J 4

VIETNAM

LPDR, PRK Foreign Ministers Arrive for Meeting K 1
Indochinese Foreign Ministers Meeting Opens K 1
    Opening Session Ends K 2
    Foreign Ministers Conference Ends K 2
Talks Held on MIA's With U.S. Specialists K 3
    U.S. MIA Experts Depart [AFP] K 4
NHAN DAN: ANZUS 'Collapse' Heavy Blow to U.S. [16 Aug] K 5
CPSU Politburo Cited on Leaders' Talks K 5
Chu Huy Man Attends Engineering Group Congress K 5
To Huu Attends Writers-Artists Union Meeting K 5
94 Percent of Fall Rice Transplanted in North K 6

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Hayden Says U.S. Subsidy Hurts Defense Program M 1
Hungarian Trade Delegation Arrives For Visit M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Cabinet Approves Sanctions Against South Africa [AFP] M 1
Polls Outline Political Parties' Support [THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD 9 Aug] M 2

INDONESIA

USSR Wants To Boost Non-Oil Imports N 1
Trade With PRC 'Heavily in Favor' of Jakarta [AFP] N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Vows To Pursue 'Look East' Policy O 1
Mahathir on Malay Reporters Working for Zionists O 1
VOPM on Government Joint Operation Casualties O 1

SINGAPORE

Prime Minister Stresses Unity in Speech [AFP] O 2
Navies Arriving for 'Starfish-86' Exercises [AFP] O 3

PHILIPPINES

Truce Signed With Communists in Davao del Norte P 1
First Under Aquino Government [AFP] P 1
Communist Cease-Fire Offer Rejected in Mindanao P 2
Rebels Must 'Give Up Their Cause' [KYODO] P 2
Thousands Flee, Fear More Fighting [KYODO] P 3
Official Denies Report of Misuari's Return P 3
Enrile Reveals 3-Stage Communist Plan [AFP] P 3
Target List for Kidnapping Plot Revealed [THE MANILA TIMES 16 Aug] P 4
Panel Warns Aquino Further Coup Attempt Possible [AFP] P 5
Military Offered Money, Coup Plot Based in Hawaii [THE MANILA TIMES 16 Aug] P 6
Con-Com Members Urge Aquino To Cancel U.S. Trip [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 15 Aug] P 7
Ministry Threatens To Void Labor Pact With U.S. [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 15 Aug] P 8
U.S. Senator Arrives for 3-Day Official Visit P 8
Russian Missiles Said Pointed Toward U.S. Bases P 9
Presence of U.S. Bases Could Prompt Attack [THE MANILA BULLETIN 15 Aug] P 9
Columnist on NBC Filming of NPA Ambush [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 13 Aug] P 10
Columnist Corrects Error [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 14 Aug] P 12
NPA Denies Responsibility for 'Killing Fields' [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 11 Aug] P 12
NPA Kills High-Ranking Commander, 15 Followers [AFP] P 13

JAPAN-U.S.-USSR SAFETY 'HOTLINE' OPENED

OW151237 Tokyo KYODO in English 1231 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 15 KYODO -- Japan, the United States and the Soviet Union opened a telephone hotline among their air traffic controllers Friday to ensure safety for commercial airliners in the northern Pacific, the transport ministry said. The 24-hour line connects area control centers in Tokyo, Anchorage and Khabarovsk. The three countries agreed last year to set up the hotline following the 1983 Soviet shooting down of a South Korean airliner into the Sea of Japan which killed all 269 people on board. The agreement, signed last November in Washington, allows air traffic controllers of the three countries to exchange information on civil aircraft like engine trouble, hijacking, interruption of communications with ground control and deviation from air routes, the official said.

JAPAN REAFFIRMS NON-NUCLEAR POLICIES TO U.S.

OW160437 Tokyo KYODO in English 0406 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 16 KYODO -- Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari reconfirmed to United States Ambassador to Japan Mike Mansfield Saturday that Japan refuses to introduce nuclear weapons to its territory, a Foreign Ministry official said. Kuranari reconfirmed the Japanese policy to the U.S. envoy after the U.S. notified Japan Thursday that the battleship New Jersey, which is capable of launching nuclear cruise missiles, will visit Sasebo port, Nagasaki Prefecture, between August 24 and September 2. Shore leave will be granted to the crew and the ship will take on supplies, the official said.

Kuranari reportedly told Mansfield that Japanese Diet members have exressed fear that the U.S. is introducing nuclear weapons to Japan, particularly by the 45,000-ton New Jersey which is equipped with launching pads for Tomahawk cruise missiles. The Japanese government should dispel any such fears in the event of the New Jersey's port call, Kuranari told the envoy. Kuranari said the Japanese people have a "special feeling" regarding nuclear weapons and that Japan has maintained and will maintain "three nonnuclear principles" prohibiting the production, possession or introduction into Japanese territory of nuclear weapons, the official said. Kuranari was also quoted as saying that if the U.S. asks for prior consent on introducing nuclear weapons, Japan will deal with the matter in accordance with the three principles and that Japan will handle the matter under the Japan-U.S. security treaty and related agreements.

Mansfield told Kuranari that he understands the Japanese stance and the Japanese people's special feeling toward nuclear weapons, the official said. The U.S. envoy also said it is U.S. policy neither to affirm nor deny the existence of nuclear weapons, adding that the U.S. Government will respect the Japan-U.S. security treaty and related agreements, the official said.

SASEBO MAYOR ACCEPTS 'NEW JERSEY' PORT CALL

OW161021 Tokyo KYODO in English 0957 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Sasebo, Nagasaki Pref., Aug. 16 KYODO -- The mayor of the port city of Sasebo said Saturday he will be obliged to accept a port call from August 24 to September 2 by the U.S. battleship "New Jersey" at the port's U.S. naval base in the interest of national policy. Mayor Kumashi Kakehashi made the remark at a news conference saying that he had received a request for cooperation from the government in Tokyo.

He said the request was made on the basis that a confirmation was made between the Japanese and U.S. Governments that the visit of the New Jersey does not involve the introduction of nuclear weapons into Japan. "We feel obliged to extend our cooperation (on the New Jersey visit) on the basis that we must cooperate with the government on matters of national policy such as national defense," he said.

Asked about his comment on the decision by the U.S. naval authorities that it wants the ship to make a port call at Sasebo instead of Yokosuka, the mayor said, "Yokosuka is jammed with marine traffic. Sasebo was presumably chosen for operational reasons." He added that Sasebo is an appropriate place for naval operation in the event of a blockade of the Tsushima Strait as well as for intelligence activities. "There will be no major change in the character of the U.S. naval base in Sasebo with the port call by New Jersey," Kakehashi said. Touching on the possible move by the U.S. naval authorities to make the Sasebo base a home port for the battleship, the mayor said that he would make a decision on such a possibility taking acount of both the merits and demerits involved.

The New Jersey is equipped with launching pads for Tomahawk cruise missiles, and there is a fear among Japanese people that the battleship is introducing nuclear weapons into Japan. Japan maintains three nuclear principles, banning possession, production or introduction into Japan of nuclear arms.

Referring to the possibilities of nuclear deployment by the battleship, the mayor went on, "a battleship capable of destroying nuclear arms acts as a nuclear deterrent just by its presence." Mayor Kakehashi is planning to see Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari Thursday to request that Japan abide by its nonnuclear principles.

USSR'S MARCHUK INVITED TO JAPAN, TALKS TO RESUME

OW160845 Tokyo KYODO in English 0835 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 16 KYODO -- The government plans to invite Soviet Vice Premier Guriy Marchuk to Japan early next month to pave the way for a trip to Japan by Communist Party leader Mikhail Gorbachev, government sources said Saturday. Marchuk, who is concurrently chairman of the National Science and Technology Commission, has expressed a wish to visit Japan. The sources said the Foreign Ministry is planning to arrange a meeting between Marchuk and Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone and with Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari. The topic of talks is expected to center on a visit to Japan by Gorbachev and Soviet-Japanese cooperation in science and technology.

Marchuk will be the first high-ranking Soviet official to visit Japan since a trip made by Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze last January. Vice Premier Aleksey Antonov came to Tokyo in May last year and Petr N. Demichev, a candidate Politburo member and minister of culture, visited here last October.

Marchuk's trip will be followed by the resumption of talks on Soviet-Japanese scientific and technological cooperation which were broken off in 1982.

Japan suspended the talks, which were held twice under a 1973 agreement on bilateral cooperation, as part of its sanctions against Moscow in connection with the situation in Poland. Japan and the Soviet Union agreed to resume the discussions when former Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe visited Moscow last May. The Soviet Union then agreed to allow former residents of the four Soviet-held islands off Hokkaido to make grave visits to the tombs of their ancestors on the islands.

The working-level talks on science and technology cooperation are scheduled to be held in Tokyo in the middle of September. The government hopes that these events will help pave the way for a visit to Japan by Gorbachev, who has expressed his willingness to make the trip, government sources said. Kuranari is scheduled to meet with Shevardnadze during the United Nations general assembly session in New York in late September to set the stage for Gorbachev's journey to Tokyo, they said.

SAKURAUCHI TO MEET GROMYKO ON GORBACHEV VISIT

OW170626 Tokyo KYODO in English 0550 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 17 KYODO -- Former Foreign Minister Yoshio Sakurauchi will meet Soviet President Andrey Gromyko in Moscow next month to discuss the timing of party leader Mikhail Gorbachev's visit to Tokyo, government sources said Sunday. Soviet officials have hinted that Gorbachev may visit Tokyo late this year or early next year, most likely in January. It will be the first visit to tokyo by a general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party. Sakurauchi, chairman of the Parliamentarians' League for Japan-Soviet Friendship, also plans to meet Gorbachev during his stay in Moscow, the sources said.

Japan and the Soviet Union agreed to exchange visits by the top leaders of the two countries at a foreign ministerial meeting held in Tokyo last January. Sakurauchi, a close associate of Prime Minister Nakasone, will visit Moscow after a trip to Poland beginning August 31 at the invitation of Josef Czyrek, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the Polish National Assembly. Nakasone plans to visit Moscow at the earliest possible date following Gorbachev's Tokyo trip, according to the sources. It will be probably between April and June or in July when the next summit of seven western democracies is set for Italy, the sources added.

KURANARI REPORTS ROYAL VISIT TO ROK POSTPONED

OW151111 Tokyo KYODO in English 0946 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 15 KYODO -- Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari indicated to South Korean Ambassador to Japan Yi Kyu-ho Friday that Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko will be unable to visit South Korea, due to their tight schedule, foreign ministry officials said. The 52-year-old heir to the throne was expected to visit Seoul this autumn on behalf of his father, Emperor Hirohito, 85. Kuranari told Yi that the Japanese government will officially announce the postponement of the royal visit next week after consulting with South Korean foreign minister Yi Won-kyong who is to return to Seoul Sunday from Africa, the officials said.

Kuranari said the government is considering sending a special envoy to Seoul to explain the cancellation of the visit to South Korean officials.

The officials said the cancellation was expected due to Princess Michiko's hysterectomy in March following which the royal couple cancelled a planned visit to the United States.

The South Korean envoy told Kuranari that his country has attached importance to the royal visit, and called on Japan to properly settle the matter so that the South Korean government will not be placed in a difficult domestic situation. The South Korean opposition, members of the mass media and other groups are against the royal visit on grounds that such a trip would bolster the Chon Tu-hwan regime and that the time is not yet right for the visit. Kuranari promised that the matter will not seriously affect friendly bilateral relations, the officials said.

Nakasone Explains Postponement

OW181049 Tokyo KYODO in English 0936 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 18 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone sent a personal letter Monday explaining to South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan the Japanese government's postponement of a planned official visit by Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko to South Korea this year. The personal letter was handed to Chon by Japan's special government envoy Ryozo Sunobe when he met the South Korean president at the presidential palace in Seoul Monday afternoon, according to a report reaching the foreign ministry.

Japan had started official negotiations with the Seoul government about the royal couple's Korean tour, which was announced in March by then foreign minister Shintaro Abe. The royal couple had also cancelled a plan to visit the U.S. after Princess Michiko underwent a hysterectomy operation in March. Objections to the Seoul visit had been voiced by the South Korean opposition camp.

AUSTRALIA'S DAWKINS DECRIES JAPAN PROTECTIONISM

OW141121 Tokyo KYODO in English 1100 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 14 KYODO -- Visiting Australian Trade Minister John S. Dawkins Thursday criticized what he called Japan's protectionism, citing a downtrend of the Australian share in Japan's total imports. In a speech at Japan National Press Club, Dawkins said that the major cause for the decline in the market share of Australian beef, wheat and wool lies in Japan's protectionism.

Australia may press Japan to open its market wider in bilateral talks beginning early next year that would set an export volume of Australian beef to Japan from April 1988. Dawkins and Mutsuki Kato, minister of agriculture, forestry and fisheries, agreed to hold such talks in their meeting Tuesday.

On Japan's efforts to diversify the supply source of raw materials such as coal and iron ore, Dawkins said that a decision on any deal should be based on the stability of price and supply. His statement in this regard was taken as a veiled request that Japan increase imports of Australian coal, the price of which is one third of domestic coal.

KYODO CARRIES HIGHLIGHTS OF ECONOMIC WHITE PAPER

OW150319 Tokyo KYODO in English 0144 GMT 15 Aug 86

["Gist of 1986 White Paper on Japan's economy" -- KYODO headline]

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 15 KYODO -- Following are highlights of the 1986 White Paper on the economy:

Chapter 1. The Effects of the Strong Yen on the Economy

The overvalued U.S. dollar has been adjusted well enough against major currencies including the yen since the group of five (G-5) industrial countries agreed to drive down the U.S. currency through coordinated intervention. But the massive trade deficit of the U.S. is unlikely to shrink, as the U.S. unit remains strong against the currencies of developing nations. Despite the yen's sharp appreciation against the dollar, Japan's huge trade surplus continues to expand on a dollar-denominated basis as a result of the so-called j-curve effect and the dramatic decline in crude oil and other primary product prices.

The country's exports, however, began to slow down its expansion pace, showing a moderate 3.2 percent rise in quantity in fiscal 1985 after increases of more than 10 percent in 1983 and 1984. A rise in the exchange rate of the yen has had favorable effects on imports of manufactured goods since the second quarter (July-September) of fiscal 1985, as Japan's price elasticity of imports for manufactured goods was higher at 0.53, compared with 0.17 of that for imported raw materials.

A strong yen has both-sided effects on the japanese economy -- a change in exports and imports in quantity and an increase in real income due to improved terms of trade. The improvements in terms of trade led to a dramatic increase in consumer spending in 1977 and 1978, when the yen soared against the dollar. But the effect of the current strong yen and drooping crude oil prices on Japan's wholesale prices has not yet been felt enough.

The country's production performance turned weak as a result of a leveling-off of exports in quantity, a decrease in capital investment by manufacturers and swollen inventories in some industries. The labor market worsened with the unemployment rate hitting a record high, as the higher yen eroded Japanese firms' export competitiveness.

The nominal income of wage-earner households in fiscal 1985 registered a decline in the growth rate, reflecting a slowdown in the economy stemming from the strong yen. Corporate profits widened their gap between manufacturers and nonmanufacturers and between export-oriented and domestic-oriented firms. Capital spending in the manufacturing sector showed a fall in contrast to an increase in the service industry.

Chapter 2. New Tide of Industrial Development

Japan's huge trade surplus stems from its export-oriented economic structure along with a rapid expansion in demand from overseas and a continued overvalued U.S. dollar. Japan's income elasticity of exports is higher than in other major industrial countries, including the United States and European Community (EC) nations, as Japanese firms export income-incentive products like autos and electrical appliances.

Meanwhile, its income elasticity of imports is less high with a low share of manufactured goods in overall imports. The export-oriented industrial structure is undergoing a gradual change, as most exported goods are maturing in their product life cycles and Japanese enterprises are upgrading their overseas production activities to direct investment and technological and capital cooperation.

The increasing weight of the service industry in the economy will provide the manufacturing industry with business opportunities for new growth, thereby deepening interdependent relationships. Technological innovation will be another breakthrough for new growth. The government will play a significant role in helping the private sector promote creative technological advances. Recently, the interregional imbalance between metropolitan and rural areas has caused an imbalance in income levels again. It is essential to utilize human resources to reinvigorate the rural areas.

Chapter 3. Enrichment of National Stocks

Housing starts continue to grow moderately after a slump in 1983. But a survey shows that in about half the households in the Tokyo metropolitan area residents are dissatisfied with their housing conditions. In particular, the quality of houses built around 1979 is low. The growing demand by foreign firms for offices has sent land prices skyrocketing in downtown Tokyo.

Japan's levels of other social stocks like roads, public parks and sewerage facilities are lower than those of the United States and European countries. Under the present austerity budget policy, the government should employ the private sector actively to promote the formation of these social stocks while pushing further deregulation in the public sector. The planned new social stocks include telecommunications networks, local airports, the planned Kansai International Airport and the Trans-Tokyo Bay road.

Human resources are becoming important for maintaining economic vitality and competitiveness, as the comparative advantage of the industrial structure depends more and more on high-quality labor forces. The contribution ratio of labor to the economic growth rate increased to 0.8 points of the average growth rate of 4.4 percent per annum during the 1976-1984 period, up from 0.9 points of 9.3 percent in 1967-1972.

Japan's high savings rate has played an important role in supplying capital to developing countries and the United States, increasing cumulative financial assets outside the country.

Conclusion.

The most urgent problem the economy faces is to solve the issue of Japan's trade imbalance. The nation is required to seek domestic demand-led economic growth and make the economy more harmonious with its trading partners along with further promotion of market-opening measures and imports of manufactured goods. The Japanese economy now stands at a historic turning point, which has inevitbly involved a fair amount of friction and burden. The country's highly qualified people and economic growth potential are expected to help carry out these difficult tasks bravely, actively and steadily.

REPORTAGE ON 41ST LIBERATION ANNIVERSARY

Pyongyang Rally

SK150913 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0844 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 15 (KCNA) -- A meeting was held at the people's Palace of Culture on August 14 to mark the 41st anniversary of national liberation. The meeting was attended by So Yun-sok, member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, chief secretary of the Pyongyang municipal party committee and chairman of the Pyongyang Municipal People's Committee, and Kim Yong-chae, minister of post and telecommunications and chairman of the Central Committee of the Korean-Soviet Friendship Society, and other senior officials. Present there on invitation were Charge d'affaires ad Interim Boris Morozov and officials of the Soviet Embassy in Pyongyang and Soviet guests staying in Korea.

In his speech Kim Yong-chae said in the darkest period of the national disaster under the Japanese imperialist rule the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song indicated a bright road ahead of the Korean revolution and guided the Korean People's Revolutionary Army and anti-Japanese patriotic forces, dealt a telling blow one after another at the Japanese imperialist aggressors and led the Korean revolution as a whole to victory.

The men of the Korean People's Revolutionary Army and patriotic people under the leadership of respected Comrade Kim Il-song drove the Japanese imperialist aggressors into a pitfall of destruction by waging an indomitable heroic struggle, overcoming all kinds of difficulties and grim trials.

The Soviet people and army under the leadership of the Leninist party defeated fascist Germany in the great patriotic war and participated in the war against Japan and thereby made a decisive contribution to routing Japanese imperialism, he noted, and said: [incomplete sentence as received]

Pointing to the successes the Korean people have achieved in socialist construction over the past 41 years since the liberation under the wise guidance of the great leader comrade Kim Il-song, he stressed: Today the Korean revolution is developing on to a new higher stage under the leadership of our party.

Pointing out that the U.S. imperialists and South Korean puppet clique are running wild in the "two Koreas" plot and new war provocation manoeuvres, he emphasized: In order to remove the tension in Korea and solve the Korean question in a peaceful way, the U.S. imperialists must put an end to their military occupation of South Korea and their colonial rule over it and desist from pursuing the criminal "two Koreas" policy any longer and withdraw from South Korea without delay, taking along their forces and all their lethal weapons including nuclear weapons.

He referred to the fact that the Soviet party and government unilaterally enforced a moratorium on nuclear test and advanced an initiative on completely abolishing nuclear weapons within the present century to eliminate the danger of thermonuclear war and a proposal on preventing the militarization of the space and reducing the strategic weapons of the Soviet Union and the United States, and declared:

We fully support these steps, considering them to be a clear expression of the peaceloving stand of the Soviet Union for removing the danger of nuclear war and preserving and consolidating world peace.

The meeting and talks of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song with the Soviet party and state leaders during his visit to the Soviet Union in May 1 1984 were a historical event which brought the traditional Korean-Soviet friendship to a new higher stage, he noted, and stressed: We will as ever make all our efforts to expand and develop in an all-around way the friendly and cooperative relations with the Soviet people.

Speaking next Boris Morozov noted: Korea has changed beyond recognition in a brief period thanks to the stubborn and devoted endeavours of her people. The Soviet people sincerely wish them new successes in their struggle to implement the decisions of the Sixth Congress of the Workers' Party of Korea and reunify the country independently and peacefully on a democratic basis. The Soviet Union firmly supports the peace initiatives of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea to eliminate the dangerous tension on the Korean peninsula and settle the national issue of the Korean people, he stressed.

Papers here today dedicate editorials to this day.

Joint Statement Issued

SK160736 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2100 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text of "a joint statement issued by political parties and social organizations" 14 August in Pyongyang -- read by announcer]

[Text] Forty-one years have passed since the Korean people were liberated from the yoke of Japanese imperialist colonial rule. The historic victory of the heroic anti-Japanese armed struggle organized and led by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, a legendary anti-Japanese hero and sun of the nation, opened a wide road toward independence and the construction of a new society for the Korean people.

Under the banner of the everlasting and immortal chuche idea, our republic has become a socialist power with independence, self-reliance, and self-defense, and our people have achieved great prosperity and development unprecedented throughout our long 5,000-year history. Because of the U.S. imperialists' military occupation and neocolonial rule, unlike our northern half, South Korea, which met the 15 August liberation at the same time, has been deprived of national independence and has been reduced to a miserable destiny of subjugation and ruin. The people's basic political freedoms and rights have also been thoroughly violated, and they are moaning in a miserable living hell. For the South Korean people, the past 41 years since the 15 August liberation have been filled with doomed days during which national dignity has been violated by the policy of rule and interference adopted by the foreign force of aggression and filled with painful days during which their human rights and democracy have been trampled underfoot by the unprecedented fascist suppression and rule of murder.

The U.S. imperialists' colonial, fascist rule is not only a source of all the misfortunes and sufferings of the South Korean people, but also the main obstacle to reunification of our country.

Because the country was divided by the U.S. imperialists, our nation, which had been of the same blood and had lived on the same land throughout its long history, has suffered the tragedy of not even knowing whether blood kin are alive or dead over some 40 years since its division into two, and has not been able to efficiently utilize the wisdom of the nation and abundant resources for uniform development of the country. The continued division of the country, because of the U.S. imperialists, has wasted the wealth of the country in the reckless confrontation in which fellow countrymen, who should live harmoniously with each other, aim guns at each along the Military Demarcation Line. This division has also produced painful scenes in which fellow countrymen compete with and confront each other even in the international arena.

Because we do not want such disasters and misfortune, we have continued our efforts to realize the independent, peaceful reunification of the country without ceasing since the 15 August liberation. We have successively advanced reasonable proposals to independently and peacefully resolve the question of reunifying the country -- the greatest national desire -- according to democratic principles without interference from any foreign force and have made all efforts to realize them. We have advanced the proposal to hold free North-South general elections in an effort to establish a uniform, democratic central government; the proposal to combine our SPA and the South Korean National Assembly; the proposal to establish a confederal state; and various other reunification proposals. Proceeding from the desire to improve North-South relations through dialogue and negotiations, we have also arranged talks among persons in authority; held private-level talks; and pursued contacts with figures of various strata. We have also advanced the proposal to hold tripartite talks among us, the United States, and South Korea in an effort to provide conditions favorable to peaceful reunification and to accelerate the cause of reunification; asserted many-sided collaboration and exchanges between the North and South; and proposed parliamentary talks and, moreover, the highest-level talks.

Also this year, we took initial measures to stop military exercises for alleviation, dialogue, and peace, and in June we even advanced a new proposal to hold talks between military authorities. All our efforts proceed from a desire for the Korean people themselves to peaceful resolve the our nations problem. Proceeding from this position, we have many times declared that we have no intention to invade the South and enforce our system upon South Korea.

However, none of our sincere proposals have received a due response. The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have refused all of our proposals for reunification and peace. On the contrary, under the pretext of threats of southward invasion, they have continuously stationed U.S. forces in South Korea, have deployed as many as 1,000 nuclear weapons there, have further improved equipment, and have continuously conducted military exercises under all circumstances. In recent years alone, during which dialogue was held between the North and South, they successively conducted the "Team Spirit" joint military exercise and various other sorts of provocative war exercise commotions, thereby leading the situation on the Korean peninsula to the brink of war and even suspending the dialogue, which had been arranged after a long lapse of time. They refused to accept even the proposal to hold talks between military authorities, which we had advanced in order to resume the suspended dialogue and alleviate acute tension, and are unreasonably babbled about threats of southward invasion more loudly than ever. Their act of refusing our peace proposals and pursuing a policy of war under the unreasonable pretext of threats of southward invasion is a mockery and deception of the Korean and world's peoples. In the name of all Korean people, we sternly denounce the criminal maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets, who pursue war and division, while hindering peace on and peaceful reunification of the Korean peninsula.

The important taks of realizing peace in and peaceful reunification of the country ahead of time confronts our nation, which is marking the 41st anniversary of the 15 August liberation. For our nation, which has lived divided for some 40 years, reunification is an urgent task that can no longer be delayed. Today when we confront this national cause, which is felt more keenly with the passage of time, we again solemnly declare at home and abroad: No matter what situation exists in South Korea, we will not invade the South and not try to enforce the social system of the northern half of our republic upon South Korea. We have already advanced a reasonable peace proposal to realize a confederal system, with the two systems in the North and South remaining intact, based upon national unity.

We firmly recognize this proposal as a most correct method in resolving the problem of reunifying our country and again demand that it must be realized immediately. Reunification of the country must be realized based upon the three major principles for reunification of the fatherland -- independence, peaceful reunification, and national unity -- principles that have already been agreed upon between the North and South and that have been recognized by the entire world.

If the independent, peaceful reunification of our country is to be realized, U.S. forces must be withdrawn from South Korea. Some 40 years have passed since our country was liberated and some 30 years have passed since the Armistice Agreement was signed. There is no reason or excuse for the United States to have stationed its forces in South Korea up until now. According to the present trend of aspiring for sovereignty and independence by all nations, the United States must no longer pursue its colonial policy in South Korea and must withdraw from South Korea at the earliest date along with its forces, nuclear weapons, and all other items of military equipment.

To accelerate the independent, peaceful reunification of the fatherland, the policy of depending upon foreign force and the rule of fascist suppression, which violates national independence, harmony, and unity, must end in South Korea. The South Korean rulers must give up their antinational position of trying to perpetuate the division of the country through foreign forces and their antidemocratic politics of fascist violence, in which they suppress the South Korean people, youths, and students by linking them to us.

Peace in and peaceful reunification of the country must be realized through dialogue and negotiations. The situation promoted in the country demands that tension be alleviated at the earliest date for dialogue and negotiations, that an atmosphere for dialogue be promoted, and that our proposal to hold talks between military authorities be realized immediately. Our proposal to hold talks between military authorities is the most reasonable and realistic proposal for preventing war, alleviating tension, and creating an atmosphere favorable to dialogue under circumstances in which the tripartite talks have not been realized, circumstances under which the North-South parliamentary talks cannot be resumed and under which the MAC cannot play its role properly. The United States and the South Korean authorities nust disinterestedly [amuronsasimdoopsi] and unconditionally respond to our proposal to hold talks between military authorities to resolve the urgent problem of alleviating tension.

No one will give us reduced tensions and peace; our nation must obtain them by itself. Opposing war and defending peace is not a question related to the interests of a certain faction or class but to the vital destiny of our entire nation. Being strongly united by transcending differences in ideology, ideas, factions, and affiliations, and regardless of whether they live in the North, the South, or overseas, all Korean people who worry over the destiny of the country and nation must make all possible efforts to realize talks between military authorities at the earliest date.

As has been declared in the recent statement of the government of the republic, the Korean peninsula must be turned into a nuclear-free, peace zone to eternally prevent war and permanently guarantee peace in our country. Korea must be turned into a Korea of the Korean people, free from foreign forces, and into a peaceful country free from war and nuclear weapons. We express confidence that the progressive parties, organizations, and peoples of all countries of the world who hope for peace in and peaceful reunification of Korea will continuously extend firm solidarity to our people's just cause of preventing war on the Korean peninsula and realize peace on and peaceful reunification of the Korean peninsula.

[Signed] The WPK, the Korean Social Democratic Party, the Chondoist Chongu Party, the DFRF Central Committee, the CPRF, the GFTUK, the LSWYK, the UAWPK, the Korean Democratic Women's Union, the General Federation of the Unions of Literature and Arts of Korea, the Korean Journalists Union, the General Union of Science and Technology of Korea, the Consultative Association for Promoting Peaceful Reunification in the North, the DPRK Olympic Committee, the Korean Christian Federation, the Korean Buddhist Federation, the Korean Democratic Lawyers Association, the Korean Students Committee, the DPRK Red Cross Society, the Korean Committee for Solidarity with the Peoples of the World, the Korea Committee for Unity with Asian and African Countries, and the Korean Pan-national National Committee to Protect Peace

14 August 1986, Pyongyang

Wreaths Laid for USSR Soldiers

SK160533 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0522 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 16 (KCNA) -- Wreaths were laid at the liberation tower and cemetery of Soviet Army soldiers in Sadong District on August 15 in the joint name of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea and the Central People's Committee and the Administration Council of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea on the 41st anniversary of national liberation.

Wreaths were also placed there in the name of the Ministry of People's Armed Forces, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the External Economic Commission, the Committee for Cultural Relations With Foreign Countries, the Central Committee of the General Federation of Trade Unions of Korea, the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea, the Central Committee of the Union of Agricultural Working People of Korea, the Central Committee of the Korean-Soviet Friendship Society, the Pyongyang Municipal Committee of the WPK, the Pyongyang Municipal People's Committee and the Pyongyang Municipal Administration and Economic Guidance Committee.

Working people in Pyongyang laid flowers at the liberation tower and the cemetery of Soviet Army soldiers. On the same day wreaths and flowers were placed at the statues of the Soviet Army, liberation towers, and cemeteries of Soviet Army soldiers in Nampo, Chongjin, Hamhung, Wonsan and Haeju.

The Soviet Embassy in Pyongyang and the Soviet consulate general in Chongjin laid wreaths yesterday at the liberation towers and cemeteries of Soviet Army soldiers in Pyongyang and Chongjin.

Besides, officials of the Soviet Embassy and Soviet guests laid wreaths and flowers at the statues of the Soviet Army, liberation towers and cemeteries of Soviet Army soldiers in Nampo, Hamhung, Wonsan, Haeju and Rajin.

CHON'S COMMENTS AT 11 AUG PRESS CONFERENCE SCORED

SK131200 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2149 GMT 12 Aug 86

[NODONG SIMUN 13 August commentary: "The Fascist Dictator's Evil Scheme"]

[Text] Puppet Chon Tu-hwan arranged the so-called summer press conference at Chongwadae on 11 August. This press conference, which was unusual in that it was held on no special occasion, shows that the South Korean puppet, who has been strongly rejected and denounced by the people, arranged this press conference according to a preconceived scenario: to color reality by reversing black and white and then to pursue his impure political purposes behind closed doors.

The press conference was filled with deception, hypocrisy, a sense of confrontation, and threats against the people. The puppet praised himself by saying he had overcome repeated difficulties and a crisis of the economy -- which was on the brink of bankruptcy -- and had continuously advanced during the 5 and 1/2 years of his tenure. Even though he praised his achievements among other things, nothing has advanced in South Korea. What he has done, if anything, is to accelerate South Korea's subjugation by strengthening its political, economic, and military alliance with the U.S. and Japanese aggressors and to subject the people to a harsher fate of deprivation of rights than that seen during the former dictator's Yusin system by strengthening the military, fascist dictatorship.

The military, fascist rule -- which began with the great Kwangju massacre, which flooded the streets in a sea of blood -- has remained in South Korea in the form of martial law.

Economically speaking, South Korea has sunk deeply in foreign debt. The foreign debt, which stood at some $27 billion 6 years ago, has soared to far over $50 billion. Puppet Chon Tu-hwan has brought in more foreign loans during the 5 and 1/2 years of his tenure than the former dictator did in 18 years. Corruption among the puppet ruling class has become more grave and social evils have become more prevalent than ever before. Anyone who knows shame will not dare describe this latter-day phenomenon as advancement.

The South Korean puppet also talked about constitutional revision and the peaceful transfer of power in the press interview. All of this is idle talk designed to deceive public opinion. The people demand that the Constitution be revised so they can personally exercise suffrage. However, the puppets have doggedly opposed this and have dreamed of extending the DJP's rule. Puppet Chon Tu-hwan, who usurped power by force of arms, is not entitled to babble about the peaceful transfer of power. It is unbecoming for the fellow who usurped power to talk about the transfer of power. In this press conference, even while babbling about the transfer of power, he threatened to punish the youths, students, and people who demand democracy, branding them disturbers of order and destroyers of stability. This is the precise logic of a burglar.

Puppet Chon Tu-hwan inspired a sense of confrontation while referring to the Rangoon incident, which has nothing to do with us, and by picking a quarrel. Continuously holding the reins of power, while conspiring with foreign forces and confronting his fellow countrymen is the puppet's ulterior motive.

In this press conference, traitor Chon Tu-hwan also talked about dialogue in a distorted fashion. The puppet played the tune of resuming dialogue, while talking about promoting mutual trust through dialogue. The South Korean puppets, who suspended the dialogue by conducting the "Team Spirit" war exercise together with the U.S. imperialists, are not entitled to talk about dialogue. The puppet's talk about resuming the dialogue is nothing but a trick designed to pass the blame for suspending the dialogue to someone else.

Proceeding from the position of promoting North-South dialogue, we have advanced a new peace proposal for holding talks between those who have real power in the North and South and have made all sincere efforts to realize this. However, in the so-called press conference, traitor Chon Tu-hwan refrained from even referring to our proposal to hold talks between military authorities to alleviate tension and seek peace.

In actuality, they want neither to alleviate tension nor to promote dialogue. The puppets' position was clearly shown when he babbled about national security, while talking about strategy for armed reunification under communist terms. With its fascist system beginning to collapse because of the situation at home and abroad, which is developing unfavorably with the passage of time, the Chon Tu-hwan ring is attempting to drive the South Korean people into anticommunist confrontation and war maneuvers designed to insure its grip on the reins of power, while carrying a shield called national security under the pretext of threats of southward invasion.

That day the puppet also babbled about a so-called invitation or something in connection with the Asian Games and 1988 Olympic Games. When compatriots living overseas, whose home was in South Korea, visited South Korea because it is their fatherland, many of them were arrested, imprisoned, and tried after being branded as impure elements or spies. When the Red Cross home-visiting group went to Seoul for the first time in 40 years last fall, the puppets even blocked the meeting of the limited number of families and relatives. Babbling by such fellows about open doors and inspection is another political intrigue designed to politically use the international sports events by making fools of, appeasing, and deceiving compatriots at home and abroad.

Traitor Chon Tu-hwan made these remarks according to a scenario written by the U.S. imperialist master. This is nothing but a trick designed to deceive public opinion at home and abroad. The puppet traitor is adhering to such deception maneuvers in an effort to escape his isolation, which is worsening with the time because of the unforgivable crimes he has committed against the nation. No efforts of the Chon Tu-hwan ring can conceal its traitorous colors and the crimes it has committed against history and the nation. Traitor Chon Tu-hwan must resign from power as unanimously demanded by the people.

NODONG SINMUN ON CHON'S 15 AUGUST 'ADDRESS'

SK170839 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0824 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 17 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN today, commenting on the "address" made by Chon Tu-hwan the puppet on August 15 "in celebration of the 41st anniversary of liberation", says that his speech was run through with most shameless and vicious lies and fabrications speaking ill of our system, inciting confrontation and disclosing his wild ambition to invade the North. The author of the commentary titled "Sophism Reversing Black and White" says:

The puppet waxed quite eloquent about "emotion of liberation" brought to South Korea by the August 15 liberation and wagged his tongue as if sovereignty and independence were achieved, a democratic system established and a welfare society built in South Korea.

South Korea is a colony under the 41-year long military occupation of the U.S. imperialists who took the place of defeated Japan. It is a sheer lie convincing no one to talk about the liberation and independence of South Korea where sovereignty is trampled underfoot by the foreign forces.

Over 50,000 million dollars of foreign debt, the depression in economy and export, bankruptcy of minor enterprises, growing deficits of enterprises run by financial tycoons, increasing unemployment and ever worsening hardships of people's living prove that his talk about welfare society is a mere bubble.

Chon Tu-hwan the puppet also prattled that South Korea is a "state whose masters are people".

Isn't this a barking of a dog at night? The South Korean people who are deprived of elementary human rights and the right to election now demand sovereignty and civil rights. "Liberation," "independence," "sovereignty resting with people" and the like are a fabrication of the fascist rulers aimed to whitewash the dark reality of South Korea.

Speaking ill of our system, the South Korean dictator babbled that his "great desire" is to complete the "unifinished restoration" into a "true restoration". This betrayed his blackhearted intention to incite antagonism and confrontation between the North and the South, realise "unification by prevailing over communism" and extend the colonial fascist rule in South Korea to the northern half of the DPRK.

Although he tried to veil his aggressive design with the words of dialogue and peaceful unification, it is none other than the puppets themselves who are more zealous than anyone else in opposing the settlement of internal affairs of the nation and peaceful reunification through dialogue and negotiations. The liberation and restoration on the lips of the South Korean puppets who obstruct the reunification of the country are a trick to dampen the fighting spirit of the people who oppose the U.S. colonial rule over South Korea and the military fascist rule and call for national sovereignty, democracy and national reunification.

CHARGES OF DPRK TERRORISM 'CONSPIRATORIAL FARCE'

SK160452 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2152 GMT 15 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 16 August commentary: "A Conspiratorial Farce Staged by Those Criminals Who Have Habitually Committed Terrorism"]

[Text] Having had TONGIL ILBO, a conspiratorial newspaper published in Japan, spread false information that someone has employed international terrorists to abort the Asian Games, the South Korean puppets have wickedly slandered us by the manner in which they have reacted to this report. In an attempt to create the impression that this false propaganda is true, the puppet clique has raved that this report contains materials offered by a source versed in Chongnyon and that the terrorist plan includes certain schemes. This is another political provocation against our republic and Chongnyon and a brazen conspiracy and impure attempt.

Although it appears that the South Korean puppets believe they can gain somethiong by conducting such false propaganda, they are very foolish. As for TONGIL ILBO, which has assumed a role whenever the puppets have raised a commotion against the republic and Chongnyon, it is a conspiratorial newspaper published under the directives of the South Korean puppet clique by a pro-U.S. and pro-Japanese conspiratorial intelligence element that became a special agent of the U.S. imperialists shortly after the liberation after serving as a stooge for the Japanese imperialists. Because of its ugly nature, the daily has failed to win readers in Japan and has been abandoned by the people.

No one will be deceived by the puppets' spread of false, fictitious information and by their slander of us and Chongnyon through the use of such a filthy, conspiratorial newspaper, which has grown under the care of the puppet Agency for National Security Planning.

Through this conspiratorial daily, the South Korean puppets have conducted false propaganda to shift responsibility for committing terrorism onto us, inciting derision from the people. The Mun Se-kwang incident, in which Yuk Yong-su was shot to death more than 10 years ago, and the Rangoon incident, which occurred several years ago -- incidents clamorously babbled about by conspirators -- were farces staged by the South Korean puppets themselves by sacrificing their wives and children to extricate themselves from a deepening ruling crisis. The world recognizes this. In addition, the puppets have been notorious around the world as international terrorists. Such criminals, who have habitually committed terrorism, are trying to transfer the terrorist label to others. How can such a conspiratorial farce work?

The aim of the puppets' false propaganda through the use of TONGIL ILBO is clear. Today the South Korean students and people are fiercely waging the anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle, upholding slogans calling for aborting the Asian Games. This struggle has further expanded in combination with the struggle against a submissive settlement of the pending trade issue between South Korea and the United States according to the United States' piratic terms. The fascist clique is trying to find an excuse for much more cruelly suppressing the righteous struggle of the students and people by saying this struggle is being manipulated by someone. it is trying in advance to shift responsibility onto us in case of failure of the Asian Games because of an emergency in South Korea due to the fierce struggle of the students and people. The criminal aim of the recent conspiratorial commotion lies here.

Having attracted the international sports games to politically unstable South Korea, the puppets have instilled the sentiment of anticommunist confrontation into the people by dealing bayonets to the South Korean people and picking a quarrel with us. How base they are! The puppets' acts shows that South Korea is not fit to host the Asian Games.

KIM IL-SONG 16, 17 AUG ACTIVITIES REPORTED

Receives Former ROK Official

SK170900 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0842 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 17 (KCNA) -- The great leader President Kim Il-song on August 16 received Mr. Choe Tok-sin, former South Korean "foreign minister" and Army corps commander (lieutenant general) of the South Korean "ROK" Army, in the United States now on a visit to the homeland, and his group. Official concerned Yi Chang-son was on hand.

President Kim Il-song had a talk with Mr. Choe Tok-sin in a warm atmosphere overflowing with compatriotic sentiments. President Kim Il-song gave a luncheon for Mr. Choe Tok-sin.

Receives New Iranian Envoy

SK170857 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0844 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 17 (KCNA) -- The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, on August 17 received credentials from Reza Saeid Mohammadi, new ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Islamic Republic of Iran to Korea. Vice-Premier and Foreign Minister Kim Yong-nam was on hand.

After receiving the credentials President Kim Il-song conversed with the ambassador. The ambassador presented a gift to President Kim Il-song.

CPC 'HOLIDAY GROUP' ARRIVES FOR VISIT 15 AUG

SK161102 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1039 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 16 (KCNA) -- A holiday group of the party workers of the Communist Party of China headed by Chen Yeping, member of the Central Advisory Commission of the CPC, came here on August 15 by plane. It was met at the airport by Kil Chae-yong, vice-director of a department of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, and Zong Kewen, Chinese ambassador to Korea.

YONHAP: GSP NEGOTIATIONS WITH U.S. UNSUCCESSFUL

SK160824 Seoul YONHAP in English 0745 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 16 (YONHAP) -- South Korean and U.S. negotiators failed to reach agreements on U.S. Generalized System of Preference [GSP] benefits for Korea, due mainly to U.S. market liberalization pressure, a Korean commerce and industry source said Saturday.

During the GSP meeting, held Aug. 13-14 in Washington, the United States repeated its demand that Korean open its markets to an additional 18 items, including beef, computers and polyethylene wax; that Korea reduce tariffs on an additional 27 items, including cosmetics, timber and construction materials; and that Korea ease regulations on the business activities of foreign banking institutions in Seoul, according to the source. The meeting was the fourth of its kind since last year.

Unless these demands are met, the United States will not consider Korea's request that video cassette recorders and 35 other items be excluded from the list of commodities that would be removed from the GSP list, the source said, quoting a report from Washington. In response, the Korean delegation, led by Yi Ki-sung, deputy director-general of the ministry's international trade promotion bureau, said that further concessions in bilateral trade negotiations would be difficult, in view of political and economic circumstances in Korea.

In other recent trade negotiations, Korea made large concessions to the United States, including the acceptance of a growth rate of textile exports that is less favorable than one under the current bilateral textile accord, the opening of its market to U.S. cigarettes, the acceptance of U.S. insurance firms and the protection of foreign intellectual property rights, including copyrights.

Last year, Korea exported 1.7 billion dollars worth of goods to the United States under the GSP. If the United States applies the strengthened GSP criteria to Korean goods, Korea will suffer an annual decline of 200 million dollars in its exports to the United States.

The office of the U.S. trade representatives will report the outcome of the bilateral GSP negotiations to President Reagan next month and is expected to announce revised GSP regulations on Korean goods early next year, the source said.

FOREIGN CAPITAL INFUSIONS THROUGH BANKS EMBARGOED

SK180733 Seoul YONHAP in English 0708 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 18 (YONHAP) — The South Korean Government Monday placed an embargo on the introduction of foreign capital through local banking institutions in an effort to improve the nation's international payments position, a government source said Monday. The embargo, which was implemented as part of the government's 1986 foreign capital inducement reduction program, will be in effect until the end of October. The ban will not be lifted if Korea's current account continues to improve after October, according to the source.

Since the current account has improved significantly since May, due to a sustained export drive, the government had decided to revise its foreign capital inducement program for this year. The government has originally planned to introduce a total of 5.7 billion U.S. dollars in short- and long-term foreign loans this year to help finance various development projects.

Outside public foreign loans, the figures included 4.1 billion dollars in foreign bank loans. Of the projected foreign bank loans, 1.7 billion dollars were introduced in the first half of this year.

Under a revised plan, the inducement of foreign loans will be determined on the assumption that Korea will record current account surpluses of 1.5-2.5 billion dollars. If necessary, the government will even reduce the introduction of foreign public loans by scrapping development projects in the public sector. The government will fully reflect improvements in the current account in its plan to bring in as little foreign capital as possible, the source said.

USSR, JAPAN, U.S. COMPETITION IN NE ASIA VIEWED

SK171228 Seoul CHOSON ILBO in Korean 16 Aug 86 p 2

[Editorial: "Feuds Over the Control of Asia -- Our Position in Between the Soviet Union and Japan"]

[Text] Development of the situation international around our country reminds us of the same situation that developed toward the end of the Yi Dynasty. Soviet Russia's eastward and southward expansion, Japan's rapid advance, and the U.S. theory of sharing roles, by which the United States appears to be handing control of Asia over to Japan, make us think that history is repeating itself.

What attracts our particular attention regarding the course of recent developments is related to the Soviet leadership's remarks about Asia. CPSU General Secretary Gorbachev has come into the limelight after uttering words on 28 July worthy of the second generation of the Soviet revolution. What is still more striking is that he chose Viadivostok, a strategically important point in the Soviet Far-East as the site of his speech, -- an unprecedented act for a Soviet leader to take.

He said the Soviet Union will either reduce or phase out part of its troops stationed on the Sino-Soviet and Soviet-Monogolian borders and the troops occupying Afghanistan. This means the Soviet leader is willing to make concessions on at least two of the three conditions the Communist Chinese side has maintained as preconditions for easing Sino-Soviet tensions and confrontation since the 1960's. Gorbachev also proposed holding an Asian Security Conference in Hiroshima, Japan to ease tensions in Asia and the Pacific, just like the European Conference on Security in Helsinki.

What we must keep in mind about this is that unlike his predecessors, Gorbachev began to edge away from single-track Soviet diplomacy toward the United States and pay greater attention to Asia from the day he took office in March 1985. Gorbachev recently announced his plans to cooperate with communist China in space development plans and to visit Japan sometime next January, the first such plan by a Soviet leader.

Soviet ties with North Korea seem to have reached the highest point since the Korean War. Since 1985 the Soviet Union has steadily supplied North Korea with MIG-23 aircraft, and this year it has reportedly begun to supply North Korea with a large number of SA-3 low-altitude ground-to-air missiles. It is also reported that the Soviet Union and North Korea will further strengthen cooperation on the exploration of continental shelves in the East Sea through 1990.

A series of military and economic assistance agreements with North Korea by the Soviet Union seems to have given North Korea self-confidence to the point where it considers continued dialogue with the South at all levels unnecessary.

What is more, the Soviet Union is reportedly conducting an unprecedentedly large-scale naval exercise in the East Sea. According to data released by the U.S. State Department, the Soviet naval exercise is being conducted with 15 warships, including the aircraft carrier "Minsk," and a large number of ships outfitted with cruise missiles and ballistic missiles. The Soviet Union's diplomatic gesture in which the Soviets demonstrate a show of force to back their diplomatic efforts has not changed a bit. In particular, scrambles between Russia and Japan eventually sacrificed a weak Korea in the past.

As in those days, the United States still does not view Asiatic climate and geography clearly and is always one step behind in dealing with the course of developments in this region. The United States was concerned about interests in Manchuria, but later backed away from this after handing Manchuria over to Japan. As a result, Japan and Russia clashed in a showdown; Japan emerging as the victor, has controlled this region.

Of course, the particulars of development in this region are not the same as they were before. However, the general similarity of events is striking. Russia's eastward and southward expansion, Japan's sensitive reaction to it, the U.S. noninterventionist attitude, and the growing role of Japan bear resemblance to developments in areas around us from the end of the 19th Century to the beginning of the 20th Century. Would it be too rash for us to say that a similar course is developing again around us?

What is, and was, clear is that our internal division has led to interference from the outside and the loss of our independence. The Korean people must collect their minds and unite with each other amid the feuds between the major powers over control of Asia.

DJP POLITICIAN SAYS CABINET RESHUFFLE 'NECESSARY'

SK170137 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 17 Aug 86 p 4

[From the "Press Pocket" column]

[Text] Rep. Chong Tong-song of the DJP told the party's Central Executive Council yesterday that it would be necessary to reshuffle the key postholders and the Cabinet in a way soothing the people's sentiment, hurt by the Independence Hall fire and by the controversy over the alleged sexual torture of a woman labor activist.

Chairman No Tae-u responded to Chong, saying, "Since the President knows the situation and the feeling of the people acutely, appropriate measures will be taken before long."

During the meeting, Rep. Ko Kon, in his capacity as head of the party committee on local autonomy, reported that government appointment of local administration chiefs was gaining wide support.

Also getting support was, according to Ko, banning the local administration chiefs from partisan activities, implementing local autonomy fully in special cities and in limited areas of cities and counties in provinces.

NEW OPPOSITION PARTY FORMED BY 12 MP'S 16 AUG

BK161650 Hong Kong AFP in English 1640 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 16 (AFP) — A new South Korean opposition party, the Peoples' Democratic Party (PDP), was formally inaugurated Saturday at a convention attended by some 2,500 delegates. The PDP was launched by 12 opposition MP's who broke away from the main opposition New Korea Democratic Party (NKDP) late last year, saying they would not support the two men who run the NKDP from behind the scenes, Kim Tae-chung and Kim Yong-sam.

Yu Han-yol, a 48-year-old MP who was elected party head at the convention, called for a cabinet-responsible system of government. President Chon Tu-hwan's ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP) also supports a cabinet system, under which a prime minister would wield real power while the president would be a titular head of state. The NKDP and another opposition group, the Korea National Party (KNP), are calling for a strong presidential system instead, with the head of state to be elected by popular vote.

With the birth of a new opposition party, the 274-member parliament now is composed of 148 MP's from the ruling DJP, 90 from the NKDP, 20 from the KNP, 12 from the PDP, three from the Democratic Korea Party, and one independent.

REPORTAGE ON DRAFT DJP CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Prime Minister's Powers

SK140019 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 14 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The ruling Democratic Justice Party's formula for constitutional amendment, which adopts the parliamentary cabinet system, vests all substantial authority to rule the nation, including command of the Armed Forces, in the prime minister, it was disclosed yesterday.

The president, to be elected by the National Assembly, will only play a ceremonial role as the head of state.

An "outline" of the amendment was finalized yesterday by a six-man subcommittee. It will be referred to party's Central Executive Council, the governing body of the party, Saturday, and to a caucus Monday, to be approved.

Given the approval of the party organs, the subcommittee headed by Rep. Yi Chi-ho will draw up provisions for the draft amendment to present it to the Special Committee on Constitutional Amendment of the National Assembly by Aug. 25, Yi said.

The outline was shown to party chairman No Tae-u yesterdy prior to being reported to President Chon Tu-hwan Saturday, according to Yi.

The DJP's formula features the concentration of power in the prime minister's hands. He will be authorized to control the Armed Forces, proclaim martial law and take emergency measures.

The official terms of the president and National Assemblymen will be five years.

The prime minister shall be elected by the National Assembly without nomination by the president, who will formally approve the Assembly's election.

The National Assembly can resolve the dismissal of the prime minister, who in turn can disband the Assembly.

But, the DJP formula provides that the Assembly shall dismiss the prime minister only after electing the next prime minister, and that the prime minister cannot dissolve the Assembly within two years after the formation of the cabinet.

When elected the president should resign as a National Assemblyman and resign from his party.

The subpanel decided not to revive the parliamentary right to audit and inspect the administration, and instead chose to alleviate conditions for the invocation of the existing right to investigate state affairs.

The Assembly is to be given the right to approve the appointment of the chief justice.

As for basic rights, the subpanel decided to revive the system to review arrest (habeas corpus) in the new Constitution. Currently, the system is stipulated only in the Criminal Procedures Law.

The DJP's draft has a new provision on freedom of the press and publication that specifically prohibits censorship in advance.

The draft enables criminal suspects found innocent to ask compensation.

The people's freedom and rights may be restricted not "in time of need," as provided by the present Constitution, but "only under inevitable circumstances and within the minimum scope."

As to the provisions on the judiciary section, the draft rules that the chief justice shall be nominated by the prime minister and the president will appoint him with the approval of the National Assembly.

The Supreme Court will have the right to review constitutionality instead of the current Constitution Committee, to be abolished.

President's Powers Modified

SK160028 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 16 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The ruling party modified some contents of its draft amendment to the Constitution Thursday to make it the work of the president to issue emergency measures and to proclaim martial law at the request of the prime minister.

The original formula vests virtually all authority to rule the nation in the premier's hands, calling for the president to play a ceremonial role as the head of state.

The Democratic Justice Party's special constitutional committee also changed the method of electing the prime minister under the parliamentary cabinet system, providing that the premier shall be elected by the National Assembly on the nomination of the president.

Originally, the premier was to be chosen by the National Assembly without the nomination by the president.

Under the new formula, the president will discuss with the representative of the majority party about whom he will nominate.

If there is no party which secures the majority on the floor, the president will consult with the representatives of the parties which can form coalition.

The party committee also decided to have the president exercise the right to disband the Assembly at the decision of the Cabinet instead of the previous disbandment by the premier.

The original formula rules that the president should not be affiliated with political party, but the committee decided not to insert a provision on the political party membership of the president in its draft amendment.

The panel members also finalized an addendum of the draft amendment, ruling that the National Assemblyman election shall be held within 90 days before the incumbent president's official term ends.

Therefore, the parliamentary election should be carried out by Nov. 26, 1986 as the president's term expires on Feb. 24, 1988.

KIM TAE-CHUNG ON DJP, RELIGIOUS FAITH

SK140037 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 14 Aug 86 p 4

[From the "Press Pocket" columnn]

[Text] Opposition leader Kim Tae-chung yesterday commemorated the 13th anniversary of his safe homecoming, from an abduction in Japan, in a reception at his house in Tonggyo-dong. About 200 active and retired oppositionists, including Kim Yong-sam, Yi Min-u, Hyon Sok-ho and Chong Hon-chu, filled the garden and living room of Kim's house.

After "congratulatory" speeches by some opposition leaders, Kim recollected how he was abducted from a Tokyo hotel on Aug. 8, 1973 and freed near his Seoul home 13 years ago yesterday. He aid that his life was protected by Jesus Christ who he said appeared before him during the abduction by what he called "secret agents." "I was reborn 13 years ago thanks to Jesus Christ and my ancestors. They saved my life to let me work for the people. I will therefore continue the struggle for the democratization of the nation at any cost," Kim noted.

He then accused the ruling camp of attempting to deceive the general public on the revision of the Constitution. "The Democratic Justice Party draws up a draft mendment, in the parliamentary ruling system. According to the gist of the draft, strong power which is tantamount to that of the incumbent President is to be given to the prime minister. "But they are against a president-led form of government based on direct election. The reason is that they fear defeat in the elections," Kim alleged.

At the end of the reception Mrs. Yi Kyong-ae, wife of an aide to Kim and a soprano, sang a hymn, Jesus Christ with Golden Crown, for Kim.

HUN SEN LEAVES FOR HANOI FOREIGN MINISTERS MEETING

BK170436 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0405 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh, 17 Aug (SPK) -- Hun Sen, minister of foreign affairs of the PRK, left Phnom Penh this morning for the 13th Indochinese Foreign Ministers Conference to be held in Hanoi soon. Hun Sen, also member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the Council of Ministers, was seen off by Kong Korm, member of the KPRP Central Committee and first deputy minister of foreign affairs; Prach Sun, vice chairman of the KPRP Central Committee's foreign relations commission; and other personalities. Nguyen Anh Kiev, acting charge d'affaires of Vietnam to Cambodia, was also present.

BOU THANG ADDRESSES TONLE SAP FISHING GROUPS

BK130328 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1200 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] On 6 and 7 August, in Battambang provincial town, the provincial people's revolutionary committee, in cooperation with the Agriculture Ministry, held a meeting to sum up results on building fishing groups on the Tonle Sap River.

Attending the meeting were Comrade Say Chhum, member of the party Central Committee and agriculture minister; Comrade Ke Kimyan, member of the party Central Committee and secretary of the Battambang provincial party committee; Comrade Chieng Am, deputy chief of the General Political Department; the comrade commanders of the Army's 4th and 3rd region; and cadres representing the National Bank and various services in the provinces of Battambang, Siem Reap, Pursat, Kompong Chhnang, and Kompong Cham. The audience was very happy to have Comrade Bou Thang, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and defense minister, attending and speaking at the meeting.

Speaking on the occasion, Comrade Bou Thang pointed out the significance of the economy and security of the region around Tonle Sap Lake. The comrade explained to the audience the weak points and shortcomings of fishing activities because they have not yet been oriented to security and national defense tasks in the Tonle Sap area in the past. The comrade praised the Battambang party and people, particularly people in the Prey Chas village, who have correctly implemented the Council of Ministers' circulars by properly organizing fishing activities for people in solidarity production groups, building real revolutionary forces, improving the people's living standards, and helping smash every enemy maneuver. The comrade called for more vigilance and attention on the part of concerned central services and ministries in assisting people involved in fishing activities to expand state revolutionary authorities, militia forces, and promote the three revolutionary movements around Tonle Sap in order to score greater results.

MEETING HELD ON CONVENING KPRYU CONGRESS

BK151020 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] A grand meeting was held at the office of the National Assembly on the morning of 14 August to disseminate news about the convening of the congress of the Kampuchean People's Revolutionary Youth Union [KPRYU]. Attending the meeting were the comrade secretaries and deputy secretaries of the youth union's branches from all central ministries and offices, cities, and provinces throughout the country.

Speaking on that occasion, Mrs Men Sam-an, member of the Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the Central Organization Commission, spoke about the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau's resolution authorizing the KPRYU to hold its congress at all levels, from district to city levels, throughout the country. Mrs Men Sam-an added that the KPRYU Congress will examine the work to build, strengthen, and expand the union's organizations and development of the youth union during the past nearly 8 years. In particular, the congress will set targets and measures to be implemented with highest efficiency. Mrs Men Sam-an also exhorted all participants to use all of their ability in discussing all targets and requirements of the congress in order to contribute to the congress' success.

KHIEU SAMPHAN CONGRATULATES THAILAND'S SITTHI

BK160230 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodia 2330 GMT 15 Aug 86

[12 August congratulatory message from DK Vice President in Charge of Foreign Affairs Khieu Samphan to Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila]

[Text] To His Excellency Sitthi Sawetsila, minister of foreign affairs of the Kingdom of Thailand, Bangkok: Excellency, I have received with great joy the news that you have been reappointed to the high position of minister of foreign affairs of the Kingdon of Thailand under the lofty leadership of His Excellency General Prem Tinsulanon, prime minister.

On this auspicious occasion, on behalf of the Cambodian people and the CGDK and in my own name, I feel honored to express to you our warmest congratulations and best wishes for your good health, permanent happiness, and constant successes in your noble mission. Your reappointment clearly testifies to your great qualification as an outstanding statesman who has made precious contributions to the major achievements and successes in all fields of the Royal Thai Government and Thai people, particularly in national defense and construction as well as in foreign affairs.

Also on this same auspicous occasion, I have the satisfaction of recalling the saying that a friend in need is a friend indeed. This is a profound and consistent feeling nurtured by the Cambodian people for the Royal Thai Government and Thai people who have supported and assisted the Cambodian people in time of need and have resolutely and unswervingly stood since the outset on the side of the just cause of the Cambodian people and CGDK's national liberation and race-preserving struggle against the Hanoi aggressors. Recently again, the Kingdom of Thailand together with other ASEAN countries was among the first friendly countries that voiced support for the CGDK's 8-point proposal for a political settlement of the Cambodian people. We will remember forever all the invaluable great services rendered by the Royal Thai Government and fraternal Thai people.

On behalf of the Cambodian people and CGDK and in my own name, I would like to express again with the greatest emotion our most profound gratitude to your excellency and, through you, to the Royal Thai Government and Thai people. On the same occasion, I would like to reaffirm to you that the Cambodian people and the CGDK will continue to wholeheartedly treasure and strengthen the bonds of friendship and excellent cooperation linking our two countries and peoples. It is with this firm belief that I would like to ask your excellency to accept my highest regards.

Democratic Kampuchea, 12 August 1986. [Signed] Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs.

PREM PRESIDES OVER FIRST MEETING OF NEW CABINET

BK160131 Bangkok THE NATION in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] The Prem V Cabinet went into its first session yesterday and Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon urged all the 44 Cabinet members against "associating with corrupt people and tempting vices."

The premier also asked the Cabinet to help earn the government a good reputation and place national interests above party and personal interests in running their ministries, according to newly-appointed Government Spokesman Michai Wirawaithaya.

Michai said the premier also set up an 11-member ad hoc committee headed by Deputy Prime Minister Phichai Rattakun to formulate the government policy statement. The government is due to state its policy to Parliament during its session on August 27, he said.

The working group comprises all five deputy prime ministries: Phichai, Phong Sarasin of the Social Action Party (SAP), Gen Thianchai Sirisamphan of Ratsadon, Maj Gen Chatchai Sirsisamphan of Ratsadon, Maj Gen Chatchai Chunhawan of Chat Thai and Adm Sonthi Bunyachai. It also includes four representatives from the coalition partners and two other Cabinet members appointed under Gen Prem's quota.

The coalition representatives include Science, Energy and Technology Minister Banyat Banthatthan of Democrat, University Affairs Minister Dr Subin Pinkhayan of SAP and Deputy Industry Minister Kon Thappharangsi of Chat Thai. Another member is PM's Office Minister Michai Ruchuphan who is in charge of legal affairs.

The spokesman said the premier instructed the working group to base the policy statement on three policy objectives: solving the poverty problem, particularly in rural areas; reducing unemployment; and solving the debt problems of the country.

Deputy Agriculture Minister Prayut Siriphanit (SAP) told reporters that the premier instructed the ministers to review the draft policy statement in parts which concern their ministries and refer the amended draft to the working group for consideration.

Phichai said that the ministers were asked to refer their amended drafts to the working group by August 19 so the Cabinet meeting the following day will be able to consider it.

Phichai said his Democrat Party will seek to include as many of its policy statements in the government policy as possible. He said the government is expected to restructure the fuel oil prices, relax economic measures, promote investment to bring down the rate of unemployment and reduce the interest rates as well as the capital market to promote investment.

Finance Minister Suthi Singsaen said that his ministry had already reviewed the draft statement and he had forwarded it to Phichai in his capacity as chairman of the working group.

He said the section in the draft statement on finance policy will touch upon four areas: Long-term financial stability, fair taxation, improving state enterprises to make them more efficient and guidelines on public debt.

Referring to proposals to amend the budget bill for the upcoming fiscal year, Phichai said Cabinet members had yet to review the budget bill and are expected to make a decision on the matter by the end of this month.

He reiterated his call for the development budget in the bill to be increased through a cut-back on routine government expenditures.

The budget bill sets the government spending for the next fiscal year at about 226,000 million baht which is broken down to about 190,000 million baht for routine expenditures and about 60,000 baht [as published] for debt and interest repayment.

Michai said the premier also made the following points:

-- He will not meddle in ministerial affairs.
-- The government will put more emphasis on public relations work by improving the quality with a view to winning public confidence in the government.
-- The Cabinet members were asked to state their respective financial standings in writing in accordance with the Counter-Corruption Act B.E. [Buddhist Era] [2518 1975].
-- Phichai was appointed chairman of the Government-House Coordinating Committee while Interior Minister Prachuap Suntharangkun will take over as chairman of the Government-Senate Coordinating Committee.
-- The Cabinet acknowledged the appointments of Sqd Ldr Prasong Sunsiri as secretary general to the prime minister and Michai as government spokesman.

BANGKOK POST VIEWS NEW ROLE FOR PRASONG

BK150139 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 15 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon has decided to appoint as secretary-general a person who will be his alter ego in supervising the Government and administering the country.

Sqn-Ldr Prasong Sunsiri who resigns as secretary-general of the National Security Council to take up the political post will be invested with the responsibility of making the Prime Minister's Office the pivot of the new Cabinet.

The terms of office as reportedly spelled out to him by Gen Prem last week will take him out of the humdrum routine work of an ordinary secretary-general (like that of his predecessor, Lt-Gen Chanthakup Sirisut) to the position from which he will exercise power like "an Assistant to the Prime Minister (palat banchakan)." Such authority was held by the late Luang Wichit Watthakan during the Sarit Thanarat Government.

His new post can be regarded as comparable to that of Donald Regan of the Ronald Reagan presidency of the United States or even more powerful.

A new organization to be known as the National Operations Centre (NOC) will be established at Government House under Sqn-Ldr Prasong to obtain data for making decisions, to facilitate crisis management, to help deal with threats to internal and external security, to monitor operations of the various ministries and to keep the Prime Minister informed of public sentiments and developments in the different regions of the country.

Sqn-Ldr Prasong will maintain contacts with the political parties and the military on behalf of the Prime Minister and will make certain that decisions made by the Prime Minister and the Cabinet are implemented.

He will continue to oversee the National Security Council which will now be headed by his deputy, Suwit Suthanukun, and the Central Intelligence Department, headed by his colleague and collaborator, Piya Chakkaphak, since information is most important for governing the country.

Sqn-Ldr Prasong will keep up the close relationship he has developed with the Army Commander-in-Chief, Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyut, in order to promote cooperation among the Government, the military and the coalition parties. He also has excellent working relations with the Director General of the Police Department, Pol Gen Narong Mahanon.

He will also engage in dialogues with the opposition and other non-governmental political parties, and important interest groups.

Acting for the Prime Minister, he will hold consultations with Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila, his former chief at the NSC, on the formulation and implementation of foreign policies.

He will closely watch the progress made by each ministry or organisation in carrying out policies and projects and make direct reports to the Prime Minister.

Sqn-Ldr Prasong will make analyses of political developments and other affairs concerning national interests for the Prime Minister.

Besides maintaining contact with the ministries, he will be in charge of 16 agencies connected with domestic politics, foreign politics, social welfare, public utilities, security for the Prime Minister, financial and economic affairs and rural development.

Sqn-Ldr Prasong who assumes his post today while announcement of his appointment is expected tonight has had intimate knowledge of the problems of the North, the South, the Northeast and other regions of the country as well as those along Thailand's borders.

He has dealt effectively with the ex-Kuomintang troops or Chinese irregulars residing along the northern border, worked with the police and army on narcotics suppression, dealt with international organisations on reducing the economic burden and security risks caused by the presence of refugees, eased Muslim separatism and suppressed banditry and piracy in the South, and conducted successful counter-intelligence and anti-subversion operations.

Born August 11, 1927, Sqn-Ldr Prasong could have served until 1987 when he reaches the retirement age of 60. After graduating with a Master of Science degree from Colorado University, he joined the Royal Thai Air Force in 1953. He transferred to the NSC in 1965, rising to deputy secretary-general in 1976 and then in 1980 replacing ACM Sitthi who went on to be Foreign Minister.

Prime Minister Prem chose Sqn-Ldr Prasong because, according to informed sources, he trusts him to work in the national interest and because the former NSC chief has proven himself to be a man of integrity and an official dedicated to his work.

He was selected over Generals Banchop Bunnak, Prayun Bunnak, Saiyut Koetphon and Phaichit Somsuwan whose names had been proposed to the Prime Minister.

TALKS WITH U.S. OVER STOCKPILE HIT 'SNAG'

BK160129 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 16 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Talks between Thailand and the United States over a war reserve stockpile have hit a snag, Defence Minister Phaniang Kantarat said yesterday.

ACM [Air Chief Marshal] Phaniang declined to elaborate, saying only that it involved a financial problem.

Negotiations have come to a standstill, he said.

Athit Explains Snag

BK170024 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 16 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Talks on setting up a stockpile of US munitions in Thailand have hit a snag over "some wording" of the bilingual draft agreement and not on financial matters, Supreme Commander General Athit Kamlang-ek said yestarday.

He aid that Thailand could afford one-half of the US $20 million outlay each year for the arms stockpile reserve which would be used to counter aggression from abroad.

The supreme commander said the Defence and Foreign Ministries were still working on the draft agreement.

He said the wording which was delaying the final agreement was in connection with the degree and conditions of Thailand's access to the reserve. He did not elaborate.

LPDR, PRK FOREIGN MINISTERS ARRIVE FOR MEETING

BK170533 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0500 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Yesterday afternoon, 16 August, Comrade Phoun Sipaseuth, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign Minister of the LPDR; and today 17 August, Comrade Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, chairman of the Council of Ministers and foreign minister of the PRK, arrived in Hanoi to attend the 13th regular conference of the foreign ministers of Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam.

They were welcomed at the government guesthouse by Comrades Nguyen Co Thach, candidate member of the CPV Central Committee Political bureau and foreign minister; Ngo Dien, SRV ambassador to Cambodia; Nguyen Xuan, SRV ambassador to Laos; and many high-ranking officials of the Foreign Ministry. Also present at the welcoming meeting were Comrades Kampheun Tounalom, Lao ambassador; and Tep Henn, Cambodian ambassador to Vietnam.

INDOCHINESE FOREIGN MINISTERS MEETING OPENS

BK171545 Hanoi VNA in English 1458 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 17 -- The half-yearly regular conference of the foreign ministers of Kampuchea, Laos and Vietnam opened here this afternoon. Attending the meeting, the 13th of its kind since 1980 were Hun Sen, Politburo member of the People's Revolutionary Party of Kampuchea Central Committee, chairman of the Council of Ministers and minister for foreign affairs; Phoun Sipaseut, Politburo member of the Lao People's Revolutionary Party Central Committee, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and minister for foreign affairs; and Nguyen Co Thach, alternate Politburo member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and minister for foreign affairs.

Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach opened the meeting, saying:

"The conference this time takes place at a very important time. Through the past eight years' hard struggle, our three countries have overcome the most difficult time. Now there still remain many difficulties but the three countries have strongly developed and are in a new, very favourable posture. The Kampuchean people's wonderful rebirth and development is irreversible. The economic situation in Laos and Vietnam has been improved step by step. The militant solidarity between the three countries and that between them and the Soviet Union and the other socialist countries has been constantly strengthened. Although many difficulties and obstacles are still ahead, never has the three countries' revolution been in such a firm strategic posture as it is today. The struggle in Southeast Asia over the past 40 years has proved that the three Indochinese countries constitute a decisive factor for peace and stability in the region".

"Our meeting", he went on "takes place at a time when the world situation remains very tense, but the struggle between the two opposite social systems within the framework of peaceful co-existance has been active developments. The continuous efforts made by the Soviet Union, other socialist countries, and other forces of peace, especially the recent statement of CPSU General Secretary M.S. Gorbachev in Vladivostok, have made new moves vigorously pushing up the struggle for peace, cooperation and friendship in Asia -- the Pacific and the rest of the world".

"In this juncture we will review the victorious struggle of the three countries over the past eight years, and consider new developments of the situation in Asia-the Pacific and the world in the coming year. We will compare notes on measures on strengthening the cooperation and special relationship among the three countries and taking the three countries' revolution to new victories, thus contributing to the case of peace in Southeast Asia, Asia and the world as a whole," Nguyen Co Thach said.

Also attending the meeting were Kampuchean Deputy Foreign Minister Bo Rasi, Lao Deputy Foreign Minister Souban Salitthirat, Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Hoang Bich Son, and other Indochinese diplomats.

Opening Session Ends

OW171309 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Excerpts] This afternoon, 17 August 1986, the 13th conference of foreign ministers of Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam opened ceremoniously in Hanoi in an atmosphere of friendship and fraternal solidarity. Present on the Cambodian side were Comrades Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, Chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister of the PRK; Bo Rasi, deputy foreign minister of the PRK; Tep Henn, PRK ambassador to Vietnam; Nguon Phansiphon, PRK ambassador to Laos; Cham Prasit, chief of the PRK Foreign Ministry's General Political Department; and Theam Chhuni, director of the PRK Foreign Ministry's Asian-Australian Department.

Present on the Lao side were comrades Phoun Sipaseut, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister of the LPDR; Souban Salitthilat, vice foreign minister of Laos; Phongsavat Boupha, director of the Lao Foreign Ministry's First Department; Khampheun Tounalom, Lao ambassador to Vietnam; and Pheli Khounlaleuk, Lao ambassador to Cambodia.

Present on the Vietnamese side were comrades Nguyen Co Thach, alternate member of the CPV Central Committee Political Bureau and foreign minister of the SRV; Hoang Bich Son, vice foreign minister; Nguyen Xuan, Vietnamese ambassador to Laos; Ngo Dien, Vietnamese ambassador to Cambodia; Dang Nghiem Hoanh, director of the Foreign Ministry's General Foreign Relations Department [vuj toongr howpj doois ngoaij]; and Bui Van Thanh, acting director of the Foreign Ministry's Second Asian Department.

In his opening speech, Comrade Nguyen Co Thach, Vietnamese foreign minister, extended warm salutations to Cambodian Foreign Minister Hun Sen, Lao Foreign Minister Phoun Sipaseuth, and the other comrades. [passage omitted]

The opening session of the 13th conference of foreign ministers of Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam ended in an atmosphere filled with solidarity and fraternal friendship. The conference will continue its work tomorrow, 18 August.

Foreign Ministers Conference Ends

BK181025 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] The 13th regular conference of the foreign ministers of Kampuchea, Laos, and Vietnam closed in Hanoi Monday morning [18 August] after two days working.

The conference was attended by Hun Sen, Political Bureau member of the Kampuchean People's Revolutionary Party Central Committee, chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister of the People's Republic of Kampuchea; Phoun Sipaseut, Political Bureau member of the Lao People's Revolutionary Party Central Committee and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister of the Lao People's Democratic Republic; and Nguyen Co Thach, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and foreign minister of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

Addressing the closing session, Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen co Thach said the 13th regular conference of the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries reached uninamity in the assessment of the struggle of the three peoples in Indochina over the past 8 years. Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach said the conference's joint communique demonstrated the just stand and goodwill attitude of the three Indochina peoples, and at the same time, pointed out the unjust stand and the absurd attitude of the other side on the two main issues: The Vietnamese troops withdrawal and the elimination of the Pol Pot genocidal clique.

Also at this session, Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach said: We are now in the new situation of struggle favorable for the three Indochina countries. With our strong and victorious posture, with the wholehearted support from the Soviet Union, other fraternal socialist countries, India, other nonaligned countries, and other friends in the world, we are strongly convinced that the just cause of our three countries' revolution will certainly win new, greater successes that contributing [as heard] to peace and stability in Southeast Asia and the world as a whole.

A joint communique was released at the closing of the conference. You will hear excepts from this important communique later in this program.

TALKS HELD ON MIA'S WITH U.S. SPECIALISTS

OW161730 Hanoi VNA in English 1506 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 16 -- In furtherance of an agreement between Vietnam and the United States, a regular meeting of Vietnamese and American specialists on Americans missing in action (M.I.A.) in the Vietnam war was held here on August 14-15. This is the 3rd meeting of this kind since early this year.

During the session, the Vietnam side re-affirmed its goodwill and humanitarian policy toward the settlement of the M.I.A. issue. It pointed out that the U.S. side should have a really cooperative attitude and create a favourable atmosphere so that the search for information about Americans missing in action would be fruitful.

The Vietnamese side informed its U.S. counterpart of information gathered during the recent search.

The U.S. side highly appreciated the goodwill and humanitarian policy of the Vietnamese Government and people toward the M.I.A. issue.

U.S. MIA Experts Depart

BK161048 Hong Kong AFP in English 1037 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi, Aug 16 (AFP) -- A group of U.S. experts left Hanoi Saturday after discussing the fate of U.S. troops missing in acton (MIA) in the Vietnam war with Vietnamese officials, an official Vietnamere source said. During the talks, the Vietnamese delegation reminded the Americans of Hanoi's "goodwill" in resolving the MIA issue, the source said. But the Vietnamese said "good results" will depend on an attitude of "real cooperation" and a "favorable climate" on the part of the United States, the source said.

Information on Vietnam's research into MIA's was passed on to the U.S. delegation, she said, without giving further details. So far 1,792 Americans are still listed as missing in action in Vietnam since the end of the Vietnam war in 1975, according to official Pentagon figures.

The American delegation, led by Colonel Joe B. Harvey, director of the U.S. Army identificaton center in Hawaii, had arrived Wednesday for the third meeting of its kind this year. They had been expected to discuss the possibility of new "joint searches" for MIA's, similar to one launched in the Hanoi suburbs in December 1985.

At a high-level meeting here last month, National Security Council member Richard Childress gave Vietnamese authorities a written commitment from Washington supporting Hanoi in its "unilateral" plan to resolve the MIA problem over two years.

The Vietnamese delegation at this week's talks was led by Nguyen Can, director of the Vietnamese agency responsible for recovering MIA's.

Col. Harvey said upon arriving in Bangkok form Hanoi that a U.S. B-52 expert had "accompanied us and inspected plane wreckage at various locations in Hanoi." He said that although crash site excavations had been discussed, no dates for future excavations had been set. He said he expected there would be three more U.S. -Vietnamese technical meetings this year, fulfilling Hanoi's promise for six such meetings in 1986. But "no firm date" had been set for the next session, he said.

There have been three excavations in communist Indochina of the crash sites of U.S. warplanes. Two were in Laos and discovered MIA's. A joint U.S.-Vietnamese excavation in December failed to uncover the remains of any U.S. missing.

(Col. Harvey said live sighting reports were also discussed in Hanoi but he refused to go into detail.)

Washington has not ruled out the possibility that MIA's are still alive in Indochina but Hanoi denies knowledge of any such cases. Since the United States and Vietnam began working together on tracing missing servicemen in 1982, Hanoi has located and handed over the remains of 128 MIA's. The latest ceremony took place on April 10.

NHAN DAN: ANZUS 'COLLAPSE' HEAVY BLOW TO U.S.

BK151242 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] The Vietnamese national paper NHAN DAN affirms that the collapse of the ANZUS bloc and the antinuclear policy of 13 countries in the South Pacific are important changes in the region. In its Friday [15 August] issue, NHAN DAN noted: These changes dealt a heavy blow to the U.S. military strategy in Asia and the Pacific.

CPSU POLITBURO CITED ON LEADERS' TALKS

OW161731 Hanoi VNA in Egnlish 1509 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 16 — The Political Bureau of the Central committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, in its meeting on August 15, acclaimed results of the recent meeting between Mikhail Gorbachev and Truong Chinh, general secretaries of the Communist Parties of the Soviet Union and Vietnam respectively.

The C.P.S.U. Political Bureau expressed its satisfaction at the constant consolidation and development of the fraternal friendship and effective cooperation between the Soviet Union and Vietnam, the unanimity of views between the parties and states of the Soviet Union and Vietnam in making joint efforts to further promote the Soviet-Vietnamese relations and render the situation in Asia and the Pacific healthier.

CHU HUY MAN ATTENDS ENGINEERING GROUP CONGRESS

OW151319 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Most recently, in his inspections of the preparatory work for the congress of the various armed services and branches, Comrade Chu Huy Man, member of the Political Bureau, deputy secretary of the Central Military Party Committee, and head of the VPA General Political Department, personally inspected the preparatory work of the (S1969) Group of the Engineering Corps and attended its party organization congress.

Comrade Chu Huy Man heard the report of the group's party organization standing committee on the situation of the preparatory work for the party organization congress as well as many views of party members. He commended the sense of responsibility of every party member in the party organization in assessing the situation and guidelines on party tasks mentioned in the draft political report of the CPV Central Committee to be presented at the Sixth CPV Congress.

TO HUU ATTENDS WRITERS-ARTISTS UNION MEETING

OW170741 Hanoi VNA in English 0715 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 17 -- A plenary meeting of the Vietnam Writers and Artists' Union took place in Hanoi recently. It was attended by more than 100 writers and artists across the country.

To Huu, Political Bureau member of the Communist Party of Vietram Central Committee, and Hoang Tung, secretary of the C.P.V. Central Committee, were present at the conference.

Addressing the participants, To Huu dealt with the burning issues relating to the current situation in the country and the world as a whole, and outlined orientations for writers and artists' tasks in the time ahead.

The conference adopted the report of the Vietnam Writers and Artists' Union Central Committee presented by Cu Huy Can, president of the union, and approved the report delivered by Ha Xuan Truong, alternate member of the CPV Central Committee and head of its cultural and art commission, reviewing Vietnam's literary work and development over the past 40 years and major lessons drawn from realities during the past four decades.

Many papers read at the conference dealt with the writers and artists' responsibility towards the entire people's cause of socialist development and national defence and their concrete deeds to welcome the forthcoming 6th C.P.V. Congress.

94 PERCENT OF FALL RICE TRANSPLANTED IN NORTH

BK1311421 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] By now peasants in northern Vietnam have transplanted 1.2 million hectares of autumn rice, or 94 percent of the plan. Peasants in the flood-stricken Provinces Hai Hung, Ha Bac, and Ha Nam Ninh are preparing rice seedlings for retransplanting immediately after the water recedes.

Besides, peasants in northern Vietnam are concentrating on tending autumn rice while making good preparations for winter crops to make up for the losses caused by natural calamities and to greet the Sixth Party Congress to be held later this year.

AUSTRALIA

HAYDEN SAYS U.S. SUBSIDY HURTS DEFENSE PROGRAM

BK170740 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] The foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, has warned that if the United States continues its policy on subsidizing grain exports, Australia will not be able to afford its defense commitments to the alliance. Mr Hayden says the American policy as implemented so far will cost Australia $1,000 million [Australian dollars] and mean that Australia has less income with which to buy defense equipment from the Americans. Speaking on a Sunday television program, Mr Hayden said it would also undermine Australia's ability to participate in military exercises with the United States.

[Begin Hayden recording] The strength of commitments forged on the basis of physical operation will be depleted. It will be undermined. We will not be able to afford to buy helicopters or fly our aircraft as much as we want to. The FA-18's, they are extremely expensive things to fly. We go out on maritime surveillance patrols, which means in turn that the Americans will have to try to fulfill that role nearly themselves. [end recording]

Mr Hayden also urged the National Farmers Federation to set up a survival fund to help rural industries under threat from the American agricultural policies. The foreign minister said the $15 million the federation recently raised to fight the federal government should be used to lobby against the U.S. administration's subsidized grain exports scheme.

HUNGARIAN TRADE DELEGATION ARRIVES FOR VISIT

BK160952 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] A trade delegation from Hungary headed by the country's deputy prime minister, Mr Jozsef Marjai, has arrived in Australia for a 2-week visit. Mr Marjai says Hungary has similiar trade problems to that of Australia. He says Hungary has to compete with high European community subsidies. The visit by the five-member delegation coincides with a meeting in the northern Queensland city of Cairns next week of countries which do not subsidize their agricultural exports. Yesterday, the trade minister, Mr Dawkins, forecast the creation of a coalition of countries to oppose the subsidy policies of America and the European Community.

NEW ZEALAND

CABINET APPROVES SANCTIONS AGAINST SOUTH AFRICA

HK180950 Hong Kong AFP in English 0926 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Wellington, Aug 18 (AFP) — The new Zealand Government Monday approved a range of sanctions against South Africa, including a ban on agricultural imports. The New Zealand sanctions, which followed a Commonwealth decision to impose economic sanctions, also included a ban on importing uranium, coal, iron and steel and promoting tourism to South Africa, and an end to the agreement by national flag carrier Air New Zealand to act as an agent for South African Airways.

Prime Minister David Lange, announcing the cabinet decision, stressed "that the government is fully committed to the Commonwealth programme of action (against South Africa)." He also told a news conference that "further consultations with other governments will be needed," before firm decisions could be taken on other steps to implement proposals made at the Commonwealth mini-summit in London earlier this month.

The cabinet approved a ban on South African agricultural imports including wine, peanuts, raisins, dried and preserved fruit, confectionery and vegetable oils. The value of those imports in the year ending June was 2.5 million U.S. dollars. There would also be a ban on tourism promotion, with government tourist offices no longer promoting or selling packaged tours to South Africa.

Mr Lange said that Air New Zealand had been asked by the government to end its agreement with South African Airways to act as an agent. Mr Lange said that the government, "looks to all private travel and tourist agencies to comply with the London ban by not promoting tourism to South Africa:" The government confirmed "its total oppostion to any New Zealand investment in South Africa," and Mr Lange added that "legislation to ban such investment is being considered." Mr Lange said details of the items to be covered and the date from which the ban would become effective would be announced later. He said that the government hoped measures being taken by the Commonwealth and other countires, "may help to persuade the South African Government to begin the process of dialogue that could lead to the establishment of a non-racial and representative government in a united South Africa."

POLLS OUTLINE POLITICAL PARTIES' SUPPORT

HK141137 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 9 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Under the leadership of the Hon Jim Bolger, the National Party has increased its standing between March and July to the party's highest level in eight years.

National's voter support has increased in 20 weeks by 7 percentage points to 47 percent, a figure unequalled by the party since July 1978.

Labour's support has slipped by 4 points to 48 percent, leaving it one point ahead of National.

The NEW ZEALAND HERALD-National Research Bureau (NRB) poll for March was taken early in the month while the Hon Jim McLay was still the National Party leader. Mr Bolger succeeded Mr McLay on March 26.

The latest poll, held between July 19 and 23, is thus the first HERALD-NRB survey to record voter support since the change of leadership.

The poll was held about a fortnight after the Rainbow Warrior settlement and was concluded on the day of the French agents's release. The poll preceded the July 31 budget and the National Party conference of last weekend.

Between early March and the second half of July, support for the Democratic Party dropped one point to 3 percent and for the New Zealand Party by two points to 1 percent.

The results come from a survey of 2000 eligible voters selected by random probability methods from the 20 main population centres.

Poll respondents were asked: "If an election had been held yesterday, which party would you have voted for?" The answers of intending voters are compared with those in previous polls and with the vote in the July 1984 election:

JULY

	Labour	National	Democratic	NZ Party	All others
Jul 86	48	47	3	1	1
Mar 86	52	40	4	1	1
Oct 85	50	40	5	[illegible]	1
Jun 85	41	43	6	1	-
Feb 84	44	42	5	[illegible]	1
Dec 84	44	39	6	10	1
Oct 84	48	33	6	13	-
Election	43	36	8	12	1
Jun 84	48	36	8	7	1
Apr 84	41	38	6	14	1
Feb 84	36	40	5	18	1
Dec 83	38	35	8	18	1
Sep 83	37	45	11	6	1

Of eligible voters, 18 percent were uncommitted (that is, they said they would not vote, or did not know, or refused to say which party they would vote for), as compared with the same proportion in March and a 9 percent non-vote in the 1984 general election.

The poll figures are subject to a maximum statistical sampling error of plus or minus 2 percent.

Of people who voted for the New Zealand Party in the 1984 election, only 3 percent remain loyal, compared with 17 percent four months ago. The Labour Party is a major beneficiary of this collapse in support.

The Democratic Party remains in much the same position as in the previous survey, with half of its 1984 voters inclined to support other parties. Labour gains more of the shifting votes than does National.

Direct switching between Labour and National is in National's favour but does not offset the gains Labour has made from the minor parties.

The major cause of Labour's dip in popular support is the fact that 15 percent of Labour voters are now uncommitted.

Of 1984 Labour voters, 70 percent would remain loyal (79 percent in March), 15 percent are uncommitted (11 percent), 13 percent would switch to National (6 percent), 1 percent would switch to the New Zealand Party (unchanged), and 1 percent to the Democratic Party (2 percent).

Of 1984 National voters, 84 percent would remain loyal (77 percent), 8 percent are uncommitted (13 percent), 7 percent would switch to Labour (8 percent), and 1 percent to the New Zealand Party (unchanged).

Of 1984 New Zealand Party voters, 45 percent would switch to Labour (36 percent), 29 percent would switch to National (20 percent), 20 percent are uncommitted (22 percent), 3 percent would remain loyal (17 percent) and 3 percent would switch to the Democratic Party (unchanged).

Of 1984 Social Credit (now Democratic Party) voters, 32 percent would switch to Labour (36 percent), 29 percent would remain loyal (32 percent), 23 percent would switch to National (20 percent), and 16 percent are uncommitted (11 percent).

The switching of votes leaves the four parties, and the uncommitted group, with support derived as follows.

Comes from	Labor percent	National percent	NZ Party percent	Democ Party percent	Uncommitted percent
'84 Labour voters	65	12	28	19	31
'84 National voters	6	66	17	2	14
'84 NZ Party voters	12	8	27	10	12
'84 Social Credit voters	6	4	-	68	6
'84 All other voters	1	-	10	-	1
Non voters in '84	4	4	3	5	28
Newly Eligible voters	6	6	15	5	8

USSR WANTS TO BOOST NON-OIL IMPORTS

BK121317 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] The Soviet Union is willing to buy more Indonesian non-oil commodity goods in an effort to boost bilateral trade. Shapovalov, deputy chief of the Soviet trade mission in Jakarta, made the remarks to newsmen today on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the establishment of bilateral trade. He noted that both sides have faithfully upheld the principles of bilateral trade since the trade agreement was signed in 1956. Both sides have also reaped mutual benefits from the trade ties. He stressed that the Soviet Union is determined to improve trade and economic relations with ASEAN member countries, including Indonesia.

TRADE WITH PRC 'HEAVILY IN FAVOR' OF JAKARTA

BK071524 Hong Kong AFP in English 518 GMT 7 Aug 86

[Text] Jakarta, Aug 7 (AFP) -- The trade balance in the first year of direct trade between Indonesia and China was heavily in favor of Indonesia, an executive of the Indonesian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (Kadin) said Thursday. The acting chairman of Kadin's China committee, H.M.B. Nawawi, told reporters Indonesian exports to China were worth 200 million dollars and imports from China 50 million dollars.

Indonesia froze relations with China 18 years ago after accusing China of complicity in an abortive coup d'etat in 1965. Trade relations resumed in June 1985 with the signing of a memorandum of understanding between the chambers of commerce of the two countries. However, Jakarta and Beijing have yet to resume normal diplomatic ties.

Mr Nanawi said Kadin saw many opportunities to further develop trade with China, but that Indonesian businessmen needed first to learn more about trade with China.

MALAYSIA

MAHATHIR VOWS TO PURSUE 'LOOK EAST' POLICY

BK140907 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir says the government will carry on with its look east policy despite criticisms from various groups in the country. He reiterated that the government still firmly believes that with the work ethics of the East, Malaysia will be able to achieve success. The prime minister hits out at some quarters who still think that the white men are superior. He says this kind of mentality does not bring any good to the country. This is true because the hard-working values of the West have now eroded. Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir was speaking at a youth day gathering and launching of a national culture month in Kuala Lumpur.

MAHATHIR ON MALAY REPORTERS WORKING FOR ZIONISTS

BK161005 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0940 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Pendang, Malaysia, Aug 16 (BERNAMA) — Prime Minister Dr Mahathir Mohamed said Saturday certain reporters working for Jewish-owned foreign publications are trying to destabilise Malaysia. He said that through their distorted articles the writers hoped to bring chaos to the country by inflaming the emotions of people who were already opposed to the government. He said some foreign newspapers and magazines had supported the opposition All Malaysia Islamic Party (PAS) and the Democratic Action Party (DAP) in the hope that the two parties would win the recent general election. They wanted the two parties to win so that trouble would break out, he said at an Idal-Adha gathering in this northern peninsular Malaysian state of Kedah. He said the Zionists were dead set against Malaysia because of the country's wellknown support for the Palestinians and so were using their newspapers and magazines to hit at countries opposing them. He said they also used their publications to paint a distorted view of Malaysia's economic position.

VOPM ON GOVERNMENT JOINT OPERATION CASUALTIES

BK131249 (Clandestine) Voice of the People of Malaysia in Malay 1230 GMT 12 Aug 86

["Battle report": "More Than 20 Enemy Soldiers Were Either killed or Injured in a New Joint Military Operation Launched by the Malaysia-Thai Forces"]

[Text] In May and June of this year, collaborating once again with the Southern Thai military authorities, the Malaysian reactionary authorities launched a new offensive against the revolutionary bases along the Malaysia-Thai border. From 24 May to 4 June, the two reactionary groups launched a joint military campaign comdenamed "Operation 8602" in the northern Perak-Thai border, eastern Kedah-Thai border, and the northeast Kedah-Thai border. The military operation was a follow up to an earlier one condenamed "Operation 8601," launched in February of this year.

In their offensive against the area where our forces operate in the eastern Kedah-Thai border, at least 5 Thai soldiers were either killed or injured when they stepped on landmines plantd by our forces.

As soon as that military operation ended, the Malaysian and Thai authorities launched another joint military campaign codenamed "Operation 8603" against our forces operating in the norther Perak-Thai border from 5 June onwards. In the operation, 3 Thai soldiers were killed and 14 others were injured by landmines. The operation ended on 20 June.

SINGAPORE

PRIME MINISTER STRESSES UNITY IN SPEECH

BK171558 Hong Kong AFP in English 1538 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Singapore, Aug 17 (AFP) — Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew said Sunday that Non-economic factors such as cultural values and social attitudes held the key to future progress for Singapore. It was "social, cultural, non-economic factors that made us successful economically," he said, and future success also "depends on non-economic factors."

In a nearly two-hour address to government, business and community leaders which sounded to some analysts like a valedictory, Mr Lee defended himself against allegations of interference in the private lives of Singaporeans. His government's active promotion of such policies as the use of English has a working language and housing resettlement aimed at racial intermingling have made Singapore a unified country, he said. Without such action, "I don't think we would be here today." Mr Lee said, adding: "It took 27 years to get 50,000 people to sing together in the same lanuage" — a reference to the August 16 national day celebrations.

Mr Lee once again turned to the problem of educated women who failed to find mates because men of equivalent background preferred to "marry down," and the Singapore's declining birth rate. The country falls "14,000 babies short every year," he said, and this posed a real threat to its future. Where, he asked, would the engineers and other professionals be found to steer the country beyong the year 2000. "We are born unequal, and we've got to make the best of the lot," he said, adding: "This is the way nature works."

Speaking successively in Malay, Mandarin and English, Mr Lee stressed the need for cohesion among the various races, language groups and cultures that make up the nation of Singapore. While urging Singaporeans to preserve their native languages and cultures, he warned against letting "Western values, Western lifestyles seep into our lives." In one of several swipes at foreign correspondents, he accused them of seeking to "purvey their set of values."

Dressed in a pale pink shirt open at the neck, Mr Lee said Singaporean society could never be homogeneous, but "we can be a free, tolerant, easy society." Although theprime miniser focused on non-economic concerns, he touched on Singapore's competition with the other newly industrializing countries of Hong Kong, Taiwan and South Korea, which, he said, enjoyed unified cultures. Singapore workers have almost priced themselves out of the market, but companies would still be willing to pay a premium to operate in Singapore if they were offered premium service and quality, Mr Lee said.

NAVIES ARRIVING FOR 'STARFISH-86' EXERCISES

BK160712 Hong Kong AFP in English 0655 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Singapore, Aug (AFP) — The New Zealand frigate Southland sailed in here Saturday for the biggest-ever naval exericise among the navies of New Zealand, Britain, Malaysia and Singapore. The 10-day exercise, codenamed Starfish 86, due to start Wednesday, will see some 26 ships, including an Australian submarine, conducting weapons training and tactical manoeuvres in the South China Sea. Another Leander-class frigate, the Canterbury and a P-3B Orion antisubmarine reconnaissance aeroplane due early next week will be New Zealand's contribution to the annual exercise under a 1971 defence pact among the five countries.

The Southland's captain, John Leonard, said Saturday that the five-nation exercises were not Wellington's only standing treaty for multilateral exercises, following New Zealand's formal exclusion last week from the ANZUS Treaty grouping it with Australia and the United States. It would be fair to assume greater importance for the five-power exercises in that respect, Commander Leonard told reporters, but he described as an exaggeration press reports that Starfish had become "critical" to Wellington because of the ANZUS situation.

The New Zealand contingent of two frigates to Starfish 86 was the same as in the past five years, he said. "What is critical, is to have exercises" said Commander Leonard, adding that the New Zealand Navy did so with Australia and other countries in the region.

He pointed out that the Southland took part in an exercise at Slindo in the Java Sea with the Indonesian Navy in July and that the Cantebury was arriving here Monday from "exercise joint venture" in the Cook Islands.' Under the five power defence arrangement put together in the wake of the British pullout from Singapore and Malaysia, aimed at providing a defense umbrella for Malaysia and Singapore, New Zealand has kept its 1st Infantry Regiment based in Singapore along with air and medical support units.

Australia coordinates the air force arm for the group from the north Malaysian base of Butterworth where it has stationed a squadron of Mirage fighter planes and a detachment of P-3C surveillance planes.

The British presence in the defence of its two former colonies has been low-key in comparison, with the nearest military support based in Hong Kong. However, for Starfish 86, two frigates from the task force now depoloyed in the region are to join the usual batch of gunboats from Hong Kong to make it the biggest yet British participation, defence sources said.

TRUCE SIGNED WITH COMMUNISTS IN DAVAO DEL NORTE

HK160208 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] The first local cease-fire between the government and the communist rebels was signed Thursday [14 Aug] in Laac, Davao del Norte. The signing was held in a basketball court in the presence of armed rebels, churchmen, local residents, and local government officials. This development came as communists and government negotiators prepare for national level peace talks in Metro Manila. The signers of the truce agreement were Davao del Norte Governor Prospero Omatong and mayors of the province and National Democratic Front [NDF] and Communist Party representatives led by Froilan Mauriel and Edwin Vergara of the Davao del Norte regional NDF and regional NPA Command.

First Under Aquino Government

HK150555 Hong Kong AFP in English 0551 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Laac, Philippines, Aug 15 (AFP) -- Communist rebels and civilian officials here have signed the first local cease-fire agreement under President Corazon Aquino's government. The agreement -- signed Thursday in this southern municipality at a table on an earthen basketball court surrounded by armed rebels, churchmen and local residents -- was forged as negotiators in Manila prepared for national-level peace talks. Viewed as an experiment by the rebels and authorities, the pact covers nine of Davao del Norte's 21 municipalities apart from insurgency-rocked Laac, located 900 kilometers (560 miles) south of Manila [sentence as received].

Mrs Aquino, in a May visit to Davao City, near this province, proposed local truces apart from a nationwide cease-fire she planned at that time to discuss with leaders of the communist-led National Democratic Front (NDF). She named Davao del Norte a pilot area for "rehabilitation" of rebels through livelihood training and job placement. Provincial Governor Prospero Omatong said the agreement takes effect upon the president's approval.

In Manila, presidential spokeswoman Alice Villadolid told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE when informed of the Laac agreement: "Apparently this is part of the result of that effort there." Mrs Villadolid could not immediately say if the president had been informed but confirmed that a Davao businessman instrumental in bringing about the pact, Jesus Ayala, was "an adviser of Mrs Aquino on Mindanao affairs." Mr Ayala, who was expected to formally convey the agreement to Mrs Aquino, was out of the country, aides said.

Local officials and rebel leaders who signed the pact told an AFP correspondent that they had the blessings of superiors for the move. The agreement was signed by Mr Omatong, mayors of the municipalities, and four rebels representing the NDF, the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and the New People's Army (NPA). The CPP and the NPA -- its estimated 16,500-strong armed wing -- are the main components of the NDF, the underground alliance of leftist forces. Mr Omatong said the military was not a signatory but agreed beforehand to the experiment after objecting to a plan for a regional cease-fire. The region which would have been affected comprises five provinces on southeastern Mindanao Island.

Under the agreement signed in a village called Upper Mabuhay, the rebels agreed to "cancel all planned tactical offensives against the military" and declared a moratorium on armed hostilities. The military in turn will stop anti-rebel operations, refrain from establishing new detachments and pull out "abusive" units and men. Mr Amatong also said that the absence of the military in the pact signing "only proves the supremacy of civilian authority over the military." The national cease-fire talks also exclude the military, but Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Armed Force chief General Fidel Ramos advise Mrs Aquino on the talks.

Brigadier-General Romeo Recina, the regional military chief, was unavailable for comment but his aide Colonel Roberto Manlongat told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE he was not aware of the cease-fire agreement. "I am not aware of that," he said, but added that should Mrs Aquino approve the agreement, "then we will enforce it." Col Manlongat said the cease-fire agreement would have to be referred to the military, "because necessarily, we are a party to it."

COMMUNIST CEASE-FIRE OFFER REJECTED IN MINDANAO

HK170052 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 0030 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Military authorities have rejected the cease-fire offer from communist rebels in several provinces in the southern Philippines. A military official, the regional military commander, told reporters the guerrillas' refusal to give up their arms made the offer unacceptable. Communist insurgents in the north of Mindanao last week declared a unilateral truce in their 17-year-old guerrilla war during peace talks between communist leaders and the government. They made the offer to church and civilian officials led by the Misamis Oriental province governor. He said he was willing to go back to the hinterland to negotiate further with the rebels.

Rebels Must 'Give Up Their Cause'

OW161105 Tokyo KYODO in English 1055 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Cagayan de Oro, Philippines, Aug. 16 KYODO -- Military authorities Saturday rejected a temporary cease-fire forge last week by local government officials and communist-led insurgents in northern Mindanao, southern Philippines. The truce, which took effect August 9, was agreed upon during negotiations between a civilian panel headed by Misamis Oriental Government Vicente Emano, and insurgent's representatives led by George Madlos, a northern Mindanao communist party official.

"The offer is unacceptable. Complete and lasting peace cannot be realized unless the rebels give up their cause, lay down their firearms and surrender," a military spokesman quoted Brig Gen. Mariano Adalem, chief of the regional military command as saying. The spokesman said that during the negotiations, the insurgent's leaders, whose forces operate in six northern Mindanao provinces, had ruled out the surrender of their firearms as a precondition for a cease-fire in their areas. Brig Gen Jesus Hermosa, chief of the constabulary command based in Cagayan de Oro, also expressed" serious misgivings about the real intentions of the rebels for a cease-fire," saying that their ultimate objective was to "seize power and control government."

Thousands Flee, Fear More Fighting

OW181011 Tokyo KYODO in English 0957 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Cagayan de Oro, Philippines, Aug. 18 KYODO -- Thousands of villagers fled their homes fearing renewed fighting after military commanders rejected a temporary cease-fire forged last Saturday by civilian officials and the communist-led insurgents in northern Mindanao, southern Philippines, a military official said Monday. Col. Manuel Dizon, commander of the Army's 3rd Infantry Brigade, said more than 2,000 families evacuated six mountain villages in Gingoor town, about 60 kilometers northeast of this city in Misamis Oriental province since Saturday. "The evacuees are afraid of being caught in a cross fire and do not want to return home unless they are assured of peace in the area," Dizon said. A top leader of the New Peoples Army (NPA) in northern Mindanao, George Madlos, had offered a region-wide truce but the military regional commander, Brig. Gen. Mariano Adalem, said the offer was "unacceptable" because the rebels will not give up their arms. Misamis Oriental Governor Vicente Emano led civilian officials in initiating the regional cease-fire agreement to allow evacuees in the coastal towns of the province to return to their homes after being displaced at the height of the military offensive against the NPA early this year. Meanwhile, the official PHILIPPINE NEWS AGENCY reported that the insurgents in the Bicol region in the southeastern part of the northern Philippine island of Luzon are also considering a cease-fire agreement with the local government. Representatives from the leftwing umbrella organization, the National Democratic Front, and the government of President Corazon Aquino are currently negotiating a nationwide cease-fire to end the 17-year insurgency.

OFFICIAL DENIES REPORT OF MISUARI'S RETURN

HK180752 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Deputy Foreign Minister Mamintal Tamano denied an alleged report that quoted him as saying that MNLF chief Nur Misuari is returning to Manila next month for talks with President Aquino on the Mindanao situation. More from Jojo Ismael: [Begin Ismael recording] According to Tamano, he was not able to talk to Misuari when he was in the Mideast recently. However, he said that MNLF Vice Chairman (Abdul Bakiah Abu Bakar) announced his willingness to take part in negotiations between the MNLF and the new government. Tamano added that it was not appropriate to name the president's brother-in-law, Agapito "Butz" Aquino, as the official negotiator in talks with the MNLF leaders. Tamano expressed readiness to assist in government efforts to settle the Bangsa Moro issue in Mindanao. [end recording]

ENRILE REVEALS 3-STAGE COMMUNIST PLAN

HK141203 Hong Kong AFP in English 1153 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 14 (AFP) -- Philippine communists plan to seize power by infiltrating key government posts and naming a candidate to run in the 1992 presidential election, Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said Thursday. Mr. Enrile told a women's club here that the three-stage plan by the banned Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) would be implemented by the CPP-led National Democratic Front (NDF) coalition. He said that in the first two-year stage NDF elements "will be assigned to key positions in the various levels of the government." Mr. Enrile said that in the second two-year stage, top-ranking officials would be discredited and "the infiltration of sensitive positions in the ministries will be intensified." The NDF in the final two years will call for "salary increases and more benefits for all government employees," by which time the CPP would have chosen the NDF candidate for the 1992 presidential election, Mr. Enrile said. "I'm not saying that they are there now but this is their plan," he added.

Mr. Enrile said the plot suggested that the communists realized they must now work inside the government aside from conducting its armed insurrection, to succed. Mr. Enrile provoked a public squabble with cabinet colleagues two days ago when he accused some government agencies of harboring former communist rebels. President Corazon Aquino, whom he helped to power in a February revolt, has said she will retain these individuals if they have already renounced violence.

TARGET LIST FOR KIDNAPPING PLOT REVEALED

HK180602 Manila THE MANILA TIMES in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] Military men still loyal to deposed President Marcos are allegedly behind the plot to kidnap President Aquino, members of her Cabinet and top officials of the Armed Force of the Philippines. [AFP]

An officer of the former Aviation Security Command (Avsecom, now Pafsecom [Philippine Armed Forces Security Command]) told THE MANILA TIMES yesterday he has been asked by some of his colleagues to help in the attempt to overthrow the Aquino government.

The Avsecom officer, one of the several military men who have not been given any assignment since the takeover of Mrs. Aquino, said the military "loyalists" behind the "coup plot" are mostly identified with former AFP Chief of Staff Gen. Fabian Ver.

He said he turned down the invitation. He also refused to identify the pro-Marcos military men planning to sow terrorism in their attempt to put up a counter-revolutionary government.

Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile revealed Wednesday that the Marcos loyalists are planning to kidnap several Cabinet ministers during the visit of President Aquino to Indonesia and Singapore from August 24 to 27.

Enrile told Mrs. Aquino the military intelligence service has submitted to him a report of the alleged kidnap plot.

In a press conference Thursday, Enrile divulged details of the plot. Besides the Cabinet men, the defense chief identified several other government officials allegedly included in the target list of the Marcos diehards.

As revealed by Enrile, those on the target list are: President Aquino, Vice-President Salvador Laurel, AFP Chief of Staff Gen. Fidel Ramos, Brig. Gen. Ramon Farolan, Gen. Canieso, Gen. Salvador Mison, navy flag officer Serafio Martillano, Gen. Eduardo Ermita, Brig. Gen. Alfredo Lim, Jaime Cardinal Sin, Father Joaquin Bernas, Jose Cojuangco, Butz Aquino, Gen. Sotelo, Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, Chief Justice Claudoi Teehankee, Justice Minister Neptali Gonzales, Tourism Minister Jose Gonzalez, Local Government Minister Aquilino Pimentel, Justice Manuel Herera, Commissioner Ramon Diaz of the Presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG), Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez, Finance Minister Jaime Ongpin, Public Works Minister Rogaciano Mercado, Agrarian Reform Minister Heherzon Alvarez, Transportation Minister Hernando Perez, Trade and Industry Minister Jose Concepcion, Information Minister Teodoro Locsin, Jr, Central Bank Gov. Jose Fernandez, Audit Chairman Teofisto Guingona, PCGG Chairman Jovito Salonga, businessman Eugenio Lopez, Jr., MWSS [Metropolitan Water and Sewarage System] Administrator Jose Yap, Manila Acting Mayor Mel Lopez, PCGG Commissioner Raul Daza, telecommunications Director Sibal, NFA [National Food Authority] Administrator Emil Ong, ormer Communist Party of the Philippines Chairman Jose Ma. Sison, former NPA commander Bernabe Buscayno, Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra, rebel commanders Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel, and Natural Resources Minister Ernesto Maceda.

According to Enrile, the Marcos loyalistas are also planning to seize military camps and important communications facilities to ensure the success of their coup plot.

The defense minister said the coup plot will be carried out in an early morning blitz to surprise government troops loyal to Mrs. Aquino.

PANEL WARNS AQUINO FURTHFR COUP ATTEMPT POSSIBLE

HK160917 Hong Kong AFP in English 0913 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 16 (AFP) — A top-level committee has warned President Corazon Aquino that backers of deposed ruler Ferdinand Marcos may again attempt a takeover during one of her foreign trips, a newspaper said here Saturday.

THE MANILA CHRONICLE, saying it was shown an unpublished report given to Mrs Aquino Thursday, quoted the panel as saying that the July 6 failed coup led by Arturo Tolentino was mainly meant as propaganda to embarrass the government.

But "The event was so planned and structured that depending on the response of the military, it could readily have been transposed into an actual takeover or coup d'etat," the panel was quoted as saying.

The committee said the involvement of Mr Marcos in the attempt remains an "unknown factor," according to the daily.

Mrs Aquino's visits to Indonesia and Singapore next week and the United States next month "raise high risks" of a second attempt, it reportedly said.

Mr Tolentino, Mr Marcos's would-be vice president, named himself "acting president" while Mrs Aquino was out of town, seizing the historic Manila Hotel With thousands of civilian supporters and some 300 armed troops.

The efforts collapsed in less than two days after the armed forces rallied behind Mrs Aquino, and hoped-for mass support for the coup never came. Mr Tolentino later said it was just a symbolic act of protest.

Health Minister Alfredo Bengzon, chairman of the six-man committee which prepared the report, could not be reached for comment on the newspaper's account.

Presidential spokesman Alice Villadolid said: "I cannot confirm that. All I can tell you is that the Bengzon committee reported to the president... Thursday evening but decided not to issue a statement to the press."

Asked if the story seemed correct, she said, "I didn't see the report."

The daily said the panel blamed intelligence agencies for failing to forecast the coup attempt and recommended the creation of an intelligence body enjoying the president's confidence and directly under her office.

But Mrs Aquino had created the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency (NICA) and appointed a retired general, Luis Villareal, as its head a day before receiving the Bengzon report.

The committee opted to continue digging into the unknown factors and urged the president to dismantle factions in the military, take "immediate and effective action" against certain coup participants, and monitor the leaders of the attempt, THE CHRONICLE said.

MILITARY OFFERED MONEY, COUP PLOT BASED IN HAWAII

HK180546 Manila THE MANILA TIMES in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] The Marcos loyalists are luring members of the armed forces into joining them in their plan to overthrow the Aquino government by offering huge salaries to those who would defect, sources at the Defense Ministry said yesterday.

The same sources added that the loyalists are expecting a mass defection of military personnel before their forces finally initiate lightning attacks on strategic military camps and communication centers.

The monthly salaries offered to defectors are P5,000 for enlisted personnel; P30,000 for lieutenants; P50,000 for captains, major and light colonels; P100,000 for full colonels, and P200,000 for generals.

The sources said the document recovered by the Defense Ministry enumerating details of the plot was signed by a certain Eddie Figueras. A handwritten letter accompanying the document said the funds for military personnel are available anytime.

Defense sources also told THE MANILA TIMES that Eddie Figueras was once a Manila mayoral candidate. He was also charged and convicted for his involvement in an assassination plot against the former president.

He, however, was pardoned by Marcos and became one of his leading supporters. He is now based in Hawaii, MND [Ministry of National Defense] sources added.

Meanwhile, former Lanao Governor Ali Dimaporo yesterday said the so-called loyalist plot to take over the Aquino government and kidnap top officials "is in reality, a communist plot."

He said he will fight the plotters even if it means losing his life.

Dimaporo also claimed that such a plot, if truly initiated by Marcos loyalists, "is virtually impossible."

CON-COM MEMBERS URGE AQUINO TO CANCEL U.S. TRIP

HK151543 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 15 Aug 86 pp 1, 7

[By Melchor Parale]

[Text] Members of the Constitutional Commission sought yesterday the cancellation of President Aquino's trip to the United States on grounds that the country is still under a revolutionary government.

Those who objected to the U.S. trip, led by human rights lawyer Rene Sarmiento and local goverments committee chairman Jose Nolledo also cited reports about a plan of the so-called Marcos loyalists and former KBL leaders to stage nationwide civil disobedience drive during the President's absence.

"The trip is not only premature but also ill-advised considering that things are not yet normal under the present revolutionary government," Sarmiento, also a leader of cause-oriented groups in the assembly, said.

Sarmiento, until recently a law partner of former Sen Jose W. Diokno, warned that "the government is still in its infant stage to be left alone in this period where everything is still uncertain."

Nolledo said the purpose of Mrs Aquino's U.S. trip can be done through ambassadorial level without exposing the country to dangers.

Nolledo recalled that even when President Aquino was still in the country, her government was already threatened during the infamous Manila Hotel caper.

Mindaluz Quezada, also a cause-oriented Con-Com member, reminded the President that there are more urgent problems awaiting President's action.

Adolfo Azcuna suggested that the President should first wait for the outcome of her visits to Singapore and Indonesia before deciding whether the U.S. trip should be made.

The President will be away for four separate days during her ASEAN trip. Her projected U.S. trip will last at least eight days.

They all pleaded to Mrs Aquino to reconsider her U.S. visit in the light of reports that elements opposed to her government are determined to intensify their activities to destablize her government.

Some Con-Com members, however, disagreed.

Former Labor Minister Blas F. Ople, leader of the Con-Com opposition, said the Aquino government has attained a level of stability to be threatened. He described the reported plan of the Marcos loyalists to intensify the destabilization activities during Mrs Aquino's absence as a "fantasy."

He said Mrs Aquino should pursue her economic recovery mission as an imperative component of the stabilization program.

Vicente Foz, committee on constitutional bodies chairman, shared Ople's view, adding that Gen Fidel V. Ramos, AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] chief of staff, can handle the nation's security requirement even during Mrs Aquino's absence.

Former MP Homobono Adaza was the first to agitate for the cancellation of Mrs Aquino's U.S. trip for security reasons.

MINISTRY THREATENS TO VOID LABOR PACT WITH U.S.

HK151549 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 15 Aug 86

[By Sandra De Jesus]

[Text] The Labor Ministry warned yesterday that unless the US Pacific Command Air Force (PACAF) reverses its decision terminating the services of 200 workers in Wake Island and replacing them with Thais, the Philippine Government might be forced to nullify the RP-US Offshore Labor Agreement (OLA).

OLA governs the recruitment of Filipinos in all US military facilities in the pacific.

The warning was aired by Labor Deputy Minister Rogelio V. Garcia to US Labor Attache James P. Murphy, following reports that even while the layoff issue is still under review by a joint RP-US special committee, the PACAF has reportedly decided to repatriate the first batch of workers from Wake Island within the next few days.

Garcia said if the PACAF decision is not immediately reversed, "It can only reflect negatively on the mutual obligations of the two governments, particularly in guaranteeing the assured and orderly supply of labor in the development and defense of the Pacific."

The workers, who have served in the island since 1947, are also protected by the OLA which embodies the mutual desire of the two governments to promote and maintain sound and equitable recruitment and employment practices. Thus, Garcia said, the layoff has the effect of nullifying the agreement itself which, he said, may not be to the best interest of the United States and the Philippines.

Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez has written President Aquino recommending that immediate negotiations through diplomatic channels be made as a "last-ditch" effort to save the Filipino workers from being displaced.

U.S. SENATOR ARRIVES FOR 3-DAY OFFICIAL VISIT

HK180756 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] U.S. Senator Richard Lugar arrived in Manila today for a 3-day official visit. This is part of his Asia-Pacific tour aimed at demonstrating U.S. interest in the region. He is expected to meet President Aquino, Vice President Salvador Laurel, and Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile. He is to discuss with the president her forthcoming visit to the United States in September. Lugar headed the U.S. delegation sent by the Reagan administration to observe the February elections and reported that the elections were marred with fraud.

RUSSIAN MISSILES SAID POINTED TOWARD U.S. BASES

HK160828 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0800 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Four SS-11 and SS-12 Russian missiles equipped with warheads 1,200 times more powerful than the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima are aimed towards the American military bases in the Philippines. This was revealed by Lean Alejandro, secretary general of Bayan [Bagong Alyansang Makabayan — New Nationalist Alliance], who referred to a report by a well-known physicist on the "Straight from the Shoulder" TV program last Thursday night. However, Alejandro's revelations failed to influence viewers and other guests on the programwho insisted on the maintenance of U.S. military bases.

PRESSENCE OF U.S. BASES COULD PROMPT ATTACK

HK151603 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 15 Aug 86 pp 1, 16

[Text] The Philippines faces a Soviet nuclear attack for allowing continued presence of the American Subic Naval Base and the Clark Air Base here, a visiting Soviet parliamentarian said yesterday.

Aleksey Drugov, a member of the Presidium and holder of a doctorate in Afro-Asian studies, said foreign military bases do not vouch for the host country's security but rather put it in high risk.

Drugov is visiting the Philippines together with Dr Viktor Gorchakov, another Presidium member, under the sponsorship of the Philippine committee on solidarity.

Drugov explained that the Soviet Union will never launch a nuclear attack against a country which does not posses any nuclear weapon.

He said Russia will also refrain from starting a nuclear war, not even against the United States, because of the extensive damage such an encounter could bring to all forms of life.

However, he stressed that if ever a nuclear war starts, Russia cannot assure that it will not attack the Philippines because of the American bases here.

On reported storage of nuclear arms in U.s. military bases, he said the U.S. Government has a standard worldwide policy of neither confirming nor denying such information, "so you can never know what is going on in the bases in your territory."

Drugov also echoed the message delivered by Soviet Premier Mikhail Gorbachev in Vladivostok last July 28 that a withdrawal of U.S. military presence in the Philippines will not go unanswered by the Soviet side.

He said this means Russia is ready to discuss and accept certain obligations so that the U.S. will not feel its security threatened in the region when it leaves the bases in the Philippines.

The Soviet Union is prepared to go to any level to lessen its military presence and armaments all over the world on a reciprocal basis which guarantees balance and security for both sides, he added.

Dr Gorchakov, on the other hand, said that government officials led by Vice President Salvador H. Laurel appeared enthusiastic in developing further relationships between Russia and the Philippines.

He said his government, through the committee on solidarity for Asia and Africa, is willing to expand combined researches and scientific conferences which are being undertaken now in countries like Japan, Vietnam, and Korea.

COLUMNIST ON NBC FILMING OF NPA AMBUSH

HK150301 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 13 Aug 86 p 5

["Political Tidbits" Column by Belinda Olivares-Cunanan: "Where to Draw the Line"]

[Text] Recently a friend of mine who came from abroad told me that he was appalled at having viewed a three-minute NBC Nightly News report on American television about the bloody ambush of a government military unit in Gumaca, Quezon, which resulted in the total wipeout of some 15 soldiers. It seems that all the gory details were documented from start to finish.

Apparently this same film went around the world, as other friends of mine residing in some European capitals also saw it. Their reaction was the same as that of the viewer from the U.S.

My friend from the U.S. said that the showing of the film stirred some controversy there as hundreds of viewers called up the NBC to protest the violence. The story had ended with a look into the truck where the bodies of all the massacred soldiers lay.

Reports indicate that some people even with NBC itself were disturbed by the fact that quite obviously the American freelance photojournalist who filmed it, 37-year old Jon Alpert, had known of the ambush way in advance. The question that disturbed even NBC people was, was the ambush staged for his benefit?

There are some unconfirmed reports circulating even here in Manila, that either Alpert himself or NBC allegedly paid a handsome amount to the rebels to stage the ambush. The amount of 30,000 is being mentioned as fee, except that if could not be determined whether it is in dollars or pesos.

In fact, it appears that the controversy got so hot in the U.S. that Alpert had to show his original, unedited footages to the NBC executives. He said that he had known of the ambush the night before it happened, but denied vehemently that it had been staged for his benefit. He was quoted by an American magazine as saying that "it had been planned for weeks and would have happened regardles of our presence."

It seems that Alpert and a 33-year old colleague, reporter Maryann DeLeo, had lived with the rebels in the mountains for two weeks prior to the ambush, and that the initial contact work took six weeks.

A magazine article that lauded Alpert's "journalistic coup" quoted the much-awarded if sometimes controversial photojournalist as saying that "I was so concentrated on getting the story that I didn't think about being in danger." And that "I was horrified when I saw the truck (where the dead bodies lay), but I kept on filming."

While the Alpert film stirred reactions around the world, however, here only one still photo found its way into the local papers, which was credited to a local photojournalist. But it was enough to make people talk about it and the conclusion most everyone arrived at was that the photographer knew in advance of the ambush. The question on everyone's mind: How was he able to do this?

My friend from America, who brought the news of the controversy was surprised at the non-reaction of the government and the military. He thought it was probably because they did not realize that the documentary had gone around the world.

He said that at the very least the government and the military should have called the photojournalist, or the company that he was representing, the NBC network, to explain the circumstances of his being there, his contacts, his advance knowledge and other pertinent details.

This critic felt that the government should have invoked questions of national security and interests in this case; that the foreign journalist had presumably entered the country as a guest of the Philippine Government, having gotten a visa (unless he cam in through the backdoor). But by showing a film that documents in bloody, gruesome details the ambush of troops of the legitimate government, the critic argued, the journalist was undermining the interests of this government that had allowed him to come in.

It is argued that the State should uphold its interests above being hospitable to foreign journalists, some of whom do not, anyhow, seem to care about its welfare.

In fact my friend would not hesitate to advocate that the NBC network should be disciplined, even to the extent of imposing a ban on its people coming here.

Others would raise moral and ethical questions: If you knew that people are going to be massacred, should you "cooperate"? Some would argue that the government troops represent the "legitimate" forces, as against the rebels. What are the moral implications, then, of showing the legitimate troops being massacred? Is one not aiding or abetting the "Enemy of the State" by propagandizing their gains? Are there nor moral constraints in the journalism profession or is a "scoop" all that matters?

The charge of a pay-off to the rebels does complicate the moral aspect, if it is true. For this would mean buying out the lives of the Filipio soldiers.

Of course there is the other side of the coin. Some journalists would probably argue that they are there to get "all the news all the time," from whichever side they come, and that there are no politics involved in this profession. Moreover, they could argue, if the government were to clamp down on coverage of the opposing forces, wouldn't that constitute censorship, which goes against freedom of expression and of the press, and violates access to information and news?

It could also be argued that journalists are not in the business to decide which side is moral or not.

Both sides do have their own valid arguments. Where does one really draw the line?

This column believes that many journalists would probably behaved the way Alpert did: Get out the story and to hell with the politics of it. Many locals would probably do exactly as Alpert had done. In fact it is obvious that there were Filipino journalists at the ambush scene.

But I feel that we cannot run away from the moral responsibilities of our profession. Moreover, as a Filipino, I feel that the national security and interest dictate that there should be some kind of regulation of such coverage, and that it is up to the Filipinos to do so vis-a-vis the foreign journalists.

The Gumaca incident will not be the last of its kinds, and it is time that both the government and the military establishment come up with definitive policy on this sort of thing. It should begin with an investigation of the Gumaca event, and all its circumstances.

Columnist Corrects Error

HK150329 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 14 Aug 86 p 5

[From "Political Tidbits" column by Belinda Olivares-Cunanan]

[Excerpt] Yesterday we wrote about the coverage of an NPA ambush of a government militay unit by a noted free-lance American photo-journalist, who had a pre-arrangement with the NPAs.

There was one minor error in yesterday's column which should be straightened out: The NPA ambush covered by John Alpert occurred in March in Guinobatan, Albay, and not in Gumaca, Quezon, as we had said. The confusion arose from the fact that an ambush in Gumaca, Quezon, had been covered, also apparently with foreknowledge, by a local photojournalist, on June 30.

Other than this, however, the facts remain correct, and the national security, morality and ethical issues raised valid.

A news item in one local daily recently reported that an NPA commander, who wished to remain unnamed, had stated that the NBC team had paid the NPA ambushers $30,000 to stage the Albay ambush which killed all 15 military men. The source had said that the NBC team had been witness to a site "rehearsal" prior to the ambush.

This column maintains that the government and the military should investigate the circumstances of the ambush, particularly the serious charge of a big pay-off by the American TV network. National interest and plain human decency dictate it. [passage omitted on unrelated topic]

NPA DENIES RESPONSIBILITY FOR 'KILLING FIELDS'

HK120753 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 11 Aug 86 pp 1, 7

[Text] Cagayan De Oro City -- New People's Army leader Saturday confirmed the existence of so-called "killing fields" in Misasmis Oriental, but claimed that many of the victims were killed either by the military or private armies.

Ma Luisa Purcray, alias Commander Meriam of the NPA's Front 12, admitted in a taped statement that there are several such killing fields in Misamis Oriental where the remains of purged NPA members are buried.

However, commander Meriam said that many of the victims were civilians killed by soldiers during military operations.

The amazon also said other civilian victims were those found to have betrayed the rebels cause.

Commander Meriam also denounced the existence of some private armies which she claimed have been responsible for the killing and other atrocities in the hinterlands of this city and Misamis oriental.

However, military authorities here claimed that all those buried in mass graves were NPA members purged from the underground movement and others were uncooperative civilians "salvaged" by the rebels.

Col. Manuel Dizon, 3rd Infantry Brigade chief whose troops operate in areas where most of the mass graves were unearthed, said at least 110 bodies have been exhumed from these grave sites since January this year.

Military intelligence reports, Dizon said, also indicated that no less than 300 armed rebels and supporters have been killed in the on-going purge of the dissidents' ranks dubbed as "operation Zombies."

Military authorities have discovered mass graves in Lugait, Upol, and Claveria towns and in barangay Taglimao, this city.

NPA KILLS HIGH-RANKING COMMANDER, 15 FOLLOWERS

HK120852 Hong Kong AFP in English 0846 GMT 12 Aug 86

[Text] Cagayan de Oro, Philippines, Aug 12 (AFP) -- Communist New People's Army (NPA) guerrillas have executed a high-ranking comrade and 15 followers after he opposed an ongoing purge, a military official said here Tuesday. Vianne Laure, commander of a guerrilla front covering half the southern province of Misamis Oriental near this city, was killed along with 15 NPA men under his command three weeks ago, Colonel Manuel Dizon told reporters. Prior to that, he had been dislodged in a reorganization of the hierarchy after opposing an ongoing campaign to execute suspected government spies among the guerrilla ranks, Col. Dizon added, citing intelligence reports. His comrades interpreted his opposition to "Operation Zombies" as proof that he was a government spy, the colonel said. Col. Dizon had earlier said some 300 NPA members and supporters had been killed by the NPA since the bloody purge began in the north. Authorities have exhumed the bodies of more than 100 former guerrillas and supporters said to have been executed by the NPA on suspicion of being government spies. Mr. Laure's alleged successor, Maria Luisa Porcray, admitted in a taped statement released to the press Sunday that several of the mass graves that had been uncovered contained the remains of NPA members and civilians found to have betrayed the movement. But she also said many of the victims were civilians killed either by the military during operations or by private armies of local warlords. The NPA is the 16,500-strong armed wing of the banned Communist Party of the Philippines.

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 160 19 August 1986

JAPAN

USSR's Kapitsa To Visit Japan 17-19 Aug C 1
Japan, U.S. Open First Round of MOSS Talks C 1
Groups to Rally Against Call by Two U.S. Vessels C 1
Nakasone To Make Final Decision on SDI 2 Sep C 2
    [MAINICHI DAILY NEWS 15 Aug]
Hiroshima Mayor Welcomes Gorbachev Declaration C 2

NORTH KOREA

14 Aug Speeches Mark Liberation Anniversary D 1
    DPRK-USSR Amity Chairman Speaks D 1
    Soviet Charge Speaks D 4

SOUTH KOREA

'Outline' of DJP's Draft Amendment to Constitution E 1
    [THE KOREA TIMES 19 Aug]
NKDP Calls DJP Amendment 'Ploy' To Retain Power E 5
    [THE KOREA TIMES 19 Aug]
DJP Chairman Meets Kim Yong-sam Briefly 18 Aug E 6
    [THE KOREA TIMES 19 Aug]
Japanese Envoy Explains Royal Postponement to Chon E 6
North Said Training Iranian Kamikazes for Gulf War E 7
    [THE KOREA HERALD 16 Aug]
Jan-Jun '86 Import-Export Statistics Outlined E 7
Local Autonomy Planned for Cities, Counties E 8
    [THE KOREA TIMES 10 Aug]

CAMBODIA

Chea Sim, Delegation Leave for USSR, Poland, GDR H 1
Text of 11 Aug CGDK Cabinet Meeting Communique [VONADK] H 1
SRV Regiment Commander Killed in Mondolkiri [VONADK] H 3

THAILAND

Sihanouk Addresses Bangkok Correspondents J 1
    [BANGKOK POST 16 Aug]
    More on Sihanouk Address J 2
    Further on Sihanouk Address J 5
    [BERNAMA 16 Aug]
Phichai Faces No-Confidence Move Within Party J 6
    [BANGKOK POST 18 Aug]
Opposition Parties Form 'Shadow Cabinet' J 7
    [BANGKOK POST 15 Aug]
Sitthi on Foreign Policy; Talks With Laos J 8

VIETNAM

'Text' of Foreign Ministers Conference Communique K 1
  NHAN DAN on Conference K 5
Soviet Official Lauds Conference, Meets Officials K 7
Indonesian Ambassador Gives Reception 17 Aug K 7

PHILIPPINES

Police Make Arrest in Aquino Assassination Plot P 1
  Suspect Denies Knowledge of Plot [AFP] P 1
Enrile Imports 100 Uzi Submachineguns [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 16 Aug] P 1
USSR Not To Replace U.S. Bases if Removed [THE MANILA EVENING POST 15 Aug] P 2
  Editorial on 'Unsolicited Advice' [NEWS HERALD 18 Aug] P 3
U.S. Senator Meets With Aquino 18 Aug P 3
Transport Minister Scores U.S. Airport Charge [AFP] P 3
Aquino's Entourage to Indonesia, Singapore Given [MANILA BULLETIN 16 Aug] P 4
NPA Supports Peace Talks; Muslims Want Talks P 6
  'Hardcore' Members Reject Talks [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 17 Aug] P 6
MNLF To 'Punish' Any Cease-Fire Violators [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 18 Aug] P 7
'Semicolonial, Semifeudal' Constitution Likely [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 9 Aug] P 8
List of Who Wields Influence Under New Regime [MANILA BULLETIN 12 Aug] P 9
Suspect in Rizal Park Killing Arrested P 10

USSR'S KAPITSA TO VISIT JAPAN 27-29 Aug

OW190949 Tokyo KYODO in English 0942 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 19 KYODO -- Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa will visit Tokyo August 27-29 for talks with Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari and other ministry officials, a senior official said Tuesday. The official in the foreign ministry said Kapitsa plans to brief Japanese officials on the details of a speech made July 28 by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in which he touched on the future security in Asia and the Pacific. Japanese officials, he said, expect to discuss bilateral problems as well as the timing and other details of a prospective visit to Japan by Soviet Party Chief Mikhail Gorbachev. The official, who declined to be named, said Japan intends to tell Kapitsa that some parts of Gorbachev's speech indicated an "incorrect understanding of Japan," and to ask Soviet leaders to "correct" their views of Japan. He was partly referring to the phrase that Japan and the Soviet Union need to cooperate in a quiet atmosphere free from past problems.

JAPAN, U.S. OPEN FIRST ROUND OF MOSS TALKS

OW190527 Tokyo KYODO in English 0337 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 19 KYODO -- Japan and the United States Tuesday began three days of trade talks under the MOSS (market-oriented, sector-selective) formula mainly to discuss U.S. access to Japan's telecommunications, electronics and auto parts markets. In Tuesday's session the U.S. and Japanese officials are to review the progress of a bilateral agreement reached last January concerning telecommunications equipment.

Representing Japan at the sub-cabinet talks are Shingeo Sawada, vice minister at the ministry of posts and telecommunications, and Reishi Teshima, deputy foreign minister for international affairs. The U.S. negotiators are headed by Bruce Smart, undersecretary of commerce for international trade. They will discuss ways to expand Japan's imports of U.S. auto parts Wednesday, to be followed by consultations Thursday on electronics equipment.

U.S. and Japanese officials held year-long MOSS talks until January on opening Japan's markets to U.S. telecommunications goods, medical equipment and pharmaceuticals, electronics goods and forest products. They have recently agreed to discuss trade issues concerning transportation items such as auto parts in an expanded MOSS framework.

GROUPS TO RALLY AGAINST CALL BY TWO U.S. VESSELS

OW190035 Naha Radio NHK in Japanese 2210 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Two U.S. naval vessels capable of carrying nuclear weapons are to call at White Beach, a U.S. base in Katsuren-cho on Okinawa, today. The submarine "Tunny" arrived at the beach a short while ago and the cruiser "Long Beach" will arrive very soon. They both are here to replenish supplies and provide rest for crews. The submarine "Tunny" made its appearance offshore just after 0600 [2100 GMT] and is now dropping anchor. The cruiser "Long Beach" is expected to enter port around 0800 [2300 GMT]. The "Tunny" is scheduled to stay at White Beach until 1800 [0900 GMT] today and the "Long Beach" until 1600 [0700 GMT]. The nuclear-powered submarine "Tunny" is capable of carrying nuclear-tipped Tomahawk cruise missiles. This is the first visit to Okinawa for the submarine. The "Long Beach" is also capable of carrying Tomahawk missiles. Their port calls are said to be linked with the scheduled call at Sasebo in Nagasaki Prefecture by the battleship "New Jersey" on 24 August.

Their port calls mark the first visit to Okinawa by nuclear-powered U.S. vessels in more than 5 and 1/2 years. They also represent the 19th such visit since the reversion of Okinawa to Japan. The Okinawa prefectural authorities have been conducting radiological monitoring in waters around White Beach since yesterday evening.

Reformist groups in the prefecture are strongly opposed to the visit of the two nuclear-powered naval vessels. The Okinawa Prefectural Council for Prohibition of A-H bombs, which is affiliated with the JCP, and the Okinawa Prefectural Council Against A-H bombs, which is affiliated with the JCP, are to hold spot rallies separately today to voice their protest of the visit.

NAKASONE TO MAKE FINAL DECISION ON SDI 2 SEP

OW170744 Tokyo MAINICHI DAILY NEWS in English 15 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The Japanese government has decided that participation in Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) research work will not run counter to the 1969 Diet resolution on the peaceful utilization of space, it was learned Thursday.

According to government sources, the government concluded, firstly, that the resolution sets the limit on space development by Japan and does not prevent Japan from joining research under the initiative of the United States.

Secondly, the "peaceful purposes" mentioned in the resolution means non-military purposes. The SDI is a defense weapon aiming at eradication of nuclear arms from the earth. Joining the SDI research will contribute to upgrading non-military technologies.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone will make the final decision on Sept. 2 at a conference of the ministers concerned as to whether Japan will take part in SDI research.

The resolution in question was adopted at the Diet in May 1969 when the National Space Development Agency was inaugurated. The resolution said in part, "Every item that Japan puts into space and the development of rockets must have peaceful purposes."

This has been a guideline for the Japanese research and development of space.

HIROSHIMA MAYOR WELCOMES GORBACHEV DECLARATION

OW190349 Tokyo KYODO in English 0335 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Hiroshima, Aug. 19 KYODO -- Mayor Takeshi Araki of Hiroshima Tuesday released a statement welcoming the Soviet announcement of an extension of its unilateral freeze on nuclear tests until next January 1. The statement said the Soviet extension, though limited until January 1, will help realize Hiroshima citizens' wish for peace. The mayor said in the statement he hopes the Soviet action will lead to the abolition of nuclear weapons. The Soviet UKnion first unilaterally declared its nuclear test moratorium on August 6 last year on the anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima in 1945. The latest extension is the fourth since then.

14 AUG SPEECHES MARK LIBERATION ANNIVERSARY

DPRK-USSR Amity Chairman Speaks

SK190455 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1100 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Speech by Kim Yong-chae, chairman of the Central Committee of the Korea-Soviet Friendship Association and minister of communications, at a meeting held at the People's Palace of Culture in Pyongyang on 14 August to mark the 41st anniversary of the liberation of the fatherland -- portions recorded]

[Text] [Begin Kim recording] Today we greet the 41st anniversary of the liberation of the fatherland under magnificent circumstances in which, together with all the people throughout the country, we are giving new impetus to the struggle to implement the decision of the 11th plenary session of the sixth party Central Committee after receiving, with endless excitement, "the historical experience of founding the WPK," an immortal classic work published by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song. The Japanese imperialists' colonial rule ended in our country 41 years ago, and our people's protracted cause of liberating the fatherland was achieved brilliantly. [applause]

During the period of national suffering when the Japanese imperialists' rule was most dismal, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, having embarked along the road of taking the lead in the revolution, shouldering the destiny of the fatherland and the people, illuminated the bright future path of the Korean revolution and developed the Korean people's anti-Japanese struggle to achieve liberation and the communist movement to a new, higher stage. By leading the Korean People's Revolutionary Army [KPRA] and the patriotic anti-Japanese forces by using profound strategy and tactics, the respected and beloved leader successively dealt serious blows to the Japanese imperialist aggressors and led the Korean revolution along the single road of victory as a whole.

While revering the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-song as the great leader of the revolution and the sun of the people, and while overcoming all difficulties and grim trials under his leadership, KPRA members and the patriotic people drove the Japanese imperialist aggressors into the abyss of defeat by struggling unyieldingly and heroically. While leading the glorious anti-Japanese armed struggle to victory, the great leader Comrade Kinm Il-song developed the brilliant revolutioary tradition -- the everlasting cornerstone of our revolution and the source of the victorious and invincible strength of our party and people -- and laid the organizational and ideological foundation of our party. [applause]

The Korean communists and the KPRA members, who had been indoctrinated and fostered by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, struggled, upholding the banner of proletarian internationalism and protecting with arms the Soviet Union, the first socialist country in the world. Under the leadership of the Lenin party, the Soviet people and army defeated fascist Germany in the great fatherland war and decisively helped defeat the Japanese imperialists by participating in the war against Japan. During the course of waging a joint struggle against the Japanese imperialists, blood ties of friendship were firmly cultivated between the Korean and Soviet people as class brothers and as revolutinary comrades-in-arms. With the 15 August liberation as the momentum, Korea-Soviet friendship embarked along a new road.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: The liberation of our fatherland from the Japanese imperialits' colonial rule was an historic victory which our people attained with the courageous Soviet Army and was an epochal event opening a new era in our people's struggle to achieve self-reliance, independence, and socialism.

Over the past 41 years since liberation, our people, under the wise leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, have vigorously enjoyed days of great change and creation. By successfully performing the revolutionary mission in every stage according to the line and policy set forth by the great leader and by vigorously accelerating socialist construction, our people have established in our country an advanced socialist system free from exploitation and appression and have turned our backward country, over a short period of time, into a powerful socialist country which possesses a strong, self-reliant people's economy, a brilliant national culture, and a self-defense capability. [applause]

Under our party's leadership, the revolution in our country is now tirelessly developing to a new, high stage. Under the banner of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- our people are now vigorously accelerating the struggle to remold man, nature, and society in a communistic way and are effecting a new upsurge in the struggle to occupy the 10 major long-range targets of grand socialist economic construction in the 1980's. With their hearts filled with optimisim over conviction in the future of the fatherland and the revolution, our people are now hastening the complete victory of socialism.

All the victories and successes our people have attained in past revolutionary struggles and construction work are a result of the wise leadership of the WPK Central Committee led by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, as well as a brilliant fruition of the devoted struggle of our people, who have energetically struggled by rallying firmly around the party and leader. [applause] [end recording]

After noting that for our people reunifying the fatherland is so pressing a task that its solution cannot be delayed even for a single day, he said that the biggest obstacle to realizing national reunification at present is that the U.S. imperialists, occupying South Korea by the use of forces, are enforcing colonial rule there. After noting that the WPK and the government of the republic have put forward the most just policies and reasonable proposals to reunify the fatherland by independent and peaceful means, without interference from the outside, and have made every sincere effort possible to realize them, he exposed in detail that, opposed to this, the U.S. imperialists and the puppet have endlessly pursued maneuvers to fabricate two Koreas and provoke a new war.

He then went on to say that the government of the republic has insisted on cohosting of the Olympics between the North and South of Korea in order to rescue the Olympic movement from a crisis, to hold a successful 24th Olympiad, and to create an environment favorable to realizing the reunification of Korea.

He stressed that to ease tension in Korea and to settle the Korean question by peaceful means, the U.S. imperialists should immediately withdraw from South Korea, taking along all weapons of mass destruction, including U.S. troops and nuclear weapons, after abandoning their military occupation of South Korea and their colonial rule there.

He then stated that he was extending deep gratitude to the CPSU and Soviet Government and people for paying, as they have in the past, deep attention to the course of developments in our country and for postively supporting and encouraging our people in their socialist construction and in their just struggle for national reunification.

He continued as follows: [Begin Kim recording] Comrades, under the leadership of the CPSU led by Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev, the Soviet people are now actively struggling to implement the grand programs adopted at the 27th CPSU Congress.

In the Soviet Union tasks designed to accelerate science and technological revolution, to equip the national economy with modern technology, and to promote public welfare according to the CPSU strategic lines to promote the nation's socio-economic development are being carried out successfully. The Soviet Union has been staging a vigorous struggle to accelerate the consummation of socialism and has consistently made efforts to oppose the imperialists' war maneuvers and defend peace and security in the world.

The Soviet party and government has taken measures to unilaterally halt nuclear tests to eliminate the danger of thermonuclear war, put forward initiatives to dismantle nuclear weapons completely before the end of this century, and put forward proposals to utilize space for peaceful purposes on the condition that it be demilitarized and to reduce Soviet and U.S. strategic weapons by 50 percent. It has also put forward proposals for the countries in Asia and the Pacific to make joint efforts in unity to ease tensions not only in Europe, but also in Asia and the Pacific region and to turn this region into a region of peace and cooperation free from nuclear weapons. Considering this a clear expression of the Soviet Union's peace-loving stand to eliminate the danger of nuclear war and preserve and consolidate peace in the world, the Korean people fully support this. [applause]

In recent speech delivered in Vladivostok, Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, advanced various plans and proposals to prevent the strengthening of forces, nuclear forces in particular, in Asia and the Pacific and to guarantee peace and security there; warned of the danger of maneuvers to fabricate the tripartite military alliance between the United States, Japan, and South Korea and to turn South Korea into a forward nuclear base; and expressed supported for the struggle to realize peace on the Korean peninsula and peaceful reunification of the country by our people and our proposal to establish a nuclear-free zone of peace on the Korean peninsula. This greatly encourages our people.

The Korean and Soviet people have formed relations of friendship in the joint struggle against imperialism and for the victory of the socialist and communist cause and have constantly solidified and developed these relations. Today, the great Korean-Soviet friendship marks a time of brilliant flowering. Meeting and talks with the Soviet party and state leaders by great leader Comrade Kim Il-song during his visit to the Soviet Union in May 1984 were an historic event that has upgraded the traditional Korean-Soviet friendship to a new, higher level. [applause]

Today, the relations of friendship and cooperation between Korea and the Soviet Union are being strengthened and developed to a new, higher level in directions that benefit the people of the two countries. Following last year's grand celebrations on the 40th anniversary of the liberation of the fatherland, the people of our two countries last July meaningfully celebrated the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance as a joint, happy event. This shows that the relations of friendship and cooperation between our two countries are further developing with he passage of time.

Endlessly solidifying and developing the Korean-Soviet friendship generation after generation is a unanimous desire and unchanging belief of the people of the two countries. In the future, we will also make every effort to expand and develop on a full scale our relations of friendship and cooperation with the Soviet people in the joint struggle to oppose imperialism and protect peace in Asia and the world, and in the joint struggle for socialism and communism. Long live the invincible fraternal friendship and unity between the Korean and Soviet peoples! [applause]

Soviet Charge Speaks

SK190856 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1100 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Speech by Boris Morozov, Soviet charge d'affaires ad interim to the DPRK, at a 14 August meeting held in the People's Palace of Culture in Pyongyang to mark the 41st anniversary of the fatherland's liberation -- recording in Russian with superimposed Korean translation]

[Text] First I would like to thank you for inviting us to this meeting today marking the 41st anniversary of the liberation of Korea. [applause] This anniversary has special significance in the history of relations between our two fraternal peoples. On 15 August 1945, our struggle against the Japanese militarist forces victoriously came to an end on this Korean peninsula. For victory in this struggle, the officers and men of the Soviet Army, who made a decisive contribution to liberating the people of your country and numerous (? oppressed) people of the world, laid down their lives. The brave Korean patriots who fought vigorously and victoriously under the leadership of Comrade Kim Il-song, were also willing to lay down their lives.

We all remember well the celebrations held last year. These celebrations contributed to Korean-Soviet friendship, which is being strengthened with each passing day. The grand Liberation Tower, which was rebuilt prior to the 40th anniversary of Korean liberation, realistically proves that the Korean people do not forget the Soviet people's internationalist duty.

Fifteen August is a new milestone in the annals of the social reforms in Korea in the modern history of the independent Korean state. The stubborn and devoted efforts of the people have brought about exceptional growth in this land in a short period of time. [applause] With the heroic efforts of the workers, farmers, and working intellectuals and with the material and spirtual support of the socialist cooperative community, the former Japanese colony has been converted into a socialist state with advanced industry and productive agriculture. Impressive successes have been attained in many fields, including those of culture, education, sports, and health during the period of the people's regime.

The Soviet people sincerely wish the Korean friends great success in their struggle to carry out the decisions of the (?Sixth) WPK Congress and to realize reunification of the country, their long-cherished desire, on an independent, peaceful, and democratic basis. [applause]

Comrade, the Soviet people, enthusiastically supporting CPSU policy, are making vigorous efforts to carry out the large-scale action program to advance the country's social and economic development adopted by the 27th CPSU Congress. [end recording] He continued by noting that the Soviet people, upholding the decision of the 27th CPSU Congress, are effecting great successes in the struggle to carry out this decision, and that, in particular, labor productivity is increasing in all fields of the people's economy.

He noted that Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU, in his recent speech in Vladivostok put forward various plans and proposals to prevent an arms buildup, especially the buildup of nuclear arms, in the Asian and Pacific region and to safeguard peace and security in this region. He said that the situation remains tense because the U.S. imperialists are aggravating tension on the Korean peninsula. He then continued: [Begin Morozov recording, superimposed with Korean translation] As reaffirmed in Vladivostok, the Soviet Union actively supports DPRK peace initiatives to alleviate tension on the Korean peninsula and to solve the national problem facing the Korean people. [applause]

As Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev stressed, for the sake of the real interests of Korea there is no good reason whatsoever to turn away from the serious dialogue proposed by the DPRK. We expect that the international meeting on establishing a nuclear-free peace zone on the Korean peninsula, to be held in Pyongyang in September, will be a new contribution to the world people's struggle to prevent the danger of war. [applause]

This meeting will confirm that broad social circles of the world support the Korean people's just struggle. We, the Soviet people are encouraged by the enthusiastic suport of the DPRK for the constructive Soviet proposal to reduce nuclear arms, significantly reduce conventional weapons and arms, and improve the international situation. We regard this support as [word indistinct] of the socialist forces on the world stage. This enables the friendly and cooperative relations among the peoples of the socialist countries to be continuously strengthened and developed.

Dear comrades: I take this opportunity to express our gratitude to the WPK leadership, to you, and to all workers of the DPRK for supporting the line of the Soviet state and the CPSU. [applause]

In the Soviet Union, basic significance is given to developing and completing Soviet-Korean relations. The comradely and mutually advantageous cooperation between the Soviet Union and the DPRK actively helps strengthen security on the Korean peninsula and in the Asian and the Pacific region and solving the task of socialist and communist construction in our two countries.

We note with pleasure and satisfaction that the traditional friendship and cooperation between the peoples of the Soviet Union and Korea are blooming and developing in all fields based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian and socialist internationalism, and that they are characterized by the spirit of investigating new forms in many fields, including the political, economic, trade, cultural, and scientific fields. [applause]

The past 2 years since the unforgettable visit to the Soviet Union of the respected Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the WPK Central Committee and president of the DPRK, has been especially successful in the relations of friendship between us. [applause] This brief period has been filled with milestones of cooperation at present and in the future in all fields in relations between our two countries. New treaties and agreements have been signed; a series of important agreements has been made; and the legal basis for Soviet-Korean relations has been reinforced. These relations have been made firm by the Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. The recent observance of the 25th anniversary of the signing of this treaty manifested the special significance of this treaty in solidifying the relations of alliance between the Soviet Union and Korea and in strengthening security in this region of the world. I express my firm conviction that Soviet-Korean friendship and cooperation will dependably serve the peoples of our two countries in the cause of peace and socialism. [applause]

On this glorious holiday of the 41st anniversary of Korean liberation, I send my congratulations to you and all the workers of the DPRK through you, and wish you new success in the struggle for socialist construction and reunification of the country. [applause] Long live the immortal Soviet-Korean friendship and unity! [applause] [end recording]

'OUTLINE' OF DJP'S DRAFT AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

SK190053 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 19 Aug 86 p 6

["Outline" of DJP's Draft Amendment to the Constitution Announced on 18 August]

[Text] Basic Framework

1. The government shall take the form of a pure parliamentary cabinet system under which the president shall have formal and ceremonial authority, while the prime minister and the cabinet shall hold substantial rights to administer national affairs.

2. The people's right for free choice of government shall be guaranteed by empowering the National Assembly, composed of representatives of the people, to elect the head of government and by providing that the majority of the Cabinet members shall be chosen from among the National Assemblymen.

3. The existence of a dictatorship shall be impossible through the decentralization of power and mutual control among the prime minister, Assembly and the court.

4. General drawbacks of the parliamentary cabinet system shall be remedied by working out institutional devices for national security and political stability, which include, among others, the prevention of the abuse of the government's right to disband the Assembly and of the Assembly's no confidence right against the Cabinet.

5. The people's basic rights shall be guaranteed to the greatest possible extent.

6. The National Assembly shall become the supreme organ through the strengthening of its authority and invigoration of its function.

7. The judiciary section's independence shall be further strengthened since it is the last stronghold for the protection of the people's basic rights and the Constitution.

8. Substantial progress of politics by political parties shall be sought.

9. An epoch-making turning point shall be effected for the realizaton of a happy welfare state by expanding and intensifying the state's duty to improve social welfare conditions.

10. Sound economic order to be harmonized with economic freedom and public welfare and interests shall be established.

General Principles and Basic Rights.

1. The state's protection of the people living abroad shall be strengthened.

2. The restriction of basic rights will be allowed in unavoidable cases, but should be made within the minimum scope.

3. The rights of habeas corpus shall be guaranteed for all citizens arrested.

4. Any detention or arrest of criminal suspects shall be notified to their families.

5. No criminal suspect shall be arrested or detained without being notified of his right to have an attorney and of the reasons for the arrest or detention.

6. Censorship of the press and publication shall be banned.

7. The provision on the ban on double compensation for soldiers and policemen shall be adjusted in a reasonable way.

8. A system for extensive criminal compensation shall be stipulated so that suspects found to be innocent may seek compensation.

9. A new provision to protect victims of crimes in such a way as to provide the state's compensation shall be established.

10. A new provision on the quarantee of a minimum wage shall be established.

11. The right to join in collective action of workers at public enterprises shall be expanded and guaranteed.

12. A new provision on the duty of the state to prevent disease and to promote the guaranteed provision of medical care shall be established.

13. A new provision on the state's duty to formulate policies on the increase in the number of housing units shall be established.

14. A new provision on the protection of rights of scientific technicians shall be established.

15. A new provision on the state's duty to safeguard people from disasters shall be established.

16. A new provision on the state's duty to protect the physically-handicapped and the elderly shall be established.

17. A new provision on the safeguarding of maternity care shall be established.

18. The state shall be made responsible for making efforts to ensure equality between men and women.

19. A new provision on the state's duty to implement policies on the improvement of the social welfare of women and juveniles.

Power Structure

1. The President

1) Status: The president shall represent the Republic of Korea as the symbolic head of state and shall assume formal and ceremonial authority without assuming political responsibilites.

2) Election & Term: The president shall be elected by the National Assembly for a five-year official term and shall be allowed to seek re-election once.

3) Should the president be unable to perform the duties of his office, the National Assembly speaker shall take on the role of the president.

4) The president's authority shall be limited to formal and ceremonial ones such as the giving or receiving of credentials to or from delegates of diplomatic missions, the right to proclaim bills, the right to grant amnesty, the right to disband the Assembly and to take emergency measures at the request of the prime minister.

The president shall have the right to nominate the prime minister and to confirm the election of the prime minister by the Assembly and to appoint a chief justice recommended by the prime minister with the approval of Assembly.

The Government

1) The Cabinet

A. Formation: The Cabinet shall be composed of the prime minister and ministers numbering more than 15 and less than 30, and the majority of ministers shall be chosen from among the assemblymen.

B. The Cabinet shall be granted all substantial administrative rights, enabling it to decide on major state affairs. Affairs that should pass through the Cabinet include basic plans on state affairs, bills, major diplomatic policies, major military issues, emergency measures and martial law, disbandment of the Assembly, amnesty and civil rights restoration and national referendum.

2) The Prime Minister

A. The prime minister shall be elected among National Assemblymen by the National Assembly at the nomination of the president. There shall be no debate on the nomination.

The president shall nominate a candidate recommended by the majority party within five days after the Assembly holds its first meeting.

B. The prime minister shall execute administrative rights at the resolution of the Cabinet as the head of government, and shall assume all political responsibilities.

The prime minister shall have the right to appoint ministers and public officials, to conduct diplomacy, to present bills, to command the armed forces, to proclaim martial law, to take emergency measures and to disband the Assembly.

C. Institutional devices shall be implemented to prevent the premier's abuse of authority. The exercise of the right to dissolve the Assembly shall be restricted on a large scale by making impossible any disbandment for the first two years after the Assembly's inauguration.

In case the premier decides to disband the Assembly, the legislature may challenge the decision and elect a new premier, thereby nullifying disbandment.

The Cabinet session shall become the top decision-making organ, and the premier shall not be given the right to veto bills.

3. The National Assembly

1) The Assembly shall function as a unicameral system for the efficient and swift management of state affairs under the current national circumstances requiring the concentration of all national energies to cope with possible national crises and to achieve economic progress.

2) A proportional system of representation shall be adopted to allow representatives from all walks of life present their diverse political opinions and the special interests of each profession.

3) The term of National Assemblymem will be five years instead of the current four years in order to reduce political and economic losses caused by frequent elections and to help the assemblymen perform their duties faithfully and without haste.

4) The Assembly's authority shall be drastically strengthened and be invigorated to ensure the people's right to choose the goverment directly and to make the Assembly the center of deliberation of all state affairs.

The head of the first opposition party shall be treated with the same respect due to the speaker, enabling the opposition leader to contribute the politics as a spokesman for political parties.

5) The Assembly's right to impeach the president, prime minister and ministers shall be recognized to prevent the abuse of power by the prime minister and ministers.

6) A constructive no-confidence formula shall be adopted for ensuring political stability by making it impossible for the Assembly to pass a no-confidence motion against the prime minister without electing the next prime minister and by prohibiting the filing of a no-confidence motion within two years after the prime minister is elected.

4. The Court

1) The Supreme Court shall be granted the right to review unconstitutionality to help it play its role as the organ to guarantee the faithful observance of the Constitution.

2) The Chief Justice shall be appointed by the president with the approval of the National Assembly, nominated by the prime minister.

3) Justices shall be appointed by the president at the request of the prime minister, by chief justice nominated, and judges shall be appointed by chief justice.

4) The guarantee of the status of judges shall be strengthened, by providing that judges shall be dismissed only through means of impeachment or sentence or imprisonment.

5. Constitutional Committee

1) The Constitution Committee shall be formed with nine members, each three nominated by the prime minister, chief justice and the Assembly.

2) The committee may exercise the right to dissolve an unconstitutional political party and to judge impeachment.

Economy

1. The state shall adjust the economy reasonably for the balanced development of the national economy.

1) Provisions will be established newly to empower the state to curb and adjust the concentration of economic power by monopoly and the abuse of economic power by a small number of people.

The state shall be given the duty to support and foster small and medium industries substantially and to establish a fair trade order.

2) A new provision will be established to make it compulsory for the state to make positive efforts for the promotion of public welfare and interests, and the balanced development of all sectors of the nation.

Amendment of the Constitution

1. An amendment to the Constitution shall be proposed only by a majority of National Assemblymen.

2. An amendment to the Constitution shall be confirmed by the direct judgment of the people.

Others (Interim Provisions)

1. An election of Assemblymen to form a new National Assembly shall be held at least 60 days before a revised Constitution is put into effect.

2. The president shall be elected at least 45 days before the revised Constitution is put into effect, and the prime minister shall be elected at least 30 days before the revised Constitution is put into effect.

NKDP CALLS DJP AMENDMENT 'PLOY' TO RETAIN POWER

SK190043 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 19 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The opposition New Korea Democratic Party denounced yesterday that the draft for constitutional revision being proposed by the ruling Democratic Justice Party, featuring a parliamentary cabinet system, is a ploy to prolong its grip of power.

In a statement, NKDP spokesman Hong Sa-tok said, "The draft amendment of the DJP is designed to prolong its dictatorship, ignoring the people's desires."

He criticized the ruling party of being obsessed with "defeatism" towards a direct popular election of the president which asks for the people's opinion firstand.

Hong noted, "The ruling camp, which suffers from such "defeatism," is confident of staying in power only by winning majority seats of the National Assembly. This proves that there is an undemocratic scheme underlying the parliamentary election system it is seeking to introduce.

He went on, "It is against the spirit of the rival party leaders' earlier agreement to ensure the people's free choice of their own government."

As to the DJP draft's prohibition of the censorship of the press, Hong pointed out that the ruling camp need not wait until the constitutional amendment be finalized to cease its "oppression of the press," if it has a real intention to do so.

DJP CHAIRMAN MEETS KIM YONG-SAM BRIEFLY 18 AUG

SK190108 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 19 Aug 86 P 4

[Text] Ruling DJP chairman No Tae-u and opposition leader Kim Yong-sam met unexpectedly in a reception yesterday evening and they had brief talks in a shower of camera flashes of newsmen.

Their meeting was made at the Press Center building where the Journalists Association of Korea celebrated the 22nd anniversary of its founding. They chatted about constitutional revision.

"You have had a lot of work these days," Kim said.

No replied, "I've heard that you have had lots of trouble. I hope you can manage things as your predecessors did."

It was their first encounter since they met at the funeral of Hong Chin-ki, former chairman of the CHUNGANG [ILBO] daily newspaper, last month.

Kim called upon the No. 2 man of the ruling party to "make efforts to achieve a true democracy."

No also noted, "In our caucus today, some assemblymen recalled that the opposition party had demanded the parliamentary cabinet system during the Yusin period. But now, we want it. This is an irony of history, isn't it?"

He added, "I'd like to have dialogues with anybody, if possible."

Kim said, "The most important thing in democracy is to know the will of the people. I think you will agree." No noted, "A democracy, I think, is a two-way concession."

JAPANESE ENVOY EXPLAINS ROYAL POSTPONEMENT TO CHON

SK190134 Seoul YONHAP in English 0115 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 19 (YONHAP) -- Ryozo Sunobe, former Japanese ambassador to Korea, Monday paid a courtesy call on South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan at Chongwadae, the presidential residence. In a meeting earlier in the day with Foreign Minister Yi Won-kyong at Yi's office. Sunobe explained the Japanese Government's decision to postpone a visit here by Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko, originally scheduled for this fall. Sunobe came here as a special envoy for Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone. He will return to Japan on Tuesday, winding up a three-day visit.

NORTH SAID TRAINING IRANIAN KAMIKAZES FOR GULF WAR

SK160022 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 16 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Seoul (Naewoe) -- Iranian air force pilots are undergoing a "special air attack training" in North Korea with utmost secrecy, an informed source said yesterday.

The training, which is being conducted in Wonsan, is designed to teach the pilots on the "kamikaze-style" air attack or a suicidal crash on a target in the war against Iraq, the source revealed.

The number of Iranian pilots undergoing the training was not available, because both North Korea and Iran have kept mum, the source added.

JAN-JUN '86 IMPORT-EXPORT STATISTICS OUTLINED

SK110436 Seoul YONHAP in English 0421 GMT 11 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 11 (YONHAP) -- Ten countries accounted for 76.8 percent (12.6 billion U.S. dollars) of South Korea's exports in the first half of this year, the Korea Traders Association (KTA) reported Monday. Korea exported 13.3 billion dollars worth of products in the first six months.

The United States topped the list of the 10 major exporting countries (39.1 percent, 6.4 billion dollars), followed by Japan (13.9 percent, 2.3 billion dollars) and Hong Kong (5.4 percent, 893.9 million dollars. Also among the top 10 were Canada, West Germany, Saudi Arabia, Britain, Panama, Singapore and Norway, according to a KTA analysis of Korea's external trade performance in the January-June period.

The first-half exports were led by textiles (24.1 percent, 4 billion dollars), electronics (17.3 percent, 2.8 billion dollars) and ships and floating structures (10.1 percent, 1.7 billion dollars). Also among the top 10 export items were steel products (6.7 percent, 1.1 billion dollars), footwear (6.1 percent 993 million dollars), automobiles and auto parts (4.3 percent, 705 million dollars), machinery (3.8 percent, 619 million dollars), marine products (3.5 percent, 580 million dollars), electric products (2.6 percent, 430 million dollars) and synthetic fiber products (2.6 percent, 424 million dollars). The exportation of these 10 major items totaled 13.3 billion dollars, accounting for 81 percent of Korea's total exports, compared with 80.4 percent last year.

Reflecting the appreciation of the Japanese yen, electronics jumped from third place on the 1985 list to second place this year. Automobiles and auto parts also went from eighth place last year to sixth place this year. Automobiles and auto parts recorded the highest growth rate (135.2 percent), followed by paper products (116.2 percent), machinery (70.8 percent) and electronics (42.1 percent).

Crude oil, which last year topped the list of import items, relinquished that position to industrial machinery, whose imports in the six-month period totaled 2.4 billion dollars, representing 15.2 percent of Korea's total imports. The importation of electric products and parts exceeded 1.8 billion dollars, accounting for 11.2 percent of the total imports, followed by crude oil, representing 12.5 percent.

The list of top 10 import items also included ships and floating structures (5.6 percent, 908.1 million dollars), chemicals (5.2 percent, 843.7 million dollars), textiles (5.2 percent, 837.9 million dollars), steel products (5.1 percent, 816.1 million dollars), coal (3.2 percent, 512.4 million dollars), optical, medical and measuring apparatuses (2.6 percent, 425.9 million dollars) and food grains (2.6 percent, 424.8 million dollars). The importation of these 10 major items totaled 11 billion dollars, representing 68.4 percent of the total imports.

In the six-month period, Korea sustained trade deficits with 32 countries and recorded surpluses with 52 nations. Korea's trade deficits with Asian countries totaled 2.7 billion dollars on a customs clearance basis, according to the KTA report.

LOCAL AUTONOMY PLANNED FOR CITIES, COUNTIES

SK100033 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 10 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The local autonomy system will be put into practice in all counties and cities nationwide although its implementation will be waived in provinces.

The four "special cities" of Seoul, Pusan, Inchon, and Taegu, and Kwangju which will be elevated to "special city" status in November, will also be subject to the enforcement of the local self-rule.

The local assemblies will be formed in all cities and counties throughout the country during the first half of next year.

The decision to that effect was made in a high-level joint consultation between the officials of the administration and the ruling Democratic Justice Party [DJP] yesterday.

Prime Minister No Sin-yong and DJP chairman No Tae-u attended the meeting.

The party and the administration also agreed to ban the political parties from participating in the local assembly elections.

In the 100-minute session, the administration asserted that the local autonomy system should be implemented first in the five special cities and nine provinces, while the ruling party maintained that it should start from all small cities and counties, a ranking government official said.

Party sources said that lower-echelon administrative districts in special cities such as "ku" will be excluded from the implementation of the autonomy system.

As for the timing of the local self-rule enforcement, the ruling camp reaffirmed that it will go ahead with the plan to implement the local autonomy system during the first half of next year.

Rep. Ko Kon of the DJP told reporters that the ruling camp reflected the public opinion advanced in the public hearings in 13 major cities across the nation last month.

A majority of people claimed in the public hearings that political parties should be banned from participating in the local assembly elections and the local self-rule should start from small cities and counties across the nation.

The party and the administration also agreed that the heads of local administration will be appointed by the central government for several years after the implementation of the autonomy system.

After the party-administration meeting, Rep. Ko, who is the DJP's chairman of the panel for research of the local autonomy system, noted the necessity of the reform of the local administrative structure following the implementation of the local self-rule system.

He went on that the Home Ministry set aside 480 billion won for the expenditure required for the implementation of the local autonomy system.

The Government Administration Ministry is consulting with the relevant ministries to delegate as many administrative affairs as possible to the provincial administrations, Ko told reporters.

The government plans to transfer the national tax on the sale of cigarettes and telephones to local taxes.

The ruling camp will finalize a draft plan on the local autonomy system in a consultation late this month.

CHEA SIM, DELEGATION LEAVE FOR USSR, POLAND, GDR

BK181312 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1120 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 18 -- A high level delegation of the National Assembly of the People's Republic of Kampuchea left here this morning on an official friendship visit to the Soviet Union, the Polish People's Republic [PPR] and the German Democratic Republic.

The delegation, led by National Assembly Chairman Chea Sim, who is also Politburo member of the People's Revolutionary Party of Kampuchea Central Committee and chairman of the National Council of the United Front for Construction and Defence of the Kampuchean Fatherland, was seen off at Pochentong Airport by Say Phuthang, Politburo member of the party Central Committee and president of its Council; Bou Thang, Politburo member of the party Central Committee, vice premier and defence minister; Chea Soth, Politburo member of the party Central Committee, vice premier and minister of planning; Men Sam-an, Politburo member of the party Central Committee and president of its commission for organization; Nu Beng and venerable Tep Vong, National Assembly vice-chairmen; and others.

Also present on the occasion were G.D.R. Ambassador Rolf Doch, Polish Ambassador Ludwik Klockowski, Soviet Charge d'Affaires A.I. Igor Ognetov and Vietnamese Charge d'Affaires A.I. Nguyen Anh Kieu.

Chairman Chea Sim and his delegation will be guests of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., the S.E.J.M. [parliament] of the P.P.R. and the People's Chamber of the G.D.R.

TEXT OF 11 AUG CGDK CABINET MEETING COMMUNIQUE

BK160158 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 15 Aug 86

["Full Text" of the communique issued by the annual CGDK Council of Ministers meeting held in a "liberated zone inside Cambodia" on 11 August -- read by announcer]

[Text] 1. A meeting of the Council of Ministers of the CGDK was held on 11 August 1986 in a liberated zone inside Cambodia under the august chairmanship of Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of Democratic Kampuchea, and attended by His Excellency Khieu Samphan, vice president of Democratic Kampuchea in charge of foreign affairs, His Excellency Im Chhudet, representative of Prime Minister Son Sann; and several other ministers of the CGDK.

The meeting proceeded in an atmosphere of solidarity, unity, warmth, and cordiality.

2. The Cabinet of the CGDK examined and discussed all aspects of the situation of our struggle during the period from the 8th dry season to the present, and noted with satisfaction the following points of particular development:

a. The resistance forces of our three sides continued successfully to advance in attacking the Vietnamese enemy more deeply everywhere in the interior of the country; particularly in the Tonle Sap Lake region and even in the zone surrounding Phnom Penh.

b. We regularly conducted activities around Phnom Penh and important provincial capitals and townships, such as Battambang, Moung, Pursat, Kompong Thom, Siem Reap, and Kompong Speu.

c. The armed forces of the three factions of the CGDK have more and more closely cooperated with each other in attacking the Vietnamese enemy aggressors and in assisting each other everywhere, such as in Battambang, Pursat, Oddar Meanchey, Siem Reap, and Kompong Thom Provinces.

d. Cambodian people and Khmer soldiers and village and commune administrative agents forcibly drafted into service by the Vietnamese enemy aggressors have more actively participated in the national liberation struggle along with our tripartite National Army, enabling our national liberation resistance forces to develop and grow steadily.

3. The Cabinet pledged to further enhance the situation, especially to strengthen cooperation among the three forces of the CGDK and consoidate the great national union both inside and outside the country within the struggle until Vietnam agrees to hold talks with the tripartite CGDK and to withdraw its aggressive forces from Cambodia.

4. The Cabinet would like to appeal to the Vietnamese leadership to reconsider its position regarding the CGDK's eight-point peace proposal. The Vietnamese leaders must clearly realize that the root cause of their serious difficulties in Vietnam stems from Vietnam's aggression against Cambodia. So long as the Vietnamese leaders refuse to settle the problem politically by withdrawing all their aggressive troops from Cambodia, they will never be able to extricate themselves from their serious predicament in Vietnam. On the contrary, they will continue to be worn and tired out both on the battlefield of aggression in Cambodia and in Vietnam and to become more utterly isolated in the world.

5. The Cabinet would like to once again express thanks to all friends in the world for supporting the Cambodian people's struggle, particularly for supporting the CGDK's eight-point peace proposal.

The Cabinet appeals to the world community to continue supporting this eight-point peace proposal to force Vietnam to agree to negotiate with the tripartite CGDK to settle the Cambodian problem politically, so Cambodia can once again enjoy peace and happiness and so peace, happiness, and stability can be guaranteed in Southeast Asia and the Asia-Pacific region.

6. The Cabinet would like to praise our compatriots both inside and outside the country for almost unanimously supporting the CGDK's eight-point peace proposal. After the prominent representatives of the three factions of the CGDK had applied their signatures and the samdech president of Democratic Kampuchea solemnly publicized it to the whole world, the world enthusiastically and vigorously supported this eight-point peace proposal as a charter of our nation for the present and the future after Vietnam pulls out of Cambodia.

All of us vow to spare no efforts to overcome all obstacles to turn this charter of our nation into a concrete force both at home and abroad pushing for the political settlement of the Cambodian problem according to the sacred aspirations of our people and nation in line with the UN resolutions without any external interference and calling for Vietnam to withdraw all its aggressive forces from Cambodia and to respect the Cambodia people's right to self-determination.

All of us pledge to spare no efforts to make Cambodia in the future an independent, united, peaceful, neutral, and nonaligned Cambodia within the great national union and national reconciliation among all Cambodians with Samdech Norodom Sihanouk as the president.

7. In conclusion, the Cabinet would like to express solemn praise to all fighting forces, combatants, and female combatants who are braving all obstacles in the valiant struggle agianst the Vietnamese enemy aggressors and who have won one satisfactory victory after another.

The Cabinet of the CGDK would like to warmly praise our people and the fraternal Khmer soldiers and village and commune administrative agents forcibly drafted into service by the Vietnamese enemy aggressors who, with a lofty sense of patriotism, have joined with the forces of the tripartite CGDK in attacking the Vietnamese enemy aggressors. Please, continue to hold aloft your banner of patriotism and join with our CGDK forces in more vigorously attacking the Vietnamese enemy aggressors.

Democratic Kampuchea, 11 August 1986

SRV REGIMENT COMMANDER KILLED IN MONDOLKIRI

BK190404 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 18 Aug 86

[From the 'Report from Various Battlefields" Feature]

[Excerpt] Mondolkiri Battlefield: On 10 August, our national army launched a commando attack against a Vietnamese regiment position at (?Ok Taok). After 15 minutes of fighting, we totally smashed this position. We killed 15 Vietnamese enemies, including a regiment commander, 2 battalion commanders, a company commander, 2 platoon commanders, and a Vietnamese provincial expert; wounded 17 others; destroyed a 12.7 mm gun, 1 b-41, 1 m-79, a 15 watt telegraph set, a rice warehouse, 32 military barracks, and some war materiel; and seized a quantity of war materiel. [passage omitted]

SIHANOUK ADDRESSES BANGKOK CORRESPONDENTS

BK160107 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] Diplomatic observers are making a mistake if they think the new Vietnamese leadership will be more reasonable and flexible over the Kampuchean issue, President of the Khmer resistance Prince Norodom Sihanouk said last night.

Speaking at a dinner held in his honour and sponsored by the foreign Correspondents Club of Thailand and the Reporters Association of Thailand, Prince Sihanouk said he would not make any more proposals to solve the conflict.

"Certain observers imagine, mistakenly in my view, that with the gradual disappearance of elderly leaders the new generation of Vietnamese leaders will be more reasonable.

"That is to know rather badly this generation to which belongs the famous, and apparently charming Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach," he said.

"The leaders of tomorrow are young wolves with long teeth, far from being choir boys full of goodwill."

"Thach for instance is more arrogant than his venerable elders."

Prince Sihanouk said Mr Thach has said the Vietnamese "have the whole cake (Kampuchea). Why should we cut it in four and give three slices to those rebels, Sihanouk, Son Sann and Khieu Samphan?"

He also advised countries not to yield to the charm of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. "I do not think Gorbachev's assumption of power should prompt us to yield to his charm. Only his wife seems really very charming," said the prince.

"The shameless attitude of the Soviet Union regarding the Kampuchean issue is reflected very faithfully in recent remarks by Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa who said, 'Sihanouk will never return to Kampuchea," he said.

"Thus the Soviet Union, like Vietnam, considers Kampuchea to be a permanant colony deprived of the right to liberate itself."

Prince Sihanouk described as "naive" those who think that Vietnam, because of its great economic difficulties and international isolation, will have to renounce its colonialism in Kampuchea.

"Also naive are people who believe the Soviet Union will one day get tired of financing the Vietnamese occupation of my country," he said.

"Vietnam is in Laos and Kampuchea forever because that is in accordance with the expansionist and colonialist tradition of North Vietnam."

The prince said that last year he had pleaded for the adoption by the resistance and governments supporting the resistance, for new proposals and even concessions to offer the Vietnamese.

"Today I think our coalition government and our great supporters, ASEAN and China notably, have gone far enough in the way of conciliation and of peace.

"At the end of this, in effect, we will find nothing but contempt and new rebuffs from the adverse camp. Personally I renounce to go any further," he added.

Prince Sihanouk said he considers the eight-point peace proposal as the best possible foundation from which countries interested in Kampuchea can set out fruitfully in the search for a peaceful solution.

"I would be very surprised if the government I have the honor to preside over can go any further in the way of conciliation -- unless it is decided, something that is completely ruled out, to capitulate and to offer our country to the occupier on a silver plate.

"Allow me to say to you, that even on a personal basis, I will no longer formulate any proposals or suggestions to facilitate a solution to our problem."

Although he reiterated that he is not optimistic about the outcome of the resistance's struggle, he said that the Vietnamese are quite mistaken if they think the "old Sihanouk" is tired or discouraged.

"This is a profound illusion," Prince Sihanouk declared, adding, "winning or losing, it is my duty as a Khmer patriot, the traditional leader of my people, to continue as long as I live side by side with other Khmer patriots, our sacred struggle against the invader and occupier, no matter who he may be."

More on Sihanouk Address

BK181344 Bangkok Domestic Service in English 0000 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Feature: "Bangkok AM Special Report"]

[Text] His Royal Highness Prince Norodom Sihanouk, president of the Democratic Kampuchea, on Friday 15 August, talked to members of the press at a dinner hosted by the Foreign Correspondents' club of Thailand at the Oriental Hotel's Grand Ballroom. He first made his presentation, rather sympathetic summary of his country's and his people's fate and ordeal.

[Begin Sihanouk recording] Allow me at the outset to present my warm thanks to your distinguished president, Mr Paul Wedel, to Mr Phaisan Sicharatchanya, chairman of the professional committee, and to the eminent Thai and foreign personalities, who sponsor this evening's gathering, and have masterly organized it in the superb surroundings of the Oriental Hotel. I would like to assure you, Mr President, of my sincere gratitude for the very friendly welcoming words you have just pronounced. I am deeply touched to acknowledge the presence in this numberous audience, apart from many many distinguished journalists, of scientists, university professors, diplomats whose presence bears testimony to the interest, the sympathy, and the support which they nobly grant to the Khmer people, the most unfortunate on earth, and to the Khmer resistance which struggles against the Vietnamese aggressors, occupiers, and colonizers. These personalities show, at the same time -- I take the liberty of believing -- their sympathy and friendship towards me.

May I be allowed to pay a particular tribute to the Thai press which has revealed itself to be the best informed with regard to the Cambodian problem, and the situation prevailing in my country. This press, written and spoken, has rendered, and continues to render, immense services to my country by making it known in detail, with comprehension and objectivity, the Khmer question, in order that ASEAN Asian and world opinion do not forget the drama that we Khmer live. Our calls have always found in you convinced defenders. Allow me to thank you very cordially.

The foreign press, the international press, through her distinguished representatives in Bangkok, deserves all our esteem. She represents, as it is normal, very different opinions and interests, but she carries on her profession -- which is not easy -- with much consciousness. She is assisted, as far as Cambodia is concerned, by the fact that the military developments take place nearby, and that press statements or communiques from the different Khmer or Thai information services are regularly addressed to her. I salute here these professionals whose cables and articles reach the whole world.

Ladies and Gentlemen. As you know, I predicted long ago that the expansionist and colonialist ambitions of Vietnam as well as its deep-seated bellicosity, together with the aims and strategic interests of the Soviet Union in Indochina and Southeast Asia, were accordingly elements which made very difficult, if not impossible, the hope to get us soon out of the current political impasse. Last year, in my expose to the Press Club of Bangkok, I made you aware of my very serious fear in this regard. I cannot but repeat them today, and I hope you would render me justice by accepting that my pessimism originated from an objective analysis of the situation prevailing in Cambodia. We collide with an unwieldy situation, which is the real nature of Vietnam and the Soviet Union, two countries which it is impossible to try to persuade by appealing to goodwill, or even -- and this is more serious -- to what we consider to be their own interests. Thus today, as probably tomorrow, it will be impossible for us to find a solution to the only problem worthy of interest to us all -- the independence, the peace, and the wellbeing of the Khmer people, victims of Vietnamese arrogance and of the cold ambition of the Soviet Union toward the people located at the borders of its empire.

Despite the categorical rejection and without any examinations of our latest peace plan, the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea's 8-point proposal, intended to facilitate a peaceful political settlement of the Cambodian problem, it would neither be just or realistic to believe that it was useless and should be interpreted as new proof of the Cambodian resistance's weakness towards Vietnam. Some people have pointed out that our government had consented to so-called considerable concessions to the profit of an arrogant and intransigent adversary, such as the withdrawal in two phases of the Vietnamese forces of occupation, the conclusion of ceasefire, the formation of a quadripartite government -- Our coalition went as far as accepting within itself the enemies' collaborators, something which was not done following the Second World War by the French or Yugoslav resistances, etc.

If I had advocated and obtained, not without pain, the agreement of my coalition partners to offer such a flexibility or some apparent concessions susceptible of being misunderstood by our friends, it was not certainly because I was so naive to believe, or even hope, that the Vietnamese and their creatures of Phnom Penh would be susceptible of no longer refusing systematically the principle of negotiation or of an international conference.

As many of you are well aware, my great friend, the People's Republic of China, and the Party of Democratic Kampuchea, also known as the Khmer Rouge, were for a long time extremely unwilling to my suggestions to show ourselves reasonable and flexible, whose aim was not but to draw toward our camp the sympathy and the support of the international community, and to place our adversaries, Vietnamese and allies, in more and more uncomfortable and unpopular political and diplomatic position at the international level.

That was not a Machiavellian maneuvre. If Vietnam had, by miracle, accepted my proposal, well then, so much the better, as we would have been drawn towards peace. I was intimately convinced of the contrary, but you never know. If in March this year, the People's Republic of China, the party of Democratic Kampuchea, and some other friendly countries finally decided to accept and support my idea, it was because I had been sucessful in convincing them that even if we went as far as to the extreme possible and reasonable limit, the Vietnamese and their servants would continue definitely to put up a categorical and arrogant no to us, and that is what happened.

What is the interest then of our 8-point proposal? Quite simply -- to bring to the whole world proof of the Vietnamese complete refusal to negotiate even in the most advantageous conditions for them. We have ascertained that an impressive number of heads of state and government and ministers of foreign affairs of friendly countries have spontaneously applauded our new proposal recognizing the fact that it gives evidence of a commendable willingness and that they could form a realistic foundation on which a project of settlement to our problem would begin. The international community, hence, has not considered our proposals as a sign of weakness, but it has sympathized more closely with us.

The moral condemnation by this community of Vietnam and its collaborators of Phnom Penh will thus increase even more the pressure being already applied by Hanoi in order to induce it to modify its perfectly unreasonable attitude. It will constitute an important trump in our struggle to recover justice, independence, and freedom for Cambodia and her people. [break in recording]

I consider that the last proposal of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea in eight points constitutes already the best possible foundation from which the countries interested in Cambodia can set out fruitfully in the search for a peaceful solution, equitable, and beneficial for the whole world of our problem. I would be very surprised if the government I have the honor to preside can go any further on the way of conciliation unless it decided something that is completely ruled out -- to capitulate and to offer our country to the occupier on a silver plate.

Allow me to say to you that even on a personal basis, I will no longer formulate any proposals or suggestions to facilitate a solution to our problem. In order that a solution can be found to the current impasse, it would be necessary that a minimum of goodwill or respect for the United Nations' Charter and for the search of peace exist on the other side. If this willingness does exist only in our side, if our closest friend, the People's Republic of China, which in a still very recent part, appeared to me as a little too rigid in her approach to the Vietnamese problem, Vietnamese-Cambodian problem, does not receive in return but provocations and contempt, it would be harmful to our armed struggle to appear still weaken [as heard] towards the enemies who make mockery of our attitude too conciliatory.

As you have understood, as I have told you many times, I am not at all optimistic of the outcome of an unequal struggle, but I affirm that the enemies of my homeland are quite mistaken if they think that the old Sihanouk, le vieux Sihanouk, is tired or discouraged, that would be a profound illusion.

Winning or losing, it is my duty as a Khmer patriot, the traditional leader of my people, to continue as long as I live, side by side with the other Khmer patriots, our sacred struggle against the invaders and occupiers, no matter who he may be, of my country. [end recording]

Further on Sihanouk Address

BK160452 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0350 GMT 16 Aug 86

[By L.D. Baptist]

[Text] Bangkok, Aug. 16 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- The United States could play a bigger role in helping toward achieving a peaceful solution in Kampuchea by persuading the Soviet Union and Vietnam to soften their stand on the issue, Kampuchean resistance coalition leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk said last night.

He also called on the United States not to reject the Khmer Rouge and to accept the formation of a quadripartite government composed of the three resistance factions and the pro-Hanoi Heng Samrin regime once Vietnam agreed to withdraw its troops from Kampuchea.

He saw the formation of a quadripartite government in Kampuchea as the reasonable solution which would satisfy all sides interested in the problem -- China, the Soviet Union, Vietnam and the free world.

Addressing the Foreign Correspondents' Club of Thailand, Prince Sihanouk said China had been trying without success to persuade Moscow and Hanoi to soften their tough stand on Kampuchea by indicating to Vietnam that it could expect Chinese aid to rehabilitate its deteriorating economy.

Indicating that Washington could provide aid to Vietnam if it abided by the UN resolutions on Kampuchea, he added that the United States "being a rich and influential power" could also try to bring about a settlement of the conflict through its negotiations with Hanoi on the issue of US servicemen Missing in Action (MIA) during the Vietnam war.

"In dealing with Moscow, I think, the US could also try, as China is trying hard, to persuade Russia to soften the tough stand of Vietnam on Kampuchea and to accept the formation of a quadripartite government," he said.

The United States, which provides humanitarian aid to the two non-communist factions of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, headed by Prince Sihanouk, and votes for the ASEAN-sponsored UN resolution of Kampuchea annually, has made it clear that it would not normalise relations with Hanoi unless Vietnamese troops leave Kampuchea.

Although it follows ASEAN's lead on the Kampuchean issue, Washington does not recognise the Khmer Rouge, responsible for the brutal rule in Kampuchea from 1975 to 1978 when it was ousted by Vietnam's invasion and installation of the Heng Samrin government in Phnom Penh.

In calling on the US not to reject the Khmer Rouge, Prince Sihanouk, who lost five children and 14 grand-children during their rule, spoke of the need to be realistic.

He said a quadripartite government in Phnom Pehn with the participation of the Khmer Rouge and the Heng Samrin regime would satisfy the interests of all parties concerned.

The Khmer rouge would represent the interests of China, Heng Samrin's group those of the Soviet Union and Vietnam and the non-communist factions represented the free world.

Prince Sihanouk said that the Khmer Rouge could not be eliminated because to do so would be to destroy the coalition, recognised by the UN as the legitimate Government of Kampuchea.

This would enable Vietnam to say that there was no longer a problem and therefore no reason for the UN to discuss the question of Kampuchea as well as give the Phnom Penh government the opportunity to claim the Kampuchean seat in the UN.

Prince Sihanouk said that China's recent suggestion to reduce the strength of the Khmer Rouge to the level of its coalition partners when Vietnam withdrew from Kampuchea, was a compromise to assure the Western world that it would not pose a threat to its partners and the Kampuchean people since both China and the Khmer Rouge had rejected his idea to disarm all Khmer factions, including the Heng Samrin forces.

He said the Khmer Rouge presence was the main pretext for Vietnam to remain in Kampuchea in its self-claimed role to protect the Kampuchean people.

PHICHAI FACES NO-CONFIDENCE MOVE WITHIN PARTY

BK180257 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 18 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Dissidents belonging to the Democrat Party's southern factions are planning a no-confidence move against party leader Phichai Rattakun over his handling of the party's nomination of Cabinet ministers, sources said.

They said that southern MPs Den Tomina (Pattani) and Samphan Thongsamak (Nakhon Si Thammarat) were suspicious over what might have transpired at a private meeting with Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon at the latter's Sisao Thewet residence on Sunday August 10 -- a day before the announcement of the cabinet list.

The sources said the morning after the meeting, party MPs and executive members began a heated debate to decide whether the party should join or opt out of the coalition government.

The meeting ended in favour of joining the coalition, said the sources, adding that the meeting was also told by party spokeswoman Supatra Masdit that the list of Democrat candidates for cabinet ministers had not been submitted to the prime minister.

But the sources claimed that the list had already been given to the prime minister by Mr Phichai without the knowledge of many MPs.

The sources added that dissident MPs who were not appointed began to ask how many potential candidates for the 16 cabinet posts were contained in the list submitted to Gen Prem by Mr Phichai.

The party resolved to submit the names of 25 nominees.

In Pattani on Saturday, hundreds of Mr Den's supporters gathered outside his Muang District house to urge him to leave the party to protest the party's reversal of a pledge to appoint the MP to the cabinet.

Son of widely respected religious teacher Hayi Surong and a four-time MP, Mr Den says he was promised by party Secretary-General Wira Musikaphong that he would receive a cabinet post if he could deliver five out of eight parliamentary seats in the three southernmost provinces to the party.

Mr Den said his Muslim supporters felt that they had been cheated and they wanted him to resign from the party.

But he said he had told his supporters to be patient, explaining that he needed time to think the matter over.

He added he was trying to find out if Mr Phichai had submitted a list of 26 potential candidates to the prime minister as agreed by the party.

"If the party leader actually handed in 16 names to the prime minister, then it is clear that he was not being sincere to us Muslim MPs. If this is true, then I will ask for a no-confidence debate against him in the party," said Mr Den.

Asked whether he would accept an offer for him to become a secretary to Mr Phichai, Mr Den said he would first have to consult with the other Muslim MPs.

OPPOSITION PARTIES FORM 'SHADOW CABINET'

BK150143 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 15 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The non-coalition parties will coordinate efforts to monitor the government's activities, Prachakon Thai leader Samak Suntharawet said yesterday.

The former communications minister said the opposition party leaders would assume the role of shadow ministers with each having different areas of responsibility.

Ruam Thai leader Narong Wongwan has been assigned agricultural affairs; Bunchu Rotchansathian of the Community Action Party, finance; UDP leader Buntheng Thongsawat, justice; Progressive leader Uthai Phimchaichon, local administration; and Mr Samek, communications.

The non-coalition parties would meet on Wednesdays to coordinate efforts in Parliament to prevent internal conflict, he said.

Mr Uthai said the parties with less than 10 MPs -- the Progressives (nine), Muan Chon (three), National Democracy (three), and New Force, Puang Chon Chao Thai, Liberal, and Democratic Labour (one each) -- agreed yesterday to combine with him as the coordinator.

The group, said Mr Uthai would coordinate their efforts through him with the UDP (38), CAP (15), Prachakon Thai (24) and Ruam Thai (19).

Mr Uthai said the combined 115 MPs would be enough to form an effective opposition to challenge the government's administration. The opposition group will hold separate meetings and the party leaders would meet on the eve of the Thursday House meetings to coordinate strategy.

Parties and MPs will be given responsibility for areas in which they are familiar in order to maximise their effectiveness and prevent repetition.

The opposition would probably not form a shadow cabinet, said Mr Uthai, because MPs will be given special responsibilities.

Mr Piyanat, the Ruam Thai secretary-general, said representatives from each party will coordinate focus on matters of public consequence, and not just opposing everything because they are the opposition.

Sitthi on Foreign Policy; Talks With Laos

BK151520 Bangkok Television Service in Thai 1300 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila said that foreign policy will stress expansion of foreign markets and pursuance of economic, commercial, and political cooperation with other countries.

[Begin recording] [Sitthi] We will cooperate with ASEAN countries in holding the summit meeting next year. Together with ASEAN members, we will fight against trade protectionism. Regarding the economy, we will not limit ourselves to cooperating only with certain countries but will cooperate with any country in order to expand markets for our exports and strive for mutual cooperation. In the political arena, there will be little change in policy. Concerning the Cambodian issue, we will not make any new proposals other than what has already been made. We will leave it to the CGDK to negotiate with Vietnam for the Vietnamese pullout. We will abide by UN resolutions and will follow up what we have already proposed. We hope that the new Vietnamese leader will consider the matter favorably.

[Unidentified reporter] There has been criticism that with your continuing as foreign minister, the Indochina problem will be exacerbated.

[Sitthi] No, it should rather be the opposite. They have sent messages expressing their desire to reach a settlement with us. Laos sent a message yesterday saying that it agrees to hold talks with us at the local level. It did not continue to insist on government level talks. I told our officials to reply to Laos that we are willing to discuss trade or any other matter. I have instructed that contacts be established between our provincial governors and Lao provincial chiefs so that trade and friendly relations between people can resume and the atmosphere be improved. There has been an indication of change on their part. [end recording]

'TEXT' OF FOREIGN MINISTERS CONFERENCE COMMUNIQUE

OW181313 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 17 Aug 86

["Full text" of the 18 August communique of the 13th conference of the foreign ministers of the PRK, the LPDR and the SRV, held in Hanoi 17-18 August; read by announcer]

[Text] The 13th conference of the foreign ministers of the PRK, the LPDR and the SRV was held 17-18 August in Hanoi, the capital of the SRV.

I. The conference reviewed the situation of the struggle for peace and stability in Southeast Asia over the past 8 years. That struggle, though tortuous and complex, has led to a new situation very advantageous for the three Indochinese countries and the forces of peace. Through their utmost efforts, the forces hostile to the three Indochinese countries had hoped that they would be able, over a period of 3 to 4 years, to cause Vietnam to collapse and reverse the situation in Cambodia. However, 8 years have elapsed. Overcoming the greatest trials, the Cambodian people, emerging from the abyss of genocide, have quickly risen back to life and scored extraordinary achievements in all fields. Particularly, the resounding political, military, and economic victories in 1984 and 1985 have marked a turning point in the Cambodian revolution.

Vietnam and Laos, through still encountering many difficulties, are on a trend of steady and vigorous changes. The militant solidarity among the three Indochinese countries and between the three countries and the Soviet Union and other fraternal and friendly countries has unceasingly consolidated and strengthened. The three Indochinese countries have become a positive factor and played a decisive role in the peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

II. Developments of the situation in Southeast Asia over the past 8 years have further brought out the contrast between the two opposing stances and attitudes on the Cambodian issue and peace and stability in Southeast Asia. The three Indochinese countries have demanded the elimination of the genocidal Pol Pot clique, and have declared a time limit for the total withdrawal of Vietnamese tropps from Cambodia. Conversely, the other side has adamantly demanded a Vietnamese troop withdrawal from Cambodia but refused to renounce the genocidal Pol Pot clique.

The PRK has controlled all Cambodian territory, and has declared its national reconciliation policy and its readiness to hold talks with opposing individuals and the opposing Khmer group, in order to achieve national reconciliation on the basis of eliminating the genocidal Pol Pot clique. Conversely, the other side has invariably demanded the return of the genocidal Pol Pot clique to Cambodia.

The key to the eight-point proposal of 17 March 1986 is the demand to abolish the PRK regime and to recognize the so-called Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, in fact, the genocidal Pol Pot clique, in an attempt to bring it back to Cambodia. That totally runs counter to morality and the actual situation in Cambodia, and is -- of course -- unacceptable. That is also an illusion, because they want to use talks to abolish the PRK regime, which they have failed to achieve militarily in the past 8 years.

III. The situation over the past 8 years has eloquently proven the just stand and good will of the three Indochinese countries as well as the unjust stand and absurb attitude of the other side. The former's stand is consistent with broad segments of the world people who want a Vietnamese troop withdrawal, the expulsion of the genocidal Pol Pot clique, and the restoration of lasting peace and stability in Southeast Asia. Only a small segment of the opposing forces is against the removal of the genocidal Pol Pot clique.

The conference declares that if all parties agree on the two fundamental issues -- that is, the Vietnamese troop withdrawal and the removal of the genocidal Pol Pot clique -- it is possible right now to negotiate a plan to achieve these two things in order to reach a political solution to the Cambodian problem and achieve peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

The three Indochinese countries are prepared to cooperate with all parties with a view to achieving such a political solution at an early date.

IV. Pending a political solution on Cambodia and Southeast Asia, the SRV and the PRK -- on the basis of the current situation in Cambodia -- reaffirm that the annual withdrawal of Vietnamese volunteer troops from Cambodia will continue and that the total withdrawal will be completed by 1990 as previously stated. If the troop withdrawal is capitalized upon, running counter to the peace and stability of Cambodia, the SRV and the PRK will exchange views and take appropriate steps.

V. The three Indochinese countries always treasure and wish to soon restore the long-standing friendship with the Chinese people. While protecting their independence, these three countries are constantly striving to reestablish the normal and good neighborly relations with the PRC. On several occasions, the SRV has proposed the resumption of Sino-Vietnamese talks interrupted since March 1980. However, the Chinese side has not so far responded favorably, but has, on the contrary, performed some acts showing a lack of good will. The Chinese and Vietnamese peoples have united in opposing imperialism. Both China and Vietnam can be the beneficiaries of peace, independence, cooperation, and economic development. There is no reason why China and Vietnam cannot hold talks because of their differences which can be settled through negotiations.

With this spirit, the SRV once again declares its readiness to enter talks with China at any level and anywhere whatsoever. The two parties would put on the negotiating table their respective proposals on problems of common concern. Only with good will and a truly serious approach can problems be settled.

The conference welcomes the LPDR's rational and sensible stand of normalizing relations with the PRC on the basis of respect for each other's independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity; of nonaggression against each other; of non-interference in each other's internal affairs, and of peaceful coexistence.

The conference contends that the normalization of Vietnamese-Chinese relations as well as of the relations between the LPDR and the PRK and the PRC constitutes a very important factor of peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

VI. The conference reaffirms the consistent policies pursued by Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia in respecting Thailand's independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity within its present boundaries. The normalization of relations between Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia on the one hand and Thailand on the other constitutes a very important factor of peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

With this spirit, the SRV declares its readiness to negotiate with Thailand with a view to solving substantial problems arising from their mutual relations and the building and development of friendly and goodneighborly relations in the framework of peaceful coexistence.

The SRV and the PRK fully support the recent statement by Chairman of the Council of Ministers Kaysone Phomvihan on the Lao Government's readiness to try its utmost at the governmental level as well as at the local level in order to create favorable conditions for increasing mutual understanding and confidence with respect to the Kingdom of Thailand. They welcome the LPDR's good will to restore negotiations with Thailand with a view to normalizing relations in all aspects between the two countries.

The conference takes note of the 13 August 1986 statement by the Thai foreign minister that Thailand will not authorize the use of its territory to cause destabilization to and undermine the governments of neighboring countries, and wholly supports the PRK proposal on the establishment of a zone of peace along the Cambodian-Thai border. In the zone on the Cambodian side, there will be only PRK Armed Forces, and in the zone on the Thai side, there will be only Armed Forces of the Kingdom of Thailand. Neither side can allow foreigners to use the zone in its own territory to conduct activities against the other side. Both sides will agree on the breadth of, as well as the form of, international control over that zone of peace. Meanwhile, the PRK reiterates its desire to discuss with Thailand the issues of Cambodian refugees and Thais arrested and detained in Cambodian territory.

VII. In the proposals by the Indonesian, Malaysian, and Singapore foreign ministers, there are many points the three Indochinese countries do not agree with, but there are also points the three Indochinese may consider. The three countries hold that now more than ever, the establishment of a framework of peaceful coexistence in Southeast Asia and an end to aggression and threat from outside is an urgent demand and the most cherished interest of the people of the region's countries.

The three Indochinese countries are ready to cooperate with the Asian states, other countries in the region, and all countries relating to peace in Southeast Asia, in order to make this region a zone of peace and stability in accordance with the principles of peaceful coexistence.

Also, in that spirit, the three Indocinese countries declare their support for the Indonesian proposal of turning Southeast Asia into a nuclear-free zone.

VIII. The conference highly appreciates the proposal by Australian Foreign Minister Bill Hayden concerning the establishment of a tribunal to determine the crimes committed by the genocidal Pol Pot clique, and welcomes all efforts and initiatives of any country in the world as well as of the UN secretary general himself, in order to contribute to restoring peace and stability in the region.

IX. The conference welcomes the results of the government-level talks between the United States and Vietnam and Laos on the issue of searching for Americans missing in action, and holds that the creation of an atmosphere of cooperation will contribute to promoting the process in a way conducive to peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

Part Two

I. The conference notes that over the past 8 years, the developments of the situation in Southeast Asia have been closely linked to developments in the world. Since 1978, while the world situation is tense, the Southeast Asian situation has also become tense.

Since 1985, in the world, as well as in Southeast Asia, there has appeared a trend toward dialogue among countries with different social systems. While unceasingly struggling for peace and stability in Southeast Asia, the three Indochinese countries have unceasingly struggled to contribute to the common struggle of the world peoples to end the arms race, to ward off the danger of nuclear war, and to preserve world peace, considering it the prime, urgent task of all peoples.

II. The conference is pleased with the brilliant success of the 27th CPSU Congress, which marked a historical turning point in the development of the Soviet Union as well as for the entire world situation.

The conference fully supports the Soviet Union's tireless efforts in the struggle to establish a global security system in the military, political, economic, and social spheres.

The conference fully supports the Soviet Union's principled stand and important initiatives aimed at promoting a Soviet-U.S. summit meeting and ending the nuclear arms race, especially in outer space..

The conference highly values the very important initiatives regarding the Asia-Pacific region advanced by General Secretary Gorbachev of the CPSU Central Committee in his recent speech in Vladivostok, regarding them as an initial comprehensive peace plan for that region.

The conference welcomes the improvement of Soviet-Chinese relations, contending that, with the efforts and goodwill of all parties concerned, it is possible to end in the Asia-Pacific region the status of military and political confrontation which has prevailed over the past 40 years and to gradually build a zone of peace in which all countries with different social systems can coexist and cooperate in friendship.

The conference fully supports the Mexico declaration of the heads of India, Mexico, Argentina, Tanzania, Greece, and Sweden, for the sake of peace and nuclear disarmament.

III. The three Indochinese countries highly value the importance of the eighth summit conference of nonaligned countries to be held in Harare, the capital of the Republic of Zimbabwe. They are ready to pool their utmost efforts, together with the nonaligned countries, to ensure the success of the summit conference and contribute to solving the burning major problems posed for all the nonaligned countries: the problem of strengthening the solidarity and might of the nonaligned movement in the common struggle to safeguard peace and oppose the nuclear arms race; the problem of national independence; the problem of struggle for a new international economic order and development.

The conference expresses its solidarity with and strong support for the peoples of South Africa, and Namibia, the frontline countries in Southern Africa, and the African people who are stalwartly struggling againt imperialism and apartheid, for independence and freedom. At the same time, the conference demands that the racist Pretorian regime be punished.

With the Cambodian people's revival over the past 8 years, the PRK -- the genuine and sole legitimate representative of the Cambodian people now in full control of all Cambodian territory -- must naturally have the right to demand the return of its worthy position in the nonaligned movement.

However, to prevent the conference from being drawn into issues that are divisive to the movement, to help the conference concentrate on the urgent major problems of the movement, and to ensure the success of the conference, the three Indochinese countries fully respect and advocate maintaining intact the resolutions of the sixth and seventh summits on leaving Cambodia's seat vacant and the seventh summit's resolution on Southeast Asia at the Harare conference. The three countries will resolutely oppose any attempt to raise again the issue of the Kampuchea's seat, reverse the judicious resolutions of the sixth and seventh summits, sow division, and undermine the outcome of the eighth summit.

Over the past 8 years, these correct resolutions have postively contributed to promoting a dialogue, the search for a political solution to the Cambodian problem, and the establishment of peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

NHAN DAN on Conference

BK190650 Hanoi Demostic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 18 Aug 86

[19 August NNAH DAN Editorial: "The Stand Shining With Goodwill of the Three Indochinese Countries"]

[Text] The 13th conference of the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries has ended with glorious success. The important communique of the conference once again points out the shining goodwill, consistent stand, and lofty responsibility of Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia in seeking a political solution to the Cambodian issue and to the problem of peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

The conference profoundly analyzed the Southeast Asian situation and the steady developments of Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam over the past 8 years, underscoring the sharp differences between the two stands, that is, the just stand of the three Indochinese countries on one hand and the unjust stand of the other side.

The three Indochinese countries demanded the removal of the genocidal Pol Pot clique and have announced a time schedule for the complete withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Cambodia. The PRK, now in full control of the entire Cambodian country, has stated that it advocates achieving national reconciliation and that it is ready to hold talks with opposition Khmer groups or indivduals on the basis of the removal of the genocidal Pol Pot clique. This is legitimate and compatible with a broad section of world public opinion and with the aspirations of the peoples of Southeast Asia.

The other side, however, has persisted in demanding Vietnamese troop withdrawal from Cambodia while refusing to exclude the genocidal Pol Pot clique. It has resorted to all crafty tricks, including the 8-point farce, aimed at abolishing the PRK regime and bringing the genocidal Pol Pot clique back to Cambodia. This is totally against morality and the reality of the Cambodian situation, blocking all roads toward an acceptable political solution in Cambodia.

Those forces which are nurturing the genocidal Pol Pot clique to oppose the three Indochinese countries must quickly draw for themselves a lesson and must not have the illusion of using talks to materialize what they have failed to achieve by military means over the past 8 years.

Once again, with a lofty sense of responsibility and with a goodwill for peace, the three Indochinese countries declared that if all parties agree on the two fundamental issues -- that is, the Vietnamese troop withdrawal and the removal of the genocidal Pol Pot clique -- it is possible right now to negotiate a plan to achieve these two things in order to reach a political solution to the Cambodian problem and achieve peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

The three Indochinese countries are prepared to cooperate with all parties with a view to achieving such a political solution at an early date.

Pending a political solution, the SRV and the PRK reaffirmed that the annual withdrawal of Vietnamese Army volunteers from Cambodia will continue and that the total withdrawal will be completed by 1990 as previously stated. This stand of the three Indochinese countries is clear, fair, and reasonable and is an important contribution to improving the Southeast Asian and the Asian-Pacific situation. This stand must be taken into account and responded to by the other side. Dialogue is definitely more useful than confrontation.

The 13th conference of Cambodian, Lao, and Vietnamese foreign ministers pointed out the three Indochinese countries' attitude toward China, Thailand, other ASEAN countries, and the United States. This is a constructive and goodwilled attitude. It is also a policy to respect each other's independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity, promote dialogue, settle all disputes through negotiations, normalize relations, and develop good neighborly relations in peaceful co-existence.

The conference affirmed that the militant solidarity bloc between the three Indochinese countries themselves and between the three Indochinese countries on one side and the Soviet Union and other fraternal and friendly countries on the other has been constantly consolidated and strengthened. The conference totally supported the untiring efforts of the Soviet Union and its principled stand and important initiatives aimed at bringing about high-level Soviet-U.S. talks, halting all nuclear tests, and putting an end to the nuclear arms race, especially in space. The conference highly valued the many very important initiatives concerning Asia and the Pacific put forth by Comrade General Secretary Gorbachev in his recent famous Vladivostok statement.

The three Indochinese countries highly valued the importance of the eighth nonaligned summit to be held in Harare, the capital of Zimbabwe, and pledged to do their utmost to contribute to the success of the summit. In this vein, the three Indochinese countries declared that they totally respect the sixth and seventh nonaligned summit conferences' resolutions on leaving the Cambodian seat vacant as well as the seventh nonalighed summit resolution on Southeast Asia and that they advocate upholding these resolutions at the coming Harare nonaligned summit.

While emulating in building and defending the socialist fatherland and scoring achievements to greet the Sixth CPV Congress, our people joyfully welcome the great results of the 13th conference of the Cambodian, Lao, and Vietnamese foreign ministers. The struggle of the Cambodian, Lao, and Vietnamese people will continue to experience numerous difficulties and complications. The prospects of this struggle, however, are beautiful. Through their great efforts and their stand shining with goodwill, the three Indochinese countries will increasingly show themselves to be a positive factor in deciding peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

Together with the great Soviet Union and other socialist countries as well as with the nonaligned movement and the world peace movement, Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia, upholding their goodwill for peace and their just stand, are determined to make their worthy contributions to the common struggle of the people in Southeast Asia, in the Asia-Pacific region, and in the world for the sake of various lofty goals of our times.

SOVIET OFFICIAL LAUDS CONFERENCE, MEETS OFFICIALS

OW190755 Hanoi VNA in English 0729 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 19 -- Igor Rogachev, Soviet deputy minister for foreign affairs, received in Moscow yesterday afternoon the ambassadors and charges d'affaires of the People's Republic of Kampuchea, the People's Democratic Republic of Laos and the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

On behalf of the Indochinese foreign ministers, Vietnamese Ambassador Dinh Nho Liem informed the host of the results of the 13th Indochinese Ministerial Conference held in Hanoi recently and brought out the significance of its proposals in the new situation. He stressed that the conference gave full support to the important initiatives concerning Asia and the Pacific made by Mikhail Gorbachev in his speech at Vladivostok.

Igor Rogachev expressed his joy at the growth of the three Indochinese countries' revolution over the past 8 years, fully supported their new initiatives considering this a very big contribution to building good neighbourliness between the countries in the region, improving the present situation in Southeast Asia and the whole of Asia and the Pacific and establishing an international security system.

On behalf of the Soviet government, Igor Rogachev warmly acclaimed the constructive foreign policies of Laos, PRK, and Vietnam, and reaffirmed the Soviet Union's constant support and assistance to the three countries' revolution.

INDONESIAN AMBASSADOR GIVES RECEPTION 17 AUG

OW181700 Hanoi VNA in English 1619 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 18 -- Indonesian Ambassador Yohanes Petrus Louhanapessy gave a reception here this evening in honour of the 41st National Day of Indonesia (August 17). Present on the occasion were Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, minister of education; Dang Hoi Xuan, minister of public health; Phan Hien, minister of justice; Hoang Bich Son, vice minister for foreign affairs; Senior Lieutenant-General Tran Van Quang, vice defense minister; and representatives of the diplomatic corps here. Host and guests raised toasts to the further development of the friendship and cooperation between Indonesia and Vietnam.

POLICE MAKE ARREST IN AQUINO ASSASSINATION PLOT

HK190747 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Manila police operatives yesterday arrested a man suspected of being connected with the plot to assassinate President Aquino. Jaime Lazo, who is a cousin of Jose Lazo, president of the Honolulu Friends of Marcos Association, was arrested on the basis of a report of a letter which detailed plans for the assassination. Lazo, however, denied any knowledge of the plot.

Suspect Denies Knowledge of Plot

HK181304 Hong Kong AFP in English 1302 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 18 (AFP) — The Manila police Monday arrested an air force reserve officer whom they linked to an alleged plot to assassinate President Corazon Aquino in the next few weeks. Police officers said they had arrested Jaime Lazo, who, they alleged, had been hired by his cousin Jose Lazo, president of the Honolulu Friends of Marcos Association, to assassinate Mrs Aquino.

The arrest was made after they were tipped off by a letter sent by a certain Abner Afuang from Hawaii divulging the assassination plot, the police said. Former President Ferdinand Marcos, toppled by a popular revolt here in February, lives in exile in Honoulu, Hawaii.

Mr Jaime Lazo told police investigators he knew nothing about the plot. He admitted being a cousin of Mr Jose Lazo, but said he had last heard from his cousin many months ago. Despite the denial, police homicide chief Lieutenant Jose Pring said they were holding Mr Jaime Lazo for further questioning. It is not clear whether the assassination plot is linked with Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile's revelation last week of a supposed plan by supporters of Mr Marcos to kidnap top government officials and military officers.

ENRILE IMPORTS 100 UZI SUBMACHINEGUNS

HK181509 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1,6

[By Victor Agustin]

[Text] One hundred Uzi mini submachineguns were brought into the country by Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile early this month as part of the defense ministry's "military training equipment," the INQUIRER has learned.

The Israel-made guns, a favorite of the security group of Enrile, were brought in 10 packages weighing 478 kilos Aug 8. The shipment, which was received by Col. Nicetas Katigbak on the same date, was consigned to "Minister Juan Ponce Enrile c/o Col. Gregorio B. Honasan."

The guns were bought from Israel Military Industries, P.O. Box 1044, Ramat-Hassharon 47100, Israel and were shipped from Tel-Aviv through Scandinavian Airlines System. In Bangkok, the cargo was transferred to Philippine Airlines [PAL], arriving at the Manila International Airport [MIA] on Aug 8.

The shipment's broker was ECJM Customs.

To facilitate the cargo's entry, Honasan, who is special assistant to Enrile on security matters, wrote the MIA customs collector July 25, asking him to:

"Respectfully request release to Mr Fidel P. Baylon and/or Mr Herman Malonzo the goods/items/equipment aboard PAL flight no. 723 under Air Way Bill No. 07902285581 and 079-0228-5544 consigned to Minister Juan Ponce Enrile.

The shipment, described as "military training equipment," was supposed to be "for transfer to the firearms and explosive unit."

USSR NOT TO REPLACE U.S. BASES IF REMOVED

HK181503 Manila THE MANILA EVENING POST in English 15 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Rene Caparas]

[Text] Two Russian officials visiting the Philippines yesterday said "the Soviet will not come to your country to replace the U.S. military bases if moves to remove them succeed."

Victor Gorchakov, member of the Presidium of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR), and Alexei Drugov, delegate of the National Solidarity for Peace, met Vice President and Foreign Minister Salvador Laurel to discuss economic aid to the Aquino government.

Speaking through an interpreter in a press conference at the Russian Cultural Center on Vito Cruz street, Malate, the Russians noted the "high female activity in the Philippines."

The hailed the intense desire of the Filipinos to adopt the communist policy of government.

The Soviets said they do not consider foreign military bases vital to the security of another country, "but on the contrary, it enlarges the possibility of that country to be involved in a conflict during a nuclear war.

The Russians said "the USSR will not be the first to fire the nuclear weapon and it is the USSR's policy not to direct its targets on countries without nuclear armaments."

"We do not want any military bases in any foreign country not only in the interest of strengthening peace in the USSR but also around the world," they said.

"If the U.S. military bases are pulled out of the Philippines, the USSR has no interest in coming here to replace them," they added.

The visitors said U.S. military bases are a threat to the stability and peace of the Asian-Pacific region, and since the Philippines is a host to U.S. military installations in Subic Naval Base in Olongapo City and Clark Air Force Base in Angeles City, they (the US bases) increase the risks of the Philippines to be "a target in a nuclear confrontation."

They said Russia is "prepared to lessen all its armaments throughout the world in line with its policy of global peace.

"We came here to know you better. Because only by knowing each other can we be in peace," they said.

The Russians cited the friendliness and hospitality of the Filipinos.

The Soviets said "the U.S. and the USSR are going to discuss the presence of U.S. military bases in the Asia-Pacific countries." They apparently referred to the coming superpower summit between U.S. President Reagan and Kremlin leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Editorial on 'Unsolicited Advice'

HK181521 Manila NEWS HERALD in English 18 Aug 86 p 4

[Editorial: "Unsolicited Advice"]

[Text] A member of the Soviet presidium, here on a visit, warned the Philippines it could be the target of a Russian retaliatory attack because of the presence in the country of U.S. military bases.

It sounds like a piece of friendly advice, but somehow disturbing in light of the fact that not too many nautical miles from us is the Soviet's own version of Subic in Cam Ranh Bay in Vietnam.

This is hypothetical but we wonder what they would think if the U.S. were to offer the Vietnamese the comradely suggestion that they would be avoiding getting caught in a nuclear crossfire by removing the Soviet base (which was formerly American) in their territory?

Unsolicited advice grates on the nerves more when it comes from the wrong source.

U.S. SENATOR MEETS WITH AQUINO 18 AUG

HK190215 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] U.S. Senator Richard Lugar said President Aquino's visit to the United States would help to raise economic assistance and generate business confidence in the Philippines. Lugar arrived in Manila yesterday [18 Aug] and held talks with President Aquino lasting more than 2 hours. He told reporters he delivered a letter from President Reagan and told Mrs Aquino she could expect an emotional welcome when she visits the United States next month. The U.S. Congress is now debating legislation to provide aid and assistance worth up to $450 million to the Philippines.

TRANSPORT MINISTER SCORES U.S. AIRPORT CHARGE

HK131458 Hong Kong AFP in English 1452 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 13 (AFP) -- The Philippines transporation minister Wednesday denounced a U.S. Government report alleging lax security at Manila Airport, and charged that guns were being smuggled into the country through U.S. airports.

"I just hope that the American government will not try to bring us down further to our knees by causing false information to be distributed all over the world. It is most unfair to us," Minister Hernando Perez told a news conference.

The U.S. Transportation Department warned last week about lax security at Manila Airport and told U.S. airlines flying to the Philippines to take special precautions in handling luggage and screening passengers.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole said that following inspections made in May and July, American officials were concerned by unauthorized access to secure areas, where requirements are below international standards.

"I hope Secretary Dole will send back her representatives. We will see to it that her representatives are accompanied at all times so that they will not wander off and claim that we are again lax in our security measures," Mr. Perez said.

Mr. Perez also referred to alleged firearms "being smuggled into the country from the United States."

"That means that the airports in the United States are not performing their duties. They are so lax that the guns are able to pass through their security controls and brought to this country," he added, but did not elaborate.

Manila Airport customs officials last year intercepted several shipments of high-powered firearms, including machine pistols, from commercial planes coming from the United States.

AQUINO'S ENTOURAGE TO INDONESIA, SINGAPORE GIVEN

HK181315 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1, 14

[Text] The Philippines hopes to improve, if not reverse, the current balance of trade with Indonesia and Singapore when President Aquino embarks on her first state visit to the two Southeast Asian nations one week from today.

The President is bringing with her an official entourage of only 10 persons, including five Cabinet members and two deputy ministers, to assist her in striking favorable trade agreements with the two Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) members.

Indonesia and Singapore currently have a balance of trade advantage over the Philippines.

In a press briefing conducted by Deputy Foreign Minister Leticia Ramos-Shahani in Malacanang yesterday, she revealed that Mrs. Aquino's four-day visit to the two countries will be a working one as evidenced by her entourage.

Mrs. Aquino's official party includes Trade Minister Jose Concepcion, Natural Resources Minister Ernesto Maceda, Energy Deputy Minister Vicente Paterno, Tourism Minister Antonio Gonzalez, Education Minister Lurdes Quisumbing, Shahani, businessman Jesus Ayala, Ms. Maur Padilla, and the president's daughter, Mrs. Ballsy Cruz, who will serve as her personal secretary.

Shahani said that Concepcion will review trade relations with Indonesia and study what other goods and services the two countries may exchange.

Indonesia's better balance of trade lies mainly on its oil exports to the Philippines which reportedly accounts for 15 percent of the country's total.

The Philippine side is also expected to bring up the possibility of reexporting Indonesian rice which currently is creating a glut in the local market because the past administration imported it at the height of the harvest season.

The two sides are currently working on a memorandum of agreement expanding trade between the two countries and this may be signed during the visit of Mrs. Aquino.

The President will leave for the Indonesian capital of Jakarta on Aug. 24 at 2 p.m. and arrive there at 5 p.m.

A state dinner will be given in her honor on the evening of the same day.

Her formal talks with Indonesian President Suharto will be held the following day.

Mrs. Aquino will also watch a cultural presentation, present a wreath at the Heroes Cemetery, tour the Tamih Mini Indonesia Indah, a miniature Indonesia, much like the Nayong Pilipino in Paranaque, and then host a banquet in the evening.

She will leave for Singapore at 9 a.m. on Aug 26 and arrive there at 11:30 a.m.

She will be met at the airport by Singapore head of state Wee Kim Wee and then will have her private talks with Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew after lunch.

Before her meeting with Prime Minister Lee, Mrs. Aquino will be presented with an orchid named after her.

She will also address the Singapore Federation of Chamber of Commerce which will be attended by local and foreign businessmen. It will be one of the major addresses she will make during the two-nation tour.

In the meantime, her ministers will hold talks with their Singaporean counterparts and discuss trade, education, tourism and related subjects.

Mrs. Aquino will leave Singapore the following day after a brief guided tour of the island state that includes a visit to some of the high-tech factories there.

She will be back in Manila at 4:30 pm., Aug 27.

NPA SUPPORTS PEACE TALKS; MUSLIMS WANT TALKS

HK190213 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] The New People's Army command announced full support for the peace talks between the National Democratic Front [NDF] and the Aquino government. The command also accused rightists of sabotaging the talks in a bid to seize power. The NPA stand was made known in a statement issued by the NPA general staff. The statement said the entire NPA is solidly behind the NDF and the Communist Party on the peace talks with the government. It said a genuine and lasting peace has always been the objective of the leftist armed struggle. It also denied newspaper reports that an NPA special operations group is against the talks. The NPA command said no such group exists in the rebel organization.

Meanwhile, Muslim rebels also expressed a desire for peace with the government. The leader of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front made the declaration in an interview with the (al-Jihad) newspaper in Abu Dhabi. Hashim Salamat, who heads the Islamic Front, said President Aquino might be serious in attempting to grant autonomy to the 7 million Filipino Muslims in Mindanao. The Islamic Front is a faction of the rebel Moro National Liberation Front. However, Salamat said any talks concerning Mindanao would have to be arranged outside the Philippines and would have to be held through the Saudi Arabian-based organization of the Islamic Conference.

'Hardcore' Members Reject Talks

HK181353 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 17 Aug 86 pp 1, 10

[Text] Hardcore members of the New People's Army yesterday bucked the political decision of the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP], criticized the ongoing ceasefire talks as "policy of capitulation" and demanded its repudiation.

The INQUIRER yesterday received a copy of the manifesto by the "NPA/Special Operations Group" that confirmed earlier reports of a major rift among top communist leaders on how to deal with President Aquino's peace initiative.

The "dissident" group stressed that the communist goal is that, "the (armed) struggle will cease only when the issue of national independence is resolved."

This may be the first time that the military arm of the CPP, the New People's Army, has opted to challenge the decision by the political leadership.

Those involved in current talks with government representatives are Antonio Zumel, Saturnino Ocampo and Carolina Malay-Ocampo of the CPP.

The three, however, are conducting negotiations to peacefully settle the 17-year insurgency problem under the aegis of the National Democratic Front, a broader political group that includes the CPP.

The manifesto used strong language, calling the ongoing talks as only aimed "to neutralize the militants and coopt the moderates among the revolutionary ranks."

In short, it admitted a conflict of opinions among at least two major factions within the communist-led rebels.

The NPA group doubted if the revolutionary movement could gain substantial political concessions from the Aquino government.

The government, the group said remains a "puppet of U.S. imperialism" and is therefore incapable of asserting the national sovereignity.

The group's manifesto called the ceasefire talks a continuation of the new American-inspired counterinsurgency strategy that "brought about the ouster of Marcos" through the "February Revolution." [sentence as published]

"The main trend of the government ceasefire effort, though clothed in a spiritual appeal of Christian reconciliation, is to isolate, the left of left from the right of left and is a call to surrender," the group said.

Aside from these objective, according to the NPA group, the government panel will have nothing to offer rebel emissaries.

"The ceasefire will be a short-lived political carnival which would merely be used by both sides for purely political maneuvers," the group stressed.

The manifesto warned party leaders that the ceasefire would force its military arm into a position of passive defense and even lead to the NPA's "organizational death."

The group said only party leaders in the Naitonal Democratic Front would stand to benefit from the talks.

"To the CPP elements in the NDF, the ceasefire is a ticket to a political career...(or, possibly,) ambassadorial position," the group said.

"The CPP misbelieves that they should not be denied a share of the political spoils after the downfall fo the Marcos dictatorship," the group said.

Either, the CPP has forgotten about the protracted nature of the struggle or it is "buckling down to a policy of compromise rather than finishing the fight," the group said.

MNLF TO 'PUNISH' ANY CEASE-FIRE VIOLATORS

HK161321 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 18 Aug 86 p 18

[Text] Davao City -- Two Libya-based emissaries of Muslim secessionist leader Nur Misuari said the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) will punish violators of the ceasefire agreement.

MNLF judge Onuda Engcong and Ustadz Gulam Abdullah Decayan, vice-chairman of Misuari's eight-man consultative committee, told residents of Piapi, a predominantly Muslim area along Quezon Boulevard, that the MNLF hierarchy will not hesitate to "punish" erring guerriallas.

Onuda, a Maguindanaon who is known as a "hanging" judge even to Muslim professionals for sentencing to death several guerillas who violated policies, did not elaborate on the MNLF ceasefire policy.

The two Muslim leaders were here recently to ask armed Moro rebels to respect the ceasefire call of the government.

Last week, they met with some 500 Muslims and held a consultation on the establishment of the 13-province autonomous government in Mindanao as provided for in the 1976 Tripoli Agreement.

The Davao Moros accepted the proposed autonomous region through a show of hands.

The two emissaries were accompanied here by old MNLF leaders Guro Majeed Sarif Omar of Zamboanga city and Hadji Yahya Ankai of Basilan.

Their presence was relayed to the Davao Metrodiscom and Office of the City Mayor by Director Cabinanan Q. Mamukid of the office of Muslim Affairs and Cultural Communities.

Onuda, who is said to be a member of MNLF Central Committee, debunked reports about factionalism in the MNLF ranks. "Misuari, Hashim Salamat, and Dimas Pundato, are one," he said.

'SEMICOLONIAL, SEMIFEUDAL' CONSTITUTION LIKELY

HK111447 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 9 Aug 86 p 2

[Text] Former political detainee Jose Ma. Sison said yesterday that the Constitutional Commission [Con-Com] would most likely produce a "semi-colonial and semi-feudal" Constitution "embellished with the jargon of bourgeois nationalism and liberal democracy." He said this is because the country is still in a "semi-colonial and semi-feudal" state.

Sison, alleged founder of the Communist Party of the Philippines, warned that the creation of such a Constitution will "never put to rest the legal democratic movement and the armed revolutionary movement."

He said that a genuine land reform must be granted since it is the "main substance of the people's democratic revolution."

In his critique of the new Constitution being drafted, and of the Constitutional Commission, held at the Ateneo de Manila University, Sison also expressed pessimism on the incorporation of "nationalist and democratic" provisions, in the new Constitution.

He said that while it will be "very likely" that the Bill of Rights will "no longer be sullied" by a provision allowing the president to issue executive warrants of arrest and searches, she will still be given "wide discretion" on making executive agreements on foreign credit and extension of privileges of transnational corportions.

Granting such powers would mean that "foreign vultures will continue to plunder on the country's natural and human resources," he said. He added that those powers "does not eliminate or reduce the gains made by foreign investors in the 1973 Constitution and the country's previous constitutions."

Sison said, granting "excessive privileges and control of strategic enterprises "to foreign corporations," must come to an end." He said a nationalist constitution must abrogate all unequal treaties, executive agreements and laws, which have made the Philippines "subservient to U.S. imperlisms."

In his speech, Sison also predicted that there would be "constitutional silence" on the issue of foreign military bases and nuclear weapons. He also said that because of the presence of "big number of clericalists" in the Con-Com, there would be "strong attempts to cast away "such liberal democratic expressions as the separation of the church and state."

Asked whether the human rights situation has changed, Sison also pointed out that "only the middle class appears to have been relieved politically." He said that up to now "workers remain the object of police and military brutality. [as published]

LIST OF WHO WIELDS INFLUENCE UNDER NEW REGIME

HK130945 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 12 Aug 86 p 15

[Column by Rodolfo V. Romero: "Who's Who in the Aquino Era"]

[Text] Businessmen here and abroad are these days engaged in an exercise rendered necessary by a change in the political leadership of the nation. I refer to the identification of the Filipinos who wield the highest degree of influence within and on — in other words, the listing of who's who in — the new national dispensation. My Aquino-era who's-who list is made up of the following names arranged, to the greatest extent possible, in alphabetical order.

The Executive Secretary, Joker Arroyo, heads the list. He is followed by the president of Ateneo University, Fr. Joaquin G. Bernas, S.J. and the president of Pilipinas Shell Petroleum Corporation, Cesar F. Buenaventura. Then there are President Aquino's brother Jose Cojuangco Jr., and the Minister of Trade and Industry, Jose S. Concepcion Jr. Next come the chairman of the Presidential Commission on Human Rights, Jose W. Diokno, the Minister of National Defense, Juan Ponce Enrile and the chairman of the Development Bank of the Philippines, Jesus P. Estanislao. Obviously, the Governor of the Central Bank would be an influential personage in any national administration.

The letter G is represented by the Minister of Justice, Neptali Gonzales, and the chairman of the Commission on Audit, Teopisto Guingona Jr. They are followed immediately by the Deputy Minister of National Defense, retired general (and former ambassador to Iran) Rafael Ileto. The new president of the Philippine National bank, Vicente R. Jayme, has access to the Presidential ear, as does businessman Ricardo A. Lopa, Mrs Aquino's brother-in-law.

The Minister of Agriculture and Food, Ramon V. Mitra Jr., clearly enjoys the President's confidence. The Minister of Natural Resources, Ernesto M. Maceda, is another man to reckon with in the Aquino administration.

In the economic policymaking sphere the No. 1, naturally, is the Minister of Finance, Jaime V. Ongpin, who undoubtedly is one of the closest advisers of Mrs Aquino. A part of that sphere, the making of policy to govern the transporation and communication sectors, is the domain of Hernando B. Perez. Supervision of the local governments is the responsibility — being discharged in rather controversial fashion by Aquino Pimentel Jr. Still another Minister Cabinet member with clout is the Budget Minister, Alberto G. Romulo.

Two of the most respected individuals in the land are the Chief of Staff of the New Armed Forces of the Philippines, General Fidel V. Ramos, and the primate of the Catholic Church in this country, Jaime Cardinal Sin. They also are two of the people closest to the chief executive. Not very far behind is the chairman of the Presidential Commission on Good Government, former Senator Jovito R. Salonga. Infulential but highly controversial is the Minister of Labor and Employment, Augusto S. Sanchez.

No list of the people who carry weight with Mrs Aquino would be complete without the name of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Claudio Teehankee. The president is also known to have a high regard for the academic director of the Center for Research and Communication (and Constitutional Commission member) Bernardo M. Villegas.

The chairman of the Presidential Commission on Government Reorganization, Luis R. Villafuerte, and the general manager of the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage System, former Representative Jose V. Yap, round out my who's-who list for the brand new administration of Corazon C. Aquino.

SUSPECT IN RIZAL PARK KILLING ARRESTED

HK180800 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Police arrested yesterday the sixth suspect linked to the mauling and killing of Steve Salcedo, a Cory sympathizer, during a loyalist rally at Rizal Park last 27 July. Sergeant Florentino Mangalon identified the suspect as Richard de los Santos, a student of the Far Eastern University. De los Santos was photographed mauling Salcedo. He will be charged with murder.

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 161

20 August 1986

NORTH KOREA

ROK Accused of 19 Aug DMZ Shooting Incident D 1
Termed 'Grave Armed Provocation' D 1
MAC Senior Member Protests D 1
Foreign Ministry Supports USSR Nuclear Test Ban D 1
NODONG SINMUN Marks 15 Aug Liberation Day [15 Aug] D 3
DPRK-PRC Ties Viewed in Context of Youth Visit [NODONG SINMUN 20 Aug] D 6
PRC's Qin Jiwei Arrives in Pyongyang for 'Holidays' D 7
U.S.-ROK Minesweeping Exercises Denounced [NODONG SINMUN 18 Aug] D 7
Supreme Military Command in ROK Rests With U.S. [NODONG SINMUN 17 Aug] D 9
U.S. in Complete Control of South Korea [NODONG SINMUN 15 Aug] D 9

SOUTH KOREA

MAC Meeting Discusses Return of Korean War Dead E 1
DJP, NKDP Leaders Meet, Discuss Pending Issues [THE KOREA TIMES 20 Aug] E 1

LAOS

Phoun Sipaseut Departs for Hanoi Conference I 1
Returns From Hanoi 19 Aug I 1
Diplomatic Relations Established With Zimbabwe I 1
Thai Daily Says Resistance Planning Congress [Bangkok THE NATION 18 Aug] I 1
Political Campaigns Held in Bolikhamsai, Vientiane I 3
Sayaboury, Champassak Study Political Report I 4
Military School Ends Study I 4
Army School 303 Studies Report I 4
Briefs: Japanese Offer Aid I 4

THAILAND

Prem Assigns Ministers, Deputy Premiers Jobs [THE NATION 20 Aug] J 1
Den Denies Lobbying for Phichai's Ouster [THE NATION 19 Aug] J 2
Prachuap Delivers Policy Proposal on Crime [BANGKOK POST 20 Aug] J 3
Queen Explains Her Illness to Wellwishers [BANGKOK POST 19 Aug] J 3
Sitthi Says SRV Wants To Have Good Ties J 4

ISOC To Reduce Staff, Will Keep Security Staff [MATICHON 14 Aug] J 5
Planters Protest U.S. Sugar Sales to PRC [MATICHON 19 Aug] J 5

VIETNAM

SRV Supports Gorbachev Nuclear Test Ban K 1
  Truong Chinh Comments K 1
  NHAN DAN Comments [20 Aug] K 1
CPV Acclaims Truong Chinh-Gorbachev Meeting K 2
Truong Chinh Receives Hun Sen, Phoun Sipaseut K 2
  Hun Sen, Phoun Sipaseut Depart K 3
Past Indochinese Peace Initiatives Reviewed K 3
Grass-Roots Congresses Rejuvenate Leadership K 6
  Ha Nam Ninh Congresses K 7
Provinces Study Draft Political Report K 7

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Minister Denies Rumor Mahathir To Resign O 1
Petronas Issues Conditions for Oil Reduction O 1

PHILIPPINES

Marcos Loyalist Leader Shot Dead in Manila P 1
  Plot to Kill Loyalists Suspected [AFP] P 1
NPA Warns Aquino of Rightist Coup Plan [KYODO] P 2
KMU to Launch General Strike if Coup Attempted [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 19 Aug] P 2
Misamis Military Operations Against NPA Halted P 3
  3 NPA Suspects Killed [BUSINESS DAY 19 Aug] P 3
Official Questions NDF Emissaries' Representation [THE MANILA EVENING POST 18 Aug] P 4
  Mitra Discusses Peace Talks [THE MANILA TIMES 19 Aug] P 5
NDF 'Not Out To Grab Political Power' [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 16 Aug] P 6
Ramos Issues Warning on Reporting to New Duties P 9
Dismissed Workers Urge Removal of Bases [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 19 Aug] P 10
Marcos Said to Pledge Bases' Removal in 1991 [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 19 Aug] P 11
KBL Holds First Meeting Since Revolution [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 17 Aug] P 12
  Younger Leaders Urged [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 18 Aug] P 13
Press Secretary To Act As Presidential Spokesman [BUSINESS DAY 18 Aug] P 14
LIBERATION Editorial on Peace Talks [Apr-May] P 14

ROK ACCUSED OF 19 AUG DMZ SHOOTING INCIDENT

Termed 'Grave Armed Provocation'

SK191420 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1350 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] The South Korean puppet army has committed a grave armed provocation again in the western area of the frontline. Around 1950 today, South Korean puppet army soldiers committed again a grave armed provocation of firing some 300 rounds of large-caliber machinegun fire from a position near Manuri in the estuary of the Imjin River in the western area of the frontline. The shooting was aimed at our People's Army guardpost located on the opposite side. The large-caliber machinegun fire from the South Korean puppet army soldiers greatly jeopardized the personal safety of members of our DMZ police unit.

Such armed provocations by the rascals totalled as many as five in August alone. Such indiscreet military provocations by the South Korean puppet army in the area of the Military Demarcation Line recently are a deliberate and calculated maneuver designed to extremely aggravate the situation in our country and to further intensify North-South confrontation. The South Korean puppet clique should not miscalculate our self-restraint and should not act indiscriminately.

MAC Senior Member Protests

SK200458 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0447 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 20 (KCNA) -- The South Korean puppet army fired over 300 large-caliber machinegun bullets from its position near Manuri at the estuary of the River Imjin in the western sector of the front at the post of our side on its opposite site at around 19:50 August 19. In this connection, the senior member of our side to the Military Armistice Commission sent a message of protest to the enemy side.

Noting that the firing by the South Korean puppet army was a wanton violation of the Armistice Agreement and a deliberate armed provocation aimed at heightening the tension, he said: We cannot but pay serious attention to the fact that the enemy continues firing at us in disregard of our repeated protests. Sternly protesting against the reckless firing by the South Korean puppet army, he strongly demanded the enemy side to take thoroughgoing steps to prevent the recurrence of such military provocation.

FOREIGN MINISTRY SUPPORTS USSR NUCLEAR TEST BAN

SK200147 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2100 GMT 19 Aug 86

[19 August DPRK Foreign Ministry statement supporting GPSU General Secretary Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevic Gorbachev's announcement that the Soviet Union has decided to further extend its nuclear test moratorium to 1 January 1987]

[Text] Preventing nuclear war and defending peace and security in the world are pressing issues facing mankind at present. Halting nuclear tests is a first step for curbing the nuclear arms race, for dismantling nuclear weapons, and for preventing nuclear war.

On 18 August, Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, recalled in a televised speech that the Soviet Union had unilaterally halted nuclear tests from August last year until 6 August this year. He then announced another extension of the nuclear test moratorium until 1 January 1987. The measure taken by the Soviet Union is a constructive and affirmative one. It is a practical contribution to preventing the danger of another world war, nuclear war, to defending peace and security in the world, and to improving the international situation as a whole. The Soviet measure is a clear expression of a serious aspiration for peace in the world.

The DPRK Government and Korean people, highly evaluating the Soviet measure of unilaterally extending the nuclear test moratorium as another clear expression of the consistent Leninist peace-loving policy of the Soviet party and government, fully support this.

As a powerful peace-loving force, the Soviet Union has recently put forth various proposals to guarantee peace in Europe and Asia, including a proposal to completely dismantle nuclear weapons on a global scale, and is now struggling to realize these proposals. Following its first measure of unilaterally freezing nuclear tests from 6 August until 31 December last year, the Soviet Union has extended the period many times to date. Such initiatives by the Soviet Union have gained broad support and sympathy from the people of the socialist countries and the world's peace-loving people.

The aspirations of the world's people for peace have grown stronger than at any previous time. The U.S. imperialists, however, have openly continued nuclear tests, ignoring the ardent desire of the world's people for peace, and are now persistently trying to make a success of the adventurous star wars plans. As a result, at no time has the danger of nuclear war threatened the survival of mankind as gravely as it does today. Defending peace and security in the world is a solemn demand of the times and mankind's unanimous aspiration, which cannot be delayed for even a moment.

If and when the Soviet Union's recent measure for freezing nuclear tests becomes a global one and measures are taken in various parts of the world to ban nuclear tests, mankind will be spared a nuclear holocaust and a new phase will have been opened for consolidating peace and security in the world. The Soviet Union's recent peace-loving measure also corresponds to the aspirations and demands of our people, who are struggling to ease tensions created on the Korean peninsula and to create a nuclear-free zone of peace on the Korean peninsula. Today, the Korean peninsula is a place facing the greatest danger of nuclear war.

The U.S. imperialists, who have brought some 1,000 nuclear weapons of various kinds into South Korea, are now building 36 nuclear armories there and rendering the situation on the Korean peninsula extremely acute, while continuing nuclear war exercises such as "Team Spirit-86." Because of the U.S. imperialists' augmentation of nuclear weapons and their maneuvers to provoke nuclear war, the danger of a new war being created in our country is increasing the danger of a global nuclear war. The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets should give deliberate thoughts to the consequences to which their extremely irresponsible and adventurous acts are likely to lead and should affirmatively respond to a proposal to create a nuclear-free zone of peace on the Korean peninsula.

Today, when banning nuclear tests and dismantling nuclear weapons have become an agenda item for world politics as a common aspiration of the world's peace-loving people, the United States should abandon its anachronistic policy of strength, stop further pursuing an adventurous nuclear armament policy, and halt all nuclear tests without delay.

The DPRK Government and Korean people will actively struggle to turn the Northeast Asian region, including the Korean peninsula, into a nuclear-free zone of peace and will spare no efforts to prevent nuclear war on earth and guarantee lasting peace in firm unity with the people of the socialist countries and the world's peace-loving people.

NODONG SINMUN MARKS 15 AUG LIBERATION DAY

SK191100 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2141 GMT 14 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 15 August editorial: "Let Us Vigorously Struggle for the Fatherland's Prosperity and Reunification"]

[Text] Today, under the leadership of the party and leader, our people are vigorously struggling to achieve the prosperity and development of the fatherland and its independent and peaceful reunification. Under these circumstances, the meaningful 15 August National Day is being observed. Forty-one years ago today, the Korean Communists and people ended the Japanese imperialists' colonial rule which had continued for nearly half a century, and achieved the historic cause of the fatherland's liberation.

The great leader Kim Il-song has taught: Through the liberation of our fatherland, in our country the Japanese imperialists' colonial rule, which continued for nearly half a century, ended and the cause of national liberation was achieved, thus paving a broad path for building a new Korea.

The liberation of the fatherland was the brilliant fruition of the arduous struggle which the Korean Communists and people waged for a long period to regain sovereignty of the country. Since the first day of the Japanese imperialist aggressors' occupation of our fatherland, our people vigorously struggled to recover our lost country and to achieve national independence. In the darkest period of the Japanese imperialists' rule, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song took the lead in carrying out revolution. By doing so, he illuminated the future of the Korean revolution by organizing and leading the heroic anti-Japanese armed struggle.

The members of the Korean People's Revolutionary Army and patriotic people upheld the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-song as the great leader of the revolution and the sun of the nation and pioneered the future of the Korean revolution by dealing serious blows to the Japanese imperialist aggressors through his indomitable fighting spirit and peerless heroism.

Thanks to the correct leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, who led the overall Korean revolution along the single road of victory with outstanding strategy and tactics and with the art of outstanding military tactics, and thanks to the struggle of the fallen revolutionary patriots and the patriotic people, the historic cause of the fatherland's liberation was achieved. The liberation of the fatherland was a historic victory which our people won by struggling with the heroic Soviet Army.

Our people's anti-Japanese national liberation struggle reached a new stage in the wake of World War II. During this period, the Soviet people and army defeated fascist Germany and participated in the war against Japan. By doing so, they decisively helped liberate the colonial peoples of the East from Japanese oppression. The heroic Soviet Army performed shining feats in the struggle for the freedom of Korea and its liberation and, in this struggle, numerous men and officers of the Red Army sacrificed their precious lives.

Our people will never forget the role of liberator played by the Soviet Union, which helped liberate the fatherland with blood.

The 15 August liberation was a milestone marking an epochal change in our people's social and political lives and in the development of our revolution. Through the liberation of the fatherland, the cause of national liberation was achieved in our country and our people have become masters of their destinies and people of dignity who seek new independent lives and are building a new society.

During the course of 40-odd years since liberation, our people have traversed the path of a rewarding struggle and creation. This course has been the glorious path along which the chuche idea has been embodied under the wise leadership of the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song, thus effecting epochal changes in the struggle for sovereignty, independence, and socialist construction and greatly contributing to the development of the era and history. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has led the democratic revolution and the socialist revolution to victory. By doing so, in a short period he has turned our country into a socialist power with an advanced socialist system, self-reliant national economy, splendid national culture, and power to defend itself.

Dear Comrade Kim Chong-il, in the course of brilliantly inheriting and consummating the chuche revolutionary cause, has won great immortal achievements and established a permanent foundation for final consummation of the revolutionary cause.

Today, our fatherland is in a period of great prosperity, and its position is growing with each passing day. By continuing to accelerate revolution and construction based on the successes that have been won, we should achieve prosperity and the development of the country, reunify the divided fatherland, and consummate the chuche revolutionary cause, the socialist and communist cause.

Adhering to the party's line of the three revolutions and accelerating socialist construction are the important tasks for strengthening the might of the country and winning victory in the revolutionary cause. According to the line of the sixth party congress, we should hold the banner of the three revolutions aloft and bring about ceaseless upsurges in industry, agriculture, construction, and transportation -- as well as in all other areas of production and construction. The chuche-ization, modernization, and scientization of the people's economy should be accelerated and progress made in attaining the great 10 long-range goals. Our functionaries, party members, and working people should display the lofty revolutionary spirit in implementing party policy and carry out all their work responsibly and with the attitude worthy of masters.

The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song, with the noble intent to pass an even richer and more prosperous fatherland on to coming generations, has unfolded great economic construction plans. Tideland reclamation, construction of the Sunchon Vinalon complex, construction of the Kumgangsan power station, the construction of salt fields, and the construction of the Sariwon calcium fertilizer plant are great projects for drastically strengthening the economic might of the country, changing the country's appearance, and improving the people's living standards. The entire party, the whole country, and all people should turn out to brilliantly accomplish these tasks.

In consummating the revolutionary cause, we should steadily defend, inherit, and develop the revolutionary traditions of our party. The revolutionary traditions established during the blood-stained struggle of the anti-Japanese revolution are the precious revolutionary treasure for consummation of the revolutionary cause of the working class.

The revolutionary traditions established in the flames of the anti-Japanese struggle and enriched during the course of accomplishing the multifaceted revolutionary tasks following liberation are being continuously developed through the energetic struggle of our party. We should defend the purity of the revolutionary traditions of our party and inherit and develop them brilliantly.

All party members and working people should endlessly cherish the achievements our party has won in building the party and in revolution and construction and should properly accomplish the task to glorify it.

The prosperity of the fatherland and the victorious advance of the revolutionary cause are guaranteed by the might of the party and the revolutionary ranks. All party members and working people should arm themselves with the revolutionary ideology of our party, the chuche idea, and should think and act only according to its demand. They should unite around the party and the leader even more firmly. Deep in our hearts we should cherish the pride and confidence of upholding the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-song -- who has rescued the destinies of the fatherland and nation from crisis and basically changed its position and situation -- as the great leader. We should be loyal to the leader generation after generation and thoroughly embody the party's leadership in all areas of revolution and construction.

The reunification of the divided fatherland is our nation's supreme desire. Forty-one years have passed since the fatherland's liberation. Nonetheless, facist colonial rule is still being imposed in half of our fatherland. South Korea is a complete colony of the U.S. imperialists. There is no dark world and colony in the world like South Korea. Ending the U.S. imperialists' colonial rule over South Korea, achieving national sovereigty as a whole, and achieveing reunification of the country are the urgent tasks that can be delayed no longer.

Our party and the government of the republic, proceeding from the mission for the fatherland and nation, has put forward numerous proposals for the reunification of the fatherland and has made all efforts. In recent years alone, rational and realistic proposals, including the ones for tripartite talks, parliamentary talks, and talks between military authorities, have been proposed to eliminate the danger of war in Korea, alleviate tension, and create a favorable environment for peaceful reunification.

Nevertheless, the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique have not accepted our just proposals. Instead, they are moving along the road of confrontation and war. In particular, the wretches are viciously scheming to exploit this year's Asian Games and the 24th Olympic Games in maneuvers for two Koreas. It is the trend of history that the people's wish becomes reality and the cause of justice is victorious. The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique must not forget the lesson of history and must halt the maneuvers for national division and schemes for the provocation of a new war. With the support and encouragement of the progressive people of the world and with the concentrated efforts of the whole nation, our people will reunify the fatherland without fail.

The Korean revolution is a part of the world revolution. It is very important to consolidate unity with the people of the socialist countries and the revolutionary forces of the world. The people of Korea and the Soviet Union are comrades-in-arms and class brothers who struggle shoulder-to-shoulder for common ideals and objectives. The Soviet people, who extended support and encouragement to us in periods of severe trials, are still extending firm solidarity toward our people's struggle for socialist construction and reunification of the fatherland.

Traditional Korean-Soviet friendship is deepening and developing to an even higher stage following the visit to the USSR of the great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song, and following the meetings and talks between the leaders of the two countries. It is expanding in all fields. This was vigorously displayed at the celebrations marking the 25th anniversary of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance. We firmly believe that the traditional friendly and cooperative relations between Korea and the Soviet Union will further strengthen and develop with each passing day as relations of true class alliance between revolutionary comrades-in-arms.

Today, under the correct leadership of the CPSU headed by Comrade Mikhail Gorbachev, the Soviet people are winning great successes in the struggle to implement the decisions of the 27th party congress. Our people rejoice over the successes of the Soviet people as if they were their own. Our party and the government of the republic actively support the Soviet people's struggle to achieve Lenin's cause, and the peace initiatives of the Soviet party and government to oppose war and defend the peace and security of Europe, Asia, and the world.

Today the international situation is tense and complicated. This reality calls for all the world's peoples to firmly struggle to prevent war and defend peace. With the ideas of independence, friendship, and peace, we, along with all revolutionary people of the world, will firmly struggle to thwart and smash the imperialists' maneuvers to provoke a new world war and make active efforts to establish nuclear-free zones and peace zones and expand them. In unity with the socialist countries and the nonaligned countries and in unity with all peace-loving people of the world, our people will actively struggle to consolidate and develop the antiwar, anti-nuclear peace-loving movement and the Nonaligned Movement.

Ever victorious is the revolutionary cause of our people, who are vigorously advancing for the prosperity of the fatherland and its reunification by firmly uniting around the party Central Committee headed by the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-song.

DPRK-PRC TIES VIEWED IN CONTEXT OF YOUTH VISIT

SK200304 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 0007 GMT 20 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 20 August article: "Youth Envoys of Fraternal Friendship"]

[Text] A youth delegation from China will arrive in Pyongyang today to visit our country. The delegation is composed of some 200 people. The Korean people and youths warmly welcome the Chinese youth delegation with warm feelings of friendship for the fraternal Chinese people and youths. The visit to our country by the Chinese youth delegation is important to strengthening and developing the traditional Korean-Chinese friendship generation-to-generation, and in developing the youth movements of the two countries.

Korean-Chinese friendship has a long history and deep foundations. Fighting shoulder-to-shoulder and shedding blood together during the arduous days of the anti-Japanese struggle, the communists and peoples of Korea and China learned that their fate was connected into one. The peoples of the two countries were even more aware of this during the days when they fought against the common enemy in the same fighting ranks during the Korean war, and demonstrated to the entire world the might of the friendship and unity cemented in blood.

From then until now -- through the postwar period and the period of socialist construction -- the peoples and youth of the two countries have closely supported and cooperated with each other, keeping faith with each other as class brothers and comrades-in-arms. Pages of history are printed with the proud stories of the youth of the two countries who have contributed to Korean-Chinese friendship. The youth of Korea and China -- who are hot-blooded, talented, and buning with a sense of justice -- did not hesitate to lay down their noble lives for the sake of their comrades-in-arms, and helped each other whole-heartedly in the struggle for revolution and construction, demonstrating their wisdom and talents.

The past, present, and future of Korean-Chinese friendship cannot be mentioned apart from the intimate friendly relations between the party and state leaders of the two countries. The party and state leaders of the two countries have formed intimate friendly relations based on noble comradely fidelity, have fertilized the flower garden of Korean-Chinese friendship, and have provided a dependable guarantee to continuously strengthen and develop Korean-Chinese friendship, while often visiting each other.

The youth are the heroes of the future, and they are entrusted with the honorable task of shouldering the future. The future of Korean-Chinese firendship also depends upon the youth of the two countries' new generation. The visit to China last year by the friendship youth delegation of our country and this visit to our country by the Chinese youth delegation are a clear manifestation of the firm determination of the youths of the two countries to strengthen and develop Korean-Chinese friendship generation-to-generation. The youth of Korea and China have followed the road of victory and glory under the correct leadership of their parties, and have made brilliant achievements. During the visit to Korea by the Chinese youth delegation, the two countries' youths will hold various meetings sharing successes and experiences in the youth movement, revolution, and construction, and various events suitable for the youths will be organized. In the course of all this, the youths of the two countries will promote understanding and trust, and will be connected even more closely by friendly feelings like the inseparable ties between flesh and blood. The peoples of the two countries expect great things from the youth. The Korean people wholeheartedly wish the youth of Korea and China to create between Korea and China an eternally unchangeable beautiful rainbow of friendship in conformity with the expectations of their peoples.

PRC'S QIN JIWEI ARRIVES IN PYONGYANG FOR 'HOLIDAYS'

OW191901 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1525 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 19 (KCNA) -- Qin Jiwei, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the C.C., the Communist Party of China, and commander of the Beijing units of the Chinese People's Liberation Army and Army Corps commander of the former Chinese People's Volunteers, and his party arrived in Pyongyang on August 19 to spend holidays. They were met at Pyongyang railway station by Colonel General of the Korean People's Army Pak Chung-kuk and Chinese Ambassador to Korea Zong Kewen.

U.S.-ROK MINESWEEPING EXERCISES DENOUNCED

SK190400 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2155 GMT 17 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 18 August commentary: "Powder-Reeking Odor Spreads Over Southern Sea"]

[Text] Since 15 August, the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan military gangsters have been staging joint mine-sweeping training exercises.

These exercises are taking place in the sea off Yosu, South Cholla Province. Airplanes of the U.S. imperialist 7th Fleet, the 5th Air Force, the Tactical Air Force Command, and the puppet naval ships are participating in this joint training. It has been learned that the joint training will last for more than 10 days.

Because of this reckless war exercise of the U.S. imperialists and the puppets, the southern sea is engulfed in gunsmoke again and tension is being aggravated throughout the Korean peninsula. This military exercise is being staged as we are again calling for realizing talks between military authorities and for urgently taking measures to ease tension and as the anti-U.S. and anti-puppet struggle is being enhanced, prompted by the U.S. imperialists' undisguised economic aggression and the Asian Games. Thus, this exercise is attracting greater attention from the people.

The military exercise in Yosu is the open expression of the will of the U.S. imperialists and the puppets to advance along the road of aggravating tension and a new war, refusing our peace proposal. This is also an undisguised threat against the youths, students, and people who have vigorously risen in the anti-U.S. and antigovernment struggle throughout South Korea. The U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan clique have adhered to constant military exercises and armed provocations since the beginning of the year in an attempt to seek an outlet to maintain and prolong the aggravating colonial military fascist rule by triggering a northward aggressive war.

The U.S. imperialists and the puppet clique, having turned all of South Korea into the site of powder-reeking war exercises by staging the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise in defiance of the unanimous opposition of our people and the peace-loving people of the world, staged a joint river-crossing support training exercise even before the gunsmoke of the earlier exercise had disappeared. Following this, they carried out a joint naval exercise involving forces of the U.S. imperialist 7th Fleet and the puppet navy in the East Sea of Korea. The puppet clique has each day kicked up the commotion of large-scale war exercises -- including "Ttangbbol", "Pangpae" and "Ulchi" -- under the manipulation of the U.S. imperialists. Civil defense training has also been staged even more viciously.

A few days ago the puppets even perpetrated a vicious armed provocation by firing several hundred rounds of gunfire at our side's guardposts in the DMZ.

The U.S. imperialists and the puppets frequently make absurd powder-reeking remarks revealing their ambition for northward aggression. On 15 August when the war exercise began, traitor Chon Tu-hwan revealed his ambition for reunification by winning victory over the communists while raving about true liberation and so forth. All facts show that the U.S. imperialists and the puppets are going to ignite the fuse of war against our republic in the end. On the pretext of checking someone's aggression during the Asian Games, the U.S. imperialists and the puppets are staging military commotions. This is an excuse for concealing their northward aggressive war commotion. The threats of the warmongers who are staging adventurous military commotions, refusing our repeated peace proposals, cannot persuade anyone. What the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan clique will obtain from the policy of military adventure is merely their own downfall.

They talk about successfully hosting the Asian Games. However, their remarks only serve as a warning that international sports games should not be held in South Korea where the smell of gunpowder never fades, and their remarks will only serve to make the South Korean people's struggle against the Asian Games more fierce. The U.S. imperialists and puppet clique should act with discretion.

SUPREME MILITARY COMMAND IN ROK RESTS WITH U.S.

SK170843 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0832 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 17 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN Sunday comes out with a signed article headlined "Who Has Prerogative of Supreme Command?" In connection with the fact that the U.S. imperialists rejected talks between the military authorities, claiming as if the question of detente on the Korean peninsula were one related with the North-South relations. If the question of detente on the Korean peninsula can be solved by the efforts of the North and the South, as claimed by the U.S. imperialists, it means that the South Korean "regime" has real military power. This is a preposterous assertion, the paper notes, and says:

The U.S. imperialists have exercised real military power in South Korea over 40 years since they occupied it and the South Korean "regime" has never exercised the prerogative of the supreme command over the Army.

In August 1948 the United States forced upon Syngman Rhee the "tentative military agreement" stipulating that the commander of the U.S. forces occupying South Korea will continuously exercise the right to organize, train and equip the present South Korean ROK Army on the order of his home government or within his authority and has "the right to seize overall operational control over it".

After the provocation of the aggressive war in Korea, the United States seized prerogative of the supreme command over the puppet army more tightly. After the war, the U.S. imperialists clearly specified that the South Korean puppet army is under the operational command of the U.N. Command through "minutes of agreement".

The puppet army is dependent entirely on the United States not only in supreme command but also in the supply of weapons and military equipment, and the right to use them also is in the hands of the commander of the U.S. forces. When the United States organized the combined forces command, it maintained prerogative of the supreme command over the South Korean puppet army. Seizing it, the United States has driven the puppet army to the road of crimes.

We held that the commander-in-chief of the U.N. Forces should participate in talks between the military authoritis, because he seizes real military power in South Korea. In rejecting talks between the military authorities the U.S. imperialists showed that they are not interested in detente and peace in Korea but pursue only the policy of aggression and war.

U.S. IN COMPLETE CONTROL OF SOUTH KOREA

SK150921 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0850 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 15 (KCNA) -- The South Korean puppets have set the stage for sundry functions under the name of "liberation day anniversary," claimed that South Korea was "liberated" on August 15, 1945, and it was brought by the United States. NODONG SINMUN today in an article titled "What Kind of 'Liberation' and 'Independence' Can There Be to a Colony?" brands this as a sheer lie reversing black and white, and says:

August 15 did not bring liberation to South Korea. The colonial rule only changed hands--from the Japanese imperialists to the U.S. imperialists. Upon landing in South Korea, the U.S. imperialists took the place of the Japanese imperialists as the new colonial ruler. The U.S. imperialists, the chieftain of modern colonialism, have put on South Korea the garb of an "independent state" by framing up the "National Assembly," "government" and the like to make the South Korean "regime" appear as a lawful one. But it is a marionette "regime" which exercises no sovereign right. Through a string of "treaties" and "agreements" they signed with South Korea, the U.S. imperialists have grabbed the right to military occupation of South Korea, the supreme command of the puppet army and main economic arteries including finance and banking to establish their colonial domination, freely trampling upon the sovereignty of the South Korean people. They keep the South Korean puppet regime on a tight leash and have the right to slay even the South Korean "president" or replace him with another any time they want.

The South Korean people are languishing today, their national soverignty and freedom violated under the brutal colonial rule of the U.S. imperialists. Do the phraselogy of "liberation" and "independence" fit such place? It is scandalous of the dispicable colonial puppets to talk about "liberation" and "independence" while prolonging their days under the patronage of the U.S. imperialist master. Their desperate attempts to stage the Asian Games and the Olympics in Seoul, defying the opposition of the South Korean and world people, are also motivated by their criminal objective to disguise South Korea as "an independent state."

If South Korea is to be truly liberated and made independent, it must be liberated from the U.S. imperialists' colonial fascist rule and a national independent regime be established there.

MAC MEETING DISCUSSES RETURN OF KOREAN WAR DEAD

SK191158 Seoul YONHAP in English 1145 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Panmunjom, Korea, Aug 19 (YONHAP) -- The United Nations Command (UNC) here announced Tuesday that it has renewed efforts to gain North Korea's cooperation in returning the remains of UNC war dead during the Korean war (1950-53). The announcement was made after the 479th meeting of the Military Armistice Commission (MAC) Secretariat held at the truce village of Panmunjom on Tuesday morning.

In the meeting, UNC passed to the North Korean side new evidence and other information about the probable location of remains of UNC personnel killed in action in the North during the war. Also passed was a list of the 2,233 UNC prisoners of war and 18 civilians still unaccounted for and a list of 308 personnel missing or killed in action whose remains are believed to lie in the North, according the announcement. At the meeting, UNC proposed that both sides cooperate on this humanitarian issue through the active exchange of information, search for, exhumantion and repatriation of remains of military personnel located in their respective areas of control, the announcement said.

DJP, NKDP LEADERS MEET, DISCUSS PENDING ISSUES

SK200023 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 20 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Political leaders pledged yesterday to make sincere efforts to find a compromise on constitutional amendment through frank dialogues for the future of the nation.

They agreed in a dinner meeting that joint efforts should be made to produce a new constitution by agreement and achieve "genuine democracy."

The ruling and opposition parties will set about negotiations over how to rewrite the Constitution at the Special Committee on Constitutional Amendment of the National Assembly from next week on the basis of the separate draft amendments of their parties.

The political leaders were invited by Prime Minister No Sin-yong to his official residence at Samchong-dong which was rebuilt recently.

Attending the dinner were Assemly Speaker Yi Chae-hyong, No Tae-u of the ruling Democractic Justice Party, Yi Min-u of the main opposition New Korea Democratic Party, and Yi Man-Sop of the second opposition Korea National Party.

Also present were floor leaders of the three parties, Minister of State Chong Chae-chol for political affairs and Assembly vice speakers Choe Yong-chol and Cho Yon-ha.

The top politicians shared the view, in particular, that the parties are urged to jointly cope with the radical moves of the left-leaning student activism.

DJP chairman No said that "all of us have to pay keen attention to the left-leaning trend, and we have to avoid extreme confrontation among ourselves."

The evening get-together lasted for two hours and 45 minutes from 7 p.m. The contents of the talks were announced by Ha Su-pong, chief secretary to the premier, from the host side.

NKDP President Yi told the ruling camp leaders, No and No, that "The government should release political prisoners boldly and solve the pending issue of the amnesty and restoration of civil rights (for Kim Tae-chung and others).

Yi claimed that the solution of the issues will help create an atmosphere conducive to a revision of the basic law on the basis of partisan accord.

Premier No replied that "all problems will be solved automatically if an agreed constitutional amendment is achieved."

No's chief secretary Ha told reporters, "The leaders did not meet to discuss specific agenda. They exchanged views on overall situation of the nation. [no closing quotation marks as received]

NKDP President Yi said that the government should reinstate "democratic figures, including Kim Tae-chung, to create an atmosphere for constitutional revision by agreement.

He also noted that the freedom of the press should be guaranteed to remove the trend of distrust in society.

"To achieve the amendment to the basic law by agreement, we have to cut many knots. Youths who sometimes make radical moves should be forgiven," Yi stressed.

Yi went on, "The Constitution should be amended, not for a specific person but for the national and people's interest."

After the dinner meeting, Yi met reporters separately and revealed that he called for the convocation of a special National Assembly session to deal with the fire of the Independence Hall, the Korea-U.S. trade conflicts and other outstanding issues.

He said he strongly protested the police firing of tear gas bombs directly on opposition assemblymen who had tried to attend a human rights rally at Myongdong Cathedral last month.

"I urged Premier No and DJP Chairman No to make their best efforts to solve various problems by conveying what I told them to President Chon Tu-hwan," Yi added.

He said he now believes that talks between rival parties will be held briskly on the level of party representatives and floor leaders.

Requested to appraise the result of the meeting, Yi said, "It is significant in that I spoke on various questions openly, without any reservation."

Meanwhile, minor opposition leader Yi Man-sop said emphatically that the representatives of rival parties should have frequent talks with one another to tackle current problems.

"If we failed to solve questions by having dialogues, we will become sinners before history," he noted.

He added that when politicians give a dream and hope to the general public, they will begin to trust the government.

PHOUN SIPASEUT DEPARTS FOR HANOI CONFERENCE

BK180958 Vientiane KPL in English 0908 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Vientiane, August 18 (KPL) -- A delegation of the Lao Ministry of Foreign Affairs headed by Phoun Sipaseut, Politburo-member of the LPRP CC, vice-chairman of the Council of Ministers [CM], and minister for foreign affairs, left here for Hanoi by special plane on August 16 to attend the 13th Conference of Indochinese Foreign Ministers to be held there on August 17 and 18. The delegation was seen off at Wattai Airport by Phoumi Vongvichit, Politburo-member of the LPRP CC, vice-chairman of the CM, and other high ranking officials. Vu Tien and Li Hach, respectively charges d'affaires of the SRV and the PRK to Laos, were present at the send-off.

Returns From Hanoi 19 Aug

BK191522 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 1200 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] The LPDR Foreign Affairs Ministry delegation led by Phoun Sipaseut, member of party Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign affairs minister, returned to Vientiane by a special plane today after attending the 13th plenary conference of the foreign affairs ministers, of Laos, Vietnam, and the PRK, which was held 2 days ago in Hanoi.

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS ESTABLISHED WITH ZIMBABWE

BK150435 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] In implementation of the principles of the United Nations Charter and with the desire to establish relations of friendship and cooperation with mutual benefits on the basis of the principles of equality, noninterference in one another's internal affairs, and respect for one another's independence and territorial integrity, the governments of the LPDR and of the Republic of Zimbabwe have agreed to establish the diplomatic relations at ambassadorial level from 14 August 1986.

THAI DAILY SAYS RESISTANCE PLANNING CONGRESS

BK180247 Bangkok THE NATION in English 18 Aug 86 p 2

[By Pratya Sawetwimon]

[Text] An anti-communist Laotian movement will hold a congress at the end of this year in a foreign country to elect a new leader for its underground political party, an informed source said.

The course said the movement, known as the United Front of Lao People for Liberation of Laos (UFLPLL), will elect a successor to Gen Phoumi Nosavan, the Front's late president who died of pulmonary edema in November last year.

He said the congress, whose participants will comprise representatives from the Laotian communities in foreign countries all over the world, might be held in France where most of the ex-Laotian leaders have settled down after they fled Laos in 1975 when the country fell to the communists.

According to the source, Gen Khamkhong, former commander of the Laotian Second Army Region, who was dismissed from the post in 1965, is currently in charge of the front's military affairs while Thao Khamouan Lattanavong, former Laotian banker, currently takes care of its political work.

Gen Phoumi announced the formation of the anti-communist liberation movement of Laos in October 1982 when Thao Khamouan and Gen Khamkhong were in charge of the party's finance and war veterans respectively.

Gen Khamkhong, a Savannakhet native, and the 60-year-old Thao Khamouan are considered front-running candidates along with Gen Khamkou, another ex-Laotian military officer in charge of intelligence, to take over the leadership of the anti-communist Laotian movement.

The UFLPLL, whose 7,500 Laotian rebels currently operate against the Vientiane force and Hanoi troops in Laos along its frontier with Thailand mostly in the southern part of the country, was established with the merge of several anti-communist resistance groups in 1976-1980.

The source said several local commanders of the anti-communist rebels during that time proposed that Gen Phoumi be president of the front to unite their resistance movement.

The UFLPLL is one of the three major rebellion groups, currently operating against the communist Vientiane regime and Vietnamese troops in Laos.

The other two underground movements are the United Front for National Liberation of Laos (FUNL) or "Hom Laos", comprising of Hmong hilltribe fighters led by Gen Vang Pao in northeastern Laos, and another anti-communist group led by Chao Boun-eua Na Champassak who earlier succeeded his father Thao Sisou.

Most of the leading members in the UFLPLL were from southern Laos while the FUNL mostly comprises key figures from the Laotian capital of Vientiane, according to the source.

The FUNL, the source said, has about 2,000-3,000 anti-Vietnam rebels while Chao Boun-eua's group has a battalion of its guerrillas operating in the Laotian province of Champassak bordering Thailand and Kampuchea.

According to the source, the FUNL, one of the UFLPLL counterparts, was established in 1982 and an ex-officer in the former non-communist Laotian Army, Gen Thonglit, was picked up by Gen Vang Pao to be commander of the FUNL's forward army.

He also said that in 1981 the UFLPLL, led by Gen Phoumi, agreed with the leading Kampuchean resistance force of the Khmer Rouge to cooperate in their struggle against the Vietnamese forces in the two neighbouring countries.

The agreement, the source said, was made between Gen Phoumi and the Khmer Rouge Supreme Commander, Son Sen, in a meeting held at the Khmer Rouge stronghold of Pead-um close to the Thai-Kampuchea-Laotian border opposite the Thai northeastern province of Ubon Ratchathani.

The agreement, however, led to friction between Gen Phoumi and another leading member of the UFLPLL, Phagna Inpeng who at that time became dissatisfied with cooperation between the front and the anti-Hanoi Kampuchean guerrillas.

Phagna Inpeng, said the source, later lobbied for an opposition to the agreement among the Laotian communities in France where he has been taking asylum.

His lobbying campaign, according to the source, later led to misunderstanding among the Laotian communities in foreign countries, especially in the U.S. that he was apointed by Gen Phoumi as the front's new leader.

A senior official of the UFLPLL claimed that the misunderstanding as well as some technical problems have caused the reluctance by the FUNL of Gen Vang Pao to officially join with the UFLPLL in their struggle against Hanoi's troops in Laos.

Though, so far, no official alliance has been formed among the three major anti-communist groups in Laos, the three groups, claimed the official, have been cooperating with each other in the field.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS HELD IN BOLIKHAMSAI, VIENTIANE

BK150437 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Since mid-July, the provincial and district party and administrative committees as well as grass-roots party units and various services in Bolikhamsai Province have organized political life campaigns to study and contribute views to the draft political report of the party Central Committee which will be submitted to the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress. In these significant political life campaigns, the cadres as well as state employees of various services throughout Bolikhamsai Province have studied, profoundly understood, and together extensively contributed views to the draft political report.

Through the campaigns, all the cadres and state employees have come to clearly understand the glorious achievements and great victories scored by our people. They have also understood clearly various weak points and remaining problems that must be settled in a proper way. During the campaigns, they also examined and criticized themselves and one another so as to together settle correctly remaining problems in carrying out their tasks in conformity with the line and policy of the party on the implementation of the strategic tasks in localities, in particular on the guiding of various production units to switch to implementing the new economic apparatuses in an effective manner.

Further reports say that the political life campaigns and campaigns to study specialized subjects of teachers in Long Sang and Long Son areas in Nasaithong District, Vientiane municipality, concluded at the Phialat secondary school on 8 August after 5 days of work. The campaigns were attended by some 94 teachers from the area. The political life campaigns were guided by Khamphong Phanvongsa, deputy minister [of education] and chief of the educational department of Vientiane municipality, along with a number of academic cadres concerned.

In the campaigns, they studied the political documents of the party Central Committee, resolutions and instructions of the party and administrative committees of Vientiane municipality, instructions of the educational department of the municipality, and review reports for the 1985-86 school year together with the action program for the 1986-87 school year of the educational committee of the municipality.

SAYABOURY, CHAMPASSAK STUDY POLITICAL REPORT

BK180515 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Various branches of work at the grass-roots level in Sayaboury and Champassak Provinces are currently studying the draft political report, which will be submitted to the fourth party congress by the LPRP Central Committee. During their study, all sectors, services, and production bases have applied the tasks and orientation in the new period to their action plans, particularly to organizing and implementing tasks in each respect. At the same time, they expressed their unanimous views on the issue of turning economic sectors into financially viable enterprises and on the implementation of the new, socialist economic management mechanism and regarded the contents of the draft political report as the direction for carrying out each aspect of work in the years to come.

Military School Ends Study

BK101448 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 8 Aug 86

[Text] In mid-July, the primary combined military training school organized a session to study the documents on the draft political report of the party Central Committee, which will be presented to the forthcoming fourth party congress. Attending the study session were all officers and men attached to various units in the school. During the study session, the participants contributed extensive and profound views to the draft political report. After the end of the study, the school administration outlined a program to be fulfilled to score achievements to welcome the fourth party congress so as to make it profoundly significant and full of glorious achievements and victories.

Army School 303 Studies Report

BK101444 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 9 Aug 86

[Text] Army School 303 attached to the Army General Staff Department recently organized a session for cadres and members to engage in a political life campaign with a view to building the units under the school administration to become strong and progressive in all respects and to enable leading and command cadres as well as party members to clearly understand and appreciate the party's line and policies. The participants also studied and contributed views to the draft political report of the party Central Committee, which will be presented to the forthcoming fourth party congress. To promote a campaign to score achievements to welcome the fourth party congress, the school, together with Battalion 245 and the livestock breeding settlement of the school also participated in the political life campaign.

BRIEFS

Japanese Offer Aid -- Vientiane, August 13 (KPL) -- The government of Japan has agreed to grant 513 million yen to the Lao PDR as aid in the second stage of reparation of electric power stations in Vientiane. A document on the aid was signed here on August 12 by Lao Deputy Foreign Minister Souban Salitthilat and Japanese Ambassador Toshitaka Tada. This is only a part of Japan's 1986 aid for development in Laos. [Text] [Vientiane KPL in English 0902 GMT 13 Aug 86 BK]

PREM ASSIGNS MINISTERS, DEPUTY PREMIERS JOBS

BK200213 Bangkok THE NATION in English 20 Aug 86 p 6

[Excerpts] Democrat leader Phichai Rattakun has been named the first deputy premier in an order issued by Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon to delegate authority to his deputies and PM's office ministers.

According to a PM's office order dated August 15, Chat Thai leader Maj Gen Chatchai Chunhawan, Social Action executive Phong Sarasin, Adm Sonthi Bunyachai, and Ratsadon leader Gen Thianchai Sirisamphan were made the second, third, fourth and fifth deputy premiers respectively.

The order empowered Adm Sonthi 69, to countersign all Royal Commands on the premier's behalf except those concerning Defence Ministry affairs.

It also assigned the five deputy premiers and six ministers attached to the Prime Minister's Office to take charge of official agencies, mostly in line with the allocation of Cabinet portfolios to the four coalition partners. [Passage omitted]

The order, however, did not assign any particular deputy premier to take charge of administration affairs during the absence of the prime minister.

Other assignments in order are as follows:

Deputy Premier Adm Sonthi Bunyachai: The Secretariat of the Prime Minister, Office of the Permanent Secretary to the Prime Minister, Office of the Juridical Council, Office of the Civil Service Commission and Office of the Commission of Counter Corruption.

Deputy Premier Gen Thianchai Sirisamphan: the National Statistical Office, National Youth Bureau, Office of the National Education Commission, Electricity Generating Authority of Thailand, Sports Authority of Thailand, Zoological Park Organization and Office of the Auditor-General.

PM's Office Minister Michai Ruchuphan: Office of the Juridical Council, Office of the Civil Service Commission, Office of the Commission of Counter Corruption, Office of the Permanent Secretary to the Prime Minister.

PM's Office Minister Suli Mahasanthana: Office of the Board of Investment, Office of the National Economic and Social Development Board, Budget Bureau and Electricity Generating Authority of Thailand.

PM's Office Minister Chirayu Itsarangkun Na Ayutthaya: The Public Relations Department, Mass Communications Organization of Thailand and Tourism Authority of Thailand.

PM's Office Minister Chaisiri Ruangkanchanaset: The National Statistical Office and Department of Technical and Economic Cooperation.

PM's Office Minister Amnuai Suwankhiri: Office of the Auditor-General, Sports Authority of Thailand and Zoological Park.

PM's Office Minister Wichit Saengthong: The Office of the National Education Commission and National Youth Bureau.

DEN DENIES LOBBYING FOR PHICHAI'S OUSTER

BK190235 Bangkok THE NATION in English 19 Aug 86 p 2

[Text] Embittered leading Muslim MP Den Tohmina denied yesterday he was launching a move to grill Democrat leader Phichai Rattakun for excluding him from the new cabinet. The Pattani MP described as "unfounded" a press report that he was lobbying southern Democrat MPs to push for a "no-confidence" motion against Phichai for his handling of the nomination of party members to the coalition government.

"I have to date made no contact with any other southern Democrats and have no idea whether the issue will be raised for discussion," he said.

Admitting that he felt heavy-hearted, the influential Muslim figure said the party's failure to nominate him as a minister has angered Muslim constituents in the south. "They inquired me why Premier Prem did not select me as a cabinet member -- a move tantamount to insincerity toward the Muslims," he added.

He said he has to calm down his Muslim colleagues because "it is still not known whether Prem or Phichai deleted my name from the cabinet list."

Son of a Muslim revered teacher Haya Surong, the four-time Pattani MP, said he was approached by Democrat deputy leader Chuan Likphai and secretary general Wira Musikaphong to defect from Chat Thai Party on a condition he would be made a minister in case the Democrats became partners of the post-election coalition government.

Den was the key figure who led the Democrats to win five parliamentary seats in the Muslim-dominated southern border provinces in the July 27 general election.

An informed Democrat source said that Wira proposed Den as one of 16 Democrat ministers during a meeting called to select the party ministerial nominees. "And no one raised any objection to Den's nomination," said the source who asked not to be identified.

"Even Wira and Chuan expressed doubts why the announced cabinet list did not include Den," he said.

Den said he has not yet decided whether to take the heed of some Muslim leaders' call for him to resign from the party. "But should they adopt a resolution calling for my resignation, I'm bound to comply with it," he said.

Meanwhile, Wira, a deputy interior minister, conceded that the "Den controversy" would pose a serious problem on the party's future election campaigns in the south because the Muslims have been the party's stalwarts.

"The party got more southern seats because we promised the Muslims of a cabinet portfolio," he said.

PRACHUAP DELIVERS POLICY PROPOSAL ON CRIME

BK200229 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 20 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The Interior Ministry gave Duputy Prime Minister Phichai Rattakun its suggestions for incorporation in the Government's policy statement yesterday.

A source said the ministry is putting special emphasis on the acceleration and intensification of suppression of crime, particularly involving war weapons and drugs.

While the draft also emphasises the need to ease unemployment and upgrade labour welfare, it falls short of saying the ministry will introduce a social security bill.

Laws to suppress vice will be strictly enforced, according to the draft, and entertainment establishments will be made to comply with the law.

The source said Interior Minister Gen Prachuap Suntharangkun wants drastic action to wipe out the narcotics trade. The minister was quoted as saying the authorities must earnestly suppress marijuana cultivation.

"The officals concerned, including governors, cannot deny their responsibility if the cultivation of marijuana for commerical purposes is dicovered under their jurisdiction," said Gen Prachuap.

QUEEN EXPLAINS HER ILLNESS TO WELLWISHERS

BK190510 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 19 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] An unrelenting desire to improve the well-being of people in rural areas and refusing to rest despite fatigue and exhaustion caused Her Majesty the Queen to fall ill and disappear from public view, Her Majesty said yesterday.

Addressing a large audience of birthday well-wishers at the Dusit Dalai Pavilion in Chitlada Palace, Her Majesty described her illness as a costly lesson, but said the many letters she had received has encouraged her to try to recuperate from her ailments.

Calling her sickness "bad fortune", Her Majesty said she was pleased to see a large number of people assembling to express birthday wishes.

Although now fully recovered, the Queen expressed thanks to well-wishers who were concerned about her health and to those who had come to the palace.

"When I was younger I spent hours talking and showing you photo slides of achievements in attempts to help the poor. That is because you had given me money to give to the people in remote areas and I considered I had a duty to report to the donors on how and on what I had spent the money," Her Majesty said.

The Queen said she had to act as a representative because the people who received the money could not thank the donors personally.

Her Majesty said although her health had improved, she would be unable to travel for some time. But the Queen added that she was happy to receive letters and telephone calls from well-wishers.

Her Majesty said she thought the concern expressed by the people was the best gift she had ever received and it had made her feel happy that there were people who sympathised with, and were concerned about, her long disappearance from the public eye.

"I have fought against various rumours and I have realised that kindness and concern for others have been traits of the Thai people for countless hundreds of years," Her Majesty said.

She said she was delighted the people had used the occasion of her birthday to perform good deeds.

"I'd like to tell you that you have made great merit because by doing so you are healing a person who is recuperating from illnesses and trying to get back to normal," the Queen said.

Her Majesty emphasised that she had fallen ill because she was trying to do too much and trying to see as many people as possible in remote areas to raise their standard of living. The Queen added that she wanted to help the children of people in remote areas through education and to help eradicate malnutrition.

The Thai people were capable but needed someone to help train them to use their capabilities to upgrade their living standards.

Her Majesty the Queen said she wanted to spend every minute of her time for the benefit of the people and had defied recommendations from well-wishers to rest.

"I did not think it would be an expensive lesson. Had I followed the Lord Buddha's teaching of the Middle Path, I would not have fallen ill and wasted so much time like this," Her Majesty said.

The Queen added that she was spending time on her health and was leaving work to her children because she did not want it to be interrupted.

SITTHI SAYS SRV WANTS TO HAVE GOOD TIES

BK181324 Bangkok Television Service in Thai 1300 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] At the Sanam Luang ground this morning, the Parents and Teachers Association of the Suan Kulap College organized a charity walkathon chaired by Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila. A large number of school alumni, teachers, and students joined in the event. On the occasion, the foreign minister talked to correspondents of the Mass Communications Organization of Thailand on the new Vietnamese leadership's stand on the Cambodian issue.

[Begin recording] [Sitthi] I hope that Sihanouk will be successful [in his current Southeast Asian tour]. I will meet with other ASEAN members, first with Malaysia, and will discuss our position. We will leave it to the CGDK under the leadership of Sihanouk to play a role in peace talks with Vietnam for Vietnamese troop pullout.

[Unidentified reporter] Has the Vietnamese leadership signaled a change of its policy?

[Sitthi] It remains to be seen. Vietnam sent congratulatory messages to us and exchanged messages on occasion of the 10th anniversary of diplomatic relations. It also agreed to our request to release our fishermen. This is good attitude. It is holding a meeting of the three Indochinese countries. It wants to have good relations with China. Its messages to us show that it desires to have good relations with us. We will wait to see if it is sincere. [end recording]

ISOC TO REDUCE STAFF, WILL KEEP SECURITY STAFF

BK151514 Bangkok MATICHON in Thai 14 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Army Assistant Chief of Staff Lieutenant General Charuai Wongsayan said on 12 August that the Internal Security Operation Command [ISOC] plans to reduce the size of its staff; thus far the size has been reduced substantially in proportion with the diminishing work load. The army assistant chief of staff for civilian affairs said ISOC will maintain the present level of staffing only in those areas concerning security, such as operational intelligence which needs armed men. ISOC will meanwhile expand work concerning political operations and development of programs already established, such as the national reserved militia program, the national defense volunteer program, and the village self-defense and development program. The work will concentrate on achieving targets set for economic and social development in rural areas where government service is still not available.

The assistant army chief of staff for civilian affairs said that, although theoretically the revolutionary struggle of the Communist Party of Thailand [CPT] is considered over, CPT elements continue to operate in certain areas. ISOC therefore will have to maintain its strength in some areas where CPT activities continue, including urban areas. He said a study is being conducted in order to determine the workload of each ISOC unit and the personnel needed by each unit. He said that ISOC expects to be able to reduce its staff by 50 percent.

PLANTERS PROTEST U.S. SUGAR SALES TO PRC

BK191306 Bangkok MATICHON in Thai 19 Aug 86 p 16

[Text] Somphap Siworakhan, secretary general of the Sugarcane Planters Association, said that on 19 August the association would hand a protest note to the U.S. Embassy in Thailand over the sale by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of 145,850 metric tons of raw sugar to China at the cost of 4.75 [U.S.] cents per pound on 11 August. Sugarcane and sugar producing countries agreed that the U.S. move was responsible for the drastic drop in the price of sugar in the world market over the past several days.

Officials of the Australian Government have already protested over the U.S. sale because it has upset the sugar markets and caused a price drop of 1.30 cents per pound. Somphap said the note would also be submitted to the Foreign Ministry, the Agriculture and Cooperative Ministry, the Commerce Ministry, the Industry Ministry, and the prime minister. "We will ask the government and the U.S. Embassy to stop the United States from selling the rest of its sugar, or about 150,000 metric tons, at the same low price," Somphap said.

SRV SUPPORTS GORBACHEV NUCLEAR TEST BAN

Truong Chinh Comments

OW191524 Hanoi VNA in English 1513 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 19 -- Truong Chinh, general secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and president of the Council of State, voiced support for the recent Soviet Union's decision to extend its unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests till January 1, 1987.

In his meeting with Yuriy Myakotnykh, charge d'affaires A.I. of the Soviet Embassy, General Secretary Truong Chinh said that this is a very important peace decision which manifests the unswerving foreign policy of peace and the high sense of responsibility of the Soviet Union toward the destiny of all nations.

This initiative, he said, is imbued with the spirit of the 27th CPSU Congress. It also highlights the most noble objective of socialism to constantly take care of peace and security of all nations the world over.

Truong Chinh voiced the Vietnamese people's warm welcome to and full support for the Soviet decision announced by party General Secretary M. Gorbavchev on August 18, 1986. The Vietnamese people, he stressed, are strongly convinced that at present all peace and progressive forces in the world, closely united in a persistent struggle are quite able to stay the adventurous actions of the war-like imperialist and other reactionary forces, repel the danger of a nuclear war and safeguard a durable peace on our planet.

NHAN DAN Comments

OW200747 Hanoi VNA in English 0719 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 20 -- In a long editorial today, NHAN DAN says that the Soviet Union's decision to prolong its moratorium of nuclear tests will certainly further stimulate the nations' fight for their own existence, peace and international security.

"The Soviet Union's decision," NHAN DAN continues, "is based on logical and principled assessments of the realities in the nuclear era in which the problem facing mankind is not just one of peace and war but peace or extinction. The paper says this decision is all the more important at this juncture when the danger of a nuclear war provoked by the militarist and bellicose policy of the U.S.-led imperialist forces is growing.

"The Reagan administration is whipping up a new and very dangerous arms race which gives rise to the possibility of the deployment of nuclear weapons in outer space. The quick improvement of war techniques makes it imperative to take practical measures to halt the imperialists' military adventure, to check in time development of sophisticated weapons and eventually to terminate the nuclear arms race.

"A complete ban on nuclear tests is an important measure to ward off the danger of a nuclear holocaust, to prevent the perfection of nuclear weapons and to accelerate the process of disarmament. It will be the first step toward the settlement of burning global questions and to divert the huge expenditures and the great potentials of human knowledge and technology to the service of human life."

NHAN DAN goes on: "The responsible persons in Washington must realize that nations are firmly against the danger of a nuclear holocaust and against the nuclear arms race. They will not let the US use its disarmament talks with the Soviet Union as a smokescreen." NHAN DAN stresses that the decision of the Soviet Union announced by Mikhail Gorbavhev on August 18 would provide the U.S. more conditions to assess the world situation more seriously and calmly and not to miss an opportunity to end the arms race. "Together with other peoples in the world", NHAN DAN concludes, "the Vietnamese people demand that the U.S. live up to its commitments at the Geneva conference, first of all by signing with the Soviet Union an agreement on cessation of all nuclear tests."

CPV ACCLAIMS TRUONG CHINH-GORBAVHEV MEETING

OW191517 Hanoi VNA in English 1505 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 19 -- The Political Bureau of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee today acclaimed the result of the meeting in Moscow on August 12 between General Secretary Truong Chinh and Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union Central Committee.

After hearing a report of Truong Chinh on the result of the meeting, the political Bureau praised it as a new, important step forward in the militant solidarity and the all-round cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union. It valued highly the strong support and valuable assistance of the party, state and people of the Soviet Union for the Vietnamese people in their socialist construction and national defence.

The Political Bureau expressed its satisfaction at the unanimity of views between the two parties, states and peoples on strengthening the Vietnamese-Soviet all-round cooperation. It voiced full support for the Soviet important initiatives relating to Asia and the Pacific, and the Soviet-U.S. summit talks on the disarmament on nuclear weapons and on consolidating world peace.

TRUONG CHINH RECEIVES HUN SEN, PHOUN SIPASEUT

BK181532 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] On 18 August, at the Presidential Palace, Comrade Truong Chinh, general secretary of the CPV Central Committee and chairman of the Council of State, received Comrade Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister of Cambodia; and Comrade Phoun Sipaseut, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister of Laos, who were in our country to attend the 13th regular conference of the foreign ministers of Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam.

Present at the reception were Comrade Nguyen Co Thach, alternate member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau and foreign minister; Comrade Nguyen Xuan, Vietnamese ambassador to Laos; and Comrade Ngo Dien, Vietnamese ambassador to Cambodia. Also on hand were Comrade Khampheun Tounalom, Lao ambassador; and Comrade Tep Henn, Cambodian ambassador to Vietnam.

On behalf of the CPV Central Committee, the state, and the people of Vietnam, Comrade Truong Chinh warmly greeted the victories in all fields of the three Indochinese peoples and welcomed the fine success of the 13th conference of the Cambodian, Lao, and Vietnamese foreign ministers. The conference concluded recently in Hanoi.

The comrade general secretary highly valued the total identity of views on the issues raised at the conference and the measures set forth by the conference aimed at strengthening the special relations and all-round cooperation among the three Indochinese countries, coordinating their efforts to lead their just cause to victory, and resolving the problems concerning peace in Southeast Asia.

Comrade Truong Chinh was pleased to learn that the latest conference of the Indochinese foreign ministers warmly welcomed the important statement by Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU, at Vladivostok, and that it also affirmed that, while incessantly striving for peace and stability in Southeast Asia, the three Indochinese countries have also made ceaseless efforts to contribute to the world people's common struggle to end the arms race, eliminate the danger of a nuclear war, and preserve world peace. The comrade general secretary stressed: Although there are still many difficulties immediately ahead, the solidarity between the three Indochinese peoples is a law and a factor ensuring their victory. The people of Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam will certainly achieve final victory.

On this occasion, Comrade General Secretary Truong Chinh asked Comrades Hun Sen and Phoun Sipaseut to convey his best regards and wishes to Comrade General Secretary Kaysone Phomvihan, Comrade General Secretary Heng Samrin, and the other comrade leaders of the Cambodian and Lao parties and states.

Comrades Hun Sen and Phoun Sipaseut expressed their joy at being in Hanoi to attend the 13th conference of the Cambodian, Lao, and Vietnamese foreign ministers at a time when the Vietnamese people are enthusiastically engaging in emulation activities to score achievements in honor of the anniversaries of the August revolution and the National Day, 2 September. They informed Comrade General Secretary Truong Chinh of the fine success of the conference and affirmed that the Cambodian and Lao peoples pledge to do their utmost to ceaselessly strengthen and consolidate the special relations and all-round cooperation between the three peoples in the interests of each country and for the sake of peace and stability in the region.

Comrade Hun Sen and Phoun Sipaseut sincerely thanked Comrade General Secretary Truong Chinh for giving them an extremely cordial reception. The reception proceeded in a very intimate atmosphere permeated with special fraternal friendship.

Hun Sen, Phoun Sipaseut Depart

OW191840 Hanoi VNA in English 1503 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 19 -- Kampuchean Foreign Minister Hun Sen and Laos Foreign Minister Phoun Sipaseut left here this morning after attending 13th regular Indochinese ministerial conference which was closed yesterday. They were seen off at the government's guest house by Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach and other Vietnamese senior officials. Kampuchean Ambassador Tep Henn and Lao Ambassador Khampheun Tounalom were among the farewell party. While here the Kampuchean and Lao foreign ministers and their parties paid tribute to President Ho Chi Minh at his mausoleum.

PAST INDOCHINESE PEACE INITIATIVE REVIEWED

OW160829 Hanoi VNA in English 0717 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Quotation marks as received]

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 16 -- The three countries on the Indochinese peninsula -- Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea -- have persistently worked for the transformation of Southeast Asia and the whole Asia and Pacific region of peace, stability, cooperation and friendship. Through their foreign ministries' annual conferences and by their practical deeds, they have made important initiatives and proposals aimed at solving the outstanding problems in the region.

At the first Indochinese ministerial conference of the three countries held in Phnom Penh in Jan, 1980, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea expressed their readiness to discuss and sign bilateral non-aggression treaties with other countries in Southeast Asia, and discuss the establishment of a peaceful, independent, free neutral, stabilized and prosperous Southeast [Asia]

At the second conference held in Vientiane in July 1980, the three countries renewed their fundamental proposals put fourth in the January 5, 1980 joint communique of the first conference, and stressed the necessity to discuss and sign bilateral or multilateral non-aggression treaties between Laos, Kampuchea, Vietnam and Thailand, to sign a bilateral treaty of non-aggression and peaceful co-existence between the Indochinese countries and the ASEAN countries. At the same time, they stated their readiness to discuss with other countries in the region the establishment of a Southeast Asia region of peace and stability and to peacefully settle together disputes in the East Sea. At this conference, the People's Republic of Kampuchea put forth a four-point proposal aimed at easing tension and turning the Kampuchea-Thailand border into one of peace and friendship.

The third conference held in Ho Chi Minh City on January 1981 issued a statement saying that in order to restore peace and stability in Southeast Asia, it is essential that China put an end to its hostile policy towards the three Indochinese peoples and its policy of interference in other countries in the region. It expressed the three Indochinese countries' wish to sign with the People's Republic of China bilateral treaties of peaceful coexistence based on the principles of strict respect for each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit, good neighbourliness and settlement of all disputes by peaceful means. At that conference, the three Indochinese countries proposed that a regional conference be held between the two groups -- the Indochinese countries and the ASEAN countries -- to discuss problems of mutual concern in the interests of peace, stability, friendship and cooperation in Southeast Asia on the basis of the principles of equality, mutual agreement, respect for the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of each country, non-imposition of the will of one group on the other, and non-interference from outside.

At their fourth conference held in Phnom Penh in June 1981, the three countries proposed that a regional conference be held between the Indochinese and the ASEAN countries on regional matters of mutual concern with the participation, as observers, of UN secretary general in his personal capacity, and representatives of some other countries to be mutually agreed upon. In case the ASEAN countries are not yet prepared to particpate in a regional conference as mentioned above, the three Indochinese countries proposed a continuation of regional consultations, as proposed by some ASEAN countries, between countries in the region on a bilateral or multilateral basis, to discuss and reach agreement on regional issues of mutual concern. They also proposed that an international conference with a broader participation to be agreed upon by both sides be convened to acknowledge and guarantee the agreements reached in the regional conference or regional consultations. If the United Nations stops recognizing Pol Pot and his clique, the Indochinese countries will consider the possibility of this international conference being convened by the United Nations.

At the fifth conference held in Vientiane in February 1982, the three Indochinese countries once again stated their wish for a positive response from the Chinese side to the proposal dated Jan 28, 1981 of the three Indochinese countries concerning the signing of treaties of peaceful coexistence with the People's Republic of China. they are also prepared to discuss with Thailand all questions of common concern. These contacts may be undertaken directly or indirectly, bilaterally or between the three Indochinese countries on the one hand and Thailand on the other. "The Indochinese countries welcome the trend existing with the ASEAN countries in favour of dialogue with the Indochinese countries".

At the sixth conference held in Ho Chi Minh City in July 1982, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea again called on the Peopole's Republic of China to give a positive response to their proposal of Jan 28, 1981. Vietnam proposed to resume the Vietnam-China talks to settle problems in their bilateral relations... Vietnam reaffirmed its standpoint regarding the partial withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea, agreed to take the first steps and decided to withdraw a number of its troops from Kampuchea in July 1982.

The three Indochinese countries are ready to negotiate with Thailand on all necessary measures to ensure security, independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity for each country, and are prepared to organize meetings with Thailand and settle all questions of each side's concern".

They proposed the convening of an international conference on Southeast Asia with the participation of the two groups of Indochinese and ASEAN countries, of Burma, of the five countries who participated in the international conferences on Indochina, namely the Soviet Union, China, the United States, France and Great Britain, and of India. The U.N. secretary general will be invited to attend this conference in his personal capacity. The three Indochinese countries resolutely demand that the U.N. expel the Pol Pot and disguised Pol Pot clique and return the Kampuchean seat to the People's Republic of Kampuchea".

The seventh conference held in Phnom Penh in July 1983 took note of the ASEAN countries' indicated willingness to promote dialogue with the countries of Indochina. The three countries reiterated their readiness to take the proposal of the ASEAN countries for a zone of peace, freedom and neutrality (ZOPEAN) as a basis for discussion between Indochina and ASEAN aimed at turning Southeast Asia into a zone of peace and stability. The Vietnamese volunteer troops will all be withdrawn as soon as China puts and end to its threat, the conference stressed.

The eighth conference held in Vientiane in January 1984 noted that "the three Indochinese countries are prepared to undertake bilateral consultations, as well as to start immediately conversations, between the two groupos of ASEAN and Indochinese countries. All proposals set forth by each side shall be matters for discussion on the basis of equality.

The conference also noted that a growing number of ASEAN countries are manifesting their wish to promote dialogue with the Indochinese countries. It again called on the governments of all countries to help foster this trend for the sake of peace in Southeast Asia and in the world.

The three-point joint communique issued by the 9th conference held in Vientiane in July 1984 noted that "although differences still exist between them, both the ASEAN and the Indochinese countries share a common desire and common interest in easing tension, strengthening mutual understanding and finding ways to gradually bring about durable peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

"The conference held that "the ASEAN proposal of September 21, 1983, and the proposal of the three Indochinese countries put forth on Jan, 29, 1984 as well as all other proposals from both sides should be taken as a basis for discussion on an equal footing and in mutual respect," and that "the three Indochinese countries welcome vietnam's continued dialogue with Indonesia as well as with the other ASEAN countries on question of mutual concern to both groups of countries."

The 10th conference held in Ho Chi Minh City in Jan 1985, issued a 6-point communique noting the correct view of the ASEAN countries that "the Kampuchea issue is not (not) a problem between the ASEAN and Indochinese states". The conference welcomed the intention of several Southeast Asian states to develop their bilateral relations with Vietnam and Laos, welcomed the Malaysian proposal to turn southeast Asia into a nuclear-free one and materialize the ZOPEAN concept pending a solution tc the "Kampuchea problem". The conference expressed the three countries' "confidence that within five to ten years' time the so-called Kampuchean problem will of itself settled even in the absence of a negotiated solution.

The 9-point joint communique of the 11th conference held in Phnom Penh in August 1985 announced a very important joint decision of the People's Republic of Kampuchea and the Socialist Republic of Vietnam that the Vietnamese volunteer force will pursue their yearly gradual withdrawals from Kampuchea and will conclude their total withdrawal by 1990. The fifth point of the communique says that the conference considers Malaysia's proposal on proximity talks to be an initiative that deserves examination.

For her party, the People's Republic of Kampuchea declared her readiness to start talks with various Khmer opposition groups or individuals in order to discuss the realization of national reconciliation on the basis of the elimination of the genocidal Pol Pot clique as well as the general elections to be held following the total withdrawal of Vietnamese volunteer forces from Kampuchea.

The 12th conference held in Vientiane in Jan 1986 issued an 8-point communique reiterating the 5-point stand and the proposals already put forth at the 10th and 11th conferences. It stressed that "two aspects of a political solution to the Kampuchea question, internal and international, have to be distinguished. The conference held that "concurrently with a peaceful solution to the Kampuchea question a stable and lasting peace in the region has to be ensured. It stressed that an agreement should be reached on the setting up of a zone of peace and stability in Southeast Asia wherein states with different social systems would coexist peacefully on the basis of the principles mentioned in the declaration of Bandung in 1955, of the declaration of the three Indochinese countries put forth by the Lao foreign minister in 1981, of the Kuala Lumpur declaration in 1971 and of the Bali declaration in 1976.

GRASS-ROOTS CONGRESSES REJUVENATE LEADERSHIP

BK191335 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Reinforcing party committee echelons at the grass-roots level with more young, fully qualified, and capable party members is a policy now being carried out by various party committees at the provincial, muncipal, and precinct or district levels. Hanoi and Haiphong Municipalities and the provinces of Guang Ninh, Ha Nam Ninh, and Ha Bac have recently held party organization congresses at a number of villages, municipal wards, and enterprises to draw upon experience for guiding other basic units in holding congresses. These party organization congresses have elected a number of young party members to the new party committee echelons.

Ha Nam Ninh Province has directed party organizations at the village and enterprise levels to resolutely consolidate and rejuvenate the grass-roots party committees beginning with the current term, considering this an important step toward renovating the contingent of cadres at the grass-roots level. In Nghe Tinh and Ha Bac Province, although the grass-roots-level party committee echelons were already consolidated in late 1985, party organizations of villages, enterprises, state farms, and state forests have held congresses to elect an additional number of young party members to the party committees, thus increasing their militancy at present and, at the same time, creating conditions for training future cadres for villages and district.

Ha Nam Ninh Congresses

BK191555 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0500 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] The Ha Nam Ninh Province Party Committee is holding party organization congresses at the grass-roots level. The organization sector, working in coordination with the propaganda and training, control, and people proselytizing sections of the province, has called a training conference of five key cadres from every grass-roots unit, including the party committee secretary and deputy secretary and the cooperative chairman, to familiarize them with the fundamental contents of the draft documents to be presented at the Sixth Party Congress and the draft reports to be submitted to the provincial and district party congresses. After attending the conference, the key cadres and party committees concerned will, based on the actual situation of their own localities or units, prepare reports for submission to grass-roots-level congresses and set forth the orientations and tasks for the coming years.

The Ha Nam Ninh Province Party Committee has paid attention to training a contingent of capable instructors whose job will be to disseminate the contents of party congress documents to every party member. Before holding congresses, the provincial and district party committes finished the first phase of self-criticism and criticism, promptly resolved all the cases that were brought up, and resolutely remedied shortcomings. The province has sent various teams to districts and basic units to supervise efforts aimed at correcting shortcomings and making preparations for hold congress.

The Ha Nam Ninh Province Party Committee held the first congress at the party organization of Hai Dong village, Hai Hau District to gain experience for guiding other villages and city wards in holding their congresses. Some 20 district, cities, and units subordinate to the province have organized congresses at the grass-root-level units to gain experience before holding congresses at other party organizations. Hai Hau District has held congresses at 12 villages. All the remaining villages will finish holding congresses by 28 August; the district will then make preparations for holding its party organization congress.

PROVINCES STUDY DRAFT POLITICAL REPORT

BK191122 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] The party organizations of Dac Lac, Ha Tuyen, and Minh Hai Provinces have arranged for key cadres to study and discuss the party Central Committee's draft political report to the Sixth National Party Congress and to apply the ideological concepts of this document to the formulation of orientations for local party activities.

The conference of key cadres in Dac Lac Province contributed its views to the provincial party committee concerning the adoption of socioeconomic targets for 1986-90 and pressing measures designed to accelerate production and gradually stabilize the living conditions of cadres, workers, state employees, and people of various ethnic minority groups. As an immediate step, the province will concentrate on satisfactorily finishing the second phase of self-criticism and criticism, caring for rice and subsidiary food crops in the 10th-month crop season, and preparing conditions for exceeding the planned acreage for various types of grain and food crops to be planted in the 3d annual crop season to produce 230,000 metric tons of grain by the end of this year.

On the distribution and circulation front, the province will concentrate efforts on controlling money and goods, tightening control over the market and prices, expanding the retail network, and renovating distribution and business methods to bring essential consumer goods directly to eligible customers.

The conference of key cadres of the Ha Tuyen party organization contributed many views to the local draft political report with the aim of correctly assessing achievements as well as mistakes and shortcomings in carrying out the two strategic tasks in the province. As an immediate step, the province will concentrate efforts on overcoming all the consequences of natural and enemy-caused calamities, planting the 10th-month crops successfully, ensuring smooth communication and transportation, and consolidating and developing the battle position in the peoples war to defeat all of the enemy's sabotage and land-grabbing attempts.

The key cadres of Minh Hai Province devoted much time to studying the major viewpoints of the draft political report and thoroughly discussed the part dealing with the socioeconomic tasks to further clarify the viewpoints already presented in the draft, especially those concerning the production of grain and food. At the same time, they contributed many straightforward, honest, and serious views to help the party resolve difficulties on the distribution and circulation front in the coming period.

On this occasion, the Minh Hai Province party committee has launched an emulation movement to finish the 10th-month rice planting plan successfully, satisfactorily care for summer-fall rice, and immediately prepare to rapidly reap the summer-fall rice and retransplant the second annual crop on schedule.

MALAYSIA

MINISTER DENIES RUMOR MAHATHIR TO RESIGN

BK191257 Kuala Lumpur Domestic Service in Malay 1230 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Excerpts] Education Minister Anwar Ibrahim says the government wants to help establish not only competent and professional workers groups, but also those with a high sense of discipline. [passage omitted]

Meanwhile, speaking to newsmen later Anwar Ibrahim dismissed reports carried by a local newspaper to the effect that Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir would resign soon. He described such reports as mere guesswork; the rumors must have been spread by those who want to destroy the people's confidence in the Barisan Nasional's victories in the recent general election.

PETRONAS ISSUES CONDITIONS FOR OIL REDUCTION

BK181042 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] The chairman of the national petroleum corporatation, Petronas, Raja Tan Sri Mohar Badiozaman, says Malaysia's proposal to cut its oil production by 10 percent will stand only if oil prices actually go up. For such a move to be meaningful, all prices will have to show significant increases.

He was commenting on Malaysia's position to support OPEC's announcement of a 20-percent production cutback among its members for a 2-month period from the 1st of next month. This means that the 13 members of OPEC will produce 4 million barrels per day less till the 1st of November. Raja Mohar says oil producing countries are keenly awaiting price development after the 1st of November to see if they should reduce or keep their production levels. He points out that a decision such as that taken by Malaysia reduce oil production will have to take some time to be implemented. He feels that production cutback of 4 million barrels per day by OPEC members and another million barrels by nonmembers like Malaysia could help to shore up world prices.

MARCOS LOYALIST LEADER SHOT DEAD IN MANILA

HK200215 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Marcos loyalist leader and Batangas provincial fiscal Felizardo Lota was killed by a lone gunman last night [19 Aug] in front of the Manila Hilton hotel on Maria Orosa Street in Manila. Lota is one of the prime movers of the Marcos loyalists' movement. He was shot four times in the head, neck, and chest. He was dead on arrival at the Philippine General Hospital. A lone witness, electrician Danilo Regalado, said he saw the fiscal talking with the killer before he was gunned down. Police probers however said Lota was walking with the killer after emerging from the Manila Hilton where he attended a loyalist meeting when he was shot. The killer then walked casually towards T.M. Kalaw Street where he boarded a taxicab. Lota was shot with a 45-caliber gun.

The slain Marcos loyalist was the legal counsel for many loyalist leaders and followers who are facing charges in court for various violent rallies. The Kilusang Bagong Lipunan leadership reacted with indignation over the killing of fiscal Lota. In a statement through party acting president former speaker Nicanor Yniguez, the KBL said Lota's killing is a sad commentary on the peace-and-order situation in the country under President Aquino's government. Yniguez said the KBL is demanding a thorough probe of Lota's killing.

Plot to Kill Loyalists Suspected

HK200916 Hong Kong AFP in English 0905 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 20 -- Police continued a manhunt for the killer of a pro-Marcos leader Wednesday as a lawyer for deposed President Ferdinand Marcos revealed what he called a plot to assassinate top Marcos loyalists. "We had been warned that some groups are planning to assassinate loyalist leaders this week," lawyer Rafael Recto told reporters as he attended the wake of slain pro-Marcos leader Felizardo Lota. The 46-year-old Mr Lota, a former state prosecutor, was shot twice in the head and twice in the body Tuesday by a man armed with a pistol who walked up to him in front of the Hilton Hotel in central Manila. Police said the suspect then took a taxi outside the hotel, which is less than 200 meters (yards) away from Manila Central Police Headquarters.

Mr. Recto, a former member of parliament, said he would not like to identify the alleged plotters. "Certainly they are not from our group," he added. "It happened already. Is that not proof enough (of the alleged plot)?" he said. Homicide probers said they had no suspect in custody yet and that the investigation was ongoing. They had no comment on Mr Recto's charges.

Mr Lota was the first Marcos loyalist killed since an uprising here in February swept Corazon Aquino to power. The killing occurred three weeks after the murder of an Aquino supporter by Marcos loyalists in Rizal Park near the Hilton. Mr Recto would not say if the two killings were related, but noted that the killer of Mr Lota "was a man who was not afraid of the police and the (paramilitary) constabulary." He charged that the killing was committed "in the presence of a policeman and 20 other witnesses." Mr Recto represents Mr Marcos in legal suits filed against him here and abroad.

NPA WARNS AQUINO OF RIGHTIST COUP PLAN

OW191209 Tokyo KYODO in English 1200 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 19 KYODO -- The communist-led New People's Army (NPA) warned the government of President Corazon Aquino that rightists were planning to "stage a coup and grab power in the name of rescuing democracy." The general staff of the 16,500-strong guerrilla army issued the warning in a statement in its official newspaper, RED FLAG made available to KYODO news service Tuesday.

The NPA statement was issued to belie published reports that "hardcore rebels" opposed and criticized ongoing peace negotiations between the government and the leftwing coalition, the National Democratic Front (NDF), aimed at ending the 17-year insurgency. It reiterated that the "entire NPA is solidly behind" the NDF and the Communist Party of the Philippines on the peace talks, which began last month in Manila. "A genuine, lasting peace has always been and remains the single goal of the armed struggle," the NPA added.

"We recognize and welcome the possibility presented by the current political situation of attaining peace through a negotiated solution," the NPA said. The rebel general staff said that a manifesto signed by an "NPA special operations group" criticizing the talks was fabricated and part of a "larger scheme" by military men and civilian supporters of ousted President Ferdinand Marcos. It said that the rightists would "simulate anarchy" by launching armed attacks on government institutions and personalities, blaming it on the NPA, and using this as an excuse to overthrow the Aquino government.

Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile last week disclosed that Marcos loyalists are plotting to topple the new government and kidnap key officials before or after Aquino's visit to the United States in September. Leaders of Marcos' New Society Movement, on the other hand, have denied the Enrile accusation saying that only the military has the capability to undertake such a plan. The NPA said that should the rightists, whether military or loyalist, push through with their "foolish plan," the revolutionary forces will resist them "more intensely and in a broader scale than they had ever seen before."

KMU TO LAUNCH GENERAL STRIKE IF COUP ATTEMPTED

HK191151 Quezon City ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA in English 19 Aug 86 p 7

[Text] Leaders of the Kilusang Mayo Uno [1 May Movement -- KMU] yesterday warned that any attempt by loyalists and militarists in the leadership of the Armed Forces of the Philippines and the Ministry of National Defense to take over the government during President Aquino's overseas trips would lead to nationwide civil strife.

KMU national spokesman Crispin Beltran said members of the KMU national executive council have already reached a consensus that in the event of a coup, all 650,000 members of the KMU would immediately launch within three days after the incident a general strike as the spearhead of a nationwide Welgang Bayan. [national strike]

Beltran added that the KMU also opposed the move to set up a caretaker government through the National Security Council as proposed by Vice-President Salvador Laurel.

"A caretaker government through the National Security Council in President Aquino's absence would be a de facto civilian-military junta, with the military outvoting the civilians," he noted.

Beltran stressed that workers will vigorously defend the democratic gains won by the people during the February revolt that saw the downfall of the Marcos regime.

"It is clear that the loyalists and certain militarists in the AFP-MND [Armed Forces of the Philippines Ministry of National Defense] leadership are alarmed over the strong democratic inclinations of the Aquino government," he explained.

MISAMIS MILITARY OPERATIONS AGAINST NPA HALTED

HK200241 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] President Aquino has ordered a stop to military operations against communist rebels in a group of villages in Misamis Occidential. The president gave the order after her political affairs minister told her that the operations caused hardship to about 1,000 villagers near Calamba in Misamis Oriental Province. [as heard] The villagers left their homes last month and encamped in the town proper after six people were killed and many other wounded in crossfires and military shelling.

Even as President Aquino ordered a halt in military drives in Misamis Occidental, three suffered clashes between government troops and communist rebels broke the de facto cease-fire in northern Mindanao. [as heard] The clashes occurred in Kalabugaw and Valencia in Bulkidnon and in Kamagong near Butuan City. Reports said the clashes occurred when NPA rebels ambushed government patrols despite the fighting. [as heard]

Region 10 military commander Brigadier General Mariano Adalem said the military has approved a request by the NPA to extend the cease-fire which expired last August 16. Gen Adalem said he assured the rebels that the military will not carry out operations in the provinces and municipalities covered by the cease-fire. The general said the military will continue negotiations.

3 NPA Suspects Killed

HK191127 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 19 Aug 86 p 15

[Text] Three suspected members of the New People's Army were killed, while eight others, including an amazon, were wounded and capture yesterday during a two-hour gun-battle with the PC [Philippine Constabulary] and Civilian Home Defense Forces [CHDF] in Sitio Matarakong, Barangay Hacienda Baggao, Cagayan.

Reports reaching Camp Crame said there were no casualties reported on the government side.

In a report to Brig Gen Manuel Ribo, Regional Unified Command in Cagayan and 5th infantry division chief, the slain NPA rebels were identified as Ka Jerry, Ka Poling and Ka Felix. Their real names were not immediately available as of presstime.

Captured were Democrito Villamor, alias Ka Ric, of Butuan City, and seven others all from Cagayan province. They were Dionisio Buenavides, Recto Bulseco, woman rebel Erlinda Vilamino, Esmeral Kabana, Gilbert Gorospe, Freddie Sapana and Medardo Pabero.

Recovered from the rebels were one M-79 grenade launcher, five M-16 rifles and two M-14 rifles.

The wounded rebels were brought to a hospital in Cagayan province for treatment and later subjected to tactical interrogation.

According to the report, the rebels were encountered by elements of the 120th PC Company together with the CHDF unit of Baggao and other civilian volunteers from that town under the command of T/Sgt Manuel Magna-am of the Cagayan PC/INP [Integrated National Police] command.

Meanwhile, Ribo reported to Maj Gen Renato de Villa, acting PC/INP chief, that feelers were sent by Ignacio Capigzan, chairman of the Northern Luzon Commission of the CPP [Communist Party of the Philipplies] NPA.

Capigzan said the local subversive groups will abide by the decision of the central committee with regards to the current national efforts for reconciliation.

Ribo said military operations in the region, supported by rural and urban residents in the town areas, prevented the rebels from going to their usual food sources forcing them to resort to cattle ranch raids in Tuguegarao and Isabela.

"Hunger is stalking the rank and file of the CPP/NPA which may force them to consider negotiation feelers which the military and the civilian sectors in the area have already initiated," Ribo said.

The current suspension of logging operations in the region has also reportedly deprived the rebels of their former lucrative source of "progressive taxation" needed to finance their daily operations, Ribo added.

OFFICIAL QUESTIONS NDF EMISSARIES' REPRESENTATION

HK191323 Manila THE MANILA EVENING POST in English 18 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Excerpts] Brig. Gen. Luis G. San Andres, Commanding general of the AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] Civil Relations Service, last night said former newsmen Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel "are not the top leaders of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and do not have the personality [as published] to represent the rebels in the peace negotiations with the Aquino government."

San Andres said the AFP believe Ocampo and Zumel cannot represent the CPP as a whole.

He decided: "They might the popular leaders in the underground movement, but are not necessarily the supreme heads of the local communists."

"When President Aquino declared the ceasefire talks, she said she would negotiate only with the leaders of the CPP. Ocampo and Zumel are but part of the National Democratic Front (NDF), CPP's political arm," San Andres said.

San Andres said "the call for peace talks caught the insurgents by surprise and failed to conduct an election of officials to represent them in the negotiating table. This is the reason why they are asking all those impossible demands prior to a formal meeting with government emissaries."

In the projected talks, San Andres said the communists successfully projected the NDF as the highest branch of the CPP.

"This disturbs us," he said, "because we may end up meeting the wrong persons."

San Andres said despite the ceasefire call, the insurgents continue to do battle with the AFP with "agaw-armas" (gun-grabbing) still on the rise. [passage omitted]

Meanwhile, the AFP said the latest procurement of Israel-made "Uzis" by the Ministry of National Defense (MND) is part of the "normal" restocking of arms by the MND and the AFP.

"We are not buying arms because there will be war. The people expect us to be prepared against any dangerous threat, and they do not expect us to buy 'white flags' or lollipops," he said.

The spokesman added: "We must be thankful that in spite of the small budget of the AFP, it was able to realize some savings and procure arms. [no closing quotes as published]

Mitra Discusses Peace Talks

HK191041 Manila THE MANILA TIMES in English 19 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[Text] The second round of talks between government and rebel negotiators slated last Friday did not push through as scheduled, Agriculture and Food Minister Ramon Mitra, Jr. announced yesterday.

Mitra said the government panel, composed of himself and Commission on Audit Chairma Teofisto Guingona in place of former Sen. Jose Diokno who is now undergoing medical treatment in the United States, failed to receive word from their counterparts -- Antonio Zumel and Satur Ocampo -- as to why the scheduled dialogue was postponed.

Mitra, however, said the talks may probably be resumed within this week as the government panel has submitted its credentials to Zumel and Ocampo, who insisted that their official role as approved by President Aquino be presented to them.

The problem on the guidelines, specifically the coverage of the safe conduct passes, has also been resolved by Gen. Fidel Ramos, armed forces chief of staff, who assured the rebel panel that the guidelines can be revised.

Mitra said Zumel and Ocampo became skeptical and doubted the sincerity of the military to achieve peace following the guidelines issued by General Ramos.

The rebel leaders were apparently critical of the military's announcement that the safe conduct passes would only last for 30 days, that they will not be allowed to move freely and carry firearms during the duration of the dialogue.

Mitra was interviewed by newsmen shortly before appearing over a one-hour television talk show aired over Channel 4 every Friday night.

During the same interview, Mitra dismissed reports that their counterparts refused to recognize the government panel, saying "This is not true because the other side is no longer dealing with individuals but the government."

Reports said the rebel leaders' failure to meet with the government panel over the weekend to resume their talks could be attributed to their deliberate refusal to recognize Mitra's panel.

The MAF [Ministry of Agriculture and Food] minister also told newsmen that he is still waiting for the proposed agenda which Zumel and Ocampo had promised to present days before the resumption of the talks.

Mitra said "with or without agenda, the government panel will see to it that the ceasefire issue will top the agenda in our next meeting."

"This is important to end the senseless killings which lately had escalated, particularly in the remote provinces of the country," he said.

The first dialogue was held in an undisclosed place in the suburbs last August 5.

NDF 'NOT OUT TO GRAB POLITICAL POWER'

HK181341 Quezon city ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA in English 16 Aug 86 pp 1, 7

[By staff member Joel Paredes]

[Text] The leftwing National Democratic Front [NDF] yesterday said it is not out to grab political power and is ready to forge a ceasefire on the Maoist insurgency with the Aquino Government without any precondition.

The NDF is ready to look for common grounds in the peace negotiation and is open to the government proposal for a "temporary cessation and an abatement of the fighting" while the peace talks are under way.

NDF spokesman Antonio Zumel revealed the underground stand to two Manila journalists, including this reporter, who met him at an undisclosed suburban district in Metro Manila as two NDF negotiators prepared to meet with Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra, Jr. to present the NDF agenda for peace.

"In this process of negotiation, let us look for common grounds," Zumel said in a three-hour taped interview. He was wearing a striped t-shirt and looked relaxed as he allowed two press photographers to take his first pictures in 14 years since going underground at the declaration of martial law in 1972.

Zumel said the government can show sincerity in forging lasting peace with the dissidents by disarming the paramilitary troops and armed detachments near guerilla fronts.

Saying that they were skeptical about the conduct of Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and the Armed Forces, Zumel said they would "deal with the political authority which is the President and her Ministers."

"It is our sincere desire to help the government in finding a lasting solution to our country's problem in soonest [as published] possible time," he remarked.

Right now, Zumel said they cannot openly come out because the military has not recognized the government panel's conditions for safe-conduct paseses for the two negotiators and their "small staff."

Zumel later showed a written attestation of chief government negotiator Jose W. Diokno which said the safe-conduct pass would mean "freedom from surveillance, harassment, molestation, apprehension or arrest."

"In short, it means freedom to go to places where talks are scheuled," Diokno's note remarked.

Diokno also assured lefist negotiators that their personal security guards "need not be identified and shall not be disarmed" as long as the two negotiators identify themselves, Zumel said.

Zumel said their safe-conduct passses should allow them to carry firearms to ensure their safety and of that their staff which included "consultants" and bodyguards.

"If they would insist that we could not carry firearms the trouble-makers in the armed forces and (deposed president) Marcos fanatics will have their field day," said the bespectacled rebel negotiator.

With an aide beside him, Zumel talked about their goals in this peace talks and dismissed rumors that they were out to demand "sharing of power" with the six-month old revolutionary government. "The NDF does not claim a monopoly of bright ideas," he stressed.

He said all the rebel groups under the NDF, including the banned Communist Party of the Philippines and its military arm, the New People's Army, were determined to work out solutions to the "root causes" of the 17-year insurgency in the country.

Zumel talked about ending hostilities between the government and the rebels, but noted that "it must be peace with honor. It must be peace based on justice."

Although the NDF has yet to submit an agenda for the talks, Zumel said they will insist on "resolving inequalities in this country."

Zumel said they were confident that if the Aquino government wanted to find solutions to the economic problems plaguing the country "we must stop the interference of the United States" in the Philippines.

Zumel also disclosed that communist party leaders "feel they should be legal."

"It is not the choice of the party to be illegal. It is the state that is hounding the party," he added.

Zumel noted that like the United States, Defense Minister Enrile and Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen Fidel Ramos wanted to end the insurgency problem by "brute force."

He also accused Enrile of "witch-hunting" and leading a smear campaign to "discredit the underground movement on the eve of its peace talks with the Aquino government."

Zumel also accused the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) of conniving with its "junior partners" -- the Ministry of National Defense-AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] intelligence in a "continuing slander campaign."

He ruled out Enrile's earlier statement that the leftists were out to grab power by 1991 by infiltrating the government.

"There is no such plan and neither is there a plot nor a design to infiltrate people in the government," he said.

Zumel also denied that they would make "ridiculous" demands which was once claimed by Palace Deputy Executive Secretary Fulgencio Factoran Jr.

Saying that Factoran's remarks were "premature," Zumel said "What is [it] about high public office that seems to warp the minds of other people that are otherwise good?"

Zumel said the United States was apparently behind the "black propaganda" campaign since it even tagged the Soviet Union as one of the socialist countries financing the NDF.

Zumel admitted that they were getting support from "friendly nations" but noted that the Soviet Union was not one of them.

Zumel said the NDF remains as the alliance of revolutionary groups which now includes workers, peasants, youth and students, teachers, businessmen and the clergy.

He said the NDF's aim was liberation from foreign domination and the setting up of a "people's democratic government" that would include all "patriotic and democratic elements," in society.

Zumel also noted that the leftists are also likely to participate in election but only if they were assured of a "genuine election" where all sectors will be represented.

Asked on how they would handle ceasefire issue [as published], Zumel noted that it "should be included within the framework of a discussion on the more fundamental problem in our society."

Zumel said he and Satur Ocampo will meet again with the government negotiators "within 7 to 10 days."

Zumel also confirmed that they have considered Ocampo's fugitive wife, Carolina "Bobbie" Malay, as their third negotiator in the peace talks.

Zumel said they were willing to discuss preliminary issues with Mitra and Diokno's alternate, Commission on Audit chairman Teofisto Guingona.

He noted however that they prefer to wait for Diokno to return from his medical treatment in the United States before discussing "substantive" issues.

RAMOS ISSUES WARNING ON REPORTING TO NEW DUTIES

HK181405 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 18 Aug 86 p 20

[Text] Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen Fidel V. Ramos has threatened to court martial any military officer who fails to report "on time" to his place of new assignment.

This was contained in an instruction sent by general headquarters to all military units in the country.

All military personnel, particularly officers, should report on time to their places of assignment when covered by orders for transfer, Ramos ordered.

The order came amid reports that Marcos loyalists are recruiting so called "loyalist commandos" to execute an alleged terror plot to overthrow the Aquino government.

The monthly pay for the commandos was said to be from P5,000 a month for enlisted men and P200,000 for generals, according to a document reportedly unearthed by military intelligence recently.

Details of the plot, which includes kidnapping of President Corazon C. Aquino, Vice-President Salvador Laurel and high-ranking government officials, including Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, and commando raids on installations, were disclosed by Enrile last week.

In his order to all military commands, Ramos said failure by any enlisted men or military officers to report promptly to their new place of assignment "will be dealt with severely."

But for officers, Ramos threatened to court martial them if warranted.

Meanwhile, military authorities in Region 10 reported yesterday to Camp Aguinaldo that a group of 32 armed men wearing military fatigues atacked two Civilian Home Defense Force (CHDF) detachments in Misamis Occidental and fled with 15 assorted high powered firearms.

At least one CHDF member was killed and two others were wounded in the simultaneous raids on the detachment at barangays Guba and Dalingap, Clarin.

The head of the fatigue-clad armed band identified himself as Capt Magsalay, according to the PC [Philippine Constabulary] Region 10 command radio message to Camp Aguinaldo.

The slain militiaman was identified in the military report as Florencio Adaza, barangay captain and CHDF detachment commander of barangay Dalingap.

Wounded were Benjamin Demecillo Jr and Alac Nunze, both CHDF members of the barangay Guba detachment.

Carted away by the armed men were 10 Garands and one Armalite from the Guba detachment and four Garands from the Dilangap detachment.

Joint elements of the 10th infantry battalion and the second airborne unit, and elements of the Integrated National Police Field Force (INPFF) led by a certain Lt Col Savillano were dispatched to track down the raiders.

DISMISSED WORKERS URGE REMOVAL OF BASES

HK191051 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 19 Aug 86 p 2

[Text] About 30 dismissed employees of Subic naval base yesterday picketed the foreign ministry office in Padre Faura, saying the labor ministry was helpless in solving their problem.

Another group, numbering about 300 and composed mostly of relatives of Filipino workers laid off by U.S. military authorities in Wake Island, also demonstrated at Padre Faura.

The employees, who came all the way from Olongapo, said they were members of "Subic 42," who were dismissed June 17 on suspicion that they were campaiging for the abrogation of the U.S. bases treaty.

Linda Torres, sister of group leader Manuel who stayed behind in Olongapo on a hunger strike, said the workers were no longer interested in being reinstated.

Their main demand, she said, is for the country to assert sovereignty over the U.S. bases.

Vice President and Foreign Minister Salvador Laurel told reporters he needed enough facts before his office could decide on what to do about the issue.

In a related development, ministry spokesperson Rora Tolentino yesterday said the decision on the dismissal of Filipino workers in Wake Island was now in President Aquino's hands.

Some 200 Filipino workers in Wake's military base facilities would be replaced with Thai workers. The first batch of workers are due to arrive Aug. 20.

The Philippines had thrice attempted to resolve the issue, according to Tolentino.

Philippine Ambassador to Washington Emmanuel Pelaez first made recommendations with U.S. State Secretary George Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, she said.

Then the labor ministry held discussions on the matter and sent a report to President Aquino.

The third attempt, she said, is now being conducted on a diplomatic level. Assistant Minister for American affairs Leonides Caday, she said, may soon negotiate with U.S. embassy officials.

Before Caday can do so, Tolentino said the ministry would need the directives from the President on what to do.

Over at the labor ministry, officials denied claims that one of the main reasons for the dismissal of the Filipino workers was the insistence of the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration [POEA] for wage increase.

There is nothing on record to show that POEA had insisted on this the officials said.

MARCOS SAID TO PLEDGE BASES'REMOVAL IN 1991

HK191027 Quezon City ANG PAHAYAGAN MALAYA in English 19 Aug 86 p 7

[By staff member Chit Estella]

[Text] A high-ranking official of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said yesterday former President Marcos had made a commitment to the Non-Aligned Movement [NAM] not to renew the Philippines' bases agreement with the United States when it expires in 1991.

Deputy Foreign Minister Jose Ingles, who left last night to attend the Group of 77 meeting in Egypt and the Non-Aligned Movement Summit in Zimbabwe, said the promise was made by Marcos in 1979 to obtain for the country the status observer in that powerful group of developing nations.

Marcos sent letters to then President Anwar al-Sadat of Egypt, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India and President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia -- all frontrunners of the Non-aligned Movement -- the Philippines would not renew its bases agreement in 1991.

"It was on that basis that we were admitted as observer. Because of that promise, we were admitted in Havana, Cuba in 1979." Ingles said.

Ingles said, however, it is unclear if the new Philippine president would be bound by Marcos' promise.

Diplomatic observers said the ousted President's remarks might have been simply one of the occasions when he tried to distance himself from the United States in an effort to get more concessions from that country.

Reacting to a wire report saying the NAM might decide to waive its principle requiring members to renounce military bases and alliances in order to allow the Philippines to become a member, Ingles said, "How can they relax on one of the basic principles of the NAM?"

He said the country has a military alliance with the U.S. in addition to two American military bases. "Both of these are against the principles of the Non-Aligned Movement."

Although the Philippines would remain a mere observer when the movement meets this month in Harare, Zimbabwe, Ingles said it would still attend the summit in order "to be attuned to the feelings of the (more than) 100 nations comprising the NAM."

When asked if the new government would be implementing a foreign policy of non-alignment, Ingles answered, "Well, it's a very good thing, non-alignment. Why should we allow these two superpowers to decide the destiny of our nation?" He went on to criticize Filipinos who "argue like Americans and take the American position."

KBL HOLDS FIRST MEETING SINCE REVOLUTION

HK190057 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 17 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By Staff member Raissa I. Espinosa]

[Text] Return Ferdinand Marcos, and the US bases can stay here beyond 1991.

Some 1,000 Kilusang Bagong Lipunan (KBL) members shouted out their approval to this resolution yesterday in the Aberdeen Court restaurant where they held their first meeting since the February Revolution.

Former Gov. Vicente Magsaysay of Zambales, one of the organizers of the meeting, urged his fellow partymen to support the US bases because "this may be the reason for Marcos' return (which) will be sooner than you think."

"Maybe even tomorrow we'll have news he's arriving in Manila from Guam," he said.

In the same occasion, former Batasan Speaker Nicanor Yniguez announced the acting members of the KBL Central Committee, as follows:

Former Sen. Arturo Tolentino, titular head; Yniguez, president; former MP [member of parliament] Salvador Britannico, secretary-general; former MP Merced "Edith" Rabat, treasurer; lawyer Nora Petines, chairman of the National Association of Barangay Captains.

Designated president of the Municipal Mayors' League was former Vigan Mayor Evaristo Singson, while the president of the City Mayors' League was former Cabanatuan Ecija Mayor Honorato Perez.

Former MP Wenceslao Lagumbay will sit in for former senators; former Congressman Ramon Durano, for former congressmen; former MP Rogelio Quiambao, for former MPs; and former MP Antonio Tupaz, for the Constitutional Convention.

Britannico told the CHRONICLE that the US, by supporting the Aquino government, "is doing a disservice to itself."

Baterina, for his part, blamed the US for the alleged 20 percent growth of communist insurgency in the past four months. "Nowhere in the history of this country has any government placed communism on the bargaining table and made communism important," he said. "By removing Marcos from the Philippines, the US unknowingly made communism very strong."

While his constituents were crying for the retention of the bases in exchange for Marcos, Tolentino urged the holding of simultaneous early elections for congressmen, the president and the vice-president.

But he also told his colleagues to accept "certain political realities," such as the Aquino government allegedly having more resources than the KBL.

Former MP and Marcos political strategist Leonardo Perez said the party had been reorganized to put up a united front.

Younger Leaders Urged

HK190101 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 18 Aug 96 p 3

[By Fil Viduya]

[Text] Two militant Marcos loyalist leaders yesterday urged the Kilusang Bagong Lipunan leadership to step down and give way to younger leaders of the party who are "more aggressive in their approach to the country's problems."

At the same time, another loyalist leader called on their members to stay home on Thursday, death anniversary of former Sen Benigno Aquino Jr to prevent possible confrontation with followers of President Aquino.

Former Batangas provincial fiscal Felizardo Lota and lawyer Nemi de Pedro II challenged the KBL leaders to pass on the KBL leadership to the "Young Turks" who can transform the party into a strong and credible opposition party.

The two leaders, who are known to represent the militant and avidly pro-Marcos loyalists, opposed moves to merge the KBL with other political parties like the Nacionalist Party, Partido Nacionalista ng Bayan and other groups to enhance its chances of confronting the PDP-LABAN and United Democratic Organization (UNIDO) ruling coalition in the coming elections.

The loyalists said they recognize only former President Marcos as the President of the legitimate government whose return "we are now preparing to welcome."

Lota and De Pedro, however, stressed the similarity of their position with the KBL regarding the maintenance of the US bases in the country. "In fact, we want the bases to stay until such time as our country can provide adequate defense for its territory against hostile foreign powers," they added.

They also said their group intensified their teach-ins being held daily in various places in Metro Manila and nearby provinces. They said their rallies are temporarily suspended to avoid violence and death as the Aquino government has banned this political activity completely.

Teach-ins, according to them, have become an effective means of reaching out to people.

Lozano said their decision to "stay home" was prompted by reports they received that militant Aquino followers would foment trouble and violence which they will blame on the loyalists.

"Besides, how could we do that when the Aquino people are the ones now armed, not mentioning the New Armed Forces of the Philippines which is under their control and command," the FFP [expansion unknown] leader said.

He stressed that the loyalist movement adheres only to peaceful means in its campaign for the restoration of democracy, justice and the rule of law.

The loyalist leader also said the movement had been holding only peaceful rallies and other political activities to protest repressions under the regime.

Those previous mass actions, according to him, became violent only when infiltrators started to pull their dirty tricks, followed by ruthless dispersals by the military and the police.

PRESS SECRETARY TO ACT AS PRESIDENTIAL SPOKESMAN

HK181323 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 18 Aug 86 p 19

[Text] Veteran newsman Teodoro Benigno was appointed Saturday by President Aquino as presidential press secretary effective today. Benigno, as presidential press secretary, will have "full Cabinet rank." He assumes Teodoro Locsin, Jr.'s function as information minister and Rene Saguisag's position as presidential spokesman. Locsin will remain the President's speechwriter and head of the Presidential Center for Special Studies while Saguisag will devote his full time as chairman of the Presidential Nuclear Power Plant Committee and as a presidential legal adviser.

LIBERATION EDITORIAL ON PEACE TALKS

HK190700 Clandestine LIBERATION in English Apr-May 86 p 2

[Editorial: "The Question of Peace Can Be Solved Now"; editorial includes drawing of Philippine Army soldier's arm covered by mailed glove with caption "you can't shake hand with a mailed fist"]

[Text] The National Democratic Front wishes to reiterate its willingness to explore all avenues which may lead to the cessation of armed hostilities and the attainment of geniune peace in our land. It has been consulting on this matter with concerned Filipinos representing different interests, classes and sectors of our society, aside from taking certain steps as would facilitate the initiation of an actual dialog with representatives of the Aquino government.

Two facts however stand out. First, the Aquino government has not officially declared a ceasefire. And second, the Armed Forces of the Philippines [AFP] have not eased, but rather escalated, their offensive actions against the masses and the revolutionary movement.

President Aquino talks about declaring a ceasefire at some time in the future. Individual AFP field commanders talk about actually having unilaterally declared a ceasefire in their areas of operation. General Ramos says there has been no ceasefire.

The Aquino government thus speaks with many voices. The reality is that since Mrs. Aquino assumed office the AFP's military and parlamilitary forces have not only been kept intact, but their ranks have been beefed up to conduct military operations. General Ramos himself partly confirmed this when he said that six combat battalions and 42 armored vehicles which used to be deployed in and around Metro Manila have been thrown into "counter-insurgency" operations.

This is further confirmed by reports we have been receiving from the field, including Kalinga-Apayao, Cagayan, Misamis Oriental, Ifugao, Nueva Vizcaya, Davao and the Bicol and Southern Tagalog regions.

In these areas, AFP units and paramilitary forces have been perpetrating killings, torture, hamletting and food blockades, looting and burning, bombings and strafings, and tong collections at highway checkpoints.

On the other hand, the AFP high command to this day has not acted upon President Aquino's order (as reported in the press) to dismantle the notorious Civilian Home Defense Forces. No decisive move has been made against local warlords and their private armies. Neither has the AFP done anything to confiscate more than a token number of the thousands of high-powered firearms illegally held by Marcos loyalists and other reactionary forces.

No wonder that the "New AFP" continues to be rejected by the people. Mere words do not suffice to convince the masses that the old puppet repressive army has indeed changed its nature, and won the right to the allegiance as the people's defenders.

From all indications, warmongering and antidemocratic interests here and abroad are systematically attempting to sabotage efforts that further the cause of peace. Their motive is to make President Aquino abandon her avowed objective of seeking reconciliation and peace based on justice, and to get her to commit herself firmly to fascist terror like the dictator Marcos.

Foremost among these saboteurs are the Enrile-Ramos faction and US imperialism. They scheme and work in cahoots with one another. It is not mere coincidence that while the Enrile-Ramos military clique pursues its terrorism against the masses and the revolutionary movement, the Reagan administration has been prodding Mrs. Aquino to "modernize" the AFP and launch unrelenting "counter-insurgency" campaigns.

This early, these vested interests are determined to impose their will upon a government that is just starting to come to grips with the enormous problems left behind by the deposed regime. They are bent on shielding and preserving the remaining repressive structures of that regime which are basically intact and considerably strong. They want to make the people's armed movement a scapegoat that can always be blamed for the deterioration of economic and social conditions in the country. In this way, they conveniently evade their own responsibility for such a deterioration, which would undeniably enhance their chances of grabbing power for themselves and excluding the democratic forces from meaningful participation in the task of governing the nation.

The National Democratic Front earnestly calls upon the authorities concerned to immediately halt all oppressive and punitive actions by government military and paramilitary troops against innocent people in the countrysides. It appeals to the patriotic officers and men of the AFP to dissociate themselves from those among them who would serve a master other than the Filipino people.

We firmly beleive that the question of peace can be solved. And it can begin to be solved even now.

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 162 21 August 1986

JAPAN

- Nakasone Expects Gorbachev To Visit in January C 1
- USSR's Marchuk To Visit 7-13 September C 1
- Foreign Ministry Welcomes USSR Test Ban Extension C 1
- 52 Depart to Visit Tombs on USSR-Held Islands C 1
- Planned 'New Jersey' Visit Sparks Controversy C 2
  - Gotoda Testifies in Cabinet C 2
  - Protest Rallies Planned C 2
- JSP Leaders Urge Doi To Run For Party Chairmanship C 3
- Japan Not To Follow U.S. on Discount Rate Cut C 3

NORTH KOREA

- Honoring of 1976 Panmunjom Axe Victims Criticized [NODONG SINMUN 21 Aug] D 1
- CPRF Memorandum on Liberation Anniversary D 2
- Politburo's O Kuk-yol Meets PLA, CPC's Qin Jiwei D 4
- Hwang Chang-yop Meets CPC's Chen Yeping D 4
- PRC Communist Youth League Group Visiting D 4
  - Arrives 20 Aug D 4
  - Kim Hwan Attends Banquet D 5
- Talks Held With Mongolian Trade Delegation D 6
  - Talks With Kim Pok-sin D 6
  - Trade Protocol Signed D 6
- External Economics Minister Leaves for Africa D 6

SOUTH KOREA

- UNC Says DPRK Started 19 Aug DMZ Shooting E 1
- Minister Urges North To Return to Negotiations E 1
- Parties To Suspend Activities During Asian Games E 1
- DJP To Conduct Party Leadership Reshuffle Soon [THE KOREA TIMES 21 Aug] E 2
- Minister Predicts Labor Disputes by Agitators [THE KOREA TIMES 21 Aug] E 2

CAMBODIA

- Hun Sen Returns From Conference in Hanoi H 1
- Hun Sen 'Interested' in Sitthi's Statement H 1
- VODK Reports Sihanouk's Bangkok Press Conference H 2

LAOS

- PASASON Hails Foreign Ministers Conference [20 Aug] I 1
- Sisavat Keobounphan Explains Draft Defense Bill I 2

THAILAND

U.S. Rules on Sulfur in Food 'Protectionist' Act [NAEO NA 13 Aug] J 1
Sitthi Lifts Travel Restrictions on Envoys [BANGKOK POST 17 Aug] J 1
Chawalit Takes Over Capital Security Command [THE NATION 16 Aug] J 2
  Athit Defends CSC's Role [BANGKOK POST 18 Aug] J 3
Ministry on Refugee Interviews, Payments [THE NATION 18 Aug] J 4
Finance Minister Reveals Fiscal Problems, Deficit [BANGKOK POST 20 Aug] J 5
Pichai Appoints MP Den, Others as Secretaries [BANGKOK POST 20 Aug] J 7

VIETNAM

Thai Charges of Military Intrusions Rejected K 1
Hanoi Party Draft Political Report Published K 1
  Hanoi Committee Studies Report K 2
Population Planning Committee Reviews Work K 2
People's Councils Review Past Activities K 3
Storm, Crop Pests Damage Autumn Rice Crop K 4

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Budget Cutbacks Force Pull-Out From U.S. Exercise M 1
Treasurer Keating Presents 'Stringent' 1986 Budget M 1
  Spending Slashed, Taxes Raised M 1
  Trade Decline Forcing Austerity M 2

NEW ZEALAND

Majority Wants Full ANZUS Role, End to Nuclear Ban [AFP] M 2

INDONESIA

MP Hopes Lugar Will 'Leave Calm' in Nation [AFP] N 1
Mokhtar Supports Call for Trial for Pol Pot [MERDEKA 9 Aug] N 1
Mokhtar on Singapore Tour; Shevardnadze Visit N 2
CGDK's Sihanouk Arrives for 4-Day Visit, Talks N 3
  Talks Held on Cambodia N 2
Suharto Delivers National Day Address N 3
Makhmud Sees No Need to Review President's Terms [THE JAKARTA POST 13 Aug] N 6

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Speaks on 3d Anniversary of Husband's Death P 1

Laurel To Join Aquino Entourage on U.S. Visit [BUSINESS DAY 20 Aug] P 1

Laurel, Lugar Discuss Lobby For Aid, Not Bases [NEWS HERALD 20 Aug] P 2

Economic Policy Plan Submitted to IMF [BUSINESS DAY 11 Aug] P 3

IMF Makes 'Major Concession' on Credit Assistance [MANILA BULLETIN 19 Aug] P 5

Ministers Urge Payment of Debts Based on Ability [MANILA BULLETIN 20 Aug] P 6

OTHER COUNTRIES

FIJI

Hayden Holds Talks With Fiji Ministers Q 1

KIRIBATI

Japan Plans 'Huge' Space Center, University [THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD 15 Aug] Q 1

It was greeted at Pyongyang railway station by Choe Yong-hae, chairman of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea; Pak Song-pom, vice-director of a department of the WPK Central Committee; Yi Chong-ki, editor-in-chief of NODONG CHONGNYON; Kim Dong-kuk, director general and editor-in-chief of the Kumsong Youth Publishing House; and other officials concerned. Also present to meet it were Chinese Ambassador to Korea Zong Kewen and his embassy officials. In border city Sinuiju the delegation was enthusiastically welcomed by youths, students and children there.

Kim Hwan Attends Banquet

SK210457 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0445 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) -- The Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth of Korea arranged a banquet at the People's Palace of Culture on the evening of August 20 in honor of the visiting Chinese youth delegation headed by Song Defu, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Youth League of China. Present there were Kim Hwan, member of the Political Bureau, and secretary, of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, Ho Chong-suk, secretary of the WPK Central Committee, and other officials concerned.

Speaking first at the banquet Choe Yong-hae, chairman of the LSWYK Central Committee, said the visit of the Chinese youth delegation to Korea would mark an important occasion in developing and strengthening the fraternal friendship and solidarity between the young people of Korea and China.

The CYLC, he said, has made many successes in the struggle for fulfilling the Seventh 5-Year Plan, carrying out four modernizations and reunifying the whole country by having Taiwan returned to the homeland. Noting that today the Chinese young men and women were thoroughly preparing themselves as a new generation of communism through active various movements such as the "Movement for Learning From Lei Feng", Choe Yong-hae sincerely wished them bigger success in the future.

The entire Korean youth set great store by the great Korea-China friendship based on the close intimacy between the leaders of the two countries and will make all efforts to add lustre to it, he said.

In his speech Song Defu said his delegation's visit to Korea was aimed at actively contributing to the strengthening of the friendship and cooperation between the youth organizations and youths of China and Korea and to peace and progress.

He further said: We know well that the LSWYK is taking an important part in carrying out the three revolutions, ideological, technical and cultural. It has rich experiences in different work such as arming the youth with the revolutionary traditions, communist morality and advanced science and culture.

The Chinese young people are deeply interested in socialist construction in Korea and sincerely rejoice over the achievements made by the Korean people. We strongly support the Korean comrades in their cause of the independent and peaceful reunification of the country, he stressed. He expressed the resolve to develop the China-Korea friendship generation after generation.

TALKS HELD WITH MONGOLIAN TRADE DELEGATION

Talks With Kim Pok-sin

SK210433 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0426 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) -- Vice-Premier Kim Pok-sin on August 20 met and had a friendly talk with the Mongolian Government trade delegation headed by B. Delgersuren, vice-minister of foreign trade. Present on the occasion were Vice-Minister of Foreign Trade Kang Chong-mo and Mongolian Ambassador to Korea Perenlein Urjinlkhundev.

Trade Protocol Signed

SK210440 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0429 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) -- A protocol on the delivery of commodities and payments for 1987 was signed here Wednesday between the governments of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the Mongolian People's Republic. Present at the signing ceremony on the Korean side were Minister of Foreign Trade Choe Chong-kun and other officials concerned and on the opposite side were the Mongolian Government trade delegation headed by B. Delgersuren, vice-minister of foreign trade, and Mongolian Ambassador to Korea Perenlein Urjinlkhundev.

EXTERNAL ECONOMICS MINISTER LEAVES FOR AFRICA

SK131043 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1017 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 13 (KCNA) -- A Korean Government economic delegation headed by Chong Song-nam, minister of external economic affairs, left here today for a visit to Tanzania and Senegal. It was seen off at the airport by Choe Chong-kun, minister of foreign trade; Yim Ki-song, vice-minister of external economic affairs; and Boris Morozov, charge d'affaires ad interim of the Soviet Embassy here.

UNC SAYS DPRK STARTED 19 AUG DMZ SHOOTING

SK201130 Seoul YONHAP in English 1117 GMT 20 Aut 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 20 (YONHAP) -- North Korea fired machine guns at two United Nations Command (UNC) posts across the Demilitarized Zone Tuesday night, the UNC announced Wednesday. The UNC announcement said that the UNC forces sustained no casualties or damage from the North Korea fire.

The UNC said it will charge North Korea with "this second serious violation" of the Armistice Agreement this month. The command said an early morning investigation by a multinational UNC team confirmed that North Korea initiated the firing at 7:40 p.m. Tuesday. It said the initial fire of some 30-40 machinegun rounds was directed at a UNC observation post on the southern bank of te Imjim River near the Han River estuary.

The UNC said South Korean soldiers at the UNC post returned defensive fire. At 7:41 p.m., a nearby UNC guard post called through a loudspeaker to halt the North Korean firing. Instead of replying, the command said, two North Korean guard posts on the north bank each fired 30-40 machine gun rounds at the UNC guard post. At 7:43, the UNC guard post returned defensive fire. All firing ceased at 7:45 p.m.

No further hostile action was reported for the rest of the night, the command said.

MINISTER URGES NORTH TO RETURN TO NEGOTIATIONS

SK200652 Seoul YONHAP in English 0641 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 20 (YONHAP) -- South Korean Unification Minister Pak Tong-chin Wednesday urged North Korea to return to the inter-Korean negotiating table at he earliest possible date in order to pave the way for the peaceful reunification of the nation. "It would be much wiser to make efforts toward substantial accomplishments in the three existing channels of inter-Korean dialogue than to create a new channel, such as military talks," he said. Pak made the remarks in a speech he delivered at a symposium on national unification held in the ancient capital of Kyongju. More than 300 students from 37 universities in Korea attended the meeting.

Pak said that Pyongyang should take all the responsibility for the heightening of tensions by unilaterally suspending the dialogue, citing as an excuse the annual and Korean-U.S. joint military exercise, "Team Spirit." He said that North Korea has heated up its propaganda campaign aimed at obstructing the 1988 Seoul Olympics. Pak denounced Pyongyang for its self-contradiction and insincerity toward the inter-Korean dialogue.

PARTIES TO SUSPEND ACTIVITIES DURING ASIAN GAMES

SK200056 Seoul YONHAP in English 0048 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 20 (YONHAP) -- South Korea's ruling and opposition parties have agreed to temporarily suspend their political activities both within and outside the National Assembly during the Seoul Asian Games, scheduled for Sept. 20 to Oct. 5, sources said Wednesday.

Accordingly, the National Assembly's regular session, which in past years has begun on Sept. 20, will be opened after the ASIAD, according to the sources. The ruling and opposition camps also agreed to hold public hearings of the Assembly's special constitutional revision committee from Aug. 28 until Sept. 20 and to resume their activities after the games, the sources said.

DJP TO CONDUCT PARTY LEADERSHIP RESHUFFLE SOON

SK210001 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 21 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] A reshuffle of leading party officials of the ruling Democratic Justice Party will take place in a day or two, party sources said yesterday.

The shakeup is likely to affect secretary general Chong Sun-tok, chief policy maker Chang Sung-man and floor leader Yi Se-ki, they observed.

Party chairman No Tae-u is expected to pay a call on President Chon Tu-hwan at Chongwadae today to obtain the party president's endorsement of the shakeup, the sources said.

The reorganization of the party hierarchy is to refresh its image and strengthen the "battle formation" for the amendment of the Constitution to accommodate the parliamentary cabinet system, according to them.

No indicated a shakeup Monday during a caucus which approved the party's draft amendment by saying that "I will take the lead in renovating our party's internal atmosphere and renewing social climate to meet the people's expectation."

MINISTER PREDICTS LABOR DISPUTES BY AGITATORS

SK210012 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 21 Aug 86 p 8

[Text] Labor Minister Cho Chol-kwon said yesterday that labor disputes master-minded by employes "in disguise" or outer forces are on the increasing trend in connection with the current political situation. In a party-government consultation meeting held at the ruling Democratic Justice Party Minister Cho expressed worries that "impure elements" of the work force are likely to resort to more extreme actions, taking advantage of the boisterous atmosphere due to the Constitution debate now under way.

As of Aug. 15, 193 cases of labor disputes were reported this year, showing a slight increase over 177 cases during the corresponding period of last year, according to Cho.

In efforts to prevent labor disputes from going violent, various measures, including implementation of the minimum wage system and construction of apartment houses for low-wage workers, have been worked out by the ministry, Cho reported.

NAKASONE EXPECTS GORBACHEV TO VISIT IN JANUARY

OW210907 Tokyo KYODO in English 0904 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Karuizawa, Nagano Pref., Aug. 21 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone said here Thursday he expects Soviet party leader Mikhail Gorbachev to visit Tokyo next January. The government has extended an invitation to Gorbachev to make an official visit by the end of January. He will be the first Soviet Communist Party general secretary to come to Tokyo.

Nakasone predicted the Gorbachev visit during talks with reporters at this summer mountain resort.

USSR'S MARCHUK TO VISIT 7-13 SEPTEMBER

OW211033 Tokyo KYODO in English 1030 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 21 KYODO -- Soviet Vice Premier Yuriy Marchuk will visit Japan September 7 to 13 as a Foreign Ministry guest, the ministry said Thursday. While in Japan, Marchuk, concurrently chairman of the state Science and Technology Commission, will visit scientific and technological facilities. Marchuk will also meet foreign minister Tadashi Kuranari, Science and Technology Agency chief Yataro Mitsubayashi, and other Japanese Government officials.

FOREIGN MINISTRY WELCOMES USSR TEST BAN EXTENSION

OW200609 Tokyo KYODO in English 0550 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 20 KYODO -- Japan welcomes the recent Soviet announcement of an extension of its unilateral freeze on nuclear tests until next January 1, a senior Foreign Ministry official said Wednesday. But the official added, "the moratorium does not mean a final solution to a total nuclear test ban," and called on the United States and the Soviet Union to make further efforts to bring about a total ban on nuclear tests. "It will be necessary for the U.S. and the Soviets to begin taking actions toward a total test ban," the official said.

The official further stated Japan welcomed a recent meeting of U.S. and Soviet experts in Russia on nuclear tests, terming it a step forward towards a test ban. Japan hopes that similar meetings between the two countries will bring positive results, the official said.

The Soviets unilaterally declared its nuclear test moratorium on August 6 last year on the anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima in 1945. The latest extension is the fourth since then.

52 DEPART TO VISIT TOMBS ON USSR-HELD ISLANDS

OW210135 Tokyo KYODO in English 0054 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Nemuro, Hokkaido, Aug. 21 KYODO -- A group of 52 people left Nemuro Port Thursday morning on a four-day visit to the ancestral tombs on Soviet-held islands east of Hokkaido aboard on a 892-ton chartered ship. The group includes 46 former islanders and six entourage members who are scheduled to visit the graves on Shikotan Island and Suisho Islet in the Habomai group.

This is the first visit to the ancestral graves, made by Japanese without visas, since 1976. The northern islands of Shikotan, Kunashiri, Etorofu Islands and the Habomai group were captured and occupied by the Soviet Union in the closing days of World War II.

Former Japanese islanders made previous grave visits to those islands on eight occasions between 1964 and 1975 bearing only identity cards issued by the Japanese Government. The Soviet Union suspended these visits in 1976, demanding that grave visitors carry passports and visas.

Japan and the Soviet Union agreed earlier this year on reciprocal visits by Japanese and Soviets to their respective ancestral graves without applying for visas.

PLANNED 'NEW JERSEY' VISIT SPARKS CONTROVERSY

Gotoda Testifies in Cabinet

OW191315 Tokyo NHK Television Network in Japanese 1000 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Referring to the "USS New Jersey's" scheduled port call, Kenji Taguchi of the JSP, at a meeting of the House of Representatives Committee on cabinet affairs today, asked if the Tomahawk missiles carried by the ship were equipped with nuclear warheads.

[Begin recording] [Taguchi] Has it been confirmed that no nuclear warheads are aboard the "New Jersey?"

[Gotoda, chief cabinet secretary] Inasmuch as there has been no request from the U.S. Government for any prior consultations on bringing in nuclear arms, we believe, on the basis of the relationship of mutual trust under the Japan-U.S. security treaty, that the U.S. Government -- that is, the "New Jersey" in this case -- will not be bringing in any nuclear weapons. [end recording]

Meanwhile, Fujii, director of the Foreign Ministry's North American Affairs Bureau, answering Taguchi's question on the possibility of the "New Jersey" making Sasebo its home port, said that he had heard of misgivings about this spreading among local residents, but added that he had not the slightest knowledge about any U.S. plan to make Sasebo a home port for the "New Jersey."

Protest Rallies Planned

OW201129 Tokyo KYODO in English 1103 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Sasebo, Nagasaki Pref., Aug. 20 KYODO -- Peace groups, political and labor organizations and radicals are planning a series of rallies, deomonstrations and other protest events to mark a port call by the U.S. battleship "New Jersey," which is due to arrive here next Sunday.

The Japan Socialist Party (JSP) and the General Council of Trade Unions of Japan (SOHYO) plan to hold a joint rally of 200 to 300 people Sunday morning, with a demonstration by 20 to 30 fishing boats to protest the arrival of the 45,000 ton warship. They plan a further protest rally of about 10,000 people at Sasebo's Matsuura park in the afternoon, followed by a street demonstration.

A similar protest rally and demonstration are planned by the Japan Communist Party (JCP) and the Japan Council Against Atomic and Hydrogen bombs (Gensuikyo) with 3,000 members and supporters and a fleet of some 10 fishing boats.

The radical group "Chukakuha" (Middle Core faction) and the revolutionary Marxist sect (Kakumaruha) will also hold protest rallies and demonstrations of about 300 each the same day.

In a contrasting form of protest action, jazz and rock musicians will perform a "concert of love and peace" from August 25 through August 30.

An exhibition of 80 photos and panels depicting atomic bombings and nuclear missiles, as well as a film show, is among various grassroot events to be staged to oppose the port call by the "New Jersey," in contravention of the Japanese non-nuclear policy which bars the introduction of such weapons onto Japanese territory.

Meanwhile, police authorities will mobilize a force of 3,500 policemen to be put on alert for the "New Jersey's" visit.

JSP LEADERS URGE DOI TO RUN FOR PARTY CHAIRMANSHIP

OW201133 Tokyo KYODO in English 1127 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 20 KYODO -- The Japan Socialist Party executive members moved Wednesday to choose its Vice Chairmwomen Takako Doi as new party leader, succeeding Masashi Ishibashi who is resigning from the post, party sources said. Seven of the non executive members, except Ishibashi and Doi, agreed Wednesday to recommend Doi as the next party chairman and asked Doi to run for the chairmanship in the party election, the sources said. They said Doi refrained from making an immediate decision, saying she needs more time to make up her mind.

The sources said, however, rough sailing is anticipated for Doi's selection in view of the fact that she will face tough competition by the former head of the JSP's Public Information bureau, Tetsu Ueda. Ueda, who announced his intention Monday to run for the chairmanship, has refused to withdraw his candidacy. The party is scheduled to hold an extraordinary executive session Thursday to line up support for Doi, the sources said.

Ishibashi has said he will resign as chairman of Japan's No 1 opposition party to take responsibility for the major setback the party suffered in the July 6 elections for both houses of the Diet, when its lower house strength fell from 111 seats to 86.

JAPAN NOT TO FOLLOW U.S. ON DISCOUNT RATE CUT

OW210259 Tokyo KYODO in English 0239 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 21 KYODO -- Japan will not immediately follow the United States in cutting its official discount rate, Bank of Japan (BOJ) officials said Thursday. The U.S. economy is suffering a sharp decline at present as shown by a large downward revision of a second-quarter economic growth rate to 0.6 percent from 1.1 percent and the U.S. discount rate cut had been expected, the officials said.

The central bank is taking a cautious attitude on its monetary policy as Japan has already relaxed its domestic credit sufficiently, bank officials said. The comments were made on the Federal Reserve Board's announcement Wednesday to reduce the U.S. official discount rate by 0.5 percentage points to 5.5 percent, effective Thursday.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, however, said Thursday Japan would take drastic measures to expand domestic demand through business stimulative measures, while studying effects of the U.S. discount rate cut on the Japanese economy.

Government sources said in this connection that the government may be forced to study this year's fourth discount rate cut next month when the government is scheduled to announce its comprehensive economic policy package, government sources said. The sources noted that the U.S. is strongly demanding that Japan follow the U.S. in cutting its discount rate. But the lower U.S. interest rates are expected to cause the value of the yen to rise further against the dollar.

The central bank is currently taking a cautious stand on further monetary relaxation as it would speed up speculative buying of real estate and stocks, the sources said. The BOJ fears that deflationary effects on the domestic economy, resulting from the higher value of the yen against the dollar, is already discouraging capital investment by export-oriented manufacturers, the sources said.

The central bank will decide whether to cut its discount rate further after it compiles a short-term economic outlook report early next month, they said.

HONORING OF 1976 PANMUNJOM AXE VICTIMS CRITICIZED

SK210256 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2150 GMT 20 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 21 August commentary: "Tears of the Instigator"]

[Text] On 18 August the headquarters of the U.S. imperialist aggressor forces in South Korea held a so-called memorial ceremony honoring victims -- in connection with the 10th anniversary of the Panmunjom incident -- at a base located in the Joint Security Area [JSA] at Panmunjom.

Remarks about recalling the nightmare were made at the ceremony, in which Livsey, commander of the aggressor forces, participated. The U.S. imperialists loudly talked about someone's atrocity with axes at Panmunjom and about the so-called victims. Do they really have any sense of honor in making such remarks?

As is known, the Panmunjom incident was a provocation perpetrated by the U.S. imperialists themselves. At the time, the U.S. imperialists abruptly mobilized hooligans to launch a tree-cutting operation, saying the tree in the JSA at Panmunjom was in the way. As for the tree, it had stood at the same place for more than 20 years and had not hindered any guards. Furthermore, the tree in question was planted and cared for by us under our management.

When we opposed their unjust act, the U.S. imperialists conducted a mass assault on our side's guards and even perpetrated the atrocious act of injuring them by throwing axes. Not satisfied with this, the rascals brought in more than 30 hooligans as reinforcements, thus further aggravating the situation.

Indeed, this was an unthinkable crime that could have been committed only by arrogant and bestial aggressors. The U.S. president even commanded the tree-cutting operation while threatening us with armed forces. How arrogant and mean his act was! Of course, we had no choice but to take self-defense measures. This is the truth of the Panmunjom incident. Those who received a blow while boasting of the power of cannibals made absurd remarks about victims, kicked off a commotion, and shed tears. We must say that this is a preposterous and shameless act.

Aren't the U.S. imperialists ashamed of raving about victims, nightmares, and so forth before the people of the world? Their act, similar to a thief shouting "Stop thief," is designed to misuse the Panmunjom incident that occurred 10 years ago for countrepropaganda in connection with the strained situation on the Korean peninsula by shifting responsibility for the incident to us.

However, no one can conceal the truth The U.S. imperialists and their stooge, the Chon Tu-hwan clique, are the ones who are frantically running amok with new war provocation maneuvers including troop reinforcements, adventurous war exercises, and armed provocations at Panmunjom and along the Military Demarcation Line, while rejecting our peace proposals to ease tension. They are the ones who are going to inflict even a nuclear calamity.

It the U.S. imperialists think they can mislead world opinion with a so-called memorial ceremony, they are wrong. The memorial ceremony only shows where they the provokers are heading.

CPRF MEMORANDUM ON LIBERATION ANNIVERSARY

SK141148 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1035 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 14 (KCNA) -- The Secretariat of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland issued a memorandum Wednesday on the 41st anniversary of the August 15 liberation, accusing U.S. imperialism of the criminal neo-colonial rule it has enforced in South Korea over the past 40-odd years, trampling underfoot the democratic action of the people and resorting to interference in its internal affairs and tricks.

The memorandum says the United States has enforced the colonial rule in South Korea, directly interfering in and controlling all its internal affairs, from framing up of the puppet regime, appointment and replacement of its stooges to the working out and execution of "policies." Although the "government" emerged and "regime" was changed several times after August 15, 1945 in South Korea, they were all controlled by the U.S. imperialists in disregard of the will of the South Korean people, the memorandum notes, and says:

The South Korean puppet regime has worked out its "policy" according to the instructions and decisions of the United States and executed it under the supervision and control of the U.S. imperialists.

The South Korean puppet president cannot write even the text of his speech as he wishes. Texts of the traitor Chon Tu-hwan's speeches during his U.S. trip in late January-early February 1981 were made by Wickham, the then commander of the U.S. imperialist aggression forces in South Korea. The traitor Chon Tu-hwan himself admitted that South Korea is controlled by the United States in politics and he follows the assertion of U.S. advisors.

The U.S. imperialists supervise, control and wirepull behind the scene the puppets' working out and execution of "policy" by a crafty and camouflaged means through their local ruling machines in South Korea. This year in particular, the U.S. imperialists, in order to prevent South Korea from being a second Philippines, sent there the state secretary, defence secretary and hundreds of policy makers of the State and Defence Departments and the White House and even the Heritage Foundation called the policy-making brain of Reagan to weave all kinds of plots.

The U.S. imperialists have totally stamped out the elementary democratic rights and human rights of the South Korean people and harshly suppressed the patriotic forces demanding national sovereignty to keep hold on South Korea as their permanent colony. Their methods of suppressing the South Korean people after the ceasefire are different from those before the June 25 Korean War.

Before the June 25 war, the U.S. forces were directly mobilized, together with the South Korean puppet army, in the suppression of the people. After the ceasefire the U.S. imperialists use new cunning methods -- let the South Korean puppet army and police stand on the forefront in suppressing the people and they threaten and blackmail them by military demonstration on the second front. They are not on the front. But they invariably remain as the backstage wirepuller to suppress the South Korean people and stifle their struggle by wicked methods.

The U.S. imperialists resort to all kinds of tricks to freeze the division, doggedly obstructing the reunification of Korea in an attempt to maintain South Korea as their colony indefinitely. In the early 1970s when the South Korean people's aspiration for reunification was growing stronger as never before, they wove a plot in Washington to make the North-South contact serve the purpose of fixing "two Koreas." Following this plot of the U.S. imperialists, the South Korean puppets schemed to make the dialogue with the North a dialogue for permanent division and the creation of "two Koreas."

As the "proposal for simultaneous entry of the North and the South of Korea into the United Nations" was rejected at the 28th U.N. General Assembly in 1973, the U.S. imperialists brought forward the "proposal for separate entry into the U.N." at the 30th U.N. General Assembly in 1975 to let the South Korean puppets enter the United Nations separately.

The U.S. imperialists are the very ones who ruptured dialogue and whipped up confrontation in the 1970s and the actual controller who throws a wet blanket over the dialogue and heightens the tension in the 1980s, all to realize the permanent division of Korea. While paying lip-service to their support to the North-South dialogue, the U.S. imperialists in actuality control the South Korean puppets so they may not go active in the dialogue. The political analysts of South Korean affairs in Washington warned the South Korean puppets not to be too sensitive to the North's proposal.

Last year the U.S. imperialists further intensified the arms buildup and war moves behind the screen of North-South dialogue and instigated the South Korean puppets to prevail over the North with the "superiority of strength." This year the U.S. imperialists suspended all at once the multi-channelled North-South dialogues by staging the "Team Spirt 86" war exercises and discussed at the "annual security consultative meeting" the matter of continuously intensifying the "Team Spirit" joint military exercises in the future and further stepping up the arms buildup in South Korea. This is an open provocation to completely scuttle the North-South dialogue and a desperate move to seize South Korea as their nuclear forward base indefinitely.

Proceeding from this, the U.S. imperialists refuse the North's proposals for tripartite talks and talks between the military authorities for detente and peace on the Korean peninsula and more zealously instigate the arms buildup in South Korea and North-South confrontation. Interference and plot, however, can never bring the situation under control.

Today, the memorandum points out, the South Korean people and students are courageously turning out to the sacred anti-U.S. struggle for independence cherishing the aspiration and demand of the times.

The memorandum emphasizes: The U.S. imperialists must withdraw from South Korea at once and their colonial rule be terminated. The South Korean people will continue their courageous struggle to make the U.S. imperialist aggression forces withdraw from South Korea and achieve the historic cause of national reunification.

The Secretariat of the Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland expresses the belief that the world's people who love independence, democracy and peace will lift up their voices to put an end to the U.S. imperialists colonial rule over South Korea, clear it of the U.S. forces and their nuclear weapons and turn the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free, peace zone.

POLITBURO'S O KUK-YOL MEETS PLA, CPC'S QIN JIWEI

SK210450 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0442 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) -- Comrade O Kuk-yol, member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea and chief of general staff of the Korean People's Army, on August 20 met and had a friendly talk with Qin Jiwei, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the C.C., the Communist Party of China, and commander of the Beijing units of the Chinese People's Liberation army and army corps commander of the Chinese People's Volunteers, and his party visiting Korea to spend holidays. Present on the occasion were Colonel General of the KPA Pak Chung-kuk ad Chinese ambassador to Korea Zong Kewen.

HWANG CHANG-YOP MEETS CPC'S CHEN YEPING

SK210437 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0427 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) --Hwang Chang-yop, secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea, on August 20 met and had a friendly talk with the holiday group of the party workers of the Communist Party of China headed by Chen Yeping, member of the Central Advisory Commission of the CPC. Present on the occasion were Kil Chae-Kyong, vice-director of a department of the WPK Central Committee, and Zhang Tingyan, councillor of the Chinese Embassy in Pyongyang. Secretary Hwang Chang-yop arranged a luncheon for the holiday group.

PRC COMMUNIST YOUTH LEAGUE GROUP VISITING

Arrives 20 Aug

SK202226 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1519 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 20 (KCNA) -- A Chinese youth delegation headed by Song Defu, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Youth League of China, arrived in Pyongyang by train on August 20. The delegation consists of functionaries from organisations of the Communist Youth League of China at all levels and workers, peasants, students and artists, more than 200 young representatives in all.

Druing its stay in Korea the delegation will swap successes and experiences gained by the young people of the two countries in the youth work and revolution and construction through meeting, joint friendship gathering, get-together, round-table conversation, joint performance, film show and other colorful functions. This will be conducive to developing and strengthening the traditional Korea-China friendship down through the generations.

A large number of youth and students in the city warmly welcomed the friendship envoys of the fraternal Chinese youth.

HUN SEN RETURNS FROM CONFERENCE IN HANOI

BK191256 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1107 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 19 -- Kampuchean Foreign Minister Hun Sen was back home this morning, after attending the 13th half-yearly conference of three Indochinese foreign ministers recently held in Hanoi, Vietnam. He was welcomed at Pochentong Airport by Kong Korm, first deputy foreign minister; Prach Sun, vice president of the Commission for External Relations of the People's Revolutionary Party of Kampuchea; Nguyen Anh Kieu and Soukhala Phrakonkham, respectively Vietnamese and Lao charge d'affaires A.I. to Kampuchea.

HUN SEN 'INTERESTED' IN SITTHI'S STATEMENT

BK201249 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1119 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Test] Phnom Penh SPK August 20 -- "In the recent statement by Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila there are some points which I am interested in," said Hun Sen in an interview on Monday in Hanoi with a group of journalists who surrounded him while he came out of the conference hall after the closing session of the three Indochinese foreign ministers' conference. If those points are implemented, he said, it would be a positive factor for peace in Southeast Asia, especially along Thailand's common borders with Kampuchea and Laos.

Hun Sen further said: "What we are interested in Sitthi Sawetsila's statement is that Thailand would not let its territory be utilized by foreigners to destabilize or undermine the governments of the neighbouring countries. This is what we have long wished for. If it is really implemented, it would be the first time in 40 years Thailand does such a thing. Thailand was once the most reliable ally of the Japanese militarists and other foreign aggressors in Southeast Asia. Later, it allowed itself to be used as a U.S. staging base for attacks against us. Over the past seven years, its territory has been used by Pol Pot and other reactionary Khmers supported by China as a base to conduct sabotage activities against us. That is why we welcome the recent statement by Sitthi Sawetsila.

"We have already declared our readiness to enter talks with opposition Khmer groups or individuals for national reconciliation on the basis of the elimination of the Pol Pot clique. So, Pol Pot is the main obstacle to the process of national reconciliation."

When asked if he referred to Pol Pot as an individual or an organization, Hun Sen said: "We have clearly stated it as a political and military organization."

Asked whether Vietnamese troops can be totally withdrawn from Kampuchea by 1990, Hun Sen said: "It will certainly be so. If there is an early political solution it will be completed before that time."

On Sihanouk's eight-point proposal, Hun Sen said "Previously Sihanouk wanted three-fourths of the cake that we ourselves baked and now, with that proposal, he wants the whole cake."

VODK REPORTS SIHANOUK'S BANGKOK PRESS CONFERENCE

BK190452 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2330 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Democratic Kampuchean President Samdech Norodom Sihanouk held a press conference at the Foreign Correspondents Club of Thailand in Bangkok on 15 August. The Samdech said: The CGDK's 8-point proposal constitutes a peace plan with the best foundation for the settlement of the Cambodian problem through political means. This is the last proposal of the CGDK.

The Samdech added that he would not add any points nor express any views beyond those in this 8-point plan. The CGDK's 8-point proposal attests to the CGDK's good will regarding the political settlement of the Cambodian problem, but this should not be interpreted as proof of the Cambodian resistance forces' weakness. Vietnam's rejection of this proposal is proof to the world that the Hanoi authorities have completely refused to accept negotiations to settle the Cambodian problem through political means, even though this proposal constitutes the most advantageous conditions for them.

Concerning the younger Vietnamese leaders' attitude and stand, the Samdech said: It would be a mistake to think that the younger Vietnamese leaders will be more reasonable than the older ones. The younger Vietnamese leaders of tomorrow are young wolfs with long teeth and strong claws. They will certainly be more arrogant than their elders.

The Samdech also criticized the Soviet Union for continuing to support the Vietnamese aggression against Cambodia. He said: The Soviet Union, like Vietnam, wants Cambodia to be a permanent colony.

U.S. RULES ON SULFUR IN FOOD 'PROTECTIONIST'

BK201024 Bangkok NAEO NA in Thai 13 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] Thai commercial officials have been instructed to keep a close watch on the U.S. Food and Drug Administration because of its 9 July announcement requiring the labeling of ingredients of all categories of food containing 10 parts per million of sulfur. The requirement will become effective on 10 January 1987. Moreover, the administration will also impose a total ban on sulfur in fresh vegetables and fruits beginning 8 August 1987. This is because consumer protection groups have recommended that sulfur not be allowed in any food products because it can pose hazards to people who are allergic to this chemical. However, the Food and Drug Administration has not yet made any decision on this issue for fear that it might have repercussions on other industries.

The office of the Thai commercial counselor attached to the Thai Embassy in Washington reported that the move by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration could affect exports of Thai frozen seafood and canned fruits to the United States.

Thailand exports about 5 billion baht worth of frozen seafood and shrimp to the United States annually.

A high-level official in the Commerce Ministry told NAEO NA that the new restriction is probably another protectionist measure in addition to the tariff barriers.

Sixty percent of the shrimp consumed in the United States has to be imported. Since U.S. frozen shrimp is more expensive than imported shrimp, the U.S. Government has to work out protectionist measures to save the country's frozen shrimp industry.

The official also disclosed that U.S. trade representative (William E. Brock) proposed in October that the U.S. Foreign Trade Commission study the possible impact of the imports of fresh and frozen shrimp on the U.S. shrimp industry along the southern Atlantic coast.

He said: "We have sent a letter to our commercial counselor instructing him to keep a close watch on this matter."

SITTHI LIFTS TRAVEL RESTRICTIONS ON ENVOYS

BK170034 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 17 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila has scrapped proposed travel restrictions for diplomats from ten socialist and Muslim countries.

The restrictions, which were proposed by the National Security Council, had been approved by the previous Cabinet early this year. It had assigned the NSC and the Foreign Ministry to make a list of the countries to be subjected to such restrictions.

The two agencies later listed ten countries whose diplomats must have permission from the Foreign Ministry to travel outside Bangkok. They are Vietnam, Laos, the Soviet Union, China, Burma, Bangladesh, Pakistan, Nigeria, Iraq and Iran.

But ACM [Air Chief Marshal] Sitthi said in a recent interview with the Thai-language daily newspaper NAEO NA that he had decided to rescind the proposed restrictions following several complaints from the embassies of those countries.

"I ordered the restrictions scrapped a few days ago because they could have negative repercussions," he said. "It would be all right to impose them on two or three countries. But to impose such restrictions on ten countries is just too much."

He said the proposed travel ban could damage Thailand's ties with some friendly countries on the list, such as China, Pakistan, and Bangladesh.

ACM Sitthi said he had already told Chinese Ambassador Zhang Dewei, who called on him on Friday, of the decision to scrap the proposed restrictions and had instructed Permanent Secretary for Foreign Affairs Asa Sarasin to notify all the countries concerned of the cancellation.

ACM Sitthi said he had also consulted Ambassador Zhang on the Soviet Union's proposal to improve its ties with China and has asked China to keep Thailand informed of any new developments.

"I asked (Chinese Foreign Minister) Mr Wu Xueqian to let us know if there are any changes in China's attitudes towards Laos and Kampuchea. As we are friends, I also asked to know if there are any developments in the Sino-Soviet relations," he said.

CHAWALIT TAKES OVER CAPITAL SECURITY COMMAND

BK160610 Bangkok THE NATION in English 16 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Army Commander-in-Chief General Chawalit Yongchaiyut yesterday officially took over the command of the Bangkok-based Capital Security Command from outgoing Supreme Commander Gen Athit Kamlang-ek.

The ceremony was held at the headquarters of the force and was closed to members of the mass media.

Gen Chawalit yesterday declined to commment on the annual military reshuffle, saying that he did not know when it would be announced.

However, he said that the reshuffle had been done in accordance to the rules. He said appointments and promotions were considered and proposed by commanders of respective military units and screened by the committee.

"I think we have done our best. There are no complications," he said.

There were reports that the reshuffle list would be announced this week. In the reshuffle, Commander of the First Army Region Lt Gen Phichit Kunlawanit and Commander of the Special Warfare Centre Lt Gen Sunthon Khongsomphong will be promoted to assistant army commanders-in-chief.

Second Army Region Commander Lt Gen Phisit Hemabut is promoted to the post of deputy army commander-in-chief in the reshuffle, which sees sweeping changes in the posts of regional army commanders.

Meanwhile, Defence Minister ACM [Air Chief Marshal] Phaniang Kantarat said yesterday that it depends on Premier Prem Tinsulanon when the reshuffle list will be announced.

Phaniang also said that there will be no change in the basic policy of the Defence Ministry. Phaniang was deputy defence minister in the last government.

Athit Defends CSC's Role

BK180229 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 18 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Supreme Commander Gen Athit Kamlang-ek last night complained about the unfair criticisms directed against him over the setting up of the Capital Security Command [CSC].

Addressing senior military and police officers and members of state and private enterprises on the occasion of the 5th anniversary of the founding of the Capital Security Command, Gen Athit said that when the CSC was first initiated as the city's peace-keeper, it invited criticism as a power base for his political ambition.

Even though he was hurt by the criticism, he believed it was expressed in line with the democratic system.

He said some of the critics said that the CSC's work and responsibility were overlapping with those of the other law enforcement agencies.

But he contended that the force was intended to serve public needs.

The supreme commander also recalled the criticism against the several advisers employed by CSC. He argued that the advisers were necessary because the CSC needed to b advised on a wide range of aspects.

Gen Athit said the tank unit movement from the CSC back to its barrack had been delayed until last week because he wanted to avoid panic during the last election.

Gen Athit will this morning pay a call on Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon at his Sisao Thewet residence before leaving for Malaysia for an official visit.

Meanwhile, Army Commander-in-Chief Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyuth said that the number of enlisted soldiers would be reduced to 1:3 in proportion to career soldiers under the plan to streamline the army to transform it into a small, but efficient fighting force.

Deputy Army Chief-of-Staff Lt-Gen Wanchai Ruangtrakun also said the CSC would be revamped to give more emphasis on anti-terrorism activities.

MINISTRY ON REFUGEE INTERVIEWS, PAYMENTS

BK180453 Bangkok THE NATION in English 18 Aug 86 p 3

[By Sinfa Tunsarawut]

[Text] Ministry of Interior has pronounced a policy that Indochinese refugees rejected for resettlement in third countries this year will not be allowed interviews by resettlement officials again, informed sources said.

The ministry also asked international organizations and voluntary agencies working with the refugees in the ministry-controlled camps to reduce the number of refugees they hire to assist in their programmes and to stop paying cash allowances to them, the sources said.

At the request of the ministry, the relief agencies will, beginning Sept 1, reduce the monthly allowance for the refugee workers from 300 to 200 baht. And beginning next year, no cash or any other form of rewards will be permitted, according to the sources.

One source estimated there are about 4,000 refugees being employed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and more than 30 voluntary agencies to work at the camps of Chiang Kham in Phayao, Baan Vinai in Loei, Bann Na Pho in Nakhon Phanom, and Phanat Nikhom processing and transit centre in Chonburi.

About 83,000 Laotian refugees living at Chiang Kham, Baan Vinai and Baan Na Pho and about 5,500 Vietnamese refugees in Phanat Nikhom are being interviewed by the embassy officials of resettlement countries after the ministry announced a relaxation in the resettlement procedure in February this year.

The Interior Ministry aiming to accelerate the resettlement process has asked embassy officials to try to complete the interviews at the end of the year. It has told UNHCR and embassy officials that it will not allow those who are rejected to be interviewed again.

However, relief officials are worried that the embassies have limited the number of their staff for the interviews and more time is needed. Sources said discussions are being held with the ministry officials to extend the release period.

Sources said Laotian refugees who are accepted for resettlement will be moved as quickly as possible to Phanat Nikhom which is the Centre for preparing refugees before their departure to the resettlement countries.

The Interior Ministry has verbally conveyed the decision to embassy officials and UNHCR but no written instruction has been delivered to them yet, sources said.

Official sources said the restriction on resettlement will not affect refugees who may arrive after the end of the year.

The revocation of cash payment is part of the ministry's policy to have more refugees volunteer in the camp activities.

PASASON HAILS FOREIGN MINISTERS CONFERENCE

BK201321 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0500 GMT 20 Aug 86

[PASASON 20 August article: "Hail the Goodwill and Correct Stand of the Three Indochinese Countries Which Have Been Firmly Reiterated Once Again"]

[Text] The 13th conference of the foreign ministers of the LPDR, the PRK, and the SRV was closed with glorious success on 18 August in Hanoi, capital of the SRV, after a 2-day work session. The conference issued a joint communique on the contents, spirit, and success of the conference. The communique reaffirmed the goodwill and consistently correct stand of the three Indochinese countries in solving the pressing problems in the region peacefully and their active contributions to the struggle against war, imperialism, and international reaction and for safeguarding peace, stability, and international security in Southeast Asia and the world.

At the conference, the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries were unanimous in assessing the general situation in this region and the world in the past years, especially in the past years, and in assessing the important developments in the past 6 months. At the same time, they also exchanged views on the successes and victories scored in work both in the domestic and international domains and expressed the unchangeable, correct views of the three Indochinese countries toward the situation in the region and the world.

With regard to the Cambodian issue, the conference decleared that if all sides concerned agree on the two basic questions -- that is the withdrawal of Vietnamese forces and the liquidation of the criminal Pol Pot clique -- negotiations can be held immediately. At the same time, the three Indochinese countries also hailed the efforts by many countries in the world, and in the ASEAN grouping, which have contributed to the tendency toward holding negotiations between the Indochinese and ASEAN countries to resolve the Cambodian issue politically and to resolve the questions of peace and stability in Southeast Asia, for example the proposal made by the Australian foreign minister to set up a tribunal to determine the crimes committed by the genocidal Pol Pot clique.

With regard to Thai-Lao relations, the conference fully supported the recent statement by Kaysone Phomvihan, chairman of the LPDR Council of Ministers, that the Lao Government is ready to do everything possible at the national and regional levels to foster mutual understanding and trust with the Kingdom of Thailand. It also took note of the 13 August 1986 statement by the foreign minister of Thailand, which said Thailand will not allow its territory to be used to destabilize or undermine the governments of neighboring countries.

As for China, the three Indochinese peoples have always set great store by their long-standing friendship with the Chinese people and wish to see its early restoration. While safeguarding their independence, the peoples of the three countries strive persistently to normalize relations and reestablish good-neighborliness with the PRC.

At the same time, the conference also welcomed the results of the governmental talks between the United States and Vietnam and between the United States and Laos on the search for Americans missing in action and thought that the creation of an atmosphere of cooperation will help stimulate this process for the benefit of peace and stability in Southeast Asia. The PRK is ready to resolve this question if the United States is interested in doing so.

In addition, the conference stressed its particular appreciation of the very important initiatives on Asia and the Pacific put forth by the secretary general of the CPSU Central Committee, Mikhail Gorbachev, in his famous declaration made recently in Vladivostok, which it viewed as the first integral peace program for Asia and the Pacific. The conference welcomed the improvement of relations between the USSR and China.

At the end, the conference highly valued the importance of the forthcoming eighth summit conference of the nonaligned countries, which will be held in Harare, Zimbabwe, in the near future. At this summit conference, the three Indochinese countries fully respect the resolutions of the six and seventh summits to leave the Cambodian seat vacant and the resolution of the seventh summit on Southeast Asia. They are willing to support these resolutions again at the Harare summit.

All this has been clearly and fully stated in the joint communique of the 13th conference of the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries. It reflects the goodwill and consistent, correct stand of the three Indochinese countries in actively contributing to the peaceful solution of regional problems and other important problems in the world for peace, the reduction of tension, and international cooperation.

The Lao people as well as the fraternal Cambodian and Vietnamese peoples wholeheartedly hail and support the success and correct and constructive attitudes of the three Indochinese countries, clearly stated in the joint communique of the 13th conference of the foreign ministers of the three Indochinese countries and in the joint communiques of the 12th and 11th conferences. The Lao people pledge to do everything within their power to support the tendency toward negotiation between the countries in the Indochinese and ASEAN groupings to settle the Cambodian issue and other regional problems peacefully to make a noble contribution to the common cause of the struggle for peace and international cooperation and for peaceful coexistence and human progress.

SISAVAT KEOBOUNPHAN EXPLAINS DRAFT DEFENSE BILL

BK201359 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] The first conference for studying the draft National Defense Bill was held on 10 August in Saithani District, Vientiane municipality, with the participation of representatives from various districts, cantons, and mass organizations.

On the afternoon of 15 August, Sisavat Keobounphan, secretary of the party Central Committee and of the Vientiane Municipal Party Committee, addressed the conference which proceeded in a joyous and cordial atmosphere. He clearly explained the importance of the draft National Defense Bill formulated by the party, state, and the National Defense Ministry. This bill was adopted as a move to translate into practice the spirit and contents of the ninth resolution of the third session of the party Central Committee in connection with the party's national defense and public security line. Sisavat Keobounphan also suggested the direction and detailed methods to the representatives for organizing and guiding the implementation of the bill in their localities and for contributing to perfecting it in the future.

About 5,500 Vietnamese were in April moved to Phanat Nikhom from Sikhiu camp in Nakhon Ratchasima which was previously used to shelter Vietnamese refugees. The camp was closed by the ministry at the end of April as part of the policy to consolidate camps under its control.

According to UNHCR, there were about 10,000 Vietnamese, Loatian and Khmer refugees who were accepted for resettlement and awaiting departure at Phanat Nikhom as of June.

UNHCR Representative Gerald Walzer said in an interview with THE NATION that his organization will comply with the Interior Ministry to cut cash payment to its refugee workers.

Walzer said UNHCR hires about 160 refugees mainly as assistants in documentation and translation of the resettlement process and monitoring food distribution in the UNHCR-assisted camps.

However, he said he will have further discussions with the Interior Ministry's officials about maintain payment for some highly skilled refugee workers whose services are indispensable for the UN agency.

He said some refugees are physicians and language teachers at Phanat Nikhom. UNHCR considers the monthly 300 baht compensation as moral support for the professional refugees.

The UNHCR also said more refugees will be encouraged to participate in the day-to-day activities in the camps as a policy to make them self-reliant.

"We need to avoid refugees becoming permanent "welfare beneficiaries." We know from experience that the longer refugees are assisted in the camps, the harder it is for them to reinstigate [as published] into normal life, whether this be upon return home, or in their countries," the UNHCR representative said.

He said he believes that refugees should take as much responsibility as possible for such matters as education, sanitation, public health, and social services.

FINANCE MINISTER REVEALS FISCAL PROBLEMS, DEFICIT

BK200411 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 20 Aug 86 p 13

[Text] The government's fiscal position is facing big problems as the cash deficit this fiscal year is likely to be over 50,000 million baht, it was officially revealed for the first time by Finance Minister Dr Suthi Singsane yesterday.

"Not only this fiscal year, but I would like to say that we will also be in trouble next year and we will have to work very hard to solve the problems," he said.

Dr Suthi yesterday met with his deputies and top officials of the Finance Ministry to consider the country's fiscal position.

He said next fiscal year's trouble would result from this year's problems.

Deputy Finance Minister Dr Suphachai Phanitchaphak admitted that the revenue short fall in this fiscal year was "enormous" because of the economic recession.

"The sharp decline in imports also adversely affected the government's revenue," he added.

Dr Suthi said all officials at the meeting shared the view that the government's fiscal position is in big trouble.

"However, it cannot be concluded yet as to the amount of deficit the government will suffer because we have to wait for revenue from the mid-year corporate tax payment this month and income tax payment next month," Dr Suthi said.

But the estimation, based on the revenue collection and the expectation of revenue to be earned, is certain that the adjusted amount of borrowing approved by the cabinet of the last government would not be sufficient to offset the deficit.

During the Prem IV government, the cabinet allowed the Finance Ministry to borrow 33,000 million baht from the domestic market, as it was expected at that time that the revenue shortfall would be around that figure.

However, the cabinet later approved a request of the Finance Ministry to increase the domestic borrowing to 46,000 million baht as the revenue shortfall tended to be higher than the initial expectation.

"But I can say, based on the estimation, that the amount of 46,000 million baht will not be sufficient," he said.

He expressed his concern that the huge shortfall would cause severe effects next fiscal year.

"I have instructed all top officials concerned to study the causes of this year's problems and work out methods to solve them," Dr Suthi said.

Dr Suphachai said that the problem of the poor fiscal reserve position was not solved by only borrowings.

"We may transfer funds from other sources, including funds out of the budget, to help improve the fiscal reserve position," he said.

The other method, Dr Suphachai said, was for the Finance Ministry to order provincial fiscal officials to speed the procedures in remitting revenues to the Finance Ministry.

When asked if the revenue shortfall in the next fiscal year would be as serious as this year, Dr Suphachai said, "we cannot say anything yet, we have to wait for the new policy of the government. After the government's policy is announced, we will know the policy concerning the investment of state enterprises, and it's fiscal and monetary measures to stimulate the investment."

He noted that if these policies were favourable, they would improve the investment atmosphere. "If the investment of private sectors increased, the government's revenue will be higher too," he added.

He said that the Bank of Thailand would also be instructed to set up guidelines for commercial banks to encourage more investments in the private sector.

PHICHAI APPOINTS MP DEN, OTHERS AS SECRETARIES

BK200249 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 20 Aug 86 pp 1,3

[Excerpts] Deputy Premier and Democratic Party leader Phichai Rattakun has appointed Pattani MP Den Tomina as his secretary.

Party sources said Mr Phichai made the appointment yesterday in an attempt to appease Muslim Democrat MPs, who have voiced dissatisfaction at the party's failure to secure for them one Cabinet post.

Mr Den's appointment has been sent to Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon for final approval, party sources said.

The offer is not, however, expected to have any effect on moves by some Democrat MPs from the South, Central region and Northeast to grill Mr Phichai again over his one-on-one meeting with Gen Prem over Cabinet posts. [passage omitted]

Some southern MPs have been critical of Mr Phichai and the party for its failure to secure a Cabinet post for a Muslim MP.

The Pattani MP met with Mr Phichai on Monday morning, the sources said.

Mr Den told the POST yesterday, however, that he has yet to accept the post and needs to consult the four MPs from the border provinces before announcing his decision, probably by Friday.

Mr Den said he told Mr Phichai there were others in the party who wanted the post, and if Mr Phichai would be placed in a difficult position, he need not offer the post to him. [passage omitted]

In a related development, Democrat sources said a group of Muslim religious leaders in Pattani plan to send a letter to Gen Prem asking why a Muslim was not selected for a Cabinet post.

The sources said the Muslim leaders were unhappy because of the omission. They did not say, however, when the letter would be sent.

The Democrats also made former Young Turk Col Bunsak Phocharoen (Sing Buri) secretary to Agriculture Minsiter Gen Han Linanond, and Suphatra Matsadit (Nakhon Si Thammarat) secretary to Deputy Agriculture Minister Suthep Thuaksuban.

Other appointments include: Narong Nunthong (Nakhon Sri Thammarat), secretary of Education Minister Marut Bunnak; Sitthiphon Phophet (Surat Thani), secretary to Science Minister Banyat Banthattan; Chaturon Chairsaeng (Chachoengsao), secretary to Deputy Finance Minsiter Suphachai Phanitchaphak; Akhom Engchuan (former Krabi MP), secretary to Deputy Science Minister Phichit Rattakun. Ms Suphatra said that she is considering the position.

The Nakhon Sri Thammarat Mp said that she really wanted to work in Parliament but was urged to take up the postd by Mr Phichai and Gen Han.

Ms Suphatra said that if she accepted the spot she would not be able to work in Parliament as she had hoped. Ms Suphatra had planned to work in the House Affairs Committee.

THAI CHARGES OF MILITARY INTRUSIONS REJECTED

BK211455 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] According to Western sources, on 20 August 1986, the Thai Foreign Ministry falsely accused Vietnamese Army volunteers in Cambodia of intruding into Thai territory and firing at a bus, wounding the driver and three passengers. The spokesman for the Thai Army also falsely charged Vietnamese forces with attacking an observation post of the Thai Army lying 1.5 km inside Thai territory and wounding two Thai border patrolmen. VIETNAM NEWS AGENCY is authorized to categorically reject these ill-intentioned fabrications.

HANOI PARTY DRAFT POLITICAL REPORT PUBLISHED

BK211019 Hanoi VNA in English 0850 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 20 -- In preparation for the 10th Party Congress of the capital city and the 6th National Congress, the Executive Committee of the Hanoi Party Committee has published its draft political report to provide the groundwork for discussions at current grassroots level congresses in the capital. The draft political report lists the following important successes of Hanoi in the past five years:

-- Annual industrial growth rate from 1981 to 1985 was 10.5 per cent (12.7 per cent in 1983-85).

-- In agriculture, thanks to new strains, bigger irrigation and draining capacity, the supply of more fertilizer, and the contract quota system, food productivity has increased by 8 per cent, and food delivery to the state in 1985 doubled compared with 1981. Maize yield in 1985 averaged 2.82 tons per ha, the highest in north Vietnam, up by twofold compared with 1981. Tobacco and groundnut productivity trebled compared with 1981. Hybrid pigs accounted for 80 per cent of the pig herd, which helped increase pork production by 19 per cent.

-- In the past five years, the value of exports increased yearly by 9.7 per cent, chiefly due to the socialist countries. Economic cooperation between Hanoi, Vientiane and Phnom Penh has strengthened in many respects.

On the main tasks of Hanoi in the next five years, the report calls for a quick increase in industrial production to reach 20-24 billion dong in 1990 of which consumer goods will account for 65 per cent and export goods for 20-22 per cent. Priority in consumer goods is given to textile, leather articles and garments. More attention will be paid to the food industry especially the production of instant foods, beverages and nutritious powder for children. Production of animal feeds will also be stepped up. The pharamaceutical industry, cosmetic industry and other consumer industries will be boosted to meet the needs of the population.

More attention will be paid to food production in the suburban districts in order to supply more meat, eggs and vegetables for the population in the inner districts. At the same time, more crop specialization areas will be created to supply more materials for industry and export. Food production by 1990 is targeted at 500,000 tons in paddy equivalent. Hanoi's economic relations with foreign countries will be broadened in all areas: import, export, services, particularly in its bilateral relations with the other socialist capitals.

Hanoi Committee Studies Report

OW201101 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] The standing committee of the Hanoi Municipal Party Committee held a conference with cadres in charge of various departments, sectors, services, and districts and of subordinate party organizations on 11, 12, and 13 August to study and discuss the spirit and contents of the draft political reports of the CPV Central Committee and the municipal party committee in preparation for the party organization congresses of all levels to be held prior to the Sixth Party Congress.

Delegates heard comrade leaders interpret the basic contents of the aforementioned documents and strived to grasp their spirit and salient points so that, after their return home, they will be able to guide party members and local people in studying and discussing the draft reports and contributing their views at party organization congresses at all levels as well as at mass meetings.

Along with contributing practical views on the draft documents of upper echelons, correctly assessing their own party organizations in a spirit of profound self-criticism and criticism, deciding on various tasks, specific objectives, and appropriate measures for their own units, and appointing capable and well qualified delegates to upper-level congresses, party organization congresses should also elect party organization executive committee members who can successfully guide in implementing the new heavy tasks to be set forth at the coming party congress.

POPULATION PLANNING COMMITTEE REVIEWS WORK

OW171001 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] Today, 15 August, the National Population and Family Planning Central Committee met in Hanoi to review its efforts to achieve rational population growth and family planning in the 5 years from 1981 to 1985, and to discuss guidelines and tasks for the next 5 years, from 1986-1990, in accordance with the spirit of the draft political report of the CPV Central Committee.

Over the past 5 years our country's population registered an approximate annual growth of 1.3 million people, although conditions concerning land, natural resources, material and technical bases, and production capacity failed to meet the requirements for a population surplus. This is a cause for real concern for all of us, and primarily for those party committee echelons, administrations, and mass organizations which must be held responsible for this failure.

Given the actual condtions, the committee has devised strategic guidelines for our country's population: Planning a population growth in harmony with our ecosocial development capabilities for each planning period and moving toward achieving a rational population structure. Meanwhile, manpower deployment to various regions should continue so that the work force is compatible with land and natural conditions. The next objective to be attained in the movement is to speedily decrease birth and population growth rates in several 5-year plans. The objective for the current period is: To achieve one to two children per family, to have births further apart, and to have births after 22 years of age.

The conferees commended those sectors and localities which in the past have taken positive action in the desired direction. Meanwhile, they sternly criticized those sectors and localities that have not paid due attention to the problem.

The following localities have registered a population growth of less than 1.7 percent: Ho Chi Minh City, Hanoi and Haiphong municipalities, Thai Binh, and Quang Nam-Danang. Those with a 1.7-2 percent population growth are Cao Bang, Lang Son, Bac Thai, Quang Ninh, Hai Hung, Nghia Binh, Phu Khanh, Dong Nai, Vung Tau-Con Dao, and Long An. Those with a still high population growth, 2.3-3.4 percent, are Son La, Vinh Phu, Thanh Hoa, Nghe Tinh, Binh Tri Thien, Thuan Hai, Dac Lac, Gia Lai-Cong Tum, Lam Dong, Tien Giang, and Hau Giang. Birth rates in the past 2 years, instead of decreasing, have increased in the following provinces: Nghe Tinh, Thanh Hoa, Tien Giang, Vinh Phu, Cuu Long, Kien Giang, and Son La. The rational population growth and family planning movement seems to be making no headway in Ha Son Binh, Dong Nai, Song Be, and Binh Tri Thien.

In those localities where the movement has been carried out well, this is due to the effective leadership of party committee echelons and the close guidance by the comrade chairmen and vice chairmen of provincial or municipal people's committees, and the positive work of the National Population and Family Planning Central Committee, the mass media, and mass organizations, which made the people voluntarily join in carrying out the movement.

PEOPLE'S COUNCILS REVIEW PAST ACTIVITIES

BK181609 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0500 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Implementing the Council of State Order, since late June 1986 people's councils in 34 provinces, municipalities, and special zones directly subordinate to the central government have held conference to review tasks and activities of people's councils at various levels during the past period. The peoples councils analyzed achievements, shortcomings, and other effects. The conferences discussed and adopted various tasks to ensure the people's councils for correctly carrying out their functions, tasks, and authority as defined by the Constitution and the law on organization of people's councils and committees.

On this occasion, the people's councils also discussed and contributed ideas to the draft regulations on activities of people's councils at various levels. Since the beginning of the current terms, people's councils have made more progress in their activities as compared to the previous term. They have regularly held conferences in accordance with the prescribed law and schedules, while preparing documents for these conferences more satisfactorily. People's committees in some places sent reports and proposals to people's councils delegates for study prior to their conferences. Various committees of the people's councils have improved further; many committees, including secretariats of people's councils in some localities, have carried out their tasks actively and effectively, thereby contributing to accelerating activities of the people's councils as a whole. Various units of the people's councils have paid special attention to strengthening relations between councillors and voters, holding meetings according to set schedules,, and contributing to quickly solving the people's complaints and denunciation.

Chairmen of people's committees in some provinces and cities have designed tasks and activities with the help of various people's committees and have consistently coordinated with these committees to implement these tasks. However, some people's councils have carried out their activities slowly and have not met set requirements.

The cause of this shortcoming is lack of full understanding by some people's councils of their authority as well as carelessness in organization and activity of various people elected organizations. Moreover, some party committees even engrossingly carried out the work of the administration and undemocratically nominated candidates to people-elected organizations. Some people's committees have not realistically respected the people's councils and unscrupulously implemented laws, while many people's concillors have not fulfilled their responsibilities. Various echelons of party committees and the administration have not fully paid attention to fostering councillors' background regarding their duty, authority, and work method.

To improve the effectiveness of people's councils, various councillors stressed that all people's councils must consistently strengthen and promptly develop all their activities, satisfactorily prepare for and ensure success for all conferences with positive participation of various committees of the people's councils, discuss and decide on concrete problems to accelerate production and gradually improve the people's material and cultural lives, and strengthen socialist law and assist state organizations to fulfill their tasks, thereby contributing to helping people's councils at various levels to exercise correctly their duties, functions, and authority.

Comrades Le Thanh Nghi and Huynh Tan Phat, vice chairmen of the Council of the State, attended the conferences of the people's councils of the Vung Tau-Con Dao special zone and Long An Province. They also inspected the activities of people's councils of various echelons in Dong Thap and Kien Giang Provinces.

At present, people's councils at various levels in districts, precincts, subwards, and villages are reviewing their activites. This review to draw on experience is a concrete task to implement the directive of the party Central Committee Secretariat to accelerate the criticism and self-sriticism drive in order to contribute to consolidating local administration and making preparations for party organization congresses at various levels.

STORM, CROP PESTS DAMAGE AUTUMN RICE CROP

BK211058 Hanoi International Service in English 1000 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] By mid-August, Vietnamese peasants throughout the country had planted about 2 million hectares of autumn rice, about 70 percent of the target. The storm Peggy in July submerged or destroyed 40,000 hectares of autumn rice in northern Vietnam, but thanks to great efforts of peasants and all branches concerned, 25,000 hectares of submerged rice were saved. Besides, efforts are being made to protect summer-autumn and autumn rice from crop pests, which are affecting some 150,000 hectares in northern Vietnam.

AUSTRALIA

BUDGET CUTBACKS FORCE PULL-OUT FROM U.S. EXERCISE

BK180915 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Budget cutbacks have forced the Australian Defense Department to defer participation in the joint military exercise with the United States. The exercise called "(Code Summer)" is being staged next month from America's Clark Field Airbase in the Philippines. A spokesman for the defense minister, Mr Beazley, says the deferral of Australian Air Force's participation in the exercise has been caused by resource constraints. The spokesman says it is not connected with federal government concern over American subsidized farm exports.

At the weekend, the foreign minister, Mr Hayden, said the sale of subsidized agricultural products by America could affect Australia's defense commitments to the alliance.

The air force will take part in the next series of air defense exercises in May next year. The decision is expected to save about $10 million.

TREASURER KEATING PRESENTS 'STRINGENT' 1986 BUDGET

Spending Slashed, Taxes Raised

BK191130 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 1100 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] The Australian Government has slashed spending and raised several taxes in the budget handed down a short time ago. The treasurer, Mr Keating, has predicted a budget deficit of just over $2,200 million [currency not further specified] -- down from more than $3,500 million last year.

Mr Keating said the government had been forced to make the cuts because of fall in export earnings. He said Australia's commodity earnings had dropped remarkably in the past year, forcing all Australians to take a substantial cut in living standard.

Overseas aid is to be cut by more than $88 million, but defense spending is to be increased by 1 percent in real terms. The hardest cuts are to be made in the government's spending on social welfare and education. It has decided to defer pension increases and reintroduce fees for tertiary students. New Zealanders will no longer be automatically eligible for unemployment benefits. Increases are to be made in sales taxes and a large number of luxury goods. Wines and petrol tax is to be increased.

Mr Keating described the budget as being the most stringent for more than 25 years (?within) response to the sharp fall in Australian export earnings as a result of the collapse of international commodity prices.

The treasurer is still giving details of the budget to federal Parliament, and full details will be given in our next news bulletin.

Trade Decline Forcing Austerity

BK191326 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 1200 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] The Australian Government has slashed spending and raised several taxes in the national budget presented to Parliament. The treasurer, Mr Keating, says the move has been forced on the government because of a dramatic fall in the country's terms of trade. He told Parliament that falling commodity prices meant all Australians must take a substantial cut in living standard. Radio Australia's national affairs correspondent, Tony Hill, reports from Canberra:

[Begin Hill recording] The government has cut back the budget deficit by more than $2,200 million [Australian dollars] to around $3,500 million. Government borrowing has been cut back by a similar amount. There are cuts in social security, health, and education. And in foreign aid, multilateral aid has fared the worst. Overall, the aid budget has lost $140 million. Defense spending has stayed just ahead of inflation.

The government has also resumed the sale of uranium to France, originally suspended because of French nuclear testing in the South Pacific.

Australia's current account deficit grew by about $1,000 million a month last financial year, and the country's gross foreign debt rose to $86,000 million. The government says the external account deficit will worsen over the next 12 months. It will be seeking wage restraint and forecasts a rise in unemployment on last year's average of almost 8 percent and a continuing level of inflation, also around 8 percent.

Overall, the government says the economy in 1986-87 will be adjusting to the major deterioration in the country's terms of trade and the large depreciation in the Australian dollar. [end recording]

NEW ZEALAND

MAJORITY WANTS FULL ANZUS ROLE, END TO NUCLEAR BAN

HK210804 Hong Kong AFP in English 0723 GMT 21 Aug 86

[By Ray Lilley]

[Text] Wellington, Aug 21 (AFP) -- A slim majority of New Zealanders has supported a return to a full role in the ANZUS defence alliance and dropping of the country's anti-nuclear warship ban in a poll carried out by the government's Defence Review Committee. But the committee said such a policy would "deeply divide" the country and said its preferred option was to have New Zealand inside the ANZUS defence alliance "but separated from all nuclear aspects" of the pact.

"The government's unconditional anti-nuclear stance has in any case ruled out this (full ANZUS relationship) option," the committee said in its report released Thursday.

The Labour government of Prime Minister David Lange has rejected nuclear warship visits for the past two years and for its action has been suspended from ANZUS by the United States.

In an independent poll conducted for the committee 52 per cent of New Zealanders favored a return to full ANZUS status. Another 44 percent "preferred to withdraw from ANZUS rather than accept the nuclear ship visits," the review noted.

The inflexibility of both the United States and New Zealand had "not permitted this option (being recommended) in practice," the report said.

The public opinion polls were conducted in April-May, before the United States suspended New Zealand from active ANZUS partnership.

The committee said it did "not make a demand or construct a policy on the basis of the poll result, because it took note of the fact that 44 percent of people vigorously opposed it." "We were very anxious to not add further division to the society which is already divided over a range of matters." The committee, led by former foreign affairs secretary Frank Corner, also had as members former Army Chief of Staff General Brian Poananga, Quaker and sociologist Ken Clements and scientific policy specialists Diane Hunt.

Mr Lange said the main recommendations of the review were "totally in accord with the government's position." He said the review's "emphasis on the Australian relationship is particularly significant" and the key to New Zealand's collective defence.

The committee said the most promising defence option would be an extension of the New Zealand defence relationship with Australia.

Said Mr Lange: "New Zealanders believe in collective security. New Zealanders believe in conventional defence. New Zealanders reject a nuclear option. New Zealanders feel safer without nuclear armaments, and New Zealanders are clearly placed in the Pacific and do not see themselves as being part of a global nuclear strategy."

Other public opinion poll data from the committee shows 72 per cent of those surveyed want alliance connections with larger countries, but 73 percent -- and many of them the same people -- want nuclear-free arrangements.

Mr Lange said the number of people opposing nuclear warship visits was "a very high proportion." "It is extraodinarily useful to have government statements which were treated with some scepticism turn out to have such reinforcement from such an objective group." "I don't think Non-alignment runs in New Zealand. I don't think neutrality runs in New Zealand. We are not in New Zealand so foolish to think we have the resources...to have a high degree of self-reliance," Mr Lange said.

The review recommends "serious attention be paid to maintaining and developing well-trained, professional and well-equipped Armed Forces capable of cooperating with friends." It said the "present benign strategic environment" meant defence spending need not be a heavy burden. But its level should "enable the Armed Forces to play their part in the (South Pacific) region, to retain the respect and cooperation of Australia, and to reassure New Zealanders."

Mr Lange said the full defence review which would now take place would reflect "the reality that New Zealand no longer has an operative defence relationshiop with the United States." But it would not rule out the possibility "that some time in the future the United States may allow the resumption of a non-nuclear alliance relationship."

MP HOPES LUGAR WILL 'LEAVE CALM' IN NATION

BK181531 Hong Kong AFP in English 1509 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] Jakarta, Aug 18 (AFP) -- Indonesia welcomes the upcoming visit of U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Richard Lugar, but he should not leave a "time bomb" here as he did in Pakistan, a leading Moslem parliamentarian said Monday. Deputy chairman of the Inter-Parliament Cooperation Board, Amin Iskandar, said in an interview that he hoped Mr. Lugar, who is scheduled to visit Indonesia later this week, will "leave calm" behind him when he leaves Indonesia. He said he was referring to Mr. Lugar's earlier visit to Pakistan in which he had openly advised Islamabad to hold new elections, a move advocated by President Ziaul Haq's opponent, Benazir Bhutto.

Mr. Iskandar, who is also a member of the parliamentary Committee on Foreign Relations said the current political unrest in Pakistan may have been partly sparked by what Mr. Lugar said. "I hope he doesn't do the same here," Mr. Iskandar said, leaving a "time bomb behind which might later disrupt political, economic and cultural stability in Indonesia. Mr. Lugar, who is now in the Philippines, is tentatively scheduled to arrive in Indonesia Thursday on a fact-finding mission. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said it was the Indiana Republican's first visit to the country, and added that his itinerary had yet to be finalized.

MOKHTAR SUPPORTS CALL FOR TRIAL FOR POL POT

BK150956 Jakarta MERDEKA in Indonesian 9 Aug 86 PP 1, 11

[Text] Jakarta, Friday [8 August] MERDEKA -- Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja has welcomed Australian Foreign Minister Bill Hayden's proposal that former Cambodian leader Pol Pot be tried before a special tribunal to account for his crimes of massacreing hundreds of thousands of Cambodians.

"It would be good for the proposal to be implemented, but, it is indeed difficult to do so," Foreign Minister Mokhtar said at his weekly press conference at the Foreign Affairs Department at Pejambon, Jakarta on Friday.

Mokhtar did not further comment on this proposal. However, Mokhtar answered: "Oh,...maybe. Please ask Prince Sihanouk!" when the newsmen asked about Prince Norodom Sihanouk's different opinion of the proposal.

During the ASEAN foreign ministers meeting in Manila last month, Australian Foreign Minister Bill Hayden proposed that a special tribunal be set up to try the former Khmer Rouge leader.

Hayden said that Pol Pot is the greatest obstacle to efforts to find a peaceful solution to the Cambodian crisis. Hayden said that efforts to put Pol Pot on trial will enhance the prospects for peace in Cambodia which has been torn apart by war for years.

The cruel Pol Pot regime massacred hundreds of thousands of Cambodians from 1975 until it was overthrown by invading Vietnamese troops in 1979.

The Khmer Rouge are the largest faction of the ASEAN-supported CGDK led by Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Asked about a proposal by the Singapore and Malaysian foreign ministers that an international peacekeeping force be deployed in Cambodia, Foreign Minister Mokhtar said that such a force is not needed, at least for the time being.

Mokhtar later disclosed that Prince Sihanouk will arrive in Jakarta on 19 August for a 3 or 4 day visit.

According to Mokhtar, Prince Sihanouk will meet President Suharto to exchange views on the settlement of the Cambodian issue.

On Philippine President Cory Aquino's visit on 24 August, Foreign Minister Mokhtar refused to elaborate on the talks schedule between President Aquino and President Suharto. However, Mokhtar stressed that Indonesia will fully support the Philippines' application to become a member of the Nonaligned Movement.

MOKHTAR ON SIGNAPORE TOUR; SHEVARDNADZE VISIT

BK151250 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] In Singapore yesterday, Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja and his Singapore counterpart Supiah Dhanabalan discussed the latest development in Cambodia and other issues related to ASEAN cooperation. During the meeting, Dhanabalan briefed Mokhtar on the recent visit of Cambodian leader Prince Sihanouk to Singapore. Speaking to newsmen in Jakarta today, Mokhtar said that Dhanabalan's briefing was useful in view of the upcoming visit of Prince Sihanouk to Indonesia on 19 August. During his 1-day visit to Singapore, Mokhtar also met with Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew and discussed with him preparations being made for the ASEAN summit meeting in Manila next year. Lee Kuan Yew said the ASEAN summit is well-timed to assess the achievements of ASEAN and to decide on what further actions the regional grouping must take in the coming years. Replying to a question on the planned visit of Soviet Foreign Minister Shevardnadze to Indonesia, Mokhtar said he did not know the details, but he speculated that such a visit would be returning the Indonesian foreign minister's visit to the Soviet Union a few years ago.

CGDK'S SIHANOUK ARRIVES FOR 4-DAY VISIT, TALKS

BK191345 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] CGDK leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk flew into Jakarta this evening for a 4-day visit to Indonesia. Prince Sihanouk arrived aboard a Boeing aircraft from Bangkok and was welcomed at the airport by Defense and Security Minister Surono, Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, and ambassadors of ASEAN countries.

Prince Sihanouk told newsmen he will exchange opinions with Indonesian leaders concerning efforts to resolve the Cambodian problem. The Cambodian leader will pay a courtesy call this evening on President Suharto at the Merdeka Palace. He will also hold a special meeting with President Suharto tomorrow morning at the Merdeka Palace. Prior to this, he will meet with Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja in Jakarta.

While in Indonesia, Prince Sihanouk, who is accompanied by two of his [word indistinct], will visit a steel factory in Ceribon, a Buddhist temple at Suntra, north of Jakarta, and the Ancol Fantasy World Park.

Talks Held on Cambodia

BK200737 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0600 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] CGDK leader Prince Sihanouk and Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja today held talks for more than an hour on ways to solve the Cambodian problem. Speaking to newsmen after the talks, Mokhtar said that both sides are determined to comprehensively solve the problem. Prince Sihanouk will give full details of his efforts to solve the Cambodian problem at a press conference in Jakarta this evening. Both Mokhtar and Prince Sihanouk declined to elaborate on details of the talks held this morning. Meanwhile, according to an AFP report, Prince Sihanouk visited Thailand before coming to Indonesia. The prince earlier visited Singapore on 6 August and is scheduled to visit Malaysia on 22 August after winding up his Indonesian tour.

SUHARTO DELIVERS NATIONAL DAY ADDRESS

BK151210 Jakarta TVRI Television Network in Indonesian 0207 GMT 15 Aug 86

[President Suharto's National Day speech broadcast live from the Parliament Building in Jakarta 15 Aug]

[Excerpts] Peace be upon you! Honorable chairman, vice chairmen, and members of the House of Representatives! My happy compatriots! Ladies and gentelemen!

In accordance with the tradition we have developed over the past 20 years, the House of Representatives convenes its session this morning in a solemn and noble atmosphere to commemorate Indonesian Independence Day 17 August 1986. [passage omitted]

My compatriots! We were facing enormous socioeconomic stagnancy when we entered the New Order era early in 1966 following the national tragedy -- a rebellion launched by the 30 September Movement of the Indonesian Communist Party. We accepted this reality and began carrying out gradual and systematic reforms in all fields through patient, persevering, and hard work under Pancasila and the Constitution of 1945.

We were courageous enough to totally correct our past mistakes and preserve national life under Pancasila and the 1945 Constitution. In the field of ideology, we have recorded basic progress conducive to the future journey of our nation and our national survival. In 1966, we decided at a general session of the Provisional People's Consultative Assembly to adopt Pancasila as the basis for the rule of law in the country. To implement Pancasila for all Indonesians and achieve a Pancasila society, we later on instituted the Directive on the Perception and Implementation of Pancasila and reaffirmed development as a means of implementing Pancasila. We even reaffirmed that Pancasila is the sole ideology for every political and mass organization in the country.

In the political field, we have succeeded in simplifying our political structure and enriching our new political values. As prescribed in the Constitution, a general election is held every 5 years to govern the mechanism of national leadership.

Under Pancasila, we have enjoyed political stability for a long period. This has in turn allowed us to concentrate on development. We have achieved great successes in the economic field thanks to dynamic stability and the hard work of all the people in carrying out development.

As a nation, we have elevated ourselves as a low-income nation to a middle-income nation and as the world's largest rice importer to a nation self-sufficient in rice. We have built many primary school buildings which make it possible to accept all school-age children, the number of which increases every year. We have implemented development throughout our vast fatherland, especially through programs directed under presidential instructions for villages, districts, and provinces. We have built dams and power plants as economic infrastructure and to improve people's welfare. We have built up the communication infrastructure to further strengthen national unity and integrity. In addition, we have also developed industries -- from simple ones to ones using modern sophisticated technology. [passage omitted]

Honorable ladies and gentlemen! In accordance with the development concept prescribed in the Broad Outlines of State Policy, our development is not designed merely to achieve growth since growth alone often brings injustice. Indeed, social justice is the goal of national independence as we have proclaimed. This being the case, we are implementing development through the three development strategies designed to evenly distribute development on the path to social justice, growth, and national stability. We reaffirmed in 1983 that our national development is nothing but a means of implementing Pancasila to prevent deviation from the goals of the Proclamation of the Independence of the Republic of Indonesia based on Pancasila. However, we also realize that no matter how noble our development concept would be, development must be implemented by taking into account existing facts and problems. Thanks to our realistic and farsighted attitude and loyalty to Pancasila, we have achieved encouraging successes after undergoing political and economic stagnancy which reached its climax with a rebellion launched by the September 30 Movement of the Indochinesian Communist Party. The need for a realistic and farsighted attitude and loyalty to Pancasila are a valuable lesson we have learned during our journey as a nation.

Compatriots! At present we are once again facing serious challenges in the economic field after scoring preliminary successes in our development efforts during the First, Second, and Third 5-Year Development Plan [Repelita]. The challenges are getting more and more serious especially at a time when we are preparing the framework of development during the Fifth Repelita to enable us to reach the take-off stage of development during the Sixth Repelita. This will speed up the realization of our ideals enshrined in the 1945 proclamation of indpendence, namely the realization of a just and prosperous society based on Pancasila.

We have actually begun to feel the challenges and pressures in the economc field since the 1st year of the Fourth Repelita. These challenges stemmed from the unfavorable global economic situation and are largely beyond our expectations. Besides the world economic recession, which resulted in declining demand for our oil and gas exports, the steep drop in oil prices on the international market in recent months has had a serious impact on state revenues.

We forecast such unfavorable scenarios. Therefore, in my earlier National Day speeches, I always warned all of you of the seriousness of the challenges we face now and in the coming years. I have repeatedly addressed this honorable session and warned that we should never depend on oil and gas commodities alone as our main income because this will create long-term problems in our national development. [passage omitted]

Honorable session! When the parliament and government jointly prepared the 1986-87 state budget, we were all aware that oil prices would go down. However, the price decrease was indeed a steep one and was coupled with uncertainties whether the price would dive further down or return to normal.

In a situation full of uncertainties, to be realistic means we must brace ourselves for the worst possible situation and do our best to cope with such a situation. As far as the oil prices are concerned, our urgent task is to appeal to oil-producing countries in general and OPEC member countries in particular to make joint and sincere efforts toward reaching a reasonable and stable oil price level, which will benefit not only producing countries, but all countries in the world. We are relieved to know that the latest OPEC meeting was able to reach an agreement on the member countries' production quotas and we hope that all OPEC member countries will sincerely adhere to the agreement so that oil prices may return to normal. Experience during the last few months has shown us that the oil price decrease has largely been brought about by the attitude of the oil producing countries. Based on this bitter experience, we must continue to make new efforts and work hard to boost our state revenues from nonoil and nongas commodity exports. [passage omitted]

We will continue to make efforts to create a stable climate favorable to foreign investors to take part in our development through capital investment and joint ventures. We will also continue to make use of foreign soft loans from the Intergovernmental Group on Indonesia, IGGI, and other international finance organizations. [passage omitted]

We have developed a political system which supports national development in the widest sense of the word. Furthermore, the development of the political system itself is a vital part of our national development. The political system that we develop must be able to maintain political stability and national unity which will in turn support economic development. Such a political system must guide us toward a society which is suitable to the ideals of our independence. The political system we have developed to serve our needs is Pancasila democracy. Within such a system, Golkar [Functional Group] and the two political parties, which have each adopted Pancasila as their sole principle, and the Indonesian Armed Forces, with its dual functions as stabilizer and dynamist, are expected to play their roles effectively as forces for development. Under Pancasila democracy, we have and will enjoy political stability for a long period of time.

The 1987 general election will be the first election since we decided to adopt Pancasila as the sole principle in our national and social life. The three participants contesting the next general election have each adopted Pancasila as their sole principle. This means that the upcoming general elections will no longer be under the shadow of ideological conflicts and uncontrollable religious emotions which have caused traumatic scars in our society. The adoption of Pancasila as sole principle by the three election contestants means that the coming general election will be a fresh and inspiring festival of democracy because each contestant will offer development programs to suit the people's wishes. The people will decide which of the three contestants' ideas are most convincing. [passage omitted]

When we compare our national experience with that of other countries now facing serious upheavals due to social, cultural, and religious conflicts, we are relieved to see that our social, cultural, and religious reforms are aimed at national unity and integrity. Had we not made practical application of Pancasila, we too would have undergone major and protracted upheavals in the social, cultural, and religious fields like those still being faced by several independent nations. [passage omitted]

In the area of foreign relations, with the growing success of our economic and development programs, we can gradually direct our active and independent foreign policy toward the implementation of our higher tasks -- namely a greater role for the realization of a world order based on freedom, everlasting peace, and social justice -- by concentrating our efforts to the nearby regions, especially Southeast Asia.

Our regional organization ASEAN will be 20 years old next year, and God willing, we will celebrate that occasion with our summit conference in Manila. At that summit, we will discuss further consolidating ASEAN which has been contributing greatly to the regional stability and to the progress of its member countries. We will also participate actively in the upcoming nonaligned summit conference in Harare to further consolidate the Nonaligned Movement's position as a leader in the movement toward world peace and the joint struggle for economic development at a time when the global economic situation has been continuously unstable in recent years. We also strongly condemn the racist and apartheid policy being arrogantly practiced by South Africa -- this heinous policy is clearly at odds with humanitarianism and justice. [passage omitted]

MAKHMUD SEES NO NEED TO REVIEW PRESIDENT'S TERM

BK191308 Jarkata THE JAKARTA POST in English 13 Aug 86 P 1

[Text] Jakarta (JP) -- House speaker Amir Makhmud said here Tuesday [12 August] that he did not see any need to review the 7th chapter of the 1945 Constitution about the Indonesian presidency.

The parliamentary chief said "the founders of the republic looked carefully into the future of this nation before formulating the president institution."

Citing the chapter of presidency, Amir Makhmud said the president and vice president of Indonesia "can be reelected after five years...but that also depends on their willingness."

He added that the 1945 Constitution does not stipulate that an Indonesian president should be a "president for life." But the constitution does not limit the terms of the president either," the House speaker noted.

What is important is that a president should carry out the people's mandate accordingly. "If a president cannot be responsible to the parliament it is clear that he will not be reelected," Amir Makhmud said.

The House speaker made these comments here Tuesday morning when receiving a delegation of North Sulawesi political parties which expressed a joint declaration calling for the reappointment of President Suharto.

The delegation was led by F. Sumampouw the North Sulawesi Golkar chairman who is also the chief of the provincial parliament.

Amir Makhmud further said reports about President Suharto's plan to stay forever in power are untrue.

AQUINO SPEAKS ON 3D ANNIVERSARY OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

HK210909 Quezon City Radyo Ng Bayan in Tagalog 0815 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Speech by President Corazon Aquino during commemorative rites for third death anniversary of Benigno Aquino at Manila's Quirino Grandstand -- live]

[Text] [Monitored in Progress]....on this day which is like our day of freedom. [words indistinct] He offered his life so that we would be free. When martial law was declared in 1972, thousands were arrested. Ninoy [Benigno Aquino] was one of those arrested. Many Filipinos were afraid and grew silent. Because of the fear at that time, many shut their eyes and kept silent. Ninoy did not keep silent nor did he shut his eyes, he was not afraid. He immediately [words indistinct]. At that time he clearly shouted out: Let us not be afraid. He kept repeating this, hoping is would reach the countrymen he loved. Ninoy's opinion was that the dictatorship would not prevail if people did not bend to the dictator, if orders were not followed, if no one believed the (?lies), if no one worried about the dictator's power. A dictator cannot triumph if the people do not follow him. There is no power where there are no followers. There is no one who can terrorize the people if the people are not afraid.

In the beginning, there seemed to be no one heeding Ninoy's call. But Ninoy (?did not give up). He punished his own body by means of a hunger strike. He wanted to show that the military could not threaten his nature, his principles, his spirit and his mind. He returned to his country with his eyes open, heedless of what would happen to him. One final imprisonment was [words indistinct]. He accepted all this [fwords indistinct]. It was his last appeal to his countrymen [words indistinct].

When Ninoy (?disembarked from his final flight), he saw his death in the eyes of the soldiers who came to take him away. Ninoy went with the soldiers peaceably, a final (?dedication) to his countrymen. If all his past appeals fell on deaf ears, there was no one who did not hear and feel that one gunshot. The nation awoke with the gunshot. Ninoy was right: The dictator had grown strong on the fear of the nation. [in English] We learned this lesson, both with Ninoy [words indistinct]. [in Tagalog] So let us cherish our hard-won freedom. Let us not allow the darkness to descend once again on our country. Most of all, let us not lose heart because we still have much to do. We are only beginning. Let us not return to our old habits of keeping silent and not getting involved [words indistinct]. Our new democracy is [words indistinct]. [passage indistinct]

LAUREL TO JOIN AQUINO ENTOURAGE ON U.S.VISIT

HK201439 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 20 Aug 86 p 24

[Text] With his hope to become acting president during President Corazon C. Aquino's state visit to the United States doused with cold water, Vice-President Salvador Laurel said yesterday he would join the U.S.-bound presidential party.

But even in the U.S. exercise, the place of honour would not be given the vice-president who could be a mere member of the visiting party.

To another presidential assistant, former Malacanang spokesman Rene Saguisag belongs the job of setting the program for the visit.

"I will be there (in the U.S.), but I won't be the main coordinator. Rene Saguisag will be the main coordinator for the U.S. trip," Laurel said.

Before Laurel's announcement of his inclusion in the visiting presidential party, it was believed that the vice-president would be relegated to attending ribbon-cutting ceremonies on behalf of Aquino during the president's absence.

Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, declared the president, would carry on the steering of the ship of the state by remote control -- through Arroyo -- and Laurel would be attending social functions.

The role for Laurel, the constitutional successor to presidential position in the president's absence, became controversial after he was provoked by newsmen to talk of his plan during his stint at the presidency that he had anticipated.

The plans included the removal of certain "controversial" ministers, Apparently he seemed to refer to Arroyo, Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez and Local Government Minister Aquilino Pimentel.

LAUREL, LUGAR DISCUSS LOBBY FOR AID, NOT BASES

HK201429 Manila NEWS HERALD in English 20 Aug 86 p 1

[By Vicente M Tanedo]

[Text] An influential American lawmaker yesterday suggested that Aquino government officials ask their friends in the U.S. Congress to expedite action on measures proposing additional aid to the Philippines to prevent delay and consequent disapproval of the bills.

Senator Richard Lugar (Republican, Indiana), chairman of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told Vice President and Foreign Minister Salvador H. Laurel about the need to lobby among "sympathizers" in the U.S. Congress.

Lugar said that all fiscal (appropriations) bills would have to be acted upon by Sept. 30. Unacted on legislation would have to be reintroduced and go through the legislative will anew.

However, Lugar said the forthcoming visit of President Aquino to Washington might help the measures calling for an additional $400 million for the financially strapped Aquino administration to meet the deadline.

"You have a number of sympathizers in the U.S. Congress," Lugar told Laurel.

The call of Lugar at the foreign office -- described by Ambassador Rora Tolentino, press counsellor -- as a "reacquaintance affair" -- was spent partly on reminiscences.

Laurel was the first official from Southeast Asia who offered his congratulations when Lugar took over the foreign relations committee.

Lugar said that he had wanted to meet Laurel again being familiar with his (Laurel's) role in the February bloodless revolution.

Padre Faura officials said that the two did not take up the bases agreement which expires in 1991 and labor issues confronting the two governments.

Lugar, who reassured Ms. Aquino that she would be warmly received by Washington officials, was an election observer here last February.

His visit was supposed to show confidence of the U.S. Government in the Aquino government. Lugar belongs to the same Republican Party as U.S. President Reagan.

In the meantime, Laurel appointed Ambassador Rosario G. Manalo as the Philippine representative to the UN Commission on the Status of Women for a term of four years.

Ms. Manalo is the most qualified to represent the Philippines because of her "excellent performance in the past," Laurel said,

The Philippine Government yesterday made representations with the U.S. Government to order the withdrawal of the travel advisory of the U.S. Department of Transportation that questioned security at the Manila International Airport.

ECONOMIC POLICY PLAN SUBMITTED TO IMF

HK121144 Quezon City BUSINESS DAILY in English 11 Aug 86 p 2

[By Daniel C. Yu]

[Text] The Philippines has submitted to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) a new memorandum on economic policy covering the next 18 months that seeks to return domestic economic activity to the 1983 level by 1988.

The new memorandum, better known as the government's letter of intent, spells out projections for overall growth and government programs as well as deficit levels, monetary expansion and the country's balance of payments (BOP) position for the period.

Finance Minister Jaime V. Ongpin, who met with newsmen over the weekend, said the government has submitted a request to the IMF for an 18-month standby arrangement for 198 million special drawing rights [SDR] ($238 million) and for 224 million SDRs ($270 million) from the Fund's compensatory financing facility (CFF).

Ongpin said the request, which is expected to be submitted to the IMF board in September, would allow a substantial expansion of the Philippine economy.

The program provides for a recovery beginning the second half of the year so the gross national product (GNP), the sum total of goods and services produced, for 1986 will grow 1.5 percent over last year. Ongpin said growth of 6 percent to 7 percent has been projected for 1987.

Based on these targets, BUSINESS DAY computations indicate that by next year, if projections in the economic memorandum materialize, GNP in real terms would reach P95,623 million to P96,525 million from P90,210 million this year.

The economy by 1988, still based on a 6 percent-7 percent growth, would produce goods and services totaling between P101,360 million to P103,282 million or marginally higher than the P98,767 million in 1983, the last time the country posted growth in real terms.

The country's monetary and economic authorities in the recent negotiations with the IMF have insisted that the economy be allowed to grow in the coming years in order to offset the debilitating 10 percent drop in overall economic activity experienced during 1984 and 1985.

The setbacks during the last two years have pushed back Philippine development by seven years and the growth of the average purchasing power of the Filipinos by 10 years, bringing about the current recession.

Ongpin said the new policies are in contrast with the policies embodied in the previous standby arrangement for 1984-85 where the emphasis was on reducing inflation by limiting budgetary deficits and containing serious BOP deficits through various austere monetary and foreign exchange measures.

Under the new Philippine memorandum, public investment will be raised to 5 percent of GNP this year compared to 3.5 percent in 1985, 1.2 percent in 1984 and 1.8 percent in 1983. The 5 percent level of public investment will be maintained throughout the 18 month program up to 1988.

Ongpin said the substantial expansion in the government's development program will be accompanied by improvements in revenues and structural reforms in government financial institutions and non-financial corporations.

The national government budget deficit as a percentage of GNP will be reduced from 4.4 percent this year to 2.4 percent in 1987 and 2 percent in 1988. This is in contrast to the previous memorandum where the government budgetary deficit was limited to 1.9 percent of GNP in 1985 and 1.5 percent in 1984.

The expansion efforts to be undertaken during the period will likely result as well in the deterioration of the overall BOP position of the country.

Under the memorandum, for this year the current account will post a surplus equivalent to 0.9 percent of GNP. For 1987 and 1988, the current account will post deficits of 1.2 percent and 2 percent respectively due to an expected upsurge in import activity.

This means that the country will continue to rely on foreign borrowings substantially during the program period in order to shore up its BOP position through 1988.

The country's projected growth during the period will be accommodated by an increase of 15 percent in the monetary base this year as compared to last year's 8.7 percent rise. An annual increase of 16 percent is projected for both 1987 and 1988.

The government has also committed to maintain the level of inflation at 5 percent to 6 percent yearly during the program period or "broadly in line with international trends" on inflation.

Gross international reserves will be expanded to the equivalent of three and a half months' imports in 1986 and will be maintained at that level throughout 1987 and 1988.

The Philippine economic memorandum also covered structural reforms in the area of taxation (substantial progress was noted); reforms in the sugar and coconut sectors; restructuring of government financial institutions; and trade liberalization.

IMF MAKES 'MAJOR CONCESSION' ON CREDIT ASSISTANCE

HK210741 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 19 Aug 86 p 15

[Text] The International Monetary Fund has given the Philippines Government a major concession when the IMF agreed to relax one of the performance criteria that the government has to meet in order to draw the $508 million credit assistance it is requesting from the fund.

Government documents made available to the BUSINESS BULLETIN said that the IMF has agreed "to make an automatic adjustment in the net international reserves position of the country if projected new money from official sources do not materialize."

Because of this concession, the raising by the government of fresh loans from official sources will not be a constraint in the performance criteria of the external sector, the document said.

The government earlier expressed to official creditors, like the governments of the United States, Japan, West Germany and other countries, its intention to raise some $1.1 billion this year to finance the projected growth in the economy this year and the projected budget deficit.

But the government was able to get commitments covering only about 70 percent of its total financial requirements both from official and multi-lateral sources like the World Bank as of May this year.

Central Bank [CB] Governor Jose B. Fernandez Jr. said last week that the deficit in the country's net international reserves (NIR) will be reduced in case the government succeeds in raising fresh loans to cover up the deficit in the NIR.

He did not specify the NIR figures but documents from the IMF showed that the ceiling on the level of the government's NIR has been set at $1.207 billion for September 30.

At the end of the year, the IMF expects the government to trim down the NIR deficit to $908 million and to a further lower level of $778 million by March 31 next year.

CB sources said the IMF concession on the NIR ceilings is significant because failure of the government to meet this particular performance criteria will derail its chances of drawing by tranches from the $508 million credit assistance from the IMF.

The IMF document said that the floors on the NIR will be adjustable for deviations on each of the test dates from the specified assumptions on new foreign disbursements and CB liabilities under the 3 billion trade facility from foreign commercial banks and its liabilities under its Circular 1091 which spells out the private financial sector foreign currency debt repayment program.

The other performance criteria that the government must hurdle in order to avail of IMF credit assistance include further implementation of structural reforms in the sugar and coconut industries and the import liberalization program.

MINISTERS URGE PAYMENT OF DEBTS BASED ON ABILITY

HK201507 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 20 Aug 86 p 17

[Text] The government should still pursue repayment of its foreign debts according to the country's ability to pay, Economic Planning Minister Solita Monsod said during a brief interview yesterday.

In a separate interview, Trade and Industry Minister Jose S. Concepcion Jr. said he and Monsod are in complete agreement on this position. He declined to comment, though, when asked on the possible backlash from the country's foreign creditors, just like what had just happened to Peru, in case the Phillipines adopts this posture.

The International Monetary Fund has declared Peru as ineligible for new loans until it repays the fund of some $186 million in arrears and current loans that were due.

New loans to Peru were earlier withheld by foreign commercial banks and the World Bank because of the South American country's decision to peg the annual payments of its $14 billion foreign debts to only 10 percent of its annual export earnings.

Concepcion was quoted by foreign wire services over a month ago as having said during a trip to Washington that the government would like to limit the servicing of its $26 billion foreign debts to only about 20 percent of the country's annual export earnings to allow room for growth in the economy.

But since Concepcion made this statement, he and Monsod had apparently clamped down and declined to elaborate when asked whether or not the posture of limiting debt service payments to a certain percentage of exports would still be maintained, especially during forthcoming negotiations later this year for rescheduling of foreign debts.

There are indications, however, that Monsod, who used to espouse selective debt repudiation or disengagement, is still keen on pressing for the limitation of debt service payments to a certain percentage of annual export earnings, just like what Peru did.

In fact, the NEDA [National Economic Development Authority] chief requested last May for a report from the Philippine ambassador to Peru on details regarding the management of Peru's external debt.

Monsod received the report prior to her visit to Mexico and Peru to study the respective experiences of the two countries in managing their foreign debt problems.

The wire report to NEDA from Peru said that the government took precautionary measures late last year in anticipation of sanctions from foreign creditors arising from its controversial debt posture.

It was learned that Peru withdrew in October last year all public sector deposits in the United States as a precautionary measure.

FIJI

HAYDEN HOLDS TALKS WITH FIJI MINISTERS

BK160728 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] Australia's foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, has had talks in Suva with a number of Fiji government ministers. A statement issued by the Australian High Commissioner said that among the issues covered in the talks were the ANZUS defense alliance, trade, and investment.

The ANZUS defense pact, now confined to Australia and the United States after New Zealand was effectively expelled because of its nuclear ships policy, provides for mutual defense in the case of military attack. It said the ministers had also discussed the supply of four Australian patrol boats for the Fiji Navy and the inevitable effects on Australia's aid program of the budgetary restrictions faced by the government.

Mr Hayden's visit to Fiji was classed as private and was not announced to media until the High Commission issued its statement. The foreign affairs minister is on his way home from San Francisco where he had talks with American officials on the ANZUS alliance.

KIRIBATI

JAPAN PLANS 'HUGE' SPACE CENTER, UNIVERSITY

HK210243 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 15 Aug 86 p 1

[By Pacific Affairs Reporter]

[Text] The tiny Pacific nation of Kiribati may become the base for Japan's multibillion-dollar Pacific space centre.

It is planned to be the home of high-tech space manufacturing industries and a space university and will operate for peaceful purposes on a commercial multi-user basis.

Kiribati is one of the most hard-up nations in the Pacific, with an estimated population of 60,000 widely scattered over 33 atolls.

Diplomatic moves have been initiated between the two countries to examine the possibilities of building the huge space base, research institutes and other facilities on one of Kiribati's atolls, possibly the biggest one, Christmas Island.

The base would also be home to many high-tech industries which the Japanese Government says would be involved in the space-based manufacturing of pharmaceuticals, semi-conductor materials, glasses and the like.

The major function of the new Pacific space centre would be an international spaceport featuring the most advanced launching facilities.

The initiative to look for a Kiribati site was taken up by the honorary Kiribati consul in Japan, Mr T. Kuribayashi, on behalf of Mr Tetsuo Kondo, the deputy chairman of the governing Liberal Democratic Party's policy research council.

Mr Kondo has recommended the establishment of the space-port near the equator in the Pacific to reduce orbital maneuvering velocity loss during launching of geostationary satellites.

It would also serve as an emergency site for rescue and recovery of manned space flights.

Mr Kondo told a space symposium organised by the American Astronautical Society and the Japanese Rocket Society at Hawaii recently that the new space technology promised to change and improve dramatically the social and economic conditions of the Pacific.

It is expected that Japan will engage in a very wide range of space programmes for peaceful purposes, ranging from broadcasting and general communications satellites to weather and other earth observation satellites.

Many of the programmes are likely to be joint ventures with countries like New Zealand and Australia.

Mr Kondo said that more than 100 Japanese companies were considering the commercial use of space through material processing.

Japan now has two kinds of satellite rocket launchers. One is a unique vehicle called the M-3SII, which uses solid fuel for all stages of its flight.

Japan is also developing a series of more powerful launchers called H-I and H-II for heavy loads.

The project has an astute eye on business possibilities, for the Japanese Government notes that there is no equatorial launch site in the Pacific with high-level launching comparable to the United States space shuttle.

"This proposed space-port, if constructed near the equator, will provide a launching service for nations at present lacking launch sites," says the Japanese report.

"A basic principle should be that the Pacific space-port will be employed only for peaceful purposes.

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 163 22 August 1986

JAPAN

Kuranari, Shevardnadze Plan 24 Sep UN Meeting C 1
SRV Authorizes First Japanese Trading Office C 1

NORTH KOREA

CPRF Memorandum Marks 1976 Panmunjom Incident D 1
U.S. Economic Subjugation of South Denounced [NODONG SINMUN 21 Aug] D 7

SOUTH KOREA

Japanese Damage Korean Boat, Throw Man Overboard [THE KOREA TIMES 22 Aug] E 1
NKDP Resuming Efforts To Meet With JSP Politicians E 1
  Rejoins Korea-Japan League [THE KOREA TIMES 21 Aug] E 1
  DJP Floor Leader Comments [THE KOREA HERALD 22 Aug] E 2
Police 60-Day Antiterrorist Campaign for Asiad [THE KOREA HERALD 22 Aug] E 3

LAOS

PASASON on LPRP's Correct, Clear-Sighted Line I 1
Vientine Views Post-Election Thai Relations I 2
Radio Feature Reviews Decade of Victories I 3
Economic, Social, Other Setbacks Discussed I 7

VIETNAM

CPV 'Undecided' on Keeping Truong Chinh in Post [KYODO] K 1
Pham Van Dong Receives Nicaraguan, Afghan Envoys K 1
NHAN DAN on Control of Correcting Shortcomings [21 Jul] K 2
QUAN DOI NHAN DAN on Need for Critical Opinions K 4
QUAN DOI NHAN DAN on Party Members' Quality K 6
Army Paper Marks August Revolution Anniversary [QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 19 Aug] K 8
Lenin Cited on 'American Practicality' [SAIGON GIAI PHONG 22 Apr] K 10
Radio Essay on C-17 Helicopter Unit K 12

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Hawke on Resuming Uranium Sales to France M 1
Labor MP's Vote Support [AFP] M 1
Government To Reduce South African Presence M 2

NEW ZEALAND

Papers Criticize Government Nuclear Policy M 2
THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD [13 Aug] M 2
WELLINGTON EVENING POST [13 Aug] M 3

INDONESIA

Sihanouk Gives 20 Aug Press Conference in Jakarta [BERNAMA] N 1
Suharto Assures Continued Support N 2
Dailies View Sihanouk's Visit N 3
Mokhtar Willing to Talk to PRC on Cambodia N 3
Will Meet at UN [BERNAMA] N 3
S. Africa Banned From Jakarta World Sugar Congress N 4

PHILIPPINES

Police Say Killing Not 'Politically Motivated [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 21 Aug] P 1
Marcos, KBL Condemn Murder [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 21 Aug] P 2
Mayor Orders Probe P 4
Capcom Takes Over Probe of Assassination Plot [NEWS HERALD 20 Aug] P 4
Nationalist, People's Political Parties Launched [AFP] P 5

KURANARI, SHEVARDNADZE PLAN 24 SEP UN MEETING

OW221217 Tokyo KYODO in English 1214 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 22 KYODO -- Japanese and Soviet Foreign ministers, Tadashi Kuranari and Eduard Shevardnadze, will meet in New York September 24, Foreign Ministry sources said Friday. The two foreign ministers will be attending the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly, the sources said.

In their meeting the Soviet foreign minister may unveil the timing of a visit by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to Japan, the sources said. Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Solovyev told the Foreign Ministry Friday that Shevardnadze has accepted Kuranari's proposal to meet in New York, according to the sources. Kuranari, in a meeting with Solovyev August 6, filed the proposal and called on Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to visit Japan by the end of this year or in January.

SRV AUTHORIZES FIRST JAPANESE TRADING OFFICE

OW220501 Tokyo KYODO in English 0441 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 22 KYODO -- Nissho Iwai Corp., a leading trading company, said Friday it will open a resident representative office in the Vietnamese capital of Hanoi by the end of September. Company officials said Nissho Iwai is the first Japanese enterprise authorized by the Vietnamese Government to open such an office in the communist nation since its reunification in 1976. The officials said the Hanoi government is expected to allow other Japanese companies to set up similar offices in Vietnam in the future, resulting in an improvement in Japan-Vietnam trade ties.

According to the officials, the Vietnamese Government has in the past allowed Japanese businessmen to stay in Vietnam for a maximum of three months at most. It now allows them to stay longer without needing entry visas every time they visit the country, the officials said.

The Nissho Iwai officials said Vietnam, with a population of 60 million and high education levels, has a vast potential as a major export market.

Two-way trade between Japan and Vietnam totaled about 210 million dollars last year, with Japan recording an 84 million dollar trade surplus. Major Japanese export items included trucks, tires and radios, while import items included such primary goods as anthracite and shrimps.

Nissho Iwai plans another resident representative office in Ho Chi Minh City in the future.

CPRF MEMORANDUM MARKS 1976 PANMUNJOM INCIDENT

SK220030 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2300 GMT 17 Aug 86

[Text] The Secretariat of the Committee for Peaceful Reunification of the Fatherland [CPRF] has issued a memorandum accusing the U.S. imperialists of criminal maneuvers in connection with their running wild to provoke a new war, and in aggravating tension by frequent military provocations in Panmunjom and the surrounding areas of the Military Demarcation Line [MDL]. The memorandum reads:

Panmunjom in our country is well known to the world as the epitome of a divided Korea, where confrontation and tension continue. Panmunjom was the place where negotiations for the Korean armistice were held and the Korean Armistice Agreement signed, and it has become and a historic site, the site where the U.S. imperialists knelt down before the Korean people with a white flag in hand.

Many years have passed since then. Yet Panmunjom is still accusing the U.S. imperialists of their unchanged aggressive ambition and of the crimes of the occupying forces. A total of some 444,000 instances of violations of the armistice agreement have been committed by the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets over the past 33 years since the armistice. In particular, the violations have rapidly increased since 1980, and they amounted to some 20,000 in 1981, some 21,500 cases in 1984, and no less than 20,400 cases for the first 7 months of 1986. A considerable portion of these have been provocations committed in the Panmunjom area, with the Panmunjom incident 10 years ago a typical example.

The CPRF Secretariat issues this memorandum in connection with the 10th anniversary of the provocative Panmunjom incident committed by the U.S. imperialists on 18 August 1976, condemning the U.S. imperialists and their stooges for their criminal maneuvers causing tension in our country by frequent military provocations in Panmunjom and the surrounding area of the MDL.

The Accusations of Panmunjom

If the situation in Panmunjom is tense, the Korean situation is tense; and if the Korean situation is tense, the world situation is tense. Therefore, world attention is focused on Korea, especially on Panmunjom in Korea. The U.S. imperialists occupying South Korea have continually committed military provocations in Panmunjom to cause tension in our country and to find an excuse to provoke a new war. People have not forgotten the Panmunjom incident that took place 10 years ago.

The Panmunjom incident was an international military provocation committed by the U.S. imperialists. In order to gain support from the voters in the presidential election to be held in November that year by providing justification for his election platform offering continuous support to the fascist South Korean regime suppressing human rights, Ford plotted to cause tension in that situation and provoke war on the Korean peninsula.

The question is why the United States provoked the irreversible [hoepi toelsu omnun] Panmunjum incident and used this, in fact, as an excuse to start a war, ignoring the most reasonable reply of the North Korean side. The reason was that they attempted to use this to help Ford win the presidential nomination and win more support for him from GOP hardliners, as stated by the 26 August 1976 issue of the U.S. paper GUARDIAN.

The U.S. paper GUARDIAN dated 1 September 1976 bore this out by facts, enumerating the reasons as noted below that the Panmunjom incident was an intentional provocation by the U.S. imperialists.

When the American-led group came with an axe to cut the white poplar -- this tree was planted and cared for by the North Korean side -- four of the North's security personnel approached them and told them the tree should not be cut without prior negotiations with our side. Their request was met with abusive language and a personal attack by the U.S. side. Four of them were beaten, and an axe was hurled at them. When the security personnel of the North side reacted in self-defense, the U.S. Army side called in reinforcement troops that were apparently standing nearby and had some photographers follow them.

Thus the Panmunjom incident was a premeditated, international, and sneaky provocation. Nevertheless, the U.S. imperialists pretended that we committed this act and, repeatedly issuing the statements by such leaders as Ford and Kissinger, they raved that we should be held responsible for the consequences arising therefrom. Twice holding top-level Security Council meetings, they held conferences to provoke war and went so far as to commit a dangerous military action.

The U.S. imperialists committed a provocation of mobilizing numerous armed personnel and cutting the white poplar tree, issued an alert order to the U.S. Forces, the South Korean puppet Army, the U.S. Air Force in Japan, and the U.S. 7th Fleet, and even dispatched armed forces of their air force from U.S. mainland and their bases in Japan on a massive scale. On the morning of 21 August that year, Ford ordered the carrier Midway of the U.S. 7th Fleet, carrying some 100 planes and guided missiles, to be dispatched to Korean waters, and dispatched 1,800 troops, an advance contingent of the 15,000 troops of the U.S. 3d Marine Corps division based on Okinawa, to South Korea.

Thus, the U.S. imperialists frenziedly maneuvered to start a war in Korea, taking advantage of the Panmunjom incident committed by them. However, the U.S. imperialists subsided in their attempt to conduct a demonstration of strength because of our restrained self-defensive step.

The United States was close to provoking a new war in Korea last week. The war was prevented because North Korea showed great self-restraint, although it sternly criticized the bellicosity of the United States and expressed its readiness for self-defense, as stated in the 26 August 1976 issue of the U.S. paper GUARDIAN. Thus, the Panmunjom incident intensively showed the true nature of the U.S. imperialists as war fanatics.

Reckless Military Provocation

The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets, frenziedly engaging in preparing a new aggressive war, a nuclear war, on the Korean peninsula, have continually committed adventurous military provocations to trigger a war. The U.S. imperialists, continually engaging in military provocations and continuing to stress superiority in strength, have deployed numerous armed forces in Panmunjom and the surrounding area and have continuously conducted rackets against our side.

The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have frequently threatened the security personnel of our side. On 13 May 1958 and 27 May 1962, the security troops of the U.S. Army side threw stones at the security personnel and the building of our side in Panmunjom, breaking windowpanes. On 8 February 1965, the security troops of the U.S. Army side secretly approached a guardpost of our side in the Joint Security Area [JSA] of Panmunjom and threw stones at it.

On 9 and 12 October 1970 and on 3 March 1974, hooligans of the U.S. Army side collectively challenged the security personnel of our side and assaulted them.

They did not hesitate to commit military actions threatening the security of the security personnel of our side. On 22 December 1963, a military policeman of the U.S. Army side threatened the security personnel of our side with a knife in hand. On 26 November 1984, immediately after the Panmunjom shooting incident, a military policeman of the U.S. Army leaped up wildly with a gun in hand as if he were about to shoot it. They committed a grave provocation again in the conference room area. A military policeman of the U.S. Army threatened the North's personnel as if to shoot at them, according to an AP report from Seoul, 26 November 1984.

The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets are frequently conducting criminal military exercises in Panmunjom and the surrounding area. They have even conducted military exercises in the MAC headquarters area, which supervises the observance of the armistice agreement.

On 6, 7, and 10 April 1962, in the small area of the MAC headquarters area, military exercises were staged by mobilizing even helicopters and firing guns and rifles. This clearly shows what vicious and shameless provokers the U.S. imperialists are.

The U.S. imperialists and South Korean puppets fire guns and rifles at our areas and guards whenever they wish. The U.S. imperialists, who began to fire shells and bullets at our side only 20 minutes after the Armistice Agreement came into force, have all along fired at random at the buildings of the MAC and the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, not to speak of the guard posts and guards on our side.

The U.S. AP news agency reported on 26 November 1984 from Seoul that, on that day, prior to the 426th MAC meeting at which their adventurous military provocations would be denounced, the U.S. imperialists brought into the area of the conference room armed personnel as many as 90 higher than the authorized number, deployed machine guns in a building next to the conference room, and committed a wild act by saying that they would fire at the conference room.

The armed provocations by the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have drastically increased, particularly since Reagan's junket to South Korea in November 1983.

On 29 March 1984, they committed provocations by firing some 600 M-16 rifle rounds in an area 1,000 meters south of MDL Marker 0805, some 200 rounds in an area 1,000 meters south of MDL Marker 0801, and some 300 bullets in an area 550 meters south of MDL Marker 0806 against the areas of our side.

Some time after this, on 22 April, they committed hostile acts by firing recoilless rifles and automatic rifles in the areas southwest of MDL Marker 0879 and southwest of Marker 0891.

On 19 and 20 September and on 12 and 23 November 1984, too, the U.S. imperialists committed provocations by firing large-caliber machine guns and recoillness guns and by firing launchers and M-16 automatic rifles at a guard post of our side. The military provocations by the U.S. troops have gone far beyond the limit and have become the wild acts of those who have lost their reason.

The Panmunjom shooting incident of 23 November 1984, which put even wild beasts to shame, was a notable example.

On that day a foreign tourist, while touring the conference room area in Panmunjom, crossed the central demarcation line outside the conference room because he was not fully aware of the order in that area. In such a case, explaining the order and letting one know about it is an appropriate act. With this stand, our guard personnel approached the foreign tourist who had crossed the central demarcation line. However, the U.S. imperialists fired automatic weapons without due cause. Under these circumstances, our side by telephone demanded that the enemy side stop firing, and informed the enemy side that unarmed personnel were going out to rescue our wounded personnel.

North Korea demanded that the U.S. side, which fired at the personnel of the North in Panmunjom, stop firing. However, the U.S. side ignored this and killed three North personnel. Killing personnel of the North was a bestial act and wild violation of the Armistice Agreement. This was reported by the Japanese KYODO news agency from Seoul, 24 November 1984. The U.S. imperialists provoked the Panmunjom shooting incident to rupture North-South dialogue and create two Koreas a goal they were working towards.

Sano Akira, director of the organization and youth department of Sohyo in Japan, in his statement on 30 November 1984 noted that the act the U.S. imperialists committed at a time when relief goods had been delivered to the South Korean flood victims through the humanitarian measure of the republic and at a time when the economic talks and Red Cross talks were being held between the North and South could be branded only as one running counter to reducing tension.

The British Reuter News Agency from Seoul on 26 November 1984 charged: Seoul and Washington are attempting to destroy recent moves to alleviate tension on the Korean peninsula. The Panmunjom shooting incident was a deliberate and premeditated criminal act of the United States to disturb the alleviation of tension in Korea and the creation of an atmosphere for dialogue.

When all mankind denounced in unison the bestial crime of the U.S. imperialists and their stooges who were solely responsible for the Panmunjom shooting incident, they viciously schemed to shift responsibility onto us for the incident. Shamelessly, they raved alternately in Seoul and Washington that they had taken a self-defensive measure because we had provoked them.

NEW KOREA TIMES, a newspaper of Korean residents in Canada, on 1 December 1984 revealed that the self-defensive measure raved about by the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan puppet clique was trickery and sophism to evade responsibility for the bestial killing atrocity. It sharply condemned them, saying: We cannot but note the puppet nature of the Chon Tu-hwan regime. The Chon Tu-hwan regime is condemning the North and praising the U.S. shooting. Do they indeed possess a national conscience? Does the blood of Koreans flow in them?

The Panmunjom shooting incident once again disclosed to the world that the U.S. imperialists are indeed war maniacs and shameless aggressors cannot survive without military provocations.

Since the beginning of this year, too, the U.S. imperialists and South Korean puppets have continued large-scale war exercises and armed provocation rackets in succession, including the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise, thus placing the North-South dialogue in a serious crisis. Worse still, the wretches have more viciously committed military provocations in the Panmunjom area after we put forward early this year a propsoal to terminate armed conflicts and adopt perfect security measures in the JSA in Panmunjom, and proposed to them discontinuing military exercises and holding talks between military authorities.

On last 20 March, 2 May, and 10 and 25 June, the wretches committed hostile acts of firing 12.7-millimeter, large-caliber machine guns and M-16 automatic rifles at the guard post of our side. In addition, some time ago, on 5 and 9 August, they committed a deliberate and premeditated armed provocation by firing large-caliber machine gun and automatic rifle at the guard post of our side.

The Illegal Introduction of Weapons

The U.S. imperialists have deployed a large quantity of weapons and heavy military equipment of various kinds in and around Panmunjom by wildly violating the Armistice Agreement. The Armistice Agreement allows no weapons except pistols and rifles to be introduced into the JSA in Panmunjom. But the U.S. imperialists brought automatic weapons into the JSA in Panmunjom immediately after the cease-fire. Still not satisfied, they have actively introduced heavy weapons since 1980, when traitor Chon Tu-hwan usurped power. Moreover, in the JSA in Panmunjom, the wretches introduced machine guns on 1 May 1983 and even vulcan guns on 29 August the same year. In particular, the U.S. imperialists' deployment of the heavy weapons in Panmunjom, the introduction of which into Panmunjom is banned, fully discloses their aggressive nature. This was stated by Sano Akira, director of the Sohyo organization and youth department of Japan, on 30 November 1984.

The U.S. imperialists have activity introduced weapons and modern military equipment of various kinds into the area around the JSA in Panmunjom. With the objective of turning the DMZ into a combat position to ignite a new war of aggression in Korea, the U.S. imperialists have introduced all kinds of weapons into this area since the cease-fire.

In particular, entering the 1970's the U.S. imperialists introduced more heavy weapons. In 1970 alone, 105-millimeter howitzers, 106.7-millimeter and 81-millimeter mortars, 90-millimeter and 57-millimeter recoilless guns, and many other heavy and automatic weapons of various kinds had been introduced.

On 1 March 1975, a 106.7-millimeter mortar was introduced into an area 1,000 meters northeast of the MDL Marker 0354, and on 21 May a 105-millimeter howitzer and a 57-millimeter recoilless gun were introduced into an area 1,000 meters east of MDL Marker 0800 and into an area 900 meters east of MDL Marker 0310. Thus, on as many as 84 occasions from 18 March through 24 May alone and 25 times in the period from 10 through 26 July, all kinds of heavy weapons and equipment had been introduced and deployed in combat positions and kept in a standing firing posture. 57-millimeter recoilless guns were respectively introduced into an area 600 meters south of the MDL Marker 0740 on 10 and 11 November in the same year and into an area 350 meters east of MDL Marker 0014 on 21 December. Moreover, even a tank was brought in on 22 January, 14 July, and 23 August.

The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have dragged more weapons and heavy equipment into the DMZ every year. The number of protests our side lodged with the enemy against illegally dragging artillery, armored cars, tanks, heavy weapons and automatic weapons into the DMZ at the MAC for the single year of 1978 reached more than 6,100.

The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets dragged more tanks, armored cars, various kinds of artillery pieces, large-caliber machine guns, and automatic weapons into areas near Panmunjom while more loudly talking about the threat of southward invasion at the beginning of the 1980's.

On 1 May 1980, they dragged 18 armored cars into the area 1,100 meters south of MDL Marker 0207.

On 28 August 1981, they dragged two 150-mm howitzers and a number of armored cars into the area 950 meters south of MDL Marker 1094. On 22 October 1982, they dragged tanks, armored cars, and vulcan guns into the area 1,500 meters east of MDL Marker 0046.

At the instigation of the U.S. imperialists, the South Korean puppets dragged armored cars, 105-mm howitzers, vulcan guns and recoilless rifles into areas south of the MDL Marker 1415 and east of MDL Marker 0046 in May and June 1984. In July, August, September and December, they committed the crimes of dragging 106-mm and 90-mm recoilless rifles, vulcan guns, 12.7--mm large-caliber machine guns, and tanks and armored cars into the DMZ.

Violations of the Armistice Agreement by the rascals by dragging heavy weapons, including automatic weapons and heavy equipment, into and around Panmunjom in the first half of 1984 alone number more than 5,000. This figure increases every year.

All facts clearly prove that the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets are straining the situation and creating the danger of war in our country. We have made all possible efforts by putting forth various reasonable proposals to ease tension and promote peace and reunification on the Korean peninsula, and not to promote confrontation, war and division. However, the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have responded to our peace efforts with war exercises and military provocations, refusing all our sincere and reasonable proposals.

The rascals' ravings about easing tension and promoting peace are a deceptive trick designed to conceal their policy of agression and war. The U.S. imperialists cannot escape criminal responsibility for aggravating tension and creating the danger of war on the Korean peninsula with any excuse.

The United States and the South Korean authorities should abandon the line of confrontation and war, which runs counter to the aspirations of our people and the people of the world, and should stop their military provocations. The United States and the South Korean side should immediately respond to our proposals to ensure perfect security in the headquarters area of the MAC and JSA and hold talks between military authorities.

17 August 1986, Pyongyang

U.S. ECONOMIC SUBJUGATION OF SOUTH DENOUNCED

SK211029 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1017 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN today carries a signed article headlined "U.S. Imperialists' Brigandish Economic Aggression for Feathering Their Own Nest at the Expense of South Korea." The paper says:

With the settlement of "pending trade issues" between the United States and South Korea at the brigandish demand of the U.S. imperialists, the South Korean puppets will open the market to U.S. cigarettes in September, introduce the material patent system from the latter half of next year, join the universal copyright convention and permit the infiltration of the U.S. life insurance companies. The U.S. demand for the opening of South Korean market is a most brazenfaced, brigandish and unilateral one. This is a high-handed arbitrariness of the colonial ruler who regards South Korea as a hereditary dominion, a state of the United States.

The Chon Tu-hwan clique, a hand-raised colonial stooge of U.S. imperialism, agreed to the disgraceful settlement of "pending trade issues", which will deal a heavy blow at the South Korean economy and people's living.

Above all, the plunder and subjugation of the South Korean economy by U.S. imperialism will be intensified still further. The puppets who have nothing of their own and depend on others for everything will suffer a loss of more than 1 billion dollars every year only by recognizing the intellectual property including copyright and material patent right. The opening of market to U.S. cigarettes alone will inflict a loss of 500 million dollars a year upon South Korea. The opening of South Korean life insurance market, most backward and feeble in competiative power, will bring the puppets a loss of 4-5 billion dollars a year in this field.

The settlement of the "pending trade issues" will raise the liberation of commodity import into South Korea to 91.7 percent to turn South Korea into a market of U.S. commodities and place South Korea more tightly under the direct domination and control of the U.S. monopoly capital in various domains of finance, capital, commerce circulatin, sciences and monopoly. The settlement of the "pending trade issues" will lead many enterprises of South Korea to financial difficulties and bankruptcy. It is inevitable that over 20 cigarette manufacturers of South Korea will go bankrupt with the infiltration of U.S. tobacco firms into South Korea.

In order to extricate themselves from colonial slavery, the South Korean people should not only achieve political independence but also build an independent national economy as early as possible, freed from the U.S. imperialists' economic subjugation.

JAPANESE DAMAGE KOREAN BOAT, THROW MAN OVERBOARD

SK220021 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 22 Aug 86 p 8

[Text] Pusan (YONHAP) -- A Japanese trawler damaged a Korean fishing boat by hitting into it and threw a fisherman overboard after tying him to a wooden plank.

The incident took place as the Korean fisherman jumped aboard the Japanese ship, protesting the total destruction done to their fishing nets.

The incident took place on the high sea at an area of 131 degrees north latitude.

According to Choe Chang-min, skipper of the Korean ship, two Japanese ships were cruising along the sea where fishing gear had been lowered by the Korean ship, destroying the fishing equipment.

He said he immediately protested and asked the Japanese ships to stop, but was ignored.

The Korean ship then approached one of the two Japanese ships to lodge a more direct protest. But the Japanese made a sharp turn and hit the Korean ship damaging it.

Fisherman Pang Hyon-chol, 29, jumped over the Japanese boat to protest, at which time the Japanese boat began to steer in the direction of Japan with the Korean fisherman on board.

After the boat was given a chase by the Korean boat for about 30 minutes, the Japanese threw Pang into the sea after tying him to a piece of wood, according to Choe.

NKDP RESUMING EFFORTS TO MEET WITH JSP POLITICIANS

Rejoins Korea-Japan League

SK210006 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 21 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The main opposition New Korea Democratic Party will resume efforts in earnest to have official exchanges with the Japan Socialist Party as the government showed a soft position toward the issue, party sources said yesterday.

In this connection, NKDP President Yi Min-u made it clear yesterday that his party will take part in the annual conference of the Korea-Japan Parliamentary League, which will be held in Tokyo Sept. 1-2.

This means a reversal of the party's earlier decision to sever ties with the binational parliamentary goodwill body.

The NKDP had decided to bolt from the league in protest against the government's refusal to issue an entry visa for Japan Socialist Party Chairman Masashi Ishibashi for his visit to the NKDP.

"However, I heard from Prime Minister No Sin-yong yesterday that the government will positively study the issuance of the visa for the JSP head," Yi noted.

Yi and other leaders of major parties had talks on current political issues at Prime Minister No's residence Tuesday.

"We will send an invitation to whoever will be elected the SPJ chairman in its convention in September. The invitee should not necessarily be Mr. Ishibashi," he added.

Ishibashi's visit to Seoul was first arranged by Kim Yong-sam and the NKDP sent a formal invitation to him in the name of Yi Min-u last May.

DJP Floor Leader Comments

SK220017 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 22 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Rep. Yi Se-ki, floor leader of the ruling Democratic Justice Party, said yesterday that the issue of entry visas to officials of the Japan Socialist Party "could be studied positively depending on developments within the Japanese party."

Yi made the remarks when he met with his counterpart of the main opposition New Korea Democratic Party, Rep. Kim Tong-yong, at a Seoul hotel.

The opposition party decided in May to withdraw from the Korea-Japan Parliamentarians' League in protest over the government's refusal to issue an entry visa to the JSP chairman, Masashi Ishibashi.

Yi told Kim during the meeting that the issue could be studied positively, noting that a reshuffle in the JSP leadership is expected in September because of its defeat in the recent general election.

The DJP floor leader called for the NKDP to retract its decision to pull out of the league, in view of national interests.

In response, Kim said that his party would make a review of the issue in a positive manner. "I will report the contents of this meeting to the official party organs," he added. Kim said, however, his party wants the operation of the league to be improved, asserting that the majority parties of Korea and Japan have "unilaterally" run the parliamentary goodwill body so far.

During yesterday's meeting, Yi and Kim also discussed the opposition's call for convening a special National Assembly session to deal with the outstanding issues, including the alleged sexual abuse of a female detainee and the Independence Hall fire.

Yi opposed the NKDP's demand, saying that it is time for rival parties to concentrate their efforts on the production of a compromise on the proposed constitutional revision. "Moreover, there are only about 30 days to go before the regular Assembly session," he added.

Also discussed during the meeting was the NKDP's call for dropping the indictments against the three NKDP lawmakers, Pak Chan-chong, Cho Sun-hyong and Kim Tong-chu. Pak and Cho were indicted last July on charges of inciting the student demonstration at a Seoul university, and Kim on charges of the alleged floor violence last Decmember.

Meanwhile, the DJP floor leader met with Rep. Kim Yong-chae, floor leader of the minor opposition Korea National Party, later in the day. They urged the NKDP to participate in the annual conference of the parliamentary goodwill body.

POLICE 60-DAY ANTITERRORIST CAMPAIGN FOR ASIAD

SK220009 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 22 Aug 86 p 8

[Text] Police yesterday entered a 60-day period of emergency time for Asian Games in September.

The drive was declared by Kang Min-chang, director of the National Police Headquarters (NPH), during a meeting of police chiefs from major cities and provincial governments.

Kang instructed police to safeguard foreign athletes and officials participating in the 10th Asiad scheduled for Sept. 25-Oct. 5.

He also told a team of detectives probing into the bloody murder of the four gangsters to delve deeply into the question of whether the murder suspects have connections with foreign narcotics trafficking rings or international crime syndicates.

Judging that those involved in last Thursday's bloodshed had once been active in the port city of Mokpo, Kang said the police will track down criminals and organized syndicates active in such port cities as Pusan, Inchon and Yosu as well as Mokpo.

Information on all gangsters and criminal ring members will be fed into computers to keep a close tab on their activities, he said.

The NPH will increase information exchange with regard to international terrorists in foreign relevant agencies to prevent them from entering the country during the Asiad.

Kang said police commados will be activated to fight off possible international terrorism and vigilance around airports will be reinforced during the games.

Local airports will spend more time to screen air cargos to block an illegal inflow of guns and other weapons.

The NPH will deploy some 8,000 policemen in and around 2,442 terrorism prone places, including hotels, the athletes villages and competition sites.

Kang said the NPH will organize a special police squad for each national team taking part in the Asian Games for an effective protection of foreign participants. In addition, special guards comprising of policewomen will be at the games, he said.

PASASON ON LPRP'S CORRECT, CLEAR-SIGHTED LINE

BK211449 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 1200 GMT 18 Aug 86

[18 August PASASON editorial: "Our Party Line Is ALways Correct and Glorious"]

[Text] After the complete liberation of our country and the establishment of the LPDR on 2 December 1975, despite the then complex development of the situation at home and abroad, our party succeeded in defining a correct, unified, and all-round strategic line.

The overall line of our country's revolution for the period of transition toward socialism was clearly mentioned in the political report submitted by the LPRP Central Committee to the Third Party Congress. This line is to consolidate and strengthen ceaselessly the dictatorship of the proletariat; to organize and ensure close unity among the working people of all ethnic minority groups and the exercising of their right to master their country and society; to carry out simultaneously the three revolutions -- in which the revolution in the relations of production will pave the way for the productive forces to develop, the scientific-technological revolution is the kingpin and the cultural and ideological revolution should take a step ahead -- all this is for the socialist construction; to exploit and bring into full play all potentials of the country, starting from agriculture and forestry and taking the development of agriculture and forestry as a base for industrial development; to transform the economy; to turn step by step small production into socialist large-scale production to carry out industrialization gradually and selectively, considering socialist industrialization as the central task of the period of transition in order to develop the productive forces, build up and ceaselessly consolidate the socialist relations of production, and turn our country into one having developed agriculture, forestry, and industry; to build a prosperous, happy, and joyful life for all ethnic minority people; to eradicate for good the exploitation of man by man; to strengthen the national defense and public security tasks and firmly defend the national independence, sovereignty, and the new regime; and to build a peaceful, independent, unified, and socialist Laos, and together with Vietnam and Cambodia, to defend firmly the outpost of the socialist system in this region, and actively contribute to the struggle for peace, national independence, democracy, and socialism in the world.

Our party's socialist construction line originated from Marxism-Leninism -- a scientific and creative theory which will lead all mankind to happiness without the situation of the exploitation of man by man. Meanwhile, our party's socialist construction line was drawn from the rich lessons of various fraternal socialist countries and was skilfully coordinated with the true historical conditions and special characteristics of the Lao nation.

After defining a correct line, our party has known to carry out this line persistently, has had appropriate methods of work, such as on the mobilization of movements to implement regularly the line, and has sought to know the things that do not correspond with the true, objective situation in order to promptly modify or amend the line. For this reason, over the past 10 years, the people of all ethnic minority groups throughout the country have succeeded in firmly defending the administrative power and has further strengthened it with each passing day, have developed production, and have normalized and gradually imporved the living conditions of the people of all ethnic groups.

In short, all victories recorded by the entire people in the past are attributable to the correct and clear-sighted line of the LPRP.

The main rason why the party's line has not yet been concretized and materialized in some areas and in some cases is that some of our cadres, party members, state employees, and people have not yet profoundly grasped the overall line as well as the lines, policies, and plans of the party and state set for each stage, thus considerably limiting the success of our national defense and construction cause. Therefore, only by enabling our cadres, party members, and peopole of all ethnic minority groups to clearly understand the party-state line as the concrete task of their branch of work and localities and by organizing the fruitful implementation of this line, can we truly glorify the correctness and clearsightedness of the party line and turn it into a living thing.

VIENTIANE VIEWS POST ELECTION THAI RELATIONS

BK200950 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 16 Aug 86

["Article": "May the Just Wish of the Thai People Be Realized"]

[Text] As everyone is fully aware, the new government of the Kingdom of Thailand has been formed with General Prem Tinsulanon as prime minister. The Thai people as well as those of neighboring countries hope to see a change for the better in Thailand's foreign policy, which will help bring peace and well-being to the Thai laboring people in particular and the Thai people in general. If this wish is to be realized, one must first admit that the majority of the Thai people aspire to enjoy genuine freedom and coexist peacefully with their neighbors. This can be seen from a statement by Phichai Rattakun, the leader of the Democrat Party, noting the need to establish free-trade exchanges with the Indochinese countries. He said that in the past, due to its closed-door policy, Thailand lost an opportunity to earn an estimated $6 billion in trade exchanges with those countries -- money that has been reaped by the capitalists in other countries.

The Thai people's electing 100 members of the Democrat Party to the 347-seat Parliament clearly shows that they support the just foreign policy of this party. They do not want to pursue a foreign policy of following in the foot steps of any particular country, for it will only disgrace Thailand, particularly as it is suffering from current economic doldrums.

Even though the new Government of the Kingdom of Thailand, led by Gen Prem Tinsulanon, may encounter numerous obstacles created by certain persons in the National Security Council and the Foreign Ministry, it will score commendable successes if it is resolved to fulfill the aspirations of the majority of the Thai people. The Lao Government and people always want to see relations between the two countries normalized as soon as possible. Kaysone POhomvinhan, chairman of the LPDR Council of Ministers, said in the 15 August communique of the Council of Ministers that 7 years ago relations between the two countries were improved to the extent that two joint Lao-Thai communiques were signed in 1979, reiterating the correct principles of fraternal and neighborly relations between the two countries. It is deplorable that since then the Thai ultrarightist reactionaries have sought to pursue a hostile policy toward the LPDR by committing provocations against Laos and launching nibbling attacks against and occupying the three Lao villages in Sayaboury Province, thereby creating tension between the two countries and undermining the aspirations of the Lao and Thai peoples. However, the numerous schemes to undermine relations between Laos and Thailand have been defeated in the initial stage. Those schemes will be totally defeated if the Thai ultrarightist reactionaries continue to walk further along the path of hostility. With the joint efforts of the peoples and governments of the two countries, it is believed that normal relations between Laos and Thailand will undoubtedly by restored.

RADIO FEATURE REVIEWS DECADE OF VICTORIES

BK170712 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 13-14 Aug 86

[Article: "10 Years of Glorious Victories in the Cause of Defending and Building the New Regime."]

[Text] Respected listeners, the 10th plenary session of the third LPRP Central Committee, convened between 15 and 31 May this year under the chairmanship of Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan, general secretary of the LPRP Central Committee, reviewed and evaluated all aspects of the situation in our country and the party's leadership in the past 10 years of entering the new period of the revolution. The session once again reiterated that the line, policies, and strategic and tactical orientation outlined by our party during the period of bypassing capitalism to advance toward socialism and adopted at the third party congress were fundamentally correct and creative in many respects. The session was completely unanimous in defining the guidelines, spirit, and primary content of the political report of the party Central Committee, which will be presented at the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress, which is aimed at working out further details for the overall line of the bypassing period, for example the duties, direction, and strategic policies of our revolution from now till the year 2000 and the direction, duties, objectives, and measures of perseverance of the Second 5-Year Plan between 1989 and 1990.

The draft political report consists of five major parts. The first part reflects the glorious victories in the cause of defending and building the new regime in the past 10 years, a number of remaining insoluble weak points and shortcomings and some experience drawn from the actual acts of defending the country and building the new regime. The second part deals with the fundamental direction of the economic and social strategy of our country from now till the year 2000. This part clearly defines the fundamental economic and social duties of the bypassing period, the fundamental direction of economic and social development from now till the year 2000, the Second 5-Year Plan from 1986 to 1990, and some guidelines for implementation of the orientation of social and economic development and economic management mechanisms. The third part clearly defines the direction of national defense and public security tasks from now till the year 1990. The fourth part defines the foreign policy of our party and state, particularly in the coming years, aimed at creating favorable international conditions for implementing the two strategic tasks of the revolution in our country. The fifth part deals with party building work. It reflects the leading role of the party whose actual acts in the past 10 years have proved that our party has entered the new period with a victorious posture. At the same time, it also defines the direction for building the party in the years to come. The overall contents and spirit of party building work are to strengthen party leadership in all aspects of social life, in the tasks of managing the state and society, and in the revolutionary process of the masses; to strive to enhance the class and leading characteristics of the party; to consolidate, improve, and raise the quality of party organizations and the organizations in the proletarian dictatorial system so as to make them purer and stronger; to increase the close relationship between the party and the people of all tribes; to train and develop comprehensive ranks of cadres with quality, knowledge, and capabilities; to build the ranks of party cadres possessing characteristics of determined fighters and to have capabilities to manage and build a new society; to respond to the requirements of the political duties; and to increase internal unity, the unity among the masses, and international solidarity, aimed at triumphantly fulfilling the objectives and duties of the bypassing period.

The 10th plenary session of the third LPRP Central Committee, convened under the chairmanship of Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan, general secretary of the party Central Committee and chairman of the Council of Ministers, reviewed and assessed the situation in all fields of our country under the party's leadership in the past 10 years of entering a new stage of revolution, in particular since the Third LPRP Congress. With regard to the successes achieved over the past 10 years, the 10th plenary session assessed that the successful liberation of the entire country, the prompt establishment of the people's democratic administrations throughout the country without any great devastation or loss, the maintenance of political tranquillity and social order, and no change in the life of our people are considered great and splendid successes of our party's leadership.

The success of revolutionary significance is the success of our party in appropriately adopting a strategic guideline and striving to lead the people to score systematic achievements in implementing the guideline despite the fact that the domestic and international situation changed in a very complicated manner. First and foremost, our party promptly placed all administrations in the hands of the working people; took outstanding cadres and party members to lead and manage the state; controlled various tools of violent force; managed vitally important economic branches; took control of activities in the information, cultural, and educational fields; and guaranteed normal life in various towns. Generally speaking, our country's relations with foreign countries have been maintained as in the past.

We have crushed and defeated all provocative and nibbling acts in border areas and have securely defended sovereignty and territorial integrity. We have found, checked, and smashed all enemy schemes of staging rebellion and subversion. We have also dismantled bases of the enemies, wiped out armed reactionaries, and helped those who were misled by the enemies to return to their native villages and assisted them in normalizing their living conditions.

Over the past 10 years, our forces in all fields have grown up quickly. The number of party members has doubled while the number of leading cadres from the district level upward increased four fold and the number of technical and academic cadres five fold. Nearly all leading cadres, management cadres, and specialized cadres have been basically and systematically taught and trained both in theories and specialized subjects. The quality and structure of the working class have been changed for the better while the number of technical workers has increased with each passing day. The political bases in various areas have been consolidated ever more firmly while the proletarian dictatorship system at various levels has been increasingly enhanced and the worker-peasant alliance has been daily strengthened.

It is noteworthy that our Lao people of all tribes, strata, and religions have united as one, have been confident in the party's leadership, and have together promoted and expanded their initiatives, abilities, and energies in carrying out the cause of defending and building the country.

In the economic and cultural field, we have advanced to socialism from a very modest beginning as our cadres lacked experiences in their management, while our economy and culture were repeatedly sabotaged by the enemies. The task of defending the country remained very heavy. At that time, we could not concentrate all our forces on building the country. Nevertheless, over the past 10 years, the gross social product has been doubled while the average national yearly revenue per person increased by 60 percent.

Worthy of note is agricultural production. Regarding this, changes have been gradually made from the planting of a certain type of crop in one season to an all-round production, the intensive cultivation system, and the increasing of planting seasons. As a result, we have basically become self-sufficient in grains and food. The volume of paddy in 1985 was twice that of 1976. The average volume of paddy per head in 1976 was only 250 kg and it increased to as many as 380 kg in 1985. The volume of coffee production has doubled while the tobacco production increased three fold and the number of cattle increased by 60 percent compared to the period after the liberation. Agricultural collectivization work has been considerably developed. As of now, five provinces have completed agricultural collectivization in rice farming areas.

The volume of industrial production has been increased by 4.4 times -- the production of electricity increased 3.76 times, clothing increased 3.7 times, beer and soft drinks increased 60 percent, and detergent increased 14.5 times. In addition, we have turned out many types of major products including gypsum, cement, earthenware, glassware, plastic items, and others. A number of goods have also been exported. Some 3,000 km of roads and some 700 bridges have been repaired or built. The signal network has also been expanded -- a total of 92 postal stations and a total of 94 telephone centers have been set up. Long-distance calls can be made to 45 countries. The construction of a ground satellite station has been completed and the station now operates regularly.

In the cultural and social field, at present our peple have already stamped out illiteracy. The number of students of all systems has increased rapidly. The number of students who graduated at all intermediate levels of education and from senior high schools in 1985 alone was the same as that of all students who completed their studies at this level in the entire 80-year period of the old regime. At present, one-fourth of the population has studied in various schools. The number of students studying abroad has also been increased with each passing day. As of late 1985, more than 6,000 cadres had completed their senior high school studies while more than 22,000 others have completed their intermediate level studies.

Literary and sports activities have been developed considerably. Various social dangers as well as backward traditional practices have also been eliminated step by step. The material and cultural life of our Lao people of all tribes has been normalized while living conditions in certain fields have been improved explicitly.

These have clearly shown that in the past 10 years -- a period considered short when compared with the thousand-year-long history of the nation -- we have successfully settled many major tasks. This success has been considered a glorious milestone of our Lao nation.

Even though in the past 10 years our people of all tribes have scored numerous achievements and great victories, we still have a number of weak points and shortcomings remaining which must be resolved and redressed in the near future so as to create a new posture for the advancement of our country.

Touching on these weak points and shortcomings, the draft political report outlined by the 10th plenary session of the third party Central Committee has emphasized several points. An important point is that we have advanced toward socialism from the lowest starting point in the cultural and economic spheres. Our cadres had no experience in managing the economy and culture. Moreover, the enemies have launched relentless sabotage acts against our country. Our national defense duties have been very heavy. We have not been able to concentrate our efforts on fully building our country. That is the subjective reality. As for the objective aspect, we must dare to admit these weak points and shortcomings and, then, outline detailed measures to thoroughly resolve them.

The most fundamental shortcoming is that our appreciation and understanding of the party's line and policies are not yet very profound. As a result, other weak points have followed suit. At a time when the struggle between our side and the enemies' and the struggle to solve the question of who is going to emerge the winner between the socialist and capitalist paths are going on in a complicated, fierce, and sharp manner, our party has repeatedly stressed the need to uphold a sense of revolutionary vigilance and to closely coordinate the two strategic tasks: defending the country and building socialism. Nevertheless, in certain places and on certain occasions, a lack of vigilance sometimes occurs. A number of our party cadres and members and people have failed to understand profoundly the notorious schemes and cunning tricks of the enemies, especially their psychological warfare and peaceful change tactics.

Noting the remaining weak points and shortcomings in economic construction and transformation, the draft political report has pinpointed several problems. More prominently, it has convinced us that most of our people have had no experience in building and managing the economy. We have not yet learned this task in a profound and all-round manner. As a result, the exploitation and enhancement of our country's potentials are not effective. In socialist transformation, our party has repeatedly warned us to be aware of the two tendencies -- one on the leaning to the right, which can be displayed by determining work in a manner of developing hesitation, and the other on the leaning to the left, which can be displayed by determining work in a subjective and hurried manner. In certain places, even though conditions appear to be very ripe, a state of hesitation prevails and there is no determination to carry out the socialist transformation in order to gradually create fundamental economic and social factors. Our fundamental shortcomings in the socialist transformation are our subjectivity, hurriedness, and desire to instantly turn to socialism without taking into account the timing and reality in our country.

In the cultural and ideological field, we have not promptly fought the distortions and sabotage acts of the enemies and had elements to safeguard the party's line and the new regime. The training and educating of party cadres and members to perfect their revolutionary quality in the situation when our party is in power have not yet been regularly and actively carried out. A number of party cadres and members only work for vested interests. They implement the party's line and policies in a serious manner only for their own vested interests or those of their families, relatives, and friends. They pay lip service to party resolutions and fail to fulfill them, or do the contrary. At the same time, they also fail to fully support and closely coordinate the educational, cultural, public health, and sports work in the building of new people and a new society. It is extremely worrisome that we have not paid adequate attention to the work of mobilizing, educating, and organizing youths to become the individuals who have good quality, a high standard of knowledge and capabilities, and good health so that they can act as the continuators of our revolutionary cause.

Another weak point prevalent among cadres is that they are too lazy to do any thinking, studying, and learning. Their conservative line of thinking still remains strong. Their subjective thinking is satisfied with whatever achievements and experience they have already had. They have paid no attention to fighting to abandon the backward habit and way of life which have been carried over with them from the natural and subsistence economic system. Therefore, their understanding of socialism is not yet profound and firm; and the level of their knowledge to apply the law and regulations on the socialist construction, particularly those dealing with the economy, remains limited. These shortcomings have created considerable repercussions on the fulfillment of the objectives outlined by our party over the past 10 years.

At a time when the struggle between the new and old regimes, the revolution and the reaction, and the progressive and backward lines of thinking is very fierce and complicated, it is now more important than ever to build a correct line of thinking. We must dare to admit our weak points and shortcomings and must strive together to rectify and resolve them until successes can be registered. We must do away with the line of thinking of being satisfied only with past victories or self confidence while remaining ideal and lazy for this will only serve to blunt the revolutionary enthusiasm of our party cadres and members and people.

Nevertheless, the great, all-round, and firm victories scored by our entire party, army, and peole over the past 10 years are still a firm basis for us to advance forward with full confidence and have created numerous favorable conditions for our people to translate into reality the seond 5-year state plan and to carry out actual deeds in an emulation campaign to score achievements in the immediate future to welcome the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress.

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL AND OTHER SETBACKS DISCUSSED

BK201138 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Feature "Article": "Various Main Orientations of Our Party's Economic and Social Strategy"]

[Text] Respected listeners, the main orientations of the economic and social strategy for the years to come were one of the important issues discussed at the 10th session of the LPRP Central Committee. Therefore, in this radio program we will present the importance of such orientations to you. Today we will talk about the true situation in our country.

Regarding the true economic and social situation in our country, the 10th plenary session of the party Central Committee made the following assessment: Our country is a backward agricultural country but has a strong position in terms of many valuable natural resources -- that is, we have precious forests, vast grazing areas for cattle raising, and many streams and rivers suitable for hydroelectric dams. Moreover, many types of minerals are abundant under the ground. The climate, which varies in each region, suits the cultivation of short- and long-term industrial crops. Yet, our knowledge of these resources remains limited. Our population is small, and residential areas are scattered. We continue to lack capital and labor, and our scientific and technical knowledge is limited, hindering the exploitation of our potentials.

For this reason, over the past 10 years we have been unable to meet sufficiently the requirements for expanding our socialist construction. The slow development of our national construction is attributable to the slow development of the economy and small-scale, scattered, and self-sufficient production. About one-third of the population continues to live a nomadic life. Handicraft has not yet been truly separated from agriculture; trade activities are developing slowly; relations between goods and money have not yet developed, so the emphasis is still on barter; and industrial modernization has not been systematic. In short, the structure of our country's production is not yet appropriate.

In other spheres, communications and transportation are beset with great difficulties. We do not yet have complete networks of roads, for motor vehicles from the north to the south and between provinces. In the provinces, we have not been able to ensure that traffic from the center of a province can reach all districts. Our postal and telecommunications networks remain incomplete.

Regarding the true situation of production relations, since the liberation of the country we have grasped various branches of work that are our most essential, such as banks, hydroelectric dams, factories and plants, and communication networks. Through the process of construction and transformation in the past 10 years, the state economic sector has taken shape, as has the collective ownership system. Generally speaking, however, this system is still weak and has not yet been consolidated in all respects. Attention has not been paid to building handicraft cooperatives, small-industrial cooperatives, credit cooperatives, and buying-and-selling cooperatives.

In the sphere of economic management, we have built a basic system of economic management to facilitate and control the whole national economy from the central down to the local levels and at various economic bases. However, the new economic management mechanism is not yet complete or perfect.

Our characteristic policy of distributing consumer goods to ration them, which does not give any incentive to the proficient and active worker. The lives of salary earners remain beset with many difficulties.

Regarding the reality of the superstructure, over the past 10 years under the correct and clear-sighted leadership of our party, the dictatorship of the proletariat has been established from the central down to the grass-roots level; the unity among the people of various ethnic minority groups and a unique sense of nation have been consolidated and strengthened; and confidence in the party leadership has been upheld with each passing day. In addition, urgent effort have been made basically to eliminate illiteracy among the people of various ethnic minority groups throughout the country.

Nevertheless, despite our considerable achievements, from an overall standpoint we continue to see some gaps that must be persistently resolved in many respects. For example, at the grass-roots and district levels tranquillity has not been ensured in many areas, such as in the border and tribal areas. Many localities remain white [area with no LPRP presence] at the grass-roots, and the party expansion task is being carried out slowly; various mass organizations in many localities and at the grass-roots have not yet fulfilled their role and tasks; the ideas of the socialist construction are not yet deeply penetrated among cadres, workers, state employees, and laboring people; emulation campaigns for socialist construction are not yet active, constant, and continuous; education is developing in quantity but not in quality; the villagers in some areas are returning to a state of illiteracy; public health services in rural and remote areas remain minimal, causing the slow increase in population in rural and mountainous areas; and the villages in such areas remain backward.

From these realities, taking into consideration our party's line of socialist construction, which states that socialist construction must be carried out from the grass-roots -- from villages where culture, public health, and education must be developed quickly -- we have not yet fully met our requirements.

CPV 'UNDECIDED' ON KEEPING TRUONG CHINH IN POST

OW220029 Tokyo KYODO in English 0007 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi, Aug 22 KYODO -- The Vietnam Communist Party is undecided on whether General Secretary Truong Chinh and Premier Pham Van Dong should stay in power or be replaced by younger leaders at its national convention set for December, a party spokesman said Thursday. If party members as a whole want (the two) to continue their jobs, there will be no other options, the spokesman, Hong Tung, told foreign correspondents. It was the first press conference given by the spokesman since the death of party General Secretary Le Duan on July 10.

Truong Chinh, born in 1907, later filled the top party post. Pham Van dong, 80, is concurrently a party Politburo member. Whether or not the two will remain in their positions is expected to be the center of discussion during the Sixth Party Convention. Hong Tung said he cannot say anything definite at present about who will lead the country after December.

He also referred to the economic situation of the country and said almost 50 percent of its industrial production capacity remains idle due to shortages of materials and energy, though agricultural and industrial production has shown signs of recovery over the past several years. In a departure from its previous economic policy centered on big industrial projects, the country will work hard to increase production in agriculture and light industries, the spokesman said.

He said there have not been sufficient funds to construct small and medium-sized factories or import raw materials and energy resources. Existing industrial facilities will be fully utilized, he added.

The party also plans to decentralize the economy by giving more authority to local units in deciding what items to produce and their volume and prices, according to the spokesman. He said the party hopes the reforms in the economic system will become established by 1990.

PHAM VAN DONG RECEIVES NICARAGUAN, AFGHAN ENVOYS

OW211730 Hanoi VNA in English 1551 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 21 -- The new ambassador of the Republic of Nicaragua to Vietnam Ernesto Jose Castillo Martinez, today paid a courtesy visit to Chairman of the Council of Ministers Pham Van Dong. Chairman Pham Van Dong had a cordial talk with the Nicaraguan diplomat.

Also today, Abdul Wakil, Ambassador of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan to Vietnam, paid a farewell visit to Chairman Pham Van Dong before going home for a new assignment.

Chairman Pham Van Dong cordially talked with the departing Afghan ambassador.

NHAN DAN ON CONTROL OF CORRECTING SHORTCOMINGS

BK191515 Hanoi NHAN DAN in Vietnamese 21 Jul 86 pp 3, 4

[Unattributed article: "Control the Correction of Shortcomings During and After the Self-Criticism and Criticism Drive"]

[Text] After carrying out self-criticism and criticism, the important thing is to develop strong points, correct shortcomings, and organize the control of these activities.

The main thrust here is that all echelons and sectors should control their own efforts, as do party members. However, utmost importance must be attached to the question of "the upper echelons organizing the control of correction of the lower echelons' shortcomings."

All party committee echelons should issue decisions and formulate plans and measures to correct shortcomings; rectify their own shortcomings in an exemplary and voluntary manner; and directly control -- or use various support sections to control -- the correction of the shortcomings of lower-level party committee echelons and of administrative organs, sectors, and branches at the same level.

Upper-level administrative organs, sectors, and branches must issue decisions and work out plans and measures to rectify their own shortcomings in an exemplary and voluntary fashion, while organizing the control of correction of the shortcomings of lower-level administrative organs, sectors, and branches within the limits of their functions.

Party organizations (especially party committee echelons and party chapters) must issue decisions and devise plans and measures to correct shortcomings; correct their own shortcomings; correct their own shortcomings in an exemplary and voluntary manner; and control the correction of individual party members' shortcomings.

On the basis of the contents of collective and individual self-criticism and criticism and depending on the results of this drive in each locality, the most important and pressing problems should be picked out as the subjects for the decisions to be issued to control their rectification. Attention must be paid to controlling implementation of the contents of the decisions, plans, and measures aimed at correcting prevalent, serious shortcomings regarding the quality of cadres and party members, the style of leadership, and the cadre policy which have a bad influence on production, combat, the organization of the people's lives, the protection of state and collective property, and the guarantee of the working people's right to collective mastery. Attention must also be paid to controlling cases of persecution or false accusation of people who dare to struggle. This control activity must be carried out both during and after the self-criticism and criticism drive. In carrying out control work, it is necessary to have a firm knowledge of the specific shortcomings of the organization or individual concerned (shortcomings which have been confirmed in the course of criticism and self-criticism). shortcomings which have been corrected; problems to be resolved; difficulties encountered during the process of shortcoming rectification; measures taken to continue correcting shortcomings.... On the other hand, to assess the results of shortcoming rectification, it is necessary to link these results with the fulfillment of immediate production and official work, with the strengthening of internal solidarity, and with the settlement of problems in relations between party leadership organs, cadres, and party members on the one side and the masses on the other side.

The object of self-criticism and criticism is also that of the control of shortcoming rectification.

Concerning the collectives -- party chapters, party committee echelons, people's committees at all levels, and the leadership organs of sectors and branches from the district to the central echelon -- they must pay attention first of all to controlling the correction of shortcomings in the key units in charge of guiding self-criticism and criticism and in weak units, especially those belonging to economic sectors and establishments (such as enterprises, corporations), public security and tax service organs and units, stores, hospitals... and organs and units with the function of serving the masses' livelihood.

Control work must be carried out vis-a-vis all leading party members and cadres in all sectors and at all levels. At the same time, attention must be paid to motivating party members, especially those serving as cadres under the direct management of party committee echelons, to correct shortcomings in an exemplary and voluntary fashion.

To control the correction of shortcomings means to examine the implementation of decisions; therefore, this task should be done in strict accordance with the procedures of controlling decision implementation. In carrying out control work, all echelons should pay attention to the following points:

After making the preliminary review of the first self-criticism and criticism drive, all party committee echelons must control the correction of their own shortcomings and report the results of their efforts to the next higher party committee echelon. Administrative organs, sectors, and branches must control the correction of their own shortcomings and report the results to the party committee at the same echelon and the next higher echelon of the same sector. Party members must control the correction of their own shortcomings and report the results to their party chapters. (If these party members are under the management of party committees, they must report the results to both their party chapters and party committees).

The next higher echelon must examine the correction of shortcomings of the lower echelon.

The important thing is that the organizations responsible for controlling (especially the party committee echelons) must make the right decisions, devise concrete control plans and measures, clearly define the key tasks and key areas wherein to carry out control work, divide the responsibilities for control work, and clearly define the purposes of control work vis-a-vis each specific area and person. In the immediate future, on the basis of assessing the results of the first self-criticism and criticism drive, all provincial and municipal party committees, party committees directly subordinate to the party Central Committee, departments, ministries, and agencies of ministerial level... must promptly select some places where many shortcomings have been committed and where rectification is encountering difficulties to carry out control and supervisory work and to assist with the corrective efforts.

The comrade leaders of all sectors and echelons must determine the responsibilities of party members and the masses in their localities and units and motivate them to actively participate in controlling the correction of shortcomings. They must also organize the collection of their opinions concerning this task. Depending on the nature of each case, on the necessity, and on the profound educational effect of each issue, they may inform the party members and the masses of the results of the shortcoming correction efforts by publicizing them in their localities or through the press and radio.

Regarding important matters which are not clarified during and after the self-criticism and criticism drive, the party committees and administrative organs at the same level must (depending on the nature of each issue) directly carry out control work or entrust this task to various sectors and branches in order to reach a conclusion and to resolve the problems urgently. If serious errors are detected, the party committees and leadership of all levels and sectors must deal with them in a timely and appropriate manner in strict accordance with the guidelines, regulations, principles,. and procedures regarding the application of party discipline.

A time limit must be set for the correction of shortcomings of party organizations and individual cadres and party members. In the first phase of the self-criticism and criticism drive, after organizations and individuals have corrected certain shortcomings, they must report this fact to the higher level and inform various organs and the masses of the results.

To ensure that the task of controlling the correction of shortcomings will obtain practical results, all levels and sectors must provide strict guidance, urgently start working, and administer close management. At the same time, they must assign specific responsibilities to the support sections of party committee echelons so that these sections may monitor this work carefully, make periodic evaluation, and draw experience from it.

QUAN DOI NHAN DAN ON NEED FOR CRITICAL OPINIONS

BK110515 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2330 GMT 6 Aug 86

[Editorial in "recent" issue of QUAN DOI NHAN DAN: "Receive Critical Opinions from the Masses"]

[Text] The strength of our party lies, first of all, in its close attachment to the masses, who love, trust, support, and follow it. Arranging for the masses to criticize the party organization and its members is an important activity manifesting that close attachment and also a highly effective measure to enhance the party's militancy.

Through the self-criticism and criticism drive in the party, various party organization echelons have arranged for the masses to criticize party organizations and party members. They have also honestly received critical opinions from the masses and continued developing strong points and redressing shortcomings. Realities have shown that this is a good and basic measure to help make the party organization pure and strong and enhance the vigilence and ability of every cadre and party member.

Along with ensuring that self-criticism and criticism are put on the right track and regularly conducted in the party, party committee echelons of many units and organs have paid attention to creating a pattern and making arrangements for the masses to criticize the party organization, cadres, and party members.

The opinions of the masses constitute a mirror that can reflect most satisfactorily and most fully the party's strong points and shortcomings. Meanwhile, the masses themselves are those who can inspect the leadership work of the party organization and the quality, behavior, ability, and action of cadres and party members most rigidly, intently, impartially, objectively, and judiciously.

All party organizations should always use the assessment by the masses to review and examine the results of their activities in leadership work so as to find out what is right and what is wrong, what has been done to benefit or to harm the masses, what has been praised or criticized by the masses, and what has been welcomed or opposed by the masses.

It is necessary to go by the views of the masses to improve leadership work; devise correct policies, plans, measures, and tasks; and improve the working style of the party organization and the quality of cadres and party members.

Party committee echelons, cadres, and party members in all basic units, military regions, army corps, armed branches, and military services must always create favorable conditions for the masses to criticize and contribute views to the party. They should receive critical opinions from the masses in all aspects, from standpoints, policies, and measures to the quality, qualification, lifestyle, and behavior of cadres and party members.

With regard to cadres and party members who hold responsible positions and whose daily work has a great effect on the livelihood and interests of the masses, it is even more necessary for them to pay constant attention to and receive the masses' critical opinions concerning the work ability, the performance of important political tasks, and the implementation of various policies in certain units.

By staying close to the masses to listen to, receive, and study their critical opinions, party committee echelons, cadres, and party members can avoid subjectivism and mistakes and can also correct mistakes promptly, if any.

To effectively receive critical opinions from the masses it is necessary to overcome tendencies to indulge in successes, conservatism, and unwillingness to hear criticism of one's deficiencies, and to overcome fear of losing prestige. Realities show that when party committee echelons and party members receive criticism in good faith, they, far from losing prestige, will win more trust and affection from the masses. This is because it is deplorable only if collectives and individuals fail to admit and correct their own shortcomings. On the contrary, if they sincerely admit their own shortcomings and actively correct them, this will be welcomed and will lead to constant changes and progress.

In the present situation when the revolution is taking new steps forward and when many difficulties and trials remain to be overcome, party organizations and party cadres and members at all levels must further strengthen their relationship with the masses. Instead of holding criticism sessions behind closed doors, they should crate all favorable conditions for the masses to closely follow their activities and promptly contribute opinions to help the party resolve problems and push the revolution forward.

Not all critical opinions of the masses are correct. Nevertheless, our attitude should be one of carefully distinguishing right from wrong. Incorrect or invented charges should be explained to the masses; and correct opinions should be accepted with sincerity. The masses have no other wish than to see that party organizations and party cadres and members at all levels are firm, strong, and pure so they can lead the revolution in the most satisfactory manner. The masses are ready to do anything to build the party for this purpose.

Each party committee echelon and every party cadre and member must actively seek this great spiritual aid from the masses.

Without considering lightly the petitions and critical opinions, we must learn to listen attentively to the masses; understand their opinions toward the party; their desires, their demands; accept their criticism; and respond by promptly taking realistic action to correct shortcomings. In so doing, it is certain that each party organization will become firm and strong, and our party cadres and members will be able to train themselves satisfactorily and make constant progress, thus becoming ever worthier of their exemplary vanguard role and heavy responsibility before the masses.

QUAN DOI NHAN DAN ON PARTY MEMBERS' QUALITY

BK141511 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2330 GMT 10 Aug 86

["Recent" QUAN DOI NHAN DAN editorial: "Cultivate Party Members Quality"]

[Text] The recent self-criticism and criticism drive shows that most party cadres and members have committed numerous mistakes and shortcomings, of which a decline in revolutionary quality is prevalent.

In their opinions contributed to the party, the masses chiefly criticized the lack of exemplariness in party members' ethical quality. According to statistics provided by an organizational organ, the gravest mistakes and shortcomings committed by those party members who were disciplined during the past 10 years are decline in revolutionary quality, degradation, and ideological deviation.

Faced with such a reality, we cannot but brood over the importance and urgency of the cultivation of party cadres' and members' quality. Conducting a revolution -- or more concretely fighting for communist ideals, overthrowing the old, oppressive and exploitive regime; and building a new regime that promotes equality, modernity, freedom, and happiness -- one must possess not only good revolutionary qualities but also the ability to work. These two things are, indeed, inseparable. It is, however, clear that revolutionary quality must come first. This is because under all circumstances, for instance, when the revolution was still operating clandestinely, during the wars of resistance against imperialism and colonialism, as well as after the victory of the revolution, a revolutionary must always be absolutely loyal to revolutionary ideals, make selfless sacrifices for the sake of the fatherland and the people, and lead an honest and healthy life.

Without these foremost and fundamental characteristics and without such revolutionary quality, one will never become a genuine revolutionary, a leader, and a faithful servant of the people regardless of how extensive his knowledge is and how many textbooks he has memorized. An extremely important reason for the masses to have trusted and loved the party and to have followed it everywhere is that the party has represented the highest interests of the nation, class, and people and that its correct and creative line has led the Vietnamese revolution from one victory to another. On the other hand, the party is a vanguard revolutionary organization, each member of which is an example of selfless devotion to the revolutionary cause and to the interests of the country and people.

Nowadays, however, the qualitative strength of communist party members is not firmly maintained and has declined somewhat. A number of party members have failed to fulfill their exemplary vanguard role. Party members have been involved in all negative socioeconomic incidents and have been among those who have committed negativism. Many cases of negativism have been initiated by cadres and party members, by those who hold certain positions and power, and those who controlled material and technical bases and financial affairs, including veteran party members who have rendered meritorious services to the revolution.

Some party members have faltered in the face of the trials of life and have developed many shortcomings characteristic of individualism such as conceit, a taste for the good life, corruption, decadence, special privileges, localism, fationalism, bureaucratisim, conservatism, arrogance, authoritarianism, and alienation from the masses.

The decline in party members' revolutionary quality has not only hindered the efforts to eliminate all manifestations of negativism in society but has also caused these negative phenomena to develop further. This state of affairs, as we have seen, has seriously affected the masses' confidence in cadres, party members, party organizations, and the administration.

Now more than ever before, we must restore, consolidate, and enhance the revolutionary quality of cadres and party members. This is a question of foremost importance in the endeavor to overcome mistakes and shortcomings, to effect new changes, and to advance the revolution. Uncle Ho once taught us that revolutionary quality is the foremost requirement of all communists if they are to establish contact with the masses, awaken them, unite them, and lead them into the struggle. When the country is facing difficulties, as it is at present, we should assert that revolutionary quality is the principal virtue of cadres, party members, and all other revolutionaries and the basis, the foundation, and an important condition for them to develop their capability for revolutionary actions.

The definition of revolutionary quality was comprehensively described by President Ho Chi Minh as practicing diligence, thrift, honesty, righteousness, and impartiality. This is the prerequisite standard to distinguish a realistic party member from an unrealistic one. Being a communist party member, one has joined the ranks of the vanguard group and received the glorious mission of leading the people in the struggle for the total victory of the revolution. As a result, each party cadre and member must strive to enhance his revolutionary and communist quality to reach the set standard. Under all circumstances and conditions, he must be absolutely loyal to the revolution and uphold the interests of the party, fatherland, and the people righteously and impartially. They must work and struggle wholeheartedly to build and protect socialism, study enthusiastically, strive to improve their background and skills, and satisfactorily fulfill all assigned tasks. They must protect social property like their own; practice thrift; lead a healthy life; and oppose waste, embezzlement, selfishness, and clinging to one's power and position --this is the quality of practicing thrift and honesty. They must consistently uphold truth and the just cause; struggle for national independence, freedom, and socialism; and combat decisively all reactionary and oppressive forces as well as all enemies of the fatherland, the people, and socialism while eliminating all negative phenomena that are detrimental to revolutionary progress. These are the main tasks and are not easy to fulfill. The most important thing to help party cadres and members enhance their revolutionary quality is to train them to match their words with deeds. It is easy to talk about virtue, but it is difficult to carry out tasks, especially the decisive struggle against individualism, starting from each one of us. In reality, many party cadres and members have read books on and explained revolutionary quality to the people, but they behaved contrarily, clinging to individualism, paying lip service, and neglecting their promise, thereby being scorned by the people.

Enhancing revolutionary quality is a process of consistent struggle by party cadres and members everywhere to fight individualism in all forms. Each party cadre and member must make his great subjective effort and coordinate with the party organizations and the people to conduct self-criticism and criticism consistently and seriously while staying close to the people in carrying out the mass revolutionary movement.

Results in upholding revolutionary quality are finally determined by the concrete actions and achievements of party cadres and members, especially their capability in persuading and uniting the people and leading them to implement the positions and policies of the party and state enthusiastically as well as in winning their confidence.

Profoundly realizing the importance of party members' quality, various party cadres and members in the People's Armed Forces as well as all other cadres and members of the entire party must, along with enhancing their capability in carrying out tasks, strive to improve their revolutionary quality on all occasions, especially in struggling, carrying out tasks, studying, and participating in collective activities for society and for each individual as well as in their daily lives. We must concentrate out efforts on achieving high results in this training task -- a consistent task to fulfill the duty of a communist party member -- to contribute to building a strong, pure, and genuine party, thereby leading our glorious revolutionary cause to overcome all difficulties and ordeals and consistently advance further.

ARMY PAPER MARKS AUGUST REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY

BK201514 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2330 GMT 18 Aug 86

[QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 19 August editorial: "The August Revolution and the Lesson About the Close Relationship Between Party Members and the Masses"]

[Text] Through the uprising of the people, within only 10 days, the August Revolution wiped out the ruling apparatus of the imperialists, colonialists, and feudalists. The success of the August Revolution was a brilliant manifestation of the great might of our national unity bloc under the leadership of the party and great President Ho Chi Minh, and an example of victorious armed uprising in the history of nations' struggle for liberation. The August Revolution was the height of the creative application of the principles of Marxism-Leninism on the masses' uprising, on revolutionary strategies and tactics, and on the preparation for and seizing of opportunities to win decisive success.

One of the significant lessons of the August Revolution we can learn today is the lesson about the marvelous, close relationship between the party and the people and about the exemplary vanguard role of the contingent of party cadres and members and their capability to motivate and organize the masses. Revolution is an undertaking of the masses. All tasks of the revolution depend of the participation of the masses. Proceeding from this principle, our party has always considered the task of educating, motivating, and organizing the masses an issue deciding the success of the revolution; and it will be impossible to fulfill this task unless we have a contingent of fully qualified and capable cadres and members. The August Revolution succeeded because at that time, party cadres and members upheld the banner of national independence and socialism; took the lead in the struggle; set an example of absolute loyalty to the revolutionary ideal, the fatherland, and the people; displayed boundless love for the country and people as well as deep hatred for the enemy; and stood ready to sacrifice everything for the cause of national liberation. With their close bond to the people, each party cadre or member was an examplary revolutionary fighter who paid attention to educating and motivating the masses through the use of revolutionary truisms and his own exemplary deeds as a vanguard. Party cadres and members closely associated themselves with the masses throughout the struggle movement, maintained a tight bond with each person and each family, respected the masses, trusted in the invincible strength of the masses, and did everything they could to muster that strength for winning success for the revolution.

In return, the masses had absolute faith in the party and great confidence in and affection for party cadres and members. The people were attracted to the revolution through party cadres and members. The determination, spirit, virtues, talents, and conduct of each party cadre and member persuaded the masses to brave danger and determinedly follow the party in carrying out the revolution. Each citizen and each family, after having gained revolutionary enlightenment, became a base for party cadres and members to carry out their activities. They sheltered, fed, and protected party cadres and members with their ingenuity and resourcefulness as well as with the lives of themselves and their family members. The masses felt attached to the revolution and followed it not only because they believed in the truism and lines of the revolution but also, and this is the most direct cause, because they had faith in party cadres and members -- vanguard fighters who always squared words with deeds, who were the first to perform what they had urged the masses to do, and who set the first example of making sacrifices in combat.

Revolutionary enlightenment of the masses and their confidence in the contingent of party cadres and members constituted the factor creating the invincible strength of our entire country during the August Revolution. This was why with only 5,000 members, our party at that time was able to motivate millions of people to rise up in struggle and create a mountain-moving and river-filling strength for the entire nation to win brilliant success in the August Revolution.

Developing the glorious traditions of the August Revolution, over the past 40 years and more large numbers of party cadres and members have upheld their exemplary vanguard role through the various stages of struggle and joined the entire party in advancing our country's revolutionary cause ceaselessly from one victory to another in spite of all difficulties. Today, in the face of the new situation and new trials and difficulties, our party cadres and members must make strong improvements in all respects to fulfill their heavy responsibilities in the new stage of the revolution. More than ever before, we must now deeply understand the lesson gained from the success of the August Revolution about the cemented relations between party members and the masses in order to implement correctly our respected and beloved Uncle Ho's teaching: Our party is a ruling party. Each party cadre and member must be truly imbued with revolutionary ethics and remain truly diligent, thrifty, honest, righteous, just, and impartial. We must preserve the purity of our party and be worthy of being leaders as well as loyal servants of the people.

Today, our party is the ruling party; and the majority of party cadres and members hold positions and power. Nevertheless, despite our positions and power, we must not fall into the trap of prerogatives and privileges, officialism, arrogance, and alienation from the masses; and in spite of the temptation of material wealth, we must not give ourselves to corruption and waste. Instead of becoming drunk, subjective, and complacent over the success of the revolution, we must preserve our struggle spirit in tact and stand ready to be the first to endure hardship and the last to enjoy happiness. Doing all this involves a difficult training process that requires from every party cadre and member a very high and very persistent spirit of struggle. Only in this way and inevitably so will party members serve as the nuclei to unite the masses around the party and organize and rally the masses in a seething movement for revolutionary actions in order to bring about tremendous changes in all fields.

Our entire party, people, and army are jubilantly celebrating the 41st anniversary of the success of the August general uprising while enthusiastically participating in an active emulation movement to prepare for the Sixth National Party Congress and contribute to its success. Reflecting on the responsibilities of party cadres and members toward the destiny of the fatherland, all party members in our army, together with their fellow party members nationwide, are determined to uphold their exemplary vanguard role in the new situation.

Each party member should strive to enhance his revolutionary quality; voluntarily place himself under the control, education, and supervision of his own party organization and unit; and make serious self-criticism and accept cirticism so as to achieve constant progress, be truly worthy of his title as member of the Communist Party, and help make the party really firm, strong, pure, and capable of leading the entire peole and advancing the revolutionary cause to new successes.

LENIN CITED ON 'AMERICAN PRACTICALITY'

WA211900 Ho Chi Minh City SAIGON GIAI PHONG in Vietnamese 22 Apr 86 p 4

[Article by Le Khac Thanh: "Commemorating the 116th Anniversary of the Birth of V.I. Lenin (22 April): The Leninist Style"]

[Text] Leninism is Marxism in the period of imperialism and the proletarian revolution, is the theory and tactics of the proletarian revolution and the proletarian dictatorship.

The theory of Leninism has been discussed by us for many years and researched at great length. However, Leninism has a no less important factor, a factor that is the most unique feature of its practical application: the Leninist style.

The Leninist style is the style that is displayed in the work and activities of a Leninist militant, "a special kind of militant in the party as well as within the state apparatus." [Footnote] [J. Stalin: "The Foundation of Leninism," Foreign Literature Publishing House, Moscow (French version), 1954, p 107] J. Stalin was the first person to point out this distinctive feature of Lenisism, which he did in the book "The Foundations of Leninism" (this small book, which is considered a classic, is a collection of speeches delivered at Sverdlov University in 1924). He presented two characteristic featues of the Leninist style: "a" Russian revolutionary zeal (l'elan revolutionaire russe) and b) American practicality (Le sens practique Americain)." [Footnote] [Ibid.]

The Leninist style is the combining of these two characteristic features as one in party work as well as in the work of the state apparatus. This rather special approach to this issue by J. Stalin was faithfully based on the thinking expressed and even the form of expression employed by V.I. Lenin himself in many of his speeches.
Through the term "Russian revolutionary zeal," both V.I. Lenin and J Stalin sought to convey a basic idea: a revolutionary will to constantly move ahead, "the antidote to inertia, routine, conservatism, mental stagnation and slavish submission to ancient traditions." It is force which always impels us forward, toward a future prospect. But if it is not combined with practicality, there is every chance of "Russian revolutionary zeal" degenerating into "empty revolutionary bragging," into the malady of "revolutionary planned drafting" and "decree drafting", which spring from the odd belief that the ideal can quickly be achieved by these methods. But the results are just the opposite: sluggishness, a stalemate, a stand still...V.I. Lenin stigmatized this disease, calling it "communist arrogance," which he viewed as one of the "three main enemies" (the other two "enemies" are illiteracy and bribery) in the stage of implementing the new economic policy. He wrote: "Communist arrogance means that a person, who is a member of the Communist Party and has not yet been purged from it, imagines that he can solve all his problems by issuing communist decrees." [Footnote] [V.I. Lenin: "Collected Works," Volume 44, p 217]

American practicality is the opposite of the above-mentioned distortions of a zeal that is pure and, consequently, ineffective. According to Stalin, American practicality is an "indomitable force which never recognized obstacles; which with its skillful perseverance brushes aside all obstacles; which continues at a task once started until it is finished, even if it is a minor task; and without which serious constructive work is inconceivable."

[Footnote] [J. Stalin: "The Foundations of Leninism,"...p 109] American practicality is the characteristic feature of the American national character. However, if not combined with Russian revolutionary zeal, it very easily degenerates into a "narrow empiricism" and an "unprincipled utilitarianism" and leads to the abandonment of the ideals ad cause of the revolution.

The Leninist style is the organic, harmonious combining of these two characteristic features to create a fully developed revolutionary militant who always has his eyes on the horizon of ideals and never stops being drawn by the ultimate goals of the revolution but who, at the same time, in the words, of V.I. Lenin, "speaks fewer pompous phrases and does more plain everday work...," who "speaks less political rhetoric and gives more attention to the simplest but most vital facts of communist construction." The Leninist style is, first and foremost, the work style of every communist militant within the apparata of the party and state. However, one can also talk about the Leninist style of a party organization, of an entire Marxist party. Stalin's definition of the characteristic features of the Leninst style can be replaced by an equation which is more general in nature and more universal in value: the Leninist style is te combination of the immutability of principles and flexibility and adaptability in their application. In this general form, we can discuss the Leninist style in how lines are put into action and how the country is managed. And, from this perspective, the Leninist style is an attitude which is alien to the attitudes of voluntarism, subjectivism and impetuosity; to the attitude of disregarding specific conditions and circumstances; to the attitude of giving light attention to and not seriously or alertly evaluating hard deta; and to being unrealistic and impractical. At the same time, it is alien to everything that reflects a shallow narrow-minded empiricism and practicality; to being flexible but straying far from principles; to scheming to achieve returns at any price and being ready to sacrifice ideals and forgetting the ultimate goal; to only giving consideration to the immediate, not the long-range. We have a very typical example of the Leninist style in V.I. Lenin advocating the implementation of the New Economic Policy during the first years of the Soviet admininstration. This was a great dtrategic step backward. It was a step backward that was taken just after winning victory (the Soviet administration had just routed the forces of foreign intervention of 14 imperialist and capitalist countries). It was a step backward, a definite and clear step backward, that was taken when it became evident that the initial experiment in moving ahead by means of a "direct attack" -- the wartime communist approach -- would not produce results in the new struggle to rebuild the country. It was a step backward, a "step around in a circle, " "a kind of siege warfare and trench warfare," that was taken when it was seen that continued movement in the same direction, that a continued attack would result in failure. It was a step backward that was taken when it was seen that "real forces are clearly inadequate." It was a step backward to consolidate the vanguard contingent itself and consolidate the fighting alliance (to build a new economic alliance with the peasants, without which it would be impossible to maintain the political alliance that existed during the war). It was a step backward that was taken in the face of countless difficulties but was necessary in order to advance more rapidly and strongly at a later date. To take this step backward, it was necessry to change both methods and forms by instituting a host of reforms, not the reforms of reformism but reforms of a revolutionary nature. It was necessary to temporarily join hands with the enemy and learn from the enemy in order to subsequently be able to triumph over the enemy on their own ground, on the economic front. To take this step backward, a struggle had to be waged against many types of enemies, the "main enemy" being "arrogant communists" who knew only how to advance, not withdraw, who only wanted to quickly schieve the objective but did not take actual conditions into consideration. The New Economic Policy, this great strategic step backward is the most perfect example of the Leninist style, of the marvelous combination of "Russian revolutionary zeal" and "American practicality"!

Our party, our nation are proud to have had the esteemed President Ho, a distinguished student of the great Lenin. President Ho was the embodiment of the Leninist style. Through his teachings and guidance, our party was able to lead the nation through many difficult times and win victory after victory in the cause of liberating and reunifying the country.

We are now encounting difficulties in advancing the revolution further. By deeply and seriously studying Lenin's style and the Leninist style of President Ho, we will surely be able to unlock the secret to overcoming the difficulties we face and rapidly advance the country to the pinnacle of prosperity and happiness.

Ho Chi Minh City, April 1986

RADIO ESSAY ON C-17 HELICOPTER UNIT

BK201441 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2330 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Essay by (Le Thanh): "Flights Heading Toward Forward Bases"]

[Text] It is hard to fully describe the feelings of those combatants at various forward bases on the battlefield of our friendly [Cambodian] country as, amid this rainy season, flights bring in good cheer and food supplies and promptly evacuate wounded and sick soldiers to the rear for treatment. We are referring to those wonderful helicopters of the C-17 Air Force Unit. They are wonderful because these helicopters have to fly through unsafe skies. Weather conditions are adverse, provocative enemy activities are carried out, and there are difficulties finding landing sites. During the rainy season, forward bases look like small, desolate islands surrounded on all sides by dense jungle; all the trials leading to them seem to be impassable. The (Nam May) mountain range is well known among the pilots of the C-17 Air Force Unit. They know how to deal with it from experience.

Every time they land near the border, they have to fight or be ready to fight the enemy to defend themselves and protect their aircraft. Through their difficulties and hardships, the pilots of the C-17 Air Force Unit are all the more thoroughly aware of and sympathetic to those infantrymen at various forward bases. No one can refrain from feeling sorry for those infantrymen dressed in rags, puritanically fed, mostly disease-ridden, and devoid of news from the rear. Therefore, reaching those infantrymen at various forward bases is not only a duty but also a compulsion for the pilots of the C-17 Air Force Unit.

To fly from Ho Chi Minh City to those forward bases in our friendly country's western border areas, apart from requiring bravery, pilots have to possess good navigation skills which require constant training. Combat support duties call for the availability of standby aircraft and pilots. Thus, aircraft available for training are not numerous. This is not to mention the difficulties arising from the shortage of fuel for each flight. Despite all this, the pilots of the C-17 Air Force Unit take turns undergoing flight training. They each have at least one mission every 3 months. The older, more experienced pilots such as Comrades (Trinh Minh Duc), (Nguyen Thanh Bua), (Luu Yen Buoc), (Nguyen Van Thiep), and (Nguyen Van Ha), were assigned to the difficult missions to draw on their experience and pass it on to their colleagues.

The younger, able-bodied pilots, trained at various schools at home and abroad and assigned to the unit, have received theoretical refresher training, participated in technical demonstrations, further studied the pilot's equipment, learned of the peculiarities of the air, and steeled themselves physically so they could undergo flight training with good results. Normally, 1 year after being assigned to work at the unit, younger pilots begin working with those comrades with good professional skills. The latter supervise and help the former in all respects.

After each flight over difficult terrain to those infantrymen at various forward bases, their feelings and sense of responsibility are enhanced markedly. Their love for flying continues to grow. And their experiences have grown in number thanks to guidance or their own initiative in dealing with specific situations.

Flying to and from their destinations, they are on their own. They have had to deal singlehandedly with many unexpected, difficult, and complex situations arising from their aircraft's technical failure.

Senior Captain (Phan Tri Quang), a B-8 helicopter pilot, revealed that while on a mission to evacuate wounded soldiers from the border the gearbox of his helicopter's main rotor had broken down. After detecting this problem, (Quang) and his flight crew managed to land safely. They then opened the plane's doors, carried the wounded out of the plane on their backs, and stayed combat ready. Thanks to the calmness of (Quang) and his flight crew in dealing with the situation, all 21 people aboard the helicopter arrived at their destination safely. While engine trouble aborted the flights of Comrade (Bui Van Minh) and (Lle Van He), Comrade (Tran Van Bach) landed his craft safely to pick up wounded soldiers in an area under heavy fire by the enemy last June. His performance was highly commended by the Air Force.

Pilots of the C-17 Air Force Unit regard their flights from rear cities to various battlegrounds as normal tasks similar to those of other combatants. They never object to their assigned missions. When aircraft of this unit return from successful missions, the technical team works day and night to repair the aircraft and maintain them in good condition. Many young pilots also observe the repair work to learn more about the aircraft's engine. (Vo Hong Dung) and (Nguyen Xuan Truong) are engineering cadres; they have participated in various flights to learn more about engine troubles to improve their repair skills.

Initiatives to keep aircraft engines cooler applied by members of sub-unit No 1 led by Comrade (Vo Hong Dung) was highly evaluated. Over the past year, the C-17 Air Force Unit scored further remarkable progress in its technical work, exceeding set plan norms and achieving 85 percent of the set requirements for combat training and combat-support tasks. These achievements of the C-17 Air Force Unit have stemmed from the concert aim of ensuring safe flights to bring combatants to and from various battlegrounds.

AUSTRALIA

HAWKE ON RESUMING URANIUM SALES TO FRANCE

BK200934 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0800 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] The Australian prime minister, Mr Hawke, says Australia could be supplying France with uranium worth nearly $130 million [currency not further specified] by the 1990's. This follows the government's decision to reverse a 3-year ban on uranium sales to France. The ban had been imposed in protest against France's continued testing of nuclear weapons in the Pacific, and contracts worth nearly $40 million were suspended.

In Parliament, Mr Hawke justified the reversal, saying the ban had merely forced France to buy uranium cheaper on world's spot markets.

Australia's energy minister, Senator Evans, described the ban as a symbolic protest, which had outlived its usefulness. But there has been strong opposition to the government's move from within its own ranks. Several of the ruling Labor Party's members walked out of Parliament when the decision was announced, and there have been several meetings in the capital, Canberra, today to discuss ways of forcing the government leaders to change their mind.

Labor MP's Vote Support

BK211343 Hong Kong AFP in English 1326 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Canberra, Aug 21 (AFP) -- A heated two-hour meeting of ruling Australian Labor Party (ALP) MP's voted here Thursday to support the government's decision to lift its ban on sales of uranium to France, sources said. The ALP caucus of elected party members, which is the ultimate decision-maker of the Labor government, rejected calls from left-wing members to reverse the move, announced in Tuesday's 1986-87 budget. Political observers said the meeting, attended by 74 members of the government, voted along factional lines with the right-wing and centra-left blocs overruling the left.

Prime Minister Bob Hawke steadfastly refused to back down on the decision, which allows Australian uranium producers to sell their product to France. The decision had caused deep divisions within the party, observers said, with some members believing that selling uranium to France was a blatant rejection of party policy. Meetings of the centra-left and right factions and backroom lobbying of key government members, consolidated support for the prime minister's decision to lift the ban, observers said. Cabinet members were bound to support the move because they had pledged not to criticise the government budget.

The ALP policy of not allowing France to buy Australian uranium until nuclear testing at Mururoa Atoll was ended was re-endorsed only six weeks ago at the party's national conference. Observers said Mr. Hawke had told the caucus that, if one point of the budget were changed, a precedent would be established to challenge other aspects of the government's proposals.

Treasurer Paul Keating said during his budget speech that the decision to lift the ban had been taken because it had failed to serve its original purpose and had allowed France to contract elsewhere for uranium at lower prices.

Trade Minister John Dawkins said the removal of the embargo would save the budget an estimated 66 million Australian dollars (about 41 million U.S.) in 1986/87 with further sales representing hundreds of millions of dollars over a number of years.

GOVERNMENT TO REDUCE SOUTH AFRICAN PRESENCE

BK210925 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] The federal government is to reduce South African representation in Australia as a further protest against the policy of apartheid. The government will withdraw temporary residence authority for some South African trade offices and a commercial vice consul.

The prime minister, Mr Hawke, made the announcement during a report to Parliament on the meeting in London earlier this month of the heads of government of the seven Commonwealth countries. The meeting adopted a group of sanctions announced at the Nassau Commonwealth heads of government meeting last year and agreed upon a further three sanctions.

The three sanctions were a ban on all bank loans to South Africa, a ban on the import of uranium, coal, iron, and steel from South Africa, and the withdrawal of all consular facilities in South Africa, except those for banning countries' nationals or nationals of those countries to whom it gave consular services.

NEW ZEALAND

PAPERS CRITICIZE GOVERNMENT NUCLEAR POLICY

NEW ZEALAND HERALD

HK200143 Auckland THE NEW ZEALAND HERALD in English 13 Aug 86 p 6

[Editorial: "At the End of the Line"]

[Text] The Labour Government's protestations that it could have its anti-nuclear policies and Anzus too can now be seen beyond dispute for the sham they always were. The United States and Australia have shut out New Zealand from their meeting in San Francisco and both Governments express regret that New Zealand policies have disrupted the Anzus relationship between the United States and New Zealand.

The communique said: "The United States said it could not be expected under these circumstances to carry out its security obligations to New Zealand. Accordingly, the United States side stated that it is suspending its security obligations to New Zealand under the Anzus Treaty pending adequate corrective measures."

There, in cold words, is the result of Labour's shameful abandonment of New Zealand's commitment to Pacific defence that this country undertook 35 years ago. A New Zealand Government, in the grip of those who think they own a patent on the word "peace," has irresponsibly created a wholly unnecessary dispute with the senior partner -- the one whose presence creates credibility, the one upon which the defence burden chiefly falls -- and has taken this traditionally internationalist country into virtually defenceless, ignominious neutralism.

As measured a year ago, 71 percent of New Zealanders wanted to stay in Anzus. At the same time, encouraged by their Government to believe that a nuclear-ships ban need not harm the relationship, they expressed themselves 59 percent opposed to visits by nuclear armed warships. Had the Government given the facts, the wish to retain Anzus might well have prevailed.

Although the Australians manifestly opposes the New Zealand stand, they intend to continue defence co-operation with New Zealand because they believe it important to their own defence interests. It remains difficult, however, to see more than very limited security arising from that.

In 1951, when Anzus was signed, New Zealand accepted that regional stability contributes to global stability. New Zealand as a military force may not mean which, but its contribution to Western defence was important in its clear commitment.

"New Zealand's actions," says the American Secretary of State, Mr Shultz, "can only encourage those who hope to tear at the fabric of Western cooperation." He is right. This country's refusal to "show willing" is a denial of its history and a dark omen for its future.

WELLINGTON EVENING POST

HK180631 Wellington THE EVENING POST in English 13 Aug 86 p 6

[Editorial: "Anzus: The Reality of Parting Company"]

[Excerpt] [passage omitted]

Mr Lange has been confronted with the result of his own rhetoric. For two years he has assured the electorate that New Zealand can have its place in the Western Alliance and an anti-nuclear policy too.

As a result of this hypocritical stance the country has now been written out of the alliance which has kept the Pacific secure since the Second World War.

If the unprecedented series of leaks from the as yet unreleased Defence Review Committee's report is accurate it seems that the country takes the matter very seriously and does not want to be written out of its one security alliance.

The handling of the report itself has become suspect with favoured parties apparently being familiar with segments of it most of the media and the people of New Zealand are not permitted to know the full contents.

This report should now be released.

The Prime Minister's gyrations on the issue over the past few days have been typical of his handling of the whole relationship with the United States since he took office in July 1984.

While there must be some sympathy due to him for the way in which the Left of the Labour Party and various anti-nuclear and anti-American groups made it impossible for him to accept the visit of the USS Buchanan in 1985, and thus effectively hijacked Government policy, Mr Lange should have spelt out the real options to the people of this country.

Instead he has issued a series of conflicting statements. At times he has observed that we are good members of the ANZUS alliance only later to suggest that if the treaty is an obstacle of friendship with the United States then perhaps we should withdraw from it.

Bizarre suggestions were then made that we might sue the American Government for suggesting that they would withdraw security guarantees if their ships could not visit our ports. Further statements suggested that NATO's nuclear defence system was immoral then another comment given while on a NATO country's soil accepted that there were "grave and weighty" reasons for NATO's nuclear arms.

What logic can be found in any of this?

Had the Prime Minister accepted from the start that an anti-nuclear policy would separate us from our allies, as for instance the New Zealand Party's defence policy did, then the stance would be straightforward -- possible even inspirational -- in that it would have accepted from the start that we actually meant what we said and were not trying to have our cake and eat it too.

Instead there have been endless quibbles about the Anzus treaty being non-nuclear, or pro-nuclear, or one that does not obligate us to accept our allies' up-to-the-minute weapons systems.

It is this humbug that has made the Government's policy both deeply undignified and ultimately indefensable.

Now the question must be asked as to whether this is the most confused handling of defence and foreign policy of any administration during the post-war era?

Or has the end of Anzus, whether in an orderly or a disorderly fashion, always been the goal of some of those in Government?

SIHANOUK GIVES 20 AUG PRESS CONFERENCE IN JAKARTA

BK210613 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0534 GMT 21 Aug 86

[By Osman Taib]

[Text] Jakarta, Aug 21 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- Kampuchean leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk is looking to Indonesia to help find a breakthrough in the process to reach a political solution to the Kampuchean conflict now that his eight-point proposal has been rejected by Hanoi. He said Indonesia was the best country to act as a bridge between the two antagonistic camps -- The Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK) and Vietnam -- as it also enjoyed cordial relations with Vietnam and the Soviet Union.

"I appreciate very much Indonesia's dealings with Vietnam and the Soviet Union so far as the Kampuchean problem is concerned," he told a two-hour press conference here Wednesday night [20 August] after meetings with President Suharto and Foreign Minister Prof. Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja. Sihanouk said he believed that Indonesia, with the support of other ASEAN members, would be able to make possible a dialogue between the two camps. "She can be very helpful in the process of bringing nearer step by step the views and stance of the two antagonistic parties" he added.

Sihanouk also expressed the hope that Vietnam would re-examine Malaysia's proposal for proximity talks so that a dialogue between the parties could take place. He said this was the most he could expect in the near future and he welcomed such a dialogue. It could also be in the form of an international conference with the participation of Vietnam and the Soviet Union.

Sihanouk said the Kampuchean problem was a difficult one and he did not expect his country could regain its independence in his life time. However, he would continue to struggle towards this goal. He said that this year he felt less pessimistic than in previous years "as far as the outcome of our struggle is concerned." "But I do not want to say that we are going to win the war because Vietnam is very very strong."

He said the resistance forces had about 44,000 fighting men -- 35,000 Khmer Rouge, 7,000 from his faction and 2,000 from the Kampuchean People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF). The KPNLF was unable to provide more soldiers because of its internal crisis. Sihanouk said the resistance forces were not lacking in weapons because "we are getting more and more weapons from China." "China has also promised us to station more troops along the Sino-Vietnamese border to keep the Vietnamese at bay."

He said no one would win or lose in the Kampuchean war and that was why he proposed the establishment of a quadripartite government to be called the National Reconciliation and Union Government of Kampuchea in his eight-point proposal. "We want to be friends with Vietnam and we are prepared to sign a treaty of non-aggression with Vietnam. We want to be neutral and non-aligned," he said.

Sihanouk said the Chinese leaders accepted a non-commnist, non-socialist and neutral Kampuchea and had promised him that they would not compromise on the Kampuchean issue in their negotiations with the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union too would not talk with China on the question of Kampuchea. They had told China that they had nothing to do with the Kampuchean issue. If China wanted to talk about Kampuchea it could talk with Vietnam and the Heng Samrin regime. Sihanouk said this was made known to him by Chinese leaders recently.

He said just before he left for Jakarta, he was told of a new development in the Khmer Rouge camp. A Khmer Rouge leader told him that the Khmer would never reconcile with the Heng Samrin group. But if the Vietnamese withdrew from Kampuchea they would accept the eight-point proposal. "That is the situation today and I think it will take a long time to reach a peaceful settlement," he added.

Asked whether he believes that the Soviet Union could pressure Hanoi to go to the negotiating table, Sihanouk said he doubted the ability of Moscow to do this "as the Vietnamese are a proud people." "They really value their independence and I don't think they will allow the Soviet Union to have influence over them on the question of Kampuchea." For example, Sihanouk said, the Vietnamese quickly removed Pan Savan, a Communist Party leader in Phnom Penh, when they discovered that he wanted to give more influence to the Soviet Union to balance the Vietnamese influence in Kampuchea. "It is true that Vietnam and the Soviet Union are allies in trying to occupy Kampuchea for their strategic needs. But the fact remains that the Vietnamese do not want the Soviet Union to be the co-master of Kampuchea."

On his meeting with President Suharto and Prof Mokhtar, he said they exchange views in matters relating to the Kampuchean problem and also discussed strategies in the coming non-aligned summit in Harare, Zimbabwe. Sihanouk will spend Thursday visiting the Karakatau steel plant in Ceribon in West Java and will leave for Kuala Lumpur Friday.

Suharto Assures Continued Support

BK200720 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0700 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] President Suharto has assured CGDK President Prince Sihanouk that Indonesia will continue to support the Cambodian people in their struggle to liberate their country by providing humanitarian assistance in the form of medicine and clothes.

This was disclosed to newsmen by Junior Minister-Cabinet Secretary Murdiono after the 2-hour talks between President Suharto and Prince Sihanouk at the Merdeka Palace in Jakarta today. Murdiono added that during the talks, Prince Sihanouk had expressed his appreciation to the Indonesian Government and people for the humanitarian aid extended to the Cambodian people. Prince Sihanouk also briefed President Suharto on the progress made by the Cambodian people in their struggle. During the meeting today, Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja was also present.

Dailies View Sihanouk's Visit

BK201021 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0600 GMT 20 Aug 86

[From the press review]

[Text] BERITA YUDHA hopes that Prince Sihanouk's ASEAN visit will be able to facilitate efforts to solve the Cambodian problem because the war in Cambodia has been raging for a very long time. About 300,000 Cambodian refugees are currently stranded in Thailand and other countries. BERITA YUDHA believes that the best way to solve the problem is through peaceful means because nonpeaceful ways will reach no real solution. A solution achieved through military means will not last long because it will in turn invite further military actions.

Meanwhile, PELITA attaches great importance to the current visit of Prince Sihanouk for the political interest of the Cambodian people in particular and the Southeast Asian region in general. PELITA also stresses the importance of the visit in view of the recent meeting of three Indochinese foreign ministers in Hanoi, who discussed efforts to further improve cooperation among the three nations.

MOKHTAR WILLING TO TALK TO PRC ON CAMBODIA

BK220909 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0700 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja has said that the purpose of CGDK President Prince Sihanouk's visit to Indonesia is to seek stronger support for the coalition government's 8-point proosal to solve the Cambodian problem. Minister Mokhtar said this at his weekly press conference in Jakarta today. He said that there is a new development in the framework of the 8-point proposal -- that is, the efforts to form a Cambodian army to include the four factions in the country, giving each equal status, after Vietnam has withdrawn all its troops from Cambodia. The planned formation of the Cambodian national army is closely related to efforts to establish a Cambodian national government by dropping the term democratic.

Answering question from a journalist, Minister Mokhtar confirmed that Indonesia had assured Sihanouk of its willingness to hold direct talks with Chinese leaders on the latest development in Cambodia. According to Minister Mokhtar, direct talks with Chinese leaders are important because China cannot be excluded from efforts to solve the Cambodian problem. Referring to his visit to Vietnam, he said it would depend on the situation following the Vietnamese Communist Party congress in December.

Minister Mokhtar today received the chairman of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Richard Lugar, and discussed various issues relating to bilateral U.S.-Indonesian relations. On the occasion, Minister Mokhtar expressed relief that the U.S. Congress had failed to override President Reagan's veto of the Jenkins Bill.

Will Meet at UN

BK221020 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0932 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Jakarta, Aug. 22 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- Indonesian Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja said Friday that he will meet Chinese leaders in October to discuss the Kampuchean conflict. He said the meeting was expected to take place in New York during the United Nations General Assembly gathering.

"I will meet them in my capacity as ASEAN interlocutor to find ways to help solve the Kampuchean dispute," Mokhtar told reporters at his weekly press conference.

Mokhtar said that he made up his mind about talking to Chinese leaders during his meeting with Prince Norodom Sihanouk here on Wednesday. He felt it was important to get more details about China's recent decision not to push for a dominant role for the Khmer Rouge in Kampuchea. "This is a new development in regard to the Kampuchean issue because in the past China had always demanded that the Khmer Rouge play a dominant role," he said. Mokhtar said that Indonesia welcomed this decision. Jakarta, which accused Beijing of backing a failed coup attempt in Indonesia in 1965, does not have diplomatic relations with China although last year it resumed direct trade.

Mokhtar also announced that he had dropped his planned visit to Hanoi because of Vietnam's rejection of Prince Sihanouk's eight-point peace proposal on Kampuchea.

S. AFRICA BANNED FROM JAKARTA WORLD SUGAR CONGRESS

BK211042 Jakarta International Service in English 0800 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] The Indonesian Government has banned the South African members of the International Society of Sugarcane Technologists from participating in the 10-day world sugar congress in Jakarta starting Thursday [21 August]. This was stated by the society's general chairman, Sujai Kartasasmita, at a press conference in Jakarta yesterday. The general chairman said that the Indonesian Government had formulated a foreign policy which bars South Africans from attending any international conferences in the country. The world sugar congress in Jakarta will discuss technical papers on sugarcane plantation and technology. It will coincide with an exhibition of sugar processing equipment by national and foreign suppliers.

POLICE SAY KILLING NOT 'POLITICALLY MOTIVATED'

HK211516 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 21 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[By staff member Manny Mogato]

[Text] The chief investigator in the murder of former Batangas Provincial Fiscal Felizardo Lota ruled out yesterday the possibility that the killing was politically motivated.

Lt. Jose Pring, Manila Police homicide chief, said that the police have already identified the suspect whose identity he, however, would not reveal.

He said their initial findings tended to show that the killing was motivated by "money matters."

Immediately after the killing, investigators said they were working on several leads. One was the reported internal problem among loyalists involving a huge amount of money.

Another was the possibility of an Aquino supporter who did the killing. The third was that Lota was killed by an urban communist terrorist.

But Pring told journalists they had discounted the two other leads and were concentrating instead on the "money angle."

Pring's statement came even as Western Police District chief, Brig. Gen. Alfredo Lim, offered a P10,000 reward for anyone who can furnish the lead leading to the arrest of Lota's killer.

Other loyalist leaders said they are also putting up another P10,000 reward for the same purpose.

The suspect's identity was known after witnesses described the gunman to a National Bureau of Investigation cartographer who drew a sketch of the suspect's face.

Police intelligence sources said the gunman could be a person close to Lota and that the killing had something to do with loyalist activities.

Sources said Lota had an argument with several loyalist leaders over the supposed P800,000 loyalist fund which was reported to be missing. Lota, according to sources, was responsible for the money.

The money was reportedly intended for bailing out arrested loyalist leaders and followers and for other activities of the movement. It was reportedly part of a P10 million fund which the movement got from abroad.

Intelligence reports tended to confirm rumors that Lota was the loyalist "moneybag." Lota was said to be recruiting barangay men in Batangas for a fee of P200 each a few weeks ago.

Loyalist leaders branded speculations that the loyalists had something to do with Lota's killing as "biased, preposterous and foolish."

Former MP Salvador Britanico and MP Rafael Recto denied any split or differences among loyalist leaders.

Lawyer Oliver Lozano said Lota was killed by urban terrorists belonging to the New People's Army or to the Aquino government.

He said Lota was talking too much about communism in the government and had in fact named some of them, including university president Nemesio Prudente, allegedly a member of the Light-A-Fire Movement which bombed the American Travel Agency Association Conference at the Philippine Convention Center in 1978.

Homicide probers, however, said the suspect could not have been a stranger to Lota. In fact, the two talked to each other minutes before the shooting, witnesses said.

Police said the gunman was very professional and confident. He walked about 50 meters toward Kalaw St. after the shooting, they said.

Lota, a staunch Marcos loyalist, was killed minutes after meeting several movie stars, loyalist leader Ben Nuega and some friends at Cafe Coquilla in Manila Hilton.

He was reportedly inviting the stars -- Amay Bisaya, Carlos Salazar -- and several other friends to join him and a friend, Gerry Bautista, who was celebrating his birthday at the Bulwagang Pilipino not far from the area.

He reportedly went ahead of the group.

According to witnesses, as Lota was walking along Ma. Orosa St., in front of the McDonald's restaurant, a man came from behind and tapped him on the left shoulder. They talked for a few minutes.

Marcos, KBL Condemn Murder

HK211542 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 21 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[Text] Deposed President Marcos' chief spokesman deplored yesterday the assassination of former Batangas Provincial Fiscal Felizardo Lota.

"We are afraid that this is going to happen to all the communist fighters in the Philippines," Arturo Aruiza, Marcos spokesman told AFP in Honolulu Tuesday.

"We fear that other communist fighters now will be reluctant or might be threatened," he added.

The Marcos line was echoed in the country by his loyalist followers who said the Lota assassination was politically motivated.

From Malacanang, Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo reacted with this curt statement: "That's a police matter. I don't want to dignify it with a comment."

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile called on the loyalist group to exercise sobriety over the Lota killing.

"I hope that this will not be the cause of any irrational or violent actions from any quarter," Enrile said.

He also said the defense ministry does not consider the time as a security problem.

Enrile's call was echoed by former Speaker Nicanor Yniguez, Kilusang Bagong Lipunan president, who urged the younger elements in the party not to resort to violence over the Lota assassiantion.

He said the KBL central committee members have launched a "Justice for Fiscal Lota" fund campaign with an initial P20,000 donation.

Yniguez also wrote Enrile and Armed Forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos to take a personal hand in the investigation.

While the call for sobriety was being sounded, loyalist leaders were quick to condemn the killing and blame the Aquino Government for the crime.

Former MP Rafael Recto said the killing was a "barbaric act done by an arrogant fellow." He told reprters that Lota's death would be a big loss to the loyalist movement.

Recto, who was among the first loyalist leaders to visit Lota's remains at the Magallanes Village Chapel yesterday afternoon, also revealed a plot by Aquino partisans against Marcos loyalists.

He said he got "reliable information" that loyalist leaders would be kidnapped and killed before Aug. 21, the third death anniversary of the President's late husband, former Sen. Benigno Aquino, Jr.

Reacting to police theories that the loyalists were also behind the killing and that the killing was over money matters among loyalist leaders, Recto said such reports were "foolish".

Former Western Visayas MP Salvador Britanico told reporters the movement did not receive any money from the deposed President. He also denied leadership struggle among its members and dismissed police reports as "preposterous".

About 200 loyalists came yesterday to condole with Lota's family and relatives. Younger brother Salvador 44, a former vice-mayor of Taal, Batangas, wouldn't talk at length with reporters.

Lota's two children Leah, 18, and Felizardo Jr., 16, were at home when a CHRONICLE team visited Lota's remains at the Magallanes Village Chapel.

Lota was a former Manila assistant Fiscal during the time of Mayor Antonio Villegas. Later, he was assigned as a municipal judge in Pasay City.

Eventually, he was appointed by deposed President Marcos as Batangas Provincial Fiscal. He resigned from the post last Feburary when Mrs. Corazon Aquino became President. Relatives claimed the government has not acted on Lota's resignation.

Mayor Orders Probe

HK201118 Quezon City Radyo Ng Bayan in Tagalog 1000 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Acting Manila Mayor Mel Lopez, Jr ordered Western Police district Superintendent Brigadier General Alfredo Lim to exert all efforts to resolve the murder of former Batangas provincial fiscal Felizardo Lota. More from Mars Encarnacion:

[Begin recording] [passage indistinct] Lopez said that if the case is not resolved, it would be exploited by ill-intentioned people. He added that Fiscal Lota was a prime mover of the Marcos loyalist movement as well as lawyer for some loyalists. He disclosed that Lota's being a loyalist could be a source of speculation. He expressed concern over the peace and order of the city and said that it was natural that the public be worried about the situation. [end recording]

CAPCOM TAKES OVER PROBE OF ASSASSINATION PLOT

HK201423 Manila NEWS HERALD in English 20 Aug 86 p 12

[Text] The Capital Regional Command (Capcom) took over yesterday the investigation into the alleged plot to assassinate President Aquino which was uncovered by the Manila police Monday.

Brig. Gen. Ramon Montano 'Capcom chief, had put into the custody of Col. Rex Piad, chief of the Capital Region Intelligence Group (CRIG) the suspect "hitman" James N. Lazo, 45, reportedly a reserve sergeant of the Philippine Airforce.

Lazo was arrested by WPD [Western Police District] policemen led by Lt. Jose Pring, homicide section chief, Monday morning at his residence at 1768 Dumas St., Makati.

The Capcom entered the scene when WPD authorities released Lazo yesterday morning for lack of material evidence linking him to the alleged plot.

The arresting officers, Pls. Baggy Bagallon and Danny Salvacion, turned Lazo over to Brig. Gen. Alfredo S. Lim, WPD chief, at about 9:30 a.m.

Montano said Capcom intelligence is still in the process of examining the letter sent by one Abner Afuang, a dismissed Makati policeman to a newspaper columnist dated April 21, 1986.

The letter implicated Lazo, a distant relative of Joe Lazo, reportedly a Marcos supporter based in Hawaii, as the alleged triggerman who will execute the job in three months time along with five other "assassins", two of them in Tarlac and three in Central Luzon.

A xeroxed copy of the hand-written letter was received by the Manila police two months ago but the police only worked on it Monday, following the arrest of Lazo.

Afuang fled to California early this year, after he was dismissed from the Makati police in 1983.

Lazo is now detained at the Capcom headquarters in Taguig undergoing questioning.

NATIONALIST, PEOPLE'S POLITICAL PARTIES LAUNCHED

HK190844 Hong Kong AFP in English 0822 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 19 (AFP) — Right-wing allies of Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and leftist figures each unveiled political parties Tuesday in preparation for legislative and local polls expected in early 1987.

The Nacionalista Party (NP), a former ruling party that broke up after deposed President Ferdinand Marcos imposed martial law in 1972, announced its revival at a news conference in the Makati financial district.

Its driving force is former M.P. Renato Cayetano, a close associate of Mr Enrile, who himself is a former NP stalwart and a politician widely perceived to be laying the groundwork for a presidential candidacy. The party was founded in 1907.

Meanwhile the Partido ng Bayan [People's Party] announced its formation as a "patriotic and progressive" party, with a membership which includes former communist leaders freed from military prisons this year by President Corazon Aquino.

Among its members are Jose Maria Sison, former chief of the banned Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP), Bernabe Buscayno, founder of the CPP Guerrilla force the New People's Army (NPA), and Horacio Morales, a former leader of the CPP-NPA-led National Democratic Front (NDF) — all former Marcos prisoners.

The NP is the former party of Mr Marcos and Mr Enrile, who led the military mutiny that installed opposition candidate Mrs Aquino as the winner of the controversial February presidential election.

Mrs Aquino, who leads what analysts see as a quarrelsome coalition of conservatives, centrists and radicals, has said she will not seek re-election after her term ends in 1992.

He main pillars of support are the PDP-Laban and Unido [United Nationalist Democratic Organization] parties, whose leaders have openly clashed over policy matters and appointments to key government posts. Mr Enrile and radicals in the cabinet are also at odds.

The old NP was absorbed into Mr Marcos's now decimated New Society Movement (KBL), which held its own national meeting Saturday to prepare for the polls. Many KBL members have jumped over to the NP.

A commission formed by Mrs Aquino is currently drafting a new constitution expected to pave the way for elections in the first quarter of 1987 to fill local government posts and revive the U.S.-style Philippine Congress abolished by Mr Marcos in 1972.

Mrs Aquino abolished the KBL-dominated National Assembly and sacked KBL local officials when she proclaimed a provisional constitution in March.

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 164

25 August 1986

JAPAN

'New Jersey' Arrives for Port Call Amid Protests C 1
  Labor, Peace Activists Protest C 1
  'Calm' Returns 25 Aug C 2
Air Force Exercise With U.S. Begins Amid Protest C 2
Reportage on Contest for Leadership of JSP C 3
  Doi Said Frontrunner C 3
  Ueda Welcomes Contest C 4

NORTH KOREA

South Denounced for Starting 19 Aug DMZ Incident D 1
  Called 'Provocation of War' [NODONG SINMUN 22 Aug] D 1
  Northward Invasion Predicted D 1
NODONG SINMUN Hails Soviet Test Ban Extension [21 Aug] D 2
ROK Minister's Remarks on Dialogue Castigated [NODONG SINMUN 23 Aug] D 3

SOUTH KOREA

'Major' DJP Leadership Reshuffle Effected 23 Aug E 1
  Changes Detailed [THE KOREA TIMES 24 Aug] E 1
  Biographies of New Leaders [THE KOREA TIMES 24 Aug] E 2
  CEC Members Resign 'En Masse' E 4
  YONHAP Views Changes E 5
  Minor Cabinet Reshuffle Expected E 6
  NKDP Views DJP Reshuffle [THE KOREA HERALD 24 Aug] E 6
Prime Minister Discusses Reunification Policy E 6
Kim Tae-chung on 'Political Truce' During Asiad [CHUNGANG ILBO 19 Aug] E 7

CAMBODIA

Heng Samrin Supports Soviet N-Test Moratorium H 1
Soviet Foreign Ministry Delegation Visits H 1
Chea Sim's Activities in USSR Reported H 1
Bou Thang Greetings Marks SRV August Revolution H 2
Son Sann Stays in Paris Over KPNLF Rift [AFP] H 3
CGDK Foreign Ministry on Gorbachev Speech [VONADK] H 4

LAOS

- Souphanouvong Hails USSR Nuclear Test Moratorium I 1
- USSR Foreign Ministry Delegation Visits I 2
  - Phoun Sipaseut Receives Delegation I 2
  - Delegation Ends Visit I 2
- PASASON Marks 23 August Uprising Anniversary [23 Aug] I 3
- LPA Official Lectures on Fourth LPRP Congress I 4
- Phong Saly District Party Committee Meets I 5
- Political Life Campaigns in Provinces Completed I 5

THAILAND

- SRV Ambassador Speaks on Indochinese Proposls [THE NATION 21 Aug] J 1
- Ministry Clarifies Sitthi Statement J 2
- Military Says More SRV Troops Sent to Cambodia [THE NATION 22 Aug] J 2
- Sitthi on 'New Thrust' in Foreign Policy [THE NATION 24 Aug] J 3
- Ministry Announces USSR's Zaytsev To Visit J 4

VIETNAM

- Nguyen Huu Tho Leaves for Nonaligned Summit K 1
- Vo Dong Giang Comments on Nonaligned Conference K 1
- Truong Chinh, Nguyen Van Linh Address Cadres K 2
- Cadres Continue To Study Draft Political Report K 3
  - Ho Chi Minh City K 3
  - Ha Nam Ninh, Son La K 3
  - Tien Giang Committee K 4
- NHAN DAN Reports Subward Party Congress in Hanoi [21 Aug] K 4
- Hanoi, Vientiane Broaden Economic Cooperation K 5

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

- Hayden Reiterates Call for Test Ban Treaty M 1
- South African Officials Ordered To Leave M 1

NEW ZEALAND

- USSR's Kapitsa To Make 2-Day 'Unofficial' Visit [AFP] M 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

- Sihanouk, Delegation Arrive on 5-Day Visit O 1
  - Mahathir on Support for CGDK O 1
  - Mahathir, Sihanouk HOld Talks O 2
  - Sihanouk on 8-Point Proposal O 2
  - Commentary Hails Visit O 3
- Mahathir To Launch Commission at Nonaligned Meeting O 4

PHILIPPINES

Troops on 'Precautionary' Alert for Aquino Trip [AFP] P 1
    Enrile Predicts No Trouble P 2
    Marcos Denies Return Plan P 2
Official Protests Delay in U.S. Arms Supplies [NEWS HERALD 22 Aug] P 2
NDF Rebels' Agenda Submitted to Aquino P 3
    AFP on Rebel Demands P 3
MNLF Peace Talks To Be Held in September P 4
Labor Minister Favors Legalization of CPP P 4
CPP Cites 'Fascist' Dangers to Government [NEWS HERALD 22 Aug] P 4
Government Said Selling Nuclear Plant's Uranium [AFP] P 5
New Intelligence Coordinating Agency Head Named P 5

'NEW JERSEY' ARRIVES FOR PORT CALL AMID PROTESTS

Labor, Peace Activists Protest

OW240440 Tokyo KYODO in English 0436 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] Sasebo, Nagasaki Pref., Aug. 24 KYODO -- U.S. battleship "New Jersey" sailed into the U.S. naval base here Sunday while thousands of demonstrators and a flotilla of small vessels protested the portcall for violating Japan's non-nuclear policy. The protestors, mostly labor unionists and peace activists, charged that the battleship is armed with nuclear-tipped Tomahawk cruise missiles in violation of Japan's policy of banning the introduction of nuclear weapons into the country.

It was the first visit to Japan by the 45,000-ton "New Jersey" after it was refitted and recommissioned in 1982. Built in 1943, the battleship took part in the bombardment of Okinawa during World War II. Apart from its 16-inch guns, the refitted "New Jersey" is also equipped with eight Tomahawk launchers. The Tomahawks are cruise missiles which can carry both conventional and nuclear warheads.

The battleship, accompanied by an oil tanker, dropped anchors at the Akasaki quay at 10:30 a.m., and the 1,500-member crew was welcomed to Sasebo by local authorities and representatives from the Defense Agency. Security was tight at Sasebo, both at sea and on land.

As the huge warship made its way into the Sasebo Bay, an armada of 47 fishing boats and small vessels crisscrossed nearby in protest. Bedecked with red, green and white banners, the protest boats blared out anti-American slogans but the high-pitched shouts were barely audible amid deafening dins generated from ship engines and churning waves. The small vessels were kept from getting close to the towering "New Jersey" by 46 Maritime Safety patrol boats, which sailed alongside the warships.

On land, 3,600 riot police were mobilized to guard against possible guerrilla attacks by more than 500 leftwing radicals who had traveled to Sasebo, police said. Police said they arrested five demonstrators near the Sasebo railway station for squabbling with police during a protest march. The five were identified by police as members of a left-wing radical group called the "Senkiiryokawa-ha." The group, some 50 members strong, took out to the streets after a protest rally at a local park.

Some 600 labor unionists and peace activists staged rallies in the morning at Maebata Wharf, which overlooks the naval base across the Sasebo Bay. In the afternoon, another 14,000 protesters were to stage rallies and protest marches.

The "New Jersey" is part of a five-vessel flotilla which is on a nine-day visit to Japan for crew rest. Two other warships -- the 15,540-ton nuclear-powered cruiser "Long Beach" and the 2,750-ton missile frigate "Thach" -- docked at the U.S. naval base in Yokosuka, south of Tokyo, and the 5,770-ton destroyer "Merrill" berthed at Kure in Hiroshima Prefecture. Like the "New Jersey", these three smaller warships are also equipped wth Tomahawk misilles. They form the main elements of the Seventh Fleet's surface attack group. Defense sources say the five warships are scheduled to join other Seventh Fleet vessels for a major naval exercise in the Sea of Japan after the crew rest in Japan.

During a press conference aboard the "New Jersey," Rear Adm. R.A.K. Taylor, the surface attack group commander, refused to comment whether the warships were carrying nuclear-armed Tomahawks. The admiral said U.S. policy is neither to confirm nor deny the existence of nuclear weapons aboard U.S. warships. He said the five warships were put into three different ports for the sake of crew rest, repair and maintenance. Taylor also would not say where his ships were heading after their stay in Japan.

'Calm' Returns 25 Aug

OW250459 Tokyo KYODO in English 0448 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Sasebo, Nagasaki Pref., Aug. 25 KYODO -- Calm returned to the port of Sasebo Monday after a day of rallies and demonstrations Sunday which greeted the arrival of the U.S. battleship "New Jersey." Protestors say the visit by the battleship, which is equipped with Tomahawk cruise missiles capable of being fitted with nuclear warheads, breaches the nonnuclear principles of Japan. Nagasaki prefectural police reduced their security force for the battleship's visit from 3,600 to 3,400 and are also considering reducing the security forces sent to assist them from other prefectures.

Capt. W.L. Glenn, captain of the 45,000-ton "New Jersey," and Rear Adm. R.A.K. Taylor, commander of the U.S. Seventh Fleet's surface attack group, paid a courtesy call on Sasebo Mayor Kumashi Kakehashi Monday morning.

The police said most radical elements and other demonstrators from other countries had left Sasebo by Sunday evening but a 24-hour alert for possible actions against the warship during its nine-day stay. Six patrol boats are on guard around Sasebo Port's Akazaki Pier where the "New Jersey" is berthed.

A peace group affiliated with the Japan Socialist Party and the General Council of Trade Unions of Japan (SOHYO) is holding an "antinuclear peace panel exhibition" at a park in downtown Sasebo. Three peace activists from Kyoto began a sit-in in front of the Sasebo municipal office Monday morning to protest at the port call by the "New Jersey." One of them, housewife Machiko Yoshida, 48, said she plans to continue the sit-in alone from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. from Tuesday through September 2 when the "New Jersey" is due to leave Sasebo Port.

AIR FORCE EXERCISE WITH U.S. BEGINS AMID PROTEST

OW250629 Tokyo KYODO in English 0621 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Shintomi, Miyazaki Pref., Aug. 25 KYODO -- A Japan-U.S. joint aerial drill began Monday in Miyazaki Prefecture in Kyushu, western Japan, watched by hundreds of protesters. The drill, aimed at holding combat and aerial reconnaissance practice, will take place off Shikoku, using the Japanese Air Defense Force (ASDF) Nyutabaru Air Base here with some 150 personnel from the U.S. and some 100 from the Japanese side, according to the ASDF sources. Twenty-five ASDF fighters, including F-15's and F-4EJ's from bases across Japan are taking part in the five-day drill. U.S. forces in Japan will also make available 20 fighters and intelligence planes from the U.S. Air Force, the Marine Corps, and the U.S. Navy, which for the first time will have an E2C intelligence plane from the carrier "Midway" now at Yokosuka U.S. Navy base south of Tokyo taking part in the joint exercise.

At the Nyutabaru base, some 500 labor union members and Japan Socialist Party (JSP) members held held a demonstration against the joint drill Monday morning. Toshihisa Matsuura, leader of the protesters said such joint drills destroy the peace and antiwar spirit of the Japanese Constitution. Rallies and demonstrations were held Sunday at several other military bases in Japan, to mark the arrival of four U.S. warships, including the battleship "New Jersey" which are capable of carrying nuclear missiles. The protestors said the presence of the ships violates Japan's nonnuclear policy.

REPORTAGE ON CONTEST FOR LEADERSHIP OF JSP

Doi Said Frontrunner

OW221409 Tokyo KYODO in English 0926 GMT 22 Aug 86

[By Irene Kunii]

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 22 KYODO -- Takako Doi, already the country's most powerful female politician as vice chairwoman of the Japan Socialist Party (JSP), is headed for prominence as the first woman to head a major political party. After weeks of party maneuverings aimed at replacing outgoing JSP Chairman Masashi Ishibashi with his vice chairwoman colleague without an election, Doi announced Friday she was ready to challenge Tetsuo Ueda in a race for the chairmanship. Bets in political circles are running high on 57-year-old Doi, dubbed a "made-in-Japan Thatcher" and the "Cory Aquino of the JSP" in reference to British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and Philippine President Corazon Aquino.

While a female government head is still unlikely for Japan where women in the lower political infrastructure are still greatly outnumbered by male politicians, the rise of Doi is regarded as a significant step forward. For the main opposition JSP, still staggering from a humiliating defeat in the July 6 general election, the move to boost Doi into top position is regarded as a strategy for survival. Doi, elected seven consecutive times from her Hyogo Prefecture constituency since 1969, was originally recruited by JSP official for her"links" to the people.

Now the JSP, which has relied heavily in recent years on union backing for its existence, is calling upon Doi's ties to local groups to win back citizen support the party has lost over the years. Moreover, as the union era enters a decline, JSP officials are aware that a female party chief will garner more support from Japanese women who account for almost 45 million of the 86.6 million registered voters.

In a pattern often repeated by women politicans, Doi's accomplishments reveal a career more illustrious than many of her Diet colleagues. After getting a graduate degree in law from Kyoto's respected Doshisha University, Doi taught constitutional law at her alma mater. Doi's involvement in local movements in her native Kobe included serving as head of the Hyogo Prefecture group to protect the Constitution. By the time she entered national politics in 1969, her concern lay with the 1970 negotiations for renewal of the Japan-U.S. security treaty, a pact strongly opposed by the JSP. As a member of the Diet, Doi is noted for her work in the areas of pollution and environmental problems. She scored an important victory when the Osaka citizens she had backed for six years won an Osaka high court case November 1975 banning late night flights at Osaka Airport.

Doi, single and the second child of a Kobe medical practioner, attracted attention in 1976 for her support of the Japan-China Friendship Treaty and an agreement by the Japanese Government to ratify a United Nations women's rights convention by 1985.

Having served as member of the Diet's Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Doi also maintains an interest in foreign diplomacy.

Ishibashi, who announced his decision to resign following the poor JSP showing in the July election, has indicated that Doi, known for her wide range of interests and outgoing personality, would be a suitable "new leader" for the party. Critics maintain that in spite of her support from both the left and right wing intraparty factions, Doi still lacks the party management and leadership experience needed to revive the failing JSP. Supporters, however, say that the capable Doi is finally getting the chance she missed in 1983 when a bid to install her as party head -- instead of the vice chairmanship she did receive -- was blocked by Ishibashi supporters.

Ueda Welcomes Contest

OW221357 Tokyo KYODO in English 1111 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug 22 KYODO -- Tetsu Ueda, who has established himself as a "star player" in the Japan Socialist Party (JSP) line-up, is now aiming to run the party from the top. Ueda recently announced his decision to run as a nominee for the position of JSP chairman in the September 4-5 election to put an end to the backroom maneuvers aimed at installing rather than electing the party leader.

When fellow party member Takako Doi, JSP vice chairwoman, indicated she was interested in vying for the chairmanship, Ueda welcomed her entry and called on others to join in as well to create a forum for debate over the future organization of the declining JSP. Outspoken on issues of defense and the Japan-U.S. security agreement, Ueda is regarded as the party's controversialist. He also operates as the "stop-man" in discussions during lower house budget committee meetings.

Ueda, orginally a reporter for the Japan Broadcasting Corporation (NHK), was responsible for organizing a television campaign to win support for the import of polio vaccines into Japan, prohibited at the time, for administration to children under 10 years of age. After serving for over 10 years as head of the NHK labor union, Ueda emerged as a man noted for his leadership qualities. He came out as third place vote-getter in his first election in the 1948 upper house national constituency election. Ueda, a native of Tokyo, rose in the JSP after making the transfer to lower house politics in 1979, taking on the role of party spokesman in the house.

A graduate of the University of Tokyo, Ueda is noted for his eloquent speeches and intriguing theories. He has also dedicated considerable time to building up local support for the party. Although political analysts point out that Ueda's chances of winning election as party head have declined as the result of widespread support for Doi among party leaders and in the local chapters, Ueda himself maintains that the election itself is the issue. "Even if (Chairman Masashi) Ishibashi were to win it would be fine," he said.

SOUTH DENOUNCED FOR STARTING 19 AUG DMZ INCIDENT

Called 'Provocation of War'

SK220531 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0513 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 22 (KCNA) -- Commenting on the fact that the South Korean puppet army fired again hundreds of large-calibre machinegun bullets from its post near the river Imjin in the western sector of the front at a post of our side on August 19, NODONG SINMUN today brands this as a reckless action.

In a signed commentary the paper says: The repeated military provocations of the U.S. imperialists and the puppets along the Military Demarcation Line seek a criminal scheme to make it appear as if the "threat from the North" actually existed by involving the North in them and thus provoke another war against it under the false pretext of preventing "the threat from the North".

Clamouring about the fictitious "threat from the north", the U.S. imperialists and the puppets have massed nearly all the units of the U.S. forces and puppet army in the area along the Military Demarcation Line and ceaselessly commit military provocations, biding their time for aggression. Such action can be seen only on the eve of the provocation of war.

Nobody can tell when reckless military provocations of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets which are ceaseless in the sky, ground and sea will go over to full-scale offensive operations against the North. We are heightening vigilance against this. We want peace, not war. But we will never tolerate the aggressors and their stooges pouncing upon the North. The U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hown puppet clique must not miscalculate our peaceloving stand as an expression of weakness but act with discretion.

Northward Invasion Predicted

SK210438 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1150 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Commentary by station commentator Cho Tu-ul: "Reckless Military Provocations"]

[Text] The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have recently been engaging in armed provocations along the Military Demarcation Line [MDL] more gravely than ever. As has been reported, at around 1950 [1050 GMT] on 19 August, the South Korean puppet forces again committed the grave armed provocation of firing some 300 large-caliber machinegun rounds from the rascals' position near Manuri in the estuary of the Imjin River on the western part of the frontline. They were firing at our People's Army's guardpost located on the opposite side. The puppet forces' large-caliber machinegun fire greatly threatened the personal safety of members of our side's DMZ police unit. The South Korean puppet forces' fire is another deliberate, premeditated military provocation committed by the Chon Tu-hwan ring.

As is known, on 5 August, the South Korean puppet forces committed the grave military provocation of firing several hundred rounds of large-caliber machinegun fire at our side's guardpost in the DMZ south of Pyongyang on the central area of the frontline, and on two occasions on 8 August they committed the armed provocation of firing large-caliber machineguns and M-16 automatic rifles on the central area of the frontline. These armed provocations by the rascals numbered as many as five in August alone.

The armed provocations successively committed by the South Korean puppets in the area of the MDL are not accidental. As is widely known, the Chon Tu-hwan ring has more loudly babbled false threats of southward invasion with the Asian games in Seoul ahead, inspiring confrontation and war among the people. It is recognized by the world that threats of southward invasion do not exist in Korea. Since the Chon Tu-hwan ring's deceptive colors have been clearly exposed and it has been shown that threats of southward invasion do not exist, the rascals are attempting to mislead public opinion at home and abroad into believing that such threats of southward invasion do exist by successively committing armed provocations in all areas of the MDL, thereby deliberately aggravating tension. However, this is a foolish trick.

The entire world knows that we recently advanced a new peace proposal to hold talks among military authorities who have real military power in the North and the South in an effort to alleviate tension in Korea, remove the danger of war, and promote an atmosphere favorable to North-South dialogue; and we are making every effort to realize this proposal. The only threat of invasion that exists in Korea is that of northward invasion. The armed provocations successively committed by the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets in all areas of the MDL in and of themselves threaten northward invasion.

As a matter of fact, the rascals' maneuvers to provoke a war of northward invasion have reached a very reckless stage. According to their so-called offensive strategy, the rascals have deployed most of the U.S. forces occupying South Korea and the puppet forces in all areas of the MDL; are frantically maneuvering to bring more new-type nuclear weapons into South Korea, where some 1,000 nuclear weapons have already been deployed for actual combat; and are successively bringing in F-16 fighter-bombers, new chemical weapons, and other numerous weapons and equipment for operations.

Since the beginning of this year, the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have successively conducted the "Team Spirit-86" war exercise, the "Ttangbol," "Phiho," and "Ulchi" exercises, and other war exercise maneuvers, thereby inspiring war fever, and have made a practice of flying high-altitude spy planes over our side's territorial airspace almost daily, thereby committing acts of aerial espionage. Needless to say, the recent armed provocations endlessly committed against us in all areas of the MDL are part of their deliberate and premeditated military maneuvers to provoke a war of northward invasion in Korea. Moreover, what cannot be overlooked is the fact that the rascals committed the armed provocations at the same time that they arranged a farce in the Joint Security Area to commemorate the so-called victims of the 10th anniversary of the 18 August Panmunjom incident and inspired a sense of confrontation there. All of these things are very ominous military moves that cannot be overlooked. The rascals' indiscreet military provocations have promoted a very urgent situation on the Korean peninsula in which a war may break out at any time. If the rascals continuously commit reckless armed provocations and follow the road to war despite our repeated warnings, it will only bring about their ruin and death. The U.S. imperialists, squarely seeing the situation, must act with discretion.

NODONG SINMUN HAILS SOVIET TEST BAN EXTENSION

SK210505 Pyongyang KCNA in Enlgish 0452 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 21 (KCNA) -- The Korean people hail and support the decision of the Soviet Union on extending again her unilateral moratorium on nuclear testing till January 1, 1987, considering it to be a constructive and positive one substantially conducive to easing the international tension, preserving peace, abolishing nuclear weapons and averting nuclear war.

NODONG SINMUN today says this in a commentary: The step taken by the Soviet Union this time accords with the desire and demand of the Korean people struggling to ease the tension on the Korean peninsula and establish a nuclear-free, peace zone there, the author of the commentary notes, and says:

The Soviet Union took the unilateral moratorium on nuclear explosions, showing all her sincerity over the past one year. But the United States had no idea of following suit. The U.S. authorities continued nuclear test explosions, openly babbling that the nuclear testing is necessary for ensuring the "trustiness and effectiveness" of the U.S. nuclear arsenal. This time, the spokesman of the U.S. State Department prattled that the United States would continue nuclear test explosion, not joining the Soviet Union in her positive step. This fully shows the true colour of the U.S. imperialists, nuclear maniacs, who act recklessly to unleash a nuclear war at any cost.

The nuclear arms buildup of the United State is a wanton chalienge to the world people who oppose nuclear war and desire peace. The United States must stop the adventurous nuclear arms race, renounce the anachronistic policy of "strength" and pay deep attention to the peace-loving initiatives and proposals of the Soviet Union on freezing nuclear explosions, abolishing nuclear armament and preventing nuclear war and respond to them.

PYONGYANG SINMUN today carries a commentary titled "Clear Expression of Peace-Loving Policy", supporting the Soviet Union's recent step.

ROK MINISTER'S REMARKS ON DIALOGUE CASTIGATED

SK230420 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2153 GMT 22 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 23 August Commentary: "Has the Reeking Smell of Powder Driven Them Batty?"]

[Text] The so-called minister of the Board of National Unification of the puppet clique appeared at a university student seminar on the reunification question on 20 August and made absurd remarks in connection with North-South relations.

He babbled that North-South dialogue has been suspended by the North and its resumption obstructerd by the North. This is indeed a preposterous act, like a thief turning on the master with a club. It is indeed shameless for a man who is in charge of dealing with North-South relations and the reunification question in South Korea to make such absurd and preposterous remarks.

Responsibility for the current suspension of multilateral North-South dialogues lies with the South Korean puppets, who staged the "Team Spirit" joint military exercise against us together with the U.S. imperialists, despite our repeated demands for suspending military exercises in an effort to create an atmosphere for dialogue. This is a well know fact.

Only the U.S. imperialists and their stooges are babbling that dialogue can be held despite the present circumstances, in which one party to the dialogue is clamoring about the annihilation of communism while stockpiling nuclear bombs in a bid to pick up and swallow the other party to dialogue. The U.S. imperialists and their stooges are scheming to abuse dialogue as a smokescreen for war preparations.

Those who have tried to avoid a North-South dialogue are none other than the South Korean puppets.

That day, the puppet minister proposed that the existing talks be resumed rather than such a channel for new dialogue as talks between military authorities be sought. This is a remark contrary to reason.

To resume the North-South dialogue and make smooth progress in it, steps to alleviate tension prevailing on the Korean peninsula should be taken first. Under the present tense situation, successful dialogue cannot be expected even if the two sides sit face-to-face.

Our proposal for holding talks between military authorities in the North and South who hold real power is to eliminate the present danger of war and provide a favorable atmosphere for dialogue. Talking about North-South dialogue while rejecting the proposal for holding talks between military authorities is in fact tantamount to a refusal of all dialogue.

That day, the puppet minister slandered us, reversing black and white, and went so far as to babble that we are aggravating tension. It seems that the puppets have gone completely batty and are unable to distinguish peace and tension due to the reeking smell of gunpowder from the war exercises they have staged every day.

In South Korea today, under the pretext of the nonexistent threat of a southward invasion, the overall armed forces have been deployed in the forward area near the MDL; weapons of mass destruction, including nuclear weapons and chemical weapons, have been continuously reinforced; and thus a war exercise for northward invasion has been constantly staged. These are precisely acts that are aggravating tension and leading the situation to the brink of war.

Our firm stand is reflected intact in the proposal to suspend military exercises, the proposal to establish a nuclear-free peace zone on the Korean peninsula.

Officers and men of our People's Army performed their exploits in the sites of socialist construction, including the Nampo lockgate, even while the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan ring were staging a war exercise for northward invasion with the mobilization of the vast forces of some 200,000.

In this complete contrast between the North and South, the world is seeing that the ringleaders aggravating tension on the Korean peninsula are none other than the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets.

If the South side is interested in resuming dialogue, it should accept our demand for holding talks between military authorities to create an atmosphere favorable to dialogue by taking steps to alleviate the present military tension. Without this, their clamoring for dialogue is false, no matter how loudly it may be.

'MAJOR' DJP LEADERSHIP RESHUFFLE EFFECTED 23 AUG

Changes Detailed

SK240123 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 24 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] President Chon Tu-hwan conducted a major reshuffle of the ruling Democratic Justice Party's major officers yesterday, which affected most key postholders, except for the party chairman and a few others.

Party spokesman Sim Myong-po announced that the shake-up is "aimed at integrating the capabilities of party lawmakers in order to achieve constitutional amendment by partisan agreement without fail."

Rep. Yi Chun-ku, former vice home minister, was named secretary-general, replacing Rep. Chong Sun-duk, who had held the post for one year.

The post of floor leader went to Rep. Yi Han-tong, who had served as secretary-general in 1984-1985.

In the shake-up, conducted at the recommendation of chairman No Tae-u, Rep. Yim Pang-hyon, a vice chairman of the policy committee, was appointed chairman of the Central Committee.

Rep. Chang Song-man, chief policymaker, was retained in the reorganization of the party leadership, along with spokesman Sim.

Chon also chose Rep. Chong Dong-song as his chief secretary in the party, to replace Rep. Yi Yong-il, who was transferred to the post of chairman of the Ethics Committee.

The reshuffle was carried just one year after secretary-general Chong Sun-duk and floor leader Yi Se-ki replaced Yi Han-tong and Yi Chong-chan, respectively, in the whirlpool of a controversy over the government's plan to enact the "campus stabilization law."

The president recruited Rep. Kang Kyong-sik, who was his chief secretary at Chongwadae in 1982-1984, as director of the policy coordination committee, replacing Na Ung-pae.

Rep. Yim Chol-sun, director of the National Policy Institute, and Rep. Chong Chae-chol, minister of state for political affairs, were also retained.

Rep. Sim Chong-ku was given the post of chairman of the Finance Committee.

The president also overhauled the Central Executive Council, the top decisionmaking organ of the party, by naming former key post-holders as new members, "to make use of the former officials' ability and knowledge," according to the spokesman.

The former leading officials include Kwon Ik-hyon, chairman; Kwon Chong-tal, secretary-general; Yi Chong-chan, floor leader; Yi Se-ki, floor leader; and O Se-ung, minister of state for political affairs.

Present and former speakers and vice speakers of the National Assembly were also named members of the council. They are Chae Mun-sik, ex-speaker; Yun Kil-chung, ex-vice speaker; and Choe Yong-chol, vice speaker.

Spokesman Sim, explaining the background of the shake-up, said: "The reshuffle was conducted to integrate all capabilities of party lawmakers for the party's initiative in politics and for the achievement of constitutional revision by partisan agreement.

"To this end, elders of the party and former key post-holders were recruited as members of the Central Executive Council."

He also said that the shake-up is aimed at renewing "our will to translate into action our policy goals and self-reform."

"We will make the shake-up an occasion to march forward toward the ultimate goal of creating a regime under the leadership of chairman No Tae-u," he said.

Earlier, all major post-holders tendered resignations en masse to President Chon through Chairman No after they resolved to do so at a special meeting of the Central Executive Council.

Meanwhile, a massive follow-up reshuffle of policy organs and the Secretariat will be conducted next week, party sources said.

They said that bureau chiefs of the Secretariat were expected to be chosen among lawmakers instead of party bureaucrats.

New DJP Lineup

(Asterisks indicate new appointments)

Chairman	No Tae-u
*Chairman of Central Committee	Yim Pang-hyon
*Secretary General	Yi Chun-ku
*Chief policy-maker	Chang Song-man
*Floor Leader	Yi Han-tong
Director of National Policy Institute	Yim Chol-sun
*Chief Secretary to Party President	Chong Tong-song
*Deputy Secretary General	Kim Tae-ho
Minister of State for Political Affairs	Chong Chae-chol
Spokesman	Sim Myong-po
*Director of Policy Coordination Office	Kang Kyong-sik
*Chairman of Finance Committee	Sim Chong-ku
*Chairman of Ethics Committee	Yi Yong-il

Biographies of New Leaders

SK240133 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 24 Aug 86 p 6

[Text] Yim Pang-hyon

Chairman of the Central Committee Yim Pang-hyon, 55, is a man with a colorful career.

A philosophy major at Seoul National University, Yim worked as a journalist since 1959 until he was recruited by the late president Pak Chong-hui as his special assistant for social affairs in 1970. He briefly taught at Chungang and Hanyang Universities, 1967-1969.

In 1975, he was named presidential spokesman.

His political career began in 1981 when he won the DJP's nomination for the Chongju-Wanju constituency in Chollapukto.

He was elected twice in a row in the constituency. He had served as a member of the Central Executive Council and chairman of the party's Cholla-Pukto branch, as well as a vice chairman of the policy committee.

Yi Chun-ku, Secretary-General

Yi, 51, graduated from the Korean Military Academy in 1958 (14th class) and retired as a brigadier general in 1980.

He was one of the "military elite" which led a national reform drive during the transitional period following the collapse of the Pak Chong-hui government in 1979.

As a military officer, he joined the Special Committee for National Security Measures, led by then-Gen. Chon Tu-hwan in 1980 and worked for the task of "social purification."

After serving as the first chairman of the Social Reform Commission in 1980, he retired from the Army and then became a member of the 11th-term National Assembly under the proportional representation system.

After a year as a DJP Assemblyman, he was named vice home minister in 1982. DJP Chairman No Tae-u was home minister at that time.

In the Feb. 12 general election in 1985, he was elected in his hometown constituency of Chungju-Chechon-Chungwon-Tanyang, in Chungchong-pukto.

Yi Han-tong, Floor Leader

Yi Han-tong, 51, has held several major posts of the DJP during the past five years as a political novice.

He started his political career in 1981, when he was recruited by the newly-formed ruling party, and was chosen as a candidate for the Yongchon-Kapyong-Pochon district, in Kyonggi-do. After the elections, he was named a vice floor leader and later served as the chief secretary to the party president, a member of the Central Executive Council, and the chairman of the Kyonggi-do branch.

In 1984, he was named secretary general to succeed Kwon Ik-hyon, who was promoted to the post of party chairman.

Before beginning political life, he practised law. He had served as as judge and a senior prosecutor for about 20 years.

Chong Tong-song, Chief Secretary to the Party President

Chong Tong-song, 47, was one of the leaders of the April 19 Student Revolution which toppled the government of Dr. Syngman Rhee. He was chairman of the National Federation of Students as a student at Kyunghee University.

He started his political career when he was elected to the Assembly in 1979 on the ticket of the then ruling Democratic Republican Party.

After the Assembly was disbanded in May 1980, he joined the "reformist force" which founded the DJP, and was elected to the Assembly twice in a row.

He served as chairman of the Transportation-Communication Committee during the latter half of the previous 11th-Term Assembly, and is now a member of the party's Central Executive Council.

Kim Tae-ho, Deputy Secretary General

Kim Tae-ho, 51, served with the Home Ministry, 1970-1981, after working with the Central Intelligence Agency for eight years.

He graduated from the College of Law, Seoul National University.

In 1982, he was named senior presidential secretary for political affairs and had served as Kyonggi-do governor until he was recruited by the DJP.

He was elected to the Assembly in his hometown, Ulsan-Ulchu, Kyongsang-Namdo in the Feb. 12 elections last year.

Kang Kyong-sik, Director of Policy Coordination Office

Kang Kyong-sik, 50, graduated from the College of Law, Seoul National University, in 1961. He entered the Finance Ministry the same year, where he handled national finance until he retired as minister in 1982.

He was then named secretary-general by President Chon Tu-hwan.

He assisted the president until he was nominated a candidate of the DJP for its national constituency in the 1985 elections.

He worked as a vice chairman of the policy committee as one of the top economic experts of the party.

CEC Members Resign 'En Masse'

SK230311 Seoul YONHAP in English 0303 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Reps. Kang Kyong-sik and Sim Chong-ku were appointed as policy coordination officer and finance committee chairman, respectively. Yim Chol-sun, director of the National Policy Research Center, and Chong Chae-chol, minister of state for political affairs, were retained.

The reshuffle also changed the shape of the Central Executive Committee (CEC), the ruling party's legislative organ. Among the newly appointed members of the 30-member CEC are former party and National Assembly leaders, including Chae Mun-sik, Kwon Ik-hyon, Yi Chong-chan, Yun Kil-chung, Yu Hak-song, Choe Yong-chol, Yi Sang-ik, Yi Se-ki and O Se-ung. The CEC members tendered their resignations en masse at the CEC meeting Saturday morning, thereby paving the way for Presdent Chon to form a new executive committee.

Following the CEC meeting, No visited Chon at Chongwadee, the presidential mansion, to obtain the approval of the party president's stamp.

Party spokesman Sim said that the purpose of the shake-up was to rally all the power of the government party on revising the Constitution and to achieve the revisions based on compromise with the opposition parties.

Through the reshuffle, Sim added, the ruling party will be able to strengthen its system headed by No in order to renew the party's founding ideology for reforming political power.

YONHAP Views Changes

SK230744 Seoul YONHAP in English 0729 GMT 23 Aug 86

["News Analysis" by Im Son-pin]

[Text] Seoul, Aug 23 (YONHAP) -- The shake-up Saturday of the Democratic Justice Party (DJP) leadership reflects the ruling party's effort to maximize its power and to lead the process of revising the Constitution, DJP officials said. The DJP included experienced former key functionaries and current party office holders in the reshuffle, thereby promoting democratization through constitutional revision based on compromise with the opposition parties.

Through the large-scale reshuffle, the government party intends to cope with political offensives staged by the opposition parties if disputes over constitutional reform arise at regional public hearings on Aug 28 sponsored by the National Assembly's special constitution committee, political observers here said.

The shake-up came at the right time since the DJP now has to concentrate all of its power to promote its draft of constitutional revision calling for the establishment of a parliamentary cabinet system and to bring about the democratization of overall state affairs, the observers said. DJP Spokesman Sim Myong-po said that the reshuffle was designed to create solidarity within the ruling party officials in its management. The reshuffle will pave the way for strengthening the leadership of DJP Chairman No Tae-U, thereby renewing the party's founding ideology of reforming political power, Sim said.

The appointment of Yi Chun-ku and Yi Hang-tong as secretary general and floor leader, respectively, was interpreted as a way to distribute the posts to one who has served as both a professional military officer and as a civilian.

Also drawing keen attention was the nomination of Chong Tong-song as chief secretary to party President Chon Tu-hwan, Kim Tae-ho, as vice party secretary general and Kang Kyong-sik as chief policy coordinator. By appointing Kang. the DJP intends to strengthen the development of its policy and cooperation before next year's general elections, political observers said.

The reshuffle gave priority to representaives from their regions, thereby preparing for the upcoming elections, which will be held after the Constitution is revised, according to the observers.

The observers view the new secretary general as an able man for the general elections because he gained substantial experience serving as vice home affairs minister for almost four years. Yi, the new floor leader is expected to play a major role in negotiating with the opposition parties regarding constitutional revision. He has accumulated political experience and power through his service as chief secretary to the party president, and as vice floor leader and secretary general.

Minor Cabinet Reshuffle Expected

SK231237 Seoul YONHAP in English 1232 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 23 (YONHAP) -- The government will effect a partial cabinet reshuffle affecting a few portfolios some time around next Thursday, a highly-placed government source said Saturday. After a shakeup of the ruling Democratic Justice Party earlier Saturday, some observers said the cabinet change expected early next week, will be a major one.

The source, however, said a major cabinet reshuffle is "not timely" at the present moment with the Asian Games less than 30 days away. "The government is likely to replace two to three cabinet ministers in order to refresh the social atmosphere stirred by a series of recent incidents," he said. The source predicted that the coming reshuffle will be limited to the smallest number of cabinet ministers, including home affairs and culture-information ministers.

Another source hinted that a sweeping reshuffle of the cabinet is likely after the Asian Games and the annual session of the National Assembly.

NKDP Views DJP Reshuffle

SK240152 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 24 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The main opposition new Korea Democratic Party yesterday expressed hope that the new lineup of the ruling Democratic Justice Party will contribute to "democratization in the nation with an in-depth understanding of a historic mission."

Commenting on the major reshuffle of the DJP hierarchy, NKDP spokesman Rep. Hong Sa-tok said that it was fortunate that those who have played a leading role in advocating the safeguard of the current Constitution did not appear in the new DJP lineup.

"We (the NKDP) regard the reshuffle as part of the party's positive preparations for full-fledged interparty talks on constitutional reform in a democratic way," Hong said. "In this regard, we have expectations," he added.

PRIME MINISTER DISCUSSES REUNIFICATION POLICY

SK250214 Seoul YONHAP in English 0201 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 25 (YONHAP) -- Prime Minister No Sin-yong stressed Monday that it was the South Korean Goverment's unswerving policy that the reunification of South and North Korea should be realized through peaceful dialogue between the two Koreas, the two parties directly involved. In an address to the 62nd conference of the International Law Association (ILA), No said that the most urgent task for the Korean people is "to maintain peace on the Korean peninsula and to achieve peaceful national unification eventually." Deputy Prime Minister Kim Man-che read No's address at the opening ceremony of the ILA conference held at the national theater here.

The hostile relations between the two Koreas now would be replaced with peaceful relations gradually by peaceful means, including direct dialogue and inter-Korean exchange in various fields, the prime minister opened.

No stressed that Seoul will continuously promote the direct south-north dialogue with patience and sincerity even though there would be temporary obstacles and failure.

Noting that armed conflicts are taking place in many places of the world, No said that South Korea, which loves peace, will do its proper part for the development of international law on the bottom of justice and international cooperation.

About 800 law experts from 36 countries are participating in the ILA conference, which will continue until Saturday at the National Theater. The participants will form 14 committees to discuss various topics, including the promotion of mutual understanding and cooperation among ILA member countries, organizing officials said. South Korea joined the London-based ILA in 1962. The association now comprises 5,000 members from 45 countries.

KIM TAE-CHUNG ON 'POLITICAL TRUCE' DURING ASIAD

SK211343 Seoul CHUNGANG ILBO in Korean 19 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] On 18 August, Mr Kim Tae-chung voiced his willingness to proclaim a political truce with the ruling party and the government during the period before and after the Asian Games, slated to open 20 September and last until 5 October.

Stating that the Asian Games are an international event in which many foreigners are expected to participate, and that the people in the country will pay greater attention to it then befits a mere sports event, he said that although the domestic political situation can be said to be at a critical crossroads, we must have a considerate and mature attitude toward and Asian Games.

Such remarks by Mr Kim have attracted keen attention, in that by these remarks Mr Kim seems to have clearly stated a different view on the Asian Games from that held by some radical off-stage politicians and student activists, who are showing signs that they will attempt to obstruct the Asian Games.

By saying that "to this end, I will, if necessary, broaden contacts and a dialogue with off-stage politicians and students," Mr Kim hinted at his willingness to actively dissuade some of the student activists and off-stage politicians from working to frustrate the Asian Games.

Also, touching on the issue ivolving of NKDP and Council for Promotion of Democracy [CPD] over whether or not to intensify the off-stage struggle regarding Constitution amendment, Mr Kim said: Through its drafts for the Constitution, the DJP has made clear its intentions to stay in power longer. However, it does not mean that the special National Assembly committee for the study of constitutional amendment has broken down. Therefore, when the NKDP and CPD will intensify their joint struggle remains to be seen. He thus implicated that he intends to avoid a hardening of the political situation for the time being.

HENG SAMRIN SUPPORTS SOVIET N-TEST MORATORIUM

BK221246 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1112 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 22 -- The party, the government of the People's Republic of Kampuchea fully support all the Soviet peace initiatives, particularly the one put forward recently by Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on the extension of its unilateral moratorium on the nuclear tests.

This was stated by Heng Samrin, general secretary of the People's Revolutionary Party of Kampuchea Central Committee and president of the State Council, in a meeting in Phnom Penh Tuesday with Igor A. Ognetov, Soviet charge-d'affaires A.I. to Kampuchea.

President Heng Samrin pointed out that these initiatives are aimed at putting an end to the arms race, reducing tension and freeing mankind from the danger of nuclear war. The statement of M. Gorbachev, President Heng Samrin further said, constitutes an important contribution to the struggle of the world people for a peaceful life.

He stressed that Kampuchea, having been a victim of the U.S. war of aggression, demands the United States have realistic position and put an end to the arms race.

SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTRY DELEGATION VISITS

BK230458 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0415 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh, 23 Aug (SPK) -- At the invitation of the PRK Foreign Ministry, a delegation from the Soviet Foreign Ministry led by Deputy Minister Igor Rogachev paid a working visit to Cambodia from 21 to 23 August.

During his stay, Igor Rogachev was cordially received in Phnom Penh by Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, chairman of the Council of Ministers, and foreign minister. He held talks with Cambodian First Deputy Foreign Minister Kong Korm during which the two sides completely agreed on issues of common interest and on international problems. The delegation also visited the Tuol Sleng museum of genocide, the former royal palace, the the National Museum.

CHEA SIM'S ACTIVITIES IN USSR REPORTED

BK231239 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1112 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 23 -- A delegation of the National Assembly of the People's Republic of Kampuchea headed by Chairman Chea Sim, now on a friendship visit to the Soviet Union, on August 20 visited the Soviet Socialist Republic of Uzbekistan.

Chea Sim, also Politburo member of the People's Revolutionary Party of Kampuchea [PRPK] Central Committee, met in Tashkent, capital of Uzbekistan, Thursday with leading officials [of] Uzbekistan Society of Friendship and Culture Relations with Foreign Countries and visited the branch of Central Museum of Lenin.

After his arrival in Moscow, Chairman Chea Sim held talks with Avgust Eduardovich Voss, chairman of the Supreme Soviet's Nationalities Commission. Avgust Voss qualified the visit as an important contribution to the strengthening of the friendship and cooperation between the two countries and peoples and especially between the two legislative bodies.

The Soviet side reaffirmed its constant support for the efforts of the party, the government and the people [of Kampuchea] in their construction of the Angkor land by taking it steadily toward socialism. It highly hailed the resolutions of the P.R.P.K.'s Fifth Congress, which have given impulsion to the economic and social development of the P.R.K. and to the improvement of the well-being of the Kampuchean people.

Chea Sim, for his part, expressed his profound gratitude to the C.P.S.U., the government and the people of the Soviet Union for their timely and effective aid and assistance to the Kampuchean people in overcoming the legacy left behind by the Pol Pot genocidal clique and building their country along the path of socialism.

He welcomed the resolutions adopted by the C.P.S.U.'s 27th Congress, which constitute a programme of socio-economic development in the Soviet Union and which constitute a vast programme of actions, aimed at freeing mankind from the danger of a nuclear war and at maintaining peace in the world.

Chea Sim also expressed the Kampuchean people's total support for the U.S.S.R.'s efforts to completely eliminate the weapons of mass destruction and to check the arms race either on earth or in outer space. He voiced full support for the peace initiatives expounded by C.P.S.U. General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev at Vladivostok, which initiatives reflect the willingness of the U.S.S.R. to contribute to building an international security system and promoting cooperation on equal footing among peoples in the Asia-Pacific region.

BOU THANG GREETINGS MARKS SRV AUGUST REVOLUTION

BK211316 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1059 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 21 -- Bou Thang, Politburo member of the People's Revolutuonary Party of Kampuchea Central Committee, vice premier and minister of defence of the People's Republic of Kampuchea, has sent his warmest greetings to Van Tien Dung, Politburo member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and minister of national defence of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, on the 41st anniversary of the August Revolution (August 19, 1945).

The message says: "Over the past 41 years the heroic people and army of Vietnam, under the correct and clearsighted leadership of the CPV, have overcome difficulties and defeated all dark schemes and acts of aggression conducted by French colonialsim, Japanese militarism, U.S. imperialism and Chinese expansionism and hegemonism, thus fulfilling the noble task of national reunification and firmly defending their revolutionary gains."

"August 19, 1945 has become a great historic day not only for the people and army of Vietnam but also for the oppressed peoples the world over," continues the message adding:

"We highly acclaim all great victories recorded by the fraternal people and arms of Vietnam and will follow suit their good examples full of heroism and courage."

"On behalf of the entire Kampuchean Armed Forces and in my own name, I would like to wish you and all the Vietnamese combatants good health and greater success in the cause of socialist revolution", concludes the message.

SON SANN STAYS IN PARIS OVER KPNLF RIFT

BK230802 Hong Kong AFP in English 0743 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Bangkok, Aug 23 (AFP) -- Son Sann, disputed leader of the main non-communist Cambodian resistance faction, has refused to return from Paris to rejoin his group in Thailand, despite expressions of support from Prince Norodom Sihanouk, his son said here Saturaday. Prince Sihanouk, head of the resistance's Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK), recently sent Mr Son Sann two telegrams to reassure him he would remain the CGDK premier despite dissidence within his Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF).

Mr Son Sann has told officials of friendly Southeast Asian governments that he would resign as CGDK prime minister and cease his international political work if the challenge to his leadership of the KPNLF continued. His son, Son Soubert, told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE. But he has given no timetable for his possible retirement.

Mr Son Sann, who has remained in Paris since touring Western Europe in June to rally support for the resistance, has played a key role in the CGDK's links with such Western nations as the United States, which recently granted the coalition's two non-communist factions 3.5 million dollars in non-military aid. He is also, along with Prince Sihanouk, the main spokesman for the CGDK at the United Nations, which recognizes the resistance coalition as the Cambodian Government.

The tripartite CGDK -- which includes Sihanoukists, the KPNLF and the Khmer Rouge -- fields some 50,000 guerrillas against an estimated 140,000 Vietnamese troops occupying Cambodia to support the government installed in Phnom Penh by Vietnam. The CGDK's main regional backers are China and the non-communist Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), which includes Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand.

The KPNLF has been wracked since December by a rift between Mr Son Sann and dissidents, who charge him with dictatorial rule that led to the group's military defeat by the Vietnamese in early 1985. KPNLF military chief and dissident leader General Sak Sutsakhan recently traveled to Paris to see Mr Son Sann, Mr Son Soubert said, adding that the general was reorganizing the front's military affairs. He said Singapore had asked Prince Sihanouk to intercede in favor of Mr Son Sann but that the prince had answered that he could not interfere in the KPNLF's internal affairs.

Prince Sihanouk said on a visit here earlier this month that Mr Son Sann had sent him a letter from Paris offering to resign as prime minister. But he said: "I cannot play the role of advisor to Son Sann since I have always been accused by Son Sann of being a dictator" (when he ruled Cambodia). "I cannot play the role of a democrat now," the prince said. "The old dictator cannot give lessons to the new candidate for dictatorship."

CGDK FOREIGN MINISTRY ON GORBACHEV SPEECH

BK190102 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 18 Aug 86

[19 August "Statement of the CGDK Foreign Ministry on Mikhail Gorbachev's Valdivostok Speech and the Points Relating to the Cambodian Problem"]

[Text] World public opinion has seen nothing new in the speech that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev delivered recently in Vladivistok, particularly with regard to the Cambodian problem, which is one of the important issues concerning peace and stability in the Asia-Pacific region. The Soviet propaganda apparatus, however, has tried to hoodwink the world into believing that this speech reflects a new change in Soviet policy toward this region and the Cambodian problem. The Soviet propaganda machinery has also fabricated various rumors in an attempt to confuse world public opinion, thus weakening the international forces which support the Cambodian people's just struggle under the CGDK leadership.

On behalf of the CGDK, the CGDK Foregin Ministry vehemently condemns these dirty tricks. In fact, what Mikhail Gorbachev said in his speech shows that he is still continuing the Soviet Union's obsolete policy of supporting the Vietnamese aggression against and occupation of Cambodia for the benefit of the Soviet strategy of expansion in the Asia-Pacific region. Mikhail Gorbachev even accused the United Nations and the various countries which have condemned the Vietnamese aggressor troops in Cambodia, saying that the United Nations and these countries have interefered in the internal affairs of so-called Cambodia.

The CGDK Foreign Ministry would like to note the following:

1. The fact that Mikhail Gorbachev has forced himself to speak about the Cambodian problem and lied about his desire for good relations with the countries in the Asia-Pacific region cannot be regarded as proof of a change in Soviet policy. Gorbachev has been compelled to speak about the Cambodian problem because Vietnam has become bogged down in Cambodia, a fact that can no longer be concealed.

2. Gorbachev's speech proves that the Soviet Union has been compelled to help redress the Hanoi authorities' extreme isolation resulting from their aggression in Cambodia.

3. Gorbachev has forced himself to speak about his desire for good relations with countries in the Asia-Pacific region because the Soviet policy of supporting the Vietnamese aggression against Cambodia has shaken the Soviet strategy of aggression and expansion in the Asia-Pacific region and has isolated the Soviet Union itself even more seriously in the Asia-Pacific region.

No matter how hard the Soviet propaganda apparatus might try, it can never conceal these facts. So long as the Soviet Union supports the Vietnamese aggression against Cambodia, it can never make anyone believe that it has abandoned its strategy of aggression and expansion in the Asia-Pacific region.

On this occasion, on behalf of the CGDK, the CGDK Foreign Ministry would like to solemnly confirm to world public opinion the following:

1. The Cambodian problem has been caused by the Vietnamese aggression against Cambodia. Therefore, the Cambodian problem can be solved through political means only when there are negotiations between the conflicting parties, that is between the SRV and the tripartite CGDK.

2. The 8-point peace proposal put forth by the CGDK on the basis of the UN resolutions constitutes the best basis for solving the Cambodian problem through political means to the benefit of all concerned parties. This is in order to return peace to Cambodia, Vietnam, Southeast Asia, and the Asia-Pacific region, and to create conditions for national reconciliation among all Cambodians.

The Cambodian people and the CGDK pledge to make all efforts to bring about a politicial settlement of the Cambodian problem on the basis of this 8-point peace proposal. This is in order to enable Cambodia to become an independent, unified, peaceful, neutral, and nonaligned country with great national union and national reconciliation among all Cambodians and without any foreign troops stationed on its soil.

3. Only after the Soviet Union stops supporting the Vietnamese agression against Cambodia and after Vietnam withdraws all its aggressor troops from Cambodia will there be genuine national reconciliation among all Cambodians. As long as Vietnamese troops continue to occupy Cambodia and a handful of Cambodians are used as a tool to conceal the Vietnamese aggression in Cambodia there can be no talk about national reconciliation between the Cambodian patriotic fighters and the puppets of the Vietnamese aggressors.

In conclusion, on behalf of the CGDK with Samdech Norodom Sihanouk as president of Democratic Kampuchea, the CGDK Foreign Ministry would like once again to thank all friendly countries near and far for their support and assistance to the Cambodian people's just struggle, and particularly for making every effort to bring about a political settlement of the Cambodian problem in accordance with the CGDK's 8-point peace proposal.

The Cambodian people and the CGDK will never forget this valuable support and assistance.

[Dated] Democratic Kampuchea, 19 August 1986

[Signed] The Foreign Ministry of the CGDK

SOUPHANOUVONG HAILS USSR NUCLEAR TEST MORATORIUM

BK231135 Vientiane KPL in English 0906 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Vientiane, August 23 (OANA-KPL) -- Souphanouvong, Politburo member of the LPRP, president of the republic and of the People's Supreme Assembly, this morning received Vladimir Gussak, charge d'affaires a.i. of the Soviet Embassy here. The latter informed the Lao president about the statement of M. Gorbachev in connection with the extension until Jan 1, 1987 of the Soviet unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests.

President Souphanouvong highly commended the Soviet declaration made on Jan 15, 1986, the Vladivostok statement pronounced on July 28; and other significant peace initiatives, which are on manifestations agreeing with the spirit of the 27th Congress of the CPSU. They are aimed at creating a global international security which is the Leninist principle of peace of the Soviet party and people.

President Souphanouvong further added that the nuclear threat in our present days, becomes more and more grave. Therefore, the struggle for the safeguarding of peace and international security, the ending of the arms-race and the reduction of arms, in particular nuclear ones, is the most important and urgent task for all peace-loving nations. The statements of M. Gorbachev in (?this respect), are proofs of the Soviet Union's resolve in contribution to the meaningfulness of the U.N. International Year of Peace 1986.

Considering the above facts, the Lao party, government and people highly appreciate and resolutely support the stand of the Soviet Government on the extension of its unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests till Jan 1, 1987. He said this has set a good example for other nuclear powers. Hence, the Washington administration should accordingly respond positively.

On the two countries' relations, the Lao president highly appraised the ties of friendship, solidarity and all-round co-operation existing between the parties, governments and peoples of Laos and the USSR. (?These) relations which are prospering continually and meeting the interests of the two peoples, of peace and socialism are based on Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism.

Speaking on behalf of the party, government, and people of the Soviet Union, the charge d'affaires a.i. of the Soviet Embassy thanked the Lao counterparts for having continually supported the Soviet initiatives aiming at securing peace and freeing humanity from the nuclear war threat.

The talk proceeded in a warm and friendly atmosphere.

USSR FOREIGN MINISTRY DELEGATION VISITS

Phoun Sipaseut Receives Delegation

BK210940 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0500 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] On the afternoon of 20 August, Phoun Sipaseut, vice chairman of the LPDR Council of Ministers and minister of foreign affairs, received a delegation of the USSR Foreign Ministry led by Deputy Foreign Minister Igor Rogachev. The delegation arrived in the country on 19 August for a friendship visit.

The meeting and talks between the guest and the host proceeded in an atmosphere of warm and cordial friendship. Phoun Sipaseut highly appreciated the delegation's visit. The two sides talked about many issues regarding strengthening cooperation and mutual assistance between Laos and the Soviet Union in the years to come. They expressed pride in the success of mutual assistance and cooperation in previous years.

Delegation Ends Visit

BK220342 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] In response to an invitation of the LPDR Foreign Affairs Ministry, a USSR Foreign Affairs Ministry delegation led by Comrade Igor Rogachev, deputy foreign minister, paid a friendship visit to the LPDR from 19 to 21 August. During the visit to the LPDR, Comrade Rogachev paid a courtesy call on Comrade Phoun Sipaseut, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and minister of foreign affairs of the LPDR.

In the meeting with Comrade Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Igor Rogachev, who paid a visit to the LPDR to convey the views of the Soviet leadership to the LPDR counterpart, Comrade Phoun Sipaseut said: The Soviet Government's decision to extend unilaterally the moratorium of nuclear testng until 1 January 1987 marks a significant step which is aimed at putting an end to the nuclear arms race, saving mankind from the danger of a nuclear war, and safeguarding durable peace in the world. Comrade Phoun Sipaseut also expresed full support for the new, creative proposal on the improvement of the situation in the Asia-Pacific region as noted in the speech delivered in Vladivostok by Comrade Mikhail Gorbachev.

In exchanging views on issues concerning mutual interests, the LPDR foreign affairs minister highly appreciated the all-round relations between Laos and the Soviet Union. The Soviet side expressed a firm conviction that the proposals adopted in the recent 13th conference of foreign ministers of the LPDR, the SRV, and the PRK will serve the goal on the improvement of the international relations in Asia.

During the visit to the LPDR, Comrade Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Igor Rogachev held consultations and exchanged views with Comrade Soulivong Phasitthidet, deputy foreign affairs minister of the LPDR, on international issues of common interest. The meeting proceeded in a warm and fraternal atmosphere. The two sides reached unanimity on all issues raised for discussion. The two sides will continue to meet regularly to discuss the issue on promoting, developing, and strengthening fraternal relations between the two countries with a view to contributing to creating an atmosphere favorable to the consolidation of peace and security in Southeast Asia, Asia-Pacific, and the world.

PASASON MARKS 23 AUGUST UPRISING ANNIVERSARY

BK241231 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 23 Aug 86

[PASASON 23 August editorial: "Wholeheartedly Enhance the Spirit of the 23 August Uprising"]

[Text] Today, 23 August, marks the 11th anniversary of the historic victory of our nation, in which administrative power was seized nationwide by the entire Lao laboring people and by which our people of all tribes have now become the genuine masters of their own destiny and country. The 23 August anniversary this year is very significant because it comes at a time when our entire party, army, and people are enthusiastically studying and making contributions to the draft political report of the party Central Committee, which will be submitted to the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress, and are striving to compete with one another to score achievements to welcome the Fourth Party Congress by fulfilling or overfulfilling the Second 5-Year State Plan, especially the 1986 plan.

Looking back at the history of our Lao nation 11 years ago, our people of all tribes were then living a miserable life under the yoke of oppression and intimidation and the destructive war of the imperialists -- both the neocolonialists and colonialists, and the reactionary warlords and feudalists. Since the nationwide seizure of power by the Lao people on 23 August 1975, administrative power at all levels has genuinely belonged to the people; 11 years to date. Over the past 11 years of national defense and socialism in accordance with the aspiration of our people, the Lao people of all tribes throughout the country have united as one around the party and have actively contributed to fulfilling the two strategic tasks -- to defend the country and to build socialism. Over the past 11 years of victorious struggle to defend the socialist outpost in Southeast Asia under the brilliant and talented leadership of the LPRP, the Lao people of all tribes have actively implemented the various resolutions adopted at the Third Party Congress. With wholehearted support and assistance from the fraternal socialist countries and other friendly countries around the world, the Lao people of all tribes have further held aloft the spirit of self-reliance and self-sufficiency, enhanced the tradition of perseverance and studiousness and a sense of creativeness, overcome numerous difficulties, and majestically created outstanding acts of heroism to be recorded in the annals of the socialist Lao nation.

The developments of the past 11 years have clearly reaffirmed that the people's administrative power at all levels has been more efficiently consolidated and the proletariat dictatorship has been strengthened. Political and technical training have been simultaneously carried out side by side. The dissemination of the various resolutions of the party Central Committee has been profoundly deepened among the grass-roots people, thus encouraging cadres, soldiers, policemen, and people of all tribes to change their ideological thinking and attitudes to conform to the new period of the revolution and to enhance their capabilities in managing the state, the economy, and society. In the meantime, the people's rights to collective mastery have also been consolidated in all respects. The people's armed forces have grown stronger and bigger incessantly to fulfill the tasks of defending the fruits of the revolution and have reexamined capable smashing of all sabotage schemes and activities carried out by the enemies.

Our country has also scored commendable achievements in the economic field. Production has been reactivated and vigorously developed in the agricultural, forestry, industrial, trading, handicraft, and livestock raising sectors both in urban and rural areas and in the mountainous regions and on plains.

More than 3,000 agricultural cooperatives have been set up with nearly 12 percent of farming families as members and to carry out crop cultivation on nearly 50 percent of the total acreage of ricefields throughout the country to produce grain to meet basic needs of our people.

Education, public health, and cultural work has also been gradually consolidated. Artistic and literary work, sports, and propaganda campaigns through newspapers, radio and television broadcasts, and loudspeaker systems have played an important role in resisting the enemies' schemes on the ideological and political battlefront, in boosting production, and in promoting our foreign policy.

Adhering to the foreign policy of peace, independence, and socialism, our party and government have earnestly paid attention to consolidating and developing the special relationship with the Vietnamese and Cambodian parties, governments, and peoples; developing all-round cooperation with the Soviet Union and the other fraternal socialist countries; and promoting solidarity with all peace-loving nations all over the world. We are celebrating the 23 August anniversary this year at a time when the situation in our country is profoundly changing and when the world situation is extremely favorable to our people.

Let our entire party, army, and people march forward together to enhance the 23 August spirit and apply it to the revolutionary tasks of the new period, heighten a sense of revolutionary vigilance, and launch an extensive emulation campaign throughout the country to score achievements triumphantly to welcome the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress.

LPA OFFICIAL LECTURES ON FOURTH LPRP CONGRESS

BK230446 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] The committee in charge of the National Defense Ministry General Political Department held a meeting to hear a lecture on the significance of the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress. The meeting was attended by nearly 500 military officers from various units, offices, and factories under the control of the ministry.

Brigadier General Thonglai Kommasit, deputy director of the LPA General Political Department, guest lecturer at the meeting, pointed out the basic contents and significance of the Fourth LPRP Congress, saying that the congress will become an event of great historic significance in the political life of the party in the new period of the revolution. On the basis of this significance, the lecturer urged all participants to firmly grasp the party's line and policies, to have full confidence in the party's correct, wise, and brilliant leadership, to strengthen internal unity and unification, and to hold aloft a sense of responsibility of cadres, party members, combatants, and Lao people of all tribes toward the tasks of national defense and socialist construction. He urged this to create a new determination and new posture in launching an emulation campaign to score achievements to welcome the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress, thereby turning it into a great and firm victory.

PHONG SALY DISTRICT PARTY COMMITTEE MEETS

BK201515 Vientiane KPL in English 0900 GMT 19 Aug 86

[Text] Vientiane, August 19 (KPL) -- The party committee of Phong Saly District, in the northern province of the same name, successfully closed its five-day session on August 15. The session was attended by Phao Thammachai, secretary of the provincial party committee, and 42 representatives. The participants heard a political report of the provincial party committee and reviewed their past work. They unanimously adopted a program of actions for the implementation of the Second Five-Year State Plan as well as a provincial plan. A new 17-member party committee of the district has also elected.

POLITICAL LIFE CAMPAIGNS IN PROVINCES COMPLETED

BK220547 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Many localities throughout the country are currently concentrating on studying and contributing views to the draft political report of the party Central Committee which will be presented to the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress. In Oudomsai, Luang Prabang, Khammouane, Savannakhet, and Champassak Provinces, the campaigns have been completed at the provincial party and administrative committee levels as well as in various services. The political life campaigns have now been continued at the grass-root level in districts, cantons, and among local people. The purpose of the campaigns is to help everybody profoundly understand the draft political report and extensively and enthusiastically contribute views to it and to help everybody come to clearly understand the great achievements and victories scored by our entire party and people as well as to see weak points and remaining problems in the past 10 years, weak points and remaining problems that must be settled by us appropriately.

The political life campaigns have also helped everyone raise the level of his knowledge, abilities, sense, and stand in the political field. Following the campaigns, all have come to clearly understand how to distinguish friend from foe and firmly grasp the line and policies of the party and state in the new stage in order to translate together into reality the Second 5-Year State Plan.

SRV AMBASSADOR SPEAKS ON INDOCHINESE PROPOSALS

BK210035 Bangkok THE NATION in English 21 Aug 86 p 5

[Text] The three Indochinese countries have shown their "sincerity and seriousness" in improving relations with Thailand in the joint communique issued by their foreign ministers after their meeting in Hanoi on Monday, a Vietnamese envoy in Bangkok said yesterday.

Ambassador Tran Quang Co told THE NATION in an interview that the joint communique contained "concrete proposals" designed to bring about peace and stability to this region and a solution to the Kampuchean conflict.

Though diplomats here noted that the communique reflected Indochina's hardline policy on the Kampuchean conflict, the envoy insisted that it demonstrated the three Indochinese countries' willingness to improve ties with Thailand, China and the United States.

Apparently repeating one of the points in the communique, Co said the Indochinese countries, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea, took note of Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila's statement that Thailand will not allow its territory to be used to destabilize or undermine the governments of neighboring countries.

Co said Sitthi's statement can be realized if Thailand accepts the proposal of the Heng Samrin government in Phnom Penh to establish a zone of peace on both sides of the Thai-Kampuchean border.

The Thai Government has repeatedly rejected the proposal on grounds that it is not a party to the conflict in Kampuchea.

In what is seen as an overture to Thailand, the communique also said that the Vietnamese-backed regime in Phnom Penh is ready to negotiate with Thailand on the problem of Kampuchean refugees and of Thai citizens captured inside Kampuchea.

The Vietnamese ambassador said the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry has already communicated the essence of the joint communique to the representatives of the ASEAN missions in Hanoi. The envoy on Tuesday also called on Techa Bunnak, the deputy permanent secretary for foreign affairs in Bangkok, to present a copy of the communique.

Co described the Kampuchean conflict as "temporary and not an insurmountable obstacle" to the improvement in Thai-Vietnamese relations.

When asked to comment on observations that the leadership changes in Vietnam may lead to an adjustment in its foreign policy, especially toward Kampuchea, the ambassador replied with a saying: "One swallow doesn't make a summer."

He said the Vietnamese leadership changes are just one factor and how Vietnam will conduct its foreign policy also depends on outside factors. "We need a couple more swallows," he said.

"If the other side shows some goodwill, we will reach something positive," he said.

Ministry Clarifies Sitthi Statement

BK221444 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in Thai 1030 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] The Heng Samrin regime reportedly used the statement by Thailand's Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila concerning Thailand's long-standing policy of not allowing its territory to be used to undermine neighboring countries to propose that Thailand apply this policy to Khieu Samphan. The director general of the Information Department of the Foreign Ministry reports as follows the comment by Thailand's foreign minister on the matter.

[Begin director general recording] It has long been Thailand's policy of having no involvement with the rebels in any countries, whether Burma, Malaysia, Laos, or Cambodia. We never support rebels, and we have never allowed any groups to use our territory to support rebel activities. This is our stand. We reaffirm our stand and will always uphold this policy. Meanwhile, we also want other countries to follow this rule -- that is, not allowing their territory to be used by others to undermine the government in Thailand. Anyway, I must clarify to you that the proposal by the Heng Samrin regime has no validity. First, the Heng Samrin regime does not represent Cambodia. We support the government of Prince Sihanouk. Not only Thailand, but also the ASEAN members and the United Nations consider the governments of Prince Sihanouk to be the legitimate government of Cambodia. [end recording]

Sawanit Khongsiri, director general of the Information Department, disclosed that CGDK President Prince Norodom Sihanouk will meet Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila on 26 August. On the same evening, the foreign minister will host a dinner reception in honor of Prince Sihanouk. On 28 August, Prince Sihanouk will pay a courtesy call on Prime Minister General Prem Tinsulanon.

MILITARY SAYS MORE SRV TROOPS SENT TO CAMBODIA

BK220125 Bangkok THE NATION in English 22 Aug 86 p 2

[Text] The Supreme Command yesterday said Vietnam has deployed an additional 2,000 troops in the northern and western parts of Kampuchea which border Thailand.

Major General Sihadet Bunnak, deputy spokesman, told a press conference that during the past month, Vietnam has tried to nip the growth of the three factions of Khmer resistance forces by intercepting and infiltrating their movement.

Sihadet said during the period there was fighting between Vietnamese troops and the resistance forces of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK) and some shells also fell into the Thai teritory.

He did not provide casualty figures on either side but said the resistance forces have gone on the offensive by ambushing and sniping the Vietnamese troops.

Vietnam invaded Kampuchea in late 1978 to topple the Khmer Rouge Government and then installed the Heng Samrin regime in Phonm Penh. It has maintained about 150,000 troops in the country.

Meanwhile, Colonel Thawatchai Suwannachin, head of the army's public relations office, said Hanoi has tried to "Vietnamize" Kampuchea by migrating about 2,500 Vietnamese from northern Vietnam into Kampong Chang province, 50 kilometres northwest of Phnom Penh.

Thawatchai said Hanoi has forced Khmers in Kampong Som to repair roads in various parts of Kampuchea especially those along the Thai-Kampuchean border.

He said Vietnam is manning troops in posts opposite Baan Kruat District in Buri Ram and dispatched details for espionage in Thailand.

SITTHI ON 'NEW THRUST' IN FOREIGN POLICY

BK240210 Bangkok THE NATION in English 24 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila, expounding on the new Thai foreign policy, says that his ministry will be an "active participant" in the effort to revive the economic life of the country.

In an exclusive interview with THE NATION, the Social Action Party (SAP) leader also said that he will reconfirm the prime minister's order that set up a coordinating ministerial committee he headed in the previous administration. The committee is to streamline efforts by various ministries which have posted officials at Thai embassies and representative offices.

To strengthen his personal think tank as party leader, Sitthi also plans to appoint additional advisors.

There are now 15 economic advisors in his team and the additional appointments will bring former University Affairs Minister Kasem Suwannakun as advisor on the university affairs and former City Clerk Chalo Thammasiri as advisor on administration and Interior Ministry affairs. "It is necessary for me as party leader to keep abreast of the overall problems of the country," Sitthi said.

The foreign minister said that a new thrust in the foreign policy is an expansion in the ministry's roles as coordinator with related government agencies as well as strengthening private-government cooperation in overcoming the economic woes.

He cited item eight of the policy statement on foreign affairs as saying that the government will undertake to have the Foreign Ministry and all the state organs play roles in expanding the overseas markets for Thai goods, promoting labour exports, tourist industry as well as inviting more foreign investment and stepping up transfer of technology into the countries for the sake of economic development of the country.

Another new emphasis in the foreign policy is greater independent foreign undertaking to serve the national interest as the utmost priority and in accordance with international laws and norms as well as rationality, Sitthi said.

Referring to item one on continued efforts to improve ties with neighboring countries, Sitthi said that the Foreign Ministry supports promotion of "barter trade," as against cash trade, with Laos and is ready to open new border points along the common frortier on a temporary basis at a Lao request to facilitate transit of goods across the border.

He said that the Foreign Ministry has also switched on a greenlight for a government-level trade delegation's visit here for talks with the Commerce Ministry on trade promotion. However, the government has to take into account the security domain in considering a proposal for Thailand to open up new border points with Laos on a permanent basis.

Such a move may facilitate influx of Lao people for refuge on Thai soil and, in effect, aggravating the security of the country, he said.

The National Security Council (NSC) and the Commerce Ministry are also jointly reviewing the list of strategic goods that are banned from being exported to the landlocked country, according to Sitthi.

Vientiane has been asking for a reduction in the banned strategic goods.

Burma is another neighbouring country that Thailand is seeking to promote trade -- and economic relations -- and Sitthi is optimistic that a trade agreement and joint fishing ventures with Burma are not too "far-fetched."

Sitthi, who led a delegation to Rangoon to improve ties, said that Thailand would seek to settle the dispute over the demarcation of the border along the Sai River and see to it that Thai territory would not be used by minority rebels to launch attacks against the Rangoon regime. When these issues have been settled, relations will improve significantly, he said.

He noted that the new Burmese ambassador could help to expand bilateral economic relations with Thailand.

Referring to relations with Indochinese countries, Sitthi said that the general atmosphere had apparently improved for Vientiane has lately refrained from attacking Thailand.

On Kampuchea, he said he is optimistic that the Vietnamese would be worn out in its fighting against the resistance guerrillas in two years. The resistance guerrillas, he said, have been operating in the inland areas of the country, according to Sitthi.

MINISTRY ANNOUNCES USSR'S ZAYTSEV TO VISIT

BK221323 Bangkok Voce of Free Asia in Thai 1030 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] A high-level Soviet official will visit Thailand from 31 August to 3 September. He is Anatoliy Zaytsev, head of the Soviet Foreign Ministry's Southeast Asian Department. Director General of the Information Department Sawanit Khongsiri said that, during his visit, Mr Anatoliy Zaytsev will meet on 1 September Foreign Ministry Permanent Secretary Asa Sarasin and also Director General of the International Organizations Department Nit Phibunsongkhram for official consultations.

Mr Anatoliy Zaytsev has visited Thailand almost every year in recent years. He last visited Thailand between 24 and 28 July 1985. Details disclosed by Sawanit Khongsiri on the coming visit of Mr Anatoliy Zaytsev follow:

[Begin Sawanit recording] From what we know, the purpose of the Soviet official's visit is to discuss with us the subjects on the agenda of the UN General Assembly. The Soviet official talked to us about this visit last year. Mr Zaytsev's visit is significant for the Foreign Ministry, because it will be the first visit to Thailand by a senior Soviet official since Gorbachev made a major policy statement on Asia in his Vladivostok speech. We would like to learn about the Soviet attitude and what he will have to tell us. It is also interesting to note that the Soviet Government is campaigning heavily for its peace policy, or what can be called peace offensive [preceding two words in English] in the conduct of its foreign affairs, especially in the conduct of diplomacy. [end recording]

NGUYEN HUU THO LEAVES FOR NONALIGNED SUMMIT

OW231548 Hanoi VNA in English 1501 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 23 -- A high-level Vietnamese delegation led by lawyer Nguyen Huu Tho, vice president of the State Council and chairman of the National Assembly, left here today for the eighth non-aligned summit to be convened in Harare, Zimbabwe.

It was seen off by Truong Chinh, general secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and president of the State Council; Pham Van Dong, Politburo member of the party Central Committee and chairman of the Council of Ministers; and other Vietnamese senior officials.

VO DONG GIANG COMMENTS ON NONALIGNED CONFERENCE

OW230729 Hanoi VNA in English 0707 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 23 -- Cabinet Minister Vo Dong Giang has had an interview with the Cuban news agency PRENSA LATINA before leaving Hanoi for Harare (Zimbabwe) to attend the ministerial conference in preparation for the coming eighth non-aligned summit.

Asked about the growth of the Non-aligned Movement in recent years, Vo Dong Giang said:

"I think there is no need to talk much about the vigorous growth of the movement. The increasing role and international prestige of the movement as well as its political maturation have now become a reality which nobody, even forces hostile to it, can deny.

"What I want to say here is the interesting experiences drawn from the existence and development of the movement over the past 25 years, despite so many strains and stresses, and its great complexity and diversity. I mean the increasing awareness of each member country of its sacred right to be the master of its own destiny, awareness which prompts it to tide over differences in political opinions, social systems, philosophical view points and religious beliefs to bring out an unshakable solidarity of the movement, to unite with other progressive forces for a common goal, namely to struggle against imperialism, colonialism and other reactionary forces, and for peace, national independence and social progress.

"Peace, national independence and social progress are the goals and trend of development of our times. Those who are against these goals may cause temporary difficulties to the movement. But they cannot reverse the trend and therefore they cannot prevent the movement from gaining success and becoming ever stronger."

Asked about the Indochinese countries' opinions at the Harare conference on developments in the peninsula, Vo Dong Giang said:

"The Vietnamese delegation will first of all concentrate on important and burning issues of common concern.

"Regarding the situation in the Indochinese peninsula, we will reaffirm our consistent stance of striving for a peaceful, stable and cooperative Southeast Asia in which Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea are a positive factor of decisive significance.

"Over the past eight years, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea have made tireless efforts, putting forward many goodwill proposals aimed at easing tension, promoting dialogue and maintaining peaceful co-existence among countries in the region and between them and other countries including China and the U.S., thus contributing to efforts for all-round security in Asia and the Pacific. We will resolutely oppose every scheme of confrontation to undermine the growing trend for constructive dialogue in the region".

Vo Dong Giang expressed the belief that "with the sense of responsibility and goodwill of all countries in the region and support from the Non-aligned Movement and other peace-loving forces in the world, the situation in Southeast Asia will change for the better, lasting peace and equal cooperation will be established and consolidated in the region, meeting the aspiration of all nations in the region and the rest of the world".

TRUONG CHINH, NGUYEN VAN LINH ADDRESS CADRES

BK240343 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] By order of the party Central Committee Secretariat, the Propaganda and Training Department of the CPV Central Committee held a conference in Hanoi from 19 to 21 August for retired high-ranking cadres and party members to study and contribute opinions to the draft documents to be presented to the Sixth National Party Congress. A total of 162 comrades including former party Central Committee members; leading cadres of various commissions, ministries, general departments, and mass organizations, army generals and high-ranking specialists, and former provincial party committee secretaries attended the conference.

Comrades Truong Chinh, general secretary of the party Central Committee and chairman of the Council of State, and Nguyen Van Linh, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the party Central Committee, called at the conference and cordially addressed the delegates.

The comrade director of the party Central Committee Propaganda and Training Department introduced the draft political report and the draft proposal for amending and revising some specific points of the party statutes which will be presented to the Sixth National Party Congress.

The conferees engaged in lively discussions with a sense of responsibility and in a constructive spirit, contributing many frank opinions and suggesting a number of concrete measures aimed at helping to resolve the current difficulties and overcome the party's shortcomings in socioeconomic leadership, building, and development in the period ahead. The participants were very happy to meet Comrade Truong Chinh, general secretary of the party Central Committee and chairman of the Council of State.

Cordially addressing the conferees, Comrade Truong Chinh informed them of the fine results of his recent meeting in Moscow with Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee.

Concerning the socioeconomic situation of our country, the comrade general secretary presented a lucid analysis of the party's viewpoints and policies regarding the renovation of economic management aimed at abolishing the mechanism based on bureaucratic centralism and state subsidies, switching to the system of socialist economic and business accounting, and ensuring the basic economic units' right to autonomy in production and business as well as the central echelon's right to centralized and unified management.

This is also aimed at combating bureaucratic centralism, liberalism, disorganization, indiscipline, and localism, and firmly upholding the principle of democratic centralism.

The comrade general secretary solicitously inquired after and advised the retired veteran comrades to continue firmly preserving their revolutionary quality and virtues, actively participate in various activities in their wards and subwards, and always have firm confidence in the party Central Committee's leadership. With their prestige, experience, and responsibilities, the veteran comrades should actively contribute to building the capital's revolutionary movement.

In his closing speech, Comrade Nguyen Van Linh praised the delegates who, despite their old age, still firmly maintained their revolutionary zeal, enthusiastically attended the conference, and contributed their opinions to the party. He analyzed and evaluated the socioeconomic situation of the country in the past and suggested that the delegates, with the vast knowledge and experience they have accumulated throughout the years of revolutionary activities, speak out frankly, tell the truth, and contribute many practical suggestions, thereby helping the party to do a good job of preparing for its sixth national congress.

CADRES CONTINUE TO STUDY DRAFT POLITICAL REPORT

Ho Chi Minh City

OW201103 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] More than 500 leading cadres of Ho Chi Minh City recently held a conference to carefully study and discuss the CPV draft political report to be submitted to the sixth Party Congress. They also strived to thoroughly grasp the party's views and thoughts expressed in the speeches of comrades Truong Chinh, Le Duc Tho, and Nguyen Van Linh at the national conference of cadres.

They unanimously approved a program of action presented by the standing committee of the city party committee. For the immediate future, Ho Chi Minh City should concentrate on implementing these major tasks: boosting production to fulfill the city's 1986 socioeconomic plan; developing the results of the self-criticism and criticism drive by quickly remedying all shortcomings as suggested by the masses and by party members; improving the implementation of tasks; and properly organizing party organization congresses at all levels in accordance with the requirements and timetable set by the center.

Ha Nam Ninh, Son La

BK150734 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] The party organizations of Ha Nam Ninh and Son La Provinces recently held conferences of key cadres to study the fundamental viewpoints of the draft political report to be presented to the Sixth National Party Congress with a view to applying them to the local situation in preparation for the holding of party congresses at all levels.

The Ha Nam Ninh provincial party committee has guided all basic units in immediately applying the central level's viewpoints to assessing the situation and adopted policies and measures for leading and guiding local party organizations and the people in developing the economy and culture and consolidating national defense.

The provincial party committee has launched a movement of the entire party and people to emulate in carrying out productive labor and practicing thrift and satisfactorily arranged for party members and the people to contribute their opinions to the draft documents of the party congress. As an immediate step, the province has drawn the attention of all units to agricultural production, especially in the 10th-month crop season, to the prevention and control of typhoons and floods, and to making preparations for production in the winter crop season.

Meanwhile, the party organization of Son La Province has focused on the urgent tasks of agricultural production. The province is striving to produce 2,100 metric tons of nitrogen fertilizer, encouraging all the people to turn out green and stable manure, building a high-yield rice area covering 4,000 hectares, developing 500 hectares of shallow ricefields in Bai Bang, tending 500 hectares of manioc, enlarging the summer-fall rice acreage, changing the crop cultivation pattern, and developing soybean planting for consumption by the local people as well as for export.

Tien Giang Committee

OW201105 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] According to the journal AP BAC, the Tien Giang provincial party committee recently held an enlarged executive committee session with leading cadres of the province, cities, towns, districts, villages, and wards to study and discuss the draft political report to be presented to the Sixth Party Congress. Along with carefully studying the draft political report and the proposals for supplementing and amending a number of points in the party organization's statute, the conferees also studied the speeches made by Comrades Truong Chinh, Nguyen Van Linh, and Vo Chi Cong at the recent conference of key cadres at the center.

The conferees carefully and responsibly contributed hundreds of views to further clarify the comments, analysis, and assessment made by the center regarding the general situation and its various aspects. They also proposed supplementing and changing a number of sentences, paragraphs, and matters in the CPV draft political report for consideration by the center.

After the 2-day conference the Tien Giang provincial party committee trained a reporter contingent with a view to popularizing the CPV draft political report among local cadres, workers, government employees, combatants, and laboring people.

NHAN DAN REPORTS SUBWARD PARTY CONGRESS IN HANOI

BK240829 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0500 GMT 21 Aug 86

[From the review of the 21 August NHAN DAN]

[Text] Next to its editorial, NHAN DAN carries a report by Vu Giang on the congress of the party organization of Cua Dong subward, Hoan Kiem ward, Hanoi.

The report reflects the lively discussions and sincere suggestions by members of the Cua Dong party organization to the draft political report to be presented to the sixth National Party Congress and the draft political report of the Hanoi municipal party organization. The Cua Dong subward party organization congress regarded assessing the situation and finding its causes as the major tasks of the national party congress.

HANOI, VIENTIANE BROADEN ECONOMIC COOPERATION

OW211702 Hanoi VNA in English 1535 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA Aug 21 -- Hanoi and Vientiane, the capital cities of Vietnam and Laos, are broadening cooperation in many areas since the establishment of their sisterly relationship in 1978. Hanoi has helped train hundreds of technical workers and managerial cadres for Laos. It has also helped build in Vientiane a brick-and-tile factory with a capacity of five million bricks and two million tiles a year, two sugar mills, two textile mills, and equip the Vientiane farm tools shop.

Since 1984, the two capitals have cooperated in exports and imports and broadened their goods exchanges. Beside accepting Lao trainees to Hanoi, Hanoi has sent its specialists to various establishments in Vientiane to help in on-spot training and to open professional courses.

So far, Hanoi and Vientiane have undertaken 20 joint construction projects. Hanoi has helped build in Vientiane a paper mill with a yearly capacity of 300 tons of paper and 150 tons of cardboard, a distillery with a capacity of 50,000 litres a year, etc. Besides, Hanoi has helped Vientiane modernize two textile mills.

With the assistance of Hanoi specialists, a major irrigation project, a glass enterprise, a park and an infant school are being built in Vientiane. Hanoi workers and technicians are also equipping an engineering enterprise in Vientiane.

AUSTRALIA

HAYDEN REITERATES CALL FOR TEST BAN TREATY

BK220925 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Australia has repeated its call for a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty. The foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, says the continued development of nuclear weapons by those who already own them is detrimental to efforts to stop the spread of nuclear weapons. Mr Hayden said he welcomed the declaration on disarament issued by the leaders of Sweden, Mexico, Argentina, India, Tanzania, and Greece following their meeting in Mexico earlier this month. He says this fits well with Australia's own efforts to promote an international seismic monitoring network as a way of verifying a ban on nuclear tests. However, Mr Hayden says Australia's highest priority in the disarmament issue is a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty. Mr Hayden's comments come only a few days after the decision by the federal government to resume sale of uranium to France. A 3-year ban on uranium sales to France was lifted as a means of raising extra revenue for the government. The decision has been condemned by leading members of the Australian Labor Party's left wing, who had vowed to begin a widespread campaign to have it reversed.

SOUTH AFRICAN OFFICIALS ORDERED TO LEAVE

BK230720 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] The Australian Government has ordered four South African officials to leave the country by 22 September. This follows the announcement by the prime minister, Mr Hawke, last Thursday in Parliament that Australia would reduce South African diplomatic representation in Melbourne and Sydney. The Department of Foreign Affairs has told the South African Embassy that its Trade Commission and Tourist Board offices should be closed when the four officials leave. Australia withdrew its trade commissioner in South Africa last year and Mr Hawke said on Thursday that it would withdraw consular facilities, particularly visa facilities provided by its South African Embassy.

NEWS ZEALAND

USSR'S KAPITSA TO MAKE 2-DAY 'UNOFFICIAL' VISIT

HK230826 Hong Kong AFP in English 0808 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Wellington, Aug 23 (AFP) -- Soviet Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs Mikhail Kapitsa is to pay a private two-day visit to New Zealand next week and hold formal ministerial talks while here, Prime Minister David Lange has said. During his visit, beginning on Monday, Mr Kapitsa will hold talks with New Zealand Deputy Foreign Minister and Defence Minister Frank O'Flynn, Mr Lange announced in a brief written statement issued on Friday.

His visit comes only a fortnight after the United States suspended New Zealand from the Australian, New Zealand and U.S. (ANZUS) defence alliance because of New Zealand's ban on nuclear-capable warships using its ports. Officials from the prime minister's department have emphasized that the visit will be unofficial and that Mr Kapitsa will have no contact with Mr Lange, who is also foreign minister.

Mr Kapitsa is to be the guest of Soviet Ambassador to New Zealand Vladimir Bykov.

MALAYSIA

SIHANOUK, DELEGATION ARRIVE ON 5-DAY VISIT

BK220639 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0600 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] The president of the resistance Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea Prince Norodom Sihanouk arrived in Kuala Lumpur a short while ago for a 5-day official visit to Malaysia. He was recieved at the Kuala Lumpur international airport by the Minister of Foreign Affairs Datuk Rais Yatim, his deputy Datuk Kadir Sheikh Fadzir, Deputy Finance Minister Datuk Sabaruddin Chik and other senior government officials.

Prince Sihanouk is leading a 10-member delegation. This afternoon, Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed is expected to call on the Kampuchean resistance leader at a hotel where he is staying. Tonight the prime minister will entertain Prince Sihanouk to a dinner.

Mahathir On Support for CGDK

BK221524 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 1437 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, Aug 22 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- Malaysia believes it is important for the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK) to continue to maintain and work for greater unity among Kampuchean freedom fighters in the coming years.

"Their unity is crucial to the success of their struggle as well as their effectiveness in the political, diplomatic and military struggle against Vietnam," Prime Minister Dr Mahathir Mohamed said at a dinner in honour of CGDK President Prince Norodom Sihanouk at Sri Perdana Friday night.

Malaysia, he added, had noted many encouraging signs in the progress of the struggle by Khmer resistance forces recently, notably the high degree of solidarity and cohesion among the patriotic forces of the CGDK as well as co-operation and co-ordination in the liberation struggle.

Dr Mahathir also reaffirmed Malaysia's support for the CGDK, adding that it would spare no effort at the United Nations and other international fora to ensure the international community continued to support the Kampuchean cause. He said Malaysia had been actively involved with its ASEAN partners in the mission which visited East and West Africa, West Asia and Latin America to secure continuing support as well as to promote the CGDK"s eight-point proposal.

The prime minister described the proposal made in March this year as a constructive and reasonable formula that demonstrated the flexibility of the CGDK in its earnest desire to end the conflict. "Vietnam's repeated rejection of the proposal is clear evidence of its intransigence and inflexibility," Dr Mahathir said.

Prince Sihanouk, in his speech, said the CGDK forces had made notable progress with growing active assistance from the Kampucheans within their homeland. "But we must consent to make even greater sacrifices and efforts to encourage our people inside our homeland to join us in fighting the Vietnamese invaders," he said.

Prince Sihanouk, accompanied by his son Prince Norodom Rannarit, arrived here Friday for a five-day visit, the last leg of his four-nation tour which took him to Singapore, Bangkok and Jakarta.

Saturday, he is scheduled to ve talks with Dr Mahathir at the Prime Minister's Office.

Mahathir, Sihanouk Hold Talks

BK230919 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0822 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, Aug 23 (BERNAMA) -- President of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK) Prince Norodom Sihanouk Saturday outlined to Dr Mahathir Mohamed the danger of "Vietnamisation" of Kampuchea which is occupied by Vietnamese forces.

Prince Sihanouk told the prime minister it was projected that within a decade, the number of Vietnamese people in Kampuchea would reach two million from the 700,000 at present. He said the Khmer people were very much against this situation and were giving all their support to CGDK resistance forces against the Vietnamese troops.

Prince Sihanouk said this in his 90-minute discussion with Dr Mahathir at the Prime Minister's Office here, Secretary-General of the Foreign Ministry Zainal Abidin Sulong told reporters after the meeting.

With the help of the Kampuchean people, the resistance forces had been able to penetrate very deep into Kampuchea, even into areas around Phnom Penh, Prince Sihanouk who is here for a five-day visit said.

Dr Mahathir meanwhile described as very "heartening" the successes of the resistance forces and expressed the hope that the CGDK struggle would attain its objective. The prime minister reiterated that Malaysia would continue to do its best in pursuing the Kampuchean cause at international fora, particularly at the non-aligned summit in Harare next week which he will be attending.

Prince Sihanouk also gave an assurance to the prime minister that extra efforts would be undertaken to ensure unity in the tripartite CGDK as its unity was important in ensuring the success of the struggle.

Dr Mahathir had stressed in his speech at a dinner in honour of Prince Sihanouk Friday night that it was important for the CGDK to continue to work for greater unity among Kampuchean freedom fighters.

The two leaders also discussed in great detail the possible solutions to the Kampuchean problem including the CGDK's eight-point proposal made in March this year.

Prince Sihanouk told Dr Mahathir he believed China's position on the question of Kampuchea remained strong and unaffected despite the latest Gorbachev proposal the CGDK president described as not offering anything new as far as Kampuchea was concerned.

Sihanouk on 8-Point Proposal

BK230755 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0722 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, Aug 23 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- The Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea's eight-point proposal constitutes the "best possible foundation" in the search for a peaceful solution to the Kampuchean issue, CGDK President Prince Norodom Sihanouk reiterated today.

"Personally, I renounce to go any further," he said in his address at the Malaysian National Institute of Public Administration here, adding that he would no longer formulate any proposals or suggestions to facilitate a solution. He said for a solution to be found to the current impasse, it would be necessary that a minimum of goodwill existed on the other side (the Vietnamese).

He said the proposals had shown to the world that the CGDK had been "willing to go very far" in the search for a just and honourable peace, but Vietnam had instead considered the CGDK's moderation and spirit of conciliation as signs of weakness, of powerlessness and even an admission of defeat. "Vietnam's intransigence grows to measure up to its false analysis of the situation of our resistance," he added.

The CGDK, ASEAN and China had "gone far enough" in the way of conciliation and of peace, he said, adding that "at the end of this, we will find nothing but contempt and new rebuffs from the adverse camp (Vietnam)."

Although Prince Sihanouk said he was not optimistic of the outcome of an unequal struggle, he however reaffirmed that the enemies of his homeland were quite mistaken "if they think that the old Sihanouk is tired or discouraged." "That would be a profound illusion," he said.

On the Khmer Rouge, Prince Sihanouk said it now only expected to be regarded as part of the CGDK. "The Khmer Rouge leadership had promised me it does not harbour any intention to oust the other parties from government and retain control," he said.

He added that the Khmer Rouge knew very well that Vietnam would only march back into Kampuchea and that China did not want a communist government in Kampuchea as it would only accept a nationalist government.

Prince Sihanouk is currently on a five-day visit here, the last leg of a four-nation tour that has already taken him to Singapore, Bangkok and Jakarta.

Commentary Hails Visit

BK221028 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Station commentary]

[Text] The government and people of Malaysia extend a cordial welcome to Prince Nordodom Sihanouk, president of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, who began a 4-day visit to our country today. The prince is on a tour of four ASEAN states. Kuala Lumpur is the last stop in his tour. Prince Sihanouk is a friend of Malaysia. His name is a household word in this country. Malaysia respects his commitment to a Cambodia free from Vietnamese or any other foreign domination. Relations between Malaysia and Democratic Kampuchea have always been close and cordial. Malaysia and its ASEAN partners look forward to the day when the whole of Cambodia will be rid of the unwanted Vietnamese occupation forces and the Cambodian people will be able to shape their own political destiny. Prince Norodom Sihanouk symbolizes the fierce determination of the people longing to be free and to improve their quality of life.

The visits that the Cambodian leader is paying at this time are significant in the context of the nonaligned summit conference that will be held very soon in Harare, Zimbabwe.

Vietnam and the Soviet bloc are engaged in a massive propaganda campaign to discredit the Government of Democratic Kampuchea and to publicize the Heng Samrin regime which is propped up by Vietnam's military resources. The main thrust of such propaganda is by harping on past events such as the excesses of Pol Pot's government during the period 1975-1978 in Cambodia. However, ASEAN is confident that the Vietnamese will not make any headway in their campaign judging by the UN votes on the Cambodian issue in last year's General Assembly. In any case, Malaysia and its ASEAN partners will sponsor a resolution calling on the international community to take note of the reality that prevails in Cambodia and urge the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the country.

Another diplomatic ploy used by Vietnam was the convening of the conference of foreign ministers of Laos, Cambodia, and Vietnam. In reality, this was not to be regarded as a meeting of envoys of independent nations as Vietnam dominates both Cambodia and Laos and practices a form of neocolonialism. This is truly ironic that the foreign ministers in their communique called for the settlement of the Cambodian crisis as the [words indistinct] asked for the disbandment of the Khmer Rouge forces. Everybody knows what would transpire if these forces were to be disbanded; the tripartite coalition would lose its strength, and Vietnam would be able to lord it over Cambodia even more easily.

Prince Sihanouk has categorically rejected this ridiculous demand. If Vietnam sincerely wants to discuss peace, it ought not to set any precondition. Vietnam is the aggressor, and it has neither the moral nor legal credibility to make demands. Malaysia will follow with interest all that Prince Norodom Sihanouk will say about the situation in Cambodia. His visit will further strengthen the close ties between his country and Malaysia.

MAHATHIR TO LAUNCH COMMISSION AT NONALIGNED MEETING

BK220701 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0600 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] The Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed will announce the launching of the independent South-South Commission at the eighth nonaligned summit meeting to be held in Harare, Zimbabwe, early next month. Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir who is the chairman of the steering committee, will meet leaders of other nonaligned nations to gain greater support for the commission. So far, the commission has received encouraging response from Third World countries after the Malaysian leader sent letters to the governments of various countries asking for support.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs Datuk Rais Yatim told a news conference in Kuala Lumpur that Malaysia hopoes to get support from most of the Third World countries at the summit. He said the appointment of the commission chairman will be decided at the conference. The prime minister will head a 14-member delegation to the 7-day conference which begins from the 1st of next month. Among the agenda to be discussed at the conference include the noninterference and intervention in the internal affairs of various states, the role of the Nonaligned Movement, apartheid, the Palestine issue, the Kampuchean problem, and the Afghanistan conflict. The drug abuse problem and the Iran-Iraq war will be also be discussed at the summit.

TROOPS ON 'PRECAUTIONARY' ALERT FOR AQUINO TRIP

HK240708 Hong Kong AFP in English 0648 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 24 (AFP) -- President Corazon Aquino left here Sunday for a four-day visit to Indonesia and Singapore, her first foreign trip since a popular uprising installed her in power in February.

"Our government will be left in good and dependable hands. All of you anyway are ready at all times to protect peace and order," the chief executive said before boarding her 25-seater jet at about 1:15 p.m. (0515 GMT), playing down rumours of a possible coup attempt in her absence.

Armed Forces chief General Fidel Ramos told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE the military had been on maximum alert since 0700 GMT Saturday and would remain so "for as long as it's needed." He described the action as "precautionary."

Preparations for Mrs. Aquino's first foreign trip have been marked by speculation and rumors about a possible power grab by diehard supporters of her exiled predeccesor Ferdinand Marcos, who was toppled in a popular uprising in February. Marcos allies staged a failed coup bid here in July.

"No problem. We're going to play golf," Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile told reporters. Asked by AFP if he say any problem with the so-called Marcos "loyalists". the minister said: "No problem, period."

Mrs. Aquino said the state visit was a necessary "trip of brotherhood" to Manila's Association of Southeast Asian Nation (ASEAN) allies and that she had always said her first visit abroad would be to a neighboring state. She said that as a result of her trip, she hoped to work more closely with other leaders to help bring about "peace and progress to all of us here."

On Indonesia, where she will stay until Tuesday, Mrs. Aquino said: "We are like family" amd that "over the years Indonesia has been a dependable friend." She noted that Jakarta is the head of the committee organizing the ASEAN summit here next year.

Singapore was a "shining example of the determination of its government and great people," Mrs. Aquino said. "Its progress and prosperity is the economic analog of what the Filipino people achieved in politics," she added. Mrs. Aquino will be reciprocating a state visit made here in June by Singaporean Premier Lee Kuan Yew. 'We will see each other on Wednesday," she added.

The president trooped the lines with the white-uniformed General Ramos after a 21-gun salute by an honor guard at Villamor Air Base, the air force headquarters in suburban Manila. Trade and Industry Minister Jose Concepcion, Natural Resources Minister Ernesto Maceda, Tourism Minister Jose Antonio Gonzalez, Education Minister Lourdes Quisumbing and Social Services Minister Maria Mita Pardo de Tavera are accompanying her on the trip. Presidential spokeswoman Alice Villadolid said the official delegation was composed of 15 people and that there are also 14 officials and five businessmen.

Mrs. Aquino is set to meet with large Filipino communities as well as local businessmen in both countries.

Enrile Predicts No Trouble

HK230520 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile says he foresees no trouble in the country while President Aquino is abroad. Enrile said this at an open forum held by the Money Market Association of the Philippines at the Manila Peninsula Hotel. He gave assurances that nothing untoward will take place while the president is away.

Meanwhile, Southern Command chief Major General Jose Magno Jr announced he was placing his region under red alert while President Aquino is in Indonesia and Singapore. He explained he was doing this to prevent any unruly elements from creating trouble while the president is out of the country. Magno said the situation in Mindanao is peaceful except for some clashes between soldiers and the NPA in Regions 10 and 11.

Marcos Denies Return Plan

HK200621 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Former President Marcos has no plans to return to the Philippines While President Aquino is visiting the United States. According to the former president's spokesman, Arturo Arquiza, Marcos will return to the Philippines only if the Filipino people so desire it. He added that the former leader says that, since it was the Americans who brought him to Hawaii, he will wait for the Americans to take him back to the Philippines. Rumors about Marcos returning to the country have been circulating, especially since there have been reports of stepped-up security at Laoag Airport and flights there being monitored.

OFFICIAL PROTESTS DELAY IN U.S. ARMS SUPPLIES

HK221417 Manila NEWS HERALD in English 22 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Deputy Defense Minister Wilson Gamboa yesterday chided the United States for delaying the shipment of long overdue military equipment to the Philippines.

"The Philippines has not received a single military hardware from the United States since I assumed my new position in the defense ministry last April," Gamboa said.

He said the promise of the U.S. to give what is due to the Philippines "has remained a promise."

Under the RP [Republic of the Philippines] -U.S. military bases agreement, the Philippines is supposed to get $180 million in military and economic assistance for 1985.

But until now, the defense ministry is still awaiting for the arrival of the military hardware from the U.S., Gamboa said.

Gamboa added that most of the hardware the Armed Forces of the Philippines [AFP] expects to receive are only spare parts for armored vehicles, planes, helicopters and ships.

Most of the equipment used by the AFP are made in the United States.

Gamboa hoped that the U.S. would soon deliver the equipment as promised.

The U.S. is under obligation to pay the Philippines $900 million for the use of Clark Air Base and Subic Naval Base at $180 million a year from 1986 to 1989 [figures as published].

NDF REBELS' AGENDA SUBMITTED TO AQUINO

HK230108 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0000 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] The agenda put forward by the communist National Democratic Front [NDF] rebels has been submitted to President Aquino for her comment and approval. Agriculture and Food Minister Ramon Mitra, who is on the government panel, said he had received instructions from Mrs Aquino about the agenda, but he gave no further details. Mitra met with the rebel leaders on 5 August to set up initial guidelines for the peace talks. He did not say if the new agenda came directly from Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel, the former newsmen who head the NDF.

AFP on Rebel Demands

HK221350 Hong Kong AFP in English 1338 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 22 (AFP) -- A government peace negotiator said Friday that the Agenda for talks with a rebel panel has been submitted to President Corazon Aquino for approval, the state-owned PHILIPPINE NEWS AGENCY (PNA) reported.

Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra said Mrs Aquino had instructed him on what to do with the agenda, but did not say what the instructions were or what the agenda contained, PNA said.

It was not clear if the agenda came from former newsman [as received] Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel, who represent the communist-led National Democratic Front (NDF) in the peace talks.

Mr Mitra has been waiting for the rebels' agenda since their first meeting on August 5. He has repeatedly said that the government has only one agenda, and "it is the ceasefire."

Another negotiator, chief government auditor Teofisto Guingona, said he had received some demands from the NDF leaders, PNA added. Mr Guingona said the demands included free mobility for the NDF leaders and their staff during the negotiations, and immunity from suit even after the peace talks have been finished, the news agency said.

MNLF PEACE TALKS TO BE HELD IN SEPTEMBER

HK250854 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0800 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Peace negotiations between the government and MNLF leaders will take place next month. This was said by Butz Aquino after his 4-day official mission to the Middle East. Cel Baizas reports:

[Begin recording] Negotiations for the peaceful settlement of problems in Mindanao may start on the 1st week of September. Butz Aquino, brother of the slain Benigno Aquino, Jr, said his trip to Jeddah was made in his capacity as a personal emissary of President Corazon Aquino. He said a cease-fire would be observed by the government and the Muslim rebels during the negotiations. The dialogue between the two sides aims to solve the problems which have plagued the Muslim community for the past 400 years. Aquino said President Aquino would decide who would make up the government delegation. [end recording]

LABOR MINISTER FAVORS LEGALIZATION OF CPP

HK250918 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0900 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Labor Minister Augusto Sanchez says he is in favor of legalizing the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP] and allowing it to join the political scene. During a meeting with newsmen in Zamboanga City, Sanchez said that while the CPP continues to be banned from politics, it will [words indistinct] and will attract people into joining it and opposing the government. Sanchez denied that he himself is a communist. He said that many people who join the CPP do not fully understand the communist idelogy. He said that with the freedom under the new government, communism should be discussed openly.

CPP CITES 'FASCIST' DANGERS TO GOVERNMENT

HK221407 Manila NEWS HERALD in English 22 Aug 86 p 12

[Text] The banned Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) has expressed fears that the Aquino government might become "fascist" if the military is not reformed.

In the July issue of "ANG BAYAN [The NATION]," the CPP's oficial publication, the party said the military has been keeping the Aquino government "off balance" and undermining the President's political leadership.

Unless the military is reformed, the CPP said, the Aquino government "could eventually be drawn in to follow the same fascist designs of the ousted Marcos regime."

The CPP also accused the military of blocking reforms of the Aquino government has sought to implement in the establishment.

"Since the downfall of the Marcos regime, there has been no change nor is there an effort to make change in the orientation of the military," the CPP said.

It also assailed the military for its tendencies to be independent from the Aquino government.

It cited as examples the military's continued hamletting, bombing and massacres in the countryside.

The CPP also branded the Armed Forces of the Philippines as "the most dependable instrument of U.S. imperialism" in the country.

The U.S., the CPP added, has been exerting pressures such as delay in loans and aid if the Aquino government would not implement policies and programs attuned to American political and economic interests in the Philippines.

At the same time, the CPP assailed Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile "for taking advantage of his control over the military to court the favor of the U.S. for his own ambitions for power."

GOVERNMENT SAID SELLING NUCLEAR PLANT'S URANIUM

HK240524 Hong Kong AFP in English 0441 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 22 (AFP) — The Philippines Government is selling 70 million dollars' worth of uranium fuel from its mothballed nuclear power plant, a newspaper said here Sunday. The uranium pellets had been intended to run the 620-megawatt plant in Bataan Province west of Manila for three years, THE MANILA CHRONICLE said, quoting Vicente Paterno, a presidential aide on energy matters. Mr. Paterno could not be reached for comment Sunday.

The new government of President Corazon Aquino has decided not to open the plant, which would have been the country's first nuclear power station, due to questions on its safety and prohibitive running costs. The deposed government of Ferdinand Marcos had commissioned the U.S. firm Westinghouse to build the plant at an initial cost of 500 million dollars. The construction took eight years and the cost ballooned to 2.2 billion dollars.

NEW INTELLIGENCE COORDINATING AGENCY HEAD NAMED

HK230112 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0000 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] President Corazon Aquino yesterday swore in retired Brigadier General Luis Villareal as director of the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency [NICA]. Villareal is [words indistinct] of the armed forces. Attending the swearing-in ceremony were Brigadier General Ramon (Montallo), retired Brigadier General Jesus (Singson), the acting NICA deputy director general, and other top military officials.

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 165 26 August 1986

NORTH KOREA

Kim Il-song Receives PRC's Qin Jiwei 25 Aug D 1
PRC Youth Delegation Welcomed at Banquets, Rallies D 1
    20 Aug Banquet D 1
    LSWYK Chairman Speaks 21 Aug D 2
    PRC Official Speaks 21 Aug D 5
Panpyong Rally Urges Hard Work in Building Dam D 8
    Gen. Kim Chi-tok Speaks D 8
    Gen. Kim Chae-hyong Speaks D 11

SOUTH KOREA

Chon Makes Large-Scale Cabinet Reorganization E 1
    All Cabinet Members Resign E 1
    New Cabinet Members Profiled E 1
    DJP, KNP Spokesmen Comment E 2

MONGOLIA

Batmonh Leaves Moscow, Arrives in CSSR F 1
Dugersuren Receives SRV, Lao Ambassadors F 1
    Envoys Laud USSR-PRC Ties F 1

CAMBODIA

Hun Sen Receives Visiting Lao Delegation H 1
CGDK Spokesman Comments on 'Farce' in Hanoi [VONADK] H 1
CGDK Foreign Ministry on Nonaligned Movement [VONADK] H 2

THAILAND

Highlights of Government Policy Statement Given J 1
Senators Charge Deputy Minister With Lese Majeste [BANGKOK WORLD 22 Aug] J 1
    Wira Prepared for Defense [BANGKOK POST 23 Aug] J 3
    Wira May Seek Pardon J 4
Navy Secretary Reports on Border Situation J 4

VIETNAM

Ho Chi Minh Order Conferred on USSR's Ligachev K 1
Indochinese Financial Ministers Meet in Hanoi K 1
Pham Van Dong Meets Lao, PRK Finance Ministers K 1
New Nicaraguan Envoy Presents Credentials 20 Aug K 2
AFP Reports Opposition Leader Sentenced to Death K 2
NHAN DAN Urges Perfection of Committee Echelons [21 Aug] K 2
Localities Hold Basic Level Party Congresses K 4
Military Regions Study Party Political Report K 5

VPA Units Study Draft Political Report K 5

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Dawkins Explains Uranium Sales to France M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Defense Inquiry Committee Cites Options M 1
[THE EVENING POST 21 Aug]
Ministers 'Misrepresented ANZS' M 4
[THE EVENING POST 21 Aug]

INDONESIA

Philippines' Aquino Arrives in Jakarta 24 Aug N 1
Suharto Hosts State Banquet for Aquino, Party N 1
  Suharto, Aquino Speeches Cited N 1
  AFP on Speeches N 2
Suharto, Aquino Hold Talks at Merdeka Palace N 3
  Philippine Radio on Talks N 3
Memoranda of Understanding Signed; Aquino Leaves N 4
Jakarta Papers Comment on Aquino Visit N 4
Mokhtar Comments on Upcoming Nonaligned Meeting N 5

PHILIPPINES

MNLF's Nur Misuari To Meet Aquino in September P 1
Enrile Discusses Communist Insurgency With Lugar P 1
  Sees No Change in Army Plans P 1
  [THE MANILA EVENING POST 20 Aug]
  Reporter 'Bugged' Talks P 2
  [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 24 Aug]
  'Strained' U.S. Ties Seen P 2
  [MANILA BULLETIN 22 Aug]
20,000 Loyalists in Funeral March for Slain Leader P 3
  2 Suspects in Killing Surrender P 3
NDF Talks Panel To Surface After Safety Guarantee [AFP] P 4

KIM IL-SONG RECEIVES PRC'S QIN JIWEI 25 AUG

SK251101 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1044 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 25 (KCNA) -- The great leader President Kim Il-song on August 25 received Qin Jiwei, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the C.C., the Communist Party of China, and commander of the Beijing units of the Chinese People's Liberation Army and army corps commander of the former Chinese people's volunteers, and his party.

On hand were Comrade O Kuk-yol, member of the Political Bureau of the C.C., the Workers' Party of Korea and chief of the General Staff of the Korean People's Army, and colonel general of the KPA Pak Chung-kuk. Present were Zong Kewen, Chinese ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Korea, and his embassy officials.

President Kim Il-song had a warm and friendly talk with the guests. Commander Qin Jiwei presented a gift to President Kim Il-song. President Kim Il-song arranged a luncheon for the guests.

PRC YOUTH DELEGATION WELCOMED AT BANQUETS, RALLIES

20 Aug Banquet

SK220607 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] The LSWYK Central Committee arranged a banquet at the People's Palace of Culture on the evening of 20 August in honor of the visiting Chinese youth delegation. Invited to the banquet were the members of the delegation headed by Song Defu, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Youth league of China [CYLC], Zong Kewen, PRC ambassador to the DPRK.

Present at the banquet were Comrade Kim Hwan, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the WPK Central Committee; Ho Chong-suk, secretary of the WPK Central Committee; Choe Yong-hae, chairman of the LSWYK Central Committee; and the functionaries of the relevant sector, including Pak Song-pom, Yi Won-kuk, Kim Chong-ho, O Mun-hwan, and Hong Il-chon.

Chairman Choe Yong-hae spoke at the banquet. First he warmly welcomed the visit to our country by the Chinese youth delegation, and said that the delegation's visit will provide an important opportunity in strengthening and developing the fraternal friendship and unity between the youth of Korea and China.

He noted the successes being attained by the Chinese people and youths in construction of the four modernizations, and said the CYLC is carrying out practical and active activity to bring its work closer to reality and to improve the less developed fields, and that it is attaining many successes in the struggle to carry out the Seventh 5-Year Plan, realize the four modernizations, and reunify the whole country to returning Taiwan to the homeland.

He noted that today the Chinese youth are properly preparing themselves as a new generation of communists through active movements such as the movement of learning from Lei Feng, and said he sincerely wishes them greater success in the future.

He said the visit to China last year by the Korean youth friendship delegation and this visit to our country by the Chinese youth delegation are a clear manifestation of the firm determination of the youth of the two countries to keep in bloom generation-to-generation the great Korean-Chinese friendship cemented in blood.

He then noted that all the Korean youths value highly the great Korean-Chinese friendship based on the close intimacy between the leaders of the two countries, and will make all efforts to add luster to it.

First Secretary Song Defu spoke next. He said he is very glad to visit the Korean youths, who have a revolutionary tradition, at a time when the 25th anniversary of the signing of the China-Korea Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance is being observed and when the Korean national holiday is being celebrated.

He noted that thanks to the warm consideration of the leaders of China and Korea, the friendly visits between the youth of the two countries have been increasing with each passing day in recent years and said that the delegation's visit to Korea is aimed at actively helping strengthen friendship and cooperation between the youth organizations and youths of China and Korea, and peace and progress.

He said they know well that the LSWYK is playing an important role in carrying out the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- and that it has rich experience in various kinds of work such as arming the youth with revolutionary traditions, communist morality, and the knowledge of advanced science and culture.

He said the Chinese youths are deeply interested in the socialist construction of Korea and sincerely rejoice over the achievements made by the Korean people. He said that they resolutely support the Korean comrades in their cause for independent and peaceful reunification of the country and noted that they are certain Korea will be reunified by the serious efforts of the Korean people and youth.

He noted that they will come to know better, through this visit, about the great friendship between the peoples of China and Korea and about the cause of the Korean people's socialist construction. He expressed the resolve to develop Chinese-Korean friendship forever generation to generation.

The participants in the banquet toasted the beautiful future of Korean-Chinese friendship, the long life and good health of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, the long life and good health of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il, the long life and good health of the respected Comrade Hu Yaobang, the respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping, and the respected Comrade Li Xiannian.

LSWYK Chairman Speaks 21 May

SK220846 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1230 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Speech by Choe Yong-hae, chairman of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth in Korea, at a rally of the youths and students of Pyongyang held to welcome a PRC youth delegation at the People's Palace of Culture on the afternoon of 21 August -- portions recorded]

[Text] [Begin recording] Respected First Secretary Comrade Song Defu; dear comrades of the Chinese youth delegation; comrades:

Today, the youths and students of Pyongyang have gathered here to reflect the sentiment of all Korean youth who cordially receive and warmly welcome the Chinese youth delegation that has come to our country with the sentiment of friendship.

Availing myself of this opportunity and on behalf of the LSWYK Central Committee and the Korean youth and students, I warmly welcome the visit to our country of the Chinese youth delegation led by Comrade Song Defu, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Youth League of China. [applause]

During our people's great fatherland liberation war, the warriors of the Chinese People's Volunteers, under the banner "Resist America, aid Korea, safeguard home, and defend the nation," crossed the railway bridge at the Yalu River with guns on their shoulders and displayed their peerless heroism in battles against the U.S. imperialist aggressors, the common enemy. Today, comrades of the Chinese youth delegation, the sons and daughters of those warriors of the volunteers who fought at that time, have crossed the same railway bridge, following in the footsteps of their fathers, to visit our country. This is indeed a meaningful event.

The current visit to our country by the Chinese youth delegation in this meaningful year marking the 25th anniversary of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, once again shows the firm determination of the youth of the two countries to inherit the blood-sealed Korean-Chinese friendship generation after generation. This will provide a very significant opportunity for further deepening support and cooperation between the youth of the two countries.

Today, under the wise leadership of the CPC, on the vast soil of China, great changes are taking place. By firmly uniting around the CPC, the Chinese people and youth are accelerating material and spiritual civilization according to the program of socialist modernization. They are bringing about new upsurges in areas of industry, agriculture, national defense, science and technology, and in all other areas. As the shock brigades for building socialist material civilization and as the vanguards for building socialist spiritual civilization, the Chinese youth play a great role in the struggle to build China into a highly civilized and modernized socialist power. Under the slogan "Let us struggle for prosperity and the development of the fatherland and for the people's happiness," the Chinese youth are actively helping modernize their country and prepare themselves as the new communist generations with ideals, morality, culture, and discipline through the five-stresses, four-beauties, and three-loves campaign; through the Long March shock-brigade movement; and through the movement to learn from Leifeng.

All changes now taking place in China show that the policies and lines the CPC has recently put forward agree with the prevailing situation of China and with the wish of the Chinese people.

Our Korean youth consider the successes being won by the fraternal Chinese people and youth to be as precious as their own, and extend congratulations with pleasure. [applause]

Today, the Korean youth sincerely wish the Chinese people and youth even greater success in the struggle to build their country into an advanced socialist power with modernized industry, agriculture, national defense, science, and technology by upholding the decision of the 12th CPC Congress. [applause] [end recording]

Continuing, he stated that today, under the wise leadership of the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song and under the banner of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- the Korean youth are excellently assuming the role of vanguards and shock brigades in the difficult areas of socialist construction.

He noted that today, our youth face the honorable but heavy tasks of reunifying the divided fatherland and attaining the 10 long-range goals of socialist economic construction ahead of schedule. He stated that the youth will pursue these tasks to the very end. He indicated that the Chinese people and youth, as in the past, still support and encourage our people's socialist construction and their cause for the fatherland's reunification wholeheartedly and actively. He extended deep gratitude to the Communist Youth League of China and the Chinese youths.

He went on to add: [Begin recording] Korea and China are intimate neighboring countries linked by the same mountains and rivers. Friendly relations between the people and youth of Korea and China are not ordinary relations, but militant relations established and strengthened through prolonged struggle against a common enemy. At the same time, they are comradely relations between class brothers who have shared their fates and joys and sorrows with one another under all circumstances.

The Korean-Chinese friendship established and developed by the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song and by the great leader of the Chinese people Comrade Mao Zedong and the respected Comrade Zhou Enlai is now developing onto an even higher stage following visits in recent years to China by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il and to Korea by respected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping. As a result, today, Korean-Chinese friendship has become a living example of friendly relations based on proletarian internationalism, which will never falter and shake in any storm.

Today, noble duties are placed on the shoulders of the youth of the two countries to inherit and develop generation after generation Korean-Chinese friendship based on the special intimate relations between the leaders of the two countries.

Amid the deep interest of the leaders of Korea and China, the youth of the two countries paid mutual visits and conducted friendly activities in the two countries last year. The mutual visits and friendly activities continue this year, as well. This is a meaningful event which writes a shining chapter in the history of friendship between the youth of the two countries.

All LSWYK members and youth will continue to make every effort to cherish Korean-Chinese friendship and bring it to fuller bloom generation after generation.

As in the past, our Korean youth will advance shoulder-to-shoulder with the fraternal Chinese youth through all eternity along the single road of sacred struggle for the victory of peace and friendship and socialism and communism. [applause]

Long live the great blood-sealed Korean-Chinese friendship! [applause]

Long live the eternal fraternal friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese youths! [applause]

PRC Official Speaks 21 Aug

SK220950 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1230 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Speech by Song Defu, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Youth League of China, at a rally of youth and students of Pyongyang held to welcome a PRC youth delegation at the People's Palace of Culture on the afternoon of 21 August -- portions recorded, in Mandarin with superimposed translations]

[Text] [Begin recording] Respected Chairman Comrade Choe Yong-hae; dear young Korean friends; comrades:

Today, the LSWYK and the youth of Pyongyang have organized this splendid and warm rally to welcome us. The 200 members of our Chinese youth delegation have been deeply moved by this. They are very pleased and feel great honor in this regard. Representing the Central Committee of the Communist Youth League of China and the 300 million Chinese youth, I extend wholehearted gratitude and warm greetings to all Korean youth. [applause]

Entering the beautiful soil of Korea, our minds began to overflow with joy. At the Sinuiju railway station, we received an extremely warm welcome. The smiling faces of the Sinuiju youth and their flower bouquets are still vivid in our hearts. At the Pyongyang railway stations, we received an even more splendid welcome. The sound of drums beaten by Pyongyang youth and their songs still echoes in our ears. We feel as if we have been submerged in a sea of friendship between the youth of China and Korea.

Comrades, the friendship between the youth of China and Korea has a special history and meaning. Earlier, during the thirties and forties, under the leadership of the great leader of the Chinese people Comrade Mao Zedong and the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song, the youth of China and Korea gallantly waged the joint struggle against foreign aggression. Then, during the fifties, they again participated shoulder-to-shoulder in the great struggle to safeguard the homeland and defend the nation. They bled together and sang militant songs together. Their banners of victory fluttered together. Today, the youth of China and Korea have inherited the torch of friendship from their seniors and raised it even higher.

This year, under the warm consideration of General Secretary Hu Yaobang and President Kim Il-song, mutual visits between the youth organizations of China and Korea are increasing. In particular, this time last year, in that shining August the Korean youth friendship tourist group visited China and participated in the joint friendship gathering of Chinese and Korean youths. As a result, the friendship between the youth of China and Korea has reached a new stage. The Korean youth have brought the deep friendship of the Korean youth and the precious work experience of the LSWYK to us. At the same time, they have also brought the lively spiritual traits of the Korean youth to us.

Dear young Korean comrades, yesterday we arrived in Pyongyang via Sinuiju by train. En route to Pyongyang, we saw the beautiful mountains and rivers of Korea and witnessed the active socialist construction carried out by the Korean people. Arriving in Pyongyang, we saw the beautiful and magnificent city. We experienced wholehearted admiration for the great successes of the Korean people.

Recently we have been pleased with the Korean people at the splendid dedication of the huge Nampo Lockgate. We sincerely hope that you will occupy the new heights of economic construction one-by-one with the Chollima spirit and speed under the leadership of the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song. [applause]

The four economic constructions of China are also reaching a new stage. We have put forward a huge and great development plan. The plan envisages a fourfold increase in the industrial and agricultural production of our country until the end of this century beginning with 1981. Thus, the plan seeks to make the people's standard of living reach a (?relatively) sufficient level and to make the economy of our country reach the level of developed countries of the world until the middle of the next century.

To attain this goal, our country is presently seeking comprehensive and planned reform and opening its doors. As a result of efforts exerted over the past 6 or 7 years, our country's reform and open-door policy is already bringing primary effects. The people's economy of our country has already been placed on the track of continued, stabilized, and balanced development. At the same time, the people's standard of living is gradually improving. The people of the entire country are satisfied with this and China's youth are full of confidence in the prospect of the development of China. [applause]

Dear comrades of the LSWYK, the Communist Youth League of China is greatly interested in the success that has been won in the work of the LSWYK. As is known, the Korean comrades are winning great achievements in carrying out the campaign to learn from the childhood and youth of the great leader and the campaign to follow young communists of the past. This will exercise a deep and great influence on Korean youths.

The recent Korean comrades' discussion of the fatherland and loyalty has made the Korean youths closely link their noble patriotism with their specific combat goals. The speed battle and the young shock brigades organized by you play important roles in the socialist construction of Korea.

In addition, we know that the Korean comrades' 10,000-page book reading campaign, their campaign to (?follow the unheralded heroes), and their three revolutions movement have become a great driving force to nurture revolutionary intellectuals in Korea. We sincerely rejoice over the successes you have won. We admire them and extend our sincere congratulations to you in this regard. [applause] [end recording]

Continuing, he stated that the Chinese youths, under the wise leadership of the CPC, are accelerating material and spiritual civilization according to the socialist modernization program. He noted the great successes being won in industry, agriculture, national defense, science, technology, and all other areas. He stated that the Chinese people and youth truly rejoice over the successes the Korean youth are winning in socialist construction under the wise leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and our party, and under the banner of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural.

He went on to add: [begin recording] Dear young Korean comrades, because we are friendly neighbors linked by the same mountains and rivers and we share the great history of the joint struggle, the Chinese youth are greatly interested in the Korean people's cause of the fatherland's reunification and watch the situation on the Korean peninsula closely.

To alleviate the situation on the Korean peninsula and achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland, the WPK and the government of the Republic have put forth a series of rational assertions and important proposals on many occasions. This has earned broad support and (?encouragement) in the international community.

In particular, President Kim Il-song has put forth the proposal for establishing the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo. By doing so, he has illuminated the path to the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea, the common wish of the Korean people.

The Chinese youth firmly support the Korean people's just stand and all their rational assertions. [applause]

We firmly believe that an independent, sovereign, prosperous, and developing reunified Korea will certainly appear in the Far East. [applause]

We sincerely hope that the time will come soon when the youth of the North and South make joint efforts hand-in-hand with one another and devote their youth and strength to the development of the Korean nation. [applause]

Comrades, before I finish my speech, along with all comrades I would like to recall remarks made by President Kim Il-song and General Secretary Hu Yaobang.

On 6 September 1983, as a member of the delegation of the Communist Youth League of China led by Comrade Wang Zhaoguo, I had the honor of being cordially received by President Kim Il-song at the Kumsusan Assembly Hall. Comrade Kim Il-song told us: You comrades are visiting our country this time. In the past, too, CPC and Chinese youth delegations frequently visited our country. Every visit further developed the friendship between our two countries. As you comrades say, we also cherish the Korean-Chinese friendship as the apple of our eye. Our friendship should be inherited generation after generation.

On 24 August 1985, at the Great Hall of the People in Beijing, I had the honor of being present at General Secretary Hu Yaobang's reception of comrades of the Korean youth friendship tourist group. Comrade Hu Yaobang told the Korean comrades: This time, 500 Korean comrades have come to China to participate in the joint gathering. This is of great significance. The (?militant) friendship between our parties, governments, and people has a history of several decades. The Korean comrades' visit to China shows that the young generations of our two countries are inheriting and developing this friendship. I believe that the young generations of the two countries will do much better than our generations in handling their domestic and foreign affairs and relations between the two countries.

The remarks by Comrade Hu Yaobang and President Kim Il-song fully show the ardent desire of the (?elderly) proletarian revolutionaries of China and Korea, who hope that the youth of our two countries will continue to develop Chinese-Korean friendship forever.

As this splendid gathering shows in itself, I (?believe) that the youth of our two countries will never betray the expectations of their seniors. I believe that the great Chinese-Korean friendship based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism will shine forever. At the same time, I firmly believe that the tree of blood-sealed friendship between the people of China and Korea will be made evergreen by the young strength of the young generations of our two countries and by their sweat. [applause]

Long live the great friendship between the people of China and Korea! [applause] [end recording]

PANPYONG RALLY URGES HARD WORK IN BUILDING DAM

Gen. Kim Chi-tok Speaks

SK240316 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 0800 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Report on speech by DPRK Lieutenant General Kim Chi-tok at a rally of builders of the Panpyong Dam of the Taechon power plant held at the Panpyong Dam on 22 August to accelerate the march of the eighties in the way the Nampo lockgate was built -- with portions recorded]

[Text] [Begin Kim recording] Comrades: In today's environment of upsurge in which all the people in the country, who are full of new hope and conviction in victory, are effecting a great upswing in the revolution and construction under the grand programs for socialist economic construction unfolded by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, we are holding this significant meeting to urge completion of the Panpyong Dam of the Taechon power plant within the designated period of time by thoroughly implementing the political slogans of the party to accelerate the march of the eighties in the same way the Nampo lockgate was built and to call on party members and working people throughout the nation to implement the party's slogans.

Under the wise leadership of the party and leader, enormous construction struggles are being staged in various parts of the country to erect great creations that will stand for thousands of years to come.

Following completion of the Nampo lockgate within a short period of time, a monumental edifice of the era of the Workers' Party which has displayed before the whole world the indomitable might and heroic mettle of chuche Korea, our people are energetically pushing ahead with such enormous construction on a great scale of strategic significance in economic construction as the Taechon power plant, the Sunchon vinalon complex, the Kimgangsan power plant, the Sariwon Kali fertilizer plant, salt pans, and tideland reclamation by continuously displaying fiery revolutionary zeal and indomitable fighting spirit.

This enormous construction struggle is not only an honorable and rewarding struggle designed to strengthen the might of our country's self-reliant national economy to the utmost extent and to perfectly solve the issue of feeding, clothing, and providing the people with dwellings, but is also a sacred struggle designed to hasten consummation of the socialist and communist cause ahead by ensuring national wealth for national prosperity and happiness to hand down to generations to come.

Heartily accepting and brilliantly completing such a grand task of economic construction, the purpose of which is to endlessly strengthen the economic might of the prospering socialist fatherland, is the most honorable revolutionary duty and rewarding combat task for all of our party members and people. In order to successfully implement the enormous construction work, which reflects the strategic plans of our party, within the shortest possible period of time, we should do everything in the same way the Nampo lockgate was built.

The dear Comrade Kim Chong-il, who has always led our party and people on a single-track road of victory and glory, has given us programmatic words calling for another great revolutionary upsurge on all fronts of socialist construction in the very spirit and mettle as that used in building the Nampo lockgate within 5 years based on our own drawings with our own technology and materials, and in our own way. He has also presented us with the militant slogan: "Let us energetically hasten the march of the eighties in the same way that the Nampo lockgate was built!"

Contained in this militant slogan of the party are the high intentions of our party determined to proudly display before the whole world the heroic (?mettle) and might of chuche Korea -- which makes endless renovations and endless advances by accelerating the speed of the march of the eighties in the spirit of the Chollima speed battle -- and to provide our people with a happier future. Also pulsing in this slogan is the rock-firm will of our party now determined to hasten the realization of national reunification -- after crushing the aggression and maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists and the fascist puppet Chon Tu-hwan clique to provoke war -- by strengthening our country's political and economic might to the fullest extent.

Energetically hastening the march of the eighties in the way the Nampo lockgate was built means struggling and advancing in the spirit and mettle of absoluteness and unconditionality in assuming the demands of the party and the demands of the revolution as a paramount fighting (?task), and of carrying them out without fail.

The builders of the Nampo lockgate have lived and worked as wished and intended by the party and leader, with an unwavering conviction that there is nothing they cannot do once it is decided by our party. [end recording]

After noting the proud successes attained by the builders of the Nampo lockgate who have wonderfully built the Nampo lockgate as a great monumental creation of the era of the Workers' Party under the wise leadership of the great leader and our party, the speaker continued, saying that hastening the march of the eighties is a course of embodying the fighting spirit and work methods to do everything boldly and daringly with the unrivaled pluckiness implanted in them by the party. He continued:

[Begin recording] The domain that must be given priority in producing a breakthrough for the march of the eighties is the electric industry. More electric power is demanded on all fronts of socialist construction. Only when the electric industry is given priority can all domains and units of the national economy create changes and miracles.

With the same faith and love he assigned to the KPA builders of the Nampo lockgate, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has now put our builders of the Panpyong Dam of the Taechon power plant in the lead of the struggle designed to hasten the march of the eighties in the way the Nampo lockgate was built.

We should create world-startling new miracles at the construction site of the Panpyong Dam just as the builders of the Nampo lockgate have created a great miracle of the era of the Worker's Party while fully displaying the spirit of heroic Korea, by cherishing the faith and honor the great leader has placed in us.

We should unconditionally and thoroughly implement the great leader's order to hasten construction of the Panpyong Dam with boundless loyalty to the party and leader by displaying [word indistinct] and revolution-mindedness.

The Nampo lockgate is a great creation which has been erected thanks to the endless loyalty and indomitable fighting spirit of the heroic KPA soldiers, who carry out anything that the party and leader order and instruct them to do without fail, going through water and fire, even at the cost of their lives.

All fighting members should unconditionally complete construction of the Panpyong Dam brilliantly within the designated period of time.

They should do so in order to display an indomitable and persistent revolutionary spirit and mass heroism on a single road of loyalty in implementing the order and instructions of the great leader, similar to the young communists of the (?1920's), the anti-Japanese revolutionary fighters, and the heroic warriors on the Wolmido.

Next, we should solve all problems arising in building the Panpyong Dam on our own by highly displaying the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and arduous struggle.

The revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and arduous struggle is a militant banner that flew over the forest of Mt Paektu. It is also a banner of struggle that firmly guarantees success for creation and construction in the present era. We should organize the engineering and power bases and repair bases well, repair and produce facilities and (?bulldozers) on our own, and then fully operate them at all times in the revolutionary spirit of doing everything on our own [words indistinct].

The successes attained by the builders of the Nampo lockgate, who built a world renowned lockgate in just 5 years, has once again proven that we have nothing to fear and that there is nothing we cannot do when we solve everything in our own way on the basis of our own strength, our technology, and our way of building.

All scientists, engineers, and soldier-builders should create new renovations and miracles without interruption, upholding the party's revolutionary slogans calling for advancement in our own way, by positively introducing new ways of building in all battlefields and by vigorously launching the mass technology-renovation movement to energetically hasten construction of the Panpyong Dam in the way the Nampo lockgate was built.

On the whole, the conditions governing construction of the Panpyong Dam urgently require that we mobilize and utilize reserves and potential to the fullest extent more thoroughly than in any other place.

All fighting members should use available labor, available facilities, and available materials for construction by organizing all construction works more thoroughly by conserving all facilities and materials as much as possible, and by mobilizing idle facilities and materials to the fullest extent. Doing everything boldly and in a daring manner by meticulously planning and supervising combat organization and command is a principle of doing business consistently maintained by our party. Only when we set our minds on high goals and [words indistinct] in all works do we find enthusiasm welling up in us and find them greatly worth struggling for.

Commanding officers and soldier-builders participating in construction of the dam should set high combat goals and carry the goals out in a daring manner in order to create endless renovations and upsurges on all battlefields.

Further raising the combat function and role of [word indistinct] meticulously planning and supervising combat organization and command, and establishing revolutionary discipline within the unit are the prerequisites for successfully carrying out the vast revolutionary tasks facing us.

Commanding officers and functionaries of the staff office should push ahead with the construction plan by pursuing daily, weekly, and monthly targets without the slightest hitch and guaranteeing the speed and quality of construction at the highest level in the same way the builders of the Nampo lockgate did, by boldly and in a daring manner pushing ahead with the work and by dextrously commanding production and construction based on innovative initiatives, ideas, and scientific calculations.

Commanding officers holding the steering wheel of the revolution should [words indistinct], share [words indistinct] with the soldier-builders, and solve pending issues in a timely manner. All party organizations and commanding officers in the unit should [words indistinct] and give firm priority to political works in all battlefields that beat the revloutionary drum loudly. All functionaries and organizational agitation functionaries in the unit should see to it that new miracles and renovations are effected on all battlefields by mounting economic agitation that grips the soldier masses' hearts. All commanding officers in the unit should always remember that rear work is combat work and should pay deep attention to this.

Although our struggle tasks are hard and vast, our victory is sure. No fortresses that are hard to occupy will be waylaid along the advancing road of our revolutionary ranks if the party and leader are followed with loyalty. Our revolutionary ranks will always find victory and glory along their advancing road. Let us all bring joy to the party and leader and vigorously display the indomitable might and heroic spirit of the chuche Korea by taking the lead in the solemn struggle of hastening the great march of the eighties in the same way the Nampo lockgate was built and by creating once again heroic exploits and miracles in creation of the era of the workers' party. [end recording] [shout of slogans]

Gen. Kim Chae-hyong Speaks

SK240344 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 0800 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Report on speech by KPA Major General Kim Chae-hyong at a Rally of Builders of the Panpyong Dam of the Taechon Power Plant held at Panpyong Dam on 22 August -- portions recorded]

[Text] Discussions were held at a rally of builders of the Panpyong Dam of the Taechong Power Plant. Major General Kim Chae-hyong, who first participated in the discussions, stated that the construction project of the Panpyong Dam of the Taechon power plant is a glorious and rewarding struggle to realize the far-sighted plan of the great leader and our party to more smoothly resolve the country's electric power problem, to more smoothly supply water to newly reclaimed tidelands, and to provide tha people with a more civilized and affluent life by developing the country's economy.

He continued: [Begin Kim recording] Firmly grasping the party slogan, "Let us vigorously accelerate the march of the eighties with the spirit of construction of the Namo Lockgate," I will effect new revolutionary upsurges in building the Panpyong Dam by more vigorously and scientifically organizing and commanding the Panpyong Dam construction battle while following the revolutionary spirit and workstyle displayed by the builders of the Nampo Lockgate. I will firmly prepare myself to become a member of the revolution who unconditionally carries out the demands of the party and the revolution and who unconditionally and thoroughly carries out the orders and instructions of the party and the leader by displaying an indomitable revolutionary spirit like the anti-Japanese revolutionary fighter Comrade (O Chong-ok), who carried out the orders of the great leader without fail.

I will further strengthen the guidance, inspection, and supervision of overall construction by decisively enhancing the role of commanders and staffs at the units of all levels. I will not only firmly grasp the overall construction situation, including the work of supplying materials, equipment, and facilities, but also more scientifically, freshly, vigorously, and aggressively carry out the combat organization and command work of the builders. Thereby I will maintain construction speed at a high level.

Construction of the Panpyong Dam, a grand nature-remaking project, demands that we carry out everything in dam construction with revolutionary initiative and creative positiveness, and in conformity with the demands of the chuche idea. I will carry out the construction boldly and broadly from the planning stage without adhering to the existing construction formula, methods, and techniques. I will adopt all possible construction methods of our own and carry out the construction in conformity with the characteristics of the (?terrain) of the construction site. Thus, I will enhance the construction speed to the maximum while guaranteeing the quality of construction.

We will mobilize to the maximum the revolutionary zeal and creative wisdom of all scientists, technicians, construction soldiers and all other workers involved in building the Panpyong Dam by frequently holding [word indistinct] staff meetings and technical functionaries' consultative meetings, and by supporting the soldiers' consultative meetings at the construction site. We will also actively encourage and accept new innovative suggestions for construction presented by these people. Thus, I will establish the revolutionary work habit of completing the construction collectively.

We will not adhere to existing construction methods but will adopt such new methods as placing concrete by (?belt), directly placing concrete by (?truck), and placing concrete by [word indistinct]. Thus, we will carry out 5,000 cubic meters of the concrete placing work everyday by [words indistinct]. In particular, we will continue the dam construction even during winter without letup by vigorously waging the struggle to study and adopt new construction methods which allow concrete placing work during winter.

The Panpyong Dam's construction can be brilliantly successful only if we live and struggle with peerless sacrifice, massive heroism, an indomitable fighting spirit, and the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and fortitude. I, together with all soldiers at the unit, will effect a new revolutionary upsurge in the Panpyong Dam's construction by deeply recognizing that the Panpyong Dam construction is a war without guns and a battle without flames, equivalent to the battles at hills 1211 and 351, and highly displaying the soldiers' spirit of defending the party, the leader, and the fatherland, and the spirit of absoluteness and unconditionality which does not break the order of the party and the leader even for a minute or a second. [end Kim recording]

CHON MAKES LARGE-SCALE CABINET REORGANIZATION

All Cabinet Members Resign

SK260118 Seoul YONHAP in English 0112 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 26 (YONHAP) -- All cabinet members of the South Korean Government Tuesday tendered their resignations to President Chon Tu-hwan, hinting at an imminent major reshuffle of the cabinet members following the recent changes in the leadership of the ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP). The cabinet members submitted their resignation paper en bloc in an abruptly called extraordinary meeting held in the morning. The extent of the reshuffle is expected to be greater than has been anticipated because all cabinet members made their resignations, political sources here said.

New Cabinet Members Profiled

SK260552 Seoul YONHAP in English 0525 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 26 (YONHAP) -- Following are brief profiles of South Korea's newly appointed cabinet members:

Choe Kwang-su, the new foreign minister, was born in 1935 and he graduated from Seoul National University's (SNU's) Law College in 1956. In 1959, he completed his studies at Georgetown University in the United States. After passing the civil service exam in 1956, Choe went to work at the Foreign Ministry. He became director-general of the ministry's Asian Affairs Bureau in 1971 and chief of the presidential secretariat in 1979. Choe served as communications minister from 1981 to 1982 and as ambassador to Saudi Arabia in 1983. He was named ambassador to the United Nations in 1985.

The newly appointed home affairs minister, Kim Chong-ho, was born in 1935. He graduated from the SNU Law College in 1959 and from the university's Graduate School of Public Administration in 1962. He was appointed as presidential secretary for political affairs in 1974 and as governor of North Chungchong Province in 1980, when he was named vice home affairs minister. Kim was elected to the National Assembly in 1981 and was reelected in 1985.

Yi Hon-ki, the new labor affairs minister, was born in 1938 and he graduated from Korea University's graduate school in 1964. He became vice secretary general of the Federation of Korea Trade Unions in 1977 and began work as a professor at Tongguk University in Seoul in 1980. Yi served in the 11th National Assembly from 1981 to 1983, when he was appointed vice minister of the health and social affairs ministry.

Yi Tae-sun, the new communications minister, was born in 1933 and he graduated from the SNU Law College in 1957. He entered the Education Ministry in 1964 and was later promoted to director of the ministry's Higher Education Bureau. He was elected to the National Assembly in 1981 and again in 1985. Before he was appointed to his new post, Rep. Yi served as the DJP's vice secretary general.

The new trade and industry minister, Na Ung-pae, was born in 1934 and he graduated from SNU in 1957. He later earned a doctorate in business management from California University. Before he was elected to the National Assembly as a member of the DJP in 1981, Na served as a professor at SNU from 1965 to 1972 and as president of Hankook Tire Manufacturing Co. in 1980.

Rep. Na also served as director of the DJP's Policy Coordination Office.

Cha Kyu-hon, the new transportation minister, was born in 1929 and he graduated in the eighth class from the Korean Military Academy in 1949. He became assistant army chief of staff in 1980. After retiring from the army as a general in 1983, he served as chairman of the National Security Planning Council's Emergency Planning Committee.

Yi Ung-hui, culture and public information minister, was born in 1931 and graduated from engineering college of Seoul National University in 1955. Yi started his career as a journalist at TONG-A ILBO in 1953 and worked for the daily for 21 years before serving as presidential spokesman. He became the president of the Munhwa Broadcasting Corp. in 1982 and the chairman of the press center earlier this year.

Yi Tae-sop, science and technology minister, was born in 1939 and graduated from engineering college of Seoul National University in 1962. Yi received a doctorate of engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the United States in 1966. He became a lawmaker of the former Democratic Republican Party in 1979 after serving in Korea's business circle. He also served as a lawmaker of the ruling Democratic Justice Party and chairman of the National Assembly's Commerce and Industry Committee as well as first minister of state political affairs.

Ho Mun-to, National Unification Board Minister, was born in 1940 and graduated from agriculture college of Seoul National University in 1964. Ho became a reporter at CHOSON IBLO, a vernacular daily, in that year and an information officer at the Korean Embassy in Tokyo in 1979. He also served as vice culture and public information minister and first presidential secretary for political affairs.

Yi Se-ki, sports minister, was born in 1936 and graduated from Korea University in 1961 and got a doctorate of political science from the university in 1965. Yi taught at the university for 10 years before becoming a lawmaker of the DJP in 1981. He served as unification board minister and floor leader of the ruling party.

DJP, KNP Spokesmen Comment

SK260450 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 0400 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Sim Myong-po, DJP spokesman, said that he warmly welcomes the cabinet reshuffle, noting that it intensely reflects the will of President Chon Tu-hwan to gloriously conclude his labor stage of power and to guide the political situation for constitutional revision. Spokesman Sim Myong-po said he expects that with appointment of the assemblymen belonging to the DJP and chairman of local chapters, the new cabinet will strive to embody the president's political ideals and the DJP's five-point ideals.

Meanwhile, Choe Yong-han, KNP spokesman, pointed out in a statement issued in connection with the cabinet reshuffle that the will of the government for responsible politics is not fully reflected in the cabinet reshuffle. He stressed that the new cabinet members should play a role in reforming the politics of the state by removing the people's distrust and correctly grasping the source of genuine public sentiment.

BATMONH LEAVES MOSCOW, ARRIVES IN CSSR

OW180426 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1333 GMT 16 Aug 86

[From 16 August press review]

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 16 Aug (MONTSAME) -- UNEN prominently reports on the departure of Jambyn Batmonh, General Secretary o the MPRP Central Committee and chairman of the MPR People's Great Hural Presidium, from Moscow and his arrival in Prague, at the invitation of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia Central Committee.

DUGERSUREN RECEIVES SRV, LAO AMBASSADORS

OW220421 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1411 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 20 Aug (Montsame) -- M. Dugersuren, MPR minister of foreign affairs, received today Tran Trung, SRV ambassador to the MPR, and Khamkeng Saignakeo, LPDR ambassador to the MPR. At the meeting, the ambassadors informed the MPR foreign minister on the results of the 13th regular conference of foreign ministers of the SRV, LPDR, and PRK held in Hanoi.

Comrade M. Dugersuren noted that the foreign ministers conference of the three fraternal Indochinese countries is one of the important events in the international life of Southeast Asia and all Asia. The MPR Government considers that the flexible, constructive initiatives advanced at the conference represent a new [words indistinct] common efforts of the SRV, LPDR, and PRK for a political settlement of the topical problems of the region on the (?principle) of dialogue and a strengthening of the cause of peace, stability, and cooperation in Southeast Asia. As a result of the peaceful initiatives, proposals, and efforts of the Soviet Union and the other fraternal Asian countries, there have been positive changes in the political situation in the Asian region. The decisions of the 13th regular conference will make an important contribution to consolidating these measures, M. Dugersuren emphasized.

Envoys Laud USSR-PRC Ties

OW220758 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1358 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 21 Aug (MONTSAME) -- A Press conference was held today at the SRV Embassy in the MPR at which Tran Trung, SRV ambassador to the MPR, and Khamkeng Saignakeo, LPDR ambassador to the MPR, reported in detail on the (?results) of the conference of SRV, LPDR, and PRK foreign ministers in Hanoi. The ambassadors noted in their addresses the tireless efforts of the Soviet Union for peace and security, for bridling the nuclear arms race and preventing its spread into space. Only through the joint efforts of all countries and peoples can military and political confrontation in the Asian and Pacific region be done away with and conditions for a gradual transformation of this part of the planet into a zone of peace, friendship, and cooperation be created. Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia welcome the improvement of Soviet-Chinese relations. The fraternal Indochinese countries play an important role in the struggle for peace and security in Southeast Asia. The peace-loving positions of these countries correspond with the interests of all peoples of the Asian region and enjoy the broad support of the world's public. At the conference the Indochinese countries expressed their desire to renew friendship with the Chinese people, the ambassadors emphasized.

The press conference was attended by responsible workers of the MPR Ministry of Foreign affairs and correspondents of the mass media. The ambassadors gave detailed responses to journalists' questions.

HUN SEN RECEIVES VISITING LAO DELEGATION

BK251245 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1108 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 25 -- Hun Sen, Politburo member of the Central Committee of the People's Revolutionary Party of Kampuchea, premier and minister for foreign affairs, received in Phnom Penh this morning the visiting delegation of the Lao Ministry of War Veterans and Social Welfare [as received] led by Minister Meun Somvichit [title as received].

Speaking on the occasion, Premier Hun Sen highly welcomed the delegation's visit which, he said, demonstrates another development in social affairs cooperation between Kampuchea and Laos.

Hun Sen said that the two countries had succeded in settling the social problems and that they still continue to settle them for good.

In reply, the Lao minister highly valued the successes of Kampuchea during the past seven years, which, he stressed, have clearly testified to the clearsighted leadership of the KPRP.

CGDK SPOKESMAN COMMENTS ON 'FARCE' IN HANOI

BK210039 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 20 Aug 86

[20 August "Statement" by CGDK Foreign Ministry spokesman]

[Text] Recently, the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors staged in Hanoi another session of the so-called conference of foreign ministers of the Indochinese countries, in which the world is not interested. The world no longer pays any attention to this farce because it realizes that it is all staged by the Vietnamese; other performers simply follow what the Vietnamese have written down. This outdated farce also clearly reflects the impasse and desperation of the Vietnamese in their deceitful diplomatic maneuvers. It shows only the same thing about Vietnam's Indochinese federation. This farce shows the world more clearly the outdated maneuvers of the Vietnamese. The world also realizes that this is echoing Gorbachev's attempt to split the tripartite resistance forces under the CGDK leadership headed by Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of Democratic Kampuchea, and to break the international force supporting the Cambodian people's just struggle in order to improve the Vietnamese quagmire on the battlefield of aggression in Cambodia and to occupy Cambodia militarily forever.

As for Vietnam's statement on the withdrawal of Vietnamese aggressor forces from Cambodia in 1990, the world has already heard it and is fully aware of its real content. Vietnam stated this only to attempt to dupe world opinion which is condemning Vietnam with an increasing number of voices for its aggression against Cambodia and refusal to abide by successive UN resolutions of the past 7 years demanding the unconditional withdrawal of Vietnamese aggressor forces from Cambodia and respect for the Cambodian people's right to self-determination. Vietnam has been stubborn in refusing to settle the Cambodian problem politically as suggested in the CGDK's 8-point peace proposal.

Vietnam has been talking about withdrawing its troops from Cambodia.

In fact, Vietnamese reinforcements have been successively sent to Cambodia to make up for the losses caused by attacks of the tripartitie nationalist resistance forces of the CGDK which deal heavy blows to the Vietnamese every year. The reinforcement forces even exceed those which have been damaged. Apart from this, the Hanoi Vietnamese have been sending Vietnamese nationals to settle in Cambodia, plunder ricefields, villages, lakes, paddy, and fish of the Cambodian people and expel them and make them refugees in their own country or make them flee to Thailand. So far, the number of Vietnamese nationals settling in Cambodia has reached more than 700,000.

All this clearly shows that the Hanoi Vietnamese have not abandoned their strategy of annexing Cambodian territory. However, the Vietnam situation in Cambodia during the past almost 8 years clearly shows that Vietnamese certainly cannot annex Cambodia. As long as the Hanoi Vietnamese refuse to withdraw their aggressor forces from Cambodia, they cannot improve their situation and get out of the impasse on the battlefield of aggression in Cambodia. They cannot improve their difficult situation in Vietnam. And they certainly cannot do anything for their great isolation and disgrace in the international arena.

The CGDK's stand is stated in the press communique of the session of the CGDK cabinet on 11 August 1986. The CGDK is determined to strive to improve the fine situation of the Cambodian people's struggle, particularly to advance the cooperation among the CGDK's tripartite forces. It will strive to advance great unity both in the country and abroad to struggle on until Vietnam agrees to negotiate with the CGDK and withdraw all its aggressor forces from Cambodia.

The best and honorable way out for the Vietnamese aggressors is to accept the CGDK's 8-point proposal dated 17 March 1986.

[Dated] Democratic Kampuchea, 20 August 1986

[Signed] Spokesman of the CGDK Foreign Ministry

CGDK FOREIGN MINISTRY ON NONALIGNED MOVEMENT

BK230052 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 22 Aug 86

[23 August "Statement" by CGDK Foreign Ministry]

[Text] Members of the Nonaligned Movement know that Democratic Kampuchea is a full member of the movement. However, Democratic Kampuchea has been barred from taking part in the movement since 1979 because of a privileged decision by the chairman of the sixth summit in Havana. This decision was in violation of two basic principles of the Nonaligned Movement.

The first principle is that of consensus. At the sixth summit, heads of state, heads of government, and many delegations opposed this decision. In the end, delegates from 20 countries even wrote a letter protesting it. One member country later resigned from the Nonaligned Movement. All this shows that the decision by the chairman of the sixth summit in Havana flagrantly violated the principle of consensus.

The second principle relates to the sacred duty of the Nonaligned Movement; that is the duty to defend the 10 Bandung principles of peaceful coexistence against aggression and interference of one country in another's affairs.

Currently, the Vietnamese aggressors and their accomplices are maneuvering to keep the Cambodian issue from being discussed at the eighth summit to be held in Harare, Zimbabwe in early September. They have deceitfully spread propaganda that they will not demand Cambodia's seat for the Vietnamese puppets in Phnom Penh. They say that the Cambodian issue should not be raised for discussion at the eighth summit using the pretext of avoiding the split of the movement and preserving a good atmosphere. Through this deceiftul slogan, they attempt to pressure the majority of members by accusing in advance those countries which defend the Nonaligned Movement's principles of splitting the movement's solidarity.

This is a dark maneuver attempting to get the Nonaligned Movement to legitimize the Vietnamese act of aggression in Cambodia and expel a country member which is a victim of aggression through the slogan of leaving Cambodia's seat vacant. The Cambodian people and the CGDK firmly believe that the majority of member countries of the Nonaligned Movement will continue to oppose the attempt by a group of countries which try to get the Nonaligned Movement to serve the aggression or the interests of a block. The Cambodian people and the CGDK firmly hope that the eighth summit, marking the 25th anniversary of the Nonaligned Movement, will further strengthen the nonaligned principles and reflect the stand of the overwhelming majority of the movement's members by giving justice to the Cambodian people who are victims of Vietnam's aggression and who are making great sacrifices in the struggle to regain their national independence and sovereignty. The current sacrifices of the Cambodian people are also a contribution to the task of defending the sacred principles of the Nonaligned Movement.

The majority of nonaligned countries are all aware that although the Cambodian people have been victims of Vietnam's war of aggression, which is spreading painful, great destruction, the CGDK has been striving to find a political solution to the Cambodian problem. It is in this spirit that Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of Democratic Kampuchea, solemnly put forward on behalf of the CGDK on 17 March 1986 the 8-point peace proposal.

We hope the Nonaligned Movement will move to advance a political solution on the Cambodian issue on the basis of the CGDK's 8-point peace proposal. This would strengthen the role of the Nonaligned Movement in defending the movement's sacred principles.

On this occasion, the Cambodian people and the CGDK would like to express most profound gratitude to the overwhelming majority of nonaligned countries which have firmly stood by the movement's principles and provided assistance and support for the Cambodian people's just struggle both in the Nonaligned Movement and in other places.

[Dated] Democratic Kampuchea, 23 August 1986

HIGHLIGHTS OF GOVERNMENT POLICY STATEMENT GIVEN

BK250923 Bangkok Domestic Service in English 0000 GMT 25 Aug 86

["News in Perspective" feature]

[Text] The government has completed its policy statement and has circulated copies of the 29-page text to all MP's for study before it is being debated in the Parliament on Wednesday [27 August]. In the statement, the government pledges to crack down on the possession and use of illegal war weapons and economic crimes. It also promises to continue conducting an independent foreign policy and to promote science and technology in agriculture and industry. The policy statement at the same time drops the word communism, saying the government will use political before military means to combat any ideology which endangers a democratic system of administration with his majesty the king as head of state.

For the first time, the government pledges to ensure equality for women by amending existing laws that discriminate against them. The government affirms that it will press for a solution to the problem of refugees by using political and diplomatic means. It says it will urge the international community to take more refugees from Thailand and lend more financial support for their upkeep. The government also promises to tackle resolutely the problem of narcotics production and trafficking. It says it will cooperate with the private sector to widen facilities for the rehabilitation of drug addicts.

The text is divided into sections on politics and administration, defense, foreign affairs, economy, society, science, technology, and energy. The section on politics and administration makes clear that the government will take decisive action against the possession and use of illegal war weapons. The defense section says the government will promote the production, research, and development of arms so that the country can reach optimum self-sufficiency. The foreign affairs section stresses the implementation of an independent foreign policy that aims to achieve maximum economic benefit for the country. For political and economic end, Thailand will also lend assistance to other developing countries.

The economic section says science and technology will play a greater role in agriculture and industry so that products become more competitive on the international markets. The tax structure will be adjusted to make for economic expansion, especially in exports, production, and employment. Economic crimes will be suppressed. The social section says the government will preserve the sanctity of law and do away with discrimination. Young people will enjoy more equality and opportunity in education, and the state will provide free medical services for the elderly, children, and low-income earners. Women can look forward to a bigger role in social, economic, and political affairs. The existing measures will be amended to protect female laborers from unjust treatment. The science section says science and technology will play a greater role in the country's economic and social development. It will also help solve environmental problems and play a part in defense.

SENATORS CHARGE DEPUTY MINISTER WITH LESE MAJESTE

BK220832 Bangkok BANGKOK WORLD in English 22 Aug 86 p 1, 32

[Text] Three senators backed up by eight co-sponsors this morning submitted an urgent motion for the Senate to debate allegations of lese majeste by Deputy Interior Minister Wira Musikaphong during the election campaign.

The motion was submitted to Parliament President Ukrit Mongkhonnawin who accepted it for debate next Friday.

The three sponsors of the motion were Senators Chawalit Rungseang, Suang Aksaranukhro and Singto Changtrakun.

They were supported by eight other senators as co-sponsors, the majority of whom are high ranking military officers such as Gen Chuthai Saengthawip, Lt Gen Phichit Kunlawanit, and Lt Gen Sunthon Khongsomphong.

The motion said Mr Wira on two occasions on July 13, during campaigning in Satuk and Lam Plai Mat Districts of Buriram Province, delivered speeches which might be interpreted as including lese majeste.

Senator Chawalit Rungseang told newsmen this morning that he felt that it was his responsibility as a Thai citizen and a member of the Senate to make a move on the question.

"I have not yet seen any other sectors make any move on this matter. The signatures of many high ranking officers is not meant as a show of a force of any kind. They are just doing their duty as Royal Guard military officers and senators," he added.

Minister Attached to the MP's Office Michai Ruchuphan said too much talk on this matter was not good and he felt sure that Mr Wira would really want to explain the whole thing himself.

"I am sure Mr Wira will come to explain the matter to all senators next Friday," Mr Michai said.

Asked whether Wira would lose his deputy ministership as a result of the senate's decision, Mr Michai said "no".

Lt Gen Phichit Kunlawanit declined any comment, saying only, "they asked me to sign and I signed it."

Lt Gen Sunthon said he thought it was his duty to react as a member of the Royal Guard.

"I have a duty to protect the Monarchy but anyway I think we have a legal branch to handle this kind of matter, have we not?" he asked.

Asked about a possibility that Mr Wira might lose his ministerial post, Sunthon only said the government is one thing and the law is another.

Wira's direct superior Interior Minister Prachuap Suntharangkun said he had not seen the motion yet and had no comment.

President of Parliament Ukrit told reporters after his meeting with Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon this morning that there was no discussion of Mr Wira's case.

The talks covered general issues a it was only a courtesy visit by the prime minister to President of Parliament and House Speaker.

Commenting on the motion concerning Mr Wira, Ukrit said there should be no problem. The decision would be up to the Senate alone and he could not predict what the outcome might be, he added.

The Senate should give a chance for the government to acknowledge the motion, he said. He pointed out that it was a good thing that the matter was going to be discussed as everything would be made clear to all concerned.

Dr Ukrit however, could not say whether the motion would affect the Government.

At the same time, he said that Wira should be given a chance to explain to the Senate as the motion would be debated the day after the government declares its policy to Parliament.

House Speaker Chuan Likphai who also met the prime minister this morning only said that Mr Wira should be given a chance to explain himself.

Wira Prepared for Defense

BK230235 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 23 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Deputy Interior Minister Wira Musikaphong, who faces a Senate grilling over his campaign speeches which allegedly contained lese majeste remarks, said yesterday he is innocent and ready to defend himself in Parliament "If I am given a chance."

Three senators yesterday submitted an urgent motion for the Senate to debate the allegations against Mr. Wira to Parliament President Ukrit Mongkhonnawin, who accepted it for debate next Friday.

Mr. Wira yesterday cancelled a scheduled trip to Nakhon Si Thammarat Province and rushed back to the Interior Ministry in the afternoon for a closed-door meeting with Interior Minister Prachuap Suntharangkun, Permanent Secretary for Interior Phisan Munsatsathon and Police Chief Gen Narong Mahanon to discuss the senators' motion.

Mr. Wira said after the meeting that they had decided that the case against him should be handled in accordance with the letter of the law and without any privileges for the accused party regardless of his ministerial position.

"Personally, I am ready to clarify myself before the Senate and the House of Representatives. I will present facts, only the facts," said Mr. Wira. He added that he did not want to make his clarifications anywhere else because they might be distorted.

Mr. Wira, who is also secretary-general of the Democrat Party, claimed that the move against him was politically motivated and instigated by "someone who didn't want me to get elected as an MP, someone who didn't want a government to be set up and, when all else failed, wanted me removed from the Government."

Mr. Wira said he will not seek out the supporters of the motion to try to clear himself. But he added that he does not believe they were coerced into making the move against him, "but did so out of their own free will and with honesty."

He said the fact that most of the senators backing the motion are generals does not worry him. "I cannot let myself be worried. Because if I am worried, I will become paranoid. We've volunteered to become politicians and have to work. If (we are) worried, then we will have to pack up and go home."

Asked if he thinks his image may be tarnished by the senators' motion, Mr Wira said this would depend on how the press treats the case.

Wira May Seek Pardon

BK250713 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0530 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] At the army auditorium this morning, Army Commander General Chawalit Yongchaiyut gave a news conference on the urgent motion submitted by a number of senators to the senate speaker calling for a debate on the statement made by Deputy Interior Minister Wira Musikaphong during the election campaign in Buriram Province. Wira was reported to have made comments relating to the institute of the monarchy and national security.

The army commander said he believed that all parties should be told about the issue whether the accusation is true or not. If he were Wira he would not say such things. However, he said, Wira is very worried about this problem and is expected to do everything he can to seek royal forgiveness within a day or two. This might be an act of seeking forgiveness before a portrait of his majesty the king.

The army commander said that Wira has obviously been trying all ways and means to make everyone understand him, explain what happened, and seek an audience with his majesty the king to seek a pardon.

Regarding the government, the army commander said that the government has taken prompt action in response to the matter. For example, the police are considering filing a lawsuit. Wira himself knew that such action would be taken. However, this does not mean that Wira is guilty. It is merely part of the procedure.

NAVY SECRETARY REPORTS ON BORDER SITUATION

BK251249 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 1300 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Recorded statement by Navy Secretary Rear Admiral Dilok Phattharakoson reporting on the border situation in the past month -- date and place not given]

[Text] The situation at sea is normal, generally speaking. There has been no incident of infiltration by ships. However, the Navy detected a Soviet spy ship in the Gulf of Thailand. The ship was under close watch by ships and aircraft of the Royal Thai Navy until it finally left the Gulf of Thailand. Also during past month, naval units took part in the joint Thai-U.S. military exercise in the Gulf of Thailand off Chonburi and Rayong Provinces. The exercise, which ended on 13 August, achieved planned targets and recorded great success.

Concerning areas under the jurisdiction of the Mekong Operations Unit, there was an incident on 30 July at about 1800, when Lao soldiers stationed opposite the Mekong Operation Unit's station in Mukdahan District fired into one of the people's rafts on the Thai side. One of the six rounds hit the raft, slightly damaging it.

HO CHI MINH ORDER CONFERRED ON USSR'S LIGACHEV

OW231552 Hanoi VNA in English 1445 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 23 -- Y. Ligachev, Politburo member and secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, has been conferred the Ho Chi Minh Order for his outstanding contributions to the consolidation and development of the great friendship and multiform cooperation between the Soviet Union and Vietnam. The presentation was made in Moscow on August 22 by Ambassador Dinh Nho Liem with accreditation from the State Council of Vietnam.

At the ceremony, the Vietnamese ambassador said that the conferment of this high distinction on Y. Ligachev is a token of the Vietnamese party, state and people's deep gratitude to the Soviet party, state and people as well as to Ligachev, personally. He reaffirmed the Vietnamese people's determination to work for the continuous development of the great friendship and all-round cooperation between the two countries.

In his reply, Y. Ligachev said that Vietnam is one of the closest allies of the Soviet Union, and the Soviet Union would always stand by the side of Vietnam.

INDOCHINESE FINANCIAL MINISTERS MEET IN HANOI

OW251701 Hanoi VNA in English 1533 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 25 -- The first conference of the financial ministers of Kampuchea, Laos and Vietnam was held here on August 22-25. It was attended respectively by Chhay Than, Gnao Phonvantha and Vu Tuan.

The conference reviewed financial relations between the three countries over the past years and worked out orientations for the development and perfection of their long-term cooperation. The meeting held that over the past years the financial cooperation in the fields of finance, monetary and payment between the three countries has taken shape and brought about considerable results. Their financial relations under the forms of state credits and gratuitous aid in building development projects and supplying techniques, services, materials and goods have helped develop each country's economic potentials. The participants also discussed measures to further promote their relations in the fields of finance, monetary and payment. They agreed upon the content of the cooperation between the three financial ministries.

PHAM VAN DONG MEETS LAO, PRK FINANCE MINISTERS

OW251703 Hanoi VNA in English 1513 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 25 -- Pham Van Dong, Politburo member of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and chairman of the Council of Ministers, received here today Chhay Than and Gnao Phonvantha, Kampuchean and Lao ministers of finance respectively, who have been here for the first Indochinese financial ministers conference.

Speaking to his guests, Chairman Pham Van Dong expressed his wish for further development of financial cooperation between the three countries on the basis of the equality and in the interests of each country and the three countries as a whole.

The Kampuchean and Lao ministers reasurred Chairman Pham Van Dong of continued efforts to enhance the financial cooperation between the three countries in service of national development in their respective countries.

NEW NICARAGUAN ENVOY PRESENTS CREDENTIALS 20 AUG

OW210839 Hanoi VNA in English 0815 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 20 -- New Nicaraguan Ambassador to Vietnam Ernesto Casstillo Martines today presented his credentials to Vice President of the State Council Le Thanh Nghi.

The vice president had a cordial talk with the Nicaraguan ambassador.

AFP REPORTS OPPOSITION LEADER SENTENCED TO DEATH

BK251650 Hong Kong AFP in English 1615 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi, Aug 25 (AFP) -- The People's Court of Ho Chi Minh City (formerly Saigon) has sentenced the president of an opposition group to death, and other group members to long prison terms, according to a press report received here Monday. The Ho Chi Minh City newspaper, SAIGON GIAI PHONG, said the sentences were handed down on August 9 after a two-day trial in the former South Vietnamese capital.

Sentenced to death was Ngo Van Truong, a former soldier in the South Vietnamese Army and accused president of the group, "Militia Front for the National Renaissance of Vietnam," the paper said.

It said 15 other members of the "secret" group, mostly members of the former Saigon government but also including two minors, were given prison sentences ranging from three years to life. They were tried on charges of having formed "an extremely dangerous counter-revolutionary organization" with the help of "American imperialism" and external "reactionary forces," the paper said.

It said the dismantling of the organization began with Ngo Van Truong's arrest at the Ho Chi Minh City railway station in January 1984 as he was about board a train for the city of Hue in central Vietnam carrying some 400 leaflets for distribution there.

NHAN DAN URGES PERFECTION OF COMMITTEE ECHELONS

BK251544 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 20 Aug 86

[NHAN DAN 21 August editorial: "Perfect Grass-roots Level Party Committee Echelons"]

[Text] One of the important requirements of basic party organization congresses is to make party committees perfectly firm and strong in order to meet the new situation and tasks. This is a decisive step to renovate the contingent of grass-roots level cadres.

Grass-roots level organizations are the echelon where party and state policies and lines are implemented, the right to collective mastery of the masses is developed, and party members are educated and forged. On the basis of firmly maintaining the principle of democratic centralism, our party advocates the policy of ensuring the initiative of primary units, the authority of unit commanders, and the autonomy of basic economic units in production and business while firmly maintaining the right of the central government to centralize and unify its management control over the key areas of the national economy, always considering planning a central task.

This calls for firm leadership of basic party organizations, especially the executive committees of party organizations.

Perfecting grass-roots level party committee echelon is now an urgent requirement. After throughly understanding the basic contents of various documents related to the Sixth National Party Congress and the contents of various reports by higher-level party organizations, the congresses of basic party organizations should define the guidelines and tasks for their struggle and should elect executive committees which typify the intelligence of the party organizations and the masses and which are capable, competent, united, unified, and able to gather together all members on the basis of the party line.

The basic party organization congresses should build firm and strong collectives of party committees while assigning the right comrades to key positions. In factories and state-run economic units, truly competent party committee secretaries should be appointed to help the party committees and their collectivized members perform the function of control, an important task of party organizations in factories.

The experience of those party organizations that have just completed their congresses reveals that perfecting party committee echelons calls for a new way of considering cadres and a correct method of evaluating cadres and party members on the basis of using work output, efficiency, and quality as the best yardstick to measure the ability and quality of cadres and party members.

Those party members elected to grass-roots level party committees must be dynamic, creative, exemplary, devoted to collectives, good, practically active, and trusted by the masses. Those who are incompetent, degenerate, corruptible, self-seeking, arrogant, and vindictive against the people absolutely must not be elected to the party committees.

By defining the guidelines and tasks of socioeconomic, security, and national defense development and by conducting self-criticism and criticism, we will be able to elect meritorius people to party committees. The fact that the people participate in party development and criticize party members is of practical significance, helping the congresses elect party committee echelons satisfactorily.

Boldly introducing young party members -- who have strong political sense; some level of scientific, technical, and managerial knowledge; and good behavior toward democratic collective work -- into the contingent of leading cadres is now an urgent requirement to renovate the quality of party committees.

The new party committees must be composed of an appropriate proportion of female members depending on the number of female party members in each basic party organization. In the party organizations of factories there must necessarily be many party members -- workers directly engaged in production -- in the committees. This is a principle to assure the steadiness of the party committees and enhance the militancy and leadership of party organizations while creating sources of trained cadres of worker origin for leading agencies at all levels.

Each basic party organization should formulate specific plans to train and help newly elected worker-members of the party committees quickly assume their assigned duties. The quality of the tasks of perfecting party committee echelons and renovating the contingent of cadres in basic party organizations is reflected by the people's confidence and vigorous changes in the revolutionary movement among large segments of the masses in each locality and each primary unit.

LOCALITIES HOLD BASIC LEVEL PARTY CONGRESSES

OW251101 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] Various provinces and cities have planned to begin party congresses at the district or precinct level in September after holding grass-roots level party congresses toward the end of August. Nearly all provincial and city party committees have organized conferences to inform core cadres of party organizations on the contents of the CPV draft political report to be presented at the Sixth Party Congress; on the contents of the reports of provincial and district party organizations; on the guidelines for electing party committee echelons; and on the procedures for holding party congresses.

Before holding party congresses, the standing committees of district and precinct party committees, together with grass-roots level party committees, have contributed views to assessing the situation and the strong points, shortcomings, and outstanding problems of grass-roots level party installations and pointing out the orientation for party organization activities for the coming term.

The provinces and cities have also paid attention to informing the contingent of reporters and their team leaders on providing guidance in holding discussions at party congresses so that these comrades can help party members of grass-roots level installations grasp and discuss the main contents of documents to be presented at the party congress.

The Hanoi municipal party committee has held congresses of party organizations of various forms, including enterprises, villages, subwards, trading corporations, and schools. It has invited representatives of similar installations to attend and draw lessons.

The Haiphong municipal party commmittee has held congresses of the Tan Long foundry enterprise and the Nam Son agricultural party orgainzation before guiding districts in organizing grass-roots level congresses. It advocated linking the development of the results of the recent self-criticism and criticism drive with holding grass-roots level party congresses. All units must definitively settle all problems arising in this drive before holding their congresses.

The Vung Tau-Con Dao special zone has also held congresses of party organizations of various forms. Many installations, subwards, enterprises, and army units in the special zone have already held their congresses.

Some 14 district and city party committees in Binh Tri Thien Province have opened refresher classes for more than 3,000 reporters on popularizing documents of the party congress among party members in grass-roots level installations. More than 70 percent of the grass-roots level party installations in the province have so far completed their congresses. Huong Phu, Huong Dien, Huong Hoa, and A Luoi Districts and Dong Hoi City have already held their grass-roots level party organization congresses. Other districts in the province will strive to complete their congresses in August. Grass-roots level party organizations have also launched emulation drives to score achievements in honor of the Sixth Party Congress and their own conresses by practically boosting production, caring for people's lives, combating floods, maintaining public order and security, and so forth.

MILITARY REGIONS STUDY PARTY POLITICAL REPORT

BK220739 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1400 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] After completing their criticism and self-criticism, standing bodies of party committees of the 7th and 9th Military Regions, the C-79 group, and various units performing internationalist duty in Cambodia have positively organized courses for grass-roots units to study the draft political report and report on the amendment of party statutes to be submitted to the coming Sixth CPV Congress.

The 7th and 9th Military Regions held a meeting of key officers of attached organizations and affiliated units to study and firmly grasp directives of the party Central Committee Secretariat and the Military Commission of the CPV Central Committee. The meeting also contributed ideas to the party Central Committee's draft political report. The two military regions have sent two officers' delegations to various military units at the frontline to supervise key officers of regimental level upward in studying documents of the party congress, while helping various units organize basic party organization congresses.

The C-79 group of the 9th Military Region at the frontline has just completed a study course for more than 200 key officers of various divisions and cadres of organizations. Since 10 August, various grass-roots units of the C-79 group have organized party organization congresses and selected delegates to attend congresses at higher levels. The group also completed its supervision of various grass-roots units in discussing the draft political report and speeding up their congresses. The group took the F-9 unit as a pilot venue for vasic party organization congresses to draw on experience for all units in the group.

At present, various military regions and corps in southern Vietnam and military units performing international duty in the fraternal countries are conducting basic party organization congresses urgently and effectively in order to score achievements to fulfill all assigned tasks.

VPA UNITS STUDY DRAFT POLITICAL REPORT

BK200955 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2330 GMT 17 Aug 86

[From the "Review of the Armed Forces' Activities for the Past Week"]

[Excerpt] Last week, our armed forces' noteworthy activities were focused on two main tasks, namely the beginning of organizing the study of the draft political report to be presented at the Sixth CPV Congress and the lively activities launching the second phase of training of the entire army.

During the week, we received many reports reflecting the efforts of various units in organizing for their key cadres to study the draft political report of the sixth party congress. The 1st Military Region recently finished organizing for nearly 500 comrade leaders and cadres of the organizational, propaganda-training, and control sectors of the party to study the draft report. The military region divided these cadres into four study groups which worked under the guidance of the comrades who had studied the report in advance. After the four groups completed their study, the military region guided various units and localities in studying the document. To date, the Gold Star group has finished studying the draft political report and guiding Unit 12 in holding party congresses to draw experience.

In the General Technical Department, participants in the study of the draft political report were divided into two groups -- one in the north and the other in the south. Through this phase of study, everyone clearly realized that it is absolutely necessary to ceaselessly increase the fighting strength of party organization; bring into full play the role of cadres at all levels; change concepts, especially economic concepts; renovate organizations and cadres; and change work methods. The standing committee of the general department's party committee appointed cadres who had received advanced training to directly monitor and assist the basic units so that they may achieve good results in organizing party conresses. Factory Z-51 and the Political Department are two units which have held party congresses in advance to gain experience.

In the Sapper Corps, a 5-day conference of cadres has yielded initial results. After a thorough study of the draft political report, the corps examined the situation of its internal ranks, pointed out the remaining shortcomings, and worked out concrete measures to correct them and to guide the grass-roots levels in holding their party congresses.

In the Armored Corps, a conference of cadres was convened to study the draft political report and to reach an agreement on the contents of the party congresses at their respective levels and on the steps taken to convene these congresses. The conference also selected a number of party orgainzations to serve as pilot units in holding party congresses. The comrade secretary of the Armored Corps party committee requested the conferees, who will act as lecturers at and preside over the grass-roots party congresses, to firmly grasp the viewpoints of the various draft documents of the Sixth CPV Congress and to convey their contents faithfully. On this basis, they should formulate resolutions for their own levels in a realistic and correct manner so as to lead their party organizations in their new term to fulfill the target and objectives set forth by the upper levels' resolutions.

At the conference held by the Chemical Corps to study the draft political report, the participants also heard additional reports on the important addresses of the high-ranking party and state leaders. They also contributed ideas -- especially on organizational and cadre work, on raising the level of combat readiness, and on the corps' capability to fulfill its tasks -- to the draft political report and to the 1986-90 plan of the Chemical Corps party committee which will be presented at the forthcoming congress of the corps' party organization. The corps' party organization decided to select the party organization of its political organ as a pilot unit to hold the first party congress to gain experience for the entire corps. [passage omitted]

AUSTRALIA

DAWKINS EXPLAINS URANIUM SALES TO FRANCE

BK240719 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] The minister for trade, Mr Dawkins, has conceded that the federal government decision to sell uranium to France is a reversal of Labor Party policy. However, he said Australia had no choice but to agree to a $66-million contract to supply uranium to the French because of Australia's severe balance of trade problem.

Speaking on commercial television, Mr Dawkins said the Labor Party policy of banning supplies until the French Government ended nuclear testing in the South Pacific clearly was not working. He said the Australian Government could ensure that the uranium sold to the French would be used for what he called the peaceful provision of nuclear energy within France.

The trade minister said the sale did not mean Australia would drop its condemnation of French nuclear testing.

Earlier, a Victorian member of Parliament claimed that Australia had been selling uranium to France for the last 2 years. Mrs (Joan Coxsedge), who is a left-wing member of the Victorian Upper House, claimed that at least 20,000 tons of uranium ore had been sold to France despite a ban imposed in 1983. The ban was lifted last week as part of the federal budget.

Mr Dawkins denied the claim saying that Mrs (Coxsedge) was aware that no uranium had been sent to France directly. He described her allegations of the sale as a deliberate distortion of the facts.

NEW ZEALAND

DEFENSE INQUIRY COMMITTEE CITES OPTIONS

HK260445 Wellington THE EVENING POST in English 21 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[By defense reporter Roger Mackey]

[Text] An enhancement of New Zealand's defence relationship with Australia is the most promising defence option available to New Zealand following the breakdown of ANZUS, the Defense Committee of Inquiry has concluded.

Although a majority of New Zealanders (52 percent) favour a full ANZUS relationship with Australia and the US, committee members rule out this option.

They give two reasons for their decision to avoid recommending a return to ANZUS without a ship ban. New Zealand society would be divided if such an option was taken and "the Government's unconditional anti-nuclear stance has in any case ruled out this option."

The committee notes that according to the national poll they commissioned a return to ANZUS and a dropping of the ship ban was the only practicable defence option with majority support.

"However, 44 percent would be unhappy with this option, preferring to withdraw from ANZUS rather than accept the nuclear ship visits and society would be divided."

The most preferred option is to have New Zealand in ANZUS but separated from all nuclear aspects of that alliance.

"So far, the positions of the New Zealand and United States Governments have not contained sufficient flexibility to permit this option in practice," the committee says.

Within the significant minority (44 percent) of New Zealanders who want to withdraw from ANZUS and retain the ship ban, the committee finds no consensus on a preferred defence policy.

"It is clear from the poll, however, that most New Zealanders do not wish to be neutral, non-aligned or 'semi-aligned.'

"The cases for these options have been elaborated in submissions (and they have been presented in this report at a length related more to the number of submissions than to the extent of their support within the community), but the wider implications have in most cases not been studied or debated widely by the community as a whole.

"In the committee's view, an enhancement of the bilateral ANZUS relationship with Australia is the most promising option left open to New Zealand."

"This might satisfy some, but not most, of those who desire collective security and would satisfy most, but not all, of those who want nuclear-free defence."

The advantages of an increased defence connection with Australia would include the focus that it would provide on New Zealand's own region, the South Pacific.

It also "stands in the mainstream tradition of New Zealand foreign and defence policy."

Another benefit of a bilateral ANZUS connection with Australia is that "it would leave open the possibility of a reactivation of a full ANZUS should it become possible to find a way of accommodating the currently incompatible desires of New Zealand and the United States.

"It might also contribute -- as would none of the alternatives -- to the building up of a more satisfactory consensus and, ultimately, perhaps, to the indispensable objective of a bipartisan foreign and defence policy.

The committee also criticises the Government for having an inquiry such as they have had conducted after a major policy change rather than preceding that change.

"It is unfortunate that to a large extent the work of this committee has been vitiated by the making of important policy decisions before the completion of this process of inquiry into public opinion. Further inquiries of this nature should precede, not following actions which close off some of the major options being revised.

The committee is also critical of the government's decision not to exempt the Armed Forces from this year's round of budget cuts. "It seems surprising, therefore, that at such a critical time, defence spending was not exempt from this year's general budgetary cuts."

The New Zealand armed forces, the committee suggests, should be mores self reliant and capable of operating independently within New Zealand's "area of primary strategic interests."

But, also "serious attention must be paid to maintaining and developing well-trained, professional and well-equipped armed forces capable of co-operating with friends."

On defence spending in general the committee said: "Fortunately our present benign strategic environment means that New Zealand defence expenditure need not be a heavy burden. It should, however, be at a level which will enable the Armed Forces to play their part in the region, and to retain the respect and co-operation of Australia and to reassure New Zealanders.

New Zealand must also develop independent intelligence gathering and assessment capabilities to a greater extent than at present. "Central to self reliance is a New Zealand-oriented system for gathering and analyzing intelligence which focuses on New Zealand's own problems and interests. New Zealand outside ANZUS could not hope to replace the intelligence it used to receive from the United States."

The committee also warns that failure to achieve a just society in New Zealand -- "the best defence grows out of a just and non-violent society" -- could mean aggrieved groups "look abroad for support from opportunist countries whose interests are inimical to our own."

This reference is made in connection with differences the committee found within the Maori community about defence, in particular, whether or not it was worth defending New Zealand.

"In the committee's view the differences within the Maori community may be a glimpse of things to come. A country divided on ethnic lines has serious implications for defence as well as the wider society."

The committee supports the appointment of a minister or ambassador for disarmament. "For such a person to be effective there must be adequate staff, continuity and bipartisan commitment."

It also endorses a proposal for the study of the implications for New Zealand of a nuclear war in the Northern Hemisphere.

Support is given for establishment of some form of National Service (strongly supported in the poll taken by the committee). "Managed sensitively, this could be one way of responding to the extremely widespread concern at increasing aimlessness and violence in New Zealand society."

The committee favours more resources being made available for civil defence and notes that there is widespread support for the involvement of the Armed Forces in civil defence and other civil tasks.

"These are essential and valued tasks, but they remain secondary to the services' primary role of providing for the military defence of New Zealand".

Ministers 'Misrepresented ANZUS'

HK260449 Wellington THE EVENING POST in English 21 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[By Defense Reporter Roger Mackey]

[Text] The Defence Committee of Inquiry have accused Prime Minister David Lange, Deputy Prime Minister Geoffrey Palmer and Defence Minister Frank O'Flynn of misrepresenting ANZUS.

The accusation is contained in the committee's detailed reply to questions Mr Lange had put to it about its report on New Zealand's attitudes towards defence.

The committee in its reply also contests the Government's repeated claim that it has no wish to challenge the United States' policy of neither confirming nor denying the presence of nuclear weapons on board its ships.

The committee, which presented its report to Mr Lange at the beginning of the month, has four members. They are former secretary of Foreign Affairs Frank Corner (chairman), anti-nuclear activist Kevin Clements, former DSIR [Department of Scientific and Industrial Research] policy specialist Diane Hunt, and former Army head Major General Brian Poananga.

In his letter to the committee at the beginning of August Mr Lange queried many of the report's points.

In its reply on August 11 the committee strongly takes issue with Mr Lange's queries: "We trust you will be able to give these your personal attention as we believe that they are soundly based, objective, and, in comparison to the tone of the questions in the attachment to your letter, restrained."

Mr Lange had accused the committee of making "opinionated comments" that detracted from the objectivity of the report and of "lacking balance" in sections of their report.

In reply, the committee said: "Incorrect public statements which remained unchallenged become entrenched and part of popular folklore."

The committee challenges Mr Lange, Mr Palmer and Mr O'Flynn on a number of their public statements. It states, "that people in high authority have misrepresented ANZUS and ... that ANZUS has been misrepresented with specific reference to the 'security guarantee.'"

The committee goes on to say ANZUS has been misrepresented in three main areas.

The first, it notes, is the ANZUS Treaty's obligation for the treaty partners to consult in time of threat.

It refers to a comment made by Mr Lange when he announced the setting up of the Defence Committee of Inquiry. Mr Lange said then: "There was never more than an obligation to consult; in fact, if you consider the logic of it, you can't possibly have a treaty which has some automatic triggering process."

The committee states: "To emphasise the 'consultation' provision of the ANZUS Treaty without mentioning the obligation to 'act' in the event of an attack is a misrepresentation of ANZUS."

The committee also challenges the argument that because the treaty has no provision for an automatic response by the U.S., action is not guaranteed and that the U.S. would place its national interests ahead of those of its allies.

The minister it accuses of putting this point of view is Mr Palmer. It refers to an occasion on which Mr Palmer quoted U.S. Secretary of Defence Casper Weinberger to the effect that: "The U.S. should not commit forces to combat unless our vital interests are at stake."

Mr Palmer then went on to add that "to suggest that to say there was a U.S. security guarantee is a considerable exaggeration of the real position."

The committee comments, "However, the piece that Mr Palmer quoted immediately went on to say that 'Our interests, of course, include the vital interests of our allies.'

"To omit part of the Weinberger statement damages New Zealanders' perceptions of ANZUS and reduces the trust and goodwill among the ANZUS allies," the committee says.

The third area where the committee says ANZUS has been misrepresented is the claim that the wording of the treaty is too vague to be a meaningful security guarantee. They quote Mr Lange as describing the guarantee as "ambiguous."

"The committee believes that the obligation to act effectively does not necessarily mean military action, but permits of a wide range of peaceful actions which should usually be sufficient to deal with the problem. In other words, the obligation to act is an obligation to meet the common danger by whatever means appropriate.

"Indeed it can be argued that the mere act of consulting in the event of a threat would signal to a would-be aggressor that there was a determination on the part of the allies to resist. Such 'signal' diplomacy would usually be sufficient."

The committee also takes issue with Mr O'Flynn, who said recently the only defence available to New Zealand under ANZUS was either a nuclear defence or a nuclear deterrent.

The committee comments, "To assume that any action would automatically involve the use of nuclear weapons in the defence of New Zealand is unjustified. We therefore disagree with the statement by your (Mr Lange's) minister of defence that 'in reality the only defence available to us under ANZUS is going to be a nuclear defence or the nuclear deterrent.'"

The committee returns to Mr Lange's press conference last December 5 when he announced the setting up of the committee. Then Mr Lange said, "Each nation must reserve a sovereign right to determine whether it will go to war."

The committee says, "This is obvious in the case of an alliance among countries with democratic systems, but this argument should not be used to minimise the formal obligation to act under the treaty."

In its reply to Mr Lange's queries about its full report, the committee also accuses Mr Lange of quoting Australian defence expert Paul Dibb out of context. Mr Lange had used a comment from Mr Dibb's report that said that no guarantees inherent in ANZUS.[sentence as published]

The committee replied, "It is our view, which we believe would be shared by Dibb himself, that this quotation is being used out of context."

On whether the government's anti-nuclear ships would [as published] challenge the U.S. and British policy of neither confirming nor denying the presence of nuclear weapons on any of its military equipment the committee comments: "We are aware that the New Zealand Goverment has repeatedly stated that it does not seek to challenge the "neither confirm nor deny policy." [quotation marks as published]

However, insofar as the Government's position is unconditionally and unambiguously antinuclear, any ship that enters New Zealand ports will, by definition, be non-nuclear, thus negating the ambiguity on which the neither confirm nor deny "policy rests."

Among Mr Lange's other queries had been why no breakdown of the written submissions received by the committee had been given indicating the support for various defence policies.

In reply, the committee provides such a breakdown but cautions that this was not given in the full report was because of the difficulty of grouping the written submissions in categories.

"We decided that the submissions were best categorised only on the basis of explicit reference to an issue, not on what we felt were the implications of the arguments. This makes subsequent use of the figures inappropriate."

The submissions also varied in length and detail, says the committee. It was impossible to know how to weight submissions because some submissions come from groups with thousands of members while others were made by individuals, the committee said.

Mr Lange's queries contested many points in the committee's summary of the history of New Zealand defence policies and the current defence debate.

Mr Lange asked for footnotes and documentation to this section to support certain comments.

The committee replies, "It is generally considered unnecessary for primary sources to provide extensive footnoting for arguments."

"The chapter was drafted by two committee members, one of whom, the chairman, was intimately involved with the formulation and implementation of New Zealand foreign policy for nearly 40 years.

In addition to being Secretary of Foreign Affairs, he took part in the original negotiations over ANZUS and the Japanese Peace Treaty in Washington as the Ambassador's chief assistant in the field; he was responsible for all political and defence matters in the New Zealand High Commission in London for seven years; he was Ambassador to the US for five years; and in Wellington dealt with foreign affairs and defence policy for 15 years; he worked closely with eight Prime Ministers of both parties.

"He was often a member of New Zealand Delegations to Prime Minister's conferences, ANZUS Council sessions and many other international meetings. In light of this we do not consider it necessary to supply footnotes for the 'opinions' in this section, and consider it inappropriate to be asked to do so."

The committee continues. "We categorically reject the imputation that 'parts of the historical survey appear to lack the balance expected of a report of this type.'"

The historical section had been included, says the committe, because "It became apparent to us during the course of the inquiry that many people had no clear appreciation of the history of New Zealand's external relations and defence policies in particular."

Mr Lange also questioned the methods used in the committee's opinion poll of 1600 people and its interpretation of the results.

In reply, the committee says its poll showed that most New Zealanders, when forced to choose, would pick a defence policy that involved ANZUS and visits by ships that might carry nuclear weapons.

In spite of this, the committee had decided against recommending such a policy, citing the Government's "unconditional" stand on ship visits.

A large minority of New Zealanders would oppose the resumption of ship visits, it said, and "the committee did not wish to promote policies which would further divide a community which has been excessively polarised on various issues over the last decade."

The committee acknowledged to Mr Lange that, "As the poll results show, the announced Government policy coincided with majority public opinion. In the course of our inquiry it became clear that an active, unconditional, anti-nuclear policy is aimed at promoting global security and does not constitute in itself a national defense policy."

Again, this time on the subject of whether ANZUS is intact, "It stretches public credulity to suggest an ANZUS Treaty devoid of any military co-operation, logistic support or 'security guarantee' makes any sense as a defence policy for New Zealand."

PHILIPPINES' AQUINO ARRIVES IN JAKARTA 24 AUG

BK241117 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1100 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Excerpt] Philippine President Corazon Aquino this evening arrived in Jakarta for a 3-day visit to Indonesia. Radio Republik Indonesia correspondent (Herman Sala) reported on her arrival from Jakarta's Halim Perdanakusumah Airport.

[Begin (Sala) recording] At 1645 West Indonesian time [0945 GMT], a special Fokker F-28 plane carrying Philippine President Corazon Aquino and her entourage arrived safely at Jakarta's Halim Perdanakusumah Airport. Disembarking from the plane, President Aquino was welcomed by President Suharto and Vice President Umar Wirahadikusumah, who introduced her to several Indonesian Cabinet ministers. She was later escorted by President Suharto and Vice President Wirahadikusumah to a VIP room through a red carpet welcoming ceremony. About 150 Filipinos residing in Jakarta were also present to welcome President Aquino. [passage omitted] [end recording]

SUHARTO HOSTS STATE BANQUET FOR AQUINO, PARTY

BK241525 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1500 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] President and Mrs Suharto hosted a state banquet in honor of the state quest Philippine President Corazon Aquino at the State Palace tonight. Radio Republik Indonesian correspondent Hendro Martono reports on the atmosphere of the state banquet.

[Begin recording] The state banquet was attended by Vice President and Mrs Umar Wirahadikusumah, the chairman of the House of Representatives and the People's Consultative Assembly and wife, coordinating ministers, ministers, and other senior government officials. All the members of President Aquino's entourage were also present at the state banquet tonight. Before the state banquet began, President and Mrs Suharto exchanged souvenirs with President Aquino. President and Mrs Suharto presented batik, [words indistinct], a book on 30 years of Indonesian independence, [words indistinct] to President Aquino. They received an ornament from the Philippine president. [end recording]

The state banquet was followed by an art show presenting dances from various regions in Indonesia.

Suharto, Aquino Speeches Cited

BK250911 Jakarta International Service in English 0800 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Excerpts] President Suharto said close economic development has made it necessary to hold another ASEAN summit to renew ASEAN determination and to (?strengthen) the basis for new cooperation toward the enhancement of the national resilience of each member country, especially in the economic field. In a state banquet in honor of President Corazon Aquino Sunday night [24 August], President Suharto added that the current visit to Indonesia of the Philippine leader will open wide possibility of [words indistinct] various problems that the world and ASEAN are now facing. He said stability and peace in this region constitute an absolute need for all. [passage indistinct] The president voiced his conviction that the ASEAN summit in Manila next year will give new concrete encouragement towards efforts aimed at (?realizing) the ASEAN objectives and ideals. [passage omitted]

The visiting Philippine president (?praised) President Suharto for Indonesia's efforts to continue to help her country with rice and oil. She said in the state banquet hosted by President Suharto that the Philippines had [words indistinct] bilateral agreements with Indonesia, such as in the purchase of Indonesian oil. The Philippines also appreciated the patience of the Indonesian Government concerning the use of services of the Palapa communications satellite by the Philippines.

On the ASEAN summit in Manila next year, coinciding with the 20th anniversary of the Southeast Asian regional grouping, President Aquino believes it is important in renewing the ASEAN determination to cooperate, especially in the fields of trade and industry.

AFP on Speeches

BK241656 Hong Kong AFP in English 1640 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Excerpt] Jakarta, Aug 24 (AFP) -- President Suharto praised Sunday the new Philippine Government under President Corazon Aquino, saluting the changes since the ouster of Ferdinand Marcos in February. "We admire the fact that these changes took place without any serious or strong upheavals which might have disturbed stability, and we believe this is a result of your wise leadership," Mr. Suharto said.

The president was speaking at a state banquet in honor of Mrs. Aquino, who arrived in Indonesia earlier in the day on her first trip abroad since taking office after a popular revolt last February. Before leaving Manila Mr. Aquino said her government has been left in "good and dependable hands" playing down rumors of a possible coup attempt in her absence by loyalists of ousted President Marcos.

Mrs. Aquino said in her reply speech that the Philippines sought to "rejoin" the six-nation Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) on the path to economic, political and social progress. ASEAN groups Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia and Brunei, but in the last years of Mrs. Marcos' term the Philippines appeared to be the odd man out, lagging in growth and saddled with a growing communist insurgency. But she said growth for growth's sake alone was "no course at all." Calling Mr. Marcos's previus 20-year administration President Ferdinand Marcos "profligate", [as received] she said her new government was working with "the care of a surgeon whose patient's life hung in the balance not to inflict damage on an already fragile system."

Mr. Suharto said he was confident that with the Filipino people's strength and resilience, the heavy challenges facing her in the future could be met "in the best way." "We felt honored that Indonesia is the first country visited by your excellency since you took over the presidency, it reflects your interest in Indonesia," he said.

"We respect and support all decisions taken by the Philippine Government and the people of the Philippines, which they must have seen as the best decisions, and we fully understand the changes which occured in your country," Mr. Suharto went on.

"For us all peace and stability in this region is a definite need... we welcome with deep relief your government's policy which gives ASEAN first priority," he said.

The 53-year-old widow of slain opposition leader Benigno Aquino Jr. told Mr. Suharto that her government "needed the encouragement of friends like Indonesia, and that the Philippines now seeks to rejoin ASEAN "on the path to economic, political and social progress.' She thanked him for Indonesia's efforts to ensure continuity in the supply of rice and petroleum to her country in critical times.

Saying that Indonesia and the Philippines were the largest members of ASEAN, she said she hoped the association's summit scheduled for Manila next year would consider new avenues of cooperation, particularly in trade and industry. [passage omitted]

SUHARTO, AQUINO HOLD TALKS AT MERDEKA PALACE

BK251112 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1000 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Indonesia and the Philippines have agreed to continue improving bilateral relations and cooperation in the economic, social, and cultural fields. The agreement was reached as a result of 2-hour talks between President Suharto and visiting Philippine President Corazon Aquino at the Merdeka Palace in Jakarta this afternoon. Speaking to newsmen after the talks, Minister-State Secretary Sudharmono said that in Jakarta tomorrow, agreements on trade, common boundary, and search-and-rescue cooperation will be signed by Trade Minister Rakhmat Saleh, Communications Minister Rusmin Nuryadin, and their Philippine counterparts in President Aquino's entourage.

Winding up the talks at 1500 [0800 GMT], the state guest and her entourage, accompanied by President and Mrs Wirahadikusumah, visited the Indonesian Miniature Park. This evening, President Aquino will hold a press conference to brief newsmen on the outcome of her visit to Indonesia and her talks with President Suharto. Tomorrow morning, President Aquino will continue her journey to Singapore.

Philippine Radio on Talks

HK260143 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Indonesian President Suharto advised visiting Philippine leader Corazon Aquino yesterday [25 August] on how to smash communism, saying communist groups must not be given a chance to grow strong. Indonesian Minister of State Sudharmono said that the two Southeast Asian leaders focused, during 2 hours of talks, on how to defeat communism. Suharto outlawed Indonesia's Communist Party, once the third largest in the world, and effectively eliminated its massive threat to his military-backed government.

Concerning the Muslim problem in Mindanao, President Suharto said Indonesia's stand on the problem is for autonomy and not independence for the Mindanao Muslims. Suharto's stand on the Mindanao problem is similar to that of President Aquino.

Indonesian State Secretary Sudharmono said the talks between Presidents Aquino and Suharto were mainly focused on how to deal more effectively with the communist insurgency and the Muslim problem in the country.

MEMORANDA OF UNDERSTANDING SIGNED; AQUINO LEAVES

BK260715 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0600 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Indonesia and the Philippines today signed two memoranda of understanding on improving bilateral cooperation in the fields of trade, communications, investments, handicrafts, and tourism. The documents were signed at Merdeka Palace this morning by Trade Minister Rakhmat Salleh, Communications Minister Rusmin Nuryadin, and Philippines Trade and Industry Minister Jose Concepcion who represented their respective governments. The ceremony was witnessed by President Suharto and Philippines President Corazon Aquino.

After the signing ceremony, President Aquino and her delegation left the Merdeka Palace for Halim Perdanakusumah Airport to continue her official visit to Singapore. President Suharto sent her off after a military honor guard ceremony.

JAKARTA PAPERS COMMENT ON AQUINO VISIT

BK251425 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0600 GMT 25 Aug 86

[From the press review]

[Text] BERITA YUDHA greets Philippine President Corazon Aquino's visit to Indonesia with open-hearted and sincere friendship. The Indonesian people always greet warmly visits by their friends, especially Filipinos, one of their closest neighbors. BERITA YUDHA hopes that President Aquino will feel and cherish the gesture of friendship extended by the Indonesian people during her current visit.

SUARA KARYA believes that the current visit of the Philippine president has a unique significance as far as international relations are concerned. As usual, when two heads of state meet, they discuss various issues and SUARA KARYA believes that such bilateral talks will prove to be very useful. However, the warm welcome we give President Aquino is not only because of the benefits of the talks, but also because our hearts go out to the Philippine people and Corazon Aquino.

In its editorial, BERITA BUANA describes President Aquino as a symbol of purity and as a person with goodwill. She does not want bloodshed. Mrs Aquino's power lies in her strength of character, as well as the fact that she is an educated and moral person. Her victory over Marcos was not through political intrigue but through honesty.

SINAR HARAPAN puts forward three reasons why it welcomes President Aquino's visit with a warm feeling of friendship. First, sympathy toward the struggle and sacrifice of her late husband, Benigno Aquino. Second, solidarity with the struggle of the Philippine people who are now recovering from past traumatic scars and paving the way for future national development. Third, the existence of traditional ties between the two countries as reflected by Corazon Aquino's decision to select Indonesia as the first country to visit since becoming president. It is proper for Indonesia and the Philippines to determine more concrete forms of cooperation and mutual assistance within each country's means.

KOMPAS also believes that Mrs Aquino's choice of Indonesia as the first country to visit reflects the importance attached by the Philippines to its relations with Indonesia. The Indonesian Government and people highly appreciate the signs of trust given by President Aquino. For this reason, the Indonesian Government and people will share sincerely their knowledge and experiences with the new leader of their neighboring country.

MOKHTAR COMMENTS ON UPCOMING NONALIGNED MEETING

BK220425 Jakarta ANTARA in English 0337 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Jakarta, Aug 22 (ANTARA/OANA) -- Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja pointed out that it was about time for the non-aligned nations to concentrate on economic and development cooperation. Mokhtar was speaking to the press after reporting to President Suharto the preparations for an Indonesian delegation to the non-aligned summit to be held in Harare, Zimbabwe, at the Bina Graha here Thursday.

Mokhtar said the non-aligned nations should not waste their time in quarrelling and discussing disputes, but they'd better concentrate on possible increased economic and development cooperation. This is a problem the non-aligned nations should share, he said, adding however that it did not mean the problems of apartheid and the Namibian struggle must be disregarded.

With regard to Indonesia's wish to host the non-aligned summit, following the Zimbabwe meeting, Mokhtar said it was about time Indonesia makes itself available to host the summit, but the matter should be decided upon by the conference by consensus. He said many countries supported the Indonesian wish, because in their view Indonesia, as one of the founders of the Non-Aligned Movement, is successful in its national development.

He also told the press on Philippines President Corazon Aquino's planned visit to Indonesia, August 24-26. The visit will be of special importance to Indonesia, he added, because Cory plans to have talks with President Suharto on the latest developments in the Philippines, ASEAN and bilateral interests. The visit by the Philippine president to Indonesia and Singapore was also regarded important by the minister as it would be an indication of the importance of the relations between the Philippines and the other ASEAN member countries. Mrs. Aquino is also planning to visit the United States in September this year.

MNLF'S NUR MISUARI TO MEET AQUINO IN SEPTEMBER

HK260537 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] The peace talks on Mindanao are expected to begin next month between President Aquino and MNLF leader Nur Misuari. This was said by Butz Aquino upon returning to Manila yesterday after his mission to Saudi Arabia. He said Nur Misuari will hold a dialogue with Mrs Aquino next month. The MNLF has been fighting the government since 1970, asking for a separate seat to be set up in Mindanao.

ENRILE DISCUSSES COMMUNIST INSURGENCY WITH LUGAR

Sees No Changes in Army Plans

HK211601 Manila THE MANILA EVENING POST in English 20 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile yesterday told US Sen. Richard Lugar that "there would be no change in the operational directional of the New Armed Forces of the Philippines (NAFP) from what it is since the February People's Revolution."

Lugar, in a courtesy call to Enrile yesterday at Camp Aguinaldo in Quezon City discussed the insurgency problem confronting the Aquino government.

During the closed-door meeting, Lugar asked Enrile "to describe the situation of the peace and order problem, the rebellion being waged by the communists, and how the military is handling the insurgency."

"The fighting in the field is still going on," Enrile said, adding "but the military is evaluating the perspectives on how to deal with the New People's Army (NPA). They attack military provincial stations, but we are upgrading our strategy necessary to make (combat) operations efficient."

Enrile said President Aquino called for a ceasefire, "an ongoing effort to discuss how to stop the atrocities."

The meeting was attended also by Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, NAFP chief of staff; Wilson Gamboa, deputy minister for munitions; and other top officials, "who were part of the February People's Power revolt" that ousted former President Marcos last Feb. 22-25.

Enrile said in spite of the "peculiarity of the situation, initial contact was already made between the government ceasefire panel led by Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra and the National Democratic Front (NDF), led by former newsmen Antonio Zumel and Satur Ocampo."

"There are talks of a possible ceasefire. The government has asked the NDF to submit to us the details of how they envisioned the ceasefire to be. The NPA is a Marxist group. They are expected to submit their agenda for ceasefire. We have not heard anything from the palace. It may mean they do not have the agenda yet," Enrile told Lugar.

Enrile said the NAFP is drawing up plans on how to negotiate with the rebels on the truce, saying: "We have to determine what kind of ceasefire they (NPA-NDF) are going to offer us. Whether we have to pull out all the military forces from the occupied zone or whether some of them are going to stay in place."

Reporter 'Bugged' Talks

HK260726 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 24 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[Text] The Defense Ministry yesterday barred a reporter of an afternoon daily from covering the defense beat for alleged "breach of security and unethical and unprofessional conduct."

The reporter's fault? He bugged the talks between Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and visiting American Senator Richard Lugar at Camp Aguinaldo.

Barred was Rene Caparas of THE MANILA EVENING POST who was assigned to the defense beat only a week ago.

The order banning Caparas was issued by MND's [Ministry of National Defense] Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs Silvestre Afable. In a letter to Kerima Polotan Tuvera, editor in chief of EVENING POST, Afable said the Defense Ministry was "withdrawing his (Caparas') accreditation from the defense beat effective today (Aug. 23). We have also directed all information units of the Armed Forces of the Philippines to do the same."

Afable claimed the action against Caparas has nothing to do with the legitimate exercise of press freedom, which he said Minister Enrile has always upheld as a public official.

The ban on Caparas stemmed from a report submitted by Eddie Pangilinan, the Defense Ministry's press relation officer.

A portion of Pangilinan's report read:

"May I report that the dialogue between the MND and Senator Lugar at the Social Hall last Aug. 19 was bugged by Rene Caparas, EVENING POST reporter. Caparas surreptitiously left a running tape recorder in one of the tables in the hall and was able to record the entire dialogue. Through the recording, he was able to write an article about the conference which appeared in the Aug. 20 issue of EVENING POST. He did this despite our appeal that they can only photograph the conference for a few minutes and that no reportorial coverage is allowed."

'Strained' U.S. Ties Seen

HK221223 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 22 Aug 86 p 6

[From the column by Jesus Bigornia: "Lugar Visit Here Seen as 'Significant'"]

[Text] Perceptive Filipinos are worried. A veritable procession of Reagan associates and "think tankers" arriving in Manila lately are ringing alarm bells in official circles. First were two study groups sent out ostensibly by respected foreign policy foundations which met with the leaders of the Aquino government, opposition figures and business tycoons. Now, United States Senator Richard Lugar (Rep, Indiana), a close adviser to President Reagan, is here with a personal message from the White House. Their convergence in Manila shortly before President Aquino's Washington visit is held in official circles as politically significant.

It is recalled that this same Senator Lugar, preceded by colleagues from the U.S. House of Representatives and respected foreign policy study groups, came here during the fateful (to the then President Marcos) "snap" presidential election. Incidentally, it was this American legislator who pressured the then Marcos administration to recognize Namfrel [National Citizen's Movement for Free Elections] (whose leaders and supporters now decorate the Philippine Government firmament) as the official election watchdog. What "secret" message has he conveyed to President Aquino? It might be pertinent to ask.

People as politically important to the American administration as Mr Lugar do not make trans-Pacific trips just to assure President Aquino she will receive "the most enthusiastic welcome ever accorded a visiting head of state" when she visits Washington next month. What is suspected is that Washington is not too happy with the political and economic trends here since popular enthusiasm stirred by the "February revolution" has begun to wane.

It is surmised that the White House is worried by the absence of a hard and fast Malacanang stance on such issues as the United States military bases here (Subic naval facility in Zambales and Clark Air Force base in Angeles, Pampanga), the future of transnational companies, the perceived trend toward a coalition between the Aquino government and the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and other "concerns." The "think tankers" a week ago, and now Senator Lugar, all serving as eyes and ears of the U.S. President, are here therefore to see how United States-Philippines relations are faring.

So all this talk about the enthusiastic reception waiting for President Aquino should be taken as so much diplomatic gobbledygook serving as cover for strained bilateral relations. It is the hope in official quarters here, nevertheless, that President Reagan does not find it necessary to dispatch his personal envoy, Mr Philip Habib to Manila. When that Reagan "troubleshooter" visited Manila, something unpleasant happened to the then President Marcos. None but the most rabid political enemies of the present dispensation would want the Aquino regime to meet the same Habib "jinx."

20,000 LOYALISTS IN FUNERAL MARCH FOR SLAIN LEADER

HK250114 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] Thousands of Marcos loyalists, estimated at about 20,000 people, joined yesterday a funeral march for slain loyalist leader Felizardo Lota. The 7-hour and 20-kilometer funeral procession culminated with Lota's interment at the Manila Memorial Park in Paranaque, Metro Manila. Lota, who was former provincial fiscal of Batangas, was shot dead while walking away from the Manila Hilton last week after a meeting with loyalist leaders. Thousands of loyalists, many aboard cars and hired buses, joined the funeral procession along the south expressway, forcing the closure of the vehicular traffic on the southbound lane of the expressway.

2 Suspects in Killing Surrender

HK250902 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0800 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Two suspects in the killing of Batangas City Fiscal Felizardo Lota surrendred to Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile at Camp Aguinaldo today. The suspects were identified as Carlos Salazar and Fernando Diza, the head of the I Am a Filipino movement. The two men were accompanied by former MP Rafael Recto and former Pasay City Mayor Peewee Trinidad.

Salazar and Diaz had been hunted by the Western Police District [WPD] after they were identified by a witness who said he saw the killing in front of the Hilton Hotel last week. The witness, an electrician named Danilo Regalado, said he saw Diaz shoot Lota. He identified Diaz and Salazar at a lineup of suspects set up by WPD Superintendent General Alfredo Lim at police headquarters on UN Avenue. Minister Enrile turned the men over to the constabulary chief Major General Renato de Villa, who took down their confessions.

NDF TALKS PANEL TO SURFACE AFTER SAFETY GUARANTEE

HK220421 Hong Kong AFP in English 0405 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 22 (AFP) -- A communist rebel panel for planned peace talks has vowed to surface and set up an office here if the government signs an agreement guaranteeing thier safety and immunity from arrest during the negotiations. The National Democratic Front (NDF) said in a statement received here Friday that they had given the government a "proposed memorandum of agreement on guarantees of physical safety and immunity from arrest and prosecution." "After such an agreement is signed, your NDF panel intends to come out in the open, set up an office and residences for your negotiators, staff and security units. This would facilitate the formal phase of the negotiations."

The statement was contained in a special issue of the NDF organ, LIBERATION, marking Thursday's celebration of the third anniversary of political leader Benigno Aquino's assasination. The murder spelled doom for deposed president Ferdinand Marcos and swept the victim's widow Corazon Aquino to power. Mrs. Aquino has called for ceasefire talks, hoping to later reach a peaceful solution to a 17-year-old insurgency.

The NDF -- an underground alliance led by the banned Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and its New People's Army (NPA) -- will have another preliminary meeting with the government soon. The first took place August 5. The NDF statement, signed by chief negotiator Satur Ocampo, said the proposed agreement would "be effective for the entire duration of the peace negotiations and for a reasonable period thereafter."

best copy available

FBIS DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 166

27 August 1986

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

World Agricultural Exporters Meet in Queensland A 1
  Candadian Official Comments [Melbourne] A 1
  Hawke on U.S.-Europe 'Trade War' [Melbourne] A 1
  Report on Opening Session [Melbourne] A 1
  Differences Emerge [Melbourne] A 2

JAPAN

NHK Interviews Nakasone on Foreign Affairs C 1
USSR's Kapitsa Arrives From New Zealand C 7
Japanese, Soviet Officials Agree on UN Reform C 7
JCP's Fuwa on August Talks With Gorbachev C 8
Nakasone Plans 20-21 Sep Visit to Seoul for Asiad C 9
Gas Experts, Doctors Being Sent to Cameroon C 9

NORTH KOREA

Soviet Port Calls at Nampo Reportedly Okayed [KYODO] D 1
East Bloc Sources on Leader Visits During Asiad [KYODO] D 1
  Honecker Visit Announced D 1
Kim Il-song Receives PRC Youth Group 26 Aug D 2
Qin Jiwei Promises PRC Help if War Breaks Out D 2
Asian Games Security 'Pretext' for Repression D 2
    [NODONG SINMUN 24 Aug]
South's Antihijacking Exercise Called Stratagem D 4
    [NODONG SINMUN 26 Aug]
South's 'Heinous' Use of Torture Decried D 5
    [NODONG SINMUN 25 Aug]
Leaders Attend Pyongyang Construction Rally D 6
Party Only Leading Organization of Society D 7
    [NODONG SINMUN 24 Aug]
Politburo's Yi Chong-ok Meets Lebanese CP Group D 8
Vice Premier Chong Chun-ki Visiting Ghana D 8
    [cross reference]

SOUTH KOREA

Reportage on Reaction to Cabinet Reorganization E 1
  YONHAP Comments E 1
  NKDP Leaders Comment E 2
    [THE KOREA TIMES 27 Aug]
  KOREA TIMES Editorial [27 Aug] E 2
NKDP Demands Justice Minister's Resignation E 3
    [THE KOREA HERALD 26 Aug]

THAILAND

Sihanouk Arrives on Visit, Makes Statement J 1
Other Countries Asked To Accept SRV Refugees [THE NATION 23 Aug] J 1
Paper Views Contacts With South Pacific States [THE NATION 24 Aug] J 3
Senators Agree To Withdraw Lese Majeste Motion [BANGKOK POST 26 Aug] J 5
General Denies Army Role in Coalition Formation [BANGKOK POST 26 Aug] J 6
    Chawalit on Anticommunist Strategy [THE NATION 26 Aug] J 7
Forces Capture Abandoned Communist Rebel Camp [THE NATION 26 Aug] J 8
Northern Police Chief Interviewed on Crime J 8
Briefs: 200 Mines Cease Operation J 8

VIETNAM

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Visits 23-26 Aug K 1
Nguyen Huu Tho Makes Stopover in Moscow K 1
Leaders Attend Funeral for Ta Quang Buu K 2
Quang Ninh Special Sector Congresses Reviewed K 3
Military Institute Studies Political Report K 3
Officers' School Organizes Study of Documents K 4

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Court Orders UK Official To Provide MI-5 Data M 1
Labor Party Dissent Over Uranium Sales M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Lange Views Defense Inquiry Committee Report [THE EVENING POST 21 Aug] M 1

INDONESIA

Trade Minister on ASEAN Common Market Idea N 1
Mokhtar Leaves for Nonaligned Summit in Harare N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

MCA Leader Pleads Guilty in Breach of Trust Case O 1
    Verdict Throws MCA Into Crisis O 1
    MCA Urges 'Calm' O 2
Sihanouk Expresses Thanks, Leaves for Thailand O 2

SINGAPORE

Philippine President Begins 2-Day Official Visit O 2
    Speaks at Luncheon [AFP] O 3
    Talks With Lee Kuan Yew O 4

President Wee Hosts Banquet O 4
Business Community Expresses Support [Manila] O 5
Aquino Comments on Insurgency O 5

PHILIPPINES

Government Studying Gorbachev Vladivostok Speech P 1
Laurel on Expanding Relations With USSR P 1
BERNAMA Interviews Aquino on ASEAN 23 Aug P 1
Media Accused of Hurting Cease-fire Talks P 3
Ocampo Says Regional Peace Initiatives Okay [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 22 Aug] P 4
Army Extends Ceasefire Despite Mindanao Clashes [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 20 Aug] P 5
Mindanao Officials 'Optimistic' on Cease-fire [BUSINESS DAY 20 Aug] P 6
Butz Aquino: MNLF Peace May Improve Muslim Ties P 6
Misuari Will Accept Autonomy for Mindanao [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 26 Aug] P 7
MNLF Suspends Mindanao Fighting To Create Goodwill [BUSINESS DAY 26 Aug] P 8
LIBERATION Details 'Oust-Aquino Plot' Principals [Apr-May] P 9

WORLD AGRICULTURAL EXPORTERS IN QUEENSLAND

Canadian Official Comments

BK250700 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Canada's trade minister, Mr (Bob Andrew), says he hopes an international conference beginning in Queensland today will be a first step in bringing sanity to world agricultural trade. Mr Andrew was speaking in the north Queensland city of Cairns before the opening of a 3-day meeting of 14 agriculture exporters, including Australia, Canada, Indonesia, Brazil, Thailand, and the Philippines. The attending countries represent 22 percent of world farm trade. The conference will concentrate on formulating a united position to put forward at world trade talks in Uruguay next month. Radio Australia's reporter in Cairns, Will Atkins, says the attending nations are blaming the poor state of rural exports on a trade war between the United States and Europe.

[Begin Atkins recording] The row between Canberra and Washington over subsidized wheat and sugar sales is an example of the crisis in world agricultural trade which is seriously undermining several economies. The countries meeting in Cairns want to iron out a common position before the world trade talks in a bid to pressure the United States and Europe to free up farm trade. Canada is the biggest rural exporter at the Cairns meeting, and on his arrival today, Canada's minister for economic development and trade, Mr (Bob Andrew), said a long-term approach was needed by all exporters.

[(Andrew)] The world has gone crazy with subsidies, and with protectionism, and ultimately will hurt everybody, [words indistinct].

[Atkins] The meeting officially begins tonight with a speech by Australia's prime minister, Mr Hawke. He is expected to have harsh words for the United States and Europe who are only represented at the meeting by observers. [end recording]

Hawkes on U.S.-Europe 'Trade War'

BK260220 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0130 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] The prime minister, Mr Hawke, has accused Europe and America of engaging in a trade war in which their former World War allies are the victims. Speaking at the opening of the 14-nation fair traders meeting at Cairns, northern Queensland, Mr Hawke said that the trade war between the European Community and America had reached ludicrous proportions. Mr Hawke said the dispute had intensified rural poverty and human misery in poor countries. He called on the nations attending the conference to form an alliance to work toward remedies to the problem.

Countries represented at the conference include Canada, Indonesia, Brazil, Malaysia, and Thailand.

The federal leader of the opposition, Mr Howard, later said he supported in principle Mr Hawke's call for a trade alliance among nations affected by American and European subsidies.

Report on Opening Session

BK260555 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] The Australian minister for trade, Mr Dawkins, says small rural exporting nations have perhaps their last chance to tackle the world agricultural crisis at trade talks in South America next month.

Mr Dawkins was speaking in the Queensland city of Cairns during a conference of 14 nations that represent about 22 percent of the world agricultural trade. Countries represented at the 3-day fair traders conference include Australia, Canada, Indonesia, Brazil, New Zealand, Malaysia, and Thailand.

A Radio Australia reporter in Cairns, Will Atkins, says the 14 nations are considering suggestions to make a united effort to halt trade distortions caused by the export subsidy war between the United States and Europe.

[Begin Atkins recording] At this morning's opening round of talks Mr Dawkins, who is hosting the Cairns meeting, said the 14 fair traders should diplomatically and commercially apply all the pressure they could to the U.S. and the EEC to halt the destructive subsidies. As well, he urged the fair traders to make sure agricultural trade was at the top of the agenda at the meeting in Uruguay in 3 weeks where the world's major trade agreement, GATT, comes up for review. Mr Dawkins warned that unless they acted together they could lose possibly their last chance to tackle the issues. [end recording]

New Zealand's trade minister, Mr Mike Moore, told the meeting that it was not in the long-term interests of the major economies to persist with protectionism and trade subsidies.

[Begin Moore recording] We have to point out to our friends -- the majors -- that there are great costs for them and for global security if they do nothing. And the cost of doing nothing will bring some democracies to their knees if they cannot provide the wealth their people deserve. [end recording]

The trade meeting has now moved into a closed session, but our correspondent says indications are that the 14 nations appear to be moving smoothly toward a common position.

Differences Emerge

BK260825 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0800 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Differences have emerged at an international conference of trade ministers in Australia over how strongly they should push for the scrapping of export subsidies on farm products. The conference of the so-called fair traders in agriculture in the northeastern Australian city of Cairns is being attended by trade ministers from 14 countries.

A Radio Australia reporter covering today's opening session says that Canada appears to want a softer line of export subsidies than most of the other countries represented. Our reporter says that while all countries were unanimous in calling for a united front at the world trade talks in Uruguay next month, differences have emerged on how to tackle the problem.

Australia's trade minister, Mr Dawkins, said the 14 countries should form an alliance to apply all the diplomatic and commercial pressure possible in tackling the problem caused by subsidized farm exports from the United States and Europe. Australia wants the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which will be reviewed at the Uruguay conference, to ban export subsidies.

Argentina's delegate called for the subsidies to be scrapped within a certain time. However, our reporter in Cairns says that Canada is backing the existing GATT policy of merely looking at the issue of agricultural subsidies.

NHK INTERVIEWS NAKASONE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

OW251800 Tokyo NHK Television Network in Japanese 1300 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Interview with Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone by NHK newscasters Midori Miyazaki and Hisanori Isomura on the program "An Interview With the Prime Minister -- International Community and Japan," prerecorded at the prime minister's villa in Karuizawa, Nagano Prefecture on 24 August]

[Excerpts] [Miyazaki] Mr Prime Minister, since no cabinet meeting was held last week, you have been enjoying the longest summer vacation you have ever had. Is this summer vacation different from those you have had before? Have you been enjoying it?

[Nakasone] It has been the same. However, August is of significance to me in two ways. August is the month for the repose of souls. We had tragedies at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and last year we had a tragic JAL airliner crash at Mount Ostaka. Moreover, we have the obon festival. [passage omitted] Meanwhile, August is the month for me to prepare for the latter half of the year. We have finally completed the first half of the year, and I must prepare for another high point in the autumn. How should we cross this high point? I must prepare this month. [passage omitted]

[Isomura] There is a saying that a leader should concern himself with the future of the country before the people begin to do so, seeking his own pleasure only after the people are assured of their happiness. This is what a leader should feel, though he must take some rest to refresh himself. What have you been pondering in your solitude at this villa?

[Nakasone] As I have just said, I have been pondering how I should deal with issues that will come up in the second half of the year. My feeling is that since the United States is going to have an off-year election in...

[Isomura interrupts] November.

[Nakasone] November. It still remains to be seen whether the Democrats or the Republicans will win in the elections. Depending on the outcome, there may be changes in U.S. policies, particularly in trade. We must pay attention to protectionism and yen-dollar relations. We must watch the changes and consider whether Japan can make any first moves in dealing with these issues. Even now, we should pay attention to the situation after the off-year election and to whatever we must do.

On the other hand, there is the issue of U.S.-USSR summit talks. Taking various situations into consideration, it seems that the world as a whole is moving gradually toward a new system or a new order. Probably, the United States and the USSR will hold summit talks. A step forward, though a small one, will be taken toward eliminating nuclear arms, to some extent, because both the United States and USSR are suffering from an economic slowdown. Human wisdom will naturally lead us toward the elimination of nuclear arms. When things take this turn, there will be changes on a global scale, including an economic impact. As far as Japan is concerned, it is becoming an age-oriented society, as indicated in the economic white paper released the other day. In 35 years people over 65 will account for about one-quarter of the population. And, of course, the era of an information-oriented, internationalized and age-oriented society will then emerge. A structural change will move us gradually toward this era. We must be cognizant of this tendency and make desirable preparations in politics. I have been pondering these issues. [passage omitted]

[Miyazaki] In speaking about the speed of change, let us take the yen's appreciation as an example. We feel the strength of the yen abroad, but it is not a question that concerns merely the exchange rate. We fell a sort of sudden increase in Japan's status itself, together with an expansion of our responsibilities. If an expansion of responsibility does not accompany our increased states there will certainly be various problems. What do you think of this situation?

[Nakasone] That is true. The per capita income of Japan was once said to be $10,000, lower than that in the United States. As the yen has become much stronger recently, the per capita income is said to be from $16,000 to $17,000.

[Isomura] Yes, if calculated at the ratio of $1 to 158 yen, it has surpassed that of the United States.

[Nakasone] Yes, it has exceeded that of the United States, and Japan has emerged as the top-ranking nation in this respect. Then a question arises whether Japan with this per capita income has made any contributions to the world, though it has the ODA, official development assistance for developing countries. However, when it comes to contributions to the world in defense and security, Japan is still criticized as the most shrewd and pretentious nation. Against such criticism, Japan should advance from a nation coexisting with the world to a nation contributing to the world.

[Miyazaki] Do you mean that Japan should take another positive step?

[Nakasone] That's right. To become an internationalized nation, Japan should not be a nation that only coexists in the international community but a nation that contributes to the world. [passage omitted]

[Miyazaki] Mr Prime Minister, let us change to the topic of our diplomacy with the USSR. The USSR has indicated its position in attaching importance to Asia as stated in General Security Gorbachev's Vladivostok sppech, including improving its relations with China. The USSR seems to be taking a flexible attitude, as in extension of the unilateral nuclear test moratorium, in appealing to other countries. What is your view, Mr Prime Minister?

[Nakasone] When I attended Mr Chernenko's funeral service, I met with Mr Gorbachev and talked with him for about an hour. Since then, I have become convinced that he will inaugurate new policies, and I have made reports to this effect to the Diet. That is, he believes communism is now in a deadlock in the world, that Soviet diplomacy is in a deadlock, and that the USSR domestically is suffering from a slowdown in its economy. In this sense, he wants a major reform, or renovation, of communism and he wants to be the father of a revival in communism. I think he is a man with such an ambition and also a man of ability.

In this connection, the USSR has been promoting its diplomacy in a resolute way, and it wants to have talks with the United States. In particular, the USSR is advancing resolutely toward Asia and the Pacific. As its advance into Europe is at a deadlock now and it has failed to gain much headway there, the USSR is now trying to open up toward Japan, the United States, and Asia and score some diplomatic achievements in this area. And I think his view in this aspect is correct. In particular, the USSR has almost no bases, except Vietnam's Cam Ranh Bay, in Asia and the Pacific. Meanwhile, as Japan is a sort of doorkeeper in Asia and the Pacific, the USSR cannot move into Asia and the Pacific without obtaining a key from Japan. I imagine he considers Japan to be in such a position, so to speak. If that is his view, we must deal with various issues, including the northern territories, economic cooperation, and Siberian issues.

Well then, why don't we have talks? We are each other's neighbors. I hope we can get along with each other with agreeable relations, though we should not interfere with internal affairs. But we must solve pending issues in a fair and square way. This is my view.

[Isomura] As for the Japan-USSR summit talks, it is Mr Gorbachev's turn to come to Japan. Will his visit be discussed and decided through the talks to be held between Foreign Minister Kuranari and Foreign Minister Shevardnadze at the UN General Assembly session?

[Nakasone] Yes, that's right. The other day, Soviet Ambassador Solovyev came to my place for a visit and we confirmed that mutual visits would be exchanged. I told him that it is their turn to pay a visit. Japan is single-mindedly maintaining this position. I am trying to have the foreign ministers of the two countries work out details at the UN General Assembly session. Our side is saying that it will be most desirable for us if Mr Gorbachev comes to Japan by January.

[Isomura] [passage omitted] It is said that Gorbachev's line is supported by reformists and that efforts will be made to resolutely revitalize the USSR's economy. According to another report, Mr Gorbachev told Mr Reagan during their last talks that Japan was enjoying prosperity because of its small amount of military spending and that the two countries should carry out disarmament and follow the example of Japan as both countries have difficulties in their economies. [laughing]

[Nakasone] I don't know whether it is true or not, but there are signs that he may be thinking of that.

[Isomura] In his Vladivostok speech, if I am not mistaken, he said, in the name of economic diplomacy, that the Japanese know how to revitalize an economy and that he would take advantage of this to promote bilateral relations. What do you think of this?

[Nakasone] Mr Gorbachev has deep concerns over and interest in Japan. He wants to see for himself the secret of how a country as small as Japan can have such economic power. That is why he wants to come to Japan. If so, we want him to visit us. Anyway, he must pay us a visit first. That's what I have been saying.

[Isomura] Let us turn to the other issue, the U.S. -USSR summit talks, which will probably be held this year. There are, however, still many problems, including the disarmament issue, various bilateral problems, and other issues such as the human rights issue in other regions. Do you think there will be any favorable development in the relations between the United States and USSR?

[Nakasone] I think so. There will be development, particularly in the settlement of INF -- intermediate-range forces -- of some regional issues such as the Afghanistan issue and others, and of human rights issues concerning the Jews. I think they will make advances in some areas but I am not quite sure which ones. Perhaps it is quite probable there will be development in the INF issue.

[Isomura] In this connection, it is said there will be a sort of new detente, or cold detente as some observers describe it, because there is still something of a cold relationship. People should welcome this trend as a step forward toward nuclear disarmament. However, France and China are concerned that there might be a new Yalta agreement. They are strongly on guard against such a trend.

[Nakasone] Yes, there is such a trend, and Japan is also concerned about this trend. However, the term "detente" seems to have become old-fashioned. I don't think it is a desirable term. If there is a desirable term, it should be dialogue.

[Isomura] The age of dialogue?

[Nakasone] Yes, the age of dialogue. Detente is something like unbuttoning, or taking something off, while dialogue is to hold talks and carry on. In this sense, I think it is desirable to move toward the age of new dialogue.

[Isomura] This information comes from Chinese sources: It is said that the United States and USSR seem somehow unable to suppress their desire to divide the whole world between them and to dominate it. In this connection, to cite a recent example, a secret agreement was reportedly reached at the Carter-Brezhnev talks held in Vienna in 1979. I went to Geneva with newscaster Taro Kimura last year to collect news about the U.S.-USSR summit talks. Reagan and Gorbachev held talks between themselves, without other leaders participating, on six occasions. Even Stalin used to have Molotov always at his side in talks with other leaders. On these occasions, Reagan and Gorbachev talked with each other without other leaders participating. We don't know what secret agreement was reached at the talks and what impact it might eventually have on Japan. In this connection, we cannot welcome, without some reserve, the dialogue between the two countries. This is, however, my own personal opinion.

[Nakasone] My opinion is that there was not a secret agreement. Both Mr Reagan and Mr Gorbachev are politicians who take care of work themselves. So it may be possible for those two to meet and make an agreement. But, before doing so, they must consult with their men thoroughly. When it comes to that kind of serious work, there is little room for them to do something arbitrarily by themselves. So I think there was no room for the two to make that sort of secret agreement just because they met alone.

[Isomura] You may be right, but they are conscious of Japan, I believe....

[Nakasone, interrupting] However, it is true that both sides understand each other better, believing that that their partners are people with whom they can speak and who do not lie, at least, in some areas. It is true that their understanding of each other as human beings has deepened. This is a good thing indeed. Messrs Reagan and Gorbachev are certain to feel something as human beings if they meet eye-to-eye and talk with each other. So I think it is important for them to meet. Both sides are in agony with nuclear arms, those evil weapons, in their arsenals. They cannot throw them away either. With their economies in bad shape, they are both agonizing. They are suffering from the same sickness. So, in a way, they are fellow sufferers pitying each other. However, since a country has its foundation, they are in no position to betray those foundations. So they proceed with their dialogue through human understanding while keeping those grim things inside. I think we are in that kind of an era now.

[Miyazaki] For Japan, which is sandwiched between the United States and the Soviet Union, will not a new situation develop in which Japan is used as a Japan card like China was once used as a China card?

[Nakasone] Probably not, because Japan as a member of the Free World stands firm with a security treaty concluded with the United States. This is a solid fact. The USSR is carrying out everything fully aware of that. China is also fully aware of it and recognizes Japan's commitment to the security treaty, but friendship between Japan and China has nonetheless deepened a great deal.

[Isomura] Mr Prime Minister, you have just said fellow sufferers pity one another. I think that applies to Sino-Soviet relations as well. Taking a look at all the world's countries, Japan is the only country in fine shape. [laughter]

[Nakasone] That is not necessarily true. Japan is not necessarily in fine shape.

[Isomura] In fine shape statistically only, I mean.

[Miyazaki] Changing the subject, you paid an official visit to the Yasukuni Shrine last year, but skipped it this year. What was your true motive?

[Nakasone] Concerning the Yasukuni visit issue, I have caused people anxiety in various ways. But, to tell you the truth, I personally am the one who wishes to visit the Yasukuni Shrine most. My younger brother, who was a navy Lieutenant j.g., was killed in action and I had quite a few comrades in arms killed in war. So, I want to pay my respects at the shrine more than any other politician. Last year I paid an official visit there, and I wanted to establish the fact that that sort of procedure conforms to the Constitution. That is still in effect.

Since last year it has been said that permanent war criminals are enshrined there. They were pitiable, but they led the invasion of China and the war which troubled the Southeast Asian and other countries so much. So it is natural for other countries to think that for the prime minister to pay an official visit to the shrine where they are enshrined amounts to singing the praises of those leaders. China will think so, Asia will think so, and so will the rest of the world. So they think that it would be better for me to drop it. To tell you the truth, I was not aware that permanent war criminals are enshrined there. I cared about the constitutional question only. But that kind of voice has been raised all along.

In China and in other countries, opposition parties exist and that gives the opposition good material to attack the government. Fortunately the incumbent governments in power all maintain friendly relations with Japan. Governments friendly with Japan will be driven into a corner and Japan's relations with them will deteriorate again -- South Korea, China and ASEAN, for instance. Who will be most pleased with this? It will be those farther north. [laughter] Japan absolutely must steer clear of becoming isolated from Asia. I have been striving hard to bring Japan into partnership with Asia and not isolate her from Asia. To that end I visited South Korea, China, and ASEAN. If that foothold crumbles, the foundation of the diplomatic efforts I have made thus far will fall to pieces.

In that sense I drew the conclusion that I had better practice self-control. I believe that the spirits of the war dead would understand it. I believed that they, too, would grieve if the country were driven into a predicament and isolated from Asia. So I refrained visiting the shrine this year, believing that the spirits of the war dead would understand my position.

[Isomura] Now an extraordinary Diet session is scheduled to be called into session on 11 September, I believe. It has a host of pending issues to deal with -- tax reform, education, as you briefly mentioned earlier, and the restructuring of the Japanese economy contained in the popularly termed Maekawa report. On which issue do you place most emphasis, Mr Prime Minister?

[Nakasone] When the session is convened, the Diet will address the Japan National Railway reform bill before anything else. There is also a senior citizens' insurance bill. The government is facing a deficit of Y22 billion a month if the bill is not enacted. Stimulation of business through a supplementary budget and bold measures to help small and medium businesses and cope with the recession caused by the strong yen will be the main issues, I think.

At the same time, we will have to work on a new tax reform bill for submission to the Diet next year. We will also have to work on education reform, dealing with such concrete questions as how manners, morals, and other basic patterns of human life should be taught. Those things are on my mind now. Also, I must pay attention to foreign relations, seeing how Japanese-U.S. relations will develop after the off-year election in the United States and how the world situation develops.

[Isomura] Please let me go back to the tax reform issue. The United States is initiating drastic tax reform and seems to have cleared the last hurdle. If the bill is approved, in view of the difference in tax rates between the two countries, it will be more economic for a Japanese to live in the United States and return to Japan once in a while. This would be a so-called tax-efficient technique. [Laughter] Progressive tax rates are very high in Japan, and so are inheritance taxes. The opinion is strong that unless Japan carries out drastic tax reform including indirect taxes now, it will have a problem internationalizing itself.

[Nakasone] That is true. Under the proposed system, the United States adopts a dual income tax system -- 15 and 27 percent.

[Isomura] Yes, 27 percent.

[Nakasone] It will be lowered to that percentage from the current 50 percent. Corporate taxes will also be lowered to 33 percent from what is now about 46 percent. Tax rates will thus be lowered while special measures and loopholes are eliminated. I think it is quite a bold reform. But, seeing the U.S. tax system, we are worried about whether American investments, industrial investments, will decrease because those special measures are eliminated. In the money game, the United States is now adopting a method of using foreign countries and, consequently, American industries are moving abroad. The United States is becoming empty. This is a serious matter. We are worried about whether this phenomenon will grow further. As you pointed out, if taxes are lowered in the United States, it will be better for our corporations to move their head offices to the United States because corporate taxes there are 33 percent compared to 43 percent in Japan. With income taxes, those taxed most in Japan pay 88 percent.

[Isomura] Yes, including local taxes.

[Nakasone] Including local taxes. If they got to the United States, they will pay no more than 27 percent. Water runs toward lower places. How to deal with this imbalance in taxes is a big task for us now. I think we will have to take those aspects into consideration in our forthcoming tax reform.

[Isomura] Internationalization is indeed like bleeding in various ways, is it not?

[Nakasone] Yes, as you mentioned we must carry into practice the Maekawa report -- the reform of the Japanese economic strtucture to keep it in harmony with the world economy -- in all seriousness. Since it takes time, it is a matter that cannot necessarily be completed immediately. However, unless we implement it in earnest, we will be discredited internationally. So we have established a center headed by me to promote this reform. We are about to launch into moving ahead step-by-step, using our greatest strength.

[Isomura] When I meet American friends these days, they say that although the Japanese never open their mouths without talking about the Maekawa report, [laughter] they should carry it out before talking about it. [laughter] As you said, Japan will be discredited if it is not carried out.

[Nakasone] Well, we are moving ahead step-by-step now, although there are various problems cropping up.

[Miyazaki] Mr Prime Minister, since time is running out, please allow me to ask you the last question. Earlier you discussed Japanese-Soviet summit talks, and you also seem to be considering a plan to visit the Soviet Union. Roughly when are you planning to visit Moscow? How is it written in your schedule notes?

[Nakasone] It is not written in my notes. [laughter] Since it is their turn to come, my turn will come after they have visited us. Well, I may not be prime minister by that time. [laughter] Who will make the visit will be determined by the Japanese Government.

[Miyazaki] You said you feel heavily responsible for carrying out your election pledges.

[Nakasone] Yes, that is right.

[Miyazaki] You said that at a recent talk.

[Nakasone] Yes. Since we were given 304 Diet seats, we must put the pledges into practice at the risk of becoming rigid. Otherwise, I think we really will be visited with divine punishment the next time. [laughter]

[Miyazaki and Isomura] Thank you very much.

[Nakasone] Thank you.

USSR'S KAPITSA ARRIVES FROM NEW ZEALAND

OW270015 Tokyo KYODO in English 0105 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 27 KYODO -- Mikhail Kapitsa, deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union, arrived at Narita International Airport Wednesday morning after visiting New Zealand. Kapitsa is here to brief Japanese officials on Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's speech in Vladivostock last July, in which he proposed to hold a conference focusing on security in the Asia and Pacific region. During his three-day visit, Kapitsa will meet with Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari and Deputy Vice Minister for Political Affairs Shinichi Yanai.

JAPANESE, SOVIET OFFICIALS AGREE ON UN REFORM

OW261143 Tokyo KYODO in English 1138 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 26 Kyodo -- Japan and the Soviet Union Tuesday agreed to make the utmost efforts to reform the United Nations, a Foreign Ministry official said. The accord came at an annual two-day director-level consultation on the U.N., which ended here Tuesday. Norobu Nakahira, director general of the Foreign Ministry's United Nations bureau, represented Japan and Valentin V. Lozinskiy, chief of the Department of International Organizations, headed the Soviet delegation.

Japanese and Soviet officials agreed that they will support a U.N. recommendation on a drastic cut in the U.N. work force and the number of U.N. senior officials. They also pledged to reform the 159-member international organization in the coming U.N. General Assembly meeting in September, the official said. The recommendation, which was adopted recently by the group of high-level intergovernmental experts set up at a U.N. General Assembly meeting last December, on a Japanese initiative, and [as received] calls for a 15 percent cut in the U.N. work force and a 25 percent reduction of senior officials within three years. There are now 12,000 U.N. staffers and 60 senior posts.

During the consultations, Deputy Minister for Foreign Affairs Shinichi Yanai met the Soviet officials and said he favored closer contacts of top-level officials of both countries highly. He referred to reciprocal visits by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and his former Japanese counterpart Shintaro Abe to Moscow and Tokyo respectively, and a planned meeting of Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari with Shevardnadze in New York September 24 at the U.N. General Assembly. Both countries also agreed to a reform of the United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

The Soviet side called for Japanese support of its proposal to set up a system of overall international security to be presented at the coming U.N. General Assembly meeting, the official said. The Japanese officials said they praised part of the security proposal which focuses on the prevention of international terrorism, but they are opposed to the inclusion of the new economic and information order, according to the official. The Japanese side said they have to study the proposal thoroughly and expressed reluctance to adopt the proposal as a whole.

The consultations also covered Middle-East, Afghanistan and South African problems, the official said.

Japanese officials again called for a global reduction of the intermediate nuclear forces (INF), the official said.

JCP'S FUWA ON AUGUST TALKS WITH GORBACHEV

OW221353 Tokyo KYODO in English 1055 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 22 KYODO -- Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has agreed to promote Soviet participation in a Hiroshima-Nagasaki appeal for a ban on nuclear weapons, Japan Communist Party (JCP) Chairman Tetsuzo Fuwa said Friday. Fuwa, who visited Moscow earlier this month and met Gorbachev and Politburo member Yegor Ligachev, said the main theme of the meeting was cooperation by the two parties in promoting the antinuclear movement.

He told a press meeting here that one of the concrete accomplishments of the parley was positive Soviet commitment to join the Hiroshima-Nagasaki appeal, adopted last February by representatives of 12 countries gathered at a Hiroshima peace meeting. The appeal calls on people to support a total ban on nuclear weapons for world peace. Since then, 18 international organizations and 133 groups of various countries around the world, as well as the United Nations non-governmental organizations, have joined the appeal.

The Soviet Union has not actually participated in the movement up to now, according to Fuwa. However, when he handed a Russian version of the Hiroshima-Nagasaki appeal to Gorbachev, the Soviet leader immediately expressed his support, Fuwa said.

"Speed up" is one of the slogans of the Soviet party these days, according to Fuwa, and he was pleased when he saw the issue reported on television in Moscow the same evening.

At the conclusion of the Moscow parley, the two parties agreed that a 1984 joint statement focusing on the antinuclear issue is still applicable in the current international situation. They agreed to continue developing and widening activities in the spirit of the statement, Fuwa said.

Fuwa extended a JCP invitation to Gorbachev to visit Japan, as the two parties had agreed to hold another meeting to review their cooperation, Fuwa said. The Soviet leader said he also had an invitation from the Japanese Government and the only problem is his hectic schedule, according to Fuwa. Gorbachev did not mention a possible date for a trip to Japan, something the government of Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone has been interested to know, Fuwa said.

NAKASONE PLANS 20-21 SEP VISIT TO SEOUL FOR ASIAD

OW260339 Tokyo KYODO in English 0328 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 26 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone will visit Seoul from September 20 to 21 to attend the opening ceremony of the Asian Games to be held from September 20 to October 5, Chief Cabinet Secretary Masaharu Gotoda said Tuesday. The visit is at the invitation of South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan. During the two-day visit, Nakasone is expected to have talks with Chon on such issues as the situation on the Korean peninsula and Japan's fingerprinting system for foreign residents. It will be Nakasone's second trip to South Korea, his first visit being in January 1983.

GAS EXPERTS, DOCTORS BEING SENT TO CAMEROON

OW270732 Tokyo KYODO in English 0721 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 27 KYODO -- Japan decided Wednesday to send a team of gas experts and doctors to Cameroon to help the people suffering from the effects of toxic gas released from a volcanic lake in the northwestern part of the country, the Foreign Ministry said.

United Nations disaster authorities have reported 1,534 people were killed by the gas from Lake Nios, located 325 kilometers north of the capital, Yaounde. An estimated 25,000 to 30,000 people suffered effects in varying degrees, ministry officials quoted the authorities as saying.

The experts team, including volcano researchers, gas alarm equipment experts and doctors, is scheduled to leave Tokyo for Cameroon Wednesday night at the earliest, carrying with them medicines, tents, blankets and foods for the relief of the gas victims, the officials said. They said the team will discuss with Cameroon officials installation of protective equipment against toxic gas. The Cameroon government requested the equipment.

The government earlier decided to send a Japanese doctor in Ghana and an official of the governmental Japan International Cooperation Agency to the disaster scene.

SOVIET PORT CALLS AT NAMPO REPORTEDLY OKAYED

OW260248 Tokyo KYODO in English 0237 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Beijing, Aug. 27 KYODO -- North Korea has approved a port call by Soviet warshps at the country's naval base at Nampo, on the western coast of North Korea, according to Eastern bloc diplomatic sources here. The decision follows the approval by North Korea earlier for Soviet warships to make port calls at the eastern port of Wonsan.

The move is seen among Western diplomatic sources here as meaning that the Soviet Union has expanded naval footholds on both coasts of North Korea, which will affect the military balance in the Far East. The approval, enabling Soviet warships to undergo repairs and be supplied with fuel and food, will also affect China, which has a major naval base at Lushun situated right across Korea Bay from Nampo, the sources said.

However, there has been no report that the Soviet Navy has so far used the newly approved port. The Soviets are expected to use the right of port calls at Nampo for political purposes in the light of their relationship with China.

EAST BLOC SOURCES ON LEADER VISITS DURING ASIAD

OW261249 Tokyo KYODO in English 1241 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Beijing, Aug. 26 KYODO -- North Korea is trying to overcome the image of isolation stemming from its decision not to participate in the Seoul Asian Games next month, by launching a drive to invite foreign dignitaries, East bloc diplomatic sources said Tuesday. According to the sources, top foreign dignitaries from East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Mongolia and Poland will visit North Korea from mid-September to mid-October, a period that brackets the Asian Games in Seoul.

The visits are intended to demonstrate to the world the bonds between the communist bloc nations and divert world attention from Seoul, according to the sources.

Among the visitors will be Erich Honecker, chairman of the Council of State of East Germany, and Wojciech Jaruzelski, first secretary of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Polish United Workers' Party. Honecker is expected to visit China after going to North Korea, while Jaruzelski is also said to be considering a visit to Beijing.

Honecker Visit Announced

SK270439 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0429 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 27 (KCNA) -- Comrade Erich Honecker, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Socialist Unity Party of Germany and chairman of the State Council of the German Democratic Republic, will pay an official goodwill visit to the Democratic People's Republic of Korea in late October on the invitation of Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea and president of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

KIM IL-SONG RECEIVES PRC YOUTH GROUP 26 AUG

SK261006 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1000 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 26 (KCNA) -- The great leader President Kim Il-song received today the visiting Chinese youth delegation headed by Song Defu, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Youth League of China. Present on the occasion were Kim Hwan, Ho Chong-suk and chairman of the Central Committee of the League of Socialist Working Youth Cloe Yong-hae. Zong Kewen, Chinese ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Korea, was also present. President Kim Il-song conversed with the guests in a cordial and friendly atmosphere. The delegation presented a gift to him. President Kim Il-song posed for a photograph with the entire members of the delegation.

QIN JIWEI PROMISES PRC HELP IF WAR BREAKS OUT

SK270534 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0454 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 27 (KCNA) -- We want peace but if the enemy starts war again, we will resolutely rush out and crush him, fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Korean people as in the past, declared Qin Jiwei, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, commander of the Beijing units of the Chinese People's Liberation Army and army corps commander of the former Chinese People's Volunteers, when he visited the unit of the Korean People's Army to which Comrade Kang Yong Dok belongs.

He said that in the past the peoples and armies of China and Korea fought shoulder to shoulder with each other against the Japanese imperialists and the U.S. imperialist aggressors and won victory. While visiting the post of the KPA unit to which Comrade Chon Chae-son belongs, he recalled with deep emotion the past days when he rushed to the Korean front under the banner of "resisting America and aiding Korea, safeguarding the home and defending the motherland" and fought on the Sanggam Ridge against the enemy, and said that victory was won in the battle on the Sanggam Ridge thanks to the coordinate operations of the armies of China and Korea and the active support of the Korean people.

ASIAN GAMES SECURITY 'PRETEXT' FOR REPRESSION

SK250525 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2153 GMT 23 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 24 August commentary: "The Sports Games are Causing Hard Times for the People"]

[Text] The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique handed down a directive for 60 days of emergency guard duty beginning 21 August. The directive was issued to the police throughout South Korea on the pretext of ensuring security at the Asian Games.

The puppet police headquarters director announced that he would mobilize crack police forces, including a special police attack unit, for repression before and after the Asian Games.

He also handed down a directive to strengthen the combat capability of the police operation units against southward infiltration of armed spies by someone, something expected to take place during the Asian Games.

Not satisfied with blockading the just advance of the South Korean youths, students, and people by issuing emergency guard and emergency duty directives one after another, the puppets handed down another repressive order called the directive for emergency guard duty with the Asian Games near at hand. Thus, they are going to mobilize even crack police forces, including the special police attack force, a notorious murderous group, for repression. This is a situation we should not overlook. This is clear evidence that the puppets are using the international sports games to suppress the anti-U.S. and anti-fascist struggle of the South Korean people with bayonets and guns and to realize security through power.

The fact that the puppets rave about strengthening forces while babbling on about someone's infiltration of armed spies into the South with the approach of the Asian Games proceeded from their vicious plan to cruelly suppress the anti-U.S. and anti-fascist advance of the South Korean youths, students, and people by linking the infiltration to us.

They are blocking the people's aspiration for independence and democracy by successively handing down directives for repression while instigating North-South confrontation, talking about infiltration of armed spies into the South and social unrest, and so forth. This is totally counter to the ideal of international sports games which aspire for peace and friendship.

Such reckless maneuvers only reveal to the people of world that South Korea is an unfit venue for international sports games and that the puppets are fascist tyrants and a group of anti-communist lunatics unqualified to hold international games.

People remember that 6 years ago the Chon Tu-hwan clique massacred en masse several thousand people in Kwangju who called for democracy by branding them as rebels after mobilizing numerous puppet airborne troops. Is there any difference between the act of the puppets who massacred the people one after another by mobilizing more than 1 million repressive forces and the acts of the special police force, which has put South Korea's land under emergency martial law, after issuing repressive orders in succession, and the massacre at Kwangju?

The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique held a festival for usurping power while sitting on the bloody bodies of the citizens of Kwangju. Today in the same manner, it has assumed all of the South Korean people to be victims of guns and bayonets by putting forth the Asian Games to prolong its power.

It is the vicious idea of the Chon Tu-hwan clique to overcome its crisis and lay a foundation for long-term power by hosting the international sports event in Seoul, even if doing so may require that all the lands of South Korea are wet with the people's blood.

How can such a crime of the puppets -- who regard sacred international sports games, which take friendship, unity, and peace among peoples as their lofty ideals, as filthy political playthings and as tools to prolong their power -- be tolerated?

The puppets' bloody repressive atrocities perpetrated with the approach of the Asian Games will only bring greater complaints and resistance from the South Korean people. The Chon Tu-hwan fascist clique should stop its bestial repression of the people and immediately relinquish power according to the demands of the people.

SOUTH'S ANTIHIJACKING EXERCISES CALLED STRATAGEM

SK260908 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2151 GMT 25 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN Aug 26 Commentary: "Stratagem by Initiative"]

[Text] On 23 August at Kimpo airport, the South Korean puppets conducted a so-called exercise for arresting hijackers preparing to hamper the Asian Games and the Olympics. According to a news report, the puppets have kicked up a commotion by mobilizing the puppet special attack unit and armored forces under the pretext of arresting armed hijackers paid by the North. This is another provocation and shameless stratagem opposing us.

The puppets are raving as if we are to blame for the fact that the international sports games, including the Asian Games, set to be held in Seoul are facing a crisis. Can such a nonsensical act work in this world? The present crisis confronting the Asian Games and the 1988 Olympics results from inviting these games into South Korea for a mixed political purpose, and the crisis has become aggravated because of the puppets' having committed all types of criminal maneuvers to enforce these games regardless of opposition at home and abroad.

The puppets have maneuvered to use the Asian Games and the Olympics as a tool to concoct two Koreas and permanently remain in power and as an opportunity to accelerate their war plot of northward invasion. Under the pretext of the international sports games, inspiring hostility and confrontation among countrymen, they are brandishing bayonets before the students and the people, who demand independence and democracy, and they are exploiting the people without discretion. Such acts committed by the puppets have faced justifiable opposition and rejections from the South Korean people and from the broad social and sports circles around the world. The true crisis the puppets face is this.

In addition, the puppets have repeatedly announced that foreign gangs and crime rings are ready to go into action at the Asian Games and that major crimes are assumed to be increasing in South Korea. This consequence was also caused by the puppets themselves.

Anything can happen if an international sports event is held in South Korea, where extreme instability and social disorder continue. The gibberish of the ringleader, who has led the Asian Games and the Olympics to the brink of disaster, about the threat from the North is ridiculous.

The reason the puppets, feeling uneasy and impatient, have recently been kicking up a commotion about hampering and hijacking by someone is clear. It is a pre-emptive stratagem designed to lay on us in advance the responsibility for all that might happen in connection with the Asian Games and the Olympics. At the same time, it is also designed to mobilize the suppressive forces armed with heavy weapons throughout South Korea and to rationalize this mobilization.

On that day the puppets conducted an exercise on the assumption that the hijackers would land at a South Korean airport to refuel. However, around the world there are no hijackers willing to knowingly enter such a trap. Under the pretext of arresting the hijackers, the puppets surrounded the airport by mobilizing the special attack unit and armored forces and have maneuvered to receive people visiting South Korea. For the same reason, they are plotting to turn all of South Korea into a scene of confusion and to suppress the people's resistance.

Aside from all of this, South Korea has become murderous with the Asian games near at hand.

The more the puppets utter urgent words about someone's hampering, the clearer they reveal that South Korea is a very unstable and dangerous place for international sports games, including the Asian games.

SOUTH'S 'HEINOUS' USE OF TORTURE DECIRED

SK251247 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2152 GMT 24 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 25 August commentary: "A Beast in the Guise of a Human"]

[Text] That the fascist Chon Tu-hwan clique has subjected political prisoners to chemical torture has been brought to light by the family of a political prisoner, Mr Kang U, who is being detained in the Namyong branch office of the puppet National Police headquarters. Not content with imprisoning innocent people and subjecting them to barbarous physical punishment, the fascist Chon Tu-hwan clique is inflicting even chemical torture on them. What a heinous group of butchers it is!

We resolutely condemn and denounce such brutality by the fascist hangmen, who regularly infuriate all men on earth, as a challenge to the South Korean people struggling for democracy and human rights as well as an insult to the world's declaration of human rights, which has called for the elimination of torture.

The Chon Tu-hwan reign is applying all forms of heinous torture -- ancient, medieval, and modern -- to political prisoners. While inflicting physical torture with crushing bones, burning flesh, and drying blood through such tortures as the Taekwondo torture, roast chicken torture, Genghis Khan torture, and electric torture, the Chon Tu-hwan ring is inflicting dirty sexual torture on political prisoners and has gone so far as to even subject them to chemical torture that ruins their minds and destroys their bodies.

How many people have died or been crippled as a result of the brutality inflicted on them by the hangmen, not to mention the 80 political prisoners, including Kim Kun-tae, former chairman of the youth federation for the democratization movement, who were beaten all over their bodies with wooden bars for several days; metal worker Yi Yong-sok who was burned on a burning sheet of steel; So Sung whose limbs are twisted and who has no ears as a result of fire torture; and 8 prisoners who were beaten to death with steel bars?

The puppets' sexual torture is a dirty act of which even beasts would be ashamed. With photographs taken of coeds being raped by them, the puppets are blackmailing the coeds into converting by showing them the photographs.

The recent police sexual abuse of Seoul National University coed Kwon In-suk has indicted the puppets' dirty behavior in detail. The fascist clique's chemical torture most graphically shows how brutal it can be in punishing prisoners.

The murderous thugs sap the prisoners' will to reason and destroy their bodies by injecting hallucinogenic drugs, chemical agents, and even radioactive materials, committing such brutalities with ease. Mr Kang U is one of the victims of such chemical torture. The puppets' brutalities and tortures far exceed the crimes committed by the Hitler group notorious for its torture policy and those of the former South Korean dictator in terms of their brutal nature.

Let us ask: Can the Chon Tu-hwan ring -- which subjects innocent people to the physical torture of crushing bones and tearing off their flesh, inflicts dirty sexual torture blasphemous of religion, and liquidates and cripples men through chemical torture -- be called human?

The fascist Chon Tu-hwan hooligan is a demon and beast disguised as a man. The fact that such a group of cannibals who are earning their bread by hunting men exists in a civilized era is in itself a disgrace to the people as well as to the times. The Chon Tu-hwan ring is now repeating in prisons, torture chambers, and throughout all of South Korea the massacre they committed in Kwangju 6 years ago, reducing the city to a bloodbath and killing thousands of people in a barbarous manner.

The fascist Chon Tu-hwan clique's ambition is to prevent the people from advancing in their anti-U.S. and antigovernment cause at all costs and to stay in power with the help of an unprecedented policy that resorts to murder and torture. To this end, the puppets are devoted to arbitrarily arresting, imprisoning, and torturing South Korean youths, students, and people by creating a whirlwind of bayonet-wielding called martial law under the pretext of security for the Asian Games.

Never before has a murderous tyrant lived in peace for the rest of his life, nor has anyone who enjoyed bloodshed been left unharmed.

The South Korean people have learned through the shedding of their own blood that it is impossible to attain independence and democracy as long as the fascist group of thugs remains in place, and that they may not even be able to preserve their own lives under such conditions. The South Korean people will never leave the murderous clique of thugs intact. Also, mankind's conscience that values human rights will not leave the murderous demon Chon Tu-hwan, the traitor, intact. The South Korean people will wreak their vengeance upon the murderous demons by throwing the fascist Chon Tu-hwan hooligan onto the garbage heap of history.

LEADERS ATTEND PYONGYANG CONSTRUCTION RALLY

SK250134 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Excerpt] A Pyongyang mass rally was held at the Kim Il-song Plaza 22 August to vigorously accelerate the construction of Kwangbok Street.

A portrait of the great leader of our party and people, Comrade Kim Il-song, was respectfully placed at the rally site. Placards reading "Long live the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song!" and "Long live the glorious WPK!" were placed at the rally site. Other placards reading "Let us become guards and members of shock brigades boundlessly loyal to the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the glorious party!" and "Let us accelerate the construction of Kwangbok Street and make Pyongyang even more magnificent and beautiful!," and posters which encourage working people to new labor feats were also placed at the rally site.

Comrade So Yun-sok, member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and responsible secretary of the Pyongyang Municipal Party Committee and chairman of the Pyongyang Municipal People's Committee; Comrade Kang Hui-won, alternate member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and chairman of the Pyongyang Municipal Administrative and Economic Guidance Committee; Choe Yong-hae, chairman of the LSWYK Central Committee; Pak Su-tong, chairman of the UAWPK Central Committee; and other functionaries concerned were present at the rally with construction workers and working people in Pyongyang.

The rally began with the chorus of the song "Marshal Kim Il-song." At the rally, Comrade So Yun-sok, member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and responsible secretary of the Pyongyang Municipal Party Committee and chairman of the Pyongyang Municipal People's Committee, delivered a report.

Kim Pong-ho, chief of staff of the Kwangbok Street construction headquarters; Yi Ho-hyok, first vice chairman of the Pyongyang Municipal Administrative and Economic Guidance Committee; Kim Chun-song, responsible secretary of the party committee of the Building Material Industry General Bureau for Pyongyang City; and Kim Tong-yon, chairman of the Pyongyang LSWYK participated in a debate. [passage omitted]

PARTY ONLY LEADING ORGANIZATION OF SOCIETY

SK251057 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1028 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 25 (KCNA) -- NODONG SINMUN August 24 carried an article titled "Party Is Leading Political Organisation of Society" explaining "Historical Experience of Building the Workers' Party of Korea," a classic work of the great leader President Kim Il-song. The article says in part:

In the work the great leader propounds the idea that the party is a leading political organisation of society and expounds the question of principle that the party should be built in conformity with this idea. This is a great contribution to the development of the theory of building a party of the working class.

That the party is a leading political organisation of society means that the party is the only political organisation leading in a uniform way all social organisations and all political activities of the popular masses. A party of the working class is in the position of leading all organisations and organs of society including power bodies, working people's organisations and economic and cultural organs in its relations with them. The party also leads in a uniform way all members of society, not some objects of it. The politics is directed and realized by the party.

Hence, the party plays a decisive role in the struggle for the chajusong of the popular masses and becomes the only leading political organisation of society. That a party of the working class is the only leading political organisation of society is clearly manifested in working out a line and policy on the basis of the revolutionary ideas of the leader and organizing and directing the struggle for their implementation. The leadership of society is, in essence, the work of working out a correct line and policy representing an independent demand and interests of the entire popular masses and leading in a uniform way the struggle for their implementation. This work can be carried out only by a party of the working class.

The party holds the position of a leading political organisation of society. This is an essential demand proceeding from the character of the organisation and composition of the party. A party of the working class is a political organisation formed with best advanced elements among the working masses of all strata including workers. The party, therefore, becomes a core organisation representing the whole of society and an organisation of highest form among all organisations of society.

The original idea of the respected leader Comrade Kim Il-song that the party is a leading political organisation of society has been brilliantly embodied in the building of the Workers' Party of Korea.

Today the WPK leads all destinies and lives of our people and the future of the revolution, bearing full responsibility for them.

Today our party firmly holds a leading position as the guiding force of society and leads in a unique way all organisations of the working masses and revolution and construction because it has in its van the great leader holding fast to the chuche-oriented principle of party building. Dear Comrade Kim Chong-il, basing himself on a scientific penetration into the decisive role of the party in the revolutionary struggle and the development of society, has always raised high the position of the party and enhanced its militancy and leading function.

POLITBURO'S YI CHONG-OK MEETS LEBANESE CP GROUP

SK270510 Pyongyang KCNA in English 0444 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 27 (KCNA) -- Comrade Yi Chong-ok, member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea and vice-president of the DPRK, on August 26 met and had a friendly talk with the delegation of the Lebanese Communist Party headed by 'Abd al-Karim Muri, deputy general secretary of the Central Committee of the LCP. Present there was Kil Chae-kyong, vice-director of a department of the WPK Central Committee.

VICE PREMIER CHONG CHUNG-KI VISITING GHANA

For Ghanaian coverage of the visit to Ghana by DPRK Vice Premier Chong Chun-ki, see the West Africa section of the 26 August Middle East & Africa DAILY REPORT and subsequent issues.

REPORTAGE ON REACTION TO CABINET REORGANIZATION

YONHAP Comments

SK260716 Seoul YONHAP in English 0700 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug 26 (YONHAP) -- The sweeping cabinet reshuffle carried out Tuesday by Korean President Chon Tu-hwan reflects Chon's determination to reform the administration of state affairs by strenghening cooperation between the government and the ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP).

The cabinet shake-up followed a sweeping personnel change in the DJP hierarchy over the weekend and showed that Chon is firmly committed to coping with the many political problems that have arisen in the latter half of his rule by enhancing cooperation between the government and DJP. One of the tough political issues facing the nation is how to revise the Constitution through compromise between the ruling and opposition parties.

The cabinet reshuffle, which was far more reaching than expected, is apparently based on Chon's belief that something should be done immediately to tighten the grip on citizens' minds and social discipline, which had recently slackened in the wake of three unfortunate events--an alleged sexual abuse case involving a female dissident under police custody, a fire that gutted the interior of the almost completed Independence Hall and the gang murder of four mobsters.

The replacement of the home affairs and culture-information ministers is viewed as a way of holding them responsible for the three incidents. The replacement of the home affairs minister is interpreted as a stepping stone for the holding of general elections in 1987 under a revised constitution.

By holding the home affairs and culture-information ministers responsible for the tragedies, the government expects to enhance public confidence in the government's ability and willingness to establish firm discipline in officialdom. As a result, officials should carry out state affairs more efficiently and responsibly, as Chon has advocated at every opportunity since he became president.

Chon expressed his intention to continue his economic development and national security policies by retaining such key cabinet posts as prime minister, economic planning minister, finance minister, justice minister, defense minister and education minister.

The newly appointed ministers include six ruling party members. The reshuffle brings to nine the number of DJP members who hold ministerial posts. This increase in the representation of the DJP in the cabinet reflects the determination of the government and the ruling party to strengthen bilateral cooperation in handling state affairs, including constitutional revision, in the latter part of Chon's term in office.

In short, the cabinet shake-up indicates that the president is determined to reform the administration, to establish firm social discipline and to focus the nation's strength to deal with important national affairs such as constitutional revision, and the hosting of the 10th Asian Games this September and 1988 Olympics.

NKDP Leaders Comment

SK270041 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 27 Aug 86 p 4

[From the "Press Pocket" column]

[Text] Upon hearing the announcement of a major Cabinet reshuffle yesterday, Rep. Yi Min-u, president of the main opposition NKPD, said, "There are (among new ministers) some who can help solve the current difficulties and some who cannot."

"Anyway, I expect that they will listen to the voices of the people well and do their best to tide over the difficult political situation, as they assumed heavy responsibilities," he commented.

Yi heard the announcement on the radio while he was receiving a call from Rep. Yi Se-ki, former floor leader of the ruling DJP, at his National Assembly office.

Learning that Yi Se-ki was named sports minister, the opposition leader congratulated him. "It is a big promotion, in time for the Seoul Asian Games and the Olympics."

Rep. Kim Su-han, vice president, commented, "I feel that the shake-up was conducted belatedly. It was necessary for the government to seek to refresh the atmosphere much earlier."

Rep. Kim Tong-yong, floor leader, said, "I think that the shake-up did not meet the people's expectations."

Meanwhile, Rep. Choe Yong-an, spokesman of the second opposition Korean National Party, officially commented, "It is extremely regrettable that ministers who are responsible for recent political and social scandals were not changed."

"However, we hope that the new Cabinet members will play a role in renovating the administration by eliminating the people's distrust and finding the whereabouts of the people's mind," he said.

KOREA TIMES Editorial

SK270032 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 27 Aug 86

[Editorial: "Cabinet Reshuffle"]

[Text] Following a major shake-up of the ruling Democratic Justice Party leadership undertaken over the past weekend, the cabinet lineup has now been extensively reshuffled -- both actions underlining the government camp's resolve to tackle the pending constitutional amendment process and other outstanding issues with a new spirit and teamwork.

As cited by a government spokesman, the cabinet reshuffle also has the implication of stressing the need for a "responsible administration": that is, cabinet ministers concerned bear "moral responsibility" for disasters or incidents of a certain magnitude, even if they are not necessarily accused of direct involvement.

In the wake of recent controversies, including the one touched off by the conflagration at Independence Hall, there was speculation that some ministers would be changed. But the scope of the actual reshuffle announced yesterday was bigger than anticipated, affecting no less than ten of the cabinet's 24 portfolios.

Noteworthy in this connection was the massive "entry" of DJP members into the Cabinet. Appointed to the Cabinet in yesterday's shake-up were five incumbent National Assembly members affiliated with the party, increasing the number of DJP Cabinet members both parliamentarians and ordinary party members, to ten.

This phenomenon clearly indicates that the government camp is to reinforce the collaboration between the administration and the ruling party in the face of the formidable political task of preparing for a transfer of power in 1988, upon the expiration of the incumbent president's seven-year tenure. It may also be seen as a device to experiment with a parliamentary cabinet system, a form of government which the ruling party has proposed in its own draft amendment to the Constitution, as against the opposition camp's call for a presidential system with the chief executive directly elected by popular vote.

As the prime minister and the deputy premier in charge of economic affairs have been retained in office, no major changes in government policies are foreseen in ordinary administrative sectors, ranging from the economy to external affairs.

The Cabinet members as a whole and, for that matter, leading figures of the ruling party are expected to renew their resolve, with far-reaching insight, to better serve the people and circumspectly steer national affairs in the coming days, which will see the staging of the Asian Games and, more fundamentally, heated political debate over the projected constitutional revision and other preparatory work for the power transfer.

NKDP DEMANDS JUSTICE MINISTER'S RESIGNATION

SK260053 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 26 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] The main opposition New Korea Democratic Party yesterday demanded that Minister of Justice Kim Song-ki resign taking responsibility for an incident at the Taegu Prison Friday.

In a caucus of its lawmakers yesterday, the party adopted a three-point resolution, expressing strong protest against the government and the ruling party for the incident which it maintained was "a violence against the legislature by law enforcement authorities."

About 150 prison guards staged a sit-in at the prison Friday in protest of their own over alleged verbal abuse directed at them by an opposition lawmaker. Some NKPD lawmakers visited the Taegu Prison on that day to investigate allegations that jailed student activists were mistreated by guards.

In the resolution, the NKPD urged the ruling camp to join the "grand road to democracy" by responding to the people's desire for direct presidential election.

Also blaming the alleged human rights violations at the nation's prisons, the resolution urged the government to establish democratic judicial processes.

SIHANOUK ARRIVES ON VISIT, MAKES STATEMENT

BK261440 Bangkok Television Service in Thai 1300 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] President of the CGDK Prince Norodom Sihanouk arrived in Thailand today. he had earlier visited Thailand on 5 August when Thailand was busy with the formulation of a government. During his current visit, Prince Sihanouk will hold consultations with Thai leaders on the situation in Cambodia. He said during an interview that, from his observation, he saw nothing as a sign of flexibility or change from Vietnam.

[Begin Sihanouk recording; in English] I think that there is nothing new about Vietnam's stance concerning the Kampuchea problem. We must -- we, the Kampuchean resistance against the Vietnamese invaders in Kampuchea, must consent [as heard] more sacrifices, make more efforts in order to strengthen more and more our tripartite coalition, our cooperation in every field, and in particular in the battlefields of Kampuchea. [end recording]

On this matter, Army Commander in Chief General Chawalit Yongchaiyut made a comment similar to what Prince Sihanouk said.

[Begin Chawalit recording] There is nothing much in the way of change. They are only pulling back troops for regrouping inside the country and trying to seal off the border. Anyway, I have detected no success on their part after closely following the situation there. We believe that any major change in Cambodia could take place only after November, that is, after the Sixth Party Congress of Vietnam. We are following the situation. Anyway, from now until then, I do not anticipate any major military change. [end recording]

Prince Norodom Sihanouk said he is happy with his current visit to the ASEAN countries because he received confirmation from the ASEAN countries for continued support for the DK government.

OTHER COUNTRIES ASKED TO ACCEPT SRV REFUGEES

BK240124 Bangkok THE NATION in English 23 Aug 86 p 2

[By Sinfah Tunsarawuth]

[Text] A senior official of the National Security Council (NSC) yesterday appealed to resettlement countries to take about 300-400 Vietnamese military defectors who have sought refuge in Thailand.

Khachatphai Burutphat, deputy secretary general of NSC, said the Vietnamese deserters have been refugees at Phanat Nikhon processing and transit centre in Chon Buri since 1981.

Khachatphai said resettlement countries have been reluctant in taking the Vietnamese because of their past association with communism. He said it is difficult to identify those from northern communist Vietnam and those from the once-democratic southern part.

He said the refugees are being kept in a separate quarter of the spacious centre, which is used for those refugees who have been accepted by third countries and are waiting to leave.

He said only one or two members of the group have been processed for clearance to third countries.

He said he would like resettlement countries to consider taking more Vietnamese.

"Their repatriation is not viable since Hanoi may persecute them for abandoning their duty," he said.

Earlier he told an audience of staff of Relief Division, Thai Red Cross Society, that the government reaffirmed its refusal of local assimilation for Indochinese refugees although donor countries and the United Nations had pledged a great deal of funding for the process.

He said Thailand itself faces poverty with 10 million Thais in 38 provinces living in substandard conditions. The government has to improve their living conditions first, he said.

He said the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) could not guarantee that local integration would not attract more Indochinese refugees into Thailand.

"Economic situations in the Indochinese countries are very bad and we anticipate the flow of refugees will not stop in the near future," he said in a lecture titled "Thailand and the Exiles from Indochina," arranged for the Relief Division's staff.

The deputy secretary general reiterated the NSC's policy to close Khao I-Dang camp in Prachin Buri, where 25,000 Kampuchean refugees stay, at the end of the year and move refugees who are rejected for resettlement in third countries to the border camps.

Gerald Walzer, UNHCR representative, has said he expected no more than 4,000-5,000 of the Khmer's to be accepted for resettlement before the end of the year.

Khachatphai said although NSC has said it will invite Walzer and officials of resettlement countries for consultation before closing of the camp, the meeting may not be called if NSC sees it as unnecessary.

Former NSC's secretary general Prasong Sunsiri held a meeting with Walzer and ambassadors of five major resettlement countries on June 13 to encourage the resettlement of the Khmers at Khao I-Dang. Walzer has said he anticipated further consultations with NSC about the matter.

According to UNHCR, there are 7,100 Khmers at the camp who are classified as "ration card holders" and ineligible to go to third countries. About 14,000 Khao I-Dang "genuine refugees" and 4,300 family card holders are being interviewed by embassy officials.

Khachatphai said the Indochinese refugees had adversely affected Thai border security and Thailand's image in the international community has been tainted by reporting of foreign media.

He said the three Indochinese governments viewed the refugee camps in Thailand as shelters for the resistance forces to their rule.

Prof Dr Khian Thirawit, the other speaker in the lecture, said the repressive political systems and economic hardship in Indochina are part of the inspiration for their people to leave their countries.

Dr Khian, the director of Institute of Asian Studies, said he expected no solution in the near future to the Kampuchean conflict which blocks any attempt to repatriate about 240,000 Khmer displaced persons in Thailand.

The Khmers live under assistance of UN Border Relief Operation (UNBRO) at the camps along Thai-Kampuchean border.

PAPER VIEWS CONTACTS WITH SOUTH PACIFIC STATES

BK250800 Bangkok THE NATION in English 24 Aug 86 p 10

[By Kawi Chongritthawon]

[Text] The Soviet Union is making her presence felt in the South Pacific but so too, in a less dramatic way, is Thailand.

Thailand's contacts with the island nations go back a long way but it was not until a decade ago that this country came to realize the future importance of the vast ocean area, particularly the untapped natural and marine resources and the increasingly strategic value, which is now the focus of world attention.

Papua New Guinea was the first developing South Pacific country that Thailand established diplomatic ties with. This was 10 years ago and was natural because of Port Moresby's registration to observer status at ASEAN.

But the expansion of links to the smaller South Pacific nations, both economic and political, has been very recent. Bangkok now has diplomatic relations with Vanuatu, Fiji, Solomon Islands and West Samoa.

Protectionist trade practices in the Western countries have forced Thailand to gradually turn its focus on the Pacific island nations.

Despite their small market potential and small population, Thailand can expand its two key exports, rice and garments in the near future.

Deputy Foreign Minister Praphat Limpaphan, the only senior Thai Foreign Ministry official who has travelled extensively in the South Pacific, said that the desire to establish closer relations with Asia is mutual. Praphat said the Pacific nations are more inclined to forge closer friendships and cooperation with Asian countries, particularly Southeast Asia, than with the West, "The fact is we don't have a nuclear bomb to test in their backyards," he said.

That kind of goodwill has prompted Thailand to promote trade and economic cooperation, including limited technical assistance with these countries. The search for new markets for Thai agricultural commodities has thus been transformed into a more concrete South-South cooperation.

One of the most promising plans is for joint fishing agreements. Thailand has already had discussions with Vanuatu and at the end of this year a team of Thai fishing experts will go to Tarawa, Vanuatu, to survey fishing grounds. When Vanuatu's Prime Minister Walter Lini visited Bangkok in March this year, he welcomed the prospect of fishing cooperation with Thailand. Similar undertakings will be arranged in the future as well.

At present, Thailand has about 50,000 trawlers, both small and medium size, and almost half of them are not registered. If the future arrangements with the South Pacific nations materialized this fishing fleet could either be modified to accompany bigger trawlers equipped with cold storage facilities for long-haul fishing or sold to the island nations to improve their domestic catches.

On the surface, Thailand's interest appears self-serving, but Thai officials insist that Thailand, as a country making rapid industrial progress, could be of assistance in the field of limited technology and, at the same time, offer some agricultural and fishing skills as well.

Government officials from Vanuatu, Fiji and West Samoa have participated in various Thai aid programmes aimed at improving their technical skills. Other Pacific nations will also soon benefit from Thai assistance programmes.

While this economic cooperation has slowly gained momentum, Thailand and ASEAN have received more and more support from the South Pacific countries, notably at the annual UN voting on the joint ASEAN-sponsored proposal on Kampuchea. Vanuatu, which used to abstain from the ballot, voted for the resolution last year.

But Thailand's interest in the area goes beyond the Kampuchean problem. It is more interested in containing the influence of the Soviet Union, which has made in-roads with offers of fishing assistance.

Aware of the Soviet strategic thinking, Thailand was the first to bring ASEAN's attention to the fishing agreement between Kiribati and the Soviet Union. The agreement gave the Soviets one year access to Kiribati's waters for some 16 vessels in return for a fee of abut 38.2 million baht, according to Thai officials. It is renewable.

Vanuatu has since indicated it intends to establish diplomatic relations with Libya and expects Libyan aid and trade to result. Vanuatu was the only South Pacific country to condemn the U.S. air raids on Tripoli this year and pledge solidarity with the Libyan leader Al-Qadhdhafi.

The Soviet's increasing presence in the area was targetted by Lagu Vagi, foreign minister of Papua New Guinea, during a press conference in Manila in June. He said the U.S. has neglected the South Pacific for too long. A senior Thai Foreign Ministry official said the U.S. tends to think in terms of "cause and benefit" concerning the island nations while the Soviet Union thinks in terms of long-term strategic planning.

To neutralize the situation, Washington should be more forthcoming with assistance and eradicate its arrogant attitude toward the island peoples.

Informed sources said Australian and New Zealand officials had expressed willingness to provide Thai fleets with modern equipment to allow them to venture deeper into Pacific areas. They also would extend soft loans to Thailand so that future joint ventures in fisheries with these island nations can be realized.

With such cooperation, Thailand's fishing expertise and joint ventures could balance the Soviet influence in the region. At present, Vanuatu is considering negotiating an agreement giving Soviet fishing vessels access to its archipelagic waters. At the same time Soviet negotiators have also asked for on-shore facilities and proposed joint sea-bed research.

If all these deals come along, it would make Thailand's role in the South Pacific een more important given the close ties of this country with the U.S. which is very much at odds with the South Pacific.

SENATORS AGREE TO WITHDRAW LESE MAJESTE MOTION

BK260239 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 26 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] The senators who submitted an urgent motion to debate Deputy Interior Minister Wira Musikaphong's alleged lese majeste remarks said yesterday they would withdraw the motion because of his atonement rites before a portrait of his majesty the king.

Opposition MPs, however, said the gesture was insufficient and planned to consult their parties about further action against Mr Wira in the House of Representatives.

During his rites at the Parliament, Mr Wira placed flowers, incense and candles before the portrait and read a statement in which he said he had no intention to offend the king, and asked for his pardon.

"I have spoken words which were connected to your majesty inappropriately. But there was no intention and they were the results of not knowing the situation. If they should cause distress I have realised the mistake. I am asking his majesty's pardon on this occasion," Mr Wira said.

The Democrat MP sent a letter to the king's principal secretary, which read:

"Concerning the spreading of news in the mass media charging that I helped party rallies in Lam Plaimat and Satuk districts of Buriram Province, I have spoken satirically about the monarchy, which caused the people to understand me and the government in a damaging way when I had no such intention. I feel very sad and sorry for the actions of which I have been accused.

"For this reason, I have to inform the royal principal secretary that I have loyalty for his majesty the king and all members of the royal family.

"I ask for your kindness to inform his majesty that if I have offended his majesty in any way I must honestly confess that I do not have the intention to look down (on the monarchy) as the people have understood. And if I have caused his majesty distress in any way I beg for his majesty's pardon as he should see fit."

Mr Wira's rites came after a morning of contacts with the military senators, in particular First Army Commander Lt-Gen Phichit Kunlawanit, one of the co-sponsors of the motion submitted last Friday.

The MP called Lt-Gen Phichit before calling on him at the First Army headquarters. At 11:50 a.m., Lt-Gen Phichit and Special Warfare Unit Commander Lt-Gen Sunthon Khongsomphong arrived at Parliament to join senators Lt-Gen Nop Pinsaikaeo, Maj-Gen Watthanachai Wuthisiri, Pol Gen Suwan Rattanchun, Chawalit Rungsaeng, Suang Itsaranukhro, and Singto Changtrakun.

Mr Wira arrived immediately after Lt-Gen Phichit and met the senators. They all went to the reception room where the royal portrait was in place.

Addressing the senators, Mr Wira said he felt uncomfortable when he saw their names on the motion, particularly the military men who belong to the Royal Guards.

Mr Wira said he believed in the senators' sincerity in submitting the motion but said that rival politicians brought up the issue for reasons of political gain, not loyalty.

He said he had been initially defiant because he could not submit to political opponents.

Apologising to the senators and assuring them he and his family were dedicated to the throne, he said his wedding was royally-sponsored and that he had sworn to the throne many times as a minister.

After the rites, Lt-Gen Phichit said he was satisfied with Mr Wira's apology and that he thought the motion would probably be withdrawn in the Senate on Friday -- when the debate is scheduled.

Senator Chawalit said he would check Senate regulations to see how the motion could be tackled.

Lt-Gen Sunthon said Mr Wira and the senators arrived at an understanding and he felt the public would now be sympathetic to the minister. He then shook hands with Mr Wira.

Mr Wira said he undertook the rites because his comments made headlines and might have been offensive to the king. "In that case, I have to apologise no matter what the legal aspects are," he said.

If the issue was raised in the Lower House as a motion, he was ready to explain, he said, and help from his party had not yet been necessary.

"I did this myself and I should get myself out of it."

United Democratic Party MP Prem Malakun and Prachakon Thai MPs Sanya Sathirabut and Chaiyasit Phuwaphiromkhwan said they did not consider Mr Wira's gesture adequate.

"What Mr Wira did shows intention. Is his atonement today enough? Is he worthy to continue as a minister?" Mr Prem said.

Mr Sanya denied the issue was raised by the opposition for political gain.

GENERAL DENIES ARMY ROLE IN COALITION FORMATION

BK260229 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 26 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Army Commander-in-Chief Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyut reiterated yesterday he and the Army had no role in the formation of the coalition.

Dismissing suggestions he played a role in the formation of the government, Gen Chawalit said he felt honoured by the reports, even though they were wrong.

He said if he had anything at all to do with the cabinet line-up, that role was very small.

He said he called on Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon before going to watch the Thai-American Cobra Gold military exercises to ask if he wanted any message relayed to the U.S. military brass.

During his visit to Gen Prem, he overheard the premier talking on the telephone with a political party leader about the formation of the government.

Gen Chawalit said the Prime Minister told the political party leader to place the people's interests before partisan interests in the formation of the government.

The Army chief added he was later asked for his opinions about the matter.

"I told the premier that his remarks to the political party leader to give priority to the people's interests was the right thing," Gen Chawalit said, adding that his comment to the premier was the only role he played in the formation of the present government.

Chawalit on Anticommunist Strategy

BK260223 Bangkok THE NATION in English 26 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] The Royal Thai Army is revising the anti-communist strategy to cope with strategic adjustments on the part of the Communist Party of Thailand (CPT), Army Commander-in-Chief Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyut said yesterday.

He told a news conference that he expects the review to be finalized in time for an announcement at next year's meeting on the government's performance against communist insurgents.

The need to revise the government's strategy has arisen from the banned party's success in restoring its influence, he said. The outlawed party has shifted its emphasis from armed struggle to front affairs, according to the army chief.

Gen Chawalit said that the government's strategy would be revised to the effect that more emphasis would be given on the task to diminish and liquidate the front members fo the outlawed party.

"Our officials are working on the question of how to go about to achieve the goal," he said when asked about the directions of the new anti-communist plan.

He added that the revised strategy must include guidelines to distinguish "friends from foes."

Gen Chawalit said that the army has to monitor CPT's achievements and shortcomings in its efforts to solicit new front people.

"This is a more important problem than the tendency that some local authorities have resumed abuse of powers -- a factor which has been encouraging villagers to switch to the banned party," he said.

He added that the party's setbacks in its armed struggle prompted a shift in its strategy to soliciting more sympathisers. The CPT's new strategy worked well, he admitted.

The armed strength of the CPT is now put at about 600-700 men and most of them are operating in the south.

FORCES CAPTURE ABANDONED COMMUNIST REBEL CAMP

BK260219 Bangkok THE NATION in English 26 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Surat Thani -- Government forces Sunday captured an abandoned camp of the communist rebels in Phanom District here and confiscated a large arms cache, a senior military official said this morning.

Col Wiset Siriwatthanakun, commander of the Civilian-Police-Military forces (CPM) 42 [as published] told reporters that rangers and soldiers found 15 sleeping quarters, landmines, booby traps, several kinds of weapons, including 30 rifles, a shot-gun, a machine gun, and more than 300 rounds of ammunition in the camp's compound.

The commander said the camp, which had been deserted for about two years, belonged to a group of the communist insurgents led by Comrade Niphon.

NORTHERN POLICE CHIEF INTERVIEWED ON CRIME

WA271449 [Editorial Report] The Bangkok daily NAEO NA in Thai published a 1,000 word interview with Region 3 Provincial Police Commander Lt Gen Niyom Kanchanawat on page 7 of its 3 August edition. Lt Gen Niyom claims that a 30 percent reduction in felonies has been achieved over the last 5 years. He said the province with the most felonies was Nakhon Sawan with more murders than other locations because of competitions for jobs and land tenancy problems. When asked about crime in Chiang Mai, he said "With Governor Chaiya and me here do you think we'd permit any dirty dealing to go on? Believe me, there is none. Forget it." The general was asked if there are any racketeering influences in the north and his answer was "None at all. No one is above the law. Who could ever think of such a thing?" he said that the main targets for the police are crackdowns against gambling (fish and cock fighting). There was no mention of narcotics trafficking at any time during the interview.

BRIEFS

200 MINES CEASE OPERATION -- More than 200 mines in the south have ceased operation because of financial losses as a result of mineral ore price decreases, Deputy Interior Permanent Secretary Prakit Uttamot said this morning. Prakit said that about 500 mines in the south were facing the problem. Prakit, in his capacity as Director of the Office of the Five Southern Provinces Administration, said this morning that the drop in the prices of mineral ores has badly affected the area. [Excerpt] [Bangkok BANGKOK WORLD in English 21 Aug 86 p 3 BK]

SOVIET DEPUTY FOREIGN MINISTER VISITS 23-26 AUG

BK261534 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1430 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] At the invitation of the SRV Foreign Ministry, Comrade Rogachev, deputy foreign minister of the Soviet Union, paid a working visit to Vietnam from 23-26 August. During his stay in Vietnam, Comrade Rogachev visited and laid a wreath at the Ho Chi Minh Mausoleum. The comrade was received by and had cordial talks with Council of Ministers Chairman Pham Van Dong and Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach.

Vice Foreign Minister Hoang Bich Son and Comrade Rogachev exchanged views on the question of developing the relations of friendship and cooperation between the two countries and the two foreign ministrics as well as on international issues of mutual concern. The two sides highly valued the fine results of the 12 August 1986 Moscow meeting between Comrade Truong Chinh, general secretary of the CPV Central Committee and chairman of the SRV Council of State; and Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee.

On the basis of complete identity of views on assessing the international and regional situation, especially the Southeast Asian and the Asia-Pacific situations, the two sides agreed on various specific measures to continue close cooperation aimed at contributing to strengthening the safeguarding of world peace, especially in the Asia-Pacific region.

Attending various meetings on the Vietnamese side were Comrade Ta Huu Canh and Dang Duc Khoi, respectively head and deputy head of the Foreign Ministry's USSR Department; and on the Soviet side were Comrade (Nirkosnuk), Soviet charge d'affaires in Vietnam; and (Rynkov), deputy head of the Soviet Foreign Ministry's Asian Sovialist Countries Department.

NGUYEN HUU THO MAKES STOPOVER IN MOSCOW

BK261635 Hanoi VNA in English 1543 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 26 -- Nguyen Huu Tho, vice president of the State Council and chairman of the National Assembly, made a stopover in Moscow today en route to Harare (Zimbabwe) for the Eighth Summit of the Non-Aligned Countries.

He was received in the Kremlin by Gaibazar Pallayev, vice chairman of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR. During the reception, the Soviet vice chairman informed the Vietnamese leader of the Soviet Union's new peace initiatives expressed in CPSU General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev's statements of July 28 and August 18 and reiterated the Soviet Union's full support for the efforts of Vietnam and the other two Indochinese countries for peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

Speaking to his host, Chairman Nguyen Huu Tho voiced full support for the Soviet new peace initiatives and expressed Vietnam's resolve to contribute to the success of the forthcoming Eighth Summit of Non-aligned Movement in the interests of world peace and international security.

The reception took place in an atmosphere of cordiality and fraternal friendship.

LEADERS ATTEND FURNERAL FOR TA QUANG BUU

OW261101 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Comrade Professor Ta Quang Buu's funeral was held ceremoniously in Hanoi this morning, 25 August. Comrades Truong Chinh, general secretary of the CPV Central Committee and chairman of the Council of State; Pham Van Dong, member of the Political Bureau of the Party Central Committee and chairman of the Council of Ministers; and Van Tien Dung, member of the Political Bureau of the party Central Committee and secretary of the Central Military Party Committee [Bis thuw dangr uyr quaan suwj trung uwowng] and minister of national defense; many other comrade leaders of the party, state, Vietnam Fatherland Front [VFF], State Science and Technology Commission, and mass organizations; professors, cadres, and employees of the higher and vocational education sector; and scientists paid their last respects and laid wreaths in memory of Professor Ta Quang Buu. Comrade Truong Chinh's wreath bore the inscription: Boundless mourning for Comrade Ta Quang Buu. Comrade Pham Van Dong's wreath bore the inscription: Boundless mourning for Professor Ta Quang Buu.

Comrades Truong Chinh, Pham Van Dong, and Van Tien Dung made entries in the mourners' book expressing deep mourning for Professor Ta Quang Buu, an eminent intellectual of the country who devoted all his life to training many youths as scientific and technical cadres and actively contributed to the development and the victories of the heroic Vietnamese People's Armed Forces.

Also present at the funeral were large numbers of college students from all parts of the country, representatives of many international organizations, intellectuals from the capital, and many of Professor Ta quang Buu's friends and colleagues.

At the funeral, Comrade Nguyen Dinh Tu, minister of higher and vocational education, delivered an emotion-filled oration. He said: A Communist Party member who worked continuously for more than 40 years, who was entrusted by the party and the state with many important tasks in the military and diplomatic fields and with the mission of developing scientific and technological potential, and who went through hardships and ordeals, Comrade Ta Quang Buu consistently set a brilliant example by being loyal to the party, the fatherland, and the people. He displayed a high sense of discipline and organization, seeking by every means to properly implement the party's directives and resolutions and ensure collective leadership while upholding individual responsibility. He led a simple life, was fond of learning, and stayed close to cadres. He concentrated efforts on training and fostering a contingent of young, capable scientific cadres for the country and won the affection, confidence, and respect of cadres, professors, teachers, and students.

A scholar endowed with a high sense of responsibility and the first minister for higher and vocational education in Vietnam, Comrade Ta Quang Buu contributed a great deal to building higher and vocational education and developing a contingent of teaching cadres as well as scientific and technical bases, thus creating a basis for the future development of the higher and vocational education sector. He also contributed to developing cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries in higher and vocational education. A talented scientist and a leading professor of mathematics, Comrade Ta Quang Buu was respected by world scientists and enjoyed high prestige among Vietnam's scientific cadres.

At 0800 sharp, the comrade leaders of the party, state, VFF, and armed forces and the bereaved family members proceeded to the Mai Dich Cemetery in Hanoi, Comrade Ta Quang Buu's last resting place.

QUANG NINH SPECIAL SECTOR CONGRESSES REVIEWED

BK260436 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1400 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Text] To achieve good results in guiding the holding of party congresses in various units, the Standing Committee of the Quang Ninh Special Sector's Party Committee has convened a conference for nearly 200 secretaries and deputy secretaries of the party committees of organs, units, and schools and key propaganda, training, and organizational cadres to study the CPV Central Committee's draft political report and draft report on revision of the party statutes.

The conference reached an agreement on the way to conduct party congresses in each grass-roots unit and on the contents of these congresses. The Standing Committee of the special sector's party committee has guided the grass-roots party organization congress of Group S-9 as a pilot unit to gain experience for organizing basic party organization congresses in its subordinate units. The basic party organizations of Unit 8 of Group S-17, Unit 5 of Group S-13, and Unit 791 of Group S-8 held party congresses as a model for other basic party organizations of combat units.

As shown by the results of these congresses, any unit which upheld the role of criticism and self-criticism would be able to contribute many good, practical, and constructive ideas to the forthcoming party congress and to the CPV Central Committee's draft documents and reports. On the basis of the experience gained by the pilot units, other units promptly corrected all shortcomings in preparing for their own party organization congresses. To date all basic party organizations of the combat units in the special sector have finished holding their congresses with good results.

The Standing Committee of the special sector's party committee has guided Group S-17 in holding its party organization congress to serve as a model for organizing party organization congresses above the basic level. The standing committee and political department of the special sector's party committee have also regularly sent cadres to various basic units to guide and assist their party organizations in holding congresses, determined to finish organizing basic-level party congresses by late August and to convene the special sector's party organization congress in September.

MILITARY INSTITUTE STUDIES POLITICAL REPORT

BK220918 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1400 GMT 20 Aug 86

[Text] The Institute of Military Technology recently organized a conference of officers to study the party Central Committee's draft political report and report on the amendment of party statutes and hear a report on activities of the Institute's party organization in preparation for congresses at various levels. Attending the conference were more than 80 leading officers of faculties and sections, secretaries and deputy secretaries of basic party committees, and cooperative members responsible for basic party organization congresses.

The conference, based on the spirit of scrupulous criticism and self-criticism, has faced the truth and correctly reviewed the situation of the institute. It evaluated achievements in training, research, and building of the institute during the past years, while discussing these tasks for the 1986-90 period.

The conference affirmed that improvement must be achieved for the 1986-87 academic year. It urged the institute to accelerate the emulation drive to complete 20 projects to mark the 20th founding anniversary of the institute and to welcome the Sixth CPV Congress.

OFFICERS' SCHOOL ORGANIZES STUDY OF DOCUMENTS

BK150655 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1400 GMT 14 Aug 86

[Text] Recently, the party organization of the Politico-Military Officers' School studied the draft documents of the Sixth Party Congress, assessed all the aspects of its internal situation, and issued a directive to guide efforts to study, understand, and assess the documents and to hold party congresses at all levels within the party organization. The directive points to the role, importance, goals, requirements, contents, agenda, and specific time schedule of party congresses to be held within the party organization.

The school's party committee and its standing body have called a meeting of department party committee secretaries, party chapter secretaries, key cadres, and members of the propaganda and training organ to organize a 4-day session to study party congress documents. To ensure that party congresses will be held successfully at all levels the party committee has selected the party organization of the 10th Battalion to be the first unit to hold its party congress for the purpose of drawing upon experience and guiding other units. The school's party committee has, particularly, ordered the party organizations of the 1st, 4th and 5th Battalions -- the three units whose members will graduate this year -- to arrange for all trainees to intensively study the Sixth Party Congress documents.

Members of the school's party committee have also worked out an assignment schedule whereby they will attend congresses to be held by party organizations and chapters at the grass-roots level.

By early August, the school's political department had prepared enough copies of party congress documents and promptly distributed them to all party organizations and chapters of the school.

After the first phase of studying the draft documents of the Sixth Party Congress, all leading cadres of the school's organs and units have expressed an identity of views with the assessments, observations, and viewpoints in the draft political report of the party Central Committee and in the draft report on supplementing and revising some specific articles of the party Statutes. The entire praty organization has clearly displayed its enthusiasm and confidence and its resolve to organize discussions and the contributing of opinions on the draft documents and to hold party congresses at all levels successfully. The entire school is now launching an intensive emulation movement to score achievements to greet the all-army party congress and the Sixth Party Congress.

AUSTRALIA

COURT ORDERS UK OFFICIAL TO PROVIDE MI-5 DATA

BK270644 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0430 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Britain's attorney general has been ordered by an Australian court to provide information about the British Secret Service, MI-5, to the publishers of a planned book on the organization.

The ruling comes before a trial which will determine whether the book by a former MI-5 official, Mr Peter Wright, can be published. The British Government is fighting to stop publication. It has argued in the New South Wales Supreme Court that Mr Wright was bound to secrecy. However, the publishers say the contents of Mr Wright's book, which include allegations that the British Secret Service has been guilty of treason, are not only common knowledge but in the public interest.

In a win for the author, who now lives in retirement in Tasmania, the judge also ordered Mr Wright's costs to be paid by the British attorney general. The trial is set to begin in November.

LABOR PARTY DISSENT OVER URANIUM SALES

BK260222 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0130 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Internal conflict continues in the Australian Labor Party over the budget decision to resume sales of uranium to France. The federal minister for industry and commerce, Senator Button, said the government should have discussed the uranium decision at last month's Labor Party conference in Hobart. The conference is the supreme policy-making forum in the party.

Senator Button said the issue of uranium sales had symbolic importance within the Labor Party and that the recent decision was internally damaging to the party. However, the treasurer, Mr Keating, said the party has been unaffected by the decision and that the issue was having greater effects on the media than on the Labor Party.

Mr Keating said he could not be accused of deceit by not discussing the matter at the Hobart conference because it was not an issue at the time.

NEW ZEALAND

LANGE VIEWS DEFENSE INQUIRY COMMITTEE REPORT

HK260455 Wellington THE EVENING POST in English 21 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] The focus in the Corner Committee of Inquiry on greater self-reliance and the importance of the trans-Tasman connection would be the key to the new defence review. Prime Minister David Lange said today.

Commenting on the committee's report, released today, Mr Lange said the review, to be completed later this year, would reflect the reality that New Zealand "no longer has an operative defence relationship with the United States."

However, Mr Lange said New Zealand should not rule out the possibility that "at some time in the future, the United States may allow the resumption of a non-nuclear alliance relationship."

Meanwhile, he said, it was important that "we get on with the task of ensuring the effective defence of New Zealand by working with Australia and our South Pacific neighbours with whom we share a common strategic environment.

"We remain committed to the concept of collective security. Our common goal is regional self-reliance," said Mr Lange.

Describing the committee's inquiry as a valuable contribution to the review, Mr Lange welcomed its recommendations, which he detailed as follows:

That the bilateral ANZUS relationship with Australia should be enhanced, and with the focus on the South Pacific, but leaving open the possibility of reactivating a full ANZUS should it become possible.

-- Greater use should be made of New Zealand's scientific and technological expertise in the development of our defence capabilities.

-- Well trained, professional, and well equipped armed forces capable of co-operating with friends should be maintained and developed.

-- More self-reliant New Zealand armed forces, capable of operating independently within our area of primary strategic concern, should be developed.

-- Independent intelligence gathering and assessment capabilities should be developed to a greater extent.

-- Defence expenditure should be maintained at a level which will enable the armed forces to play a part in the region, obtaining respect and co-operation of Australia and reassuring New Zealanders.

-- A peace-time role for the armed services in assistance with civil defence, resource protection, overseas disaster relief and aid to the civil power should be maintained; more resources should be allocated to civil defence.

-- The armed forces should continue to be available for United Nations and other peace-keeping forces.

-- The working for effective arms control and disarmament measures should be an essential part of foreign and defence policy. To assist with this a minister or ambassador for Disarmament should be appointed and provided with adequate staff, continuity and bipartisan commitment.

Mr Lange said that to the extent to which the committee's report related to its terms of reference it represented a useful and perceptive analysis of public opinion.

Referring to the fact that the committee had also been given the freedom to comment, Mr Lange said where this comment related directly to the terms of reference and public opinion data "it added value and colour to the report."

"The problems which had arisen when the committee went beyond this point are dealt with in the addendums to the report," he said.

Welcoming the poll results, Mr Lange said he agreed with the committee's comment that not too much should be read into it as it reflected opinion at the same time it was taken in late April and early May.

However, he said the poll further showed New Zealanders were very concerned about the threat posed by nuclear war, and as with previous polls, support for ANZUS was also high. This result is not surprising and reflects Government policy not to withdraw from ANZUS." [quotation marks as published]

The poll also showed that the most preferred option was New Zealand membership of a non-nuclear ANZUS -- the objective the Government had been striving to achieve.

Referring to the committee's conclusion that there was a theoretical 80 percent support for a non-nuclear ANZUS, Mr Lange said it was regrettable that US Foreign Secretary [as published] George Shultz insisted that an operative ANZUS required New Zealand to accept nuclear armed ships from time to time.

"It rules out, at least for the time being, the achievement of a non-nuclear ANZUS," Mr Lange said.

TRADE MINISTER ON ASEAN COMMON MARKET IDEA

BK261521 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Trade Minister Rakhmat Saleh believes that the idea to establish an ASEAN common market by the year 2000 must first be studied carefully. The minister made the remarks in Jakarta this morning when newsmen asked him to comment on the statement made by Philippine Trade and Industry Minister Jose Concepcion on the establishment of such a common market.

The Philippine trade and industry minister said in Jakarta yesterday that during talks at the Merdeka Palace, Indonesian and Philippine officials had agreed to work together toward the establishment of an ASEAN common market by 2000.

Meanwhile, Education and Culture Minister Fuad Hassan disclosed that he and his Philippine counterpart had explored the possibilities of bilateral cooperation in the areas of education and culture.

MOKHTAR LEAVES FOR NONALIGNED SUMMIT IN HARARE

BK260849 Jakarta International Service in English 0800 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Indonesia is hoping that the imminent nonaligned summit in Harare, Zimbabwe, will [words indistinct] apartheid policy in South Africa, Indonesian Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja said. The minister left Jakarta for Harare Monday [25 August] afternoon to attend the Nonaligned Summit, which will be held from 1 to 7 September.

The Indoensian delegation to the summit is to be led by Vice Presdent Umar Wirahadikusumah, who is scheduled to leave for Harare on 28 August.

Before taking off, Minister Mokhtar stated that Indonesia had been consistent in the past in condemning the apartheid policy of South Africa, and this attitude has faithfully been [words indistinct] Nonaligned Summit.

MALAYSIA

MCA LEADER PLEADS GUILTY IN BREACH OF TRUST CASE

BK260412 Singapore Domestic Service in Malay 0400 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] At the supreme court today Malaysian businessman and political leader Tan Koon Swan was sentenced to 2 years imprisonment and fined a total of 500,000 [Singapore] dollars for abetting in a criminal breach of trust case. Tan pleaded guilty to the charge.

Verdict Throws MCA Into Crisis

BK261422 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 1402 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, Aug 26 (OANA/BERNAMA) -- The conviction of Malaysian politician Tan Koon Swan for an abetment of criminal breach of trust charge in Singapore Tuesday, has thrown his party, the Malaysian Chinese Association (MCA), into a second crisis in less than three years. And this crisis has followed closely on the heels of the party's poor performance in the Aug 3 general election in which the MCA won only 17 of the 32 parliamentary seats it contested.

The apparent erosion of Chinese support for the MCA, which is headed by Tan, in the polls came eight months after the setttlement of a leadership crisis that had racked the party for 20 months. Not long after emerging victorious in the tussle for the party presidency, Tan was arrested, on Jan 23, for alleged abetment of criminal breach of trust in Singapore in connection with the collapse of Pan-Electric Industries, which led to the unprecedented suspension of the two countries' stock exchange. The question then, as now, was whether Tan would be able to survive the storm besetting his political and business career.

But now, with this plea of guilt and subsequent conviction to a jail term, his future as MCA leader is clearly at stake. His predicament has also once again thrown the MCA party leadership into uncertainty.

The MCA is the second largest partner in Prime Minister Dr Mahathir Mohamad's coalition government, after UMNO which is headed by the premier.

The MCA's weekly coordination meeting for the party's ministers and deputy ministers was held here Tuesday afternoon to discuss Tan's case, and the top leaders are expected to visit Tan in Singapore where they will discuss his position in the party.

When he was arrested in Singapore, Tan had tendered his resignation but this was rejected by the party's Central Committee.

The MCA Constitution does not provide for forfeiture of a person's membership upon conviction for an offence involving dishonesty committed outside the country. According to Article 15.1.1 of the MCA Constitution, a person would lose his membership only if he had been convicted of and sentenced to a term of six months' imprisonment or more for any offence involving dishonesty by a court of law in Malaysia and failed to receive a pardon within six months.

This means if he so wishes Tan can stay on as president despite the conviction in Singapore.

Should Tan decide to resign, an amendment to the party Constitution approved last March allows the deputy president to automatically take over.

Meanwhile, the UMNO Supreme Council meeting Wednesday is expected to discuss, besides party matters, the case of Tan as his conviction could smear the image of the Barison Nasional, UMNO party sources said here.

MCA Urges 'Calm'

BK261223 Kuala Lumpur Domestic Service in English 1130 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Excerpt] MCA [Malaysian Chinese Association] members have been urged to remain calm over the conviction of their president, Tan Koon Swan, by the Singapore High Court today. Shocked MCA leaders are following closely the latest development relating to Encik Tan's case. The first statement issued by MCA Secretary General Datuk Lee Kim Sai said Encik Tan's case was discussed at the MCA's weekly coordination meeting in Kuala Lumpur today. Datuk Lee said the party Central Committee will be meeting soon to discuss Encik Tan's case. [passage omitted]

SIHANOUK EXPRESSES THANKS, LEAVES FOR THAILAND

BK260639 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0600 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] The visiting president of the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea Prince Sihanouk has expressed gratitude to the Malaysian Government for its important role in the search for a fair solution to the Kampuchea problem. The prince says Malaysia is among the rare countries which has decided spontaneously to establish formal diplomatic relations with his government.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk once again stressed that the aspirations of the Kampuchean people is to be a united nation, an independent, nonaligned and peaceful country. If the country achieves its freedom, the prince said his thanks will not only go to the patriotic but also to the continued efforts by Malaysia and ASEAN in the search for an equitable solution. He was speaking at a news conference in Kuala Lumpur before leaving the country for Bangkok this afternoon.

Prince Sihanouk is on his rounds to ASEAN member countries. He had also visited Singapore and Indonesia earlier. He is now on his way to Thailand to meet Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon and Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila.

SINGAPORE

PHILIPPINE PRESIDENT BEGINS 2-DAY OFFICIAL VISIT

BK260444 Singapore Domestic Service in Malay 0400 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Philippine President Aquino arrived a short while ago from Jakarta for a 2-day official visit to the republic. Before leaving Jakarta this morning, President Aquino and President Suharto signed a memorandum of understanding on bilateral economic cooperation and [word indistinct].

Speaks at Luncheon

BK260912 Hong Kong AFP in English 0852 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Singapore, Aug 26 (AFP) -- Philippines President Corazon Aquino arrived in Singapore Tuesday for talks expected to focus on concrete economic matters, diplomatic sources said here.

Mrs Aquino, making her first trip abroad since a popular uprising put her in office in February, set the tone in a luncheon speech, pointing out the foreign investment opportunities in her government's program of privatization.

Addressing the Singapore Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry, she listed a range of investment possibilities and identified the individuals in her delegation to contact for details.

Throughout the day, Mrs Aquino stressed the importance of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) grouping Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, The Philippines, Singapore and Thailand, and the role it could play in regional economic development.

Philippines sources said that, during talks later in the day with Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, she was likely to call for greater regional inter-dependence and for a liberalization of the trade system within ASEAN.

(In Jakarta, the first stop on Mrs Aquino's trip, Philippines Trade and Industry Minister Jose Concepcion said he hoped that Indonesia would back proposals leading toward formation of a tariff-free regional economic zone by the year 2000.)

Calling her trip a "journey to cement ASEAN brotherhood," the 53-year-old president said in an arrival statement here that she recognized "Singapore's valuable role in linking ASEAN to the rest of the world through its extensive network of bilateral partnerships with the industrialized countries." She encouraged businessmen to "look at the Philippines as an area for accelerated investments."

"We have a strong agricultural base and large domestic market. We particularly welcome joint ventures in agricultural development and agricultural product processing," she told the luncheon gathering.

Mrs Aquino spoke of wide scope for development of infrastructures and services as well as support systems for foreign trade. Many existing companies, she added, needed fresh capital and "new technology to compete more aggressively in the domestic market and to export their products out of unutilized capacity."

The widow of slain opposition leader Benigno Aquino was greeted wherever she went by dozens of yellow-clad supporters from Singapore's 20,000-strong Filipino community, waving banners and shouting her nickname "Cory, Cory." Some 5,000 Filipinos were expected to attend a rally Tuesday evening addressed by Mrs Aquino, although the theater can hold only about 1,200 people. "At home, we wouldn't get a chance to talk to her or see her, but now we can," said one Filipina working as a maid in Singapore.

At state banquet was scheduled for Tuesday evening, with a working breakfast, a news conference and further meetings Wednesday morning before Mrs Aquino leaves for Manila.

She is accompanied by five ministers -- for trade and industry, natural resources, tourism, social services, and education, culture and sports -- and three deputy ministers.

(In Jakarta, Mrs Aquino's talks were political as well as economic in tone. She and Indonesian President Suharto held more than two hours of talks Monday in which they discussed the communist and Moslem insurgencies in the Philippines. She said on leaving Jakarta, that in confronting the problems facing her at home, she had been encouraged to hear from President Suharto that "it took many years for him to solve the problems in Indonesia." After parallel talks, Mr Concepcion and Indonesian Trade Minister Rackmat Saleh signed a memorandum on bilateral economic cooperation.)

Talks With Lee Kuan Yew

BK261206 Singapore Domestic Service in English 1100 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Singapore has agreed to encourage local businessmen to invest in the Philippines. The foreign minister, Mr Dhanabalan, said this after separate meetings between various ministers of Singapore and the Philippines. They discussed [words indistinct] on the 1st day of the visit of President Aquino to Singapore. During the talks, the Philippines trade and industry minister, Mr Jose Concepcion, identified possible areas of investment for local businessmen. The two sides also discussed arrangements which will promote tourism in the Philippines.

Mr Dhanabalan said the airline and tourism boards of the two countries could put together packages to bring tourists from Europe to Singapore and then on to the Philippines.

President Aquino herself had a meeting with Mr Lee Kuan Yew. The discussions lasted about an hour. Before they met privately, President Aquino told the Singapore Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry that there is enough room for intensifying economic relations between Singapore and the Philippines. This was [words indistinct] nature of the economy and her government's privatization program.

President Aquino arrived this morning from Jakarta for a 2-day state visit. She is accompanied by high-ranking 16-member delegation. She was greeted on arrival by Mr Wong Kan Seng, the acting minister for community development and the minister in attendance. President Aquino said her visit to Singapore will enable her to resume discussions in Manila in July with the prime minister on matters of mutual concern. These include proposals for expanding bilateral trade, investment, technology development, and regional cooperation. President Aquino, who later met President Wee Kim Wee, will attend a state banquet [words indistinct].

Addressing members of the Filipino community this afternoon, President Aquino announced that her government (?plans) to buy a plot of land in Singapore. This is to build and establish a community center for Filipinos in the Republic. President Aquino said this is one of her immediate priorities for the Filipinos in Singapore will have a point of [word indistinct].

President Wee Hosts Banquet

BK261452 Singapore Domestic Service in English 1400 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Excerpt] The visiting President Aquino of the Philippines and President Wee Kim Wee have called on ASEAN to strengthen its economic cooperation and solidarity.

They made the call at a state banquet at the Istana [Palace] given by President Wee on the first day of President Aquino's visit to the Republic.

President Aquino said the Philippines shares Singapore's concern for a more conscientious economic arrangement within ASEAN in the face of increasing world protectionism. She stressed that regional interests must be given greater consideration in ASEAN's decision-making process. At the same time, long-term views of regional interdependence should not be overshadowed by calculations of short-term national costs and benefits. President Aquino said her country commends Singapore's initiatives in proposing measures to facilitate ASEAN's transition to a higher level of economic cooperation. One of these proposals will allow economic cooperation projects to proceed upon agreement of three or four ASEAN members so long the members do not object.

In his speech, President Wee said the close ties between Singapore and the Philippines are founded on many shared values and commitment to similar goals and objectives. Both believe in the free-enterprise system. Both want to strengthen ASEAN's economic cooperation and solidarity and hope to work through ASEAN to maintain regional peace and stability. President Wee said regular meetings of leaders and officials of the two governments will increase mutual understanding and enlarge the common ground before them. There is much that they can learn and share with each other. President Wee said a new chapter has unfolded in the Philippines' political history and the Singapore Government wishes President Aquino and her colleagues success in their tasks. [passage omitted]

Business Community Expresses Support

HK270133 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 0030 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Philippine President Corazon Aquino received an assurance of support for her administration by Singapore's business community. The assurance, given by the Singapore Chamber of Commerce and Industry, showed that President Aquino's Association of Southeast Asian Nations trip to generate support for her government was a success. President Aquino called on Singapore's businessmen and industrial groups to examine business and investment opportunities in the Philippines. She also told Singapore's business community about the improving economic climate in the country. The Philippine president arrived in Singapore at 10:30 am yesterday. She met with some 20,000 Filipino workers at the Istana [Palace] and later conferred for about 2 hours with Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew where they discussed mainly economic matters affecting their countries.

Aquino Comments on Insurgency

BK270523 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0432 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Report by A. Karim Shukor]

[Text] Singapore, Aug. 27 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- President Corazon Aquino of the Philippines said Wednesday that her government will not allow any group, Muslim or others, to secede.

She told a press conference before leaving for home after a two-day visit to the Republic of Singapore that she had made her stand clear on this matter.

She arrived Tuesday after a three-day visit to Indonesia, her first trip abroad since coming to power in February.

On her discussions with president Suharto on the communist insurgency in the Philippines, she said she told the Indonesian leader that her government would want to exhaust all efforts first before going for other options. She said many Filipions had joined the insurgency not because they believed in communism but bacause they were angry with the previous government. I am confident that the new government would be able to convince these people to return to the fold as we are now embarking on emergency rehabilitation and employment programmes," she added.

Later, a Philippine Government spokesman said President Aquino will announce details of the negotiation with Nur Misuari, the leader of the Moro National Liberation Front before she leaves for the United States on Sept. 15.

Earlier, President Aquino had a breakfast meeting with Filipino professionals and businessmen working in Singapore and she briefed them on the latest economic situation of the Philippines.

GOVERNMENT STUDYING GORBACHEV VLADIVOSTOK SPEECH

HK260145 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] The government is carefully studying references to the Philippines in Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's recent Asian foreign policy speech. This according to Deputy Foreigh Minister Leticia Shahani. Gorbachev referred to the Philippines at four different points in the speech made last month, calling for closer economic links between the Soviet Union and the Philippines. But Shahani said the Philippines was taking a wait-and-see attitude on whether concrete results emerge from Gorbachev's attention to the new government. Foreign Ministry officials travelling with President Aquiono to Indonesia and Singapore discussed Gorbachev's speech at length with Indonesian officials yesterday [25 August].

LAUREL ON EXPANDING RELATIONS WITH USSR

HK270321 Quezon City Radyo Ng Bayan in Tagalog 0300 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] The Philippines is willing to seek new ways of expanding its relations with the Soviet Union. This was announced by Foreign Affairs Minister Salvador Laurel at a conference of the Pacific (?Teachers) Development held at the Development Bank of the Philippines in Makati. Laurel said the Philippines is the first target of the Soviet Union in its plan to improve relations throughout Southeast Asia. He added that the Soviets have been giving (?aid) as proof of their sincere intentions.

BERNAMA INTERVIEWS AQUINO ON ASEAN 23 AUG

BK230307 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 0032 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 23 (BERNAMA) -- President Corazon Aquino leaves for Jakarta tomorrow to chart a new chapter of the Philippine relations with its neighbouring ASEAN countries. The visit is seen as to fulfill her pledge to visit ASEAN first before proceeding to other countries. The visit, which will also take her to Singapore, is the first official tour abroad since assuming power after the February people's revolution.

Here is a brief interview with BERNAMA correspondent in Manila on what Aquino hopes to achieve from her visit to Indonesia and Singapore.

Q: ASEAN leaders look forward to your forthcoming visit to Indonesia and Singapore which has been described as a positive step towards bringing closer the Philippines to the other ASEAN countries. What do you hope to achieve from the visit?

A: I have stressed the need for personal rapport among the leaders of ASEAN to leave no room for suspicion or distrust. My meeting with President Suharto and Prime Minister Lee, I believe, would cement the relationship between our countries.

Q: One of your early announcements after assuring [as received] power is the shift of foreign policy putting ASEAN on top of the order of priority. What made you change to this policy?

A: It is only natural for us to give priority to our ASEAN neighbours. We share borders with two of these countries, we have identical experiences as former colonies and we face essentially the same problems.

Q: May we know how do you plan to bring the Philippines and Filipino people closer to ASEAN following the adoption of the new policy?

A: By visiting two ASEAN countries before my visit to the United States, I hope to stress that geographically we belong to Asia and our interest lies in developing closer ties with our neighbours. Certainly, I would be in favour of more exchanges between the ASEAN countries not only in the field of trade, but also in information and culture.

Q: At the opening of the recent annual foreign ministers' meeting, you have suggested that the ASEAN regional economic cooperation has failed to materialise. In your opinion why is that so? What does the Philippines have to offer to realise the objective of the regional body?

A: We hve been a party to the so-called Preferential Trade Agreement (PTA) with our ASEAN neighbours. We are for encouraging more intra-ASEAN trade. I think we have done our share, for example, in seeking a peaceful solution to the Kampuchean problem in regional fora and in the United Nations.

Q: One of the main obstacles towards intra-regional economic cooperation and trade is lack of commitment and coordination between national and regional policies. Do you think there is a need for every ASEAN member country to realign its national policy with the regional goal?

A: I think that each ASEAN member is beginning to realise the need for greater regional cooperation in dealing with the developed countries on such issues as protectionism. I think that the shift of our national policies to suit regional goals has been there all the time, although we could have moved faster in the past.

Q: Is the Philippines prepared to make sacrifices for the sake of regional interest. If so what kind?

A: Our stake in ASEAN is well known to our people, and when the time comes for us to make some sacrifices for regional interest, I don't think our people will shirk from it.

Q: How do you project future economic cooperation particularly in the area of trade, joint venture projects and industrial complementation?

A: First, there must be an expansion of intra-ASEAN trade, and more coordination in our dealings with other economic blocks such as the European Community, with Japan and the United States. Industrial complementation is not yet a lost cause. In recent years we just suffered from lack of communications.

Q: In the past, the Philippines also has been supporting the ASEAN stand on several political issues like the Kampuchea problem, but it did not take the leading or active role and initiatives in pursuing solutions to the problem. Will the Philippines take up the front-line position on such issues in the future?

A: I think the Philippines has done as much as the the other ASEAN members in seeking a peaceful solution to the Kampuchean conflict. We will continue to participate in any collective action that is in the interest of the region. In areas where our leadership is needed, we will not hesitate to provide it in consultation with our partnrs.

Q: How about the proposed nuclear weapons free zone in Southeast Asia? Will Manila play an active role to see that the proposed treaty is signed and enforced?

A: I can sense a growing feeling among our people for a nuclear zone in the region. We abhor the spread of nuclear weapons and regret the great amount wasted on weapons of destruction.

Q: There has been questions as to why only two ASEAN countries are chosen for the forthcoming visit. Why not three, four or all?

A: I hope to visit other ASEAN countries in the future. The choice of Singapore is obvious because Prime Minister Lee's recent visit to Manila. We share common interests with Indonesia and we have existing bilateral agreements. But we consider our relations with other ASEAN members to be of equal importance.

Q: What will be the emphasis of your visit to Indonesia and Signapore?

A: My primary concern is economic recovery for my country, and trade talks will be on top of our agenda with Presient Suharto and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew. I think that trade is the area where immediate improvement can be achieved.

Q: How about other ASEAN capitals? When will you visit other ASEAN neighbours? Can this visit take place before the proposed ASEAN summit in July next year?

A: I can't say now whether a visit to other ASEAN capitals could be arranged before the scheduled ASEAN summit in Manila in July next year. But I look forward to meeting all the ASEAN heads of state or government in the immediate future.

Q: Apart from discussing the possibility of promoting bilateral trade and economic cooperation, will issues like security be discussed?

A: Security is always an issue that is in the mind of ASEAN leaders. But I think there is no urgency to it at this time. No member is directly threatened with external aggression, although Thailand had some problems with its borders with Kampuchea.

Q: Indonesia has been successful in stamping out communist insurgency. Do you plan to exchange views with President Suharto on this matter? Will there be some kind of military cooperation in such field between the two countries?

A: I cannot foresee any military cooperation between ASEAN countries in dealing with internal insurgency. Each country, I believe, is coping well enough with its internal security problem.

MEDIA ACCUSED OF HURTING CEASE-FIRE TALKS

HK270559 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Newspaper reports regarding the ceasefire negotiations have been adversely affecting the talks. Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra, one the government's two negotiators, said the communist negotiators have been refusing to surface again after the reports appeared. Mitra said the communists, in their publication LIBERATION, have declared that the government seems to be speaking in different voices. Mitra said that in the negotiations with the communists, only the president's voice will be followed.

OCAMPO SAYS REGIONAL PEACE INITIATIVES OKAY

HK221053 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 22 Aug 86 p 1, 6

[By staff member Paulynn Sicam]

[Text] Regional peace initiatives by the New People's Army, like the recent Davao del Norte experiment, had been allowed so long as the local negotiations did not go against national initiatives, chief rebel negotiator Satur Ocampo said this week in an interview with newsmen.

Ocampo said, however, that the Davao del Norte peace initiative which led to a comprehensive province-wide cease-fire agreement was originally not meant to lead to a cease-fire.

"Due to the particularity of the situation," he explained, "the New People's Army in the area was given the go-signal to go ahead and talk, but only with civilian leaders."

In Davao del Norte, he said, there is a civilian leadership made up of members of cause-oriented groups appointed as officers-in-charge on the provincial, city, and town levels. This leadership asked for "our cooperation in order to implement socio-economic programs beneficial to the people," Ocampo added.

Davao City Mayor Zafiro Respicio has admitted that his province is a bailiwick of the NPA. In fact, he said, there is no group that can succeed in mounting mass actions in Davao City "without these anti-Marcos elements."

The National Democratic Front (NDF), which is currently engaged in preliminary peace talks with the national government is "liberal with local units because we recognize the particularity of their situation," Ocampo said. Sources in the underground said regional commissions of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and its military arm, the NPA, operate almost autonomously with little control and supervision from the national leadership.

Local cease-fire talks, like the one concluded in Davao del Norte last week, started "way ahead of the national cease-fire talks," Ocampo said. "We knew about it, and we are watching it," he said.

Of particular interest to the NDF, though, is how the military would react to the cease-fire agreements. The NPA has made it a practice to exclude the Armed Forces from peace negotiations. Ocampo noted that local NPA groups have asked for the dismantling of the Civilian Home Defense Forces and the return of the troops to barracks.

In Misamis Oriental, he said, the de facto cease-fire was broken when the local provincial commander demanded the surrender of the NAP as a condition for cease-fire. "That is non-negotiable," Ocampo said.

In Davao del Norte, however, the Armed Forces has agreed to cooperate in the experiment, even if the accord has left out the military, Respicio said.

The NPA ranks in Mindanao are in disarray, Respicio said. In fact, he believes that the cease-fire efforts initiated by the rebels may be a way "to buy time and get their act together."

Speaking before the United Church of Christ recently, he said that the Mindanao Commission of the CPP had approached the civilian leadership of Region 11 about the possibility of a Mindanao-wide cease-fire.

To this Ocampo said: "We would like the cease-fire effort to be unified on the national level. However, the NDF is still studying the possibility of making some exceptions to the rule."

ARMY EXTENDS CEASE-FIRE DESPITE MINDANAO CLASHES

HK201443 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 20 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] Three separate clashes between government forces ad the communist insurgents yesterday broke a two-weak-old de facto ceasefire in Northern Mindanao. Two army troopers and eight NPA rebels were killed in the clashes.

Despite these clashes, Brig. Gen. Mariano Adalem, Regional Unified Command 10 chief, said the military has approved a request from the local CPP/NPA to extend the local ceasefire which expired last Aug. 16.

He said he has assured the rebels that they would not conduct any military operations within the agreed ten municipalities covered by the local ceasefire pact.

He said they are willing to continue with the negotiations and to provide safe conduct passes to representatives of the local CPP/NPA as a result of this extension period. Only recently, Misamis Oriental Gov. Vicente Emano held talks with leaders of the Northern Mindanao rebels and expressed optimism that a regional ceasefire may also be formulated as a result of the encouraging talks he conducted.

The first clash, according to a military report, occurred in the hinterlands of Calabugao, Bukidnon when an army patrol met a group of heavily armed rebels resulting in the death of two soldiers.

Col. Manuel Dizon, commanding officer of the 3rd Infantry brigade, said pursing troops from the 26th infantry battalion killed five of the NPA members during the 10-minute encounter.

In barangay Pagawpawan, Valencia, also in Bukidnon, troops from the 26th infantry battalion clashed with another group of armed rebels, killing three of them. Recovered from the battle scene were three garand rifles and several rounds of ammunition.

Military authorities also reported that a group of NPA men disguised as army soldiers disarmed six CHDF [Civilian Home Defense Forces] members in Butuan City. The report said the NPA armed group gathered the CHDF troopers reportedly for tactical inspection.

However, the rebels divested the CHDFs of their firearms and fled. In another report from Butan city, hostilities between government forces and the NPAs broke out a new when an advance unit of the 53rd infantry battalion was ambushed during a probing operation, killing a member of the party in barangay Camagong, some 30 kilometers south of Butan city.

Sketchy reports said the army group was on a cross-country movement from Bukidnon to the Agusan boundary and deeper into its objective when the advance group was pounced upon at about 7:00 a.m.

The casualty was identified as Sgt. Bryan Burn, a member of the 53rd infantry battalion and a native of Butuan.

Some quarters have expressed apprehension that these incidents may trigger a large-scale military operation against the NPA in Northern Mindanao breaking the less than one month-long lull on account of the alleged ceasefire negotiations.

MINDANAO OFFICIALS 'OPTIMISTIC' ON CEASE-FIRE

HK201519 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY In English 20 Aug 86 p 23

[By reporter Leticia M. Subang]

[Text] As the national leadership is trying to bring the rebels to the negotiation table, local leaders in the strife-torn Mindanao are initiating moves to strike a deal with the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP), the New People's Army (NPA) and the National Democratic Front (NDF).

Davao City officer-in-charge Zafiro Respicio said they are now trying to discuss the possibility of a moratorium in fighting in Mindanao with the CPP-NPA-NDF Mindanao Commission.

Local leaders seem optimistic over the possibility of achieving a regional ceasefire for Mindanao, considering the reported rift between the rebels' national and Mindanao leadership.

The Mindanao group had been widely known to be in favor of participation during the last presidential elections, while the national leadership opted to boycott.

The boycott policy had already been recognized by the CPP-NPA-NDF leadership to be an error, which caused their organizations some political setbacks.

Respicio said a ceasefire is already in effect in two towns in Davao del Norte, on an experimental basis.

Once proven successful, he added, this may be expanded to three or five more towns, and eventually the entire province. As far as Mindanao -- and Davao in particular -- is concerned, a ceasefire could work for both parties, he said.

BUTZ AQUINO: MNLF PEACE MAY IMPROVE MOSLEM TIES

HK270555 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] The Philippines can look forward to good relations with Muslim nations around the world if it can resolve its problems in Mindanao. This was said by Butz Aquino, an emissary of President Corazon Aquino, after he spoke with Nur Misuari, the leader of the Moro National Liberation Front, in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. Details from Jojo Ysmael:

[Begin Ysmael recording] According to Butz Aquino, the national government is expected to maintain a neutral security force, a neutral foreign policy, and a uniform [words indistinct]. He also said President Aquino (?is considering) granting true autonomy to the Muslims [words indistinct] the economic recovery program for the entire nation.

Meanwhile, the national Muslim (?government) planned for Jolo is expected to [words indistinct] in order to resolve the Muslim issue in Mindanao. [end recording]

MISUARI WILL ACCEPT AUTONOMY FOR MINDANAO

HK261200 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 26 Aug 86 pp 1, 2

[By Louie T. Logarta]

[Text] Nur Misuari, exiled chairman of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF), has given peace a chance in troubled Southern Philippines.

Meeting with government negotiator Agapito 'Butz' Aquino in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, Misuari said he has agreed in principle to disregard the MNLF's secessionist move and opt for autonomy instead.

Misuari, according to Aquino who arrived yesterday from that Middle East country, said the principle of autonomy will however be ratified during the second national Bangsamoro Congress, when it convenes in Joso in September.

Aquino said that the issue of secession or "total independence" for Muslim Mindanao has been the main stumbling block to peace negotiations between the Philippine Government and the MNLF.

The Congress will climax the two-month dialogs by the MNLF Consultative Commission with the MNLF leadership and the "broad masses of the Bangsamoro people."

Aquino said the issue of secession was "non-negotiable" as far as the Philippine Government was concerned. He was only "authorized" to discuss the autonomy issue already approved by the Constitutional Commission [ConCom], he clarified.

The ConCom had earlier agreed to grant autonomy to a portion of Muslim Mindanao and the Cordilleras.

Aquino said Misuari accepted the invitation of the President for a peace dialog which will focus "on preparing the groundwork and atmosphere for peaceful negotiations and settlement of the Bangsamoro problem."

Sharifuddin Pirzada, secretary general of the Jeddah-based Islamic Conference Organization, expressed his support for the results, Aquino said.

He told newsmen that Misuari is definitely coming in September either through the MIA [Manila International Airport] or the "back-door."

Peace talks, will be in some secret place in "Bangsamoro country," he added. It is expected to deal on the scope of autonomy, such as taxation, currency printing, police and military forces, judiciary, education and others.

The Philippine delegation to Jeddah was composed of Aquino and Norberto Gonzales, chairman of the Pilipino Socialist Democratic Party.

The MNLF side had Misuari, Dr. Tham Manjoorsa, head of the MNLF National Intelligence Bureau; Anni Ahlul, intelligence chief of the General Staff, Bangsamoro Armed Forces; Julhambri Misuari, national security command chief; Dr. Abdurahman Amin, liaison officer; Kagim Jajurie, Nabel Gandambra, and Ombra Managigin.

MNLF SUSPENDS MINDANAO FIGHTING TO CREATE GOODWILL

HK270909 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 26 Aug 86 p 21

[Text] Jeddah, Saudi Arabia -- Moro National Liberation Front Leader Nur Misuari said the MNLF has suspended antigovernment fighting on Mindanao island "as an act of goodwill to create favorable conditions for peace."

Misuari, according to a Saudi newspaper report, made the statement, after the MNLF agreed to meet next month with the Philippine government to settle the issue of autonomy in Mindanao.

The agreement was reached after four days of talks in Saudi Arabian port city of Jeddah between Misuari and Agapito "Butz" Aquino, the personal emissary of President Corazon C. Aquino, the English-language newspaper ARAB NEWS said.

The agreement said the two sides agreed to focus on the "peace dialogue" between Mrs. Aquino and Misuari to "prepare the groundwork and atmosphere for peaceful negotiations and settlement of the Bangsa Mor homeland."

It also said the two leaders will consider "a preliminary arrangement to furthr enhance the favorable situation now prevailing in South Philippines."

A commission of the MNLF is carrying out consultations with the Bangsa Moro people to sound out specific advice or demands they want Misuari to convey to Mrs. Aquino, the paper said.

The second national Bangsa Moro congress will be held on the island of Jolo in the first week of September, just before the projected dialogue, it said.

The agreement was signed at the Jeddah-based headquarters of the Organization of Islamic Conference (OIC), an umbrella body for 46 Islamic nations, ARAB NEWS reported.

The two men met with OIC secretary-general Sharifuddin Pirzada who expressed "full support for this initial step toward peace," the paper said.

It quoted Misuari and Aquino as expressing optimism about the success of the dialog, expected to be held in one of the key provinces in the South.

"We are looking for just and durable peace. We have historic debts to pay to our brothers in the South and we intend to rectify the previous error to the best of our ability," Aquino said.

He said the Bangsa Moro people would be granted real automony, not just on paper, "so tht we can all concentrate on economic recovery."

But Aquino said the national government plans to maintain one foreign policy, one national army and a uniform taxation for the entire country.

He said he expects ties between Manila and the entire Muslim world to improve substantially once the automony problem is solved.

Aquino had been instrumental in obtaining MNLF support for Mrs. Aquino when she ran for president against Ferdinand Marcos earlier this year. He is reported to have held talks with Misuari in Spain in December and assured him of a "positive approach" to the problem in the event of Mrs Aquino coming to power.

Misuari said he also met recently with Hashim Salamat and will have more talks with him in the coming months in quest of unity within the MNLF. Salamat heads the Islamic Front, one faction of the fragmented Moro.

The Manila government has long treated Misuari as the major Muslim guerrilla leader.

In a recent interview with the Abu Dhabi newspaper AL-ITTIHAD, Salamat said Misuari sought liberation of Mindanao Island but that his group was seeking the creation of Islamic rule in the area."

In Manila, Hadji Ustaz Galam Abdullah, vice-chairman of Moro's central consultative committee, said Misuari has been gauging support among followers for retreat -- at least for now -- from the hard-line stance he has held more than 15 years.

"Nur Misuari wants independence, but he is consulting with the people. If the people want federal autonomy, he will go with them," Abdullah recently said.

He said Misuari also was trying to persuade the other rebel factions to unite behind him and, if successful, would meet a demand by Mrs Aquino that talks involve a united Muslim front so she would be sure an agreement would be followed by all groups.

LIBERATION DETAILS 'OUST-AQUINO PLOT' PRINCIPALS

HK211227 (Clandestine) LIBERATION in English Apr-May 86 p 19

[Text] Political observers say an "unseen hand" seems to be behind the spate of anti-Aquino demonstrations being launched these days. The rallies, too concerted to be seen as spontaneous expressions of "pro-Marcos sentiment," are said to be laying down the scenario for a destabilization move designed to overthrow the two-month old Aquino government. There are a number of educated guesses as to whose hand is orchestrating the oust-Aquino plot:

1) The Marcos family: The motives of the deposed dictator are obvious -- to get himself back in power. He still has the means and the power base to attempt a takeover. As for Imee, she has been reported as saying she doesn't care if she spends all here money, so long as she could get back at the Aquino government, but especially at Juan Ponce Enrile for his treachery against her father.

2) Eduardo Cojuangco: Not only does this erstwhile Marcos arch-crony have the ambition, but also the wealth and the necessary connections to bankroll and coordinate a destabilization scheme while in exile. Reports have it that he has earmarked at least P20 million for a summer blitz of rowdy "loyalist" rallies in Manila. The funds are reportedly being coursed through Rolando de la Cuesta, a former colleague in the conconut industry. Cojuangco, however, may not necessarily be paving the way for his own but someone else's ascension as President. And his protege may be no other than close friend and business associate Johnny Enrile.

3) Juan Ponce Enrile and the Ramists [Reform the Armed Forces Movement]: Their own plans for an anti-Marcos coup had to give way to an accommodation of a liberal and populist government led by Aquino. But they are also growing jittery by the day with Aquino's pronouncements that human rights violators in the military will be investigated and prosecuted.

4) Blas Ople: His presidential ambitions were nipped in the bud with Aquino's rise to power, but he now has seen fit to use the President's declaration of a revolutionary government as an excuse to assail the new administration's "illegitimacy" and "unconstitutionality." He has even founded his own political party, the Partido Nacionalista ng Pilipinas (PNP), hoping perhaps to harvest enough disgruntled anti-Aquino pepole to add to the KBL remanents who now comprise the PNP.

5) Salvador Laurel: Known as the Man-who-would-be-President, but whose own realization of his unpopularity forced him to accede to being No. 2 man to the more well-liked Aquino.

6) U.S. imperialism: Always the doting Godfather to reactionaries and the sworn enemy of liberals who dare espouse the "wrong policies" on Clark and Subic. It seems that the U.S. already fretting about Aquino's personal non-committal stand towards the bases, has been discomfited anew by an uncharacteristically independent foreign policy speech recently delivered by Foreign Affairs Minister Laurel on the issue of the bases and nuclear arms. (Reports have it though, that the speech had the imprimatur of not Laurel, but the more liberal S.P. Lopez). Also, alarums have been raised by U.S. big business against the profit-sharing proposals made by Labor minister Augusto Sanchez. So worried, in fact, is the U.S., that it can give the go-signal for the coup to be staged in the near future. That is, unless people's power once again wreaks havoc on the coup-plotters' timetable.

FBIS DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 167

28 August 1986

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture Alliance Formed at Cairns Conference [Melbourne] A 1
ASEAN Economic Ministers To Meet 28-30 Aug [PNA] A 1
    Aquino's Opening Remarks [AFP] A 2
    Common Market Urged [AFP] A 3

JAPAN

Kapitsa Says Gorbachev Visit 'On the Agenda' C 1
    Meets With Yanai C 1
    Meets With Kuranari C 1
    Meets with Abe C 2
    KYODO Interview C 2
Defense Agency Announces FY 1987 Budget Request C 3

MONGOLIA

MPRP, Government Support Soviet Moratorium F 1
    Soviet Moratorium 'Commended' F 2
Politburo Approves Outcome of Batmonh-Husak Talks F 2
GDR's Honecker To Visit in Late October F 3

CAMBODIA

UNICEF Delegation Departs After Meeting Hun Sen H 1
Bou Thang Attends Cadre Training Course Ceremony H 1
Sihanouk Comments on NAM Credibility [VOK] H 2

LAOS

Souphanouvong Addresses LFNC Conference I 1
Rally Supports Extension of Nuclear Moratorium I 1
Masses Urged To Do Defense Work Effectively I 1
Army Logistics Department Holds Conference I 2
Army Department Campaigns Welcome Congress I 3
Army Units End Political Life Campaigns I 4
    Northern Military Units I 4
Cadres, Party Members Study Political Report I 5
    'Division A' I 5
    'Division B' I 5

THAILAND

Statement Issued on Sitthi, Sihanouk Meeting J 1
Sihanouk Says Son Sann To Go on PRC Visit [AFP] J 2
Sihanouk Says Khmer Rouge Troops Attack Allies [AFP] J 2
Prem Tinsulanon Heads New Economic Cabinet
        [THE NATION 27 Aug] J 3
House Approves Trials for Gen Kriangsak, Wira J 4

VIETNAM

NHAN DAN Hails Soviet Moratorium Extensions [20 Aug] K 1
International Student Delegation Visits K 3
Nhatrang Holds Grass-roots Party Congress K 3
Hai Hung Supervises Basic Party Congresses K 6
Hanoi Ward Holds Basic-Level Party Congresses K 6
Food Industry Delegation Visits Vladivostok K 7

INDONESIA

USSR's Zaytsev Arrives on 'Unannounced' Visit [AFP] N 1
Papers View Philippine President's Visit N 1

MAYLASIA AND SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Tan Koon Swan Resigns as MCA President O 1

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Returns from Singapore, Indonesia Tour P 1
  Holds Press Conference P 1
Planning Minister Discusses Debt Rescheduling [MANILA BULLETIN 25 Aug] P 4
Audit Chairman Urges Opposition to IMF Conditions [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 23 Aug] P 5
Ministers At Odds Over Protectionism Issue [THE MANILA TIMES 23 Aug] P 5
Trade Minister Assails Import Liberalization [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 24 Aug] P 7
2 More Officials Favor Legalization of CPP [NEWS HERALD 27 Aug] P 8
Misuari, Delegation To Get Safe Conduct Passes P 8

AGRICULTURE ALLIANCE FORMED AT CAIRNS CONFERENCE

BK270959 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] A group of 14 agriculture exporting countries has formed a trade alliance to push for fairer world trading conditions. The formation of the alliance in the north Queensland city of Cairns is mainly to counter exports of subsidized agricultural products from the European Community and the United States.

A statement issued by the 14 countries after 2 and a half days of talks said there was an urgent need to reform world agricultural trade. It said the countries calling themselves the fair traders in agriculture would work for the removal of market access barriers and ultimately the elimination of subsidies affecting world farm trade.

The 14 countries intend raising the issue at world trade talks to be held under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in Uruguay in 3 weeks. The group said it would meet in Uruguay ahead of the GATT talks.

They also intend putting pressure on the European Community and the United States to change their subsidy policies. The Australian trade minister, Mr Dawkins, who hosted the conference, said the formation of the alliance was a significant step. [Begin Dawkins recording] I think this marks the establishment of a new coalition, a new alliance, which will begin to bring a new balance into the international discussions. [end recording]

ASEAN ECONOMIC MINISTERS TO MEET 28-30 AUG

BK270537 Manila PNA in English 0518 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 27 (OANA/PNA) -- Implementation of projects to develop intra-ASEAN development cooperation in the field of transportation and communications is one of the major concerns to be tackled by the 18th ASEAN economic ministers' meeting August 28-30 at the Manila Hotel.

The committee on Transporation and Communications (COTAC) is expected to report on progress of ongoing projects in the areas of posts and telecommunications, shipping and ports, civil aviation and land transport.

In the area of posts and telecommunications, the most significant development has been the establishment and registration in March 1986 of the ASEAN Cabelship Private Ltd. (ACPL). A culmination of the ASEAN cableship project, the ACPL will initially charter a cableship from existing cableship operators in the region and work in cooperation with them on mutual support two-ship arrangement. Such arrangement is expected to provide ASEAN with ready access to the share of the existing cable maintenance to ASEAN at minimal cost.

The ACPL will provide maintenance services for both ASEAN and other submarine cable systems in the Indian Ocean, Southeast Asia and part of the west Pacific Ocean regions.

Another development is the near completion of the ASEAN submarine cable project with the last segment, the Philippines-Malaysia-Thailand portion, expected to be completed in the early 1990's. The project will very likely be an optical fiber submarine cable system.

In the field of civil aviation, the promotion of ASEAN as a tourist destination remains one of the major objectives of the ASEAN Sub-Committee on Civil Aviation and Related Services (ASCARS).

The different ASEAN airlines are now finalizing a fare package within the ASEAN region. Three more bilateral agreements on search and rescue services are also in the final stages of conclusion. These agreements are between Indonesia-Thailand, Malaysia-Philippines and Indonesia-Philippines.

In land transport, the agreement on the recognition of domestic driving licenses issued by ASEAN countries was signed in July 1985 and is now in the process of ratification by the member countries.

Aquino's Opening Remarks

HK280414 Hong Kong AFP in English 0349 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 28 (AFP) -- Economic ministers from ASEAN opened a meeting here Thursday after hearing a virtual apology from President Corazon Aquino for her earlier criticism of the group's cooperation efforts.

"Perhaps we have failed to see the forest for the trees. The goals of ASEAN have been achieved. They were there already at her foundation." Mrs. Aquino said in an address opening the three-day meeting.

The Philippines leader returned Wednesday from state visits to Indonesia and Singapore, two of her country's partners in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Recalling the meeting of ASEAN's foreign ministers here in June at which she expressed "some impatience over the slow progress of ASEAN towards its stated objectives," Mrs. Aquino said "I must now say that ASEAN will endure regardless of the speed or ... the circumspection with which the association proceeeds towards its objectives.

"And I have come to appreciate the tremendous value of the mere existence of the association and the great contribution that a continuing dialogue rooted in durable affection has made to the stability, peace, and yes, the potential for the progress of the region."

Conference sources say that Mrs. Aquino's earlier criticism of the ASEAN may have irked some of the other members of the association, which groups the Philippines with Indonesia, Singapore, Thailand, Malaysia and Brunei.

Officials from the delegations said that apart from regional cooperation and trade issues, particularly the forthcoming multilateral trade negotiations (MTN) in Uruguay, the current meeting will launch preparations for an ASEAN summit in Manila in the latter half of 1987.

Philippine Trade and Industry Minister Jose Concepcion said the summit was expected to coincide with ther twentieth anniversary of ASEAN next August. He said in a speech to the delegation that "having economic matters as its major thrust as suggested by the ASEAN foreign minister, the ASEAN summit affords us the opportunity to address deliberately the issues that have so far prevented greater economic cooperation in the region."

The provisional agenda of the economic ministers' meeting includes discussions on a joint ASEAN approach to the MTN, international commodity issues, global system of trade preferences, and economic and technical cooperation among developing countries.

Participants will also take up the progress of economic cooperation with ASEAN's dialogue partners or chief allies -- the United States, Japan, the European Community, Australia, New Zealand and Canada. The conference will also discuss the "preparatory machinery and provisional agenda" for the summit, which would [be] the third since the association was founded in 1967 and the first since the Koala Lumpur summit of 1977.

Common Market Urged

HK280759 Hong Kong AFP in English 0732 GMT 28 Aug 86

[By Roberto Coloma]

[Excerpt] Manila, Aug 28 (AFP) -- ASEAN economic ministers opened an annual meeting here Thursday amid a call from regional businessmen for the formation of a common market. A unified stand on world trade issues, regional cooperation projects and groundwork for the August 1987 Manila summit of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) are expected to be highlights of this three-day meeting, opened by Philippine President Corazon Aquino at the Manila Hotel.

President of the ASEAN Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Malaysian accountant Nawawi Mat Awin, told the meeting of the chamber's desire for establishment of an ASEAN common market. The chamber represents regional businessmen working closely with ASEAN.

He said 14 experts from the region had been appointed by the chamber to prepare a formal report on the common market proposal which would be presented for consideration at the Manila summit.

"We hope that this effort will yield more results than in previous years given the situation in ASEAN today where we believe that there is a conjunction of events and circumstances that favour further economic cooperation that would perhaps set us on the path to greater integration," he said.

Mr. Nawawi told reporters after his speech that ASEAN must depart from a "project-oriented approach." "We are saying, the private sector is saying, the ASEAN governments should now consider a market orientation. Where there is a market, the investments will come, from within ASEAN and outside of ASEAN." He said there [as received] goal was "eventually, a common market," and expressed confidence that the proposal would be taken seriously.

Earlier, Malaysian Minister of Trade and Industry Tengku Razaleigh Hamzah told the conference that the summit was expected to "chart new directions," particularly with respect to economic cooperation.

KAPITSA SAYS GORBACHEV VISIT 'ON THE AGENDA'

Meets With Yanai

OW271215 Tokyo KYODO in English 1207 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 27 KYODO -- The Soviet Union will soon be able to fix the date of a visit to Japan by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa was quoted as saying Wednesday. According to a Foreign Ministry Official, Kapitsa, vice foreign minister in charge of Asian affairs, told Japanese Deputy Foreign Minister Shinichi Yanai, the Soviet Union is seriously preparing for the reciprocal visits by the Japanese and Soviet leaders. Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari had earlier told Soviet Ambassador to Japan Nikolay Solovyev that Japan would welcome a visit by Gorbachev within this year or by the end of next January. He will be there first general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party to visit Japan. Kuranari will discuss the matter with his Soviet counterpart Eduard Shevardnadze on September 24 in New York when he attends a United nations General Assembly meeting. Yanai called again for an early Gorbachev visit, the official said. Kapitsa arrived in Tokyo early Wednesday morning.

During the two-hour meeting, Yanai and Kapitsa confirmed the developing relations between Japan and the Soviet Union by referring to Shevardnadze's visit to Tokyo in January and former Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe's visit to Moscow in May, the official said. Kapitsa, who explained the Soviet Union's policies regarding Asia and the Pacific, said the policy envisages three phases -- improvement of bilateral relations with Japan and neighboring countries, solution of regional disputes such as those concerning Afghanistan and the Korean peninsula, and a proposed Asia-Pacific conference -- the official said. "The Soviet Union wants the 100-year-old distrust (between the two countries) to be a thing of the past," Kapitsa was quoted as saying.

Yanai told Kapitsa "It will be easy to improve bilateral relations. The way to do that will be to solve the northern territorial issue and conclude a peace treaty." Kapitsa replied only that he is aware of the Japanese position. Japan has long called for the return of small islands east of Hokkaido -- Kunashiri, Etorofu and Shikotan Islands and the Habomai group -- which the Soviet Union captured in the closing days of World War II. Moscow has repeatedly said there exists no territorial dispute between the two countries.

Kaptisa also said Soviet-Chinese relations are improving, centering on economic affairs. Yanai expressed the hope that the improvement in relations between the Soviet Union and China will be such as to contribute to bringing about peace in Asia and the world, the official said.

Meets With Kuranari

OW280539 Tokyo KYODO in English 0527 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 28 KYODO -- The Kremlin hopes that the Soviet Union and Japan exchange fruitful visits of their top leaders, Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa was quoted as saying Thursday. Kapitsa, delivering a verbal message from the Kremlin to Tokyo, told Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's visit to Japan is on the agenda, Japanese officials said. Kapitsa did not say when Gorbachev will come to Japan; however, Japan has called for a Gorbachev visit by the end of this year or next January.

Kuranari met with Kapitsa for 50 minutes and promised to hand the Soviet message over to Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone telling him that Japan welcomes Moscow's overtures to improve ties with Tokyo. The Soviet message explained Gorbachev's speech in Vladivostok July 28 which proposed holding an Asia-Pacific security forum and called for improved ties with China, the officials said. Kapitsa, who arrived in Tokyo Wednesday and leaves for Moscow Friday, asked for a reasonable response to Gorbachev's proposal, they said. Kuranari told Kapitsa that Japan will study Gorbachev's speech and inform him of Japan's reaction to it later. Kuranari was quoted as telling Kapitsa that he would like to study the reasons impeding the Asia-Pacific conference and what measures should be taken.

Kuranari and Kapitsa agreed that intercultural exchanges between the two countries were important.

Meets With Abe

OW281139 Tokyo KYODO in English 1131 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 28 KYODO -- Visiting Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa paid a courtesy call on former foreign minister Shintaro Abe at the latter's office Thursday afternoon. In the 15-minute meeting with Abe, now chairman of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party's Executive Council, Kapitsa indicated again that preparations are going smoothly for a visit to Japan by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. He, however, stopped short of mentioning a date for the visit. Kapitsa did not say when Gorbachev will come to Tokyo during his meeting with Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari earlier in the day. He then only conveyed intention of Gorbachev's intention to visit Japan. Meeting Abe, Kapitsa hailed his achievements while foreign minister such as the reestablishment of the regular Soviet-Japanese foreign ministers conference, and called for his cooperation in bettering relations between the two countries. Abe agreed.

Later, Kapitsa went to the Diet (parliament) where he met Yoshio Sakurauchi, chairman of the Japan-Soviet Parliamentarians' League.

KYODO Interview

OW281245 Tokyo KYODO in English 1221 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 28 KYODO -- A senior Soviet diplomat said Thursday a decision on Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's proposed visit to Japan may come before a firm decision is made on a summit meeting with U.S. President Ronald Reagan. Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa, currently on a visit to Japan, sounded the prospect in an interview with KYODO NEWS SERVICE at the Soviet Embassy. The remark on the timing of the Gorbachev visit was the closest yet Kapitsa has said on the subject during his current trip to Japan.

He indicated that Soviet and Japanese officials are already discussing the agenda of Gorbachev's visit, saying that the Kremlin has proposed three topics of talks. These include economic and scientific cooperation and Soviet-Japanese cooperation on how to avert dangers of war, he said. Kapitsa also said he hoped the two countries would foster an environment of trust through bilateral efforts.

Kapitsa said Gorbachev's Japan visit is already on the agenda but would not predict whether the Soviet leader would come to Japan before the end of January as Japanese officials want. He said he was not sure whether Japanese Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari and his Soviet counterpart, Eduard Shevardnadze, could fix up a firm date of the Gorbachev trip during their scheduled meeting in New York next month. The visit by the top leader of one country to another country must bear fruitful results, he said. However, Kapitsa said that "on a fanciful hypothesis" he could foresee the Gorbachev visit to Japan could come before the second summit meeting with Reagan.

He said the United States has not shown a constructive stand in arms control talks. On Sino-Soviet relations, Kapitsa said the two countries have improved their relations in recent years and there is even a possibility that they may even mend their political, governmental ties. However, he said he does not expect the communits parties of the two countries would reopen party-to-party relations.

DEFENSE AGENCY ANNOUNCES FY 1987 BUDGET REQUEST

OW271318 Tokyo KYODO in English 1248 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 27 KYODO -- The Defense Agency Wednesday announced a fiscal 1987 budget request for allocation of 3,554 billion yen, up 6.3 percent from the current fiscal year. The figure includes the proposed procurement of 16 F15 interceptor fighters and three destroyers. If the request is fully approved, the targets in a national defense program outline set in 1976 under the administration of then Prime Minister Takeo Miki will be almost attained, defense sources said.

The request also called for establishment of an intitation fund of 6 million yen to help construct Over-The-Horizon (OTH) radar facilities used for aerial surveillance. Another item concerned a fund of 49 million yen to improve telecommunication facilities B [as received] making use of private communication satellites for links between land bases and ships and between ships and planes. An additional 720 million yen will be provided for the scheme through budgets for subsequent years. The request also included procurement of 12 P3C antisubmarine patrol aircraft and a system of surface-to-air Patriot missiles. The defense agency also plans to modify 83 F4 Phantom fighters so they can be fitted with new missiles over a period of six years starting next April. Meanwhile, the defense agency decided to exclude a budgetary allocation for the selection of succeeding fighter supporters (FSX), while a plan for the United States and Japan to form a joint team to promote the development of the new plane is being studied, defense sources said. However, the defense agency is still likely to request the FSX allocation in December when a final government budget draft is outlined.

Regarding military facility construction projects, the defense agency requested allocation of a total of 1.36 billion yen for the construction of a night landing practice (NLP) airstrip on Tokyo's Miyake Island and housing for U.S. military personnel in Ikego, Kanagawa Prefecture. The request shows that the agency is resolved to start building facilities in the next fiscal year by winning the approval of local residents who are opposed to the projects for environment protection reasons, defense sources said. The NLP airstrip is designed to be used for warplanes from the U.S. aircraft carrier "Midway" while it is at harbor at the U.S. naval base at Yokosuka, south of Tokyo. The island, situated some 150 kilometers south of Tokyo, is known as a natural reserve for wild birds, while Ikego, a former U.S. storage place for ammunition, is also famous for its greenery and wildlife.

MPRP, GOVERNMENT SUPPORT SOVIET MORATORIUM

OW270552 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1357 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 25 Aug (MONTSAME) -- The MPRP Central Committee and MPR Government issued a statement today in connection with the decision of the CPSU Central Committee Politburo and Soviet Government, contained in the statement made by Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, to unilaterally extend until 1 January 1987 the moratorium on nuclear explosions. The full text of the document follows:

Statement of the MPRP Central Committee and MPR Government.

The Mongolian people perceive with deep satisfaction the statement made by Comrade M.S. Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, on the decision of the CPSU Central Committee Politburo and the Soviet Government to extend the unilateral moratorium on nuclear explosions until 1 January 1987. This decision of the Soviet Union is dictated by the loftiest interests of all mankind and the organic adherence of socialism to the cause of peace and universal security. It represents [passage indistinct].

The MPRP Central Committee and MPR Government consider that extension of the unilateral Soviet moratorium on nuclear tests for another 5 months is an expression of state wisdom (?and of) a highly responsible attitude to the problems of nuclear disarmament and to averting the threat of war in light of the current difficult international situation. In extending the unilateral moratorium, the Soviet state gives the U.S. Administration another opportunity to seriously assess the situation taking shape and to make use of this historic chance to achieve agreement [words indistinct] and nuclear disarmament.

The peoples of the world, who will never forget the horrors of the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, perceive with deep satisfaction this noble step taken by the Soviet Union as a practical [words indistinct] colossal stocks of nuclear weapons accumulated in the world and hope that it will be supported by equally concrete measures on the part of other nuclear powers, primarily the United States. The new action of the Soviet Union inspires antinuclear forces and movements and imparts optimism for their struggle to decrease and eliminate the threat of a nuclear catastrophe.

The Mongolian people welcome the new courageous step of the USSR and appeal to the U.S. Administration to exhibit prudence, responsibility, and a realistic attitude to questions of nuclear disarmament and the problems of war and peace. The MPRP Central Committee and MPR Government consider the Soviet Union's position and practical actions in favor of concluding a USSR-U.S. agreement on ending nuclear tests this year to be extremely timely and realistic. Stopping nuclear tests by all nuclear powers and conclusion of an international agreement on a complete and universal ban on such tests will promote the cause of nuclear disarmament and the creation of a basis for a universal system of international security.

The MPRP Central Committee and MPR Government fully support the new initiative of the USSR and view it as yet another major contribution to the people's struggle for peace, disarmament, and universal security.

Soviet Moratorium 'Commended'

OW271818 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in English 1657 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] [dateline, passage indistinct] The new Soviet constructive initiatives [words indistinct] recently they have been reinforced by the decision to prolong the unilateral moratorium on all nuclear explosions until the beginning of the next year. In Mongolia this is being commended as a wise act worthy of a great socialist power.

The thoughts of the Mongolian working people who hail the purposeful action (?of the) Soviet Union in the international arena, have found their concentrated expression in the recent MPR party and government documents.

The Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party in its resolution (26 August) which sums up the results of the meeting between Mongolian Party leader Jambyn Batmonh and Mikhail Gorbachev in Moscow, stresses that the intensification of the aggressiveness of imperialist forces headed by the USA demands in all-around stepping up of the efforts at curbing the arms race and preventing nuclear threat. The document notes that the future of the whole world depends to a large extent on the establishment of relations of trust, goodneighbourliness and cooperation among all Asia-Pacific states.

The MPRP Central Committee and the MPR Government have made a statement in which the Soviet Union's decision to prolong the nuclear tests moratorium is qualified as a striking example of a new political thinking and a resolute action in favour of curbing the arms race and of disarmament.

Making this step, the Soviet Union is offering the U.S. administration a possibility to seriously asses the situation that has taken shape and avail itself of the historic chance to reach agreements on curbing the arms race and on nuclear disarmament.

The MPRP CC and the MPR Government regard that the Soviet Union's position and actions favouring the concluding of a treaty between the USSR and the USA on discontinuing nuclear tests as early as this year are timely and realistic, the commentary notes.

POLITBURO APPROVES OUTCOME OF BATMONH-HUSAK TALKS

OW280432 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in English 1709 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 27 August (MONTSAME) -- The Politbureau of the MPRP Central Commitee has adopted a resolution upon hearing the report of Mongolian party and state leader Jambyn Batmonh on his meeting with Gustav Husak, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia and president of the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic, on 20 August in Prague. The resolution points out that the meeting held in an atmosphere of cordiality, fraternal friendship and mutual understanding, has become an important event in the relations of the two parties and countries.

Expressing satisfaction over the successful development of Mongol-Czechoslovak cooperation in political, economic, scientific-technical, cultural and other spheres of social life, the document stresses the necessity to further raise their efficiency and the importance to fruitfully realize the long-term programme for economic and scientific-technical cooperation between the two countries for the period ending 2000.

The MPRP CC considers that the two leaders' full approval and resolute support for the large-scale proposals and initiatives of the Soviet Union and the other fraternal socialist countries on strengthening universal peace and cooperation, as well as for another extension of the Soviet nuclear tests unilateral moratorium, have become a telling confirmation of the unanimity and peaceableness of the two parties and countries which stand for creating a durable basis of security in Asia, Europe and the World over. The MPRP CC Politbureau has fully approved the outcomes of the meeting in Prague.

GDR'S HONECKER TO VISIT IN LATE OCTOBER

OW271805 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in English 1707 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 27 August (MONTSAME) -- Erich Honecker, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Socialist Unity party of Germany and chairman of the State Council of the German Democratic Republic, will pay an official and friendly visit to Mongolia in the latter half of October at the invitation of Jambyn Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP CC and chairman of the presidium of the MPR Great People's hural.

UNICEF DELEGATION DEPARTS AFTER MEETING HUN SEN

BK261304 Phnom Penh SPK in English 1120 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Phnom Penh SPK August 26 -- A delegation of UNICEF led by executive director James P. Grant left Phnom Penh Sunday after a three-day official visit to Kampuchea. While in Kampuchea, James P. Grant and his delegation met with Hun Sen, premier and foreign minister, and other Kampuchean officials. They visited a number of projects funded by UNICEF in Kandal Province. They were impressed at the all-round development in the Peoples Republic of Kampuchea over the past seven years, particularly in the fields of health care and the care for Kampuchean children. This is the fourth visit to Kampuchea by James P. Grant since 1980.

BOU THANG ATTENDS CADRE TRAINING COURSE CEREMONY

BK260505 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1200 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] The Defense Ministry held a ceremony at the KPRAF's medium-ranking and senior cadres training school on the afternoon of 21 August to close the 1986 regional military cadres training course. Attending the ceremony in the presidium were Comrade Bou Thang, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and minister of national defense; Comrade Koy Buntha, member of the party Central Committee and chief of the General Staff; Comrade Prum Thav, deputy chief of the General Staff; Comrade Chieng Am, deputy chief of the General Political Department; and many other comrade local and foreign guests.

Speaking on the occasion, Comrade Bou Thang, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and minister of national defense, stressed: This course constitutes a major and most important factor enabling leading cadres at all levels [to] fully understand all the essential issues relating to regional military work as well as their tasks in guiding and advising those at the district level on how to build firm villages and communes, expand village and commune militia units, and carry out other tasks successfully.

The comrade minister also said that during this course, many cadres trainees from all sectors understood all the significant points of the documents they studied. Particularly, the comrade minister hailed those military cadres from various districts, such as Bati, Kompong Svay, Baray, and Bar Set, for explaining clearly to the trainees their various experiences and lessons on the sacrifice of flesh and blood made by both the Cambodian and Vietnamese cadres and combatants.

On behalf of the party, the Central Military Command, and the Defense Ministry leadership, Comrade Bou Thang wished all the trainees good health and exhorted them to disseminate and report on the outcome of this course to the party's and people's revolutionary committees in their localities as well as to apply what they had learned from this course to their daily work with highest efficiency.

In response to this advice, all trainees pledged to carry out their roles and tasks in a manner worthy of the comrade minister's advice. They said that upon returning to their respective units, they will most effectively apply their knowledge from this course to regional militwry work.

SIHANOUK COMMENTS ON NAM CREDIBILITY

BK280646 (Clandestine) Voice of the Khmer in Cambodian 0500 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, president of the CGDK and chairman of FUNCINPEC [National United Front for an Independent, Neutral, Peaceful, and Cooperative Cambodia], said yesterday the Nonaligned Movement is no longer credible since that movement welcomed aggressor countries and expelled aggressed countries. The Samdech said Vietnam, an aggressor country colonizing Cambodia, has been recognized by the Nonaligned Movement while rejecting a country that is a victim of aggression and colonization.

Samdech Norodom Sihanouk, one of the founding members of the Nonaligned Movement, further said that many aligned countries, such as Cuba, Angola, Ethiopia, and many Soviet satellites, are members of this Nonaligned Movement. The summit of the Nonaligned Movement, which has 102 members, will be held in Harare, Zimbabwe, next Wednesday. The Cambodian seat has been left vacant since 1979 when Vietnamese forces invaded Cambodia.

SOUPHANOUVONG ADDRESSES LFNC CONFERENCE

BK251046 Vientiane KPL in English 0900 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Text] Vientiane, August 25 (KPL) -- In his address at the conference of the Lao Front for National Construction [LFNC] here at the weekend, President Souphanouvong highly spoke of the statement of M. Gorbachev in connection with the extension until January 1, 1987 of the Soviet unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests.

The Lao president further said; "This decision of the Soviet Union once again shows to the world its sense of lofty responsibility and its great and tireless efforts for peace and security of the world humanity"

At the conference, President Souphanouvong also presented medals and certificates of merits to outstanding officials and work units attached to the LFNC in recognition of their contributions to the cause of national defence and construction in the past 10 years.

RALLY SUPPORTS EXTENSION OF NUCLEAR MORATORIUM

BK270627 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 1200 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Excerpt] A grand rally was held at Vientiane theater this morning to express commendation and support for the Soviet decision to extend its unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests until 1 January 1987, as officially announced in Moscow on 18 August by Comrade Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee. The rally was attended by more than 1,000 Vientiane residents representing the entire Lao people.

Attending as guests of honor were Sisavat Keobouphan, secretary of the party Central Committee and of the party committee of Vientiane municipality, along with representatives of various mass organizations, the Lao committee for world peace and for solidarity and friendship with various nations, the Lao-Soviet Friendship Association, and the Unified Buddhists' Organization of Laos. Vladimir Gussak, charge d'affaires ad interim of the Soviet Embassy, together with diplomats of fraternal socialist countries to Laos, also attended the ceremony.

At the grand rally, Singkapo Sikhotchounlamani, chairman of the Lao committee for world peace and for solidarity and friendship with various nations, and Vladimir Gussak delivered speeches. They noted: The important decision of the Soviet leaders to extend the unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests until 1 January 1987 once again shows the world the consistent stand and unchanged foreign policy of peace of the Soviet Union, their lofty spirit of responsibility for the destiny of mankind, and their utmost efforts to prevent a nuclear war, efforts which conform with the urgent aspiration of the people who want to see the nuclear tests come to an end as well as the complete elimination of nuclear weapons. In addition, this decision is considered a new, great contribution to the common aspiration of the world people to see this year be worthy of being the International Year of Peace. Both speakers also denounced the U.S. imperialists for refusing to join the suspension of nuclear tests. While the Soviet Union has unilaterally suspended its nuclear tests for more than 1 year, the United States has even continued to stubbornly conduct nuclear tests on as many as 18 occasions. [passage omitted]

MASSES URGED TO DO DEFENSE WORK EFFECTIVELY

BK251508 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 1200 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Editorial: "The National Defense and Public Security Work Is the Duty of the Entire Masses"]

[Text] The maintenance of peace, public order, and social security is an important duty of our entire party, army, and people in trying to smash and defeat the multi-faceted destructive war of the enemies against our country. This duty is closely linked to the fierce and uncompromising class struggle to decide who is going to emerge the winner between the two paths of socialism and capitalism.

The imperialists, particularly the U.S. imperialists, have colluded with the Beijing reactionaries and other reactionary forces to wage a multifaceted sabotage war against our country, aimed at weakening and swallowing it at the end. They have implemented numerous notorious sabotage schemes against our people in many spheres and various forms, including in the political, economic, military, cultural, and social fields, to create rifts between the higher and lower levels and among the people of all tribes and to undermine the special solidarity among the three Indochinese countries -- Laos, Vietnam, and Cambodia. All this is the enemies' peaceful change tactic. They have constantly and relentlessly employed these schemes by using all kinds of deceitful propaganda outlets, including material incentives, to lure and buy off a number of senseless people to innocently oppose the revolution.

Thus, the national defense and public security duty still remains the first priority obligation of our entire party which must mobilize the entire masses to strive to consolidate this work in all respects at the grass-roots level. Our party must strive to raise the quality of the Armed Forces and public security forces, to build the field posture of the national defense and public security work into a firm and strong one, to coordinate economic construction with national defense work, to build strength in all fields for the country, to be resolved to smash the enemies' peaceful change tactic, and to stand ready to thwart any aggressive designs of the enemies so as to securely safeguard the new regime and our country. At the same time, it must coordinate with the Vietnamese and Cambodian armies and people to defend the socialist outpost in this region.

To effectively carry out this work, all party organizations in the Armed Forces and public security forces must step up their leadership in management and training work and work to educate and look after the army to ensure the fulfillment of the three obligations -- to fight, to be prepared to fight, and to mobilize and organize the masses to participate in fighting. The party's leadership mechanism over the army must be consolidated. Efforts must be concentrated on the singular command system on the basis of firm party leadership, aimed at strengthening the party's unified, collective, and direct leadership over the army. The party's organization must provide close guidance and leadership aimed at ensuring that all activities of commanding officers are carried out in accordance with the orientation, plans, and policies of the party. They must closely coordinate with political cadres, firmly rely on mass organizations, and promptly check and smash the sabotage schemes of the enemies. The self-defense forces must be educated to maintain a high sense of vigilance, to promptly understand any movements of the enemies, to know how to employ proper measures to ensure victories in launching attacks against the enemies under all circumstances, to organize proper training programs, and to coordinate with the public security forces and local people. All this is aimed at developing the role of the self-defense forces to smash all sabotage schemes of the enemies, thus maintaining political security and social order in all localities, contributing to attacking and defeating the multifaceted sabotage war of the enemies and securely safeguarding our socialist country.

ARMY LOGISTICS DEPARTMENT HOLDS CONFERENCE

BK201338 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 18 Aug 86

[Text] On the morning of 13 August, at conference of the party committee of the army General Logistics Department was held the department's club to elect delegates to the coming Fourth LPRP Congress.
Attending were Major General Nakhon Sisanon, member of the party Central Committee and chief of the department; Brigadier General Bounheng Bansalit, deputy chief of the department; and members of the presidium of the conference, some guests, and more than 150 cadres and party members from demiregiments, units, schools, hospitals, and production units under the Army General Logistics Department.

After Maj Gen Nakhon Sisanon had made the opening speech, Brig Gen Bounheng Bansalit read the draft political report to be submitted by the party Central Committee to the Fourth Party Congress. He also reviewed and evaluated advantages and weakneses experienced after studying the draft political report. Each cadre and combatant clearly understood the party's line and policies in the new period of the revolution.

Then Lieutenant Colonel Bouason, head of the political office of the Army General Logistics Department, read a political report summing up the department's performance in the past year and the 1st half of 1986. He observed and assessed the party's political tasks in the Logistics Department, reviewed weak and strong points, and mentioned various outstanding achievements and work not yet effectively carried out, encouraging cadres and combatants to strengthen the political and ideological work of the department and ensure effective implementation of all logistics tasks, thus meeting the requirements of the situation in the new period. At the same time, he pointed to the situation in the world, Asia, Indochina, and Laos and criticized the U.S. imperialists for carrying out terrorist activities and stepping up the nuclear arms race. He said they have always collided with the international reactionaries to sabotage and swallow up Laos.

Then the conference studied and reached unanimity on the orientation and tasks of the Logistics Department for the 2d half of 1986. The participants cast their votes to elect representatives to the delegation of the National Defense Ministry to the coming Fourth Party Congress, selecting 17 full members and 3 alternates.

ARMY DEPARTMENT CAMPAIGNS WELCOME CONGRESS

BK220619 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 22 Aug 86

[Text] The Army General Logistics Department has enthusiastically launched emulation campaigns to welcome the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress. The key contents and objectives of the campaigns are to positively compete in effectively fulfilling specialized tasks in the logistic field. It is noted in the objectives of the campaigns that specialized tasks must be fulfilled by 98 percent or better. Simultaneously, attention has been paid to raising the quality of work while efforts have been made in boosting production to achieve a self-sufficiency in food for the period of 3 months in accordance with the plan of the National Defense Ministry as well as of the General Logistics Department.

In the campaigns, emphasis has been placed on turning to the grass roots to consolidate and firmly strengthen the organizational system and the political and ideological work of various grass-roots units or regiments atached to the General Logistics Department, guiding the grass-roots units or regiments to correctly and effectively implement the line and policies of the party, striving to consolidate, build, and raise the political sense and line of thinking of the cadres and combatants to meet the requirements in the new tasks and responsibilities of the revolution as well as of the army. In addition, the sense toward the implementation of army regulations and rules and the maintenance of revolutionary qualifications and virtures of the cadres and combatants must be explicitly raised to another higher level. Attention has also been paid to movements to build more model and outstanding individuals. These contents and objective have been publicized to all leading and key cadres of various units or regiments by the Army General Logistics Department.

The department has also made arrangements for cadres of the political office to directly guide and help the units or regiments to fruitfully carry out the emulation campaigns.

ARMY UNITS END POLITICAL LIFE CAMPAIGNS

BK230436 Vientaine Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] So far, cadres and combatants attached to many national defense and public security units have completed their political life campaigns, such as those departments and units under the Ministries of National Defense and Interior and the Vientiane provincial military command.

After studying and contributing views to the draft political report of the party Central Committee, which will be submitted to the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress, cadres and combatants have come to appreciate and understand more clearly the great achievements and victories scored by our people as well as the weak points and overall remaning problems of the past 10 years which must be rectified to conform to the current economic and social reality in our country. From these important political campaigns, they have also appreciated more fully the orientation, duty, and strategic objectives on each period spelled out in the draft political report. All the participants unanimously agreed to sincerely and seriously study the draft report.

Passing through these political life campaigns, the attendants have been able to raise the standard of their knowledge and capabilities, to heighten their sense of awareness, and to more profoundly appreciate the orientation and duty of the party and state in the new period, which must be jointly implemented by all of us. Particularly, all of us must concentrate all efforts to triumphantly fulfill the Second 5-Year State Plan and the plans from now to the year 2000.

Northern Military Units

BK190752 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0000 GMT 16 Aug 86

[Text] The political life campaigns for various combat corps and military units in the northern region, which began in mid-July, have now ended successfully. Through these very important political campaigns, the officers and men attached to the units and corps jointly studied and honestly contributed views to the draft political report which will be submitted by the LPRP Central Committee to the coming fourth party congress. They have more profoundly understood the party's leadership and its policies as well as the great multilateral achievements recorded by the entire party, army, and people in the past 10 years, particularly the national defense and public security tasks and orientation of the party in the new period.

Following the study, participants have been able to effectively draw lessons and adopt methods to correct and modify some remaining tasks to suit the line and policies of the revolution in the new period, thus enabling them to jointly bring into full play the army's heroic and fine tradition in implementing the party's two strategic tasks of defending the country and building socialism.

CADRES, PARTY MEMBERS STUDY POLITICAL REPORT

'Division A'

BK180513 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] After holding a meeting for cadres and party members attached to Division A to carry out political life campaigns, the leading and commanding organs and party units of various offices, organizations, and units at the grass roots under the division also held political courses, during which the experience of Demibattalion C were drawn, including:

1. To study the LPRP Central Committee's draft political report,

2. To review past and adopt new work;

3. To select and admit new members; and

4. To select representatives to attend the conference of political cadres scheduled to be held soon at the divisional level at the Division A headquarters.

At present, various party units at the grass roots are continuing their meetings with enthusiasm and a high sense of responsibility.

'Division B'

BK180503 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 1200 GMT 13 Aug 86

[Text] Since early July, Division B in the northern region has opened a training course for the cadres and party members attached to the division. More than 40 comrades are participating in this course. The documents introduced for study include those on the Army's tradition, the rights and duties of the commanding cadres, and other issues.

The most important thing is that the cadres and party members studied and contributed views to the draft political report, which will be submitted by the party Central Committee to the coming fourth party congress.

STATEMENT ISSUED ON SITTHI, SIHANOUK MEETING

BK271453 Bangkok Voice of Free Asia in Thai 1030 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Recorded statement by Foreign Ministry spokesman Sawanit Khongsiri on 26 August meeting between CGDK President Prince Norodom Sihanouk and Foreign Minister Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila at the Foreign Ministry]

[Text] Prince Sihanouk and Air Chief Marshal Sitthi Sawetsila met for 1 hour and 10 minutes in a friendly atmosphere because they know each other very well. Prince Sihanouk reported on his visit to Indonesia, Malaysia, and Singapore. He said the leaders of the three countries fully support him and pledged continued support for his fight against Vietnamese occupation. He compared the Cambodian struggle to the past struggle for liberation from colonialism. The leaders of the three countries he visited agreed with him that, to achieve a successful liberation, more military pressure must be applied, as in the past struggle against colonialism. Stronger military and political pressure will force Vietnam to consider pulling out its troops. Prince Sihanouk is very happy with the outcome of his visit to the three countries.

Prince Sihanouk and our foreign minister also discussed the 8-point proposal of Prince Sihanouk and the CGDK. On this, Prince Sihanouk said that the CGDK will not make any new proposals because the 8-point proposal, which is very flexible and aimed at persuading Vietnam to agree to a negotiated settlement of the problem on the basis of justice for all parties, has been rejected by Vietnam. He therefore would not make any new proposals, as it would be tantamount to talking to himself or compromising endlessly to the point that Vietnam would have an advantage over his government. Prince Sihanouk therefore stands firm on his 8-point proposal. There is also another point he is firm about -- he said he will continue to fight the Vietnamese in his capacity as president of the CGDK.

Foreign Minister Sitthi highly praised Prince Sihanouk's role as leader in the CGDK's success, especially in forging unity among the three factions and successful operations by the DK resistance forces inside Cambodia and even around Phnom Penh. The foreign minister said that Thailand supports Prince Sihanouk because Sihanouk stated that he wants Cambodia to be a neutral, nonaligned state that poses no threat to its neighbors. He said Thailand fully endorses that plan.

Prince Sihanouk and the foreign minister exchanged views on the joint communique of the Indochinese countries. They agreed that it contains nothing new. Prince Sihanouk pointed out that the joint communique admits neither the presence of the resistance forces or government nor the fighting going on in Cambodia. Vietnam, Laos, and the Heng Samrin regime are constantly trying to achieve recognition for the Heng Samrin side as a legitimate government. They rejected the occurence of any fighting. This is not true. Prince Sihanouk himself is the leader of the CGDK, and the CGDK does not exist in name only as a member of the United Nations. CGDK forces are fighting staunchly inside Cambodia. Soldiers of the Heng Samrin regime give themselves up to the CGDK regularly. More and more people support the DK government and forces. In spite of that, the joint communique of the Indochinese countries rejects the truth. This shows that Vietnam insists on having things its own way -- that is, continued occupation of Cambodia and replacement of that country's legitimate government.

SIHANOUK SAYS SON SANN TO GO ON PRC VISIT

BK271212 Hong Kong AFP in English 0913 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Bang Saen, Thailand, Aug 27 (AFP) -- Son Sann, disputed head of the Cambodian resistance coalition's major non-communist group, is to return here from Paris to accompany Prince Norodom Sihanouk to Beijing, the prince said Wednesday. Prince Sihanouk, president of the tripartite Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE in Bang Saen, 100 kms (60 miles) east of Bangkok, that he, Mr Son Sann and Khmer Rouge leader Khieu Samphan would be leaving Bangkok September 6 on an official CGDK visit to Beijing.

Mr Son Sann, who has been in Paris since touring Western Europe in June, is battling dissidents in his Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF) who charge him with dictatorial rule that led to the group's military defeat by the Vietnamese in early 1985. Mr Son Sann, who lives in Thailand, has told his Southeast Asian allies that he would not return unless they helped him resolve the rift. Reliable sources said he had originally intended to travel direct from Paris to Peking. China and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) of Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore, and Thailand are the main backers of the resistance fighting the Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia.

Prince Sihanouk, who arrived here Tuesday at the end of a Southeast Asian tour, said factional fighting in the resistance had hurt its military effort.

(In Beijing, a Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman said that the visit would be from September 6 to 10 and was a "goodwill visit" at the invitation of the Chinese Government. The visit comes as China faces swelling overtures from the Soviet Union, the main backer of Vietnamese forces occupying Cambodia, to improve Sino-Soviet relations despite lack of any progress on the Cambodian issue, observers in Beijing said. Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has offered to reduce Soviet forces in Afghanistan and along the Sino-Soviet border but has made no mention of Cambodia, which China considers the number one obstacle to improved links with the Soviet Union.)

SIHANOUK SAYS KHMER ROUGE TROOPS ATTACK ALLIES

BK280855 Hong Kong AFP in English 0811 GMT 28 Aug 86

[By Michael Adler]

[Excerpt] Bang Saen, Thailand, August 28 (AFP) -- Khmer Rouge guerrillas have made a further attack on their resistance allies in Cambodia, killing nine people, Prince Norodom Sihanouk said in an interview here. The prince told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE at this coastal resort Wednesday that despite his recent statements that the three resistance factions were unified and cooperating there was still bloodshed among the Khmer Rouge and their two non-communist allies in the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea (CGDK).

Prince Sihanouk, who has just completed a four-nation tour in Southeast Asia, said this hurt his diplomatic efforts as CGDK president to end the Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia. The prince said the attack and other similar incidents in the past, "gives fuel to what the Vietnamese are saying" about the unsuitability of including the Khmer Rouge in any peace talks. The attacks show that the Khmer Rouge are still "monsters," he said.

The Khmer Rouge are the main muscle in the CGDK's 50,000-strong guerrilla force fighting the estimated 140,0C0 Vietnamese troops propping up the Hanoi-installed regime in Cambodia. "They are always masters, that it what is very disturbing," said the prince about the Khmer Rouge, believed responsible while ruling Cambodia from 1975 to early 1979 for the deaths of hundreds of thousands of their citizens. Prince Sihanouk was head of state from 1975-76 but Khmer Rouge forces killed five of his children and 14 of his grandchildren.

In a report confirmed by reliable sources, he said that in early August the Khmer Rouge had entered a village in Siem Reap Province in northwest Cambodia to confront troops from the two non-communist CGDK factions -- his National Sihanoukist Army (ANS) and Son Sann's Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF). "They said to the soldiers, what are you doing there nationalists, this is our turf. Then they killed two of my men and five Son Sannians... pow, pow, like in an Al Capone murder," said the prince. "What makes me truly sad" said Prince Sihanouk, "is that two villagers, very pro-Sihanoukist, were also killed."

He said the Khmer Rouge, from the forces of Ta Mok, a fierce warlord with whom the ANS has a history of conflict, then evacuated the entire village as a punitive measure. He declined to name the village, but said it had "disappeared."

Prince Sihanouk said that the previous nationalist-Khmer Rouge clash was in January but that there was constant tension between the two. He said his ANS had placed some 7,000 guerrillas in the three northwest Cambodian provinces of Battambang, Oddar Meanchey and Siem Reap "but If we want to operate further, they (the Khmer Rouge) stop us. If we try to pass, they fire on us."

The CGDK, formed in 1982, is an uneasy coalition, mainly because of the presence of the Khmer Rouge. Hanoi has refused to negotiate with the CGDK as long as it includes the Khmer Rouge. [passage omitted]

PREM TINSULANON HEADS NEW ECONOMIC CABINET

BK270049 Bangkok THE NATION in English 27 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon will head a 23-member Council of Economic Ministers comprising all the five deputy premiers. NESDB Secretary General Sno Unakun remains secretary to the powerful "Economic Cabinet," it was officially announced yesterday.

The Cabinet was informed of the premier's order to appoint the Council of Economic Ministers signed yesterday.

Apart from the five deputy premiers, other council members include the ministers of finance, foreign affairs, agriculture, communications, commerce, interior, science, technology and energy and industry.

Prime Minister Office Ministers Michai Ruchuphan, Suli Mahasanthana and Chirayu Itsarangkun Na Ayutthaya have also been named to the "inner Cabinet" dealing with economic affairs.

Three deputy ministers are also in the council. They are Deputy Finance Minister Suphachai Phanitchaphak, Deputy Foreign Minister Praphat Limpraphan and Deputy Industry Minister Kon Thappharangsi.

Deputy NESDB Secretary General Kosit Phanpiamrat and Assistant NESDB Secretary General Anuphap San-anant are also in the council.

The prime minister also assigned five senior officials to permanently attend meetings of the Council of Economic Ministers. They are the chairman of the premier's advisory board, the premier's secretary general, the Cabinet secretary general, the government spokesman, the central bank governor and Budget Bureau director.

The powerful Council of Economic Ministers will be empowered to make decisions and effect resolutions on economic affairs without having to seek prior approval of the Cabinet. The same authority was also granted to the previous council of economic ministers.

Meanwhile, the Cabinet also acknowledged the premier had ordered amendment to the administration of the rural development activities, with the appointment of a new 23-member National Rural Development Committee, also chaired by the prime minister.

HOUSE APPROVES TRIALS FOR GEN KRIANGSAK, WIRA

BK280814 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0530 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] The fourth meeting of the 1986 house ordinary session was held at the national assembly building this morning under the chairmanship of House Speaker Chuan Likphai. The meeting began at 0915 [0215 GMT] with a debate on the performance of the office of the auditor general. Members of the House of Representatives widely debated this question and the minister attached to the prime ministers office reported on it to the members. At 1030, the meeting began debate on urgent issues.

Concerning the request for the release of Rewit Chindaphon, MP from Phuket, who is being held on a riot charge and has to report to the court every 12 days, the meeting agreed to request temporary release of Rewit during house sessions. The meeting went on to debate for about an hour the criminal trial of General Kriangsak Chamanan, MP from Roi Et, who is charged with committing an offence against national security. The meeting finally agreed to allow the court to try the case at the request of Gen Kriangsak Chamanan himself.

As for the case of Wira Musikaphong, MP from Phattalung, the meeting agreed to allow investigation officials to investigate and enter a charge of lese majeste against Wira at his own request. The opposition expressed no opinion on this issue. After consideration of the above urgent issues, the meeting was adjourned at 1145 [0445 GMT] and will resume at 1330 [0630 GMT].

NHAN DAN HAILS SOVIET MORATORIUM EXTENSIONS

BK251542 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 19 Aug 86

[NHAN DAN 20 August editorial: "The Soviet Union's Courageous Decision Permeated With a Sense of Responsibility for the Peace and Life of Mankind"]

[Text] This is the fourth time that the Soviet Union has unilaterally extended its moratorium on nuclear tests. This decision was announced in the important speech by CPSU General Secretary Gorbachev on 18 August on Soviet television.

Together with world public opinion, the Vietnamese people warmly welcome and totally support this new, important initiative of the Soviet Union with their profound admiration for the political courage and a high sense of the responsibility of the Soviet party and government for the peace and life of mankind. Those who harbor no prejudice realize clearly the Soviet brilliant peace initiative, while those without conscience contend that the Soviet unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests and its four extensions over the past year and more are a threat.

In fact, the very great efforts of the Soviet Union and the socialist community aimed at maintaining world peace and eliminating the arms race -- esepcially the danger of a nuclear war -- have been welcomed and supported by mankind. It is necessary to say that during the 7 months plus of this year -- the International Year of Peace -- the Soviet Union and other socialist countries have put forth a series of initiatives manifesting the socialist community's unswerving policies on resolute struggle for world peace and security and for the lives of mankind and each individual.

This January, the Soviet Union proposed a comprehensive program aimed at eliminating the deployment of nuclear and other sophisticated weapons. In February, the 27th CPSU Congress proposed establishing an international mutual security system. Since then, many concrete proposals and measures have been made and designed with the aim of reaching agreements on eliminating medium-range nuclear missile deployment in Europe and terminating the threat of chemical weapons. In May, the Soviet Union announced its third moratorium extension on nuclear tests. In June, Warsaw Pact member countries proposed a large-scale program aimed at reducing armed forces and conventional weapons from the coast of Atlantic Ocean to the Ural mountain range. In late July, through the resounding speech of Comrade Gorbachev in Valdivostok, the Soviet Union proposed a series of very important initiatives to turn Asia and the Pacific into a zone of peace, stability, goodneighborliness, and cooperation. On 18 August, the Soviet Union again made a significant decision to extend its unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests to 1 January 1987.

It is necessary to stress that the latest Soviet initiative is not only a manifestation of goodwill, but also of a new way of thinking, political courage, and a high sense of responsibiliy by the Soviet Union toward the fate and destiny of nations. A decision to extend again the unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests is not a simple act for the Soviet Union. Everyone is well aware that over the past 1 year and more, the Soviet Union has conducted no nuclear tests at all, while the United States -- moving far ahead of the Soviet Union in nuclear tests -- has continued testing nuclear weapons more frequently. These U.S. nuclear tests are part and parcel of the large-scale military program being accelerated by the Washington administration to gain military superiority over the Soviet Union and other socialist countries.

In normal practice, when the United States made no positive response to the Soviet Union's initiative, the latter was entitled to use its full right and capability to resume its nuclear tests as of 1 January 1986. The Soviet Union, however, has extended its unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests four times. This firm restraint stems from the sincere aspiration and high sense of responsibility of the Soviet Union, especially its efforts to use all capabilities and strengths in an attempt to change the U.S. stand on this issue.

The Soviet Union's decision is based on logical and principled assessments of the realities in the nuclear era in which the problem facing mankind is not just one of peace and war, but peace or extinction. The danger of a nuclear holocaust provoked by the militarist and bellicose policy of the U.S.-led imperialist forces is growing. However, mankind still has great potential in opposing it, especially in the strength of militant solidarity.

The Soviet Union's goodwill is crystal clear. Whereas the Washington administration is escalating its war preparations and its acts of aggression -- conducting 18 nuclear arms tests since the Soviet Union's declaration to unilaterally halt all nuclear tests; increasing its military budget considerably; accelerating the 'star wars' program barbarously bombing the independent and sovereign country of Libya delivering more dollars, weapons, and ammunition to the mercenaries in various regions in the world; supporting the apartheid clique in South Africa; causing difficulties for disarmament talks; and even worse, declaring to rescind all those treaties and agreements previously signed with the Soviet Union on disarmament. The Reagan administration is pushing ahead a very dangerous arms race and the danger looms of the deployment of nuclear weapons in space.

With the current pace of war technological development, there exist urgent demands for practical measures to halt the imperialists' military adventure, promptly contain those sophisticated weapons whose production is hard to control, and halt the nuclear arms race. Halting all nuclear arms tests is an important step that will play a major role in dispelling the danger of nuclear disaster, preventing the perfection of nuclear weapons, and accelerating the process of disarmament. It will be a beginning step toward resolving various tough global issues and shifting huge expenses and technical research potential to the service of man's welfare.

The Soviet Union's decision also stems from socialism's loyalty to peace and the destinty of human civilization. All nations can realize that the Soviet Union is a shining symbol of socialism. It is doing everything it can to abolish nuclear weapons on earth and protect human lives.

The Soviet Union's unilateral decision -- which has become effective over the past little more than a year -- to halt all its nuclear tests while demanding that the United States do likewise has produced positive results. This initiative has won the support of a great majority of countries in the world and of a large number of political and social organizations, including those in Western countries and the United States.

The public at large places its hope in achieving a concerted halt to all nuclear explosions and tests. The Soviet Union's good example has encouraged and united various peace forces and movements on all continents to exercise greater pressure on belligerent and militarist forces.

The Soviet Union's decision to unilaterally extend for the fourth time the moratorium on nuclear tests will certainly create a new momentum to step up the struggle of various nations for their own survival and for world peace and security. Together with the world public, we demand that the U.S. administration respond to the Soviet Union's initiative.

The Washington policy of pursuing the arms race in order to gain military superiority is a dangerous policy which will certainly bring negative results. Disarmament can never be achieved only with goodwill and self-restraint of some. Of late, the U.S. administration has increased the dosage of its rhetoric about peace and a desire for dialogue. But their deeds, in fact, have contradicted their speech.

Responsible people in Washington must realize that the people in various countries are determined to fight against the danger of nuclear disaster and against the nuclear arms race and to disapprove of the United States' move to use dialogue as a means to deceive public opinion.

The Soviet Union's decision has provided the U.S. administration with an opportunity to appraise the world situation seriously and consciously. The United States should not miss this historic opportunity to proceed toward terminating the arms race. The people in various nations are demanding that the United States strictly honor their Geneva commitments. It must first materialize this fact by joining with the Soviet Union in achieving a compromise for a concerted halt to all nuclear tests.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT DELEGATION VISITS

BK261646 Hanoi VNA in English 1537 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 26 -- A delegation of the International Union of students (I.U.S.) led by its general secretary Giorgos Michaelides paid a visit to Vietnam from August 23-26, at the invitation of the Ho Chi Minh Communist Youth Union Central Committee. Talks were held between the I.U.S. delegation and delegation of the host union comprising Vu Mao, alternate member [title as received] of the Communist Party of Vietnam Central Committee and first secretary of the host union, and Ho Duc Viet, general secretary of the Vietnam Students' Union.

Giorgos Michaelides informed the host of the I.U.S.'s activities and the international students' movement over the past years, especially since early this year-the International Year of Peace and the 4th I.U.S. anniversary. In reply, Vu Mao, briefed the guests on the activities of the Vietnamese youth and students in national construction and defence and their contributions to the common struggle against the arms race, for world peace. While here, the I.U.S. delegation visited several public offices, universities and colleges in Hanoi.

NHATRANG HOLDS GRASS-ROOTS PARTY CONGRESS

BK261505 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0500 GMT 21 Aug 86

[Radio Correspondent Tran Thien Nhien's report: "Nhatrang Municipality Holds Grass-roots Party Organization Congresses"]

[Text] We arrived in Nhatrang on 6 August when the municipality had just begun holding grass-roots party organization congresses.

Comrade (Phan Huu Tam), a member of the municipal party committee's standing bod said: The municipality has a total of 161 grass-roots party organizations; and the municipal party committee has selected 2 units as the first to hold party congresses so as to draw upon their experience. They are the party chapters of the Phu Khanh Auto Overhaul State-Run Enterprise and Xuong Huan Ward -- one representing the production and business bloc and the other the ward and village bloc. These two units also have their own special characteristics. The Auto Overhaul Enterprise has surged forward from a weak and slow beginning and has now made initial changes for the better in management along the line of gradually embarking on economic accounting and socialist business.

Meanwhile, the party chapter of Xuong Huan Ward is one of the chapters that conducted in a fairly satisfactory manner phase one of the self-criticism and criticism drive in the spirit of the party Central Committee Secretariat's Directive No. 79. After these two units hold their party congresses, the municipal party committee will draw upon the experience there for broad application throughout the municipal party organization and will finish holding grass-roots congresses by 20 August.

The comrade representing the municipal party committee told us: A special feature of the party congresses to be held this time is that the entire party organization has just completed phase one of the self-criticism and criticism drive, thereby creating an atmosphere of true democracy within the party that is very favorable for the assignment of personnel -- one of the issues that was very time-consuming during the previous congresses -- and consequently, making it possible to devote more time to studying and discussing the documents to be presented to congresses at various levels.

With the experience gained in guiding the two pilot units, the municipal party committee has drawn the first conclusion that to hold party congresses satisfactorily it is necessary to carry out the self-criticism and criticism drive satisfactorily.

Reviewing phase one of the entire party organization's self-criticism and criticism drive, the Nhatrang Municipal Party Committee made the following assessment: Generally, the drive was conducted satisfactorily; but its quality was not high. Some units had to repeat it two or three times; and because of this, the municipal party committee has assigned cadres to provide intensive guidance for these units in preparation for their party congress.

The comrade representing the municipal party committee also said: After the self-criticism and criticism drive, the entire party organization -- from the grass-roots party chapters and organizations to the municipal party committee -- has developed a specific program of actions based on the principle of immediately remedying mistakes as soon as they are found while creating a new change in all respects. To be frank, such a change is not yet clearly recognizable, especially in the agricultural, industrial, small industry and handicrafts, distribution and circulation, public welfare, and other fields. This remains an issue to be resolved at grass-roots party organization congresses and the municipal party organization congress.

Nevertheless, it is encouraging to note that through the self-criticism and criticism drive, each member of the party organization has, irrespective of his position, strictly looked at himself and arrived at the following conclusion: In view of the common difficultiese facing the country, every party member should strive harder than ever before to develop his vanguard and exemplary role; but on the contrary, they have allowed their militant spirit to wane and serious and prolonged disunity to surface in many units. Some party members have abused their positions and power in the pursuit of personal gain; and the struggle spirit, the sense of organization and discipline, and the principle of democratic centralism have been gravely violated.

These shortcomings have been corrected in a relatively timely and effective manner by the enforcement of a combination of administrative, ideological, and organizational measures so as to create favourable conditions for the holding of party congresses.

We only had time to visit one unit which had completed its party congress: The Phu Khanh Auto Overhaul Enterprise.

The first impression we had on arriving at the unit was of the boisterous, urgent, and enthusiastic atmosphere among the workers during the post-congress period. Not only was this reflected outwardly through numerous solgans, banners, and other decorations found everywhere in the enterprise but it was also apparent through many realistic work performances.

The comrade secretary of the enterprise trade union said that under a short emulation drive launched from 24 July to 3 August to score achievements to welcome the enterprise's party chapter congress with the slogan "Each workshop, each production team, and each worker must do an additional good job with tangible results" all the workshops of the enterprise succeeded in attaining between 130-150 percent of the July plan target and turning out many above-plan products with good quality. Cadres, workers, and civil servants of the enterprise also adopted a resolution in which they pledge to struggle to fulfill the 1986 state plan 1 month ahead of schedule. This is part of their efforts to score more credits to welcome the Sixth CPV Congress.

Comrade (Nguyen Phong Chau), secretary of the enterprise's party chapter and deputy director of the enterprise, also briefed me on the situation regarding the holding of the party chapter congress. The comrade held that the important factor deciding the success of the congress was the good preparation for the draft political report. Following the approval of the draft political report by the collective leadership, the party chapter had held a conference of key personnel outside the party -- ranging from production team leaders or mass organization team leaders upward to get their opinions. This conference performed the following two tasks: first, it frankly contributed its opinions to the draft political report of the party chapter, and second, it publicly and in a democratic spirit introduced the new party committee members to the party, telling it who would work as secretary, as director, and as person in charge of various mass organizations. This conference of key personnel enthusiastically contributed good opinions and accurately introduced those people worthy of holding key leadership roles. Just as what the masses had hoped for, the results of an election held by the party chapter congress have led to a close attachment between the party and the masses.

During the party chapter congress, a discussion designed to contribute opinions to the draft political report of the CPV Central Committee had to be unexpectedly extended a day. All members of the party chapter spoke their views and contributed their opinion to the draft political report of the CPV Central Committee. They concentrated on discussing major issues regarding evaluating the situation and the orientation for the country's socioeconomic development before they reached an identity of views. This reflects the initial improvements in party members' sense of responsibility toward the common cause of the entire party. And also from this common cause, they have further realized the responsibility of their unit while discussing and mapping out plans and a specific program of action for the party chapter.

By the time this report is broadcast, the Nhatrang party organization will have finished holding its grassroots party congress. What has been drawn from these initial experiences will continue to be useful to the entire party organization as it prepares for the all-municipality party organiation congress.

HAI HUNG SUPERVISES BASIC PARTY CONGRESSES

BK270506 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 24 Aug 86

[Text] The Hai Hung provincial party committee is supervising 1,157 basic party organizations, including 8,746 party chapters, in holding party congresses. Earlier, all basic party bases in the province conducted the self-criticism and criticism drive, reviewing the capabilities and shortcomings of each party member and committee and formulating programs to overcome numerous difficulties. Various propaganda and inspection committees of the province and districts have sent cadres to basic party bases to organize a political activity drive to discuss the draft political report of the Sixth CPV Congress.

Developing the spirit of collective mastery, many basic party bases frankly and precisely presented their problems in reports of their party congresses. The provincial party committee selected the Nghia Hung village party organization, Tu Loc District, as the pilot venue for the party congress to provide experience for other localities to draw upon. The village party congress contributed and proposed many ideas to higher echelons in the district, province, and the central levels to take measures to accelerate the planting of rice, subsidiary food crops, and industrial crops as well as to develop agriculture comprehensively.

Maintaining priority for agricultural tasks, Nghia Hung village is formulating plans on socioeconomic development for the years ahead, especially plans to develop land and labor. The village is striving to collect the 10th-month rice yield of more than 40 quintals per hectare, seven quintals per hectare more than the previous crop. It is also expanding areas for the winter subsidiary food crops, striving to improve the people's daily life, and trying to increase agricultural products to procure more for the state.

HANOI WARD HOLDS BASIC-LEVEL PARTY CONGRESSES

BK261027 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 23 Aug 86

[Text] Since party congresses have been held by three pilot units -- the Cotton, Yarn, and Garments Corporation; the Electrical Measurement Equipment Enterprise; and the Cua Dong Subward -- to date 33 out of the 181 grass-roots party organizations of Hoan Kiem Ward have convened party congresses. The ward is guiding the remainder of basic units in organizing their party congresses to finish this task by 26 August and to hold its own ward party organization congress in mid-September.

Hoan Kiem was one of the two district-ward units selected by the Hanoi municipal party committee to hold party organization congresses at various levels in advance to gain experience. Nearly all the grass-roots party organization congresses in Hoan Kiem Ward have done a good job in disseminating and discussing the draft documents to be presented at the Sixth CPV Congress and the draft political reports of the Hanoi municipal and Hoan Kiem ward party committees, and in preparing for the congresses of the municipal and ward party organizations.

During their discussions, the participants were given guidance on the main points and key topics. They related and applied them to the actual situation of their establishments, and their views were fully recorded. Many suggestions were discussed and debated to shed light on each issue, so the participants were able to contribute many practical and concrete ideas to the party Central Committee, the municipality, and the ward while enhancing the knowledge of party cadres and members, creating singlemindedness, and consolidating confidence in the party.

Through their congresses, various basic party organizations have succeeded in strengthening their executive committees, and the party organizations of many enterprises and wards have elected more young and women party members as well as workers directly engaged in the production to their new executive committees. A number of weak party organizations -- such as those of the Ba Dinh Grain Corporation of the Grain Service; the Electrical Project Enterprise of the Urban Project Management Service; the Fine Acts Corporation of the Cultural and Information Service; and the Watch Production Enterprise of the Trade Service -- have obtained initial results in eliminating a state of prolonged disunity and upholding the exemplary, vanguard role of party members.

FOOD INDUSTRY DELEGATION VISTS VLADIVOSTOK

BK261638 Hanoi VNA in English 1529 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA August 26 -- A Vietnamese trade delegation led by Nong The Can, vice-minister of food industry and general director of the Vietnam National Vegetables and Fruits Export-Import Corporation (VEGETEXCO), has paid a visit to the Soviet Far-Eastern city of Vladivostok. While there, the delegation met the Soviet Far Eastern shipping company and other concerned companies to discuss Vietnam's export of vegetables and fruits to the Far Eastern region of the U.S.S.R. In the first six months of this year, Vietnam has delivered to the Soviet Far East 25,000 tons of fresh vegetables and fruits equal to last year's total.

USSR'S ZAYTSEV ARRIVES ON 'UNANNOUNCED' VISIT

BK271652 Hong Kong AFP in English 1642 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Jakarta, Aug 27 (AFP) -- Anatoliy Zaytsev, newly appointed head of the Southeast Asian section of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, arrived in Jakarta on an unannounced visit Wednesday. Mr Zaytsev, who was met by Soviet Embassy officials, said on arrival that he was on a routine visit for consultations with senior officials of the Indonesian Foreign Ministry.

He said one of the purposes of his trip -- his first to Indonesia and part of a swing through the region -- was to discuss the agenda for the next UN General Assembly meeting.

Mr Zaytsev declined to answer questions about whether he might be making preparations for a rumored visit by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze later this year.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja, who is currently in Harare for the conference of the Non-Aligned Movement, two weeks ago declined comment on rumors of a possible Shevardnadze visit. Mr Zaytsev, who flew in from Manila, said he would be leaving for Singapore Saturday.

PAPERS VIEW PHILIPPINE PRESIDENT'S VISIT

BK271526 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 0600 GMT 27 Aug 86

[From the press review]

[Text] BERITA YUDHA hopes that President Aquino's visit to Indonesia will benefit bilateral relations and both countries. The daily adds that there are many collective problems facing ASEAN countries and a sense of togetherness among these countries can grow only out of frequent meetings among leaders of this region.

BERITA NASIONAL describes President Aquino's preference of visiting ASEAN countries before the United States as a very wise political move. The Philippine president attaches great importance to her country's relations with other ASEAN countries and she has decided to select Indonesia as the first country to visit in view of Indonesia's important role in ASEAN.

Commenting on President Aquino's visit, PELITA underscores President Suharto's suggestions on how to cope with communist insurgency. PELITA considers it natural for the Philippines to learn from Indonesia's past experiences in dealing with a communist threat because Indonesia has had 20-years of experience in combatting communism. However, PELITA stresses that what the Philippines is now facing is clearly the internal affairs of that country and Indonesia will certainly keep its distance so as not to interfere in that country's internal affairs.

MALAYSIA

TAN KOON SWAN RESIGNS AS MCA PRESIDENT

BK271115 Kuala Lumpur BERNAMA in English 1027 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Excerpt] Kuala Lumpur, Aug 27 (OANA-BERNAMA) -- Malaysian politician Tan Koon Swan, 45, resigned Wednesday as president of the Malaysian Chinese Association (MCA), one of the 13 partners in Prime Minister Dr Mahathir Mohamed [as received] coalition government, MCA party Secretary-General Lee Kim Sai announced here.

Tan's resignation came about following his conviction in a Singapore High Court Tuesday of an abetment of criminal breach of trust involving S$144,852.44 relating to the Pan-Electric Industries (Pan El) affair. He was sentenced to two years' jail and a fine of S$500,000.

Lee said he received a telex message Wednesday afternoon from Tan's lawyer, Peter Yap, that Tan was resigning with immediate effect. He said the announcement of the resignation was made at the request of Tan.

Lee said the party's Central Committee would meet to discuss the resignation after he and Deputy President Dr Ling Liong Sik meet Tan in Singapore on Friday.

He said Tan's request for his resignation to be announced was conveyed through the party's National Organising secretary Wang Choon Wing who met Tan Wednesday morning. He said the outcome of the discussions with Tan would be made known to the party members after the meeting.

Replying to a reporter's question whether the party had accepted Tan's resignation, Lee said only the Central Committee was empowered to decide on the matter.

Asked why they were leaving for Singapore on Friday and not Thursday, Lee said they had arranged to leave on Friday as they had other commitments.

Lee declined to reply when asked whether Prime Minister Dr Mahathir Mohamed had been informed about the matter, saying that it was a party matter. He also said the matter was not raised at Wednesday's cabinet meeting. [passage omitted]

AQUINO RETURNS FROM SINGAPORE, INDONESIA TOUR

BK270905 Manila PNA in English 0845 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 27 (OANA/PNA) -- President Aquino returned home Wednesday afternoon following a four-day official visit to Indonesia and Singapore. The 53-year-old chief executive took a presidential plane and was met at the Manila International Airport by senior government officials led by Vice President Salvador H. Laurel. Aquino was expected to report to the nation shortly the results of her first overseas trip since taking over from former President Marcos last February.

While in Jakarta Aug 24-26, Aquino held a series of talks with Indonesian leaders led by President Suharto. She thanked the Indonesian Government for extending various forms of assistance to the Philippines during critical times. The Indonesian assistance, she added, included supply of rice, oil and communications facilities.

In his talks with the visiting Philippine president, Suharto expressed concern over the escalating tide of communist insurgency in the country. He advised Aquino to deal the communist insurgency with a crushing blow before it becomes worse.

In Singapore, Aquino addressed a group of Singaporean businessmen and urged them to take a second look at the Philippines as an investment haven. She said the possible investment areas in the Philippines include agro-industrial processing and joint ventures in tourism promotion.

Aquino and Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew likewise agreed to open a new air route between Singapore and Manila via Taipei to increase the tourist traffic flow in the region. The president was accompanied by a 15-man official delegation which included cabinet ministers and other ranking government officials.

Holds Press Conference

HK271215 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0843 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Speech by Philippine President Corazon Aquino on arrival at Villamor Airbase -- live, in Tagalog -- monitored in progress -- passage in slantlines in English]

[Text] Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, the ambassadors, your excellencies, distinguished guests, my dear countrymen:

My homecoming is a joyful one. It is always good to be home. [applause] You know that in the past, I was told by people who go abroad that [words indistinct] with which they were met in countries abroad. It is only now that I have experienced what they meant. When I went to Jakarta, many people met me[words indistinct].

[sentence indistinct] Do not worry, we are on the right track and we will make it. As you know, I was told then that we are rich in resources and [words indistinct], and I thank you very much my countrymen. As I have been telling you, it is not possible to solve all our problems in just 6 months. However we can spell out our priorities. We can solve our problems one by one if we remain united.

As you know, I was a bit sad when I saw Indonesia and Singapore, because we are already the last in the parade, behind the rest of our partners in ASEAN. But they told me -- President Suharto of Indonesia and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore -- that we would catch up. All we need to know is our direction and understand what the people want. It is necessary for the leaders to forget their own interests, it is necessary for leaders to give their all to improve their people's lives. [applause]

Coming as I do from those two countries, if this is a preview of what will happen during my visit to the U.S., I believe that we will soon be able to solve our problems because our brothers in ASEAN and our other friends have said that we can depend on their help in our efforts to make our region prosperous. This is why we Filipinos -- [changes thought] right now I would like to ask you to look within ourselves, let us examine ourselves, let us try to find out what our respective roles are and work to remove what is obstructing us [passage indistinct]

Many many thanks to all of you. I am very happy and hopeful that our country will prosper and that we will be able to extend the assistance awaited by our people. [applause]

[station identification, followed by press conference conducted in English]

[unidentified reporter] [words indistinct] the Mindanao issue during the discussions [words indistinct]

[Aquino] Well, I did. Aside from my meetings, one-on-one with the heads of government, the ministers who accompanied me also had their own meetings with their counterparts. I have discussed the issue of the Muslim problem with President Suharto and I have told him that we are reaching out and hoping to have a dialogue soon with the leaders of the MNLF. And this is what I told him. It was a very lengthy discussion of many topics. [words indistinct]

[unidentified reporter] [question indistinct]

[Aquino] No, there was no mention of the Tripoli Agreement. [Words indistinct]

[unidentified reporter] Are you going to Mindanao to meet with MNLF leader Nur Misuari, and also if you have discussed the communist problem with President Suharto or what you are going to do with the communist problem in the Philippines?

[Aquino] To the first question, I will be consulting with my brother-in-law Butz to find out what the final arrangements are and we will advise the press if and when a meeting will take place. As to the question of, concerning communism, I explained to President Suharto that I would like to exhaust all peaceful efforts before we will go to our other options, and I also explained to him that the great majority of those who join the communists are not really the hard-core, probably President Suharto knows this in his country. What is more important is that we are able to offer hope for our returning rebels, we are able to offer them a concrete program of rehabilitation.

We also addressed at length the concern of the military and he was telling me about the set-up in Indonesia [words indistinct] comes from the ranks of the armed forces. Apparently, [words indistinct] are appointed to the cabinet in Indonesia.

[Unidentified reporter] [words indistinct] I would like to ask you now [words indistinct] the military bases [words indistinct] and the communist insurgency also.

[Aquino] Well, definitely some of our ideas would change. For example, we visited a factory in Singapore and as I was taken around by the manager, I asked him -- this was an American corporation involved in the manufacture of airplane parts -- and I asked him what were the prospects of Singapore which convinced them to set up the company here. The manager said that, first of all, the availability of cheap labor; second, the government's stability; third, the facilities, an accessible transportation in and out of Singapore; and fourth the availability also of skilled labor. I then asked if the American corporation or company owned the entire corporation and he said, yes, it was 100 percent owned by the American company. Now, I asked him what about the [words indistinct] and how are their relations with them. [passage indistinct], and they have only had a turn-over of one percent. So apparently the Singaporeans are very happy with the set-up. [words indistinct] additionally, they are given reduced taxes for a period of at least (10) years. So, in other words, our first priority is to generate more job opportunites and I think it is very clear to me that we have to make it very attractive for foreign investors to come in, without of course prejudicing our own interests. But the thing is, possibilities that [words indistinct] they would be more expensive for these investors to come to the Philippines. So this is one of the impressions that had quite an impact on me this morning. That is one of our top priorities, to create more job. And how do we create more jobs? By attracting investors. How do we attract investors? Well, in the next month we will receive groups of businessmen coming here from Singapore -- one is the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and the other is the Indian Chamber of Commerce which will look into the possibilities of investing here.

[Unidentified reporter] Good afternoon, ma'am. I gathered that the Singapore government offered the Philippines about 100 million Singapore dollars to help with the import into our country [words indistinct].

[Aquino] Well, this is only as fas as imports of the Philippines are concerned, [words indistinct]. I am told by one of the ministers there that they are ready to provide us with technical knowhow and in fact, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew told me that if there was any way that the government of Singapore could help us by way of giving us technical knowhow, they are ready to do so. I am very impressed with the housing program that they have there, I think almost all of the people living in Singapore have acquired their houses. In fact, I was taken to one of the flats and this is owned by a pilot and it was a 3-bedroom flat. They make it possible for the citizens of Singapore to acquire their own homes. And I can tell you that I was just asking if we could embark on a similar program. Right now, I guess the top priority is trade, attracting investors to the Philippines and to create job opportunities, and then from there we can go on to the other areas of concerns.

[Unidentified reporter] [passage indistinct]

[Aquino] In the car, the minister accompanying me had shown us [words indistinct]. This was against an American company who had not fulfilled its part of the agreement, but the thing only lasted 1 week. What I would like to see happen is that before this [words indistinct] is subscribed, we will open all doors to come to a peaceful settlement. Again, I say my higher priority is to create more jobs. In making my report to the cabinet, I shall reveal more as I would like to convene with the cabinet.

[Unidentified reporter] [passage indistinct]

[Aquino] I am going to do anything that will bring about change. [passage indistinct] if there is anything that will bring about change, I am going to do. So, after I talk with the representatives, I will be making announcements and I am told that they are going to have a dialogue, and as far as safe conduct is concerned, since the government has given safe conduct to Satur Ocampo and the other rebels, we will also prepared to give safe conduct to Nur Misuari and whoever would like to talk peace with the government. Thank you very much.

PLANNING MINISTER DISCUSSES DEBT RESTRUCTURING

HK260718 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 25 Aug 86 p 17

[By Ellen P. Samaniego]

[Text] Economic Planning [Minister] Solita C. Monsod over the weekend raised the possibility of tying up the restructuring of the country's debt burden to the current account balance.

Monsod indicated that the government is inclined to push the proposal in its preliminary negotiations with creditor banks slated next month. Under her proposal, the government will only service its obligations if there is a surplus on the current account balance.

In case of deficit, Monsod proposes to instead recapitalize interest payments due. Monsod, however, did not give enough details on the mechanics of the proposal.

The current account balance covers the country's external transactions on goods or merchandise as well as non-merchandise trade and transfers. The country last year incurred a $77 million deficit in its current account as against the $1.12 billion deficit in 1984.

The considerable narrowing down of the current account deficit last year was traced to the substantial decline in imports and the improvement in non-merchandise trade receipts. This deficit is expected to be reversed this year as projections of the International Monetary Fund and the government show a $300 million surplus.

Monsod earlier stressed the need for the country to tie up its serious debt problem to its growth priority approach and its capacity to pay.

"A reasonable debt burden is crucial to developing countries like the Philippines as this spells the difference between growth and stagnation and the ability to honor these debts or not at all," according to Monsod.

This realization, she pointed out, has practically compelled a number of Latin American countries like Peru and Mexico to take a more "realistic" approach to their debt problems by tying up their debt burden to their economy's ability to pay.

She said Peru committed only 10 percent of its export earnings for servicing its public debt while Mexico tied up its debt burden to export prices of oil.

In the case of the Philippines, Monsod stressed that "we certainly reject the policy of the previous government that in effect gave priority to debt repayment (allocating as much as 50 percent of export earnings to debt servicing) over economic growth."

This policy partly contributed to the contraction of the economy by 14 percent in the past two-and-a-half years, the decline in per capita income to 1975 levels and the swelling of unemployment rate to 12 percent and underemployment rate of 20 to 25 percent out of the 21 million labor force.

The multi-year debt restructuring which the country will seek from her bank creditors actually involves some $6 billion to $7 billion in principal debt obligations maturing between 1987 to 1991.

Exploratory talks with the bank advisory committee led by Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York are expected to start next month pending the approval of the country's request for the standby and compensatory financing facilities by the IMF during the next 18 months.

AUDIT CHAIRMAN URGES OPPOSITION TO IMF CONDITIONS

HK260504 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 23 Aug 86 p 2

[Text] The Philippines, in unity with other debtor countries, should resist the inimical conditions set by the International Monetary Fund for the approval of loans, Commission on Audit chairman Teofisto Guingona said yesterday.

Guingona issued the statement following reports that government corporations spent P313 million in 1985 for the hiring of foreign consultants, as provided for by foreign loan agreements.

While foreign consultancy services are oftentimes a prerequisite for loans, local negotiators "must stand up" and show lenders that Filipino consultants are equally qualified, Guingona said, because these services are draining millions from the nation's coffers.

Citing additional figures, Guingona said the Ministry of Public Works and Highways spent P23.4 million in 1985 for foreign consultancy services and the National Irrigation Administration (NIA) paid P75.5 million for engineering consulting services.

Ironically, Niaconsult, a NIA subsidiary which provides technical consultancy services in Indonesia, Nepal, Burma, Malaysia, Thailand, and Yemen Arab Republic, was not tapped, Guingona said.

The Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) also spent P37.2 million for consultancy services in the construction of its building at the reclaimed area along Roxas Boulevard. The building, which was started in 1981, and targeted to be completed two years later, is still unfinished.

MINISTERS AT ODDS OVER PROTECTIONISM ISSUE

HK260430 Manila THE MANILA TIMES in English 23 Aug 86 p 6

[By Winston Mercado]

[Text] Trade and Industry Minister Jose S. Concepcion Jr said he is backing a proposal calling for the state to take upon itself the responsibility of promoting industrialization of the economy.

Concepcion's statements were in reaction to the reported campaign being waged by Economic Planning Minister Solita C. Monsod to discredit a proposal submitted by 60 coalition groups which asked for the incorporation in the constitution a provision making mandatory the industrialization, economic protectionism and Filipinization of the country's economy.

Monsod earlier said that the proposal would limit the state's program for national recovery. She said that there is a need to deregulate imports in order to make local industries more competitive in the world market.

One of the main arguments put forward by the coalition was the danger of exposing the country's local industries, particularly the manufacturing sector which provides jobs to thousands of Filipinos, to foreign competitors.

Though he is also in favor of incorporating a provision that promotes the viability and growth of domestic industries, he does not subscribe to an indefinite protection of industries as a national policy.

"We should leave to the legislature the responsibility of enacting the necessary legislation given the situation and circumstances," Concepcion said.

Concepcion told THE TIMES protectionism as a state policy may not provide the Philippines with the necessary flexibility in gaining more market access for Philippine exports.

He said the extent at which the country could gain a foothold in the world market would be significant to the development and recovery of the economy.

Concepcion also warned of the difficulties the Philippines may experience once the government adopts protectionism as a state policy. Based on prevailing conditions of many industries, he said protectionism could do more harm than good in the long run.

"It may also invite unnecessary retaliation," Concepcion added referring to how the country's major trading partners and other countries would react.

"There should be a reciprocal relation and attitude" with the country's major trading partners, if the Philippines is to expect its exports and business to grow, he said.

The trade minister, however, said that he is also in favor of a proposal that Filipino enterprises should be protected against dumping when they are still in their infant stage and when they need temporary relief from prevailing recession.

Meanwhile, the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry [PCCI] urged the Con-Com [Constitutional Commission] to delete the paragraph which states that, "The state shall promote industrialization and full employment based on sound agricultural development and agrarian reform, through industries that make full and efficient use of the national endowment in both human and natural resources which are competitive in both domestic and foreign markets."

The PCCI as well as the private sector groups who were also part of the coalition formed last August 13 however said that should the Con-Com decide to retain paragraph 2, they suggested that it be reworded as follows.

"The state shall promote full employment through industrialization, together with sound agricultural development and agrarian reform, with emphasis on the efficient use of human and natural resources. The State shall promote the viability and growth of domestic industries so they may be competitive in both domestic and foreign markets."

TRADE MINISTER ASSAILS IMPORT LIBERALIZATION

HK261436 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 24 Aug 86 p 10

[By staff member Arleen Chipongian]

[Text] Trade and Industry Minister Jose S. Concepcion Jr. said yesterday the Government would be taking the wrong strategy if it follows the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA)-sponsored program putting emphasis on agriculture.

He said the Philippines should not depend on agricultural commodities, like sugar and coconut, whose prices fluctuate wildly abroad.

The country had no comparative advantage compared with other Asian countries like Thailand, he said.

The NEDA strategy would only perpetuate us as a "colonial agricultural community," Concepcion told a breakfast forum sponsored by WOMB, [expansion unknown] a cause-oriented group.

He proposed instead a strategy which will develop both the agricultural and industrial sectors to hasten economic recovery.

Such a strategy will provide more jobs in urban and rural areas, he said.

Nationalist-economist Alejandro Lichauco also criticized the NEDA program at the same forum. "(The program's) focus on small and medium scale labor intensive industries will relegate the country as the center of 'economic vassalage' in the whole of Asia" he said.

Lichauco said the policy on a labor-intensive export industry was a prescription of the International Monetary Fund and the World Band (IMF/WB). The IMF wants the country to remain a rich source of raw materials and at the same time a dumping ground for finished products from industrialized countries, he said.

Concepcion and Lichauco also opposed the lifting of all quantitative restrictions on imports by the end of the year, another NEDA prescription.

Lifting all restrictions under the import liberalization programs would kill local industries and lead to massive unemployment, they said.

"The success stories in the world as shown by Japan, Taiwan and South Korea will show you that their government provided protection to their industries and allowed them to develop their products to world class quality," Lichauco said.

Despite the criticisms, NEDA Deputy Director-General Florian Alburo justified the agency's program, saying lifting the quantitive restrictions on imports was an effective way to make local industries efficient.

Alburo proposed the development of the export industry and continued export of manpower to the Middle East and other countries. "The three million jobless Filipinos cannot be absorbed by local industries," he said.

Concepcion, who had other ideas, said that NEDA-sponsored program for import liberalization and an agriculture-based economy would scare potential investors in local industries.

"Who will want to invest if they know they will not stand a chance with the influx of imported products once the lifting of import controls is implemented?" he said.

2 MORE OFFICIALS FAVOR LEGALIZATION OF CPP

HK271404 Manila NEWS HERALD in English 27 Aug 86 p 12

[Text] Two more Cabinet ministers yesterday batted for the legalization of the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP].

COA [Commission on Audit] chairman Teopisto Guingona and Local Governments Minister Aquilino Pimentel, in separate press conferences, said they were both in favor of legalizing the CPP provided it renounces the use of violence in propagating its aim.

Guingona said he is for the recognition of the Communist Party for the simple reason that in most countries where it has been legalized, the armed insurgency has not only been minimized but totally eliminated.

"The experience in both developing and developed countries is that the more the Communists have been suppressed, the more they became active," Guingona said.

The legalization of the CPP is not surprising to his group, Pimentel said.

"I will always support the move to legalize the Communist party but as a precondition, the CPP must first give up its armed struggle and let the communists sell their line in the market of ideas," he said.

MISUARI, DELEGATION TO GET SAFE CONDUCT PASSES

HK280505 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] MNLF leader Nur Misuari is expected to arrive in the Philippines next week to discuss with President Aquino the issue of a peaceful settlement in Mindanao. Butz Aquino, the brother-in-law of the president, said that during his recent talks with Misuari in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, the Muslim rebel leader agreed to hold peace talks with a separate government panel.

Meanwhile, President Aquino said that Misuari and his delegation will be given safe-conduct passes like those which the government gives to communist rebels wishing to hold a dialogue with the government. The president's announcement was in reply to a query from a foreign newsman, asked when she returned yesterday from Indonesia and Singapore.

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 168 29 August 1986

For reportage on the Eighth Nonaligned Summit in Harare, Zimbabwe, scheduled to begin on 1 September, see the Nonaligned Summit section of the 18 August Middle East & Africa DAILY REPORT and subsequent issues.

JAPAN

NHK TV Interviews Kapitsa on Gorbachev Visit C 1
  Kapitsa Leaves Japan 29 Aug C 2
LDP Panel Approves Longer Nakasone Term C 2
Government Report Sees Economic Slump Ahead C 2

NORTH KOREA

28 Aug SR-71 'Aerial Espionage' Decried D 1
NODONG SINMUN on Stand on Peaceful Reunification [26 Aug] D 1
Leaders Honor USSR on 15 Aug Liberation Anniversary D 3
Kim Il-song Discusses Economic Work at WPK Meeting D 4

SOUTH KOREA

New Vice Ministerial-Level Officials Appointed E 1
'PRC', 'Chinese Taipei' To Be Used for Asiad E 1

BURMA

U Ye Guang Returns From SFRY, Romania Visit G 1
Lao President Stops Over Enroute to Harare G 1
Paper Views BCP's Quest for 'Deathmates' [BOTATAUNG 10 Aug] G 1
BCP Report Views Imperialism in Post-War Period [VOPB] G 3

LAOS

Souphanouvong Leaves for Harare Nonaligned Summit I 1
Decade of National Defense Victories Reviewed I 1

THAILAND

Prime Minster Delivers Policy Statement J 1
  Government Under 'Heavy Fire' [BANGKOK POST 28 Aug] J 12
  Further on Criticism [THE NATION 28 Aug] J 14

VIETNAM

Chu Huy Man Attends Air Defense Party Congress [QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 6 Aug] K 1

PHILIPPINES

Aquino, Misuari To Meet in Mindanao 'Next Week' P 1
Aquino Making 'Extraordinary Effort' [AFP] P 1
Former MNLF Leader Denounces 'New Warlords' [MANILA BULLETIN 28 Aug] P 1
Cotabato Refugees Reach 'Alarming Proportions' [PERYODIKO DABAW 12 Aug] P 2
20 Killed in First Major Cease-Fire Violation P 3
NPA Faction Opposes Peace Talks With Government [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 28 Aug] P 3
Government, Military Disagree on Truce Guidelines [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 27 Aug] P 4
Rebel 'Preference' for Diokno Could Delay Talks [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 28 Aug] P 5
Satur Ocampo Interviewed on Cease-Fire Talks [AFP] P 6
MND Discloses 3-State Communist Takeover Plot [BUSINESS DAY 28 Aug] P 7
USSR's Zaytsev Proposes Mutual Forces Reduction [BUSINESS DAY 28 Aug] P 10
Renegotiation of Base's Labor Pact Sought [MANILA BULLETIN 21 Aug] P 11
Laurel Makes 'Final Appeal' on Wake Island Layoff [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 28 Aug] P 12

NHK TV INTERVIEWS KAPITSA ON GORBACHEV VISIT

OW281409 Tokyo NHK Television Network in Japanese 1200 GMT 28 Aug 86

[From "News Center 9" program; Interview with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Mikhail Kapitsa by NHK foreign news department reporter Kenichi Iida; place and date of interview not given -- recorded; interview conducted in Russian with Japanese subtitles; following translation is from the Russian]

[Text] In his Vladivostok speech last month, Soviet General Secretary Gorbachev spelled out bold policies, including improved relations with Japan, a review of the Sino-Soviet border, and a partial withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan within the year, thus clearly indicating the Soviet intention to actively concern itself with the Asian-Pacific region in the days ahead. Regarding the latest Soviet diplomatic offensive in Asia, which shows a marked change from the past as seen in the general secretary's desire to personally visit Japan, NHK Foreign News Department reporter Iida has interviewed Deputy Foreign Minister Kapitsa.

[Begin recording] [Iida] Mr Kapitsa, not a single Soviet leader has come to Japan so far. Please tell me, why has Mr Gorbachev new decided to visit Japan? What has changed in the Soviet Union's policy with respect to Japan?

[Kapitsa] You see, the relations between Japan and the Soviet Union have been in cold storage for many years. You have placed them in cold storage. It has taken time to get these relations out of cold storage and warm them up. I have just transmitted the Soviet leaders' message to the Japanese leadership which, in the spirit of Comrade Gorbachev's address in Vladivostok, outlines our reasons for actions in Asia and the Pacific Ocean, for improving bilateral relations, separating crisis conflict situations, reducing the level of confrontation, reducing the activities of fleets, and expanding and creating new nuclear-free zones. Let us say, why not create a zone of nuclear weapons in Korea, on the Korean peninsula? That is close to Japan and close to us. That would create a somewhat different atmosphere for relations in the region. Well, work must be done. The tunnel must be dug from both sides.

[Iida] Up to now the Soviet Union has firmly held the position that it is against a revision of postwar borders. However, lately the Soviet Union has started saying that is is ready to review the Soviet-Chinese border. But, if it can be said...

[Kapitsa, interrupting] No, that is not exactly so. The matter is that, in accordance with the 1860 treaty and the 1961 map, the boundary along the rivers was represented by a red line. The technology was poor, and that boundary in a number of places turned out to be closer to the Chinese banks. The essence of our position is that we are ready to settle these questions on the basis of international experience with river boundaries usually following the navigation channels, and on small rivers going along the deepest part. So this topic has no relations at all to postwar settlements. That is an entirely different question.

[Iida] Does that mean that the Soviet Union is ready to revise the Japanese-Soviet border?

[Kapitsa] No, it does not mean that.

[Iida] [laughter]

[Kapitsa] You know that this question is not new, and you know our position; there is no justification at all for reviewing this position. [end recording]

Kapitsa Leaves Japan 29 Aug

OW290633 Tokyo KYODO in English 0629 GMT 29 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 29 KYODO -- Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Kapitsa left Japan Friday after a three-day visit. Kapitsa, who came to Japan Wednesday after a tour of New Zealand, met Foreign Ministry officials here to discuss a proposed visit to Japan by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

LDP PANEL APPROVES LONGER NAKASONE TERM

OW281101 Tokyo KYODO in English 0649 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 28 KYODO -- A key panel of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party Thursday ageed to extend Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone's tenure beyond the expiration date at the end of this October, party officials said. The LDP's research commission on fundamental party problems reached no agreement on the length of Nakasone's tenure extension and whether his term will be extended through revision of party rules which ban a third consecutive term. Nakasone's second two-year term of office as LDP president runs out on October 30.

The 25-member commission agreed to meet again to continue deliberations on these points. Three "new leaders" -- Noburu Takeshita, LDP secretary general, Shintaro Abe, chairman of the LDP Executive Council and Kiichi Miyazawa, finance minister -- agreed in mid-July to extend Nakasone's tenure in the wake of the LDP's win in the July 6 upper and lower house elections. Ken Harada, chairman of the commission, will meet party supreme advisers to hear their views on the issue. Harada told reporters he hopes to reach a party consensus on the issue by the end of October.

GOVERNMENT REPORT SEES ECONOMIC SLUMP AHEAD

OW260338 Tokyo KYODO in English 0240 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Tokyo, Aug. 26 KYODO -- The Japanese economy is heading for its first slump in three years, a government report suggested Tuesday. The monthly economic report, prepared by the Economic Planning Agency (EPA), described activity as "slack," although a few sectors of the economy show some strength. It made no mention of the wording "economic recovery" or "expansion" frequently used since November 1984, implying that the economy faces a possible recession. EPA economists said production and investment, especially in the manufacturing sector, are likely to remain sluggish as the strong yen continues to erode export earnings. The darkening economic climate is expected to fan calls for powerful pump-priming measures. The government plans to hammer out a reflationary package around September 20 to prop up the faltering economy. Exports are swelling in dollar value due to the yen's high exchange rate. But they are sagging in volume, showing a 0.9 percent drop in July from a year before for the fifth straight year-on-year decline, the report said. The export downswing has made businesses increasingly bearish toward future production and investment, with various surveys showing no signs of recovery for the rest of the year. Bleak prospects also cloud the labor front, with overtime work hours and job vacancies on the decline, the report said. "We can no more say the economy is expanding," a senior EPA economist said. The report noted that a few bright signs are evidenced by consumer spending -- as measured by department store sales -- and housing construction.

28 AUG SR-71 'AERIAL ESPIONAGE' DECRIED

SK281026 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1019 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Pyongyang August 28 (KCNA) -- The U.S. imperialist aggressors infiltrated the high-speed, high-altitude reconnaissance plane "SR-71" into the sky above the territorial waters of our country east of Kosong and conducted espionage against the northern half of the republic, letting it fly up to the sky above the coastal waters off Kimchaek City, North Hamgyong Province from 10 hours 36 minutes to 42 minutes, on August 28. The espionage conducted by the U.S. imperialists' spy planes in the sky above the east and west seas of our country numbered 11 cases in August and their infiltration deep into the sky over the coastal waters off Kimchaek City three cases in the same period. The aerial expionage of the U.S. imperialist aggressors timing to coincide with the recent frequent armed provocations of the South Korean puppet army in the Demilitarized Zone shows clearly how wild they are running to ignite a new war in Korea.

NODONG SINMUN ON STAND ON PEACEFUL REUNIFICATION

SK271141 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 0949 GMT 26 Aug 86

[NODONG SINMUN 26 August article: "We Have No Intention To Invade the South"]

[Text] In their joint statement issued on 14 August on the occasion of the 41st anniversary of the 15 August liberation, the WPK and other political parties and social organizations of our country made it clear once again that we will not invade the South whatever situation might arise in South Korea, and we will not impose the social system of the northern half of the republic on South Korea. This is our firm stand of never resorting to armed force however urgent and precious national reunification is, but of realizing reunification peacefully without fail [pandusi].

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: We desire Korean reunification not through the exercise of armed force, but through a peaceful method. for this reason, we have no intention and need for southward invasion.

Since the first day of the division of the country, we have consistently maintained our lofty patriotic and nation-loving stand for solving the question of reunification in a peaceful way at any cost. Having early elucidated the basic policy of peacefully realizing reunification of the country on an independent and democratic principle without any interference from foreign forces, the great leader Comrade kim Il-song of our party and people has wisely led the struggle to carry it into practice.

Early in the 1970's, the great leader set forth the three great principles of national reunification, whose basic contents are independence, peaceful reunification, and great national unity, by reflecting our party's fundamental stand, which had been consistently adhered to in solving the question of national reunification, and the demands of development of the rapidly changing situation at home and abroad. Particularly at the Sixth WPK Congress in 1980, the great leader put forward the historic proposal to found the Confederal Republic of Koryo, a proposal to reunify the fatherland by founding a confederal state with a unified national government -- a government in which the North and South are represented on an equal footing while the ideologies and systems in the North and South remain intact -- and in which the North and South exercise regional autonomous systems, respectively, under the government.

Our proposal for the confederal system is another obvious declaration of our stand of neither invading the South nor enforcing our system on South Korea.

The question of Korean reunification is a question of putting an end to domination and interference by foreign forces, of completely realizing the sovereignty of the Korean nation, of removing distrust and confrontation between the North and South, and to achieving national unity. Therefore, there is no condition anywhere under which the North and South fight each other over the question of national reunification, an internal issue of the nation-even though ideas, ideologies, and systems in the North and South are different from each other. The North and South have by far more things in common than they have differences. And our nation considers national reunification a supreme task. Differences between the North and South caused by national division for some 40 years are not great when one considers that Korea existed as a single nation for thousands of years. If they leave differences behind and increase things in common under national ideology, the North and South can be reunified without fighting.

Our stand of trying to reunify the country peacefully is precisely based on this firm belief. No one in the North and South wants war, but everyone instead wishes to peacefully reunify the fatherland at any cost. Violent reunification is counter to the aspirations of the nation and would do more harm than good in terms of national interests. Is there any need to solve, through war, the question of reunification, which can be settled without us fighting against each other? What is to be gained when the same nation fights itself?

Furthermore, when the North and South fight each other under the situation in which South Korea has been turned into the largest nuclear arsenal of the U.S. imperialists in the Far East, our nation cannot but be embroiled in the U.S. imperialists' strategy of nuclear war. Nuclear weapons will not distinguish between the North and South and tell one side from the other. Only when there is the nation can there be country and reunification. We can never tolerate the devastation of the fatherland and the sacrifice of the nation to nuclear weapons.

Should a nuclear war break out on the Korean peninsula, it will easily go beyond the boundaries of our country. This being the case, a grave danger will be posed to world peace and security. We do not want the world's peace-loving people to suffer from disaster due to the Korean question. Our stand of peacefully realizing the reunification of the country also totally conforms to the aspirations of the world's people for peace and security.

Over the past period, our party and the government of the republic have shown with practical action that we have no desire to invade the South nor will we impose our socialist system on South Korea. We have put forth reasonable and realistic proposals for reunification, including the proposal to found a confederal state, on more than 200 occasions, and have made all efforts possible to realize them. Even when chaotic political situations were created in South Korea, we did not invade the South, but instead set forth a policy of allowing the survival of the nation through collaboration, unity, and reunification and made sincere efforts for peaceful reunification.

To provide favorable preconditions for peaceful reunification, we, in recent years, proposed tripartite talks between us, the United States, and South Korea, demanded multifaceted collaboration and exchange between the North and South, and even laid down the proposal for North-South parliamentary talks. Particularly this year, we took an initiative measure to stop military exercises for successful progress in easing tension and in dialogue and, following this, set forth, last June, a new peace proposal to hold talks between those in military authority.

These measures that we have taken clearly show our peace-loving stand and sincere efforts to prevent war at any cost and achieve reunification of the country in a peaceful way.

In reality, even when the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets waged many kinds of large-scale war exercises for northward invasion, our People's Army was mobilized in grand socialist construction and displayed labor exploits. Also, it is doing so now. This is clear evidence that we have no desire to invade the South. Our peace-loving efforts for reunification are widely known to the world and arousing full support and sympathy among the world's peace-loving people. This notwithstanding, the U.S. imperialists andthe South Korean puppets are inciting confrontation and war, more fanatically kicking up rackets on the threat of southward invation. This is a brazen irony just as a thief calls another a thief.

Today, it is not the threat of southward invasion from the North, but the threat of northward invasion from the South that exists in Korea. We are not creating the danger of war. On the contrary, the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets are creating the danger of war. We are not threatening South Korea, bu the U.S. imperialists are threatening us. Who will believe that our country, which is not big, is threatening the United States dreaming for world supremacy? No one among the world's people will believe this.

The U.S. imperialists and South Korean puppets are very unreasonable saying that we are trying to invade the South. This is aimed at justifying the occupation of South Korea by the U.S. troops and at justifying new war provocating maneuvers against our republic and at indiscriminately repressing the anti-U.S. and antifascist struggle of the South Korean people by linking it to us. The deceptive commotions of the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan ring on the threat of southward invasion will further expose their dirty nature as aggressors and warmaniacs.

The United States and the South Korean persons in authority should not say unreasonable things, but should respond to our proposal for talks between persons in military authority.

Independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland is our people's firm and immovable will. We will resolutely smash the maneuvers of the splittists at home and abroad to fabricate two Koreas and provoke a new war, and we will certainly accomplish the historic cause of national reunification with the united strength of the whole nation.

LEADERS HONOR USSR ON 15 AUG LIBERATION ANNIVERSARY

SK290219 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1200 GMT 15 Aug 86

[Text] On the 41st anniversary of national liberation, the WPK Central Committee, the DPRK Central People's Committee, and the State Administration Council laid wreaths at the liberation tower and the cemetery of fallen officers and men of the Soviet Army respectively.

The wreath-laying functions were attended by Comrade So Yun-sak, member of thw WPK Central Committee Political Bureau, responsible secretary of the Pyongyang City Party Committee and chairman of the Pyongyang City People's Committee; Kim Yong-chae, minister of communications who is chairman of the Central Committee of the Korean-Soviet Friendship Association; Kwon Min-chun, deputy director of a department of the WPK Central Committee; KPA Colonel General Pak Chung-kuk; Kim Hyyong-yul, vice minister of foreign affairs; Wang Kyong-hak, vice chairman of the Pyongyang City Administrative and Economic Guidance Committee; and other functionaries concerned.

Standing before the liberation tower and the cemetery of fallen officers and men of the Soviet Army were the KPA honor guards. The wreaths under the joing name of the WPK Central Committee, the DPRK Central People's Committee, and the State Administration Council were laid amid the playing of the wreath presentation music.

Following this, wreaths from the Ministry of the People's Armed Forces, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Foreign Trade Committee, the Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, the GFTUK Central Committee, the LSWYK Central Committee, the UAWPK Central Committee, the Central Committee of the Korean-Soviet Friendship Association, the Pyongyang City Committee of the WPK, the Pyongyang City People's Committee, and the Pyongyang City Administrative and Economic Guidance Committee were laid before the liberation tower and the cemetery of fallen Soviet soldiers respectively. The working people in Pyongyang city also laid bouquets before the liberation tower and the cemetery of fallen Soviet soldiers.

The participants paid silent tribute to the fallen officers and men of the Soviet Army who devoted their lives in the battles for the liberation of Korea.

Wreaths and bouquets were also laid today before the statues of the Soviet Army, the liberation towers, and the tombs of fallen officers and men of the Soviet Army in various provinces, including Nampo, Chongjin, Hamhung, Wonsan, and Haeju.

KIM IL-SONG DISCUSSES ECONOMIC WORK AT WPK MEETING

SK270947 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2100 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Under the guidance of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, an enlarged meeting of the Executive Committee of the South Hamgyong Provincial Committee of the WPK has been held. An enlarged meeting of the Executive Committee of the South Hamgyong Provincial Committee of the WPK was held in Hamhung on 24 August under the guidance of the great leader of our party and people Comrade Kim Il-song.

Attending the meeting were Comrades Kang Song-san, Yi Chong-ok, Yong Hyong-muk, Kim Hwan, Yi Kun-mo, Chon Pyong-ho, Hong Song-nan, Kim Si-hak, Kim Pok-sin, Hyon Mu-hwang, Kim Yun-hyok, Pak Nam-ki, So Kwan-hui, and Kim Chang-chu; chairmen of commissions and ministers of the Administration Council concerned; members of the Executive Committee of the South Hamgyong Provincial Party Committee; functionaries of the party and administrative and economic bodies; and party secretaries and directors of factories and enterprises in the province.

The question of further developing the economic work of South Hamgyong Province was discussed at the meeting. At the meeting, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song gave programmatic teachings which would serve as a guideline in developing the national economy of the province to a high stage.

Saying that South Hamgyong Province -- which has industrial domains of enormous nationwide significance including the chemical industry, mining industry, and fisheries, holds an important place in the economic development of the country -- he set forth tasks for various domains of the national economy in the province. The great leader Comrade Kil Il-song taught that energetic work should be undertaken for the creation of a better hygienic and cultural environment in Hamhung.

Stressing that as there are many large chemical plants in Hamhung district, the work to create a hygienic and cultural environment is of particular importance, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song said that our party has given priority attention to this work.

Noting that the purpose of building socialism and communism is to promote the people's welfare and guarantee their interests, he taught that our functionaries should carry out all work by always placing the interests of the working people above anything else in accordance with the demand of the chuche idea. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song said that party organizations and functionaries of the South Hamgyong Provincial Party Committee, Hamhung Municipal Party Committee, and plants and enterprises in Hamhung should actively struggle to provide the workers not only with excellent living conditions worthy of faithful servants of the people, but also with hygienic and cultural working conditions.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song put forward tasks for rapidly increasing coal production in the province. He stressed that because there are many plants and enterprises including chemical plants which use anthracite coal as their raw material and fuel in South Hamgyong Province, meeting the province's coal needs from within the province by drastically increasing coal production is a very important issue. The great leader comrade Kim Il-song taught that to increase coal production, prospecting forces should be firmly built upon and sufficient materials and equipment be supplied for this work in order to keep prospecting far ahead of other work and discover great coal deposits while keeping production on a high level at the existing coal mines. He taught that the struggle to save coal should be strengthened in addition to producing a large quantity of coal, and a greater quantity of anthracite coal should be supplied to the chemical industry by remodeling anthracite coal boilers according to bituminous coal boiler design.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song set forth tasks for developing the power industry. He taught that in order to meet the constantly increasing demand for power, the capacities of the existing power stations -- including the Changjin-Kang, Pujon-Kang, and Hochon-Kang power stations -- should be further enhanced. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that in order to enhance the capacities of the existing power stations, the efficiency of generating facilities should be enhanced by strengthening technological innovation, and supplementary works including waterway construction and the building of embankments should be properly carried out.

He taught that in order to increase production of electricity, it is necessary to hasten construction of the Kumyagang power station, build many medium- and small-scale power stations and wind power stations, and build a thermal power station in Hamhung in keeping with the increased production of coal, in order to produce electricity and ensure city heating. Emphasizing strengthening the struggle to save electricity as an important issue together with power production, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that the production process in chemical plants, a process that uses a great quantity of electricity, should be remodeled.

He set forth tasks for developing the chemical industry. Saying that doing so is of weighty significance in rapidly developing the national economy as a whole to vigorously strive to increase the output of chemical products of various kinds in South Hamgyong Province where there are large-scale chemical plants, he emphasized the need to continue directing big efforts toward developing the province's chemical industry.

Expressing deep satisfaction over fulfillment of the the chemical fertilizer production plan ahead of schedule by the Hungnam fertilizer complex in the last fertilizing year, he expressed thanks to the workers and technicians of this complex who produced more chemical fertilizer by upholding the party's appeal and effected new innovations in producing finishing materials required for the gasification of anthracite coal. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song stressed that in order for the Hungnam fertilizer complex to further increase fertilizer production, it should complete the repair and maintenance work of the complex in a short period of time by concentrating its strength on this work, should more effectively remodel the production processes, and should have related plants and enterprises smoothly produce and ensure raw materials and materials.

He also expressed deep satisfaction over the fact that the 8 February vinalon complex has increased production and rendered the state large benefits by invigorating the technical innovation movement. He stressed that the complex should produce large quantities of chemical products, such as vinalon, vinyl chloride, agricultural chemicals, and caustic soda to supply to different domains of the national economy.

Comrade Kim Il-song set forth the task of building a plastic material and synthetic rubber production base in Hamhung. He taught that efforts should be continuously directed to large-scale chemical plants and, at the same time, minor chemical plants should be developed extensively in order to produce large quantities of chemical products including reagent, dye, and paints in different parts.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song set forth tasks for the Yongsong machine complex. He highly praised the Yongsong machine complex for having done a lot of work, such as building a 10,000-ton power press and large machine tools and completing the assembly line of the compounding tower through the mass technical innovation movement. He then expressed thanks to all the party members and working class in the complex. He taught that the Yongsong machine complex should increase the production of compressors and large machine tools and, at the same time, increase the production capacity of ordered equipment in keeping with the developing reality, in order to produce and supply larger quantities of large machine tools and ordered equipment to the socialist construction sites in time.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song set forth tasks for the mining sector. He taught that as South Hamgyong Province holds an important position in attaining the 1.5-million ton target of nonferrous metal production, the province should concentrate efforts on increasing mineral production at mines in Tanchon district. He stressed that the Komdok general mining enterprise should give fullest scope to the existing production capacity by thoroughly implementing the party's policy of large dynamiting and large treatment. For this, organizational work for production should be properly carried out and related plants and enterprises should sufficiently supply the mining facilities, including tunneling machines and compressors.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that the mines in Tanchon district should constantly increase the output of nonferrous ores and the production of magnesia clinker.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song said that South Hamgyong Province should direct big efforts to the textile industry, too, to supply people with more drapery of good quality.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song set forth tasks for develaoping the fishing industry. He noted that it is especially important to increase seafood production in South Hamgyong Province, which has a great share in the development of our country's fisheries.

He taught that in order to make bigger hauls of fish, including sardines, necessary fishing tackle should be produced and supplied in sufficient quantities so the sea will be occupied all year around, and so that solid ship repair bases will be built up and fish storage and processing done well to supply people with fresh fish in all seasons. He stressed that refrigerator plants should be maintained, bases for processing marine products should be firmly built, and thoroughgoing measures should be taken to process large quantities of fish using various methods. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that thoroughgoing preparations for winter fishing should be made now so that all fishing boats will operate in full capacity during the winter fishing season. He taught that since the province has favorable natural geographical conditions for shallow sea culture, it should conduct this culture on an extensive scale to further boost seafood production.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song set forward tasks for developing agriculture. He set a grain production target for South Hamgyong Province and taught that farming should be placed on scientific and technical bases as required by the chuche farming method to augment the grain yield. He said that the province, which faces the sea and suffers from frost, should very often obtain more good seeds suitable to the local climate and strictly abide by the principle of the right crop in the right season and the right crop in the right soil.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that South Hamgyong Province should cultivate the soil by applying abundant carbide ash in rice and other grain fields and should carry out on a large scale the work of finding new lands including reclamation of riverside ground. Noting that the farming of pumpkins and bean is very good, he said that this work should be continuously carried out in the future, too. He taught that the farms should make substantial preparations beforehand to harvest rich crops in time, without loss, while doing the immediate farm work well.

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song taught that the living standard of the people should be further improved by increasing the production of meat, eggs, and cooking oil. He said that in order to produce more meat and eggs, poultry and duck farms should fully resolve the question of feed, including protein feed, so that their capacities are fully attained. At the same time, the movement to breed domestic animals, including pigs, ducks, and geese, should be carried out as a mass movement.

Stressing that supplying daily necessities is very important in Hamhung because the working class is assembled in this city, the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song put forth concrete tasks for this work. Noting that the chemical industry, mining industry, fisheries, and agriculture are the most important tasks set before South Hamgyong Province, he taught that party organizations, functionaries, all party members, and workers in the province should rise in implementing these tasks.

The teachings given by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the enlarged meeting of the Executive Committee of the South Hamgyong Provincial Party Committee are the programmatic guideline for enhancing our rapidly developing national economy onto a higher stage and are a vigorous and stimulating banner inspiring all the party members and workers to attain the 10 major prospective targets in socialist economic construction.

NEW VICE MINISTERIAL-LEVEL OFFICIALS APPOINTED

SK280943 Seoul YONHAP in English 0934 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 28 (YONHAP) -- The government Thursday appointed Kim Yun-hwan, vice culture and information minister, as senior presidential assistant in charge of political affairs. Kim, 54, succeeds Ho Mun-to, who was named national unification minister.

In a personnel shake-up affecting vice minister-level government officials, the government also named Yi Chong-yul, 44, a ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP) lawmaker, as presidential spokesman. Yi replaces Chong Ku-ho, 49, who was appointed head of the state-run Korea Broadcasting System. The lower-echelon reshuffle follows a major reshuffle of cabinet ministers carried out Tuesday by President Chon Tu-hwan. The post of vice culture and information minister went to Choe Chang-yun, a presidential secretary for political affairs.

Yu Chong-taek, 47, an assistant agriculture and fisheries minister, was promoted to vice agriculture and fisheries minister. Yu succeeds Cho Ik-nae, who became governor of South Kyongsang Province. In addition, the government named Pusan Mauyor Chong Chae-chin, 54, to direct the Office of Forestry; Hong Tu-pyo, 50, president of the Korea Broadcasting Advertisement Corp., to head the Office of Monopoly; and Chang Yong-chol, 49, vice administrator of the Customs Administration to direct the Customs Administration. Former DJP lawmaker Yun Sok-sun, 48, was named to head the Secretariat of Prime Minister No Sin-yong replacing Ha Sun-pong, who was reassigned to direct the Korea Broadcasting Advertisement Corp.

The government also named Hong Sok-pyo, an assistant home affairs minister, as governor of North Cholla Provcince. Kim Sang-yong, chief of the Patriots and Veterans Affairs Agency's Office of Planning and Management, was promoted to the agency's vice administrator.

Kim YUun-hwan, the new senior presidential secretary, is a native of Sunsan, North Kyongsang Province. A journalist-turned government official, Kim graduated from Kyongbuk National University. Kim worked as a correspondent for the CHOSUN ILBO, a vernacular daily, in Tokyo and the United States. He also served two terms in the National Assembly. Yi Chong-yul, the new presidential spokesman, was born in Namwon, North Cholla Province. A graduate of Seoul National University and a holder of doctorate in political science from Yale University, Yi once worked for the TONG-A ILBO, another vernacular daily. He also served two terms in the National Assembly.

'PRC' 'CHINESE TAIPEI' TO BE USED FOR ASIAD

SK261056 Seoul YONHAP in English 1048 GMT 26 Aug 86

[Text] Seoul, Aug. 26 (YONHAP) -- The Seoul Asian Games Organizing Committee (SAGOC) Tuesday instructed individual sport associations to call mainland China by its official name, the "People's Republic of China," and to use the equivalent Korean translation during forthcoming Asian Games here. For the Republic of China (Taiwan), Chinese Taipei in English and its Korean translation will be used, according to SAGOC. The use of People's Republic of China and Chinese Taipei, both in English and in Korean, is in accordance with the names of the two countries registered with the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the Olympic Council of Asia (OCA), a SAGOC official said. It was for the first time that South Korea has decided to use the Korean translation of People's Republic of China for mainland China since the inauguration of the Communist regime in China.

U YE GAUNG RETURNS FROM SFRY, ROMANIA VISIT

BK271533 Rangoon Domestic Service in Burmese 1330 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] U Ye Gaung, minister of foreign affairs of the Socialist Republic of the Union of Burma, and delegation members, who earlier joined Prime Minister U Maung Maung Kha on his visit to Yugoslavia and Romania at the invitation of SFRY Federal Executive Council President Branko Mikulic and Romanian Prime Minister Constantin Dascalescu, returned to Rangoon by air at 1435 today.

The foreign minister and his delegation were received at Rangoon airport by Thura U Tun Tin, acting prime minister and deputy prime minister; Thura U Kyaw Htin, deputy prime minister and defense minister; U Tint Swe, minister of industry-1; U Khin Maung Gyi, minister of trade; Major General Myint Lwin, minister of construction; U Saw Hlaing, deputy minister of foreign affairs; responsible officials of departments concerned; Mr Afzal Mahmud, dean of the diplomatic corps in Burma and ambassador of Pakistan; Mr Thongchan Chotikasathian, Thai ambassador to Burma; Mr Nicholas M. Fenn, British ambassador to Burma; Mr Yves Rodrigues, French ambassador to Burma; Mr (Franz Auwenrig), charge d'affaires ad interim of the FRG Embassy; Mr (Miroslav Dracolin), charge d'affaires Yugoslav Embassy; Mr (Marias Petr), charge d'affaires ad interim of the Romanian Embassy; and Mr (David Long), charge d'affaires ad interim of the Singapore Embassy.

LAO PRESIDENT STOPS OVER ENROUTE TO HARARE

BK271359 Rangoon Domestic Service in Burmese 1330 GMT 27 Aug 86

[Text] Mr Souphanouvong, president of the Lao People's Democratic Republic, Mr Phoun Sipaseut, deputy premier and minister of foreign affairs, and a delegation briefly stopped over at Rangoon Airport at 1610 today on their way from Vientiane to the Nonaligned Summit meeting in Harare, Zimbabwe.

The LPDR president and his delegation were received at the airport by U Tint Swe, minister of industry-1 and acting minister of foreign affairs; U Saw Hlaing, deputy minister of foreign affairs; responsible officials; Mr (Vin Sesana), charge d'affaires ad interim of the LPDR Embassy in Rangoon; and staff members of that embassy.

The LPDR president and his delegation departed from Rangoon Airport at 1730.

PAPER VIEWS BCP'S QUEST FOR 'DEATHMATES'

BK181520 Rangoon BOTATAUNG in Burmese 10 Aug 86 p 8

[Yebaw Nay Lin article: "The BCP's World of Seeking Deathmates"]

[Excerpt] [Passage omitted] in the latter part of 1975, remnant members of the BCP [Burma Communist Party] elected Thakin Ba Thein Tin as chairman, formed a Central Committee in exile, and conspired to continue their subversive work. Their strategic objective then was "to have the northeast region as their base, to march down the Shweli River, occupy, within 5 years, the whole of Shan State and upper Burma proper up to Mandalay, to declare to the world these occupied regions as liberated zones, and to set up a parallel government;" such as their boast.

However, the People's Defense Forces, with the heavy assistance of the people, smashed the BCP and inflicted heavy casualties upon them in all regions. Not only did the BCP have to give up its strategic objective, it also had to cede its tactical goal of "seizing power through military victory and establishing a communist state."

In October 1975, they drafted a new "7510 Strategic Plan." The primary objectives of that plan included a scheme "to recruit and organize regional insurgents through different means." They then stepped up their organizational efforts under that plan and devised schemes to recruit their deathmates. They negotiated with all the insurgent groups, which merely follow the path of destruction behind a facade of racial policies.

Many are the bloody stories behind the BCP's quest for deathmates. The result of associating with the BCP becomes evident as one starts following their bloody trail.

The Karenni insurgent group split into two factions and began killing each other because of the work of the BCP. Just as BCP follower Thein Han and his associates were killed, so also were six members, including Chairman Than Nuyunt, of the BCP-influenced breakaway Karreni faction, by the original Karenni insurgents during a negotiating session on 22 April 1982.

Similarly, in November 1973, the leaders of the Pa-O insurgent group held a meeting near Ho-Nam village to discuss the pros and cons of forming an alliance with and adopting the policies of the BCP. Aung Khan, member of the Shan State Nationalities Liberation Organization [SSNLC], was killed on the spot at the meeting because of a difference of opinions. Since then, the group has broken into two factions -- the Pa-O National Federation headed by U Hla Pe of Thaton, U Kyaw Sein, and Abbot Ne Mi, and the SSNLO led by Hla Maung, Tarkale, and Sein Shwe. The groups have battled against each other ever since.

On 5 January 1968, an agreement to form a united front between the BCP and the KIA [Kachin Independence Army] was signed. It was understaood that except for deputy leader Zaw Tu, the leader of the KIA, Zaw Seng, and all the followers were opposed to the agreement at the time. One top leader of the KIA, Zaw Dan, who did not want the BCP to come in, joined up with the Palaung insurgent group headed by Khan Taung to fight the BCP. Since then the KIA has broken up, and the three Zaw brothers have been murdered. Zaw Dan was assassinated somewhere in the jungles near Kutkai on 1 March 1975 when he was contesting for territory with the BCP.

The Shan State Progressive Party [SSPP] suffered most from the meddling and tactics of division of the BCP. Since July 1973, when SSPP leaders Sao Htin and San Kar became the henchmen of the BCP after their talks at Pangsan, the party became divided. SSPP leaders San Mai and Pan Aung were murdered amidst the debate on accepting the BCP leadership without question. Using the people under the influence, the BCP made Sai Nung accuse Sin Myat, a brigade commander, of being a reactionary and had the latter arrested the executed. Seeing what happened to Sin Myat for refusing to follow BCP orders, Sai Hla Aung, chairman of the SSPP, and Lain Maung, political officer of the 3d Brigade, surrendered to the authorities.

The world of the people who became the deathmates of the BCP always ended in dissension, division, and death. The events surrounding the people within the BCP itself and other insurgent organizations who became the victims of the BCP should serve as a lesson to others. The insurgent groups of ethnic minorities, fighting because of a narrow-minded racial outlook, are already afraid to associate with the BCP because of the "old stories about grabbing the tiger by the tail."

Today, with a very feeble voice, the BCP is announcing that its Central Committee "desires to discuss and negotiate with any political force" and is extending its long arm of trickery to beckon all to come. Even though the other insurgents are already "lame and crippled," the BCP still clamors, "please help." It will continue to embrace the "quest for deathmates" until its very certain end. Whatever the case may be, we will continue to smash all the destructive threats against the state with revolutionary vigilance and by upholding the tradition of unity between the people and the People's Defense Forces.

BCP REPORT VIEWS IMPERIALISM IN POST-WAR PERIOD

BK101310 (Clandestine) Voice of the People of Burma in Burmese 1200 GMT 10, 24 Aug 86

["Continuation of the Political Report of the Burma Communist Party Central Committee presented at the Third National Party Congress"]

[Text] The Post-war Late 20th Century and Imperialism

In the post-war period of the late 20th century, there were many great changes throughout the world in the economic, political, cultural, scientific, and technological spheres. Does imperialism exist under such changing conditions? Are Comrade Lenin's outlook and conclusions regarding imperialism still relevant? Do they still hold true? These are the questions that have arisen.

In our view, we accept as facts that there have been many great changes in economics, politics, culture, science, and technology in the late 20th century following the World War II. However, imperialism still exists. Although imperialism has assured a new appearance, imperialism in essence remains. There have been changes only in structural and conditional aspects.

Not only does imperialism exist, monopolism, which is the essence of imperialism, has become even more profound and extensive on an international scale.

The emergence of an imperialist nation into a superpower is a new phenomenon in the evolution of imperialism. The other phenomena that emerged are the disintegration of colonialism, the breaking up of the socialist bloc, the split in the imperialist bloc headed by U.S. imperialism, the transformation of the strategic contradiction between an imperialist superpower nation on one side and the world's peoples on the other into a principal contradiction, and the intensification of all other contradictions. Comrade Lenin's outlook toward imperialism and his conclusions are still relevant to the present historical conditions and they continue to serve as guidelines.

We should therefore strive to enrich the treasury of Marxism-Leninism on the basis of Comrade Lenin's teachings regarding imperialism and accordance with the changing conditions.

We would like to elaborate our view.

Comrade Lenin said that the essence of an imperialist economy is monopoly capitalism. Monopolism, he said, which emerged from the practice of competition, also signifies the transition of capitalism's development to the next higher socioeconomic phase. He also pointed out the growth and development of monopoly organizations to international stature.

During its course of evolution, monopoly capitalism merged with state capitalism, and the merger gave rise to state momopoly capitalism. After World War II, state momopoly capitalism developed further on an international scale together with the growth of the export of capital and production. The international character of the economy was not confined to a certain aspect of the capitalist economic system; it was also reflected in all the key economic spheres, such as production, barter, and circulation. Thus monopoly capitalism with a multifaceted international character emerged.

The development of productive forces in the post-war period extended production beyong the confines of one country, thereby boosting to a great extent the mutual sharing of labor and cooperation. Thus the global production and sale of goods in this manner greatly boosted the export of capital while private ownership of the means of production started to assume an international character. The development and the international nature of the productive forces in such a way gave rise to international production relations, which in turn influenced the international character of productive forces. The evolution of these changes depended on capitalist private ownership of the means of production -- an intrinsic feature of capitalist imperialism -- and hence they merely reflected the deepening and worsening strategic antagonism between the [word indistinct] productive forces and capitalist production relations -- the principle contradiction of capitalist production.

In the post-war period, monopolism assumes two basic forms of international cooperation. One is the cooperation at the international level of private monopoly capitalism, and the other is the cooperation at the international level of state monopoly capitalism. The noteworthy feature of capitalism today is the very existence of the international cooperation of these two kinds of monopoly capital, the symbiotic relationship between the two, and the influence of the development of one on the development of the other. Some economists describe this feature as international monopoly captitalism.

SOUPHANOUVONG LEAVES FOR HARARE NONALIGHED SUMMIT

BK280538 Vientiane Domestic Service In Lao 0500 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] An LPDR delegation led by Souphanouvong, president of the Republic and chairman of the Supreme People's Council, left Vientiane yesterday afternoon to attend the Eighth Summit Meeting of Nonaligned Countries which will be held in Harare, capital of Zimbabwe, from 1 to 7 September. Also accompaning the delegation to attend the Nonaligned Summit on this occasion was Phoun Sipaseut, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers and minister of foreign affairs.

The LPDR delegation was seen off at Wattai Airport by Nouhak Phoumsavan, first vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and Khamphai Boupha, first deputy minister of foreign affairs; along with members of the Standing Committee of the Supreme People's Council and many dadress concerned. Also on hand to see the delegation off at the airport were Vladimir Gussak, charged d'affaires ad interim of the USSR; Shiv Kumar, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Republic of India, Todor Netsov, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Perople's Republic of Bulgaria; and (U Min Aung). Burmess charge d'affairs to Laos.

DECADE OF NATIONAL DEFENSE VICTORIES REVIEWED

BK271440 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0430 GMT 25 Aug 86

[Editorial: "Resolutely Bring Into Full Play the Victories Recorded in the Past 10 Years of National Defense and Be Determined To Jointly Advance To Win New, Greater Victories"]

[Text] Firmly grasping the all-people, comprehensive defense and public security line of the party, various armed forces and our public security forces have grown and become the national army and people's public security forces, which are composed of various essential combat and technical corps and forces.

Thanks to their close coordination and to the strength of their alliance, our Army and people have successfully countered the enemy's multifaceted destructive war and duly punished acts of provocation, nibbling at our territory, and violations of the country's multificeted destructive war and duly punished acts of provocation nibbling at our territory, and violations of the country's sovereignty and territorial integrity -- acts committed by the imperialists and the international reactionary forces. Our Armed Forces and people have smashed almost all the enemy's rebellious and sabotage activities and have prevented them from taking place. They have removed all bandit bands' nests restored and built by the enemy, demolished thousands of the enemy's underground bases, liberated tens of thousands of people from the enemy's occupation, and returned a large number of cattle plundered by the enemy to the people. We have unmasked and resolutely countered untoward activities carried out by some foreign spies and agents and firmly ensured the country's independence and sovereignty. Generally speaking, the enemy has been defeated in his multifaceted sabotage schemes and we have basically been able to defend our sovereignty, territorial integrity, and public order and transquility.

Our international relations and solidarity, particularly with fraternal Vietnam and Cambodia, have been strengthened and developed withnew quality, thus foiling the enemy's divisive schemes.

Over the past 10 years, while defending and maintaining the country's tranquility and security, our Armed Forces and public security forces have ceaselessly grown in all respects. At present, they have become the country's strength by not only carrying out the national defense and public security tasks, but by also directly taking part in the task of economic construction and construction of political bases.

The enemy's frantic dream of destroying the revolutionary forces and completely smashing the new regime will not come true. Nevertheless, the Armed Forces and our people's public security forces are not yet satisfied with the above success. Yet we are still beset with some weaknesses and shortcomings caused by the fact that our understanding of the enemy's schemes and tricks is not complete on some occasions and in some areas and that we are not yett aware that the struggle between us and the enemy in the new period is fierce, decisive, and uncompromising. The struggle against the enemy's multifacted war of sabotage is developing everywhere -- not only in the border areas.

We are not yet aware that our defense must be comprehensive such as the defense of the party's line, leading organs, and the people's peaceful labor. We have not yet heightened vigilance toward the enemy's scheme of peaceful changes, economic sabotage schemes, and psychological warfare tactics. We have not yet completely understood the danger of the enemy using the mass media to slander, vilify , and sabotage us. We must understand that in countering the enemy, we must always heighten our vigilance, persistently and effectively take part in training, build a happy and glorious way of life, and consolidate internal unity, the unity between the army and people, and international unity. By bringing into full play the victories and progress we have achieved, with the spirit of self-reliance and of building strength by overselves, and by winning the support and assistance of our friends, we are bound to successfully smash all enemy schemes and fulfill the tasks entrusted to us by the party and state.

PRIME MINISTER DELIVERS POLICY STATEMENT

BK270750 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 0237 GMT 27 Aug 86

[27 August Thai Government policy statement delivered by Prime Minister General Prem Tinsulanon to parliament at the National Assembly Building -- live]

[Text] Honorable President and members of the parliament:

Following the royal appointments of the prime minister on 5 August 1986 and the cabinet on 11 August 1986, the cabinet and I have laid down the policies for the administration of the country based on our consideration of the happiness of the people, of the development of the democratic system of government with the king is haad of state, and of the national economy, social interests, and security in various fields. I would like to present the policies to the parliament as follows:

Political and Administrative Policy

The government is determined to uphold and preserve the nation, religion, monarchy, and the democratic system with the king as head of state, and is prepared to bring about happiness and prosperity for the people through the following policies it has mapped out.

1. It will maintan peace and order in the society in order to ensure safety to the lives and property of the people. For that, it will engage in the prevention and suppression of crimes. It will crack down on the possession and use of illegal war weapons. It will improve the efficiency of related units and officials so that they can strictly guarantee the sanctity of law. It will encourage the people to play a greater role in contributing to the maintenance of law and order.

2. It will improve the welfare and living conditions for government officials and other state empolyees in order to give them better morale and impetus in carrying out their duties with efficiency, honesty, and integrity to best benefit the nation in the whole. Meanwhile, it will eliminate corrupt. dishonest, and inefficent government officials and state employees from the administration, It will improve the Counter Corruption Commission and the Auditor General Office, making them ore independent and effective as agencies.

3. It will reform the bureaucratic system to make it serve the people promptly and efficiently. For that, government agencies will be improved to make them respond to the economic and social development policies, in order to solve the problem of duplication of administration work, and to decentralize administrative power to provincial administrative bodies, and to give more independence to local administrative bodies.

4. It will promote and support the role of political parties and political institutions in keeping with the democratic system under the monarchy. It will promote the understanding by the people from all professions in the role played by and importance of the legislative branch so as to encourage the general people to have more contributions in politics both at national and local levels.

5. It will place politics before the military in the fight against ideologies which endanger the democratic system under the monarchy.

Defense Policy

With a view to strengthen the capabilities for and achieving self-sufficiency in the maintenance of national security, sovereignty, and interests, the government has formulated the following policies to follow.

1. It will improve and develop the armed forces' capability to the fullest based on the economic conditions and situation in the country.

2. It will mobilize all defense forces, including the regular armed forces, paramilitary forces, police forces, civilian volunteers of various categories, as well as government officials and people in general, together in order to defend the country from internal and external threats.

3. It will improve and develop combat doctrines, will upgrade and modernize training and education for all defense forces to that they can cope with any form of danger threatening the country whether internal or external. The government will also improve vocational training for military servicemen so that they can use the knowledge in earning their living once they have completed military service.

4. It will promote the production, research, and development of weapons domestically so that the country can be self-reliant.

5. It will undertake all measures in order to ensure readiness of national resources necessary for the mobilization of all defense forces of the nation.

6. It will have the soldiers play a bigger role in the process of national development, assisting the people, and contributing to national relief service.

7. It will undertake to strengthen the morale and courage of the soldiers by giving them better welfare facilities including those for war veterans and their families. Special assistance will be accorded to disabled war veterans and families of those who sacrifice their lives in national service.

Foreign Policy

The government will adopt an independent foreign policy based on the principle of national interests in order to preserve national independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity, and to preserve and promote national security and interests. Emphasis will be placed on achieving economic interests for the country. The government will promote cooperation among government agencies and between the government and the private sector in order to ensure efficiency and uniformity in the implementation of the government policy. The government will cooperate with other countries and international organizations in achieving for the country stability and progress. Following are the policies.

1. The government will continue making efforts to improve relations and reach understanding all its neighboring countries on the basis of mutual interest, equality, and justice. It will support firmly the solution of all problems through peaceful political and diplomatic approaches.

2. It will promote peace and peaceful coexistence among nations based on the principle of respect for independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity, equality, noninterference in the internal affairs of other countries, and peaceful means in solving international conflicts.

3. It will undertake every possible political and diplomatic step in order to achieve peace and stability in Southeast Asia by giving priority to national interests and security.

4. It will promote political, economic and social cooperation and strengthen the unity of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations. It will strengthen friendly relations with other ASEAN countries, and will support measures to make Southeast Asia a zone of peace, freedom, and neutrality.

5. It will develop relations with the world powers in a way which will support and contribute to the strengthening of national security and prosperity.

6. It will respect and promote implementation of the UN Charter and international declaration on human rights. It will respect and honor the rights as agreed upon with other contries on the basis of equality, compromise, and justice.

7. It will promote friendly relations and expand economic and trade relations with all countries. It will also support the barter trade system.

8. The government will see to it that the Foreign Ministry as well as all other government agencies play a role in expanding markets for exports of Thai products and labor, and tourism, and promoting foreign investment, in both capital and technology, in Thailand in order to benefit the economic development of the country.

9. It will carry out public relations campaigns overseas in order to improve the image of Thailand and the Thai people and preserve and promote national honor. It will undertake measures to enable the Thai people to understand and support the government's foreign policy.

10. It will cooperate with and assist other developing countries in economic, trade, and technical fields with a view to achieve political and economic benefits for the country.

11. It will give protection to the Thai people and their interests abroad as well as the interests of the nation as a whole in order that they will all receive fair treatment from the international community.

Economic Policy

This government holds that the economic policy is an urgent and important policy to be implemented. it has set the target of urgently restoring the ecnomic situation bringing about stability. For that goal, the government will improve economic structure in the fields of production, marketing, monetary and fiscal system, and distribution of income which are vital for the solution to the problems of poverty, unemployment, and national debt. Following are the economic policies:

1. The government will support and promote a free economic system with importance given to marketing mechanism and the role played by the private sector in national economic development. Instead of playing the role of supervising and controlling, the government will supervise, support, promote, and facilitate economic enterprises, especially exports. There will be an exception only when it concerns issues regarding the stability of the national economy or law and order among the general public.

2. It will support and promote economic projects which are labor-intensive and which use domestic raw materials and labor. It will encourage the Thai private sector to engage more in major projects.

3. On the agricultural front, the government will seriously undertake the following measures in order to solve the problem of low prices of agricultural products on a long-term basis:

3.1 It will improve the production system to serve marketing purposes. Farmers will be prompted to produce what is demanded by the markets, both in terms of volume and categories of the farm products.

3.2 It will undertake to reduce production costs through promoting the use of proper technology in production. It will also provide necessary factors for production, especially by providing sufficient credit for farmers at fair interest rates.

3.3 It will support and promote the expansion of agroindustries with a view to improving farm products prices.

3.4 It will speed up agricultural land reform with a view to benefiting landless farmers. It will also carry out land classification with a view to improving production.

3.5 It will expand overseas markets for farm products, and accelerate export expansion in keeping with seasonal production.

3.6 It will assign bodies to be in charge of planning, supervising, and solving problems concerning production, diversification, and marketing. This will enable all concerned authorities, especially farmers and farmers' organizations, to have their say in making a decision.

4. The government will improve the administration and management of natural resources, land, water, forestry, and fishery so that development continues along with conservation.

5. The government will continue to attach importance to rural development by expanding the coverage area and increasing rural development activities, as well as strengthening the bureaucratic system and outlook of civil servants to be compatible with new lines of rural development whose objective is to enable the people to help themselves eventually and to strengthen organizations of the people in the rural area and expand the role of such organizations in development.

6. It will support industries which use domestic resources as basic raw materials in order to widely generate jobs by stressing use of technologies to transform raw materials into finished products which have higher market prices. It will accelerate the providing of utility services. It will support credit extensions to enable industrial investment to spread to the regions which are the sources of labor and agricultural produce.

7. It will solve problems in the ore mining industry by reducing the financial burden of operators and supporting the metallurgical industry to enhance th pre-export value of ores. It will continue to conduct mineral surveys and support domestic energy production so as to reduce imports. At the same time it will also support surveys and development of new, highly-valued ores for the purpose of spreading industries to the rural areas.

8. Investment promotion policy and measures will be improved by accelerating the capability in technological development toward making Thailand self-reliant in technology. The government will also promote industries which produce basic machinery and industries which employ advanced technology that lead to industrial development.

9. The government will increase the capability and improve services in the transportation and telecommunications sectors in every way in the interest of flexibility, convenience, speed, and safety in order to support the development of tourism for commercial purposes and develop specific areas. It will maintain and improve the current land transportation networks and links unconnected networks. The railway system will be made more efficient and will be connected with other forms of transportation, particularly river transportation. Thai ships will be used to provide more services. Air transportation will be developed with the aim of making Thailand a regional air cargo center. The government will develop the telecommunications system through the use of modern technology and will encourage the role of the private sector in investment and participation to sufficiently serve the increased demands.

10. The government will earnestly develop the tourism industry in order to generate more jobs and earn more foreign exchange through systematic tourism promotion and accelerating measures regulating the tourism business and relevant safety, as well as increasing investment in tourism marketing and enacting laws regulating tourism-related businesses. It will develop new tourist sites and preserve historic sitese as tourist spots. It will make the customs and immigration systems more efficient and convenient for tourists.

11. It will improve the state financial administration system by amending the tax structure to facilitate all aspects of economic expansion, particularly in the areas of export, production, and employment. It will improve tax collection for speed, accuracy, and fairness in order to avoid collection of taxes retroactively.

On expenditures of funds, the government will administer the state expenditures efficiently both in the government and state enterprise sectors. It will make allocations, particularly investment and economic development allocations, in such ways that will generate broad economic recovery. It will reduce the country's debt burdens by modernizing its systems and methods and by keeping new borrowings within the country's capabilities.

12. The government will develop and strengthen the monetary system to promote widespread domestic savings. It will improve efficiency and develop financial markets, particularly interest rates and monetary mechanisms making them flexible and conducive to investment and to generating jobs. It will systematically develop domestic financial markets and the system of financial institutions, particularly a strong securities market. It will earnestly suppress economic crimes.

13. The government will improve efficiency in the administration of state enterprises, making them self-reliant and income generating sources for the country. In state enterprises which provide public utilities and services, they will be improved to be able to concretely expand their services, give speedy services, or cut service fees for the benefit of cutting production and service costs and thus enable Thai products to compete effectively abroad. State enterprises which no longer require state administration will be dissolved, will be allowed to go into joint ventures with the private sector, or will be allowed to be competely administered by the private sector.

Social Policy

The government desires to create social justice and raise the people's quality of life in the education and health care development areas and by giving assurances for security in their lives. It seeks to develop and promote women so they will play a greater role in national development and to develop children mentally and physically. It encourages people to become moral citizens and preserve the national culture. The policy is as follows:

1. Social Justice

1.1 The government will preserve the sanctity of the law and eliminate social inequalities.

1.2 It will improve the administration of organizations, law, and regulations, as well as buildings, equipment, and modern techniques to enable the courts to perform speedily and fairly.

1.3 It will develop control over the behavior of parolees and criminal suspects to protect society from crime. It will help people who committed unintentional wrongdoings or misdemeanors to have an opportunity to reform as good citizens without having to serve jail terms. It will encourage society and communities to participate in monitoring and corecting the behavior of wrongdoers and criminal suspects.

1.4 The government will eliminate exploitation among people, it will amend laws which are unfair or unsuitable for the current situation so that they will serve as a mechanism for maintaining peace and order in the country and creating justice for people.

2. Education

2.1 The government will administer education to develop the quality of life of people of all ages and sexes by placing emphasis on equality and spreading educational opportunities to youths, people in poverty stricken, remote, and slum area as well as invalids. It will encourage religious institutions to have an increased role in teaching morals and ethics to people.

2.2 It will administer education in various levels in the following ways. At the preprimary level it will expand kindergarten education in rural areas. At the secondary level it will encourage more students to continue secondary education. In the vocational and university levels, it will attach importance to producing manpower to meet demands in national development and job markets as well as resources and conditions prevalent in various localities. It will produce quality teachers who have sound morals.

2.3 It will promote research that could be used in solving the country's problems and developing the people's quality of life. It will develop quality manpower in science and technology in appropriate number to meet new technologies.

2.4 The government will improve the structure and the administrative system of every type and level of education for the sake of unity and coordination both in the policy and practical aspects. It will encourage educational institutions and agencies to use common resources for the sake of optimum efficiency in education administration. It will delegate authority in education administration to educational institutions so that education will meet local needs. it will give communities more opportunity to participate in educational development.

2.5 It will encourage educational institutions and agencies to act as centers for education, occupation, art, culture, sport, health, recreation and information services to students and people.

2.6 The government will encourage the private sector to participate in education administration, with the state aiding private educational institutions to upgrade education and encouraging financial institutions to aid such institutions.

2.7 It will encourage teachers and civil servants at every level and type of education to receive recognition for the sake of advancement, good morale and security in their occupation.

2.8 It will establish a fund for supporting the education of poverty stricken children in remote and slum areas.

3. Health Care Development

3.1 The government will provide basic health care services to people in both the cities and rural areas. These services include vaccination, promotion of good health, rudimentary health care at their localities, as well as combined traditional health care and the health care given by the basic health care program to enable people to care for themselves in normal as well as emergency situations.

3.2 It will give earnest and continued support to basic health care activities both as provided by the state and the private sector. The state-provided activities will be free of charge to elderly citizens, children and low income earners.

3.3 The government will improve the quality and expand services of hospitals and health stations as well as enlarge the capabilities of health stations in areas which are highly populated with the view to develop them into tambon hospitals. It will arrange a system for transferring patients in order to better respond to the wishes of the people in various localities.

3.4 It will speed up education of health care personnel in conformity with the expansion of health care services in rural areas through cooperation with universities and government and private hospitals.

3.5 It will mobilize the cooperation of personnel in government and private hospitals to make them understand the country's health plans with a view to achieving more cooperation from the private sector and to better coordinating private sector-government health care cooperation.

3.6 It will promote research and development to enable government agencies and the private sector to produce equipment, tools, and medicines used in the medical science and health care fields; government agencies will not be permitted to monopolize work in this field.

3.7 It will develop a health care system throughout the country so as to be able to blend the goals of government health care agencies, other relevant agencies, and the private sector so that the people will receive better health care in normal situations and so that there will be ready preparations to cope with emergencies.

3.8 It will improve health education with the aid of new technology, the media and formal and informal education to enable students, particulary in the elementary and secondary levels, to know how to prevent themselves from getting diseases, improve their health, and give themselves basic treatment.

3.9 Consumer protection work will be carried out with safety and fairness to consumers in mind. It will help people economize by testing products, protecting against and suppressing wrongful sale and advertisement of food, medicine, agricultural goods and other products.

3.10 It will promote physical exercise and sports for good health and the people's recreation.

3.11 It will prevent and treat diseases which are dangerous to people of various occupations or age groups. It will accelerate a program for preventing accidents and natural disasters and for treating their victims. It will organize a rehabilitation program for invalids so that they will be able to earn a living.

3.12 It will educate and supoort medical science and health care personnel to have high capabilities for exploring new grounds at home and abroad for tackling health problems.

3.13 It will accelerate the provision of clean drinking water for city and upcountry communities.

3.14 It will speed up family planning service and encourage good nutrition and health for mothers and children.

3.15 It will promote voluntary health insurance.

4. Security in Life and Occupation

4.1 The government will encourage the establishment of institutes for promoting various occupations.

4.2 It will speed up the formation and improvement of centers for agricultural tools to serve farmers.

4.3 It will promote skilled labor development in order to raise the economic status of workers. The government will closely cooperate with institutions representing workers in formulating labor protection policies and resolving labor problems, as well as protecting welfare and providing social security for workers.

4.4 It will speed up the setting up of measures to help Thai workers abroad by providing advice and protecting workers from deceit and exploitation by employers. It will encourage the private sector to place jobs abroad for Thai workers.

4.5 It will speed up improvement of laws, regulations and organizations related to labor to improve efficiency in serving workers.

4.6 It will accelerate assistance to low income earners with housing problems by finding communities and appropriate housing for them both by the government and the private sector.

4.7 It will encourage establishment of child care facilities that have good standards so that children will be properly cared for, thus enabling poor parents to be able to work to earn their incomes.

5. Women's Development

5.1 The government will promote and coordinate agencies of the government and private sector to enable them to carry out women's development projects from the local to the national levels and review and amend the law to eliminate discrimination against women and ensure their equality.

5.2 The government will expeditiously provide education and training for women so that they can be more active in the development of their families and of society, the economy, and politics.

5.3 Measures for the protection of women in the labor force will be improved so as to prevent unfair exploitation.

6. Youth Development

6.1. The government will accelerate the expansion of services for children and youths in the poverty-stricken rural and densely populated areas. The physical and mental health of youths and children will be promoted.

6.2. The government will expeditiously implant the right ethical and religious values in children and youths so that they can be morally disciplined, honest, industrious, frugal, and self-controlled and learn how to live in harmony with others.

6.3. Welfare and medical treatment will be provided for children and youths with physical, mental, and emotional problems. The government will help children and youths with such health problems develop in accordance with their individual conditions and protect working children and youths so that they will be free from exploitation and both physical and mental mistreatment.

6.4. The government will encourage children and youths to use their leisure time in ways beneficial to themselves and society and to acquire vocational skills so that they can be self-reliant and contribute to the prosperity of society as a whole.

6.5. Children and youths will be motivated to realize the significance of the nation and national identity as well as the democratic form of administration with the king as the head of state, their duties in the development of the country, and the country's status in the international community.

6.6. The government will fully develop the physical and mental abilities of children and youths so that they can be a major force in the development of the country.

6.7. The government will encourage children and youths to develop an interest in sports and will provide opportunities for them to engage in sports activities to upgrade the standard of Thai athletes to the international level.

7. Arts, Culture, and Religion

7.1. The government will conserve, promote, and propagate Thai arts and culture so that the people will appreciate and be aware of their significance to the national identity.

7.2. The government will promote freedom of faith, restraint, and unity among followers of different religions to bring about the development of ethics and culture in the country.

7.3. The government will encourage the people to follow strictly the path of ethics and morality. Government officials will be instructed to set good examples for the people to follow.

8. Town, Community, and Environment

8.1. City planning will be accelerated and implemented faithfully.

8.2. The government will accelerate the development of towns and communities in accordance with the economic conditions in each locality and city planning.

8.3. The government will accelerate the improvement of the environment so that the people can live free of pollution and enjoy good physical and mental health.

8.4. The government will provide the people facilities for exercise and recreation including public parks in towns and communities, and expand national parks and wildlife sanctuaries.

Science, Technology, and Energy Policy

1. Science and technology will be regarded as important factors for the social and economic development in the country. Scientific and technical research work will be continuously supported and aimed at solving social, economic, and national security problems. The government will create an atmosphere conducive to the research and development programs to be carried out by the private sector.

2. Bodies in charge of executing research and development work will be further encouraged to learn and mobilize scientific and technological knowledge from both domestic and external sources and cooperate with the private sector in carrying out research and development projects in specific areas in a complete cycle from production to marketing and to revise the relevant laws, rules, and regulations.

3. The methods and mechanism for collecting, analyzing, and disseminating production and marketing information will be developed and modernized so that technology suitable for conditions in the country can be effectively provided for the private sector and technocrats.

4. The application of science and technology will be earnestly encouraged and promoted to increase production efficiency; increase the value of industrial, agricultural and energy products; and benefit the management of the environment, natural resources, and national defense.

5. Bodies in charge of energy will be developed so that they can function effectively. The government will promote the practice of austerity in energy consumption, develop all forms of energy available in the country, and stimulate private sector investment in the energy industry as well as set values on all types of energy that have been used in the country according to the economic situation.

6. The government will coordinate and improve the administration and management systems for natural resources and the environment in conformity with the country's economic and social development to ensure the maximum benefit for agriculture, industry, commerce, and the quality of life of the people.

7. The government will mobilize forces from all parties to preserve and develop continuously and systematically natural resources and the environment and encourage the private sector to play a greater role in the development of natural resources and the environment.

Besides these issues, Thailand is still confronted with the refugee problem. The government still must take action to relieve and eventually eliminate this problem on the basis of humanitarian principles, sovereignty, and the stability of the country. The government will continue to take both diplomatic and political actions to move the United Nations and international organizations as well as friendly countries to share the responsibility, which is now being shouldered by Thailand and the Thai people, so that they will take more refugees from Thailand and pay more of the costs.

Meanwhile, narcotics production and trafficking remain an important problem. The government has, therefore, adopted a policy of taking drastic action to prevent and suppress this problem. At the same time, the government will cooperate with the private sector to provide and expand medical treatment for drug addicts so that these unfortunate people can correct their mistakes and become good citizens of the country.

Respected and Honorable President and honorable members of Parliament:

I wish to ensure you that the government will honestly administer the affairs of the country and strictly implement this policy statement to bring progress to the country and peace, order, and well-being to the people. Thank you.

Government Under 'Heavy Fire'

BK280100 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 28 Aug 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] The Government came under heavy fire from the Opposition and its own quarters following the announcement of its policy statement yesterday.

Community Action Party [CAP] leader Bunchu Rotchanasathian said the policies outlined were too general and without clear-cut goals and priorities.

Mr Bunchu said the promise to "revitalise the economy and create stability"P was vague. "The Government says it wants to improve the country's production and marketing and solve poverty, debt and unemployment problems," he said.

"But it has failed to stage its goals and the timeframe."

The former deputy premier who handled economic policy in the Prem I Government singled out unemployment, which now affects about six million people.

The Government failed to say how many jobless people would get work under its programmes, in what areas, and when.

Similarly, the Government neglected to say how the repayment of debts -- brought about by overborrowing -- would be accomplished in the next six months or one year, nor indeed how the revenue would be generated to reduce that burden.

The Government could only generate more revenue by selling loss-ridden state enterprises, he said, warning that that would aggravate unemployment.

The former Social Action Party member was certain the government would continue to borrow as it had in the past if the programmes detailed in the statement are to be carried out.

Without setting goals or targets, the Government had failed to commit itself to anything, thus rendering evaluations of success or failure impossible. Likewise, it would be impossible for the Prime Minister himself to monitor the performance of each minister, he claimed.

Turning to plunging farm prices, Mr Bunchu, who was the architect of a paddy price guarantee programme, said the Government's "Free-market" policy would be useless as long as farmers remained without bargaining power. To give them some bargaining power, he said, the Government must introduce paddy market and storage facilities at the tambon level to allow them to put off sales at the start of the harvest when prices were too low. Cheap credits should be made available to farmers, he added.

The CAP leader said cheap loans for housing should also be made available to stimulate the economy and create jobs.

Progressive leader Uthai Phimchaichon said national development had been retarded by flaws in the political system, which has yet to become a fully-fledged democracy. The former speaker criticised Prime Minister Gen Prem Tinsulanon for failing to adhere to the party system in the post-election period by accepting renomination.

Other Opposition and Government MPs stressed the need for the Government to take more serious action in tackling the economic problems.

Chat Thai MP Bunkoet Nakdi asked the Government to seriously try to increase farm prices. Noting the Govenrment's stated intention to reduce production costs, the Surin MP said it appeared the state-run Bank for Agriculture and Agricultural Cooperatives was selling fertilisers at higher prices than local markets. That was not a way to reduce production costs, he added.

The Government should expand public utilities to every part of the country, he said, cutting the Electricity Generating Authority of Thailand, which he claimed had failed to provide a sufficient service, particularly in remote areas.

National Democratic MP Charat Makkanaso doubted the Government could solve economic problems, particularly in view of its policy to promote free trade.

The Udon Thani MP expressed concern over unemployment and said the Government should help workers seeking jobs abroad by paying in advance their expenses for passports and medical examinations.

UDP MP Prem Malakun said past Prem governments had failed to stamp out corruption, particularly that which had drained funds for job creation and development.

The Uttaradit MP called on Gen Prem to lend an ear to the Opposition and not listen only to the people close to him.

Social Action Party MP Wiwatchai na Kalasin said the Government's policy was eloquent but he would like to see it implemented in a serious manner.

Ruam Thai MP Chaloemphon Sanitwongchai said the policy did not specify the means and the timeframe to solve economic problems. The statement contained only principles. The present method of tax collection was ineffective, said the Udon Thani MP, urging the Government to take more interest in helping farmers get rid of their debts.

Nakhon Sawan MP Prathuang Kamprakop said the policy was vague and bereft of direction from start to finish.

In the field of science and technology, said the UDP MP, there was conflict between industrial promotion programmes and the environment agency. Mr Prathuang said the failure of the tantalum industry in Phuket Province was an example.

Prachakon Thai MP Mrs Yenchit Rephiphat said the doubted the Government's policy of giving women equality. The Bangkok MP said there had been sweet words and nothing else. Mrs Yenchit noted that past and present Prem governments had never seen women in the Cabinet, and suggested that it might be because the Prime Minister did not like women.

She said she saw no clear policies to promote youth and children. She asked the Government to take more interest in the problem of drug addiction among youths and children.

Ruam Thai MP Chaloemphon Sanitwongchai said the Government should emphasise vocational education to prepare graduates to immediately go into employment. The Government should further elimimate the trend of wanting to join government service only.

Labour Democratic Party MP Somkhit Sisangkhom said the Government had failed to address the root cause of economic problems, which is the economic structure.

The Udon Thani MP said the country's economic power was in the hands of abut 500 families who controlled every aspect of the economy, including banking, wholesaling, export and industry.

Col Somkhit said: "The situation is that whoever has the longest hands will reap the biggest benefits, like a big fish which eats a smaller fish. As a result, the majority of the people stand to suffer."

Further on Criticism

BK280232 Bangkok THE NATION in English 28 Aug 86 p 3

[Text] Opposition politicians yesterday targeted their criticisms of the government's policy on the lack of priorities and specific measures, some of them attacking the fundamental policy of free trade and private enterprise in the Thai rural context.

It was not until the joint session of Parliament reconvened after lunch, and reverted to open session, that the debate turned directly to the policy statement. Even so some of the topics covered during the morning's closed session were aired briefly.

For most of the afternoon and evening, the debate was conducted in the absence of Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanon. His ministers replied to criticism later in the afternoon, many of them stressing that it needs time to develop broad policy intentions into specific action plans, from which targets can be set.

The leader of the Community Action Party [CAP], Bunchu Rotchanasathian, launched the broadest attack on the government's economic policy. He said there was not one single assurance contained in the policy read out by Prem yesterday morning about how much the government is going to achieve.

He noted that the government promised to bring about economic recovery while maintaining economic stability, to restructure the economy, to reduce poverty, to reduce employment and to cut its debt. But, he asked, by how much will poverty be reduced -- will the government guarantee minimum incomes of 2,500 baht per month?

How much unemployment will be cut from the three million out of work at present, he went on, and what sort of jobs would be created? When will debt be reduced, by how much, and where will the money come from?

"I'm not sure how unsteady the economy is, but I know that if the government does not deal with the causes of the problems and cares only to restructure the economy, it will take a long time to solve the problems -- perhaps longer than this government's term," Bunchu said.

He suggested that minimum prices should be guaranteed for various crops: 3,000 baht per tonne for paddy, 3 baht per kg for maize, 75 stang per kg for cassava root, 8 baht per kg for soybeans, 450 baht per tonne for cane.

He said free trade allows traders to depress prices and prevent farmers from enjoying better incomes. Therefore the price guarantees are necessary, he said, until local market networks and local storage facilities can be created after which free trade can be allowed to take effect.

The former deputy prime minister in charge of the economy in the first Prem government went on to say that immediate measures to tackle unemployment should be implemented -- using local labour to dig canals and improve the irrigation system, and providing housing credit that would give people homes and boost the construction industry.

He criticized the government's fiscal and monetary policy for lacking real measures of increasing revenue other than the "old" argument of selling off state enterprises, which, he warned, would cause even more unemployment.

And in his 30-minute speech, he criticized the government for ignoring plans to build an inland port in his constituency, Nakhon Sawan, despite the economies of water transprotation. Later, Communications Minister Banhan Sinlapa-acha assured him that the ministry will pursue the project.

Progressive Party leader Uthai Phimchaichon placed his emphasis on political aspects, blaming the poor state of the economy on poor political administration. He said there is no tangible evidence of the government's commitment to its stated intention of strengthening democracy and the party system, adding that local government should be reformed and provincial governors should be elected.

He criticized Commerce Minister Surat Osathanukhro for over-hastily signing the new agreement with the EEG on tapioca exports and depriving Thai farmers of the full benefit of what he called "Thailand's golden crop." Surat later defended the signing on the grounds that it provided Thailand with a secure market for tapioca.

Tapioca, rice and other areas of agriculture featured in much of the debate, and later the minister, Gen Han Linanon, spelt out some details of his intentions, while repeating that more time would be needed to set targets.

He described the agricultural council composing representatives of the four groups involved in production, processing and trading and the government, and said he intended to introduce legislation to alter land tenure from rent to purchase by instaliments.

And his comment that marketing would have to be handled by the Commerce Ministry was supported by Surat, who said the two ministries would work closely in every area, despite the fact that the ministers come from different parties.

Banyat Banthatthan, minister of science, technology and energy, managed to reply to accusations made by Samak Suntharawet, leader of the Prachkon Thai Party during the morning's closed session, Banyat denied that he was implicated in any way with a marijuana scandal during his tenure as deputy interior minister between 1980 and 1983.

Banyat complained that Samak persisted in making the charges despite former minister Sitthi Chirarot having cleared Banyat's name. Banyat said Samak only raised the subject when he was in opposition.

Health Minister Thoetphone Chaiyanan also denied accusations made by Samak in the closed session, saying it was not true that rural people like to use certain medicines because they are addictive. He said the ministry was satisfied that the medicines are safe. Samak had said that the Cabinet contained two makers of addictive drugs presumably referring to Deputy Prime Minister Phichai Rattakun, and Commerce Minister Surat.

Later, Somkhit Sisangkhom, leader of the Democratic Labor Party, criticized the composition of the Cabinet saying there was no need to have five deputy prime ministers and thereby depriving ministries of the five's potential as ministers. He said the government's economic policy ignored the true structore of the Thai economy which is dominated by minority vested interests.

At 6.55 pm, almost five hours after the afternoon session started, a Democrat MP, Suchat Tancharoen from Chachoengsao, proposed that the debate should be closed. MPs and senators agreed by a majority vote, although opposition MPs protested that they had not been given sufficient opportunity to make their views heard.

CHU HUY MAN ATTENDS AIR DEFENSE PARTY CONGRESS

BK281323 Hanoi QUAN DOI NHAN DAN in Vietnamese 6 Aug 86 p 1

[Text] Recently, Comrade Chu Huy Man, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau, deputy secretary of the Military Commission of the party Central Committee, and director of the Political General Department directly inspected preparations for the party congress and attended the congress of the Hong Linh air defense group's party organization. After hearing a report by the standing committee of the group's party committee on the situation of the party organization, the tasks already accomplished, the results obtained in preparing for the party congress, and the group's revolutionary mass movement in support of the Sixth National Party Congress, Comrade Chu Huy Man commended the efforts of the Hong Linh Group's party organization to study and seriously implement the instructions of the party Central Committee Secretariat and the Standing Committee of the Military Commission of the party Central Committee as well as the directives of the Political General Department on holding party congresses at all levels.

Comrade Chu Huy Man welcomed the opinions expressed by various party members. These opinions reflected their high sense of responsibility, their concrete contributions to the party leadership, and their frank views based on their legitimate concerns over the common cause. Their suggestions helped promote a firm attitude among all levels in their struggle against the negative aspects in the party and society and showed their attention to cultivating the capabilities of the younger generation in the cause of socialist construction and the defense of the socialist homeland.

Concerning the leadership of the Hong Linh group's party organization, Comrade Chu Huy Man stressed the need to uphold the spirit of self-reliance in resolving concrete problems, thereby ensuring better conditions for combat readiness, combat, and training. He also pointed out the need to increase food production to guarantee the livelihood of soldiers. He said that products must be used reasonably and sparingly and distributed fairly. At the same time, it is necessary to promote the management of education and the training of party members, to build pure and strong party organizations, and to consolidate and strengthen the relations between party members and the masses.

AQUINO, MISUARI TO MEET IN MINDANAO 'NEXT WEEK'

HK290515 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0400 GMT 29 Aug 86

[Text] President Corazon Aquino will meet with MNLF leader Nur Misuari next week in Mindanao. The venue for the meeting may be Jolo, Cotabato or Zamboanga. Misuari, who is expected to arrive in the Philippines any day now, will attend the Bangsa Moro [Moro Nation] Congress in Jolo on Sep 2-5. The meeting between Aquino and Misuari was approved during a closed-door meeting last night. Last week Mrs Aquino's brother-in-law Butz Aquino went to Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, to convince Misuari to return to the Philippines to discuss the issue of peace in Mindanao with the government. But it is not known if Misuari wants a separate or autonomous Mindanao.

Making 'Extraordinary Effort'

HK281334 Hong Kong AFP in English 1330 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Manila, Aug 28 (AFP) -- President Corazon Aquino agreed Thursday to meet with Moslem separatist chief Nur Misuari on Mindanao Island early next month, a government spokesman said here. "The president has agreed to go to Mindanao" during or immediately after a Moslem congress on Jolo Island next week, Mrs Aquino's brother-in-law Agapito Aquino told reporters following a meeting between the president and security officials. Mr Misuari, who is living in exile in Saudi Arabia, would return with a safe conduct pass to the Philippines to attend the September 2-5 congress, Mr Aquino said. But Mr Aquino would not reveal the exact date and location of the talks on the 14-year-old Moslem problem in the south, which he said would hopefully lead to actual negotiations. He said the military was "very cautious" and had expressed reservations over the safety of Mrs Aquino in Mindanao, the country's second largest island which is troubled with both communist and Muslim insurgencies.

Presidential spokeswoman Alice Villadolid told reporters the head of state was making an "extraordinary effort" in agreeing to meet with the rebel leader. The projected peace meeting followed Mr Aquino's talks with Mr Misuari in Jeddah last week, during which he acted as Mrs Aquino's special emissary.

Mrs Aquino, fresh from a visit to Moslem Indonesia earlier this week, said upon arrival Wednesday that whe was prepared to "do anything that will bring about peace" and agreed to provide a safe conduct pass to Mr Misuari. Attempts by the past government of Ferdinand Marcos to solve the Moslem rebellion at the negotiating table collapsed in 1977. Mr Aquino said the government was prepared to grant autonomy to the Moslems, which is to be enshrined in a new constitution now being drafted by a 48-man panel appointed by Mrs Aquino. Mr Aquino said he realized that mr Misuari was a hardliner for secession, but added that he had been assured by the MNLF chief that he "will leave it to the will of the Bangsa Moro people" to decide on the autonomy offer.

The MNLF under Mr Misuari has been waging a bloody war for a "Bangsa Moro" homeland for the Moslem minority in Mindanao and other southern Philippine islands. Mr Aquino said two smaller MNLF factions were in contact with Mr Misuari and hoped to reach agreement on a common ground.

FORMER MNLF LEADER DENOUNCES 'NEW WARLORDS'

HK281302 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 28 Aug 86 p 12

[Text] Cotabato City -- A former leader of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) has denounced the emergence of new warlords in Region 12 (Central Mindanao).

Regional Assemblyman Odin T. Abdullah, who was known as Commander 'Arafat under the MNLF Kotawato Revolutionary Command said that in Maguindanao alone, newly appointed government officials are roaming around with their heavily-armed bodyguards while known pro-Marcos officials have been divested of their firearms.

In his report to Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, Abdullah recommended the strict implementation of the firearms ban in the region.

He cited the recent attack by MNLF rebels under the Nur Misuari faction on a government resettlement project in Talayan, Maguindanao. Four Muslim civilians were killed while scores were wounded when an MNLF company led by Commander Tantawan attacked the village.

Tantawan's men burned 40 houses and caused the mass evacuation of 100 families.

Abdullah also condemned the recent ambush of Maguindanao officer-in-charge Zacarias Candao, who is also the legal officer of the MNLF.

He said these attacks violate the agreed ceasefire between the government and the MNLF rebels.

COTABATO REFUGEES REACH 'ALARMING PROPORTIONS'

HK290731 Davao City PERYODIKO DABAW in English 12 Aug 86 pp 1, 8

[Excerpt] Polomolok, South Cotabato -- Evacuees from the three towns of Polomolok, T'boli and Tupi have reached alarming proportions this week as unsolved killings continue to mount despite a recent peace consultation by government and military officials last week.

At least two evacuee children died yesterday and many more are in danger of succumbing to diseases for lack of food and medical assistance. The number of evacuees has now reached about 1,371.

In a meeting conducted by the South Cotabato Alliance for Peace (SCAP) and the Provincial Peace and Order Council (PPOC), Kagawad Ulama Nilong of Polomolok disclosed that the evacuees from barangays Aplek and Estaw of T'boli town and Barrio Simbo of Tupi refused to return to their homes despite the assurance of the military.

The three towns have recently become the scene of an ongoing vendetta killings among Visayans, T'bolis and Muslims due to the spate of unsolved killings perpetrated by former members of the Civilian Home Defense Forces (CHDF)-turned T-boli bandits and former members of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF).

"Last July 18, a Visayan farmer, Manuel Solas along with his carabao was abducted by armed men and was unheard of ever since," Nilong said.

Armed men numbering more than 25 also herded and looted small time vendors of Koronadal Proper, Polomolok town, last July 19.

The group was identified by witnesses as belonging to Kumander Diego, a renegade MILF Commander and Kumander Kosoy, a T'boli bandit leader and former CHDF of T'boli town. [passage omitted]

20 KILLED IN FIRST MAJOR CEASE-FIRE VIOLATION

HK290349 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 28 Aug 86

[Text] Communist guerrillas violated the cease-fire agreement in northern Mindanao. The NPA guerrillas killed 15 army soldiers in an ambush in San Vicente in Davao del Norte. Five rebels were killed in the ensuing battle, including the ambush leader Amado Payot, alias commander Cesar. Cesar was among the rebel leaders who signed the cease-fire agreement with the military last August 14. The truce called for the cancellation of all armed action for an unspecified period. Northern Mindanao military chief of staff Colonel Roberto Manlongat said the NPA ambush was the first violation of the truce by the NPA. He said the rebels could have suffered many more casualties because they could have dragged with them their dead comrades in their retreat. Col Manlongat said the troops were on a mission to coordinate with local government officials concerning security.

NPA FACTION OPPOSES PEACE TALKS WITH GOVERNMENT

HK281208 Manila PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER in English 28 Aug 86 pp 1, 6

[Text] A mysterious group within the New People's Army denounced as "reformists" and "careerists" top leaders of the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP], who have decided to participate in ceasefire talks with the Aquino government.

The underground faction, which identifies itself as the NPA/Special Operation Group (SOG), accused top CPP leaders of "softpedalling the line of reformism which is a salami tactic of bringing capitulationism into its final stages."

The NPA/SOG's press statement, the second it issued the INQUIRER, would tend to confirm reports of a serious split within the rebel movement on the question of how to deal with President Aquino's initiative to peaceably settle the 17-year armed communist insurgency. "Reformism" and "careerism" are serious charges among communits who are supposed to be self-sacrificing revolutionaries.

The NPA general staff, however, said in an earlier press statement that its rank and file solidly supports the holding of peace negotiations. The rebel high command likewise denied the existence of an "NPA/SOG", saying the group was merely conjured up by "rightists" out to sabotage the talks set the stage for a military takeover.

The NPA general staff's denial, however, prompted the NPA/SOG to declare its coming out in the open "to signal the dynamic contest of political leadership in the underground."

The NPA/SOG said in its press statement that it "was born in the first crucial years after the re-establishment of the CPP and the consequential reorganization of the NPA."

According to the NPA/SOG, it "worked both in the party and in the army as a corp of members who were imbued with the spirit and principle of revolutionary democracy to safeguard the gates of free ideas and a strict observance of due process of law."

According to the NPA/SOG, the NPA general staff was formed only after new leaders took over in the aftermath of the February revolution from "those allegedly incorrect in their boycott position."

GOVERNMENT, MILITARY DISAGREE ON TRUCE GUIDELINES

HK271518 Quezon City ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA in English 27 Aug 86 pp 1, 7

[By Staff member Benjie Guevarra]

[Text] The government panel in peace talks with communist dissidents is at odds with the military top brass over President Aquino's policy towards the proposed safe conduct guidelines of the National Democratic Front [NDF].

Presidential Emissary Ramon Mitra Jr. disclosed yesterday that the government team has conflicting recommendations on the NDF-proposed guidelines from those presented by Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Armed Forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos.

"We are still ironing out certain problems since the government panel has its own recommendations while the military leaders also have theirs," Mitra told Malaya.

He declined to reveal, however, what the President's policy was towards the NDF proposals nor the reported differences between the positions of the government team and that of the military.

Mitra, who is minister of agriculture and food, said the government panel had met several times with Enrile and Ramos since he conferred late last week with the President on the proposed safety provisions submitted by NDF spokesmen Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel last Aug 18.

He expressed confidence, though, that such problems will soon be threshed out, pointing out that there has yet to be a single case wherein the President's decision was not followed by the military.

The minister said earlier he would pull out from the ongoing negotiations in case the military violates any agreement to be forged by both panels.

Mitra also declined to identify the salient features of the NDF proposals for the safety of its panel during and after the negotiations, saying that he was adopted a "less talk, less mistake" policy.

But government audit chief Teofisto Guingona Jr., who temporarily replaced the ailing Human Rights Commissioner Jose Diokno, told newsmen last week that the proposed safety conditions include the "unhampered mobility" of the communist panel as well as their aides and bodyguards during the course of the talks.

He also said the NDF demanded immunity from criminal and political charges for their negotiators even after the completion of the ongoing negotiations meant to end the 17-year insurgency problems.

Mitra did not comment on Guingona's apparent breach of agreement with the NDF regarding the public disclosures of their deliberations, except to say that the COA [Commission on Audit] chairman may have revealed the proposed provisions to newsmen "in confidence."

Citing the provisions of the safe conduct passes issued by Ramos to Zumel, Ocampo and the third NDF emissary Carolina Malay-Ocampo, Mitra said the military has already guaranteed their freedom from military arrest or harassment anywhere they go during the duration of the talks.

He added that the safe conduct passes also covered the NDF spokesmen's lawyers, aides and bodyguards.

REBEL 'PREFERENCE' FOR DIOKNO COULD DELAY TALKS

HK281403 Quezon City ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA in English 28 Aug 86 p 7

[Text] Government negotiator Ramon Mitra Jr. said yesterday the apparent "preference" of the National Democratic Front [NDF] emissaries to negotiate with ailing government panel chief Jose Diokno could delay the ongoing efforts to end the 17-year insurgency problem.

NDF spokesmen Antonio Zumel and Satur Ocampo were quoted in several published reports as saying that they would prefer to discuss "substantive" issues upon the return of Diokno.

Diokno, who is currently undergoing medical treatment in the United States, is expected to return home in mid-September.

Reacting to a MALAYA inquiry on the apparent commitment of the communist spokesmen to Diokno, Mitra said it was not really a commitment, but "an expression of preference."

He said the "preference" may be expected, owing to Diokno's stature as a nationalist-civil libertarian and his being Ocampo's long-time friend and lawyer, but Mitra feared "the problem with this precondition is it could delay the ceasefire negotiations."

He stressed, however, that for the government panel, "personality is not important and is, in fact, subordinate to the position of the government."

The government team is reportedly conferring with the Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Armed Forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos on the President's policy on the NDF-proposed safe conduct provisions.

But the panel, which Mitra said had received instructions from the President before she left for a three-day, two-nation visit Sunday, is said to be at odds with the military top brass over certain safety guidelines.

Mitra, who is minister for agriculture and food, also corrected Ocampo's statement that "the Aquino government speaks through many voices" which appeared in the latest issue of LIBERATION, the official organ of the rebel movement. "That is not true," he said, "the government speaks only through the President."

Military authorities yesterday said communist-led insurgents have repeatedly violated their own "policy statement" by staging attacks against "immobile" military installations and detachments at a time when ceasefire talks have began.

A statement released by the Armed Forces of the Philippines public information office said the rebel New People's Army, military arm of the Communisit Party of the Philippines, has mounted attacks against stationary military structures whey they earlier pledged to take only "defense action" against the military.

The statement said this was the pronouncement of communist panel negotiator Satur Ocampo in an interview with a Manila newspaper before the ceasefire negotiations seeking to end the 17-year insurgency reeled-off.

SATUR OCAMPO INTERVIEWED ON CEASE-FIRE TALKS

HK290808 Hong Kong AFP in English 0752 GMT 29 Aug 86

[By Roberto Coloma]

[Text] Manila, Aug 29 (AFP) -- The communist rebel panel in peace talks with the Philippine Government has begun tapping staff members, security men and expert advisers for full-scale negotiations, panel leader Satur Ocampo said here. Formal cease-fire talks may start soon if President Corazon Aquino signs a memorandum granting his panel and aides immunity from military attack, arrest or harassment during the process, Mr Ocampo said Thursday in his first interview with a Western news agency.

"We are serious in a big way," he told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE in the interview at a suburban Manila home close to a military camp, where bursts of automatic rifle fire from soldiers in training pierced the night air. He said also his group was looking for a suitable place for a Manila office.

Sources in leftist groups here confirmed that the National Democratic Front (NDF), which represents the insurgents and allied underground groups in talks with the Aquino government, had begun recruiting staff and security men.

Mrs Aquino, who returned Wednesday from visits to Indonesia and Singapore, has received a draft memorandum on "safe conduct" from Mr Ocampo, including the NDF plan to set up an office, and may act on it soon, officials have said. The rebels are not satisfied with a handwritten safe-conduct pass issued by Armed Forces chief General Fidel Ramos, carried by Mr Ocampo in case of trouble with law enforcers in his daily movements here. Mr Ocampo said that if Mrs Aquino agreed to the safe-conduct memorandum, the next step would be for both sides to hammer out an agenda for negotiations.

Mr Ocampo has met separately with government negotiators Jose Diokno, a presidential human rights investigator, and Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra. Both sides expect to meet again shortly. The NDF accuses Gen Ramos and Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile of trying to sabotage Mrs Aquino's efforts by casting doubt on the rebels' sincerity in entering into the first peace talks since the insurgency begin 17 years ago. The officials deny this and profess full support for Mrs Aquino's efforts. The president and her cease-fire negotiators are publicly confident of full backing from the military leaders in the peace talks and any settlement. The NDF is dominated by the banned Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and its military wing the New People's Army (NPA), which is variously estimated at present to have 16,000 to 22,000 armed regulars nationwide.

Mr Ocampo, who heads the three-man NDF panel that he says may be expanded later, said the NDF office could be "in a religious house, an apartment building, it could be in a private hourse." The other members of the NDF panel are Mr Campo's wide Carolina and NDF spokesman Antonio Zumel. Mr Ocampo said they were already consulting lawyers for expert advice during the current preliminary talks with emissaries of Mrs Aquino, and may seek help from economists and other consultants when the substantive talks start. Mrs Aquino has been seeking a political settlement with communists and Moslem rebels since a popular revolt in February installed her in office.

Mr Ocampo, a youthful looking 47, was jailed by deposed president Ferdinand Marcos, but escaped from military custody while on furlough in May 1985. Mr Ocampo told AFP that Mrs Aquino should not look at the peace talks as a matter of rebels surrendering or returning to normal life, but as a means of striking an agreement on dealing with national issues in a manner that would convince the NDF to stop fighting the government. Among the issues he cited were land reform, the U.S. military bases the left is pressing Aquino to remove, and the national economic program, which the rebels say must be freed from the control of foreign nations and banks.

Observers say talks on these points, plus the NDF's proposed memorandum now with Mrs Aquino, could pose a ticklish problem because they may mean granting "belligerent status" to the NDF, which the military considers outlaws to be crushed if they don't give up. Mr Ocampo admitted that some rebels had become tired of fighting, but stressed that "this is not happening in a big way," and that "there is no evidence of a slackening of the fighting spirit of the people's army or of the people."

On the NPA's arms, he said there was "a mood, if you can call it a mood" in the NPA that "it could not surrender its arms even in the event of victory or in the event of a political settlement." But he added that "we are open to proposals on how this should be settled," adding that the armed forces of both sides may have to be included in the "essentially political" talks to determine their future.

He said there were no proposals from either side so far to include church figures in the talks, despite the mediation of the clergy in local truces, but agreed that a third party may be needed later to monitor a cease-fire. Mr Ocampo said that despite a struggle between conservatives and liberals in her coalition, the NDF believes "Mrs Aquino is still in control" and "we give considerable credence to her desire for peace."

MND DISCLOSES 3-STAGE COMMUNIST TAKEOVER PLOT

HK281236 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 28 Aug 86 p 16

[By reporter Joel D. Lacsamana]

[Text] The communist movement has begun implementing a three-phased strategy to seize power and gain government control by 1991, the Ministry of National Defense [MND] disclosed yesterday.

Part of that strategy is to use the ongoing peace talks as a smokescreen to intensify communists' recruitment and logistics build-up, according to an official assessment released by the MND to newsmen.

The assessment was culled from an official report of Brig. Gen. Isidro B. Agunod (retired), assistant secretary for plans and programs. He pointed out that the communists are implementing a so-called "post-revolution strategy," which is anchored on the deliberate delay of the peace talks. The strategy also envisions to lull the government and the people into complacency by feeding them false hopes that the negotiations will lead to lasting peace.

Agunod revealed that the strategy, which is divided into three parts, aims to press for the immediate confinement of the military in the barracks during peace negotiations, which may drag for a long time.

"Their (communists') main purpose in conducting the peace talks is to immobilize the military and keep it on the defensive, while they intensify both thir parliamentary and armed struggle in the countryside and in the urban areas," Agunod claimed.

Phase one of the communist post-revolution strategy started last March and "will last until the referendum on the new constitution in November 1986," Agunod said.

During this period, the communists, through the National Democratic Front, are expected to insist on being an active participant in the drafting of the insurgent returnee program, and keep the military out.

"The communists would do everything to create an impasse in the formulation of the returnee program as the absence of a definitive program could work in favor of the communists," Agunod explained. "The would-be returnees will have no choice but to remain with the movement, making their rank and file intact."

The absence of a clear-cut government policy on dissident returnees explains why the radicals in the movement have continued their firm grip on the majority of the moderates who would like to rejoin the new government after Marcos was driven out of the country, Agunod noted.

The Agunod report disclosed that phase one of the communists' post-revolution strategy includes:

--The current conduct of a propaganda campaign to picture Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, Armed Forces chief of Staff Gen Fidel V. Ramos, and the military as sabotaging the peace talks.

-- Charging the military with violations of human rights and blaming Enrile and Ramos under the principle of command responsibility.

-- Accusing the military of planning to seize power from President Corazon C. Aquino, while declaring that the communists will defend to the death the President.

-- Downplaying the ambuscades of soldiers as "just and rightful punishment of blood debts to the people," while declaring the Communist Party of the Philippines-New People's Army casualties as heroes or "victims of military salvagings."

-- Harnessing human rights groups to spearhead rallies and marches for the pull-out of soldiers from the rural areas and the disbandment of Civil Homes Defense Force units.

Phase two of the communist strategy, according to Agunod, revolves around the ratification or the rejection of the new constitution, being framed by the Constitutional Commission.

"If the provisions of the new constitution would turn out to be inimical to the interests of the communists. The strategy calls for the creation of new communist front organizations for the purpose of staging massive rallies and demonstrations, nationwide strikes and mass leaves of government employees," Agunod said.

"The communists would seize the initiative by calling for an immediate election of national and local leaders since a rejection by the people of the new constitution would be, in effect, a vote of no confidence in President Aquino and her government," he added.

If the new constitution, on the other hand, would be favorable to the communists, they will mobilize the local leaders and mass base in the "liberated" and "contested" areas to ratify the new constitution and prepare for the election next year, the Agunod report said.

The communists would seek to widen the "liberated" and "contested" areas in order to indoctrinate as many people as possible and to ensure the election of their candidates for the local government and national legislature," [no opening quotas as published] Agunod said.

By this time, the communist propaganda for the alleged abuses of the military and the ouster of Enrile and Ramos would have intensified, leading to the removal of the two from the Aquino government in October or November, or at least, before the local elections, he added.

Phase three of the strategy envisions the communists gaining significant seats both in local and national government positions.

On the other hand, the opposition will be fragmented among the many parties now jockeying for the support of the people.

"Once the communists have occupied a considerable number of barangay, municipal, city, provincial, regional and legislative positions, then a de facto and de jure coalition government would be in place," Agunod said.

"Given the indoctrination, organization and terroristic prowess of the CPP/NPA, the coalition government and the entire country can be expected to be completely under communist control by 1991 or sooner," Agunod wagned.

USSR'S ZAYTSEV PROPOSES MUTUAL FORCES REDUCTION

HK281127 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 28 Aug 86 p 14

[Text] Ambassador Anatoliy Zaytsev from Moscow offered a trade-off proposal to encourage a reduction in United States military forces in the Philippines.

In a press briefing before he left yesterday, the Soviet official said, "If the U.S. will reduce its presence in the Philippines, that move all not be unanswered."

The Philippines is host to air and naval bases of the Americans, which are the largest of their facilities outside U.S.

The Zaytsev proposition came a day after he was asked in public forum if his government would agree to a simultaneous pull-out of Soviet military facilities from Vietnam and those of the U.S. from the Philippines.

The Soviet official then gave what observers described as a trite statement of his country's foreign policy.

Zaytsev's remark yesterday came against the backdrop of moves at the Constitutional Commission writing a new Philippine constitution to eject the Americans out of the Philippine bases before the lapse of a U.S.-Philippine agreement in 1991.

Official Philippine policy respects the continued use of the bases by the U.S. at least while the present agreement lasts. This is based on President Corazon C. Aquino's campaign platform to "keep my option open until 1991."

Zaytsev did not say what form of "reduction of U.S. presence" here he meant nor did he explain the kind of "answer" the Soviets would be willing to give.

The Soviet official appeared to be suggesting a possible trade-off in troop withdrawal or base pull-out involving the Clark and Subic bases in the Philippines and the Cam Ranh Bay facilities in Vietnam. But he repeated his government's line that the soviet used naval station is no more than a re-fueling point.

On the question of reducing Soviet and U.S. forces, in general, Zaytsev said "there is no level of mutual reduction that we are not prepared to accept." Zaytsev defended the Soviet military forces. He said these are for the Soviet Union's defense. "We are not going to do anymore than it is absolutely necessary for our national defense."

But he gave a conditional Soviet pledge of non-belligerence that does not help in quieting Philippine worries over the U.S. bases' presence here.

"Our weapons are not directed against any country which will not direct or help aggression against the USSR (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics)," he said.

Opponents of the U.S. bases' operation here warn that these facilities are magnets to Soviet nuclear attack. They charge that the Philippines in inviting retaliation by allowing American attacks on third countries to be launched from these bases. The Clark and subic bases were staging points for American raids in Vietnam in the 1970s.

Zaytsev came to speak at a conference organized by the Pacific Futures Development Center on the Philippine response to the so-called Gorbachev initiative, a statement of Soviet policy for the Asia-Pacific.

He stressed an abiding Soviet involvement in the region. "Our interest in the Asia-Pacific is permanent. We consider it a common house and home," he said.

But Zaytsev denied that superpower rivalry has anything to do with the increased Soviet interest in the Asia-Pacific.

"The USSR has no claim on the region. It does not try to solve its problems at other nation's expense," he said.

RENEGOTIATION OF BASE'S LABOR PACT SOUGHT

HK211504 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 21 Aug 86 pp 1, 9

[By Olaf Giron]

[Text] The Philippine Government, objecting to the low wages and the dismissal of Filipino workers in American military facilities here, told the United States Embassy yesterday that it wants a renegotiation of the RP [Republic of the Philippines]-U.S. Labor Base Agreement.

In a diplomatic note sent to the embassy, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said a new agreement is being sought "to correct certain perceived inequities."

The inequities in the current agreement arise from the question of sovereignty and the non-application of Philippine labor laws on the Filipino workers.

The U.S. is not inclined to give due process to Filipinos employed in bases here and other areas in the Pacific, such as in the case of the 42 workers in Subic naval base who were dismissed without being given a chance to answer charges, if there were any, Deputy Labor Minister Carmelo C. Noriel said.

Without exception, Filipinos receive lower wages than their counterparts elsewhere in Asia and the Pacific region, Noriel said.

The diplomatic note underscored the need to improve the terms and standards of employment provided in the agreement, particularly on the aspects of tenure and job security, termination, and reduction in work force.,

It stressed the importance of the right to due process, self-organization and collective bargaining which constitutes a major source of irritants between the workers and the American employers.

"It is the view of the ministry that the probability of occurrence of serious labor disputes in the United States facilities will continue to remain high for as long as the foregoing concerns are not adequately met," the note said.

Meanwhile, the dependents of the 200 dismissed workers in the U.S. Air Base on Wake Island demonstrated before Malacanang yesterday to seek the assistance of the President on their plight.

The Office of the President and the Ministry of Labor and Employment asked the MFA to send a "strong diplomatic note" to the American embassy to seek immediate negotiations through diplomatic channels and deferment of the layoff of the entire Filipino workforce.

"There is no basis or valid ground for replacing skilled Filipino workers who served on Wake for the last 40 years," Labor Minister August S. Sanchez said.

LAUREL MAKES 'FINAL APPEAL' ON WAKE ISLAND LAYOFF

HK281224 Quezon City ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA in English 28 Aug 86 pp 1, 7

[Text] The issue of laid-off Filipino workers in Wake Island continues to fester as the Philippine government made a final appeal to U.S. naval authorities in Hawaii for a "real and through review" of the circumstances that led to the decision to replace the workers.

In a strongly worded message to Admiral Donald Hays, commander in chief of the United States Pacific Command, Vice President Salvador H. Laurel also urged the suspension of the decision.

Laurel answered point by point the issues raised by Hays in explaining the replacement of Filipinos by Thai workers.

Hays earlier said that the contract was awarded to the lowest bidder in accordance with U.S. laws and after negotiations in good faith with the royal Thai government.

The admiral said that in his review of the issue, he found out that the private contractors had gone to great length to reach a satisfactory agreement with the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration [POEA], to be able to submit a successful bid using Filipino labor.

The contractors claimed it sent more than 200 oral and written communications to the POEA without much result.

The POEA was said to be reluctant to approve a set of clearly-defined terms of employment and has required a wage escalation guarantee which left the contractors no choice but to submit a bid using Thai labor.

In his answer, Laurel said the decision to replace the Filipinos was based mainly on the allegations of the private contractors which the Philippine government did not have the chance to refute. Such an approach, Laurel said, was not only unfair but contrary to the principles of due process.

He added that the POEA and the labor ministry rejects all the allegations of the private contractor as "self-serving, if not outright misinterpretations."

Laurel added that in an urgent situation, however, the attention of the labor minister could have been called for action or complaint if there has been any inaction by the POEA, he said.

The Philippine government has sent a diplomatic note to the U.S. embassy asking for a through review of the problem, "to prevent the occurrence of an unfortunate incident."

DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 169

2 September 1986

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Indonesia Blocks Proposed ASEAN Common Market [AFP] A 1
ASEAN Ministers End Meeting, Common Market Shelved [AFP] A 2

JAPAN

Kuranari Comments on SDI, Ties With USSR, PRC C 1
Cabinet Ministers Discuss SDI Participation C 2
Kurihara Leaves for Meeting With Weinberger C 2
Tamura Leaves for Trade Meeting in Portugal C 2
Groups Protest Kuranari Meeting With Botha C 3
1 Killed, 8 Wounded in Attacks Against Unionists [AFP] C 3
Fiscal 1987 Budget Requests Up 6.7 Percent C 4

NORTH KOREA

DPRK 'Will Not Participate' in Seoul Asian Games [NODONG SINMUN 1 Sep] D 1

SOUTH KOREA

Door Still 'Open' for DPRK To Participate in Asiad [KYODO] E 1
Pyongyang Planning To Subvert Asian Games E 1
180 Students Arrested Before Asian Games E 2
    NKDP Refutes Prosecution Claims [THE KOREA TIMES 31 Aug] E 2
Police Plan To Prevent Students Disrupting Asiad E 3
    Students Form Struggle Groups [THE KOREA TIMES 30 Aug] E 3
    Plan To 'Seclude' Activists [THE KOREA TIMES 31 Aug] E 3
PRC To Use Direct Flights to Seoul for Asiad [KYODO] E 4
Statement of Delegate to N.-S. Red Cross Talks E 4
50,000 Attend Opposition Rally in Pusan 30 Aug [AFP] E 6

THAILAND

Prem Meets Sihanouk, Pledges Continued Support [BANGKOK WORLD 28 Aug] J 1
    Further on Meeting J 1
Sitthi Responds To Phoun Sipaseut Message [NAEO NA 28 Aug] J 1
USSR's Zaytsev Arrives 31 Aug on 4-Day Visit [BANGKOK POST 1 Sep] J 2
Move Against Wira Also Seen as Aimed at Prem [SIAM RAT 28 Aug] J 3
Prem Defends Handling of Wira Case to Opposition [THE NATION 28 Aug] J 4

House Votes To Allow Wira To Stand Trial [BANGKOK POST 29 Aug] J 6
  Wira Ready for Showdown [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 8
  Groups Pressure Democrats [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 9
  Most Democrats Support Wira [BANGKOK POST 31 Aug] J 9
Wira Announces Resignation Decision J 10
'Source' Cited on Military Reshuffle Lists [BANGKOK WORLD 30 Aug] J 11
  King Approves List [BANGKOK POST 2 Sep] J 12
  Military Appointees Profiled [THE NATION 2 Sep] J 14
Prem Orders Reinstatement of Young Turks [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 17

VIETNAM

Direct Talks on Amerasian Children Issue Held K 1
Nguyen Huu Tho Arrives in Harare for Summit K 1
Nonaligned Ministers Leave Cambodian Seat Vacant K 1
Unicef Delegation Visits, Meets Pham Van Dong K 2

AUSTRALASIA

NEW ZEALAND

Lange Rejects Military Cooperation With USSR [THE EVENING POST 27 Aug] M 1
Kapitsa Discusses USSR's Pacific Policy [THE EVENING POST 27 Aug] M 1

PAPUA NEW GUINEA

Vagi Clarifies PNG-USSR Fishing Negotiations [Melbourne] M 2

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Expreses 'Concern' Over Fighting [KYODO] P 1
  Urges Immediate Cease-Fire P 2
Aquino Praises Heroism of Soldiers at Ceremony P 2
Enrile on CPP, NPA Disunity; Ver Seen in Sabah P 2
Enrile Calls for Caution in Dealing With Rebels P 2
  Says AFP Can 'Finish' Insurgency [KYODO] P 3
  Criticizes NDF Demands P 4
  Warns Against Repeating Mistakes [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 24 Aug] P 4
Enrile on Danger From 'Leftist Labor Fronts' P 5
Labor Group Supports Enrile's Presidential Bid P 6
Rebellion Charges Against Tolentino Dropped P 7
Rally Held in Pampanga To Support U.S. Bases P 7
Officials Term Aquino's Trip 'Complete Success' P 7

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 170 3 September 1986

NORTH KOREA

Southward Invasion Threat Called 'Smokescreen' [NODONG SINMUN 31 Aug] D 1
Daily Castigates U.S. Exercise in East Sea [NODONG SINMUN 29 Aug] D 4
Kim Il-song Receives Romanian Assembly Group D 5
Kim Il-song Receives Visiting Ghanaian Officials D 5
Pak Song-chol Meets With SFRY's Hasani in Harare D 5
Military Delegation Visiting Socialist Nations D 6
Politburo's Ho Tam Meets LDP Dietman Tani D 6
Economic Protocol With Hungary Signed D 6

SOUTH KOREA

Chon, Japanese Businessmen View Trade Imbalance [KYODO] E 1
Plan To Curb Japanese, Increase U.S. Imports [KYODO] E 1
ROK-Japan Foreign Ministers' Meeting Postponed E 2
New Foreign Minister Holds News Conference 2 Sep E 3
NKDP Shuns ROK-Japan Lawmakers' Talks [THE KOREA TIMES 2 Sep] E 3
Kim Il-song, Kim Chong-il 'Friction' Cited [THE KOREA HERALD 30 Aug] E 4

MONGOLIA

Dugersuren Leaves for Nonaligned Conference F 1
Commentary Views Situation in Agriculture F 1

CAMBODIA

Reportage on Chea Sim Visit to Soviet Union H 1
    TASS Roundup Cited H 1
    Chea Sim Meets Demichev H 1
CGDK Issues Statement on Nonaligned Movement [VONADK] H 2

THAILAND

Information Director Discusses Zaytsev Visit J 1
Ministry Sends Protest to U.S. on Sugar Sales [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 2
NATION Reports Prem 29 Aug Press Conference [30 Aug] J 2
Army Headquarters Moves; Athit Bids Farewell [BANGKOK POST 30 Aug] J 4
Reinstated Officers Sign Undated Resignations [BANGKOK POST 31 Aug] J 4

VIETNAM

Council of State Communique on 28-29 Aug Meeting K 1
    Council of State Amnesty K 1
Various Activities Mark 41st National Day K 2
    Leaders Lay Wreaths K 2
    Leaders Attend Reception K 2
    USSR, Other Countries Celebrate K 3
    NHAN DAN Editorial [2 Sep] K 3
Hanoi Recalls Successes Against U.S. Bombing K 7

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Government Seeks Full Account of Chirac Remarks [AFP] M 1
    Hawke Defends Stand M 1
Hawke Tells Lugar of Need for Sanctions M 2
Minister Expects U.S.-FTN Trade Cooperation M 3
Wheat Board Criticizes U.S. Grain Subsidy M 3
Combined Exercises Planned With U.S. Forces M 3

INDONESIA

Jakarta Reports Agreement To Purchase F-16's N 1
    Further on F-16 Deal N 1
Vice President, Delegation Leave for Harare N 1

PHILIPPINES

Army Intelligence Says Loyalists To Attack 'Soon' [BUSINESS DAY 3 Sep] P 1
Con-Com Member Reveals Plot To Kill Aquino in U.S. P 1
NDF-Luzon Sees Enrile Presidential Ambitions [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 27 Aug] P 2
    More on Enrile Support in North [FILIPINO TIMES 15-21 Aug] P 2
'Forces' in Government Accused of 'Greed' [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 28 Aug] P 4 LIBERATION Interview With NPA General Staff Members [Apr-May] P 5

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 171 4 September 1986

NORTH KOREA

SKNDF Calls for Boycotting Seoul Asian Games D 1
PRC's Qin Jiwei Departs for Home 3 Sep D 2
CPRF Denounces Port Call of U.S. Carrier D 2
South's Naval Exercise Deemed 'Provocative' D 3
Hwang Chang-yop Meets Soviet Peace Committee D 3
CPRF on South Korean Student Crackdown D 3

SOUTH KOREA

Security Agency Arrests DPRK-Directed Spies E 1
Police Clash With Students Protesting Asian Games [AFP] E 1
U.S.-ROK Aviation Talks End Without Agreement E 2
DJP Chairman Rules Out Meeting With Kim Tae-chung E 3

CAMBODIA

Leaders Greet SRV on Revolution, National Day H 1
  Wreath-Laying Ceremony H 2
  Phnom Penh Meeting H 2
  PRACHEACHON Editorial H 4
  Medals for SRV Experts H 6

LAOS

Souphanouvong Greets Nonaligned Summit I 1
  Interviewed on Summit I 2
Leaders Greet SRV Counterparts on National Day I 2
  Editorial on SRV National Day I 4
Minister on Enterprise Autonomy in Production I 5
Air Force Command Holds Party Congress I 6
LPA General Political Department Holds Congress I 6
District Party Committee Congress Ends in Sayaboury I 7

VIETNAM

U.S., SRV Hold First Direct Talks on Amerasians [AFP] K 1
Thai Paper Cites Nguyen Co Thach Remarks on ASEAN [Bangkok BANGKOK POST 3 Sep] K 2
Message, Meetings Mark 41st National Day K 3
  Soviet Union's Greetings K 3
  Hanoi Grand Meeting K 4
  Ho Chi Minh City Meeting K 5
Nguyen Van Linh Elected to CPV Secretariat [SAIGON GIAI PHONG 19 Jul] K 5
Vu Mao Meets International Student Delegation [QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 27 Aug] K 6

AUSTRALASIA

NEW ZEALAND

Nuclear Bill Threatens UK Military Ties [THE EVENING POST 28 Aug] M 1
Lange Gives Plans for French Compensation [AFP] M 4

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir National Day Speech Urges Resoluteness O 1
Mahathir Leaves for Nonaligned Summit in Harare O 2

PHILIPPINES

Nur Misuari To Meet President Aquino 5 Sep [AFP] P 1
  Aquino, Misuari To Meet in Jolo P 2
  News Blackout Placed on Talks P 2
  'Butz' Aquino Arrives in Jolo [MANILA BULLETIN 3 Sep] P 2
  Likely To Meet Aboard Navy Ship [AFP] P 3
  Aquino 'Determined' To Hold Talks [MANILA BULLETIN 3 Sep] P 4
  MNLF Factions To Join in Talks P 5
  Bangsa Moro Group Discounts Talks P 5
Enrile Criticizes NDF, Discusses Conditions [BUSINESS DAY 2 Sep] P 6
  NDF Lawyers Refute Statement [BUSINESS DAY 3 Sep] P 7
  Spokesman Defends Disclosure P 8
LIBERATION Interviews NPA Staff Member [Jun] P 8

FBIS DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 172 5 September 1986

JAPAN

- Reportage on S. African Foreign Minister's Visit C 1
  - Meets With Kuranari C 1
  - NHK Interview C 2
  - KYODO Interview C 4
- Reportage on Defense Chief's Talks in U.S. C 5
  - Excessive Demands To Be Denied C 5
  - Meets Weinberger, Bush C 5
- Miyazawa Succeeds Suzuki as Faction Leader C 6

NORTH KOREA

- KPA To Transfer 150,000 Troops to Economic Work D 1
- CPRF Blames Suspension of Dialogues on South D 3
- S. Koreans Revealed as 'Mean Stooges' of Japanese [NODONG SINMUN 4 Aug] D 11
- Kim Il-song Receives Zanzibari Delegation 4 Sep D 12

THAILAND

- Zaytsev Reiterates Invitation to Sitthi [THE NATION 4 Sep] J 1
- Sitthi on Gorbachev Proposal; Thach Remarks [THE NATION 5 Sep] J 1
- Lao Envoy on Atmosphere of 'New Friendship' [THE NATION 3 Sep] J 2
- Sitthi on Lao Relations; Thach Statement [BANGKOK POST 5 Sep] J 4
- Cabinet Approves Interior Ministry Reshuffle [THE NATION 27 Aug] J 4
- Cabinet Increases Budget 1.5 Billion Baht [BANGKOK POST 3 Sep] J 5
- Armed Forces Appointments List Published [BANGKOK WORLD 3 Sep] J 6

VIETNAM

- Former Interior Minister Tran Quoc Hoan Dies K 1
  - Funeral Committee Named K 1
- Vo Chi Cong Addresses National Day Meeting K 2
- Most Areas Complete Basic-Level Party Congresses K 9

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Views Talks With Muslim Leaders [KYODO] P 1
  Separatists Denounce Talks P 1
MNLF Chief Stands Firm on Secession Demand P 2
    [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 4 Sep]
  Aquino Firm Against Secession P 3
Aquino, Misuari Meet on Jolo Island P 3
  Agree on 1-Week Cease-Fire [AFP] P 4
  To Form Panels for Talks [AFP] P 4
Partido ng Bayan Holds First Congress 30-31 Aug P 5
    [NEW DAY 1 Sep]
  Vows To Dismantle U.S. Bases P 6
    [THE MANILA TIMES 1 Sep]
  Prepares for Elections P 7
    [BUSINESS DAY 2 Sep]
Laurel, Others Favor Creation of Partido ng Bayan P 9
Cebu Military Reveals Rebel Documents P 10
    [THE NEW PHILIPPINES SUNDAY EXPRESS 24 Aug]
CPP-NPA Step Up 'Terror Campaign' in Cebu P 10
    [BUSINESS DAY 26 Aug]
Reconciliation Committee Formed in Cebu [AFP] P 11
  Prospects for Talks Look 'Dim' P 12
    [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 4 Sep]
NPA General Staff Concerned Over AFP Offensives P 13
    [LIBERATION Jun]
LIBERATION Examines NDF Gains, Lessons [Apr-May] P 14

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 173 — 8 September 1986

JAPAN

- Gotoda To Announce Participation in SDI Research C 1
- LDP Extends Nakasone Term to October 1987 C 1
- ROK Angered by Education Minister's Remarks C 2
  - ROK-Japan Diplomatic Crisis C 2
  - Nakasone Fires Fujio C 2
- USSR's Marchuk Begins Visit, Meets Yanagiya C 4
- Miyazawa's 6 Sep Meeting With Baker Viewed C 4
- New JSP Head Doi Comments on Plans for Party C 5

NORTH KOREA

- Transfer of 150,000 Troops to Economic Work Viewed [NODONG SINMUN 7 Sep] D 1
- Pyongyang Wants To Host 8 of 23 Olympic Events [KYODO] D 4
- Anniversary of Cultural Pact With USSR Marked D 4

SOUTH KOREA

- Violence Reported in Buddhist, Student Protests E 1
  - Riot Police Storm Temple [AFP] E 1
  - Students Clash With Police [AFP] E 1
  - Policeman Held Temporarily [THE KOREA TIMES 7 Sep] E 2
- Foreign Ministers' Meeting With Japan Postponed E 3
- North's Diplomacy at Nonaligned Summit Viewed [THE KOREA TIMES 5 Sep] E 3

BURMA

- Prime Minister Returns From Tour, Medical Checkup G 1
- VOPB Marks Party 47th Founding Anniversary G 1

CAMBODIA

- Heng Samrin, Hun Sen Greet Nonaligned Countries H 1
- Hun Sen Greets Vietnam on Anniversaries H 1
  - Chea Sim Greetings H 2
- Hun Sen Receives Visiting UN Delegation H 3
- Report on Chea Sim Visit to Poland H 3
  - Received by Malinowski H 4
- CGDK Statement on Indochina Conference [VONADK] H 4

LAOS

Thai Foreign Minister's Statement Viewed I 1
Nouhak Phoumsavan Attends Champhon Party Meeting I 2
Political Life Campaign in Vientiane Reviewed I 3
Vientiane Province Holds Cadres Conference I 3
Northern Division Holds Party Members Conference I 4
Political Campaigns End in Phong Saly Province I 5

THAILAND

Sitthi Wants Halt to U.S. Sugar Dumping J 1
Foreign Ministry Cites Lao 'Positive' Response [THE NATION 6 Sep] J 1
Sitthi Tells UNHCR of Refugee Camp Closure [BANGKOK POST 4 Sep] J 2
New Supreme Commander Takes Over 1 Sep J 3
Figures Released on Trade Balance With U.S. J 3

VIETNAM

'Illegal Chinese Intruders' Turned Over to PRC K 1
Nguyen Huu Tho Addresses Nonaligned Summit K 1
Leaders Pay Tribute to Late Tran Quoc Hoan K 3
    Career Outlined K 3
    Truong Chinh at Ceremony K 4
Engineering Minister Said Accused of Graft [KYODO] K 5
NHAN DAN on Precinct, District Congresses [6 Sep] K 5
Grass-Roots CPV Organizations Hold Congresses K 7
    Congresses in Army Units K 8
    Hanoi City Congresses K 8
    Kien Giang Congresses K 9
    Ha Nam Ninh Congresses [NHAN DAN 16 Aug] K 10

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

USSR Official Denies Military Buildup in Pacific M 1
Hayden on Indonesia's Ban of Air Force Planes M 1
    Hayden Defends Response M 1
    Envoy Says Ban Ended M 2

NEW ZEALAND

Government Rejects Nonaligned Defense Proposal M 2

INDONESIA

Official on Landing Ban for Australian Planes N 1
    Surono Comments on Issue N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Returns From Nonaligned Conference O 1
New MCA President Appointed 4 Sep O 1
[NEW STRAITS TIMES 5 Sep]

PHILIPPINES

President Aquino Reaffirms Stand on Secession [AFP] P 1
Misuari To Consult With Mindanao MNLF Leaders P 1
MNLF Wants Autonomy for 25 Southern Provinces P 2
Delegation for Aquino's U.S. Trip Announced P 2
[BUSINESS DAY 5 Sep]
Aquino To Discuss Marcos While in U.S. P 3
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 3 Sep]
'Unsolicited Advice' From Reagan Criticized P 3
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 3 Sep]
Laurel Doubts U.S. Senator's Alleged Statement P 4
Enrile Says Statement 'Unfortunate' P 5
Laurel Stresses Continuity in Foreign Policy P 5
[BUSINESS DAY 3 Sep]
Terrorists Blow Up Power Line in Zamboanga P 6
Army Reformists To Continue Group's Existence P 6
[NEW DAY 1 Sep]
Pessimistic on Misuari Talks P 8
[MANILA BULLETIN 2 Sep]
Government, Rebels Hold 2d Meeting on Cease-Fire P 9
Joint Communique Issued [Hong Kong] P 9
Mitra Asks for More Confidence in Negotiations P 10
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 5 Sep]
Enrile States Stand on Peace Talks With Rebels P 11
[MANILA BULLETIN 4 Sep]
Calls New Party Communist Front P 12
Pimentel Urges Enrile To Keep Quiet or Resign P 12
Laurel Defends Enrile Criticism of Aquino Policy P 13
[THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 6 Sep]
Nine Killed in Mindanao Church Bombing P 13
MILF Threatened Local Mayor [AFP] P 14
NPA Reportedly Achieves 'Strategic Stalemate' P 14
Official Says CPP-NPA Could 'Take Over Country' P 15
[THE SUNDAY TIMES 31 Aug]
Rebels Admit Raid on Cebu Police Substation P 15
Correction: Omitted Page P 15

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 174 9 September 1986

JAPAN

- Government Officially Announces SDI Participation C 1
  - Kuranari Informs U.S. C 1
  - Talks To Begin Soon C 1
  - MITI To Set SDI Guidelines C 2
  - Kuranari Questioned in Diet C 2
  - High Tech Firms Supportive C 3
- Japan Expresses Regret Over Fujio Remarks C 3
  - Gotoda Statement C 3
  - Kuranari Meets ROK Ambassador C 4
  - ROK Reinstates Talks C 5
  - ROK Accepts Apology C 6
- S&T Chief, USSR's Marchuk View N-Plant Safety C 6
- S. African Foreign Minister Leaves for Taiwan C 7
  - Botha's Visit Defended C 7

NORTH KOREA

- Reportage on Pyongyang Peace Conference D 1
  - Conference Previewed [NODONG SINMUN 6 Sep] D 1
  - Yi Chong-ok Opens Conference D 4
  - 6 Sep Banquet D 5
  - Kim Il-song Speaks D 6
  - PRC Delegate Speaks 7 Sep D 9

SOUTH KOREA

- ROK-Japan Ministerial Talks To Be Held as Planned E 1
- Japan Denies Violence in Aug Fishing Incident [THE KOREA TIMES 6 Sep] E 1

CAMBODIA

- Chea Sim Meets GDR's Sindermann 1 Sep H 1
  - Meets Willi Stoph H 1
- Sihanouk Interviewed; Appeals to Heng Samrin H 2
- Prince Rannarit Address Marks ANS Anniversary H 6
- Khieu Samphan Greets DPRK National Day H 8

LAOS

- President Greets International Conference on Korea I 1
- Sisomphon Lovansai Attends Vientiane Conference I 1
- Luang Namtha Division C Holds Second Congress I 3
- Political Life Campaigns End in Xieng Khouang I 3
- Economic Zone Established in Savannakhet I 3
- LPA Financial Planning Department Holds Congress I 4

THAILAND

Foreign Minister Speaks on Trade With U.S. [THE NATION 6 Sep] J 1
Defense Ministry Planning New Top Post [BANGKOK POST 8 Sep] J 5
CSC Norasing Force To Be Dissolved [THE NATION 7 Sep] J 6
Army Officers Meet Muslim Leaders in South [THE NATION 8 Sep] J 7

VIETNAM

'Official Source' Views Deng Xiaoping Remarks [AFP] K 1
Leaders Greet DPRK Counterparts on National Day K 1
PRC, Other Leaders Greet SRV National Day K 2
Family Campaign Yields Initial Results K 3
Army Journal Examines Building Armed Forces [TAP CHI QUAN DOI NHAN DAN Sep] K 3
Nha Trang Holds Party Organization Congresses K 7

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Officials Cite Wan Li on Gorbachev Speech M 1

INDONESIA

Vice President Returns; Comments on Harare Summit N 1
Suharto, Murdani Address Armed Forces Meeting [THE INDONESIA TIMES 1 Sep] N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Comments on Nonaligned Summit Proceedings O 1
  More on Mahathir's Remarks O 1

PHILIPPINES

Jolo Meeting Termed 'Breakthrough of Sorts' [THE NEW PHILIPPINES SUNDAY EXPRESS 7 Sep] P 1
Misuari, Independence Movement Leader Collaborate [MANILA BULLETIN 8 Sep] P 1
Military Says Muslims Sabotaged Power-Line P 2
'Prominent Unido Leader' Shot Dead in Isabela [THE MANILA TIMES 5 Sep] P 3
Enrile Not To Accompany Aquino to U.S. [MANILA BULLETIN 7 Sep] P 3
  Aquino 'Not Worried' P 4
Enrile Makes 'Strongest Speech' Against Critics [Hong Kong] P 4
  'Gradually Losing His Patience' P 5
  Lashes Out Against Communists [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 7 Sep] P 5

Partido ng Bayan Denies Fronting for Communists P 6
[THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 5 Sep]
Communists Reject Government Cease-Fire Proposal P 7
Communist Party Offers Coalition as Solution P 7
[THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 9 Sep]
NDF Lawyers Clarify Role in Peace Talks P 8
[MANILA BULLETIN 31 Aug]
Columnist Prints Letter From Communist Negotiator P 9
[MANILA BULLETIN 5 Sep]

FBIS

DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 175 10 September 1986

JAPAN

South Korean Foreign Minister Arrives 10 Sep C 1
LDP To Change Rules for Nakasone Extension C 1
    Kanemaru on Nakasone Extension C 1
Nakasone Views U.S.-USSR, Domestic Issues C 2
New Education Minister Holds Press Conference C 3
Opposition Parties Denounce SDI Decision C 4
Nakasone, Nakayama on Micronesia Independence C 4
Diet Opens 11 Sep; Nakasone to Speak 12 Sep C 5

NORTH KOREA

Reportage on Pyongyang Peace Conference D 1
    Kim Hwan Speaks D 1
    Kim Il-song Speaks 7 Sep D 10
    So Yun-sok at 8 Sep Banquet D 11
    'Text' of Conference Declaration D 12
    Kim Il-song Meets With Kreisky D 16
O Chin-u Confers With Ugandan Military Delegation D 16

SOUTH KOREA

Effect of Japanese Minister's Remarks on Ties Viewed E 1
    No Wants 'Convincing' Apology E 1
        [THE KOREA HERALD 10 Sep]
    Foreign Ministers' Talks Opposed E 2
        [THE KOREA TIMES 10 Sep]
    Daily Wants Nakasone Apology E 2
        [THE KOREA TIMES 9 Sep]
    Government Actions 'Perplexing' E 3
        [THE KOREA TIMES 10 Sep]
ROK Against DPRK Hosting More Olympic Events [KYODO] E 4
North's Failures at Nonaligned Summit Viewed E 4
        [THE KOREA HERALD 9 Sep]
Students, Buddhists Battle Police in Protests E 5
    9 Sep Student Protests [AFP] E 5
    12 Buddhist Monks Arrested [AFP] E 6
    2,000 Monks Stage Rally E 6
        [THE KOREA TIMES 9 Sep]
2 Kims Issue 'Ultimatum' Against Government E 7
        [THE KOREA TIMES 4 Sep]

BURMA

BCP Political Report on Growth of Multinationals [VOPB] G 1

CAMBODIA

- Heng Samrin Receives Departing Polish Ambassador H 1
- Chea Sim Returns From USSR, Poland, GDR H 1
- Hun Sen Comments on International Situation H 2
- PRACHEACHON Views Party-Masses Relations H 2
- PRACHEACHON on Offsetting Rice Lost to Drought H 4

LAOS

- Division 'E' Holds Conference on Political Report I 1

THAILAND

- Conferees Debate Impact of U.S. Farm Act [BANGKOK POST 7 Sep] J 1
- Trade Surplus With Laos Up 250 Million Baht J 2

VIETNAM

- Ho Chi Minh Order Awarded to USSR's Vorotnikov K 1
- Vo Van Kiet Meets PRK Statistician Delegation K 1
- Do Muoi Attends Bulgarian Envoy's Reception K 1
- Provinces Suffer Casualties, Damage From Storm K 2
- NHAN DAN on Thach Ha District Party Congress K 3
- Bac Bo Delta District Holds Party Congress K 5
    - Thanh Hoa Districts Hold Congresses K 6
- Chi Lang Army Corps Studies Political Report K 7
- Hoang Lien Son Deals With Cadres Shortcomings K 7
- Thai Binh Party Meeting Studies CPV Draft Report K 8
- Provinces, Cities Study Draft Political Report K 8
- Technical Department Holds Basic Congresses K 8

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

- Hayden To Discuss Aid in Papua New Guinea M 1
    - Departs for Port Moresby M 1

PHILIPPINES

- Aquino Warns Against U.S. Interference [AFP] P 1
- Rally Demonstrates Support for U.S. Bases [THE MANILA JOURNAL 8 Sep] P 2
    - Survey on Retention of Bases [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 8 Sep] P 3
- Cabinet, Enlarged Security Council Meet [AFP] P 4
- Enrile Reassures Aquino of Support for Negotiations [BERNAMA] P 5
- Enrile, Ramos Urge Aquino To Withdraw Cease-Fire P 5
- Mindanao Communists Reject Davao Cease-Fire Pact P 6
- Plot To Kill Rebel Priest Balweg Revealed [THE MANILA TIMES 5 Sep] P 6

NPA Liquidation Squad Kills 2 at Camp Aguinaldo P 7
  Further on Shootings [AFP] P 7
Government Troops Capture 3 NPA Camps in Panay [AFP] P 7
  Panay NPA Engaged in Propaganda P 8
Corporation Suspends Nuclear Plant Payments [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 27 Aug] P 8
Government Criticized For Subservience to IMF [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 1 Sep] P 9
Plan To Seek Halt to Paris Club Payments Confirmed [BUSINESS DAY 8 Sep] P 10
LIBERATION Views NPA Gains, Tasks [Apr-May] P 11

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 176

11 September 1986

JAPAN

Kuranari Holds Talks With ROK Counterpart C 1
Nakasone, Choe Meet C 2
Nakasone Says Miyake Airport Project Still On C 3
LDP Formally Endorses Nakasone Term Extension C 3

NORTH KOREA

Pak Song-chol Addresses Nonaligned Summit D 1
Central Meeting Marks DPRK Founding Anniversary D 10
Yon Hyong-muk Report D 11
Wreaths Laid at Cemetery D 20
Pyongyang-Moscow Railroad Service To Start [Tokyo NHK Television] D 21
LATE REPORT: Spokesman to MAC on UNC Remains D 21

SOUTH KOREA

Students Burn Buses; Bonzes Launch Sit-in [AFP] E 1
No Sing-yong, NKDP Discuss Fujio Remarks E 1
NKDP's Yi Min-u Will Not Meet No Tae-u [THE KOREA TIMES 9 Sep] E 2
DJP, Government Agree on Fiscal Year 1987 Budget E 2

MONGOLIA

Namsray Receives PRAVDA Observer Zhukov F 1
Conference Marks CPC Congress Anniversary F 1

LAOS

PASASON Hails Success of Nonaligned Summit I 1

THAILAND

Sihanouk Departs for CGDK Meeting in PRC [ZHONG HUA RIBAO 7 Sep] J 1
Prem Urges Peaceful Use of SRV Resources [BANGKOK WORLD 10 Sep] J 1
Sitthi Receives Outgoing SRV Ambassador [MATICHON 10 Sep] J 2
Helicopter Crashes; Chawalit, Wanchai Unhurt [BANGKOK WORLD 11 Sep] J 2
Cabinet Approves Budget for Fiscal 1987 [BANGKOK POST 10 Sep] J 3

VIETNAM

Nguyen Huu Tho Leaves Zimbabwe for Home K 1
Interviewed on Nonaligned Summit K 1
USSR Envoy Presents Credentials to Truong Chinh K 2
Hanoi-Vientiane Cooperation Continues To Develop K 3
Ho Chi Minh City To Cut Population Growth Rate K 3

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Discusses U.S. Visit, Fate of Marcos [AFP] P 1
Enrile: 'I Will Not Lead Another Revolt' [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 10 Sep] P 2
Enrile Comments on Cease-Fire, Criticism [BUSINESS DAY 10 Sep] P 3
Pimentel Accuses CIA of 'Meddling' [BUSINESS DAY 10 Sep] P 4
NPA House 'Pinpointed' Near Camp Aguinaldo P 5
Aquino Wants To End Insurgency by Peaceful Means [MANILA BULLETIN 10 Sep] P 5
NAFP Makes Loyalty Statement to Government [MANILA BULLETIN 10 Sep] P 6
Local Officials Pledge Support for Aquino [BERNAMA] P 7
Military, NPA To Discuss Mindanao Cease-Fire Anew [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 5 Sep] P 8
NDF Says Military Policies Deterrent to Truce [BUSINESS DAY 9 Sep] P 9
Mitra Urges NDF Not To Impose Truce Conditions [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 10 Sep] P 10
Military Notes Continued Violence in South [AFP] P 11
Muslims 'Will Support' Autonomous Region [BERNAMA] P 12
Government, MNLF Talks Likely To Be Held Abroad [AFP] P 13
Cebu Rebels Deny Existence of 'Terror Plot' [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 5 Sep] P 13
Cebu Counterinsurgency Task Force Formed [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 8 Sep] P 14
Cordillera Rebels Willing To Talk With Aquino [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 5 Sep] P 15
LATE REPORT: Report Says Marcos To Arrive 11 Sep [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 11 Sep] P 16

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 177

12 September 1986

JAPAN

- Nakasone Addresses Diet on Trade, GATT, SDI, USSR C 1
- Marchuk Views Gorbachev Visit, SDI With Nakasone C 2
  - Wants Hi-Tech Exchanges C 3
- No Comment Planned on Soviet SDI Warning C 3
- Scientists' Group 'Will Not Cooperate' on SDI C 4
- Nakasone Wants 'Harmony' in Ties With ROK C 4
- Reportage on Visit of S. Korean Foreign Minister C 4
  - Wants Trade Imbalance Corrected C 4
  - Departs for Home 12 Sep C 5
  - No 'Serious' Rift Over Island C 5

NORTH KOREA

- 38th Anniversary of DPRK Founding Commemorated D 1
  - 9 Sep Banquet D 1
  - Kang Song-san Speaks D 3
  - NODONG SINMUN Editorial [9 Sep] D 4
- Trade Minister-Led Delegation Departs for PRC D 8
  - Leaves 6 Sep D 8
  - Signs Trade Agreement 8 Sep D 8
- Film Show Commemorates Cultural Pact With USSR D 8
- NODONG SINMUN on Success of Pyongyang Conference [11 Sep] D 8
- South's 'Puppet' Foreign Minister's Remarks Hit [NODONG SINMUN 5 Sep] D 11
- Kim Il-song Receives Ugandan Military Delegation D 13
- Kim Il-song Receives Egyptian Lawmakers D 13
- Pak Song-chol Returns From Nonaligned Summit D 13
- Central Election Committee for SPA Deputies Formed D 13
  - Meeting Held 2 Sep D 14

SOUTH KOREA

- Reportage on ROK-Japan Foreign Minister Talks E 1
  - 'Deep Apology' From Nakasone E 1
  - No Japanese Claim on Island E 1
  - Japan Claim on Island Explained E 2
  - Relations With Japan Viewed [THE KOREA HERALD 12 Sep] E 2
- PRC Said To Reject DPRK Proposal for Hu-Kim Talks [THE KOREA HERALD 12 Sep] E 4
- CAAC Plane Flies PRC Athletes Nonstop to Seoul [KYODO] E 4
- Student Protests Against Asiad Continue [AFP] E 5
- ROK To Aid Latin American Development, Joins IDB E 5

CAMBODIA

Heng Samrin Arrives in Moscow 9 Sep for 'Stay' H 1
PRACHEACHON on Proposal To Reduce Pol Pot Forces H 1
'Heavy Fighting' Reported Near Phnom Malai [AFP] H 2

LAOS

Phoun Sipaseut Leads Delegation Back From Summit I 1
Outgoing Soviet Envoy Takes Leave of Leaders I 1

THAILAND

Phichai on U.S. Linking Copyright, Farm Act [BANGKOK WORLD 11 Sep] J 1
Parliament Wants Protest on Sugar Sales [THE NATION 12 Sep] J 2
    Sitthi Answers Motion J 3
Journalist Views Soviet 'Look East' Policy [BANGKOK POST 10 Sep] J 4
    More on Soviet Overtures [THE NATION 7 Sep] J 4
Results of Trade Talks With Romania Noted J 8
Chawalit Tells Reporters: 'No More Coups' [BANGKOK POST 12 Sep] J 8

VIETNAM

'Source' Cited on MIA Remains Handover [AFP] K 1
USSR Envoy Pays Courtesy Visit to Pham Van Dong K 1
Pham Van Dong Receives New Cuban Ambassador K 2
Pham The Duyet Leaves for WFTU Congress K 2
Communique Reports on Damage From Typhoon K 2

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Beazley Denies Pine Gap Computers Breached M 1
Soviet Discontent With Kiribati Fishing Noted M 1
Hawke, Labor Party Debate Uranium Issue M 1

INDONESIA

Mokhtar Says PRC Counterpart Ready To Hold Meeting N 1
Golkar Chief Views Election Prospects [TEMPO 6 Sep] N 1

PHILIPPINES

- Supreme Court Orders Retrial in Aquino Murder Case [AFP] P 1
- Police, Military Ready for Loyalist Rally P 2
  - 10,000 Mark Marcos' Birthday P 2
  - Celebration Peaceful [AFP] P 2
- Adviser Cites Danger of N-Weapons at U.S. Bases [THE MANILA JOURNAL 11 Sep] P 3
  - Students Stage Protest at Clark P 5
- FBI Agent Charged With Carrying Firearm P 5
- Mitra Declares Enrile 'Indispensable' [THE MANILA TIMES 10 Sep] P 5
- Enrile Says NPA Manila Plot Could Be Starting P 6
- MILF Leader Urges Rejection of Cease-Fire [AFP] P 6
- MNLF Readopts Stand on Self-Determination [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 11 Sep] P 6
- Misuari 'Pressured' To Forge Accord With Aquino [BUSINESS DAY 11 Sep] P 7
- Minister Urges MNLF, MILF To End Dispute P 8
- Aquino Vows To Use Force if Peace Talks Fail P 9
  - Military Kept Informed of Talks P 9
- NDF Officer Alleges AFP 'Sabotage' of Cease-Fire [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 11 Sep] P 9
- Government To Study CPP-NPA Cease-Fire Proposals P 10
- Nacionalista Party Undergoing Power Struggle [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 6 Sep] P 10
  - Supports Enrile, Discusses Elections [MANILA BULLETIN 11 Sep] P 12
- KBL Calls for Elections After Plebiscite P 12
- New Airport Security Measure Revealed P 13
- Military Names Officers Retiring in Sep, Oct P 13
- 'Millions' To Be Recovered From Westinghouse P 14
- Canada To Grant Aid for Negros, Immunization P 14

DAILY REPORT

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 178 15 September 1986

JAPAN

Nakasone Makes Policy Speech at Diet Session C 1
USSR's Marchuk Ends Visit, Leaves for Home 13 Sep C 9
S & T Cooperation Talks With USSR To Begin 16 Sep C 9
Burmese Prime Minister Feted by Leaders C 10
    Emperor Hosts Luncheon C 10
    Nakasone Hosts Banquet C 10

NORTH KOREA

Bombing at Seoul's Kimpo Airport Reported D 1
    VNS Comments D 1

SOUTH KOREA

Kimpo Airport Bombing Kills 5; North Blamed E 1
    Police Director's Statement E 1
    Special Team To Settle Problems E 1
    Compared to Rangoon Bombing E 2
    Police on Emergency Alert E 2
    Parties Denounce Bombing E 3
    Security Tightened E 3
    Asian Countries Reassured E 4
    Government, DJP Meetings Held E 4
    Ministers Issue Statement E 5

CAMBODIA

CGDK Presence at International Meeting Protested H 1
SPK Comments on Beijing Support for CGDK Leaders H 1
VODK Commentary Hails Leaders' Visit to PRC H 2
SRV Division Command in Kompong Thom Attacked [VONADK] H 3

LAOS

Phoumi Vongvichit Meets Outgoing Soviet Envoy I 1
    Sobchenko Bids Farewell I 1
Seminar on Asian-Pacific Peace Held I 1
Education Services Study Political Report I 2
LPA Division B Studies Political Report I 3
    Army Unit Studies Report I 3

THAILAND

Chawalit on Army Modernization, 'Threats' [NAEO NA 14 Sep] J 1
Chawalit Views Bomb Threats, Prem Meeting [BANGKOK POST 13 Sep] J 3
Paper Criticizes U.S. 'Phobia' Toward Imports [SIAM RAT 14 Sep] J 4
No Action Taken on U.S. Drugmakers Patents J 5

VIETNAM

Pham Van Dong Comments on USSR Peace Proposals K 1
NHAN DAN Hails USSR Security Talks Proposal [13 Sep] K 2
NHAN DAN Cites PRC Policy of 'Hostility' [14 Sep] K 3
Truong Chinh Meets Nguyen Huu Tho on Return K 4
Do Muoi Meets Hon Gai Union of Coal Enterprises K 5
Envoy to Thailand Pays Farewell Visit to Prem K 5
VNA Describes Relief Efforts in Typhoon-Hit Areas K 6
AFP Cites 'Observers' on Economic Difficulties K 6
Basic Party Organization Congresses Reviewed K 8

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Hayden on Chilean Refugees, PNG Aid Cuts M 1
Solomon Islands PM Wants Cyclone Aid Speedup M 1
Government Protests Pretoria Spy Recruitment M 2
Treasurer on Downgrading of Credit Rating M 2
Current Account Deficit Declines in August M 2
ALP 'Left' Wants Halfpenny 1st on Senate Ticket M 3

INDONESIA

Finance Minister Announces Rupiah Devaluation N 1
Briefs Editors N 3
Suharto Chairs Cabinet Meeting on Devaluation N 3
Mokhtar on Planned Talks With French President N 4

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

No 'Permanent Shelter' for SRV Refugees O 1
Army Commander Says Communist Activities Decline [BERITA HARIAN 5 Sep] O 1
Indonesian Foreign Minister Arrives 15 Sep O 2
VOMD Broadcasts Party Election Statement O 2

SINGAPORE

Lee Testifies Before Parliamentary Committee [THE STRAITS TIMES 12 Sep] O 4

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Comments on Issues Prior to U.S. Trip [BUSINESS DAY 12 Sep] P 1
  Warned of Possible Assassination Plot [AFP] P 3
  Assures Nation of Security P 3
  Departs for U.S. 15 Sep P 3
Enrile, Marcos Speak on Coup Prospects P 4
Marcos' Daughters To Lead Anti-Aquino Rallies P 4
Metro Manila 'Contingency Plan' Drawn Up [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 12 Sep] P 5
Aquino, Balweg Sign Peace Accord 13 Sep P 5
  More on Accord [KYODO] P 6
NPA Denies Attacking Camp Aguinaldo, Other Camps P 6
  Shoot To Kill Order Issued P 6
Enrile Says Steps Taken To Fight Insurgency [BUSINESS DAY 12 Sep] P 7
Laurel, Gonzalez Comment on Peace Talks P 7
NDF Pressed To Respond to Cease-Fire Proposal [BUSINESS DAY 12 Sep] P 8
  'Opposed to Any U.S. Interference' P 9
Ramos Reiterates Military Support for Peace [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 12 Sep] P 9
Government, MNLF Negotiators To Consult Factions [BUSINESS DAY 12 Sep] P 10
  MILF Protests Accord [AFP] P 11
New Cordillera Party in 'Initial' Stages [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 12 Sep] P 11
Pro-Marcos Mayor Murdered by Suspected Rebels P 12

DAILY REPORT

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 179 16 September 1986

JAPAN

- Nakasone Addresses Diet on SDI, Other Topics C 1
- Japan, USSR Begin Scientific Cooperation Talks C 2
- Nakasone Not Postponing 20-21 Sep ROK Visit C 2
- Foreign Minister Leaves for U.S., Uruguay Visits C 2
- GATT-Based Fishery Talks With U.S. Expected C 3

NORTH KOREA

- NODONG SINMUN Commentary on Kimpo Bombing [16 Sep] D 1
  - Emergency Measures Scored D 3
- Reportage on Visit of Nicaragua's Daniel Ortega D 3
  - Ortega Welcomed D 3
  - Kim Il-song Hosts Banquet D 3
  - Kim Il-song Speaks D 4

SOUTH KOREA

- Security Beefed Up Following Kimpo Bombing E 1
  - Chon Inspects Bombing Site E 1
  - Police Investigation Outlined E 1
  - New Security Measures E 2
  - Asian Reaction Cited [AFP] E 3
  - Nakasone Sends Condolences [KYODO] E 4
  - NKDP Blames Loose Security [THE KOREA TIMES 16 Sep] E 4
  - Universities Temporarily Closed [KYODO] E 4
  - Suspects Interrogated E 5
  - Further on Suspects [THE KOREA TIMES 16 Sep] E 6
  - Suspects Cleared, Released [KYODO] E 6
- IOC Leaders, Athletes Arrive at Kimpo After Blast E 7
  - PRC, Iranian Athletes Arrive E 7
  - Japanese Athletes Arrive E 8
  - Samaranch Arrives for IOC Talks E 8
  - SLOOC Pledges Safe Asiad to IOC E 8
- PRC Sports Officials in Seoul Discuss Asiad E 9
  - He Zhengliang on Bombing, Taiwan E 9
  - Wei Zizhong on 1986, 1990 Asiads E 10
  - PRC Flag-Raising Ceremony E 10
- DJP, NKDP, KNP Urge Restraint by Students [THE KOREA TIMES 14 Sep] E 11

MONGOLIA

Central Committee Reviews Sodnom-Ryzhkov Meeting F 1
PRAVDA's Zhukov Gives Ulaanbaatar Interview F 1
Gotob Receives PRC Amity Delegation 12 Sep F 1
Trade Union Delegation Leaves for Berlin F 2

CAMBODIA

Sihanouk Says 'No More Concessions' on Cambodia [Paris LE MONDE 11 Sep] H 1
VONADK Reports on Attacks in Phnom Penh H 1

THAILAND

ASEAN Prepares Draft on Cambodia for UN J 1
SIAM RAT on 'More Flexible' Indochina Approach [20 Aug] J 1
Prasong Rules Out Forced Repatriation to Laos J 2
Senate Lifts Immunity for Five Coup Suspects [BANGKOK WORLD 12 Sep] J 2

VIETNAM

Handover of MIA Remains Said Set for 17 Sep [AFP] K 1
NHAN DAN on 'Obstacle' to Stability in Region [16 Sep] K 1
Pham Van Dong Meets Finnish Ambassador K 2
Reportage on Grass-Roots Party Congresses K 2
    Hoang Lien Son, Long An, Dalat K 2
    District in Cuu Long K 3
    District in Ha Son Binh K 3
    District in Lang Son K 4
    District in Phu Khanh K 5

AUSTRALASIA

NEW ZEALAND

Columnist Previews Trade Minister's USSR Trip [THE EVENING POST 9 Sep] M 1

INDONESIA

General Cited on Soviet Submarine Intrusions [AFP] N 1
French President, Entourage Arrive in Jakarta N 2
    Suharto, Mitterrand Meet N 2

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Holds Talks With Indonesia's Mokhtar O 1
    Common Concerns Identified O 1

PHILIPPINES

President Aquino Arrives in U.S. 16 Sep P 1
Paper Views Issues Facing Aquino in U.S. [THE MANILA TIMES 15 Sep] P 1
Paper Says Aquino 'Will Shine' on U.S. Visit [THE MANILA TIMES 15 Sep] P 3
MANILA BULLETIN Editorial on Aquino Trip to U.S. [15 Sep] P 4
Column Says Aquino Trip 'Only Ritualistic' [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 15 Sep] P 5
CPP, Others Urge Aquino To Resist U.S. Controls [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 15 Sep] P 6
Enrile, Ramos To Thwart Any Marcos Return P 7
Ramos Rules Out Danger in Aquino's Absence P 7
Military, Police on Countrywide Red Alert P 8
Army Group Rules Out Possibility of Coup [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 15 Sep] P 8
Students Prepare Plans 'To Counter Any Coup' [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 14 Sep] P 9
Officials Receive 'NPA Death Squad' Threats P 9
Court Orders Ver, Others Arrested in Aquino Case [AFP] P 10
Unido Calls Some NSC Members 'Security Risks' [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 12 Sep] P 11
Labor Minister Deplores 'Red Scare Campaign' P 11
World Bank Says Manila Misrepresenting Economy P 12

DAILY REPORT

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 180

17 September 1986

JAPAN

Nakasone Replies to Diet on Ties With USSR C 1
USSR Envoy Says Gorbachev Visit Already Approved C 2

NORTH KOREA

14 Sep VNS Article Urges Thwarting of Asiad D 1
MINJU CHOSON on South's Anticommunist 'Racket' [17 Sep] D 3
Student Seizure of Japanese Center Reported D 3
VNS on Burning of Seoul Asian Games Monument D 3
S. Korean 'Puppets' Fascist Frenzy' Viewed [NODONG SINMUN 15 Sep] D 4
Reportage on Visit of Nicaragua's Ortega D 5
    Ortega Addresses Banquet D 5
    Meets With Kim Il-song D 7
    Holds 'Tete-a-Tete' With Kim D 7
    15 Sep Banquet D 8
    KCNA Interviews Ortega D 8
    Leaders See Off Ortega D 9
NODONG SINMUN Hails USSR N-Test Moratorium [14 Sep] D 10
PRC Leaders Attend DPRK Envoy's Film Show D 11
NODONG SINMUN Calls Hays' Remarks 'Foolish Lie' [12 Sep] D 11
Nonaligned Summit's Achievements Viewed [NODONG SINMUN 12 Sep] D 12
Reportage on Visit of Czechoslovak CP Delegation D 14
    Bilak Delegation Arrives D 14
    Meets With WPK Leaders D 15
Correction to MAC Spokesman on UNC Remains D 15

SOUTH KOREA

Police Say Kimpo Explosion 'Work of Experts' [KYODO] E 1
Chon Warns Against Acts Causing Unrest [THE KOREA TIMES 17 Sep] E 1
Prime Minister Vows To Stage Peaceful Olympics [THE KOREA TIMES 17 Sep] E 2
Students Occupy Japan Embassy Information Office E 2
    Students Apprehended E 2
    Nakasone Visit Protested E 3
Seoul Students Stage Violent Anti-Asiad Rallies [THE KOREA TIMES 17 Sep] E 3
Kim Yong-sam Appeals for Student Restraint [THE KOREA TIMES 17 Sep] E 4
NKDP Sets 30 Sep Constitution Revision Deadline [THE KOREA HERALD 17 Sep] E 5

BURMA

BCP Prepares To Attack Khun Sa Heroin Plant [Bangkok NAEO NA 16 Sep] G 1
  Rebel Clashes Reported [Bangkok BANGKOK POST 17 Sep] G 1

CAMBODIA

Heng Samrin Chairs Council of State Meeting H 1
VONADK on Ambushed Train in Kompong Chhnang H 1
PRC's Wu Xueqian Sends Thanks to Khieu Samphan [VONADK] H 1

LAOS

Leaders Send Sympathy Message to SRV on Typhoon I 1
Phoun Sipaseut Speech at Nonaligned Summit I 1
Army National Construction Achievements Viewed I 7

THAILAND

Cabinet Moves To Protect U.S. Goods in Market [BANGKOK POST 17 Sep] J 1
Economic Ministers Approve Sixth Plan, Seek Loans [BANGKOK POST 16 Sep] J 2

VIETNAM

AFP Reports Handover of MIA Remains to U.S. K 1
Ha Bac Guides Party Organization Congresses K 1
  Tan Yen Party Congress K 2

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Australia To Cut Aid to Solomon Islands M 1

INDONESIA

Armed Forces Reportedly Put on 'Full Alert' [Singapore] N 1
Further on French President Mitterrand's Visit N 1
  Talks With Suharto [AFP] N 1
  Comments on Disarmament [Paris] N 2
  Suharto Hosts Banquet N 2
  Mitterrand Jostled by Demonstrators [AFP] N 3
Mokhtar on Removal of Timor From UN Agenda [AFP] N 3

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

UMNO To Censure Critics of Economic Policy [AFP] O 1
VOMD Editorial Views Recent General Election O 2

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Seeks Better Terms on Loans Repayment P 1
NDF Negotiators Reiterate Stand on Cease-Fire P 1
[BUSINESS DAY 15 Sep]
Enrile Rejects NDF Demand for Troop Withdrawal P 3
Preparing for 'Showdown' [BUSINESS DAY 16 Sep] P 4
Military Analysts Note NDF Delaying Tactics P 5
[MANILA BULLETIN 16 Sep]
NPA Kills Ilocos Norte Police Station Commander P 6
[MANILA BULLETIN 15 Sep]
Official Says Military Ready to Confront NPA P 7
NPA Forms Two 'Baby' Fronts in Davao P 7
[DAVAO STAR 5-7 Sep]
Albay OIC Begins Truce Talks With Bicol Rebels P 8
Cebu Archbishop Contacts Rebels for Talks P 8
Military Support Assured for Aquino Policies P 8
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 13 Sep]
Israelis Train Countercoup Unit on Aquino Estate [KYODO] P 9
National Secretariat Formed for Mindanao Problem P 9
Laurel Advocates Plebiscite on U.S. Bases P 10
[MANILA BULLETIN 13 Sep]
Bases on Con-Com Agenda P 10
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 12 Sep]
'Bruising' Debate on Bases P 12
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 13 Sep]
Civil Liberties Union Opposition P 13
[MANILA BULLETIN 13 Sep]
Aquino Case Suspect Surrenders, Released on Bail [AFP] P 14
Ver May Not Be Tried [AFP] P 14
17 Airmen Surrender P 15

DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS
Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 181 18 September 1986

NORTH KOREA

South Attempts To Link Bombing With North Decried [VNS] D 1
IOC To Discuss Security of Seoul Olympics [VNS] D 1
Chon's Repression After Kimpo Blast Denounced D 1
Groups Denouce Asiad, Government Repression [VNS] D 3
U.S. Using Asiad To Increase Military Presence D 3
South's Dismissal of KPA Gesture 'Unreasonable' [NODONG SINMUN 12 Sep] D 5
Foreign Ministry Delegation Departs for UN D 6
Reportage on Visit of Czechoslovak CP Delegation D 6
    Pak Song-chol Addresses Banquet D 6
    Received by Kim Il-song D 9
Bulgarians Arrive for Consultative Meeting D 9
Vice Premier Meets Hungarian Finance Minister D 10
Kim Il-song Receives Italian Delegation D 10
Kim Il-song Receives Ethiopian Party Delegation D 10
Kim Il-song Receives Venezuelan CP Delegation D 10
Pyongyang Attacks New U.S. Envoy to ROK D 11
    Calls Senate Comments 'Provocative' D 11

SOUTH KOREA

Police on Possible Culprits in Airport Bombing [THE KOREA TIMES 18 Sep] E 1
    Student Involvement Ruled Out [CHOSON ILBO 18 Sep] E 1
Police Search Campuses of 111 Universities [THE KOREA TIMES 18 Sep] E 1
PRC Welcomed To Asiad; IOC on Bombing E 2
Third PRC Group of 138 Athletes Arrives for Asiad E 2
PRC, Taiwan Sports Officials on Mutual Competition E 3
    Taiwan Wants To Rejoin OCA E 3
    PRC Official on Taiwan Move E 3
Pro-Pyongyang Koreans in Japan Arrive for Asiad E 4
LATE REPORT: Caller Warns of 'Another Battle' [KYODO] E 4

CAMBODIA

Hun Sen Message to UN on Assembly Opening H 1

LAOS

Kaysone Phomvihan Fetes Outgoing Soviet Envoy I 1
Phoun Sipaseut Reports on Nonaligned Summit I 1
New Management System for Electric Company I 2
Xieng Khouang Studies Draft Political Report I 3
Khammouane Province Assesses Political Campaigns I 3

THAILAND

Foreign Ministry on Trade Concessions to U.S. J 1
Commerce Minister on Trade Problems With U.S. J 1

VIETNAM

VNA Reports Handover of MIA Remains to U.S. K 1
VNA Reporter Reportedly To Cover Seoul Games [KYODO] K 1
QUAN DOI NHAN DAN Editorial on Party Unity K 1
VCP Members Not 'To Indulge in Private Trade' [AFP] K 3
Border Defense Force Holds Party Congresses K 4
Ha Trung District Holds Party Congress K 4

AUSTRALSIA

AUSTRALIA

Defense Chief Says No Nuclear Weapons Accidents M 1
    Investigation Planned M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Soviet Fisherman Jumps Ship, Seeks Residence [AFP] M 1

INDONESIA

Further Reportage on Mitterrand State Visit N 1
    More on Suharto-Mitterrand Talks N 1
    Mokhtar Meets French Counterpart N 1
Papers Cited on Rupiah Devaluation, Prices N 1
Democratic Party Chief Views Election Prospects [TEMPO 13 Sep] N 2

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Defends 'New Economic Policy' O 1

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Meets Reagan, Gets Endorsement P 1
Laurel, Enrile Assure People on Peace, Order [MANILA BULLETIN 17 Sep] P 1
Ramos To 'Hit Back Hard' Against NPA Attacks P 2
    Orders 'All-Out' Action P 4
24 Killed, 25 Wounded in Recent NPA Clashes P 4
NPA Sees Move To 'Restore Fascist Rule' [MANILA BULLETIN 17 Sep] P 4
    Ramos Dismisses Claims [AFP] P 5
NPA Activity Increases in Negros Occidental [PERYODIKO DABAW 3 Sep] P 6
Local Officials Claim Insurgency 'Not Critical' [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 16 Sep] P 7
Militarization in Visayas Reported Increasing [PERYODIKO DABAW 4 Sep] P 7

Communists Assail Aquino-Balweg Accord P 9
[BUSINESS DAY 17 Sep]
Cordillera Position Paper Lists 26 Demands P 10
[BUSINESS DAY 17 Sep]
Military Confirms Pro-Aquino 'Yellow Army' P 13
[ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 17 Sep]
Mindanao Independence Movement Said Growing P 14
[THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 16 Sep]
Deputy Minister To Meet MNLF Faction Leaders P 15

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 182 19 September 1986

JAPAN

- S & T Cooperation With USSR To Increase C 1
- Japanese To Make Grave Visits to USSR Mainland C 1
- New Domestic Pump-Priming Measures Announced C 1
  - 'To Ward Off U.S. Pressure' C 1
  - Measures Outlined C 3
- Nakasone's ROK Visit, S. Korean Opposition Viewed C 3
  - NKDP Leaders Oppose Visit C 5
- Once-Only Fingerprinting of Foreigners Proposed C 5
- New Sanctions Against South Africa Announced C 6
  - Gotoda Issues Statement C 7
- Burmese Prime Minister Leaves Japan for Singapore C 8
- Niger's Kountche Leaves Japan for North Korea C 8
- Former NLC Head To Join Nakasone Faction C 9

NORTH KOREA

- Chon's Accusations Against North in Bombing Decried [VNS] D 1
- Student Struggle Will Intensify During Asiad [NODONG SINMUN 16 Sep] D 1
- Radio Hails 'Invincible' Korea-China Friendship D 2
- Chong Chun-ki Speech on Struggling Against U.S. D 4
- Kim Il-song Receives Bulgarian Delegation D 5

SOUTH KOREA

- Authorities Investigating Japanese Man in Bombing E 1
- Saudi Crown Prince Arrives for Asian Games E 1

BURMA

- Thai Daily on Khun Sa Battle With Rivals [THE NATION 19 Sep] G 1

CAMBODIA

- Hun Sen Condoles Pham Van Dong on Typhoon Damage H 1
- Sihanouk Leaves Beijing for Paris 16 Sep [VOK] H 1

THAILAND

- Sitthi Says Copyright Concession Quid Pro Quo [BANGKOK POST 19 Sep] J 1
- 1st Army Region Commander Interviewed [SIAM RAT SAPDA WICHAN 14 Sep] J 1

Officer on Communist Training of Young Recruits J 3
[THE NATION 13 Sep]
Southern MPs Question Prem Appointments J 3
[MATICHON 18 Sep]
Bank Official Cites Trade Deficit Figures J 4

VIETNAM

Hanoi Calls Chemical Weapons Charge 'Slanderous' K 1
Former USSR Envoy Receives Ho Chi Minh Order K 1
NHAN DAN Urges Continued Management Renovation [16 Sep] K 1
Hue City Party Organization Holds Congress K 3
District in Ha Nam Ninh Holds Party Congress K 4
Ben Tre Province Aids District Congresses K 6
District in Ha Tuyen Holds Party Congress K 6

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Mahathir Opens 37th UMNO General Assembly O 1
    Cites Foreign Policy Objectives O 1
    Fears 'Brainwashing' of Media O 1
    Admits Tin Purchases [AFP] O 2
Mahathir Says Group Emulating Zionists in U.S. O 3
Committee Formed To Study New Economic Policy O 3

SINGAPORE

Singapore Premier on Economy, Foreign Trade O 4
[Paris LE FIGARO 12 Sep]
Burmese Prime Minister Arrives for 3-Day Visit O 5

PHILIPPINES

Further Reportage on Aquino's Visit to U.S. P 1
    U.S. Support Assured P 1
    Prospects 'Bright' for Loan Terms P 1
    Medical Aid for Military P 2
Students Criticize Aquino for 'Begging' for Aid [AFP] P 2
Con-Com Discards Zone of Neutrality Provision P 3
    Further on Neutrality Vote [KYODO] P 3
Provision May Allow Nuclear Weapons Storage [KYODO] P 3
Military Launches Reprisal Operation Against NPA P 4
Defense Official Warns of Coming NPA 'Storm' P 4
Ex-NPA Rebel Reveals Ilocos Norte Terror Plan P 5
[BUSINESS DAY 18 Sep]
Cordillera Guerrilla Leader Rejoins NPA P 6
[PERYODIKO DABAW 4 Sep]
Balweg's Military Contact Reportedly Murdered P 7
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 18 Sep]
Proposed MNLF-Cordillera Alliance Reported P 8
[PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 18 Sep]
Misuari Orders Provisional Government Created P 9
[ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 18 Sep]

Government, MNLF Agree on Moro Secretariat P 10
Deputy Minister To Meet Salamat In Saudi Arabia P 11
BMIP Welcomes Offer for Muslims To Join Talks P 11
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 18 Sep]
Honasan, Kapunan on Cease-Fire, Stability P 12
[VERITAS 11-17 Sep]
Partido ng Bayan Leader Banned From U.S. P 21
Former MP Claims Aquino Issued Detention Orders P 21
[THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 17 Sep]
Correction to Visayas Militarization P 22

DAILY REPORT

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 183

22 September 1986

JAPAN

Government Warmly Welcomes GATT Communique C 1
Foreign Ministry: S. African Minister Unwelcome C 1
Nakasone, Wang Zhaoguo at Amity Meeting Opening C 1

NORTH KOREA

Reportage on Visit of Niger President Kountche D 1
  Feted by Kim Il-song D 1
  Kim Il-song Speaks D 1
  Meets With Kim Il-song D 3
  Tete-a-Tete With Kim Il-song D 3
  Kountche Departs D 4
  Economic Pact Signed D 4
Kim Il-song Receives Chinese PEOPLE'S DAILY Group D 4
Kim Il-song Receives Ethiopian Delegation D 4
KPA Chief of Staff Received by GDR's Honecker D 5
  Returns From E. Europe Tour D 5
Economic Protocol With Bulgaria Signed D 6
Yi Chong-ok, Others Attend Cemetery Dedication D 6

SOUTH KOREA

Reportage on Nakasone Visit, Meetings With Chon E 1
  Nakasone Apologizes to Chon [KYODO] E 1
  Chon Fetes Nakasone [KYODO] E 2
  21 Sep Chon-Nakasone Talks [KYODO] E 2
  Trade Imbalance Discussed E 4
  Nakasone Meets Press After Talks E 5
  Nakasone on E. Bloc, Olympics [KYODO] E 6
  ROK-Japan Dispute 'Settled' [KYODO] E 6
Chon Reiterates Call for Vigilance Against North E 7
Samaranch: No More Cohosting Concessions to DPRK [THE KOREA HERALD 20 Sep] E 8

CAMBODIA

'U.S. Personnel' Remains Brought to Bangkok [BANGKOK POST 21 Sep] H 1
  Further BANGKOK POST Report [22 Sep] H 1
KPNLF Squad Said Searching for Live Americans [AFP] H 2
VONADK Claims 3 Soviet Advisers Killed 17 Sep H 2
Political Bureau Communique on Chea Sim Visits H 3

LAOS

Kaysone Reaffirms Stand on Relations With Thailand I 1
Laos, Vietnam Sign Border Treaty, Protocol I 1

THAILAND

Police Report 4 Terrorists Enter Country [NAEO NA 21 Sep] J 1
Foreign Minister Visiting U.S., UN From 21 Sep J 1
Paper Reports 'Significant Gesture' to Laos [THE NATION 22 Sep] J 2

VIETNAM

NHAN DAN Commentary Supports PRK Stand on UN Seat [20 Sep] K 1
Laos Border Treaty Ratification Exchanged K 2
Lai Chau Province Organizes Party Congresses K 2
Ha Nam Ninh Province Holds Party Congresses K 2

INDONESIA

Mitterrand Departs Bali for Paris 19 Sep N 1
Students Protest Devaluation, Eviction [AFP] N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

UMNO Assembly Pledges To Support Mahathir Policy O 1
UMNO Assembly Votes To Extend NEP Beyond 1990 O 1
Government Orders Ministers To Dispose of Shares O 1

SINGAPORE

Burmese Premier, Lee Kuan Yew Speak at Dinner O 2

PHILIPPINES

Government, IMF Agree To Lower Debts Ceiling [BUSINESS DAY 17 Sep] P 1
CPP Rebukes Aquino's Acceding to IMF 'Dictates' [THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS 19 Sep] P 2
Communists Draft Conditions for Cease-Fire [AFP] P 2
NDF Official Welcomes Aquino Statement [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 19 Sep] P 3
Misuari Reported Consolidating Muslim Forces [MANILA BULLETIN 20 Sep] P 4
Misuari on Unity, Self-Rule in Mindanao P 5
MNLF Feud May Erupt Into 'Fraternal Genocide' [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 19 Sep] P 5
MILF Head Ready for Peace Talks With Government P 6
Military Said To Be Arming Members of CPLA [THE MANILA TIMES 19 Sep] P 6
Enrile Against U.S. Role in Fighting Rebels [KYODO] P 7
Enrile Says $150 Million for Use of Bases P 8
Report Says Military's Patience 'Wearing Thin' [NEW DAY 22 Sep] P 9
Paper Claims Proof of Nuclear Weapons on Bases [AFP] P 10
Con-Com Passes Antinuclear, Abortion Provisions P 11

- Antimilitary, Anticommunist Rallies Held [AFP] P 12
  - More on Antimilitary Rally P 13
  - More on Anticommunist Rally P 13
- Laurel on New Constitution, Local Elections P 14
  - Further on Local Elections P 15

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS
Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 184 23 September 1986

JAPAN

Foreign Minister's UN Activities Reported C 1
  UNGA Speech Previewed C 1
  Meets PRC's Wu Xueqian C 1
  Meets FRG Foreign Minister C 2
Nakasone, Abe Address LDP Study Meeting C 2

NORTH KOREA

VNS: Employ 'All Means' in Anti-Asiad Struggle D 1
Kim Il-song Receives Guinean Delegation D 2

SOUTH KOREA

Plans To Make Kim Yong-sam Sole NKDP Head Viewed [THE KOREA TIMES 23 Sep] E 1
NKDP's Yi Min-u Criticizes Chon-Nakasone Summit [THE KOREA HERALD 23 Sep] E 2
Foreign Minister Leaves for UNGA Session E 3

CAMBODIA

KUFNCD Directive on Religious Festivals H 1
Men Chhan, KUFNCD Delegation Leave for Cuba H 2
Report on Thai Violations for Week Ending 13 Sep H 2
Bulgarian Party Delegation Arrives 18 Sep H 3
Briefs: Returnees in Battambang; Returnees in Bavel District H 3

LAOS

Phoun Sipaseut Remarks on Vladivostok Statement I 1
PRK Delegation Visits Phoumi Vongvichit, Departs I 1
Phoumi Vongvichit Receives Polish Envoy I 2
Cooperation, Assistance With GDR Promoted I 2
Military Unit in Phon Hong Attends Course I 2

THAILAND

Army Clashes With 50 Vietnamese Intruders [THE NATION 23 Sep] J 1
Coup Participant Loses Rank; Amnesty Viewed [NAEO NA 22 Sep] J 1
Lao Deputy Minister Discusses Thai Relations [AFP] J 2

VIETNAM

NHAN DAN on Quality of Product Contracts [18 Sep] K 1
Hoang Tung Addresses Ly Nhan District Congress K 3
Tien Giang Holds Grass-roots Party Congresses K 4
Binh Tri Thien Holds District Party Congresses K 4
Ha Bac Holds District, City Party Congresses K 5
Radio Reports Figures on Summer-Fall Harvest K 6
Van Tien Dung Greets Bulgaria on Army Day K 6

AUSTRALASIA

NEW ZEALAND

Soviet Seaman Seeks Permanent Residence [AFP] M 1
Opposition Leader on Effects of Nuclear Policy [AFP] M 1

INDONESIA

Troops Reportedly Massacre Villagers in E. Timor [AFP] N 1
Central Bank Officials on Rupiah Rates [THE JAKARTA POST 16 Sep] N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Less Than 200 Communists in Peninsular Malaysia O 1

SINGAPORE

Dhanabalan on Hanoi's Peace Proposal Rejection O 1

PHILIPPINES

CPP Claims 'Direct U.S. Military Interference' [AFP] P 1
CPP Assails Rebel Priest's 'Surrender' [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 22 Sep] P 2
12 NPA's Captured as Cebu Invasion Plan Thwarted [MANILA BULLETIN 22 Sep] P 3
Ramos Orders Attack Against All Rebel Bases P 3
Enrile Says No General Amnesty for Communists [BERNAMA] P 4
  Comments on Elections, 'Yellow Army' P 5
  Says 'Chain of Command' Violated [THE MANILA EVENING POST 20 Sep] P 5
  Warns 100,000 of Communist Threat [BUSINESS DAY 22 Sep] P 7
Misuari Gets No Safety Guarantee From Military [MANILA BULLETIN 22 Sep] P 8
Misuari Hopeful of Lasting Mindanao Peace [MANILA BULLETIN 22 Sep] P 8
MNLF Guerrillas Called Back to 'Active Duty' P 10
MNLF Commander Calls for Independent Mindanao [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 22 Sep] P 10

Muslim Marcos Loyalists Said Sowing Discord [THE MANILA TIMES 20 Sep] P 11
CPLA Rebels Reportedly Operating in Manila [MANILA BULLETIN 22 Sep] P 12
KMU Criticizes Aquino's U.S. Commerce Speech [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 22 Sep] P 13
  Assails Aquino-IMF Agreement [THE MANILA EVENING POST 18 Sep] P 14
PC Chief Hails Ruling on Subversion Cases [MANILA BULLETIN 21 Sep] P 15

FBIS DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 185 24 September 1986

JAPAN

Reportage on Foreign Minister's Activities at UN C 1
  Discusses Trade With Shultz C 1
  Addresses UN, Meets Iraq's 'Aziz C 2
Japan Intends To Use SDI Spinoffs Commercially C 2
U.S. Rice Growers' Import Decontrol Plea Rejected C 3
Six National Railway Lines Sabotaged 24 Sep C 3
Nakasone Clarifies Remarks on U.S. Minorities C 4
Mexico's Petricioli Meets Nakasone, Requests Aid C 5

NORTH KOREA

Kim Il-song Meets Poland's Jaruzelski on Arrival D 1
Asiad Turns South Into 'Prison' of Violence [NODONG SINMUN 19 Sep] D 1
Kim Il-song Receives Delhi Mayor 23 Sep D 3
Kim Yong-nam Receives Lao Vice Foreign Minister D 3

SOUTH KOREA

Students Demonstrate Outside Journalists' Hotel [AFP] E 1
  Security Tight [AFP] E 1

MONGOLIA

Jaruzelski Arrives, Holds Talks With Batmonh [PAP] F 1
Batmonh Holds Dinner for Jaruzelski 22 Sep F 2
  Batmonh Gives Banquet Speech [PAP] F 2
  Jaruzelski Gives Banquet Speech [PAP] F 3

CAMBODIA

PRACHEACHON Criticizes PRC Support for Pol Pot H 1
Bulgarian Communist Party Delegation Departs H 3

THAILAND

Soldiers Continue Battle With Vietnamese Troops [THE NATION 24 Sep] J 1
Lao Envoy Interview on Improving Ties, Trade [SIAM RAT 22 Sep] J 1
  Interior Minister on Trade [THE NATION 23 Sep] J 4
  Editorial on Relations, Trade [SIAM RAT 22 Sep] J 5

VIETNAM

NHAN DAN Comments on U.S. Strategy in Asia-Pacific [23 Sep] K 1
NHAN DAN Denounces ASEAN Support for Pol Pot [21 Sep] K 2
QUAN DOI NHAN DAN on Expelling Pot Pot From UN [21 Sep] K 2
NHAN DAN on Economic Units' Right to Autonomy [23 Sep] K 3
Corruption Reported in Luc Yen District K 4
Ministry Issues Circular on Settling Complaints [QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 7 Sep] K 5
Cao Bang Districts Complete Party Congresses K 6

INDONESIA

Prices of Several Basic Foodstuffs To Rise [Kuala Lumpur] N 1
KOMPAS Reports on ASEAN Common Market Debates [15 Sep] N 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

MALAYSIA

Official Comments on Fifth Malaysia Plan O 1

PHILIPPINES

Cabinet, Armed Forces Call for NPA Policy Review [AFP] P 1
  'Hardline Policy' Expected Soon P 2
Enrile on National Elections, Aquino Trip [BUSINESS DAY 23 Sep] P 3
Military To Back Up MPWH in Rebel Areas [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 23 Sep] P 4
Sison Reported To Resume CPP Chairmanship [AFP] P 4
  PC Chief on Sison's Position [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 23 Sep] P 5
  Sison Arrest Possible P 6
Bayan, KMU, Others Tagged as NDF Fronts [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 23 Sep] P 6
  Bayan Wants Government Purged [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 22 Sep] P 8
  Bayan Leads Anti-Militarization Rally [MANILA BULLETIN 23 Sep] P 9
  LFS Demonstrates Outside Embassy [AFP] P 9
NDF Urges Aquino To Keep 'Covenant' With People [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 22 Sep] P 10
  Says Enrile Building 'Political Base' P 10
Rebel Priest Reacts to CPP-NPA Reports [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 23 Sep] P 11
Constitutional Plebiscite Slated for 1 Dec P 11
Minister Signs New Labor Relations Guidelines [BUSINESS DAY 19 Sep] P 12
Telephone Company Group Goes on Strike P 13
Cebu Paper Charges Labor Laws Violated at Bases [VISAYAN HERALD 12 Sep] P 13
Paper Discloses Nuclear Mishap Press Release [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 22 Sep] P 14
First Shipment of U.S. Medical Supplies Arrives P 15

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV. No 186 25 September 1986

JAPAN

USSR's Problems With U.S. Defer Gorbachev Visit C 1
Japan To Curb Machine Tool Exports to U.S. C 2
National Railways Sabotage Work of Leftists C 2
Japan-PRC Friendship Committee Meeting Ends C 3
UK's Howe Urges Japan To Correct Trade Imbalance C 4
Visiting UAE Minister on More OPEC Production Cuts C 5

NORTH KOREA

PRC's Li Xiannian To Visit DPRK 'Shortly' D 1
Reporage on Arrival of Poland's Jaruzelski D 1
    Polish, DPRK Leaders Present D 1
    Jaruzelski Honored D 2
DPRK Blamed for Kimpo Before Investigation D 2
    Chongnyon Unjustly Accused D 2
    Moscow Paper Criticizes Chon [VNS] D 4
Chong Chun-ki on Opposing U.S. Imperialism D 5
Nakasone Seoul Visit Necessary To Prop Up Chon [NODONG SINMUN 23 Sep] D 12
ROK Repression Hidden From Foreign Asian Visitors [NODONG SINMUN 22 Sep] D 14

MONGOLIA

Jaruzelski Speaks at Rally, Departs 23 Sep F 1
    Visit to Darhan [PAP] F 1
    Signing of Cooperation Agreement F 1
    PAP on Jaruzelski Rally Address F 1
    MONTSAME on Jaruzelski Speech F 2
    PAP on Batmonh Rally Speech F 3
    MONTSAME: Batmonh on World Issues F 4
    MONTSAME: Batmonh on Poland Ties F 6
    Mass Media on Visit F 7
    Departure for DPRK [PAP] F 7

CAMBODIA

KPNLF Claims Discovery of More U.S. Remains [AFP] H 1
    More Details on Remains [BANGKOK WORLD 25 Sep] H 1
SPK Denounces Thai 'Slander' on SRV Incursion H 2
Report on Thai Incursions in Period Ending 21 Sep H 3
Soldiers Mutiny, Kill Vietnamese Soldiers [VONADK] H 3

LAOS

Foreign Ministry Proposes Talks With Thailand I 1
Sali Vongkhamsao Receives Soviet Representative I 1

THAILAND

- Foreign Ministry Lists SRV Violations Aug-Sep J 1
- Naval Copters To Be Bought Directly From U.S. [THE NATION 24 Sep] J 1
- Editorial Views Soviet Response to Sugar Offer [THE NATION 20 Sep] J 3
- NAEO NA Reports Prem Message to Lao Boat Race [23 Sep] J 4

VIETNAM

- VNA Statement Rejects Thai 'Fabrication' K 1
- QUAN DOI NHAN DAN on Reagan Address at UN [24 Sep] K 1
- Long Thanh District Holds Party Congress K 2
- Nguyen Huu Tho Receives Soviet Ambassador K 4

PHILIPPINES

- Aquino Returns From U.S. to 'Hero's Welcome' [KYODO] P 1
  - Aquino Delivers Airport Address P 1
  - More on Aquino's Return P 2
- Aquino To Face Call for Hard-line Rebel Policy P 3
  - Minister Criticizes Hard-line Stance P 3
  - Ileto: No New 'Hardline' P 3
- Paper Alleges Ministers Snubbed Laurel Meetings [THE MANILA TIMES 24 Sep] P 4
- Enrile: 'At Least' 5 Years To Solve Insurgency [BUSINESS DAY 24 Sep] P 6
- Enrile Says 'Not the Time To Dismantle' Bases [BUSINESS DAY 24 Sep] P 6
- Loyalists Urge Enrile To Destabilize Government P 7
- Aquino's Brother on 'Controversial' Issues [BUSINESS DAY 24 Sep] P 7
- Constabulary Chief Claims Split in CPP Ranks [ANG PAHAYGANG MALAYA 24 Sep] P 8
- NPA Group Admits Attacks on Government Troops P 9
- Ex-NPA Leader Denies New Party Linked With CPP [THE MANILA TIMES 24 Sep] P 9
- NDF Linked Groups Denounce 'Witchhunt' [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 24 Sep] P 11
- PDSP Chairman on MNLF Unity, Mindanao Peace P 11
- Ministry To Set Aside Land for MNLF Returnees [MANILA BULLETIN 24 Sep] P 12
- Army Prepared if MNLF Peace Talks Fail [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 24 Sep] P 13
- Further Report on Constitutional Plebiscite [MANILA BULLETIN 24 Sep] P 13
- Investigation of Soviet 'Tourists' Urged P 14

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 187

26 September 1986

JAPAN

Japan Hopes for Gorbachev Visit in Jan or Apr 1987 C 1
  Kuranari on Visit C 1
Reportage on Kuranari's Activities at UN C 2
  Meets ROK Foreign Minister C 2
  Hosts Western Counterparts C 3
  Bomb 'Hoax' Delays Departure C 3
Chukaku-ha Claims Credit for Railway Sabotage [AFP] C 3
UAE Petroleum Minister Meets With Nakasone C 4
Finance Minister in Washington for IMF Talks C 4
Defense Spending To Stay Below 1 Percent of GNP C 4
Japan Loses Shipbuilding Orders to S. Korea C 5
Reshuffle of Foreign Ministry Officials Announced C 5

NORTH KOREA

KPA General on Soldiers Transferred to Construction D 1

SOUTH KOREA

Chon Tu-hwan Resolved To Step Down in 1988 [CHUNGANG ILBO 22 Sep] E 1
Soviet Official Hints at Olympics Participation E 3
SRV, Other Olympic Officials Arrive in Seoul E 4
Police Storm Campus; Not Using Teargas Near Games [AFP] E 5
Foreign Minister's Activities at UN Reported E 5
  Meets With Shultz [THE KOREA TIMES 25 Sep] E 5
  Confers With UN Leaders E 6
Kim Tae-chung Placed Under House Arrest 24 Sep [CHUNGANG ILBO 24 Sep] E 7

MONGOLIA

PAP Reports Communique on Jaruzelski's Visit F 1

BURMA

Foreign Minister Leaves for UN Session G 1
Prime Minister Returns From Japan, Singapore G 1

CAMBODIA

SRV's Truong Chinh Assures Heng Samrin of Support H 1
PRACHEACHON on Expanding Socialist Trade System H 1
VODK on Vietnam's Demand To Expel DK From UN H 3

LAOS

Political Campaigns Basically Completed in Paklai I 1
District Official on Draft Political Report I 1
District Party Session Studies Political Report I 2
Khamtai Siphandon Greets Bulgarian Army Day I 2

THAILAND

Official Says Most SRV Intruders Pushed Back [THE NATION 26 Sep] J 1
Ambassador to U.S. on Relations With Superpowers [THE NATION 25 Sep] J 1
Deputy Foreign Minister on Laos Border Trade J 2
Phichai on Cabinet Formation, Election Funds [BANGKOK POST 22 Sep] J 3
No-Confidence Motion Filed Against Minister [THE NATION 26 Sep] J 15

VIETNAM

Truong Chinh Seeks Political Report Suggestions K 1
NHAN DAN Comments on Reagan's UN Address [25 Sep] K 1
Thanh Oai District Party Organization Congress K 3

PHILIPPINES

Minister Says Aquino To Hold Polls Early 1987 [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 24 Sep] P 1
    NSC Opinion Influential [THE MANILA JOURNAL 25 Sep] P 1
    Minister Opposes Early Election [ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 25 Sep] P 1
Minister Rejects Criticism of U.S. Loans P 2
Aquino Says U.S. Aid To Go to Rural Sector P 2
3 Armed Men Arrested on Aquino Route [AFP] P 3
Laurel Leaves for Visits to UN, South Korea [AFP] P 3
Military Denies U.S. Troops Combating Rebels [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 25 Sep] P 4
Enrile Says Insurgency Problem 'Really Alarming' [AFP] P 4
    Says 'Balanced' Solution Needed P 5
    Further Comments on Insurgency [KYODO] P 5
Enrile Rebukes Cardinal Sin's NPA Statement [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 25 Sep] P 6
    Further on Enrile Criticism [BERNAMA] P 7
NAFP Upgrading Soldier Training, Benefits [THE MANILA JOURNAL 22 Sep] P 8
Political Groups Said Targets of Death Squads [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 25 Sep] P 11
NDF on Enrile's Efforts To Build Political Base [PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 25 Sep] P 12
Mitra To Make 'Final Appeal' to Rebel Leaders P 13
    Ocampo Says Prospects 'Dim' P 14
NPA Official on Marijuana Growth, Bayan 'Front' [VISAYAN HERALD 15 Sep] P 14
Balweg's Brother Comments on NPA-CPLA Split [THE MANILA CHRONICLE 23, 24 Sep] P 15
Meetings Between Government, MNLF, MILF Planned [THE MANILA TIMES 25 Sep] P 17

FBIS

DAILY REPORT CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 188

29 September 1986

JAPAN

Nakasone Apologizes to U.S. for 'Racist' Remarks
    Expresses 'Heartfelt Apology' C 1
    Refuses Further Comment C 2

NORTH KOREA

Reportage on Visit of Poland's Jaruzelski D 1
    NODONG SINMUN Previews Visit [24 Sep] D 1
    Jaruzelski Visits Cemetery D 3
    Kim Il-song Fetes Jaruzelski D 3
    Kim Il-song Speaks D 4
    Jaruzelski Speaks D 7
    Kim, Jaruzelski Hold Talks D 9

SOUTH KOREA

NKDP Withdraws From Political Reform Talks [AFP] E 1
Police Preempt Inchon Rally With 40 Arrests [AFP] E 1
Dissidents Sentenced in Seoul; Others on Trial [AFP] E 2
ROK, PRC Sports Officials View Increased Exchanges [THE KOREA TIMES 28 Sep] E 2

MONGOLIA

LPDR Delegation Visits Ulaanbaatar, Holds Talks F 1
Hungarian Party Delegation Visits 13-18 Sep [Budapest NEPSZABADSAG 19 Sep] F 1
Bulgarian Delegation Arrives in Ulaanbaatar F 1
    Economic Commission Meets F 2
    1987 Trade Protocol Signed F 2
    UNEN Comments on 8th CPC Congress F 2

CAMBODIA

Bou Thang Greets East European Counterparts
    Message to Bulgaria H 1
    Message to Hungary H 1
VODK Raps Soviet Foreign Minister's UN Remark H 2

LAOS

Souban Salitthilat, Sitthi Sawetsila Meet I 1
KPL, TASS Sign Cooperation Agreement 26 Sep I 1
District Party Congress Closes in Savannakhet I 1

THAILAND

Air Strike Called on Vietnamese Intruders [BANGKOK WORLD 29 Sep] J 1
Foreign Ministry Protests SRV Intrusion to UN J 1
Command Official on Cambodian Border Situation J 2
Police Watching for 'Palestinian Terrorists' [NAEO NA 28 Sep] J 2

VIETNAM

'Official Source' Condemns Chriac Comments at UN K 1
  NHAN DAN Criticizes Chirac Comments K 1
  Further on NAHN DAN Commentary K 1
Defense Minister Greets Hungarian Army Day K 2
Cooperation Agreement Signed With Hungary K 3
Trade Union Delegation Begins Visit to Italy K 3
Hanoi To Host Indochinese Trade Conference K 3
  Doan's Opening Address K 3
  Meeting Ends; Protocols Signed K 4

AUSTRALASIA

NEW ZEALAND

Bomb Threat Forces Iranians, Iraqis From Hotel [AFP] M 1

AUSTRALIA

Hayden-Shevardnadze Talk at UN Reported M 1

MALAYSIA & SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE

Lee's Son Elected PAP Youth Wing Chairman [AFP] O 1

MALAYSIA

Two SRV Fishing Boats Detained in Sabah O 1
Radio Comments on Soviet-ASEAN Relations O 1
Indochina Urged To Review CGDK Proposal O 2
Mahathir Leaves for UN Session 24 Sep O 3
Defense Minister Leaves for Jakarta 29 Sep O 3

PHILIPPINES

Communists Offer Conditional Cease-fire P 1
  More on Proposed Cease-fire [KYODO] P 1
  Mitra on Cease-fire [AFP] P 2
Government Insists on Unconditional Cease-fire P 3
Military Says Cease-fire Will Benefit Rebels P 4
Enrile Challenges Communists to Free Elections [BUSINESS DAY 26 Sep] P 4

Aquino Rules Out Early Presidential Election P 6
[THE MANILA CHRONICLE 26 Sep]
Pimentel Opposes Presidential Poll P 6
[BUSINESS DAY 26 Sep]
Cardinal Celebrates Mass; Praises Aquino Trip [AFP] P 7
Aquino Set To Form Own Political Party P 8
Enrile Says He Will Not Join Political Party P 8
Laurel in U.S. To Discuss Debt, Amnesty P 9
[MANILA BULLETIN 27 Sep]
Reports Higher Sugar Quota P 10
ASEAN To Hold Manila Summit Dec 1987 [AFP] P 10

FBIS DAILY REPORT
CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 189 30 September 1986

JAPAN

Government Says SDI Participation No Violation C 1
Kuranari Welcomes News of Daniloff's Release C 1
U.S. Call for Interest Rate Cut Turned Down C 1
Officials Say No Date Set for Nakasone's PRC Trip C 2
JSP's Doi Says Nakasone Remarks Racial, Sexist C 3

NORTH KOREA

Reportage on Jaruzelski Visit, 28 Sep Departure D 1
  Kim, Jaruzelski Guest House Meeting D 1
  KCNA on Talks D 1
  Joint Commission Meeting [PAP] D 1
  Pyongyang 27 Sep Rally D 2
  Kim Il-song Rally Address D 3
  Jaruzelski Rally Address D 9
  27 Sep Banquet D 12
  Friendship, Cooperation Declaration D 12
  Joint Communique on Visit D 15
  Delegation Departure 28 Sep D 18
  Jaruzelski Message to Kim Il-song [PAP] D 19

SOUTH KOREA

NKDP Leaders Renew Call for Meeting With Chon [THE KOREA TIMES 30 Sep] E 1
DJP Criticizes NKDP for Boycott Decision E 2

CAMBODIA

Heads of Socialist News Agencies Arrive 26 Sep H 1
  Received by Hun Sen H 1
  Delegates Depart 27 Sep H 2
  ADN, ANN Sign Cooperation Agreement H 2

LAOS

Bulgarian Party Delegation Arrives for Visit I 1
  Talks Held 29 Sep I 1
Commerce Minister Returns From SRV Conference I 1
PASASON Assesses Relations With Thailand [26 Sep] I 1

THAILAND

Official Talks With Laos To Be Held in Vientiane [BANGKOK POST 30 Sep] J 1

VIETNAM

Pham Van Dong Attends Meeting on Vaccinations K 1
Truong Chinh Addresses VFF Central Committee K 1
Truong Chinh Speech to Coal Miners' Group K 3
Hanoi Views Cambodia Seat, Reagan's UN Speech K 4
AFP: Army Paper Urges More Open Media Style K 6
Over 400 Districts Hold Local Party Congresses K 6

AUSTRALASIA

AUSTRALIA

Hawke Welcomes Stockholm Pact, Reagan's UN Speech M 1

NEW ZEALAND

Soviet Airline, Fishing Requests Rejected M 1
[THE EVENING POST 25 Sep]

PHILIPPINES

Alleged CPP Chief Arrested; Talks 'Threatened' P 1
[AFP]
NDF Counsel Urges Aquino To Defy U.S. Pressures P 2
[ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 29 Sep]
Ramos Report Not as 'Hawkish' as Believed P 3
[BUSINESS DAY 29 Sep]
Study Says Military Abuses Foster Insurgency P 5
[PHILIPPINES DAILY INQUIRER 29 Sep]
NAFP Radicals Mull Forming Political Party P 6
[MANILA BULLETIN 28 Sep]
Bayan Accuses Military of Supporting Loyalists P 6
[ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 28 Sep]
Military Questions NDF Control Over NPA P 7
9 Generals Retire; 2 Granted 6-Month Extensions P 7
Pimentel Warns Officials on Misuse of Funds P 7
Cuenco To Run for Congress in Next Election P 8
Opposes 1987 Presidential Election P 8
Interview With Partido ng Bayan Chairman P 9
[FILIPINO TIMES 12-18 Sep]
PnB Split Reported P 12
PnB Urges Voter Cleanup P 12
[ANG PAHAYAGANG MALAYA 29 Sep]
CPLA Denies Receiving Government Arms P 13
[BUSINESS DAY 29 Sep]
BMIP Leader on Factional Fighting, Autonomy P 14
[PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER 26 Sep]
Loyalists Ready To Sabotage Mindanao Cease-fire P 15

FBIS

DAILY REPORT

CONTENTS

Asia & Pacific

Vol IV No 169 2 September 1986

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Indonesia Blocks Proposed ASEAN Common Market [AFP] A 1
ASEAN Ministers End Meeting, Common Market Shelved [AFP] A 2

JAPAN

Kuranari Comments on SDI, Ties With USSR, PRC C 1
Cabinet Ministers Discuss SDI Participation C 2
Kurihara Leaves for Meeting With Weinberger C 2
Tamura Leaves for Trade Meeting in Portugal C 2
Groups Protest Kuranari Meeting With Botha C 3
1 Killed, 8 Wounded in Attacks Against Unionists [AFP] C 3
Fiscal 1987 Budget Requests Up 6.7 Percent C 4

NORTH KOREA

DPRK 'Will Not Participate' in Seoul Asian Games [NODONG SINMUN 1 Sep] D 1

SOUTH KOREA

Door Still 'Open' for DPRK To Participate in Asiad [KYODO] E 1
Pyongyang Planning To Subvert Asian Games E 1
180 Students Arrested Before Asian Games E 2
    NKDP Refutes Prosecution Claims [THE KOREA TIMES 31 Aug] E 2
Police Plan To Prevent Students Disrupting Asiad E 3
    Students Form Struggle Groups [THE KOREA TIMES 30 Aug] E 3
    Plan To 'Seclude' Activists [THE KOREA TIMES 31 Aug] E 3
PRC To Use Direct Flights to Seoul for Asiad [KYODO] E 4
Statement of Delegate to N.-S. Red Cross Talks E 4
50,000 Attend Opposition Rally in Pusan 30 Aug [AFP] E 6

THAILAND

Prem Meets Sihanouk, Pledges Continued Support [BANGKOK WORLD 28 Aug] J 1
    Further on Meeting J 1
Sitthi Responds To Phoun Sipaseut Message [NAEO NA 28 Aug] J 1
USSR's Zaytsev Arrives 31 Aug on 4-Day Visit [BANGKOK POST 1 Sep] J 2
Move Against Wira Also Seen as Aimed at Prem [SIAM RAT 28 Aug] J 3
Prem Defends Handling of Wira Case to Opposition [THE NATION 28 Aug] J 4

House Votes To Allow Wira To Stand Trial [BANGKOK POST 29 Aug] J 6
  Wira Ready for Showdown [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 8
  Groups Pressure Democrats [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 9
  Most Democrats Support Wira [BANGKOK POST 31 Aug] J 9
Wira Announces Resignation Decision J 10
'Source' Cited on Military Reshuffle Lists [BANGKOK WORLD 30 Aug] J 11
  King Approves List [BANGKOK POST 2 Sep] J 12
  Military Appointees Profiled [THE NATION 2 Sep] J 14
Prem Orders Reinstatement of Young Turks [THE NATION 30 Aug] J 17

VIETNAM

Direct Talks on Amerasian Children Issue Held K 1
Nguyen Huu Tho Arrives in Harare for Summit K 1
Nonaligned Ministers Leave Cambodian Seat Vacant K 1
Unicef Delegation Visits, Meets Pham Van Dong K 2

AUSTRALASIA

NEW ZEALAND

Lange Rejects Military Cooperation With USSR [THE EVENING POST 27 Aug] M 1
Kapitsa Discusses USSR's Pacific Policy [THE EVENING POST 27 Aug] M 1

PAPUA NEW GUINEA

Vagi Clarifies PNG-USSR Fishing Negotiations [Melbourne] M 2

PHILIPPINES

Aquino Expreses 'Concern' Over Fighting [KYODO] P 1
  Urges Immediate Cease-Fire P 2
Aquino Praises Heroism of Soldiers at Ceremony P 2
